7 Even birds that have very good eyesight can not see deep down into these mines.

Even birds such as falcons have not looked into them.

8 Strong beasts can go wherever they want, but they have never gone to those places.

Not even lions have gone there.

9 Miners dig through even very hard rock.

It is as though they are turning mountains upside down in order to get at the ore that is at the bases of them.

10 Miners cut tunnels through rocks in order to find many precious things.

11 They dam up small streams to stop the water from flowing.

That allows them to find things that were hidden beneath the water of the streams.

12 It takes great effort to find valuable ore. It is even more difficult to obtain wisdom.

Yes, it is very difficult to obtain understanding.

13 Humans do not know how to obtain wisdom.

Wisdom is not available on earth, where people live.

14 It is as though the ocean depths and the water of the seas said,

'There is no wisdom here!'

15 People can not buy wisdom

by paying for it with gold or silver.

16 Wisdom is worth much more than fine gold that comes from the land of Ophir.

Wisdom is worth much more than very valuable stones.

17 Wisdom is worth much more than gold or beautiful quartz.

It is more expensive than an article made of pure gold.

18 Wisdom is worth more than coral or jasper.

The price of wisdom is higher than the price of rubies.

19 Wisdom is worth more than topaz from the land of Cush.

One can not express the value of wisdom even in terms of gold.

20 So, then, wisdom is very difficult to obtain;

understanding is indeed a very valuable thing to get.

21 Living creatures are not able to see it.

Not even the birds can see it while they are up in the sky.

22 Even after people die, they do not have a better experience of wisdom in the different place to which they go.

23 God is the only one who knows how people can become wise.

24 God knows this because he can see everything on earth, even in its most remote places.

God can see everything that is below the sky.

25 He decided how strongly the winds should blow and how much rain should be in the clouds.

26 God decided where rain should fall and what path lightning should take from the clouds down to the ground.

27 At that time, he identified wisdom and recognized that it was very valuable.
He was delighted by its capabilities and made it a permanent part of his creation.

28 Then God told human beings, ‘Listen! You will become wise to the extent that you respect me.

If you want to understand what you should do, you must first decide that you will not do anything wicked.’”

29 1 Job kept speaking to his three friends. He said,

2 “I wish that I could be as I was previously during the time when God was taking care of me.

3 During that time, it was if God was shining a light on me so that I could see where I was going even in the darkness.

4 At that time I was young and strong.

Because God was my friend, he protected where I lived.

5 Shaddai was still present with me during that time when all my children were still alive and living near me.

6 My herds provided me with plenty of milk.

My olive trees provided me with plenty of oil.

7 I used to go to the place where the elders gathered at the city gate.

The people had reserved a seat for me there, and I would sit in it.

8 When young men saw me, they stepped aside respectfully.

When older men saw me, they stood up respectfully.

9 The leaders of the people used to stop talking when I arrived.

They made sure they did not say anything, because they knew it would not be as good as what I was going to say.

10 Even the most important leaders became quiet.

It was as if they were not even able to speak.

11 When people heard what I had to say, they said good things about me.

They recognized that I had given wise counsel, and they approved of me

12 They approved of me because I had helped those who were poor and who were calling for help.

They also approved of me because I aided orphans who had no fathers to help them.

13 People who had been suffering and were about to die praised me for rescuing them.

I made widows very happy by helping them.

14 It was in my character to make sure that I and others did what was right.

Yes, it was in my character to make sure that people treated one another in a way that was just.

15 I helped people who could not see, as if I were seeing for them.

I helped people who could not walk, as if I were walking for them.

16 I protected poor people the way a father protects his children.

In the courts, I defended even people who were strangers to me.

17 I made wicked people stop oppressing others.

It was as if I were breaking the jaws of a wild animal to make it drop its victim from its teeth.

18 At that time I thought, ‘I am certainly going to live a long life, and then I will die at home with my family.

19 I am like a tree whose roots reach down into the water and whose branches become wet with dew each night.
20 People continually honor me, and I stay strong like a new bow.’
21 When I spoke, people waited to hear what I would say.
They remained silent until I advised them what they should do.
22 After I finished speaking, they did not say anything, because what I had said was so satisfying.
23 They were as eager to hear me speak as farmers are for it to rain.
They listened to me with great appreciation, just as the ground seems to welcome the rain that falls in the spring.
24 I helped people who felt discouraged.
I remained cheerful even as I helped them deal with difficult situations.
25 As their leader, I decided what things would be good for them to do.
They respected me, just as soldiers respect the king who commands their army.
I was kind and sympathetic, like someone who comforts people who are mourning.

30 1 But now, men who are younger than I am make fun of me.
They are men whose fathers I would not even have hired to help my dogs guard my sheep!
2 And I would not hire any of those young men to work for me either.
They are already feeble.
3 No one hires them, so they are poor and go hungry and have become thin.
They have to eat roots that they find in places where no crops have grown for a long time.
4 They look among bushes to find leaves that they can eat.
They pull up broom trees and eat their roots.
5 When they come near villages, people shout at them, as they would at a thief, to make them leave their area.

6 They have to live in riverbeds, in holes in the ground,
and in caves on the sides of cliffs.
7 During the day they huddle under thorn bushes.
There they howl like animals because they are so hungry.
8 They are people without good sense, and they have never achieved anything significant.
People force them to leave their towns.
9 But these despicable young men sing songs to make fun of me!
If they think God is punishing someone for being a sinner, they call that person ‘another Job.’
10 They hate me and they stay away from me, but if we happen to meet, they spit right in my face.
11 I am not able to defend myself against these young men, because God has taken away my strength.
He has humiliated me.
So they can do whatever they want to me.
12 Gangs of these young men threaten me.
They shove me aside when they pass by.
They think of new ways to hurt me.
13 I am not able to escape from them, even as they keep doing worse things to me.
No one else would do the things they do to me.
14 It is as if I were a city and they were an army that had broken through its wall and sent in waves of troops to destroy the city.
15 I am afraid of many things.
I have no dignity left,
and I do not expect that I will ever get out of this situation.
16 I feel as if I am about to die,
but in the meantime, I am suffering greatly.
17 My body aches during the night.

I feel pain continually.

18 I have such a serious disease that my skin no longer looks the same.

It seems as if I will always be sick.

19 God has made me suffer so much that I have been sitting here on the ground.

I am even beginning to look like the dust and ashes in which I have been sitting.

20 Even though I pray to you, God, you do not respond.

I try to get your attention, but you do not do anything to help me.

21 You used to be kind to me, but you are not kind to me anymore.

You are using your mighty power to make me suffer.

22 It is as if you have sent a great wind to pick me up and carry me away.

It is as if you are making a violent storm blow me around.

23 Certainly I know that you are going to make me die.

That is what happens to everyone who ever lives.

24 However, when someone falls down, he certainly reaches out with his hand for help.

When someone is in trouble, he certainly calls for help.

25 So it is appropriate for me to ask for your help now, God.

After all, I wept for people myself when they were experiencing troubles.

I felt sorry for poor people.

26 I am asking for help because although I expected good things to happen to me, evil things happened instead.

It was as if I was waiting for dawn but another night started instead of a new day.

27 I am very distressed all the time.

I suffer during every day.

28 I look as if I have to work outside all day to make a living.

I humble myself by pleading openly for people to help me.

29 No one wants to come near me.

It is as if I am a jackal or ostrich living out in the wilderness.

30 My skin has become dark, and it is peeling off.

I have a fever that causes my body to feel as if it were burning up.

31 Previously, if you came to my house, you would hear musical instruments playing happy songs.

If you came now, you would only hear people crying and singing sad songs.

31 1 I have made a solemn promise to myself that I will not look at a woman in a lustful way.

So I would not look at a woman who was not my wife and want to have sexual relations with her.

2 If I did not do what I promised,

God who is in heaven would certainly punish me.

Shaddai in heaven would make sure that I got what I deserved.

3 I would not have done wrong in that way, because I know that unrighteous people experience calamities.

People who do what is wrong experience disasters when God punishes them.

4 I know that God sees everything that I do.

He is aware of each individual action that I take.

5 I solemnly declare that I have not lied to others and that I have not tried to deceive others.

6 I only ask God to judge me fairly.

If he does that, he will find that I am innocent.

7 I solemnly declare that I have continually acted properly.

I have not seen wrong things to do and then done them.

I am not guilty of committing sin.

8 If I have been lustful or deceptive, I hope that when I plant seeds, someone else will harvest the crops and eat them.

Or may someone uproot the crops that are growing in my fields!

9 I solemnly declare that I have not been attracted to another man's wife.

I have not made secret arrangements with a woman to have sexual relations with her while her husband was away.

10 If I have done that, I hope that my own wife will be attracted to another man and that she will have sexual relations with him.

11 If I had sexual relations with another man's wife, that would be a terrible sin.

If I were caught and her husband brought me to court, the judges would certainly decide to punish me.

12 I would have to pay a fine that would cost me everything I owned.

It would be as if a fire had burned everything I had right to the ground.

It would be as if someone pulled out all the crops that were growing in my fields.

13 I solemnly declare that when my male or female servants complained to me about something,

I took their complaint seriously and made sure that I treated them fairly.

14 I knew that if I did not treat my servants fairly,

I could not expect God to be merciful to me when he judged me.

If God came to help my servants,

15 I could offer no excuse for the way I had treated them. I am no different from my servants, so I have no right to mistreat them.

The same God created each one of us.

16-18 I solemnly declare that from the time that I was young,

I have taken care of orphans and I have protected widows.

I have not failed to provide poor people with the things that they needed.

I have not caused widows to lose hope.

I have not eaten all of my food by myself and not shared it with orphans.

19 I solemnly declare that I provided clothes for poor people when I saw that they were suffering from lack of clothing.

I have provided warm outer garments for needy people.

20 I gave them warm clothes that my servants had woven from the wool of my sheep.

The poor people thanked me for helping them.

21 I solemnly declare that I never threatened an orphan who brought a case against me in the public square.

Even if I knew that the other elders would favor me,

I made sure that the orphan received fair treatment.

22 If I have neglected poor people or oppressed orphans, may the arm that I did not use to help them but used instead to threaten them fall right out of its socket!
23 I have not done wrong things such as I have been describing, because I respect God and I know that he punishes sin.
I would not sin against such a majestic God!
24 I solemnly declare that I have not depended on wealth as a source of security and power.
25 I solemnly declare that I did not think that I was better than other people because I had many possessions and because I had become very rich.
26 I solemnly declare that I never looked at the sun when it was shining or at the beautiful moon 27 and made a gesture to worship them.
I never wanted to do that.
28 If I had worshiped the sun or the moon and people found out that I had, the judges would certainly decide to punish me for that too, because I would have been worshiping a false god instead of the true God.
29-30 I solemnly declare that I have not been glad when my enemies have suffered misfortunes.
I have not thought that I was better than they were when they experienced disasters.
I have not sinned by praying that God would curse people who hated me and cause them to die.
31-32 I solemnly declare that I have invited travelers to stay in my house.
Visitors have not had to sleep in the streets.
My servants talk about how I give food to anyone who needs it.
33 I know that people generally try to hide their sins.
But I solemnly declare that I have not done that.
34 I did not let fear of what people would say about me or think of me keep me from admitting that I had done wrong and making amends.
35 I wish that I had someone who would judge my case against God!

I hereby declare that all that I have just said is true.

Now I wish that Shaddai would state his case.

I would like to see his written statement of charges against me.

36 If Shaddai wrote out his charges against me,

I would not be ashamed, because I know that I am innocent.

I would display the charges publicly, because they would actually list what I had not done.

37 I would explain to God in detail

how I was innocent of each charge.

I would approach him as a ruler would: without being afraid.

38 I solemnly declare that I have not defrauded the people who farm my land.

They have no reason to cry out for justice against me.

39 I solemnly declare that I have taken only a fair share of the crops that people have grown on my land.

I have made sure that the people who grew crops on my land kept enough of them to feed their families.

40 If I have cheated the people who farm my land, then I wish that thorns would grow in my fields instead of wheat.

I wish that bad weeds would grow there instead of barley!"

After this, Job said nothing further to defend himself to his three friends.

32 1 Then Job's three friends stopped replying to him, because Job was confident that he was innocent. 2 Then a man named Elihu, who had been listening as Job spoke with his friends, became very angry with Job. Elihu was the son of Barakel. He was a Buzite and he belonged to the clan of Ram. He became angry because Job continued to claim that he was innocent and that God had been wrong to punish him. 3 Elihu also became angry with Job's three friends. He became angry because they had insisted that Job must have done many things that were wrong, but they had not been able to prove any of their accusations. 4 Now Elihu was much younger than Job's three friends. That was why he had let them speak to Job first. 5 But when Elihu realized that the three men had nothing more to say to Job, he became very angry.

6 This is what Elihu said. (He was the son of Barakel. He was a Buzite.)

"I am young, and you all are much older than I am.
So I was hesitant. I was afraid to tell you what I was thinking.
7 I said to myself, 'I should let the people who are older speak.
Older people should be able to explain how to understand things wisely.'
8 However, even as I was saying that, I felt the Spirit of God stirring within me.
Yes, I felt Shaddai inspiring me so that I could understand.
9 Humble people can also be wise.
Younger people can also recognize the right thing to do.
10 So now I want to ask you, 'Please listen to me.
Let me too say what I have been thinking.'
11 Now I let the three of you speak first.
I waited while you thought carefully about what you should say,
and I listened to your arguments.
12 I paid careful attention to what you were saying.
But in the end, none of you was able to prove that what Job said was wrong.
None of you could respond to his arguments.
13 So do not tell yourselves, 'We have discovered what is wise!'
It is God who must show Job that he is wrong.
Someone relying on human thinking will not be able to do that.
14 You were angry with Job, and so you have not answered him well.
But Job has said nothing to make me angry, so I will not answer him the way you have.
15 The three of you are just sitting there in a daze, not saying anything more, because you cannot think of what to say to Job.
16 And since you are not speaking, since you have stopped answering Job,
I do not feel that I need to wait any longer before speaking to Job myself.
17 So now I too will respond to Job.
I will share my view of his situation.
18 I must speak, because I have plenty to say, and something inside me is forcing me to say it.

19 I feel as if I am a container of wine that is stretching more and more and that will soon burst because of the fermentation.

20 I must speak, and then I will be able to rest from the effort of restraining myself from speaking.
So I will now say something in reply to all of you.

21 I will not favor either Job or you his friends.
I will not try to flatter anyone.

22 Indeed, I have not gotten into the habit of flattering people, because I believe that if I did that, God would quickly destroy me.

33 1 So now, Job, I ask you to listen carefully to everything that I am going to say.

2 I am ready to speak to you and tell you what I think.

3 What I say will express my sincere feelings of concern for you.
I will only tell you what is genuinely true.

4 You can trust me as someone whom God's Spirit created.
You can trust me as someone whom Shaddai made alive.

5 Once I have spoken, respond to me if you can.
Think carefully about how you will reply to me.

6 Now you wanted God to answer you, and I will do that for him.
But I am human, just like you,

7 so you do not need to be afraid of me.
I will not speak to you harshly.

8 I listened carefully to you as you spoke,
and this is what I heard you say:

9 'I am righteous. I have not committed any sins.
I am innocent. I have not done things that are wrong.

10 Nevertheless, God looks for excuses to punish me.
He treats me as if I were his enemy.

11 He judges me by very strict standards.

He closely observes everything that I do.’

12 However, what you have said is incorrect.

I will explain why.

You do not realize what God is actually doing, since it is beyond human understanding.

13 You should not be protesting that God does not respond to what anyone says.

14 God actually does speak to people in various ways.

People just do not realize how he is doing that.

15 Sometimes God speaks to people at night in dreams and visions when they are sound asleep in bed.

16 God reveals things to people at those times.

He shows them that they need to change the way that they have been living.

17 God speaks in that way to get people to stop doing evil deeds.

God wants to prevent people from sinning because they have become proud.

18 In this way, God prevents people from dying.

Otherwise, someone might kill them violently.

19 God also corrects people by making them so ill that they have to lie in bed.

They feel constant agony in their bodies.

20 They feel so sick that they do not want to eat anything, not even their favorite foods.

21 They lose so much weight that there appears to be no flesh between their skin and their bones.

22 They become so sick that they are about to die.

The angels who cause people to die start coming to get them.

23 However, sometimes a special kind of angel may come to a person and tell him on behalf of God how he can change the way that he has been living so that he will not die.

24 If the person changes the way that he has been living, then God will forgive him.

God will tell the angels who cause people to die,

‘Do not cause this person to die!

I can see that I should allow him to live, because now he will do what is right.'

25 When that happens, the person will become healthy again and his skin will appear as fresh as the skin of a child.

He will be as strong again as he was when he was young.

26 Then God will once again treat him as a righteous person.

He will pray to God, and God will answer his prayer.

He will come into God's presence joyfully.

27 He will sing a song of thanksgiving and tell the people who are listening,

'I sinned; yes, I did things that were not right, but God did not punish me in the way that I deserved.

28 He has saved me from going to the place where dead people are.

And so I will continue to enjoy being alive!'

29 Indeed, God does this for many people.

30 He keeps them from going to the place where dead people are.

That way they can continue to enjoy being alive.

31 So Job, please listen to me.

Do not say anything right now; just allow me to speak.

32 After I have spoken, then if you have something more that you want to say to me, say it, because I would like to show that you are innocent.

33 However, if you have nothing more that you want to say, then just listen to me.

I will explain to you how you can understand your situation in a wise way."

1 Then Elihu continued to speak, and he said,

2 "I want everyone who is wise to hear what I am about to say.

I want everyone who knows a lot to listen to me.

3 I want you to listen carefully to me because when people hear others speak, they need to decide whether what the others are saying is right or wrong.

They do this just as people taste food to decide whether it is good or bad.

4 I would like all of us to decide together who is right, Job or his friends.

I would like us to find out together what is a good way to understand his situation.

5 We need to consider this carefully together because Job has said, ‘I am innocent, but God has not judged me fairly.’

6 Job has said he would not lie about whether he has done what is right.
He has spoken as if God had shot him with an arrow and wounded him so badly that he will die, even though he is innocent.

7 I have not heard anyone else speak the way Job does.
People drink water to satisfy their thirst, and mocking God seems to satisfy Job.

8 His friends are people who do what is wrong.
He spends time with wicked people.

9 We know that this is true about him because he has said, ‘It is useless for people to want to please God.’

10 So, all of you who understand things well, listen to me!
God would never consider doing anything that was wicked!
No, Shaddai would never consider doing anything that was wrong!

11 We can be confident that God treats people fairly because we can see that he rewards or punishes people properly for what they have done.
God gives people what they deserve for the manner in which they have lived.

12 No, God never does anything wicked.
Shaddai always treats people fairly.

13 God did not need anyone to give him the authority to rule the people who live on the earth.
He did not need anyone to put him in control of all the people in the world.

14 If God ever thought only about himself and not also about the world he created, if God ever stopped keeping people and animals alive,

15 then every living thing would die immediately, and the bodies of people would soon become soil again.

16 So, Job, if you truly want to understand, then listen carefully to what I am about to say.

17 God could certainly not hate what is right and still rule the world.

So you really cannot say that God, who is righteous and powerful, has done something wrong.

18 God tells some kings that they are worthless, and he says to some officials that they are wicked.

19 God does not treat rulers better than he treats other people.

God does not treat rich people more respectfully than he treats poor people.

After all, God created all people.

20 If people use their power to oppress others,

God punishes them by killing them.

Those people are not expecting to have troubles and die, and humans do not kill them, but God kills them very quickly.

21 God punishes oppressive people because he sees everything that people do.

God is aware of each individual action that a person does.

22 Wicked people can not escape from God

by hiding in places where it is very dark.

23 Now God does not need to examine a person further before passing judgment on that person.

24 God does not need to investigate what people have done.

He knows whether important people have done wrong, and he destroys them if they have.

He then appoints others to take their places.

25 Because he already knows what they have done,

he removes them quickly and gets rid of them.

26 God kills them because of the wicked things that they have done.

Many people see him do it.

27 God kills them because they stopped doing what he wanted them to do and did not pay attention to his commands.

28 They mistreated poor people.

Those poor people prayed to God for help, and God answered their prayers.
29 Yet even if God decides not to punish wicked people right away, no one can criticize him.
If God does not reveal what he is doing,
no one can understand it.
God controls every nation and every person.
30 God makes sure that those who rule honor him.
He makes sure that rulers do not oppress the people whom they rule.
31 Suppose someone says to God,
'I recognize that I am suffering because I have sinned.
I do not want to sin any longer.
32 Please show me what sins I have committed.
I will stop doing anything that is evil.'
33 If a person said that to God,
do you think that God would continue to punish him?
Now you have been saying that God does not treat people fairly, so it is important for you to decide what you think God would do.
I will not suggest the answer myself.
We would like to hear you say what you think about this.
34 But unfortunately, I believe that when people who have good sense and people who are wise hear my question and your answer, they will say to me,
35 'Job is speaking ignorantly.
What he says does not make sense.'
36 It would be good if God put Job on trial and investigated every last detail of his case.
God should do that because Job has been speaking just as wicked people speak.
37 God should put Job on trial because in addition to sinning, he is saying that God does not treat people fairly.

Knowing that we were watching, he clapped his hands to insult God.
He has made long speeches to say that God has punished him unjustly."

35 1 Then Elihu continued to speak, and he said,

2 "Job, it is not right for you to say that you have been doing what is right but God has been doing what is wrong.
3 You are basically saying that when you ask,
'What good things have I received because I have not sinned?
How am I better off than I would be if I had sinned?'
4 I will answer those questions for you, and I will also respond to what your three friends have said.
5 Job, look up at the sky.
See how high the clouds are above you!
God is far higher than that!
6 So if you sin, that does not harm God at all.
Even if you do many wrong things, that does not hurt him.
7 On the other hand, if you do what is right, that does not make God better off.
No, you are not giving God something that he does not already have.
8 The only ones who suffer if you are wicked are other people.
The only ones you might help by being good are other humans.
9 People call for others to help them because of the many things that wicked people do that make them suffer.
They call for help because of the things that powerful people do to oppress them.
10 But people do not ask God, their Creator, to help them.
People do not expect God to enable them to sing joyful songs because he has rescued them.
11 People do not realize that God wants to teach them how to live wisely.
God does that for people, not for wild animals or for the birds in the sky.
12 Even when people do pray to God for help,

God does not answer them, because they arrogantly continue to do what is wrong.
13 God, the Almighty One, does not respond at all when people pray but do not really mean what they are saying.
14 You are telling God that you have made your case against him but that you are still waiting for him to answer your accusations.
You are saying that God has not been helping you.
Since you say those things, you should certainly not expect God to respond to you!
15 You also say that God does not pay much attention when people commit sins, and so he does not become angry and punish them.
16 My friends, you see that Job has said things that are completely useless.
He says many things without knowing what he is talking about."

36 1 Then Elihu said some more things to Job:

2 "Job, be patient with me a little longer as I explain things to you.
Be patient, because I have more to say in order to show that God does not do anything wrong.
3 I will tell you what I have learned from many sources.
I will show that God, who made me, always does what is right.
4 You can indeed listen patiently because I will not say anything to you that is false.
I am here with you as someone who understands things well.
5 Truly, God is very powerful, but he values every person.
He understands everything completely.
6 He does not allow wicked people to remain alive, but he helps people whom others have been oppressing.
7 He always protects people who are righteous.
He makes them prosper as if they were kings, and he causes others to honor them continually.

8 Sometimes people suffer great troubles because they have done wrong things.

9 When they do, God shows them what they have done wrong.

He shows them that they committed these sins because they were proud.

10 He enables them to understand what he is teaching them.

He commands them to stop sinning.

11 If they obey him and once again live as he wishes, they will prosper and be happy for as long as they live.

12 But if they do not obey him,

they will die violently

because they did not seek to understand how God wanted them to live.

13 People who do not respect God continue to be angry with God.

They do not ask God to help them even when they are suffering because of their sins.

14 They can only make a living in a dishonorable way, and they die while they are still young.

15 God actually uses suffering to keep people from perishing because of their sins.

By making them suffer, he causes them to listen to what he is telling them.

16 Job, I believe that God wants to bring you out of your troubles and allow you to live without distress.

He wants you to be happy and prosperous.

17 However, you are still saying bad things about God the way a wicked person would.

That is why God is punishing you so severely.

18 You are angry with God, but do not let that lead you to say disrespectful things about God.

If you did that, God would not accept even a very large bribe to pardon you.

19 God would not want your money and so pardon you.

He would not take gold or a great deal of money as a bribe.

20 You should not wish that you could die so that your suffering would be over.

Once people die, they are gone.

21 Be careful not to commit sin.

It seems that you would rather defy God than learn what he wants to teach you through suffering.

22 Truly, God is so powerful that he can do great things.
He is better than any other teacher.

23 No one has ever told him what he should do.
No one has ever had to tell him that what he was doing was wrong.

24 People have often sung songs to praise him.
You too should remember what he has done and praise him for it.

25 Everyone has seen what God has done, but even so, people only understand it a little.

26 How great God is! We are not able to understand how great he is, and we are not able to determine how old he is.

27 Indeed, God draws water up from the earth and puts it in clouds and causes it to become rain.

28 This rain pours down from the clouds and abundant showers fall on the earth, where people live.

29 No one can really understand how the clouds spread across the sky or how it thunders in the sky where God lives.

30 See how God causes lightning to flash all around him!
The lightning is so bright that it lights up even the deep ocean.

31 Because his storms are so great, God uses them to punish wicked people.
But he also uses the rain from these storms to provide abundant food for righteous people.

32 It is as if God picks up lightning in his hands and sends it to strike where he wants it to.

33 God makes thunder to announce that there will be a storm.
We also know that a storm is coming when we hear cattle making extra noise.

37 1 My heart really pounds when I think about that!
I feel as if it is jumping around inside me.

2 Listen, all of you, to the thunder!
It is as if God is roaring!
3 God makes such loud thunder that people can hear it throughout the land.
God makes such bright lighting that people can see it from far away.
4 After lightning flashes, we hear thunder, which sounds like God speaking very loudly.
Then, after the thunder, God makes more lightning.
5 When we hear thunder, it is as if God is shouting in an amazing way.
God does things that are too wonderful for us to understand.
6 For example, God can cause snow to cover the ground, and when he tells a rain shower to rain even harder, it becomes a downpour.
7 When God makes it rain so hard, everyone has to stop working outside.
This shows all people, whom he has made, what great things he is able to do.
8 When it rains, the animals go into their hiding places and they stay there until the rain stops.
9 Storms come from the place where they start, and cold winds come from the north.
10 In the winter, cold winds turn water into ice.
The water in lakes freezes solid.
11 God truly fills the clouds with water droplets.
He makes lightning flash from many clouds.
12 He causes the clouds to move around over the places where people live so that they can accomplish everything that he wants them to do.
13 God may send storms to punish people.
God may send storms to water the land that he made.
God may send storms to help people by providing rain to make their crops grow.
God makes all of these things happen.
14 Job, listen to what I am saying.
Just think about the wonderful things that God does.

15 Are you able to explain how God arranges the clouds in the sky and makes lightning flash down from them?
16 Are you able to explain how God is able to make clouds float in the sky?
Can you understand all of the wonderful things that God does?
God understands everything completely!
17 Are you able to explain how God can bring in stifling air from the desert and make it so hot that you cannot stay cool if you wear clothes?
18 Are you able to explain how God made the sky so that it would stay firmly in place above the earth?
19 I doubt that you could tell us what to say to God.
People do not know enough to be able to defend themselves if they spoke with God.
20 I would not dare tell God that I needed to speak with him!
If I did that, then he might destroy me!
21 You know that people can not look directly at the sun when it shines brightly in the sky after the wind has blown the clouds away.
22 When God appears, he has glittering light all around him.
His glory is so bright that it makes us afraid.
So if we cannot even look at the sun, how could we look at God?
23 Shaddai has very great power, and we do not know how to get near to him.
He always acts righteously, and he never mistreats anyone.
24 That is why everyone should have great respect for him.
Any people who think that they are wise do not impress him."

38 1 Then Yahweh spoke to Job from inside the storm that had been approaching. He said to him,

2 "You have been speaking ignorantly, and as a result,
you have been making it harder for people to understand my actions.

3 I am going to ask you some questions, so get ready to answer them directly.

4 Where were you when I began to create the earth?

Since you claim to know so much, tell me how I did that.

5 Who decided how large the earth would be?

Who made sure that it was the right size?

If you know as much as you claim, you ought to be able to tell me that.

6-7 What keeps the earth from collapsing?

Who made sure that everything on the earth would be in the right position?

The earth was so beautiful when I made it that it was as if the first stars all sang a song to celebrate it.

All of the angels gave a great cheer when they saw the earth.

8 When I made the land, the sea could have flowed over it.

9 Who prevented the sea from flooding the earth? Now the clouds in the sky float over the sea as if they were its clothing.

Night and day happen at sea just as they do on land.

10 I decided how much of the area under the sky the sea would cover.

I made barriers at the shore of the sea to keep it off the land.

11 I proclaimed that the sea could only come up so far on the shore and not come any farther.

I said that its great waves could only flow up to a certain place on the land.

12 Job, have you ever commanded a day to begin?

Have you told the sun where it needed to rise on a certain day?

13 When day comes, wicked people all around the world stop doing the bad things they do at night when no one can see them.

14 In the light of day, people can see the hills and valleys on earth clearly.

The earth seems to take shape the way clay takes shape when people press a seal onto it or the way folds form in clothing.

15 When daylight comes, wicked people do not have the darkness that they like.

They are no longer able to hurt other people.

16 Job, have you traveled to the springs at the bottom of the sea?
Have you gone and seen what is at the very bottom of the oceans?
17 Has someone shown you how to get to the place where dead people are?
Do you know where the entrance to that dark place is?
18 Do you know how big the earth is?
Tell me, if you know all these things!
19 Do you know how to get to the place where light comes from?
Do you know where darkness comes from?
20 Would you know how to get to those places so that you could bring light and darkness to them?
21 If you had been alive when I created the world, then you would know the answers to these questions.
But you are not that old, so you certainly do not know the answers.
22 Have you gone into the place where I keep snow, or have you visited the place where I keep hail?
23 I keep snow and hail so that I can use them to defeat one of the armies when people are fighting wars.
24 Would you know how to get to the place where the sun should rise each morning?
Would you know where the east wind should begin to blow over the earth?
25 Could you make rain fall in a certain place?
Could you make a rainstorm go in a certain direction 26 so that it would rain out in the desert, in a place where no one lives?
27 Would you be able to send rain there to water those barren areas where nothing has grown, so that grass would begin to grow again?
28 Do you even know where rain comes from?
Do you know how dew forms on the ground overnight?
29 Do you know how water becomes ice in the winter?

Do you know why dew turns into the frost that covers the ground in the winter?

30 Do you know why the surface of lakes freezes in the winter?

You cannot see the water below the surface; it is as if there is a layer of stone on top of it.

31 Can you make stars cluster together, as they do in the cluster you call the Pleiades?

Can you make stars move apart so that they no longer make constellations

32 such as the one you call Orion? Can you make the constellations of stars appear in the sky at the right time of the year?

Can you make the Big Dipper with its handle appear in the right place in the sky?

33 Do you know how the sun, moon, and stars should move through the sky?

Do you know how they should provide heat and light on the earth?

34 Could you shout an order up to a cloud to make it pour rain down on you?

35 Can you tell flashes of lightning to strike wherever you want?

Would the lightning do what you commanded?

36 Can you determine where it should be cloudy and where it should be sunny?

37 Are you able to count how many clouds there are?

Can you make it rain

38 after it has not rained for such a long time that the ground is hard and dry?

39-40 Suppose a lioness and her cubs were crouching in their den or hiding in some bushes, waiting for some animal to pass by that they could kill.

Could you make an animal go by that the lioness could kill so that she and her cubs could eat the meat and not be hungry anymore?

41 Suppose some baby ravens in a nest were chirping loudly because they were hungry.

Suppose they had not eaten in so long that they had become weak.

Could you provide a dead animal whose meat the raven could bring home to its baby birds?

1 Job, can you tell when female mountain goats are about to give birth?
Have you watched the wild deer while their calves were being born?

2 Do you know for how long these female animals will be pregnant? Do you know when they will have their babies?

3 They crouch down to give birth, and their babies come out.

4 The young animals grow up in the open fields.
Once they are strong enough to leave their mothers, they do not return to them again.

5 Do you know why some donkeys wander around wild?
Do you know why they are not still working for people?

6 I have given them a home in the desert plain.
They are able to live in places where much grass does not grow.

7 These wild donkeys do not like the noise in the cities.
In the desert, they do not have to listen to the shouts of those who used to force them to work.

8 They wander over the hills to find food.
They look for any plant that they can eat.

9 There are also oxen that are wild.
You could not get one of those to work for you!
It would not stay penned up at night by the place where you put food for your animals!

10 You could not make a wild ox pull a plow so that it would dig furrows in your fields.

11 Even though a wild ox is very strong,
you could not depend on it to do difficult farm work.

12 A wild ox would not help you to grow more crops than you could grow by yourself.

13 Now think about ostriches.
They run very fast, flapping their wings as they go.

But they do not take good care of their offspring.

14 Female ostriches are bad mothers, because lay their eggs and leave them on the ground.

The eggs do stay warm in the sand.

15 But this is still not a good thing to do.

Some wild animal could step on the eggs and crush them.

16 Ostriches do not care well for their chicks.

They act as if the chicks do not belong to them.

They do not seem to be concerned that their chicks might die and they would have laid their eggs for nothing.

17 Ostriches act this way because I did not give them good instincts.

I did not enable them to understand how they should care for their eggs and chicks.

18 However, ostriches are still awesome birds.

When they run, they can easily run faster than horses!

19 But I made horses to be very strong.

I put beautiful flowing manes on their necks.

20 I enabled them to leap through the air as if they were locusts.

They snort so loudly that they cause people to be afraid.

21 As horses prepare to rush into battle, they paw the ground, showing off their great strength.

22 Horses seem to disregard danger as they go bravely into battle.

They do not run away when enemy soldiers attack them.

23 As horses run into battle, the quivers containing their riders' arrows rattle against their sides.

The spears and javelins that they are carrying flash in the sunlight.

24 Horses rush into battle as soon as an officer blows a horn to signal that the army should advance.

The horses run very quickly, and they speedily reach the enemy lines.

25 When they hear someone blow the battle horn, horses neigh excitedly.

They can smell a battle even from a distance.

They hear commanders shouting orders to their soldiers and they know the battle will begin soon.

26 Now think about birds that hunt small animals and other birds.

Do you know how hawks are able to stay in the air as if they were floating?

Do you know how they sense when it is time to fly to a warmer place for the winter?

27 I gave eagles the ability to fly high up into the cliffs and build their nests there.

28 Eagles live on cliffs.

They are safe among the high, pointed rocks there because no animals can get to them.

29 From that great height, eagles look for animals that they can kill and eat.

They can see animals that are far away.

30 Eagles kill small animals and bring them back to their nests to feed their chicks.

Eagles also go and eat dead bodies that they see lying on the ground."

40 1 Yahweh continued to speak to Job. He said,

2 "Do you still think I am wrong and want to keep arguing with me?

If you want to keep criticizing me, then answer the questions I have asked you!"

3 But Job replied to Yahweh,

4 "Now I realize how insignificant I am. I am not able to answer your questions.

I will not say anything in response to them.

5 I have already said more than I should have said.

So now I will say nothing more."

6 Then Yahweh again spoke to Job from inside the storm. He said,

7 "I am going to ask you some more questions, so get ready to answer them directly.

8 Do you still want to govern the universe instead of me?

Do you still want to insist that I am doing things wrong and that you would do them right?

9 Do you have the same amount of power as I do?

Does your voice sound as loud as thunder, as mine does?

10 If you want to govern the universe, you must show that you are dignified and noble.

You must show that your character is glorious and beautiful.

11 You must express holy wrath against the people who deserve it.

You must recognize which people are being sinfully arrogant and take them out of important positions.

12 Yes, you must not allow arrogant people to remain in important positions.

Destroy wicked people quickly!

13 Punish all of them by killing them.

Then send them to the place where dead people go.

14 If you did that, I would congratulate you and admit that you could save yourself by your own ability.

15 But to show you how insignificant you really are,

I want you to think about a great animal that I created, Behemoth.

I made you, and I also made it.

Even though this great beast has the size and strength to hunt and kill other animals, it eats plants as oxen do.

16 Think about how strong the legs of Behemoth are!

And the muscles in its belly are very powerful.

17 Behemoth can make its tail as stiff as the branch of a cedar tree and hold it up in the air.

It has very strong legs.

18 Its thigh bones are so strong that they are like tubes made of bronze.

Its legs are so strong that they are like bars made of iron.

19 Behemoth is one of the strongest animals that I made.

I gave it sharp tusks so that it could cut down plants and eat them.

20 It needs those tusks because it comes out of the river where it lives in order to eat the plants that grow nearby.

But other animals do not have to be afraid of it, so those animals do not run away or hide.

21 Behemoth lies under the trees that grow near the river where it lives.

It sometimes shelters in the tall reeds that grow in the swamps of the river.

22 Behemoth stays in the shade of trees that grow near the river.

It stays in the midst of the trees that grow near the water.

23 Even when the river in which it lives become strong and turbulent, this does not disturb Behemoth.

It does not mind even if the level of the water in the river rises very high.

24 No one could capture Behemoth even if he could get close enough to stand right in front of it.

No one can make Behemoth a tame animal.

1 And now I want you to think about another great animal that I created, Leviathan.

You cannot catch Leviathan with a fishhook, and you cannot tie rope around its jaws to hold them closed!

2 You cannot hook its jaws to catch it and then put cords through its nose to control it.

3 Leviathan would certainly not plead with you to act mercifully toward it!

It would not use sweet talk to try to get you not to harm it!

4 Leviathan would certainly not make an agreement to work for you as your slave for as long as it lived!

5 You could not turn it into a pet, as people do with birds!

You could not put a leash around its neck so that the young women in your household could take it for walks!

6 People who work together to catch fish could never catch Leviathan and then decide what share of it belonged to each of them.

They would never get the chance to cut Leviathan into pieces and then sell its meat!

7 People cannot throw harpoons hard enough at Leviathan to pierce its hide!

People cannot throw fishing spears into its head!

8 If you try to fight with Leviathan, it will give you a battle that you will never forget!

You will never try to do that again!

9 It is useless even to hope to subdue Leviathan.

Just the sight of it is enough to make a person become so afraid that he falls down.

10 No one is so foolhardy that he would wake up Leviathan if it were sleeping. It would angrily attack him.

Since that is true, it is even more foolhardy to challenge me, as you have done.

11 Even if people are righteous, they have not done anything for me that obligates me to make only good things happen to them.

Everything in the created world belongs to me, so no one can give me anything that I have to repay.

12 And now I want to speak to you further.

You said that you wanted to wake up Leviathan! As I said, that would be very foolish.

It has agile legs and great strength and a graceful shape.

13 It has a tough hide that no one can strip off.

It has powerful jaws.

14 Those jaws have terrible teeth in them!

No one can pry them open when they are closed, and no one can release them when they bite onto something.

15 It has rows of scales on its back with no gaps between them.

16 Those scales are so close together that it seems as if not even air can get between them.

17 Those scales join very closely to each other and they do not pull apart.

18 When Leviathan makes a loud sound, fire comes out of its mouth as well as noise.

It has bright, scary eyes that seem to glow with fire.

19 When it breathes,

it shoots out flames and fiery sparks.

20 Smoke pours out of its nostrils

the way steam pours out of a pot of boiling water over a hot fire.

21 Flames shoot out from its mouth, so when it breathes on wood, the wood catches fire.

22 Its neck is very strong.

Wherever it goes, it makes people very afraid.

23 Leviathan does not have a soft belly as other animals do.

Scales wrap around its belly and hold it tightly to its body.

24 It does not feel any compassion, any more than a stone would feel compassion or the lower millstone on which people grind grain would feel compassion.

25 When Leviathan rises up out of the ocean, the bravest people become terrified.

When sailors see it churning up the water, they sail away as fast as they can.

26 People cannot injure it with swords.

They cannot injure it with spears, arrows, or other weapons that have sharp points, either.

27 An iron weapon could not hurt it any more than straw could.

A bronze weapon could not hurt it any more than a weapon made of rotten wood.

28 Shooting arrows at it does not cause it to flee.

Hurling stones at it from a sling is like hurling bits of chaff at it.

29 A club that someone might use against it would not hurt it any more than chaff would.

It can ignore any spear that someone might throw at it.

30 Scales as sharp as broken pieces of pottery cover its belly.

When it drags itself through the mud, these scales tear up the ground.

31 As it swims through the deep water of the ocean,
it churns it into foam,
as if it were boiling water or ointment that someone was stirring.

32 As it swims through the water, it creates a glistening wake.
The churning water is like white hair on top of the deep sea.

33 There is nothing in the world like Leviathan.
I created it in such a way that it would not be afraid of anything.

34 Nothing else scares it, no matter how powerful that thing may be.
It is greater than the greatest of other creatures."

42 1 Then Job replied to Yahweh. He said,

2 "Now I realize that you can do anything you want.
No one can stop you from doing what you want to do.

3 You told me that I had been speaking ignorantly, and that as a result, I was making it harder for people to understand your actions.
I will admit that I was speaking about things that I did not understand.
Those things were very amazing, and I did not really know what I was talking about.

4 You told me that I should listen and let you talk because you were going to ask me some questions. You wanted me to try to answer them.
But I will admit that I am not able to answer the questions you asked.

5 I had previously heard many things about you.
But now I have actually seen you!

6 Therefore I am ashamed of myself for what I said.
I am sitting in dust and ashes to show that I am sorry for what I said."

7 When Yahweh had finished speaking with Job, he spoke to Eliphaz, Job's friend from the town of Teman. He said, "I am very angry with you and your two friends. I am angry because you did not say true things about me the way Job did. He serves me faithfully. 8 So now you must bring seven young bulls and seven rams to Job, that man who serves me faithfully. While he is with you, kill these animals and burn them as a sacrifice for yourselves. Then Job will pray for you, and I will do what he asks me to do for you. I will not punish you for speaking foolishly about me. You deserve for me to punish you because you did not say the right things about me as Job did. He serves me faithfully." 9 So Eliphaz, Job's friend from the town of Teman; Bildad, Job's friend from the Shuhite people group; and Zophar, Job's friend from the town of Naamah, did what Yahweh had commanded them to do. Then Job prayed for his friends, and Yahweh forgave them as Job asked him to do.

10 After Job had prayed for his three friends, Yahweh healed him and made him wealthy again. Yahweh gave him twice as much wealth as he had before. 11 Then Job's family and friends came to his house and had a feast with him. All of his brothers and sisters came, and all of his former acquaintances also came. They cheered him up now that all of the troubles were over that Yahweh had allowed to happen to him. Each of them gave Job a valuable piece of silver and a gold earring.

12 Yahweh blessed Job more in the second part of his life than he had blessed him in the first part of his life. Job acquired 14,000 sheep, 6,000 camels, 1,000 pairs of oxen, and 1,000 female donkeys. 13 Job also had seven more sons and three more daughters. 14 He named the first daughter Jemimah. He named the second daughter Keziah. And he named the third daughter Keren Happuch. 15 Job's three daughters were the most beautiful women in the whole land of Uz. As their father, Job declared that his daughters would each receive an inheritance from him, just as their brothers would.

16 After God restored Job's prosperity, he lived for 140 more years. His new children had children of their own. Then his grandchildren had children of their own, so Job was even able to get to know his great-grandchildren. 17 Job finally died after living a good long life.

Psalms

Book One

1 The person who will have a truly good life is the person who does not do what evil people tell him to do, who does not imitate sinful people's behavior, and who does not become like people who enjoy mocking.
2 Instead, he delights in what Yahweh teaches, he thoughtfully reads it aloud every day and every night.
3 Like having plenty of water causes a well-cultivated tree to produce fruit at the right time, and keeps it from dying,
so his faithfulness to Yahweh causes everything this person does to prosper.

4 That is not what wicked people are like!
Instead, they are like chaff that the wind blows away.
5 Just so, wicked people will not be able to endure when Yahweh judges the world.
Neither will sinful people be present when Yahweh gathers all the righteous people together.

6 All of this is because Yahweh cares for righteous people, but wicked people keep sinning until Yahweh destroys them forever.

1 Foreign kingdoms are scheming, and people groups are planning, but it is useless.
2 Earthly kings prepare to revolt, the rulers plot together to fight against Yahweh and against his chosen king.

3 They shout, "We should break free from the shackles that they control us with.
We should throw aside the ropes that they rule over us with!"

4 But the heavenly ruler sneers at them;
the Lord ridicules those rulers.
5 Then he speaks to them angrily.
He terrifies them by showing them how furious he is.
6 Yahweh says, "It is I who has made my king rule in Zion, which is my sacred hill."

7 Yahweh's king says, "I will proclaim what Yahweh has decreed.
Yahweh said to me, 'You are my son;
today I have become your father.
8 Request this from me:
ask to inherit the nations,
ask to own the whole earth even the farthest parts.
I will give them to you.
9 You will strike them with an iron rod and they will shatter into small pieces as if they were a clay pot.'"

10 So then, you kings should act wisely!
All rulers on the earth should allow Yahweh and his king to correct them!
11 Worship Yahweh respectfully.
Be joyful and afraid while you are worshiping him!
12 Swear to be truly loyal to his son otherwise, he may become angry and suddenly kill you because he can become angry quickly.
But all those who ask him to protect them will have a life that is truly good.

David wrote this psalm when he was fleeing from his son Absalom.

1 Yahweh, I have so many enemies!

Many people are deciding to oppose me.

2 Many people are saying about me,

"God will not rescue him." Selah

3 But Yahweh, you are like a shield that protects me.

You greatly honor me, and you encourage me.

4 Whenever I cry loudly to Yahweh for help, he comes from Zion, his sacred hill, to help me. Selah

5 I can lie down and sleep, knowing that I will wake up because Yahweh guards me all night.

6 There may be thousands of enemy soldiers who surround me, but I am not afraid.

7 Yahweh, get up!

My God, rescue me!

You can insultingly slap my enemies on their cheeks, and destroy those wicked people's power like breaking animals' teeth, 8 Yahweh rescues!

Bless your people! Selah

This is a note for the worship leader: David wrote this psalm to be accompanied by people playing stringed instruments.

1 Righteous God, respond to me when I pray to you.

You who have always rescued me when I was distressed, act mercifully toward me and pay attention to what I pray.

2 How long will you mortal people dishonor me instead of honoring me?

How long will you love what is useless, and chase lies? Selah

3 You all should know that Yahweh treats people who are faithful to him as special to him.

Yahweh will pay attention when I pray to him.

4 You should be afraid of Yahweh, and because of that stop sinning!

While you lie on your bed, examine what you are thinking and stop accusing me.

Selah

5 Instead, offer to Yahweh the proper sacrifices and continually trust him.

6 Many people are wishing for something good to happen.
Yahweh, please do good things for us!

7 You have made me very joyful, even more than these complainers are when they have plenty of food and drink.

8 I can lie down at night and sleep without worrying because I know that it is only you, Yahweh, who keeps me safe.

This is a note for the worship leader: David wrote this psalm to be accompanied by people playing flutes.

1 Yahweh, listen to what I say!
Comprehend my distressed sigh.

2 Since you are my king and my God, hear and respond when I plead aloud for rescuing, because I am praying to you only.

3 Yahweh, you will hear me pleading each morning.
Every morning I will request that you save me, and I will wait for you to do it.

4 You are a God who certainly does not approve of wicked people; evil-doers never stay as your guests.

5 Boasters are not allowed to come worship you.
You hate everyone who does evil things.

6 You kill liars.
Yahweh despises murderers and people who deceive others.

7 As for me, I will come worship you where you live, because you faithfully love us so abundantly.
I will reverently kneel to worship you at your sacred temple.

8 Yahweh, my enemies are watching me to try to catch me doing something wrong.

Please show me how to do what is right, just as you always do what is right.

Make it easy for me to live obediently to you.

9 Please do this because my enemies are untrustworthy;

one of their strongest desires is to destroy people.

They speak things that are vile like the smell of an open grave.

They flatter people to trap and destroy them.

10 O God, declare that they are guilty and punish them.

Cause to happen to them the harmful events that they plan to cause to happen to others.

Get rid of them because they have sinned often, and rebelled against you.

11 But enable all the people who ask you to protect them to be glad;

enable them to sing gladly always.

Please protect them.

Enable everyone who loves it when you are famous to praise you.

12 I ask this because Yahweh, you always bless those who act righteously; you protect them as if your good acts are like a shield around them.

This is a note for the worship leader: Musicians playing stringed instruments should accompany this song. Perform it in a low range. David wrote this psalm.

1 Yahweh, do not correct me angrily, do not punish me wrathfully.

2 Yahweh, act kindly toward me because I have become weak.

Yahweh, heal me because my body shakes fearfully.

3 Yahweh, I am greatly troubled in my inner being.

How long must I endure this?

4 Yahweh, relent from your anger and deliver me!

Help me because you always do what you promise!

5 Do this because I and no one else who is dead can honor you.

I and no one else can praise you if we are in the place where the dead are.

6 I am exhausted because of my pain.
I cry all night long, so that my tears soak and seem as if they will wash away my bed and my cushions.
7 I am very sad and I cry so much that I cannot see well.
My vision has become weak from crying because of all my enemies.

8 I advise all you people who do evil things to get away from me because Yahweh heard me when I was crying; 9 he heard me when I called out for him to help me,
and he will answer my prayer.
10 When that happens, all my enemies will be ashamed and very troubled.
They will relent from attacking me because they will suddenly be ashamed.

A psalm that David sang to Yahweh because of a Benjamite named Cush.

1 Yahweh my God, I have come to you so that you can protect me.
Save me from everyone who is chasing me in order to harm me. Rescue me!
2 If you do not do that, they will maul me like a lion does when it attacks the animals it wants to kill;
they shred me and there is not a rescuer.
3 My God Yahweh, suppose that I have done these things, that I am really guilty.
4 Suppose that I have harmed my ally, maybe I was unfaithful to my ally and instead rescued an enemy for no reason.
5 Then allow my enemies to chase and capture me.
Allow them to stomp me into the ground and leave me lying dead in the dirt. Selah 6 Get up Yahweh!
Because you are angry, show that you are greater than what my furious enemies can do!
Be alert so you can rescue me by doing what you have said is just!
7 The people of all nations gather around you; return to ruling over them all!

8 Yahweh, judge the people of all nations!

Decide favorably for me, Yahweh, because I am righteous and honorable before you the highest judge.

9 God, you are righteous and look closely at what people think and want.

Please stop evil people from doing wicked things, and make all of us who are righteous secure!

10 God, you protect me as a shield protects soldiers;

you rescue all those who are righteous in their inner being.

11 God judges everyone correctly.

God condemns the wicked constantly.

12 Whenever the wicked do not repent, it is as though God sharpens his sword

13 He prepares his deadly weapons to kill the wicked, he makes his arrows have flaming tips.

14 Look at the wicked person who is filled with evil intentions, as though pregnant with them, who plans to trouble people like conceiving a child, and who lies as naturally as giving birth.

15 If he digs a deep pit to trap others, he will fall into his own trap.

16 He experiences the bad things that he wants to cause to others, he hurts himself by the violent things that he wants to do to others.

17 I thank Yahweh because he always acts justly,

I sing to praise Yahweh, who is the highest judge, and to make him famous.

This is a note for the worship leader: Accompany the song with a stringed instrument. David wrote this psalm.

1 Our Lord Yahweh, people all over the world know how impressive you are!

You have made the sky show everyone how grand you are every time anyone looks at it!

2 When anyone who is weak cries for help like nursing little children cry for help, you listen and protect them from your enemies, the ones that want to hurt your people.
In order to protect them, you destroy enemies who want to harm them in return for what you have justly done to them.
3 I look up at the sky at night and see the things that you have made—the moon and the stars that you have set in place.
4 It is amazing to me that you think about people, that you are concerned about humans!
5 In fact though, you made humans to be just slightly lower than heavenly beings.
You made humans to be glorious and majestic like you.
6 You put humans in charge of everything that you made, you made them rule over all things—7 over all the domestic animals like sheep, goats, and cattle, the wild animals too,
8 the birds in the sky,
the fish in the sea,
and everything else that swims in the ocean.
9 Our Lord Yahweh, people all over the world know how impressive you are!

This is a note to the worship leader: David wrote this song to the tune of "The Death of the Son."

1 Yahweh, I will praise you with all of my inner being.
I will tell others about all the wonderful things that you have done.
2 You make me extremely happy, so I will sing to celebrate what you, who are much greater than all other spirit beings, have done.
3 When my foes flee from your righteous anger, they trip and fall. You kill them just by being near them.

4 You are angry because you have found my legal case to be righteous and my enemies' to be wicked.

You sit on a throne like a king judging everything rightly.

5 You reprimanded the people from other nations, and killed the wicked people; you eradicate them so thoroughly no one will ever remember their names.

6 Nothing remains of our enemies except the ruins of their cities which you permanently destroyed.

No one even remembers those enemies anymore.

7 But Yahweh rules forever.

He is prepared to judge from his throne.

8 He will judge all the people in the world justly;

he will be fair when he judges the people of every nation.

9 Let Yahweh be like a fortress for those whom oppressors oppress; like a strong fort for them when they have trouble.

10 Those who know your reputation should trust you; because you, Yahweh, never abandon those who come to you for help.

11 Yahweh rules on Mount Zion;

praise him by singing to him!

Tell people from every nation the marvelous things that he has done.

12 Do this because Yahweh always remembers to repay any person who murders another person.

When someone's enemy has oppressed him, and when that person calls to Yahweh to help him, Yahweh does not forget to avenge him.

13 Yahweh, act mercifully toward me!

You who rescue me when I am almost dead, look at the ways that my enemies have oppressed me.

14 I want to live in order to tell all your people at the entrance to Jerusalem all the reasons to praise you and to rejoice because you rescued me.

15 When you rescue me it is like wicked people of many nations had dug a pit for me to fall into,

but have fallen into that same pit, or like they hid a net to catch me,

but their feet have been caught in that same net.

16 So you allow the traps that wicked people make to trap them.

Because of that, people can discover that you, Yahweh, are just.

17 Wicked people will flee from you back to the place where dead people stay. Higgaion Selah

There are people there from every nation, people who have forgotten to worship the true God.

18 This all happens because there is a certain time when God will remember to take care of poor people.

It is good for oppressed people to expect him to rescue them because he will do it one day.

19 Yahweh, do something! Do not let evil people win!

Bring them to your court and judge them!

20 Yahweh, teach them that they must be afraid of you and honor you.

Cause the rulers of nations to know that they are mortal. Selah

1 Yahweh, please do not stay far away from us.

Please let us find you when enemies threaten us.

2 Wicked people proudly chase people until they can oppress them.

Yahweh, please make the bad things they plan to do to others happen to them instead.

3 A wicked person even brags about what he strongly wants to do.

He praises people who unjustly take things from other people. He curses Yahweh.

4 The wicked person is so proud that he does not care about God.

He plans to do evil things as if there was no God.

5 What he does always prospers.

He ignores doing what you say is right.

He makes a mocking noise at all his enemies.

6 He thinks, “Nothing bad can happen to me!

As long as I live, nothing will trouble me.”

7 He constantly curses, lies, and threatens others.

He is always talking about harming others and doing wrong.

8 He hides outside villages to surprise attack people.

From his secret spot he kills people who have done nothing wrong.

From there he sneakily watches for some unlucky person.

9 He hides in a secret spot like a lion, crouching in the bushes, waiting for people to catch and oppress.

He catches people and drags them away in a net to oppress them.

10 The wicked person makes sure everything is properly prepared so he can oppress his unlucky victim.

11 He convinces himself, “God is not recording what I do.

He is not paying attention; he will never notice.”

12 Do something, Yahweh! Prove that you are powerful, God!

Pay attention to oppressed people!

13 Do not let wicked people curse you, God!

Do not let him believe that you do not care about his evil deeds!

14 Surely you see everything! You pay attention to how wicked people hurt and frustrate other people so that you can punish those wicked people.

Unlucky people trust that you will protect them. You help orphans.

15 Cause people who are always doing very evil things to become powerless!

When someone tries to oppress other people may he discover he cannot do it.

16 Yahweh reigns eternally!

Foreign people no longer occupy his land.

17 Yahweh, when oppressed people ask you to help, you listen and encourage them. You pay close attention,

18 so you can act justly for the orphans and oppressed people.

You will stop any mere human from ever terrifying them again.

1 This is a note for the worship leader: This is a psalm of David.

I trust that Yahweh will protect me.

So do not say to me, “You need to escape to the mountains like birds do,

2 because wicked people have hidden in the darkness.

They have pulled back their bowstrings and aimed their arrows to shoot them at godly people like you.

3 When people are not punished for doing wrong things, there is nothing righteous people can do.”

4 But Yahweh is in his holy sanctuary, he reigns from heaven, and he watches and examines everything that people do.

5 Yahweh examines what righteous people do and what wicked people do, and he hates those who love to do violent things.

6 May he send down from the sky traps upon the wicked, and may Yahweh punish them with fire and burning sulfur and scorching hot winds.

7 Yahweh is completely righteous, and he loves when people do what is righteous.

People who do what is right will be able to come into his presence.

This is a note for the worship leader: David wrote this song. Perform it in a low range.

1 Yahweh, help us!

It seems like people who honor you are no more.

2 Everyone tells lies to other people;

they deceive others by saying good things about them that they know are not true and by speaking insincerely.

3 Yahweh, we wish that you would cut off their tongues so that they cannot continue to boast.

4 They say, “By speaking untruthfully we will get what we want;

we control what we say, no one can tell us what we should do!”

5 But Yahweh replies, “I have seen the oppressive things that they have done to helpless people;

I have heard those people groaning, so I will take action and rescue the people who are wanting someone to help them."

6 Yahweh, what you say is morally pure and you always do what you have said you will do.

Your words are as precious and pure as silver that has been heated seven times in a furnace to get rid of all the impure material.

7 Yahweh, we know that you will continually protect us who honor you from those wicked people.

8 When people praise wicked actions, wicked people strut around proudly.

This is a note to the worship leader: This is a psalm of David.

1 Yahweh, how long will you continue to not answer me?

How long will you hide yourself from me?

2 How long must I think about my problems within myself?

Must I be miserable every day?

How long will my enemy defeat me?

3 Yahweh, my God, pay attention to me and respond to me.

Restore my strength by giving me what I have hoped for, or I will die

4 and then my enemy would say, "I have defeated him," and those who are against me would celebrate when they had defeated me.

5 But I trust that you will faithfully love me;

may I rejoice when you rescue me.

6 Yahweh will do good things for me,

so I will sing to him.

1 This is a note for the worship leader: This is a psalm of David.

Only foolish people say to themselves, "There is no God!"

People who say those things do corrupt deeds;

they do detestable deeds;

hardly anyone does what is right.

2 Yahweh looks down from heaven and sees humans;
he looks to see if there are any wise people, with the result that they are wise enough that they desire to know him.

3 But they all do evil and corrupt things;
no one does what is right.

4 All the people who make a practice of doing wicked things do not take seriously the fact that Yahweh is going to punish them!
They act violently toward Yahweh's people and want to consume them like they consume bread.
These evil people never pray to Yahweh.

5 But in the future, at the place God will judge wicked people, they will become very terrified because God will help those who act righteously.

6 You evil people try to humiliate poor people, but Yahweh will protect them.

7 I wish that Yahweh would come from where he dwells in Jerusalem and rescue us Israelite people!
When Yahweh blesses us, his people again, then all of us Israelite people will rejoice.

1 A psalm of David.
Yahweh, who is allowed to enter your sacred tent?
Who is allowed to live on your sacred mountain?

2 Those whose behavior is faultless and who do righteous things, and who speak the truth.

3 They do not slander others.
They do not do to others things that are wrong, and they do not say bad things about their friends.

4 They despise the people God abhors, but they respect those who revere Yahweh.

They do what they have promised to do, even if it causes them trouble to do that.

5 They lend money to others without charging interest, and they never accept bribes in order to lie about people who have not done anything wrong.

Those who do those things will always live in safety.

1 A song of David.

God, protect me, because I go to you to keep me safe!

2 I said to Yahweh, "You are my Lord;

all the good things that I have come from you."

3 People who try to live holy lives, they are wonderful;

I greatly delight in them.

4 Those who choose to worship other gods will have many things that cause them to be sad.

I will not join them when they make sacrifices to their gods, and I will not join them in speaking the names of their gods.

5 Yahweh, you have granted to me that I would belong to you, and you supply all of my needs.

You control what happens to me.

6 Yahweh has greatly blessed me;

I am delighted with all the things that he has given me.

7 I will praise Yahweh, the one who teaches me;

even during the night he puts in my mind the right things for me to do.

8 I have chosen to always think about Yahweh. Because he is the one who strengthens and supports me, he will save me from anything that might trouble me.

9 Therefore I am very glad,

and I can rest securely,

10 because you, Yahweh, will save me from going to the place where dead people go, yes, you will save me, a godly person, from dying.
11 You reveal to me how to live in a way that will make me joyful now and will result in receiving eternal life in the future.
You make me joyful when I am with you.
You give pleasures forever.

1 A prayer of David

Yahweh, listen to me while I plead with you to act justly toward me.
Hear me while I call out to you to help me.
Pay attention to what I say while I pray because I am speaking honestly.
2 May you declare that I am innocent;
may you decide what is right.
3 You know what I think, even during the night.
You have examined me and not found anything that grieves you.
I have determined that I will not sin by what I say.
4 Regarding the actions of people, according to what you have commanded, I have carefully avoided living a violent life.
5 I have carefully obeyed what you told me to do;
I have not failed to do those things.
6 O God, I am praying to you because I know that you will answer me;
please listen to what I am saying.
7 Wonderfully show how you faithfully love me;
you who rescue with your great power the people who trust you to protect them from their enemies.
8 Protect me as carefully as people protect their own eyes; protect me like mother birds protect their babies under their wings.
9 Do not allow wicked people to attack me, those enemies of mine who surround me, wanting to kill me.

10 They never pity anyone, and they are always speaking boastfully.

11 They have searched for me and found me.

They surround me, watching for an opportunity to attack and kill me.

12 These wicked people are like lions that are ready to tear apart their prey.

They are like young lions that are hiding, waiting to pounce on their prey.

13 Yahweh, come and oppose my enemies and make them fall to the ground when you defeat them!

Take violent action and deliver me from wicked men!

14 Yahweh, by your power rescue me from those people who are interested only in things here in this world.

You provide them with many good things.

They have many children and when they die, they leave their wealth to their descendants.

15 Yahweh, because I act in the right way, I will see you.

When I wake up I will see you, and then I will be happy.

This is a note to the worship leader: David, God's servant, wrote this psalm. He sang this song to Yahweh after Yahweh had rescued him from Saul and his other enemies.

1 This is what he sang: "Yahweh, I love you, the one who enables me to be strong.

2 Yahweh, you are like a huge rock and like a fortress where I can go to be safe. I can be confident that you will rescue me when I am in trouble. You are my God. You protect me. I am as safe as I would be if I were hiding on top of a cliff. It is as if you are a shield that defends me. You are the powerful God who saves me. You are like a high place where I am safe from my enemies.

3 You deserve for people to praise you, Yahweh. When I cry to you for help, you rescue me from my enemies.

4 Someone was trying to kill me, and I was in such danger of dying that it was as if someone was trying to tie ropes around me. His wicked plans against me were like floodwaters that were carrying me away, and this made me very afraid.

5 I did not think I could escape going to the place where dead people go. It was as if that place had wrapped ropes around me and was pulling me down into it. It was as if the only direction I could walk was right into a trap where I would surely die.

6 But when I was very distressed, I cried out to you, Yahweh my God. From your temple in heaven you could hear me calling to you, and you listened to my prayer.

7 It made you so angry that someone was trying to kill me, and you responded so powerfully that it was as if there was a great earthquake and as if you shook the foundations of the mountains.

8 Your power was so great that it was as if there was a volcano from which smoke was rising, a stream of fire was flowing out that burned up everything in its path, and hot coals were flying into the air that started fires where they landed.

9 Your power was so great when you came to help me that it was as if there was a great thunderstorm, with only a little sky visible below the low-hanging dark clouds.

10 He flew, riding on the back of an angel traveling fast, which the wind was blowing along.

11 It was as if you had made the darkness of the storm a safe place for you to stay.
Yes, it was as if you had a temporary shelter within the dark storm clouds that were full of moisture.

12 It was as if it became bright where you were within the clouds, and then hailstones and lightning bolts came from there.

13 It was as if there was a loud sound of thunder in the sky because you, Yahweh, the God who is greater than all other spirit beings, had spoken to announce that you were coming to rescue me, and as if hailstones and coals of fire continued to come.

14 It was as if you sent many flashes of lightning that made my enemies so afraid that they ran away in different directions, as if you had shot arrows at them.

15 The bottom of the ocean became visible, and the water uncovered the foundations of the earth when Yahweh rebuked his enemies with the breath that came in his anger!

16 It was as if you reached down from heaven and grabbed me so that you could pull me up out of the deep water of the ocean.
17 There was a powerful man who wanted to harm me, and there were people who hated me. They were too strong for me to defeat, but you rescued me from them.
18 They attacked me, and they would have destroyed me, but you, Yahweh, protected me.
19 You brought me to a place where I was safe. You love me, and so you rescued me.
20 Yahweh, you did good things for me because I did what was right. I did not harm my enemies, so you made sure that they did not harm me.
21 Yahweh, I have lived as you want people to live. I have not stopped obeying you, my God, and done wicked things instead.
22 I have remained aware of what you have said people should do, and I have continued to obey all your laws.
23 I have not done anything for which you would blame me. I have been careful not to do anything for which you would punish me.
24 You have done good things for me because I did what is right. You recognize that I am innocent.
25 When people are loyal to you, you act loyally toward them; when people are careful to do what you want them to do, you do good things for them.
26 You allow sincere people to recognize how sincere you are. But when people try to trick others, you show that you are much more clever than they are.
27 You rescue people whom others are afflicting, but you humiliate those who are proud.
28 Yahweh my God, it is as if you light my lamp so that I can see even when it is dark.
29 With your help I have caught and defeated a band of raiders. With your help I have captured a city that had walls around it, as if I had leaped over those walls.
30 My God, everything that you do is perfect. Everything that you say is right. You protect everyone who depends on you, as if you are a shield that defends them.
31 Yahweh, you are the only real God. Only you are like a huge rock where I can go to be safe.

32 My God, you enable me to be strong like someone who equips me for war. You make sure that nothing prevents me from doing what you want me to do.

33 You enable me to walk about safely in the mountains, as a deer does, without falling.

34 You teach me how to fight in a battle. You give me the strength to bend and string a bronze bow.

35 You have saved me by protecting me like a shield, you are strong and therefore keep me safe. You humble yourself and answer my prayers and this is what has made me successful.

36 You have given me many ways to respond to each situation. As a result, I have been able to carry out my plans successfully.

37 I chased my enemies and defeated them. I did not stop fighting them until I had killed them all.

38 I wounded them so badly that the ones who fell to the ground never got up because they died of their wounds.

39 You have given me the strength and courage to fight battles. When people revolted against me, you enabled me to subdue them.

40 You enabled me to defeat my enemies and step in triumph on their necks. You gave me power over those who hated me so that I was able to destroy them.

41 They called out for someone to rescue them, but no one did. They cried out for help to you, Yahweh, but you did not help them.

42 I defeated them so completely that they were no longer any threat to me, no more than tiny particles of dust that the wind blows away would be. It was as if they were dirt that I threw out into the street.

43 You rescued me from the Israelites who tried to rebel against me. You appointed me as the ruler of many nations. Foreign people are now my subjects.

44 When they heard about what Yahweh enabled me to do, they obeyed me. Foreign rulers fearfully bow down in front of me to show their submission.

45 I defeat foreign armies that resist me so that they become weak, like a plant that dries up in the sun. They surrender and come out of their walled cities shaking with weakness and fear.

46 Yahweh, you are the only real God! I praise you! You are like a huge rock where I can go to be safe! You are the God who rescues me. Everyone should exalt you.

47 You are the God who enables me to conquer enemies who have attacked me. You cause the people of other nations to be subject to my rule.

48 You kept my enemies from capturing me. People rebelled against me, but it as if their armies had been floodwaters and you lifted me out of them to safety. You rescued me from men who tried to harm me.

49 Because of all this, I thank you, Yahweh, so that all people groups will know that you are the one who has helped me. I will sing to praise you for what you have done that has made you famous.

50 You chose me to be king, and you have done great things to save me from my enemies. You faithfully show kindness to me, David, whom you anointed as king, as well as to my descendants forever."

This is a note to the worship leader: This is a psalm of David.

1 When people look at everything that God has placed in the skies, they can see that he is very great.

Yes, the way God made the sky shows people that he is powerful.

2 Day after day it is as though the sun proclaims the glory of God, and night after night it is as though the moon and stars say that God made them.

3 They do not really speak;

they do not say any words.

There is no sound from them for anyone to hear.

4 But what they declare about God goes throughout all the world, and even people who live in the most distant places on earth can know it.

The sun is in the skies where God placed it;

5 it rises each morning like a bridegroom who is happy as he comes out of his bedroom after his wedding.

It is like a strong athlete who is very eager to start running in a race.

6 The sun rises at one side of the sky and goes across the sky and sets on the other side, and there is nothing that is unaffected by its heat.

7 The instructions that Yahweh has given us are perfect;

they keep us from living in a way that would cause God to condemn us.
We can be sure that the things that Yahweh has told us are trustworthy, and by learning them people who have not been previously taught will become wise.

8 Yahweh's laws are fair;
when we obey them, we become joyful.
The commands of Yahweh are morally perfect, and by learning them we start to understand how God wants us to behave.

9 The law of Yahweh causes people to revere him and therefore live in a morally upright way; that is something that will endure forever.
The things Yahweh has decreed are true, they are completely righteous.

10 Yahweh's commandments are more valuable than gold, even great amounts of the purest gold.
Learning the things Yahweh teaches us through them is more pleasurable than eating honey, than honey dripping from honeycombs.

11 Furthermore, by your commandments I am warned about what things I should not do.
You greatly reward those who obey them.

12 There is no one who can know all his sins;
so Yahweh, forgive me for these things which I do that I do not realize are wrong.

13 Also, keep me from doing things that I know are wrong;
do not let my sinful desires control me.
If you do that, then I will be guiltless, and I will not be guilty of committing any great sin.

14 I pray that both what I say, and what I think about,
be pleasing to you,
Yahweh, you who enable me to be strong and who redeem me.

This is a note to the worship leader: This is a psalm of David.

1 I desire that Yahweh will answer you when you call out to him when you are in a crisis!

I desire that Yahweh, the God whom our ancestor Jacob worshiped, will protect you from your enemies.

2 I desire that he may come from his sacred temple and help you, and aid you from where he lives on Mount Zion.

3 I desire that he may accept all your grain offerings and accept all your other offerings that you give him to be burned on the altar. Selah

4 I want him to give you what you desire, and I want him to allow you to be able to accomplish everything that you have planned to do.

5 When you defeat your enemies, we will shout joyfully.

We will lift up a banner proclaiming that it is Yahweh our God who helps us.

I desire Yahweh to do everything that you have requested him to do.

6 I know now that Yahweh rescues the one whom he has chosen to be king.

From his holy place in heaven he will answer him, and he will save him by his great power.

7 Some kings trust that because they have chariots they will be able to defeat their enemies, and some trust that their horses will enable them to defeat their enemies, but we will trust in the power of Yahweh our God.

8 Some will stumble and fall down, but we will be strong and not be moved.

9 Yahweh, enable your king to defeat our enemies!

We desire that the king answer us when we cry out for help.

This is a note to the worship leader: This is a psalm of David.

1 Yahweh, your king is glad because you have enabled him to be strong and because you have rescued him from his enemies; indeed, how exceedingly he rejoices.

2 You have given your king the things he desired, and you have not refused to do what he requested you to do. Selah

3 In answer to his prayer, you bless him with many good things.
You place a gold crown on his head.

4 He asked you to let him live for a long time, and you have enabled him to live for a long time.

5 People honor him greatly because you have helped him defeat his enemies.

6 You have made him famous. You bless him forever, and you cause him to be joyful in your presence.

7 The king trusts in you, Yahweh, and because you, who are much greater than all other spirit beings, faithfully love him,

8 you will protect him. You, the king, will defeat all your enemies;
yes, you will surely defeat all those who hate you.

9 When you, the king, appear, you will so completely destroy them that it will be as if you threw them into a fiery furnace.
Because Yahweh is angry with them, he will decimate them so completely that it will be as if he swallowed them whole or burned them up.

10 You, the king, will remove their children from this earth; their descendants will all disappear.

11 They want to harm you,
but what they plan will never succeed.

12 You will cause them to run away by shooting arrows at them.

13 Yahweh, show everyone how very strong you are!
When you do that, we will sing and praise you because you are very powerful.

This is a note to the worship leader: David wrote this song. The tune is "The Doe of the Dawn."

1 My God, my God, why have you abandoned me?

Why do you not come and help me?

Why do you not respond to me when I am suffering so severely that I am groaning?

2 My God, every day I call to you during the daytime and during the night, but you do not answer me, so I am not able to sleep.

3 But you are holy.

You sit on your throne as king, and receive praise in your sacred tent from your people Israel.

4 Our ancestors trusted in you.

They trusted in you and you rescued them.

5 When they cried out to you for help, you saved them.

They trusted in you, and they were not disappointed.

6 But you have not rescued me!

People despise me and consider that I am not a man;

they think that I am a worm!

Everyone scorns me and despises me.

7 Everyone who sees me makes fun of me.

They sneer at me and insult me by shaking their heads at me. 8 My enemies say, "He trusts in Yahweh, so Yahweh should save him!

He says that Yahweh is very pleased with him;

if that is so, Yahweh should rescue him!"

9 You, God, have been with me since I was in my mother's womb, and you taught me to trust you when I was at my mother's breasts.

10 It was as though you had adopted me right when I was born.

You have been my God ever since I was born.

11 Come near to me and help me, because my enemies are near me and there is no one who is helping me.

12 My enemies surround me like a group of wild bulls.

Fierce people, like those strong bulls that graze on the hills in the region of Bashan, surround me.

13 They are like roaring lions that are attacking the animals that they want to kill.

They rush toward me to kill me;

they are like lions that have their mouths open, ready to tear their victims to pieces.

14 I am completely exhausted, and am in much pain!

15 I feel greatly discouraged! My strength is all dried up like a broken piece of a clay jar that has dried in the sun.

You have allowed me to become so thirsty that my tongue sticks to the roof of my mouth.

Oh God, I think that you are about to let my body die and become dust!

16 My enemies surround me like a pack of wild dogs.

A group of evil men has encircled me, ready to attack me.

They have pierced my hands and my feet.

17 I am so weak and thin that I can see and count my bones.

My enemies stare at me and gloat about what has happened to me.

18 They looked at the clothes that I was wearing and gambled to determine which piece each of them would get.

19 Yahweh, do not be like my enemies; rather be concerned for me.

You who are the one who strengthens me, come quickly and help me.

20 Rescue me from those who want to kill me with their swords.

Save me from those who are like wild dogs.

21 Snatch me away from my enemies who are like lions whose jaws are already open, ready to chew me up!

Grab me away from those men who are like wild oxen that attack other animals with their horns!

22 Because you have saved me, I will proclaim to my fellow Israelites how great you are.

I will praise you among the group of your people gathered together to worship you.

23 You people who have an awesome respect for Yahweh, praise him!

All you who are descended from Jacob, honor Yahweh!

All you Israelite people, revere him!

24 Yahweh does not despise or ignore those who are suffering.

He pays attention to them, and he responds when they call out to him for help.

25 Yahweh, in the great gathering of your people, I will praise you for what you have done.

In the presence of those who revere Yahweh, I will offer the sacrifice that I promised to make to you because you delivered me.

26 The poor people whom I have invited to the meal will eat as much as they want.

All who come to worship Yahweh will praise him.

I pray that God will enable you all to live a long and happy life!

27 People in all nations, even in the remote areas, will think about Yahweh and turn to him.

People from all the clans in the world will bow down before you, 28 because Yahweh is the king!

He rules the people of all nations.

29 All the rich people on the earth will celebrate and bow before him.

All those who are close to dying will kneel in worship before him, yes, those who are not able to keep themselves alive.

30 People who have not been born yet will also serve Yahweh.

We will tell our descendants what Yahweh has done.

31 People will come and will proclaim to people not yet born, who will live in future years, that because Yahweh is righteous he has delivered those who prayed to him for help.

People will tell them that, "Yahweh did it!"

1 A psalm of David

Yahweh cares for me like a shepherd cares for his sheep, so I know that I will have everything that I need.

2 Yahweh nourishes and encourages my inner person and enables me to rest in peace, like a shepherd who leads his sheep to places where there is plenty of green grass for them to eat and leads them to streams where the water is flowing slowly.

3 Yahweh renews my strength.

He gives me good guidance for how I should live, in order that I, and others, will honor him.

4 Even when I am in dangerous and scary circumstances in which evil men might kill or hurt me,

I will fear nothing,

because you are with me.

I feel comforted and reassured because you protect and care for me like a shepherd protects his sheep by using his club and his walking stick to protect them from being attacked by wild animals.

5 You richly provide food for me and protect me from my enemies.

You joyfully welcome me and honor me as people joyfully receive the guests they have invited by pouring olive oil over their heads.

You have given me very many blessings!

6 I am certain that Yahweh will be good to me and will continue to love me faithfully as long as I live.

I will worship Yahweh in his sanctuary throughout my life.

1 A psalm of David

The earth and everything in it belongs to Yahweh.

All the people in the world belong to him too,

2 because he caused the ground to be above the water, above the water that was deep below the surface of the earth.

3 This is the type of person who Yahweh will allow to go up onto his mountain, Mount Zion in Jerusalem, in order to stand and worship him in his sacred tent.

4 Only those whose actions and thoughts are pure, who have not worshiped idols, and who do not tell lies when they have solemnly promised to speak truthfully.

5 Yahweh will bless this type of person.

When Yahweh judges them, he who has saved them, he will say that they are righteous.

6 Such are the ones who seek Yahweh, the descendants of Jacob,

who seek you, Yahweh. Selah

7 Open up the gates of the sacred tent,

in order that our glorious king may enter!

8 I will tell you who this glorious king is.

He is Yahweh, the one who is very strong;

He is Yahweh, who conquers all his enemies in battles!

9 Open up the gates of the sacred tent,

in order that our glorious king may enter!

10 I will tell you who he, this glorious king, is.

He is Yahweh, who commands armies;

he is our glorious king! Selah

25

1 A psalm of David

Yahweh, I come to you in prayer and tell you all that I need.

2 I trust in you, my God.

Do not allow my enemies to defeat me, with the result that they would rejoice and I would be ashamed.

3 Truly, you will not allow any of those who trust in you to be ashamed.

You will cause those who act treacherously toward others to be ashamed.

4 Yahweh, show me how I should conduct my life as you want me to.
Teach me how to act in the manner that is pleasing to you.

5 Teach me to conduct my life by obeying your truth, because you are my God, the one who saves me.
I trust in you at all times.

6 Yahweh, please act mercifully to me and faithfully love me, because that is the way that you have acted since long ago.

7 Forgive me for the sinful things I did when I was young and for my rebellious actions as an adult.
I ask that, because you faithfully love your people, you treat me kindly and forgive me.

Yahweh, I ask that you do this because you are good!

8 Yahweh is good and acts righteously, so he shows sinful people the right way to conduct their lives.

9 He shows humble people what is right for them to do and teaches them what he wants them to do.

10 Yahweh always faithfully loves and does what he has promised to those who obey his covenant and who do what he requires.

11 Yahweh, forgive me for all my sins, which are many,
in order that I and others may honor you.

12 To all those who revere Yahweh, he shows them the right way to conduct their lives.

13 They will always be prosperous, and their descendants will continue to live in this land.

14 Yahweh is a friend of those who revere him, and he teaches them the covenant that he made with them.

15 I always ask Yahweh to help me, because he will rescue me when my enemies attempt to hurt me.

16 Yahweh, pay attention to me and be merciful to me, because I have no one to help me and I am suffering.

17 Because of my present circumstances there are many things that cause me to worry.

Rescue me from the things that are causing me to be distressed.

18 Take notice that I am in difficult circumstances and troubled, and forgive me for every sinful thing I have done.

19 Take notice that I have many enemies, and that they hate me very much.

20 Protect me and rescue me from them;

do not allow them to defeat me with the result that I would be ashamed, because I go to you to keep me safe.

21 Protect me because I do what is good and honest, and because I trust in you.

22 God, rescue us Israelite people from all of our troubles!

26

1 A psalm of David

Yahweh, show that I am innocent.

I have done what is right, and I have trusted in Yahweh without doubting him.

2 Yahweh, examine what I have done and test me; thoroughly evaluate what I think in my inner being.

3 I never forget that you faithfully love me.

I conduct my life according to what you say is right.

4 I do not spend my time with liars, and I stay away from hypocrites.

5 I do not like to be with evil people, and I avoid wicked people.

6 Yahweh, I wash my hands to show that I have not done what was wrong.

As I join with others marching around your altar,

7 we sing songs to thank you, and we tell others the wonderful things that you have done.

8 Yahweh, I love to be in the sanctuary where you dwell, in the place where your glory appears.
9 Do not get rid of me like you get rid of sinners.
Do not cause me to die like you cause those who murder people to die, 10 and people who are ready to do wicked things, and people who are always taking bribes.
11 But as for me, I always try to do what is right.
So rescue me and act kindly toward me.
12 Because I have conducted myself righteously I am secure, and when all Yahweh's people gather together, I praise him among them.

1 A psalm of David

Yahweh encourages me and nourishes my inner being. He is the one who saves me, so I will not fear anyone.
Yahweh is the one to whom I go for refuge,
so I will not dread anyone.
2 When those who do evil things come near me to attack and destroy me, Yahweh enables me to defeat them so that they fall down.
3 Even if an army sets up their tents in order to attack me,
I will not be afraid.
Even if they attack me,
I will trust in God.
4 There is one thing that I have requested from Yahweh, and that one thing I will repeatedly ask Yahweh for.
This is the one thing I ask of Yahweh: that I may worship in Yahweh's sanctuary every day during my life, in order to experience how wonderful Yahweh is.
When I am in his sanctuary then I will ask him for guidance.
5 When I have troubles he will protect me in his tabernacle;
yes, he will keep me safe in his sacred tent.

He will keep me safe as if he were setting me high upon a rock where my enemies cannot reach me.

6 Then I will triumph over my enemies who surround me.
I will shout joyfully as I offer sacrifices in his sacred tent, and I will praise Yahweh as I sing.

7 Yahweh, listen to me while I call to you in prayer.
Act kindly toward me and answer my prayer.

8 I sensed that I heard you say, "Seek me and my help," so, Yahweh, I will respond by seeking you and your help.

9 I am your servant;
do not be angry with me, or turn away from me.
You have always helped me.
You are the one who has saved me,
so do not abandon me now.

10 My father and mother have left me, but Yahweh will take care of me.

11 Yahweh, teach me to do what you want me to do, and guide me so that I remain safe because I have enemies who want to hurt me.

12 Do not allow my enemies to do to me what they want, because they say false things about me and want violent things to happen to me.

13 I would have died if I had not trusted you to be good to me as long as I live.

14 Trust in Yahweh.
Have a strong and courageous attitude, and wait expectantly for Yahweh to help you.

28

1 A psalm of David

Yahweh, I call out to you.
You are like a huge rock on top of which I am safe.

Do not refuse to answer me because if you refuse to answer me, I will soon be with those who are in their graves.

2 Pay attention to me and respond when I call out for you to help me when I pray, lifting up my hands as I face your very holy place in your sacred tent.

3 Do not get rid of me when you get rid of wicked people, those who do wicked deeds.

Those people speak peacefully toward others, while in their inner beings, they hate them and devise evil plans.

4 Punish those people in the way that they deserve for what they have done; punish them for their evil deeds.

5 Yahweh will get rid of them permanently and not let them appear again.

Yahweh will do this because these evil people do not pay attention to the righteous things he has taught his people and do not take notice that he always judges evil deeds.

6 Praise Yahweh

because he responded to me when I called out for him to help me.

7 Yahweh strengthens me and he protects me like a shield;

I trust in him, and he helps me.

As a result I am glad in my inner being,

and I will praise him with my songs of praise.

8 Yahweh strengthens and protects his people.

Yahweh saves the one he appointed to be king.

9 Yahweh, rescue your people and bless those who belong to you.

Take care of them like a shepherd takes care of his sheep;

take care of them forever.

1 A psalm of David

You heavenly beings, praise Yahweh!

Declare that he is very glorious and powerful.

2 Proclaim that Yahweh is glorious.

Bow down and worship Yahweh in holy attire.

3 People hear Yahweh's voice above the sea;

the glorious God thunders.

Yahweh's voice thunders over the large sea.

4 Yahweh's voice is powerful and majestic.

5 The sound of Yahweh's voice breaks cedar trees, the cedars that grow in Lebanon.

6 He causes the mountains in Lebanon to jump like calves jump, and he causes Mount Hermon to jump as a young wild bull jumps.

7 Yahweh tells the lightning to flash upon the mountains and it hews out rocks.

8 The sound of Yahweh's voice causes the wilderness to shake;

he shakes the wilderness of Kadesh.

9 The sound of Yahweh's voice makes the deer give birth and strips the leaves from the trees, while the people in Yahweh's sacred tent say, "Praise Yahweh!"

10 Yahweh rules as king over the waters that are above the sky;

Yahweh rules as king forever.

11 Yahweh will strengthen his people, and he will bless them by giving them good things and causing them to be happy and peaceful.

30

David wrote this psalm to be sung at the dedication of the tabernacle.

1 Yahweh, I praise you because you rescued me.

You did not allow me to die with the result that my enemies could gloat.

2 Yahweh my God,

I called out for you to help me when I was sick,

you healed me.

3 Yahweh, when I was dying you restored me.
I was nearly dead,
but you caused me to get well.
4 All you who are faithful to Yahweh, sing praise to him.
Think about what Yahweh, the holy one,
has done, and thank him.
5 When he becomes angry,
he is angry for only a very short time, but he is good to us all of our lives.
We may cry during the night,
but the next morning we will be joyful.
6 As for me, when my life was going well,
I said to myself,
"Nothing will ever trouble me."
7 Yahweh, because you were good to me, at first you caused me to be secure as a mountain.
But then you let me become ill when you stopped protecting me from illness, and I became greatly disturbed.
8 Then I called out to you, Yahweh, and I pleaded for you, the Lord, to help me.
9 I said, "Yahweh, you will gain nothing if I die.
It will not benefit you at all if I go to the place where the dead people are.
Dead people certainly are not able to praise you,
and they are not able to tell others that you are faithful.
10 Yahweh, listen to me, and act mercifully to me.
Yahweh, help me."
11 But now you have changed my circumstances and healed me,
and as a result I have stopped grieving and now dance joyfully.

You have caused me to change from the clothes that showed that I was very sad and to put on clothes that show that I am very joyful.

12 You did that so that I would not be silent but would sing out to praise you.
Yahweh, you are my God, and I will thank you forever.

31

This is a note to the worship leader: This is a psalm of David.

1 Yahweh, I come to you to protect me.
Never allow them to defeat me, with the result that I would be ashamed.
Since you always do what is right and just,
please rescue me.

2 Respond to my prayers for help, and save me right now!
Be like a huge rock where I can flee for refuge, and like a strong fortress in which my enemies cannot harm me.

3 Yes, you are like a huge rock and like a fortress where I can go to be safe.
For the sake of your reputation you guide me so that no harm comes to me.

4 You are the one who protects me, so you will rescue me from the evil plans my enemies have secretly made to hurt me.

5 I put myself into your care.
You have rescued me.
Yahweh, you are faithful.

6 I hate those who worship useless idols, but I trust in Yahweh.

7 I will be very glad because you faithfully love me.
You have noticed that I have suffered, and have known the troubling things I have experienced.

8 You have not allowed my enemies to capture me;
instead, you brought me to a place where I was safe.

9 Yahweh, act kindly toward me because I am distressed.

Because I cry so much that my eyes are tired, and I am completely exhausted.

10 I have become very weak because I am so miserable;

my life is getting shorter.

I have become weak because of the sinful things that I have done.

I am totally exhausted.

11 All of my enemies make fun of me, and my neighbors, especially, despise me.

My friends are afraid of me because they think that you, God, are punishing me.

When they see me on the streets, they run away.

12 People have forgotten me like they forget people who are dead.

I am as useless as a broken pot.

13 There are terrifying things all around me.

I hear people whispering things about me.

My enemies are making plans to kill me.

14 But Yahweh, I trust in you.

I say confidently that you are the God I worship.

15 You control the events and circumstances of my life.

Save me from my enemies,

from those who pursue me.

16 Act kindly toward me and rescue me because you always faithfully love me.

17 Yahweh, I call out to you,

so do not allow others to shame me.

I desire that you cause wicked people to be ashamed.

I desire that they soon die and go down to the place where the dead people are.

18 I desire that you will cause people who tell lies to be unable to speak.

Do that to people who arrogantly say disrespectful things about righteous people.

19 Many indeed are the good things which you have prepared for the people who revere you!

You do good things for those who go to you for protection.

Everyone sees you protect them.

20 You protect people who trust in you by being near to them and saving them from people who devise evil schemes to harm them.

You keep them safe from their enemies who accuse them.

21 Praise Yahweh!

When my enemies surrounded the city in which I was living, he showed me in a wonderful way that he faithfully loves me.

22 I was alarmed and cried out, "I have been separated from Yahweh!"

But in fact you heard me and answered my cry for help.

23 You people who belong to Yahweh, love him!

Those who are loyal to him, he protects, but those who are proud, he punishes them severely like they deserve to be punished.

24 You who confidently expect Yahweh to do great things for you, be strong and be courageous!

1 A song of David

Those whom God has forgiven for rebelling against him, and those whose sin God has atoned for,

these are the ones who will have a truly good life!

2 Those whose record of sins Yahweh no longer takes into account, and those who are not deceitful,

these are the ones who will have a truly good life!

3 When I did not confess my sins, my body felt weak and sick, and I groaned all day long.

4 Day and night, Yahweh, you afflicted me.
My strength was sapped like it would be on a hot summer day. Selah

5 Then I confessed my sinful actions to you;
I stopped trying to hide them.
I said to myself,
"I will tell Yahweh the wrong things that I have done."
When I confessed them, you forgave me, so now I am no longer guilty for the sinful things I did. Selah

6 Therefore all the people who are godly should pray to you when they realize they have sinned.
If they do that, then it is certain that difficulties will not overwhelm them like a great flood.

7 You are like a place where I can hide from my enemies;
you protect me from troubles and surround me with people who are joyfully praising you for saving me from my enemies. Selah

8 I will teach you about how you should conduct your life.
I will teach you personally.

9 Do not be like horses and mules that do not have understanding;
they need pieces of metal put in their mouth and ropes fastened to their head so they will go in the direction you want them to go.

10 Wicked people will have many difficult things in their lives that will make them sad, but those who trust in Yahweh will experience him faithfully loving them all the time.

11 So, all you righteous people, rejoice about what Yahweh has done for you!
All you whose inner beings are pure, be glad and shout joyfully!

1 You people who do what is right, shout joyfully because of Yahweh, because praising him is what upright people should do.

2 Praise Yahweh by playing songs on the harp.
Praise him as you make music for him with instruments that have many strings.

3 Sing a new song to him;
play those instruments well, and shout joyfully as you play them!
4 Do this because everything that Yahweh says is true, and we can trust that everything that he does is right.
5 He loves everything that people do that is right and just.
Yahweh faithfully loves people all over the earth.
6 Yahweh created everything in the sky by commanding it.
He created all of the stars by speaking.
7 He gathered all the water of the sea into one huge mass as though scooping it into a container.
8 Everyone on the earth should deeply revere Yahweh.
9 They should revere him because he is the one who spoke, making the world exist.
Everything started to exist because he is the one who commanded it.
10 Yahweh stops the nations from doing what they plan to do.
He prevents the peoples from carrying out what they decide.
11 However, what Yahweh decides to do will last forever.
What he plans to do will never change.
12 What a good life people have when Yahweh is the God of their nation;
he chose those people to belong to him.
13 Yahweh looks down from heaven; he sees all human beings.
14 From the place where he lives he watches everyone who lives on the earth.
15 He created each person's heart, and he knows everything that they do.
16 It is not because a king has a great army that he is able to win battles, and it is not because a soldier is very strong that he is able to defeat his enemy.
17 It is foolish to hope that a horse can save anyone;
even with its great strength, it cannot rescue its rider.
18 Note this: Yahweh watches over those who deeply revere him;

He watches over those who confidently expect him to faithfully love them,

19 to save them from dying and to preserve them alive through any famine.

20 We trust that Yahweh will take care of us;

he will help us and protect us.

21 Indeed, he makes us very joyful;

we trust him because he is holy.

22 Yahweh, we pray that you will always faithfully love us, while we confidently wait for you to help us.

David wrote this psalm about when he pretended to be insane in front of King Abimelech so that the king would send him away.

1 I will always thank Yahweh;

I will constantly praise him out loud.

2 I will boast about what Yahweh has done for me.

All of the humble people who hear me will rejoice.

3 Join with me in telling others that Yahweh is great, and let us together proclaim how glorious he is!

4 I prayed to Yahweh, and he answered me;

he rescued me from everything that I was afraid of.

5 Those who ask him to help them will be joyful;

may Yahweh always provide for them.

6 I was suffering, but I called out to Yahweh, and he heard me.

He saved me from all of the things that were troubling me.

7 An angel representing Yahweh guards people who deeply revere Yahweh, and the angel rescues them from bad things.

8 Experience for yourselves how good Yahweh is!

Everyone who trusts in Yahweh will be truly happy!

9 All you people who belong to Yahweh, deeply revere him, because those who deeply revere him will always have everything that they need.

10 Even young lions sometimes go hungry and have nothing to eat, but people who trust in Yahweh for help will always have the good things that they need.
11 You who are my students, come and listen to me, and I will teach you how to deeply revere Yahweh.
12 If any of you want to truly live and to enjoy a good, long life, 13 then be careful to not say things that are harmful, and to not tell lies.
14 Stop doing what is evil and instead do what is good;
always strive to live peacefully with others.
15 Yahweh pays attention to people who do what is right, and he listens when they call to him to help them.
16 But Yahweh opposes people who do what is evil.
He does not allow their descendants to remain on the earth.
17 People who do what is right cry out to Yahweh, and he hears them;
he rescues them from all the things that trouble them.
18 Yahweh is always ready to help people who are very sad, and he saves people who are deeply discouraged.
19 People who do what is right experience many bad things, but Yahweh rescues them from all of those bad things.
20 Yahweh protects their whole body;
he does not allow their enemies to break even one of their bones.
21 Wicked people will cause themselves to die because of the evil things that they do, and Yahweh will punish those who hate righteous people.
22 Yahweh saves those who serve him, and he will forgive all who trust in him.

1 A psalm of David.

Yahweh, be the enemy of my enemies!

Defend me against those who attack me!

2 Protect me like a soldier who has both of his shields, and come to help me!

3 Take your spear and javelin and confront those who are pursuing me!
Tell me, “I am the one who saves you.”

4 Please defeat and dishonor those who want to kill me, and make those who plan to harm me become confused and turn back.

5 May an angel from Yahweh chase them away so that they disappear like chaff in the wind.

6 May their lives be like running on a path that is dark and slippery, while an angel from Yahweh pursues them!

7 Please do these things to them, because I have not done anything wrong to them, yet they try to kill me.
It is as though they hide nets and dig pits for me to walk into!

8 So let disaster suddenly surprise each of them!
Let it be as though the nets that they hid catch them instead,
and as though they fall into their own pits and die!

9 Then I will rejoice because of what Yahweh has done for me, and I will be glad because he has saved me.

10 With my whole being I will say, “Yahweh, no one is like you!
No one else rescues weak people from those who are stronger, no one else rescues poor and needy people from those who rob them.”

11 Hostile people tell lies about me in court and accuse me of things that I know nothing about.

12 I was good to them. But instead of being good to me, they are evil to me.
That makes me feel completely alone.

13 Yet for my part, when they were sick, I put on rough cloth to mourn for them;
I went without food as I prayed for them, bowing my head over my chest.

14 I walked around grieving for them as I would grieve for a friend or for a brother, and I bowed down mourning for them as though for my own mother.

15 But when I suffered, they all gathered together and celebrated.
People whom I did not even know gathered to attack me.
They kept slandering me and would not stop.
16 Profane people mocked me for being lame and ground their teeth at me to show how angry they were.
17 Lord, please do more than just watch what they do!
Rescue me from these people who want to destroy me!
Save me from these people who are as fierce as young lions!
18 Then I will thank you when the great crowd of your people gather together, and I will praise you in front of all of them.
19 Do not let my enemies who lie about me celebrate because they defeated me, and do not let those who hate me for no reason wink at each other to show how pleased they are about it.
20 Do not let them succeed, because they do not speak peacefully to anyone;
instead, they make up lies about quiet, peaceable people in the land.
21 They shout loudly to accuse me, saying, "Yes! Yes! We saw what you did!"
22 Yahweh, you have seen all of this, so please do something about it!
Lord, please help me!
23 Become active and do the right thing for me;
my God and my Lord, defend me!
24 Yahweh my God, because you are righteous, declare that I am innocent, and do not let my enemies celebrate that they have defeated me.
25 Do not let them think to themselves, "Yes! We got what we wanted!"
Do not let them say to each other, "We have completely destroyed him!"
26 Instead, make all those who celebrate when bad things happen to me feel totally ashamed and disgraced.
Yes, completely humiliate those who boast that they are greater than me.
27 But let those who want God to show that I am innocent shout for joy and celebrate!

Let them always say, “Yahweh is great!

He loves to make things go well for the one who serves him.”

28 Then I will tell everyone how righteous you are,

and I will praise you all day long.

Note for the worship leader: David, a man who served Yahweh faithfully, wrote this psalm.

1 Wicked people act as though they are obeying a voice from deep within themselves that is urging them to sin.

They have no respect for God at all.

2 Indeed, they are so proud that they refuse to recognize how wrongly they act

so that they might hate doing those things.

3 Everything that they say is wicked and deceptive;

they have stopped acting wisely and stopped doing what is right.

4 They plan sinful activities while lying on their beds;

they commit themselves to a bad way of living;

they do not refuse to do evil things.

5 Yahweh, the amount that you faithfully love us is so much that it is as though it fills the heavens.

If we could measure how trustworthy you are, the amount would extend into the clouds.

6 Your way of doing what is right is as permanent as the highest mountains; your way of acting justly is as vast and mysterious as the deepest oceans.

Yahweh, you take care of all living creatures, both people and animals.

7 God, how precious it is that you faithfully love us!

You protect people just as a bird shelters its young under its wings.

8 You provide for them plenty of food from the abundant supply that you have;

you satisfy them with good things that they enjoy, as if from a never-ending stream.

9 Indeed, you are the one who causes everything to live;
you are the one who makes it possible for us to understand what is true.

10 Please continue to faithfully love those who know you, and continue to do right for those who sincerely want to do what is right.
11 Do not let arrogant people overcome me, and do not let wicked people force me to flee.
12 See how the people who do evil have fallen!
God has thrown them down, and they can never get up again.

37

1 This is a psalm of David.

Do not let what wicked people do upset you; do not wish that you had what people who do evil things have.
2 Do not worry about them because they will soon disappear, just as grass dries up in the sun and green plants quickly wither and die.

3 Trust in Yahweh and do what is right;
live in the land that he has given you,
and be faithful to him.
4 Also, enjoy Yahweh more than anything else;
then he will give you what you desire most.

5 Entrust everything that you plan to do to Yahweh;
trust in him,
and then, for his part, he will do whatever you need him to do.
6 He will show everyone as clearly as the light of the noonday sun that you do what is right and that you are innocent of doing anything wrong.

7 Be calm before Yahweh and wait patiently for him to act.
Do not become upset when you see evil people succeed as they do the wicked things that they have planned.

8 Stop being angry about what wicked people do;
do not want to punish them yourself; that only leads to doing evil.
9 Do not do that because Yahweh will destroy people who do evil, but as for the people who trust Yahweh to act, they will possess the land.

10 Soon wicked people will disappear.
You will look for them where they used to be, but they will be gone.
11 Humble people, however, will possess the land and will enjoy living there very peacefully and well.

12 Wicked people plan to harm people who do what is right.
They grind their teeth at people who do what is right to show how much they hate them.
13 But the Lord scoffs at wicked people, because he knows that the time when he will judge them is coming.

14 Wicked people draw their swords and string their bows to kill people who are poor and helpless and to slaughter people who live honestly.
15 But their swords will pierce their own hearts, and the Lord will break their bows.

16 It is better to be a person who does what is right and to have only a few possessions than to have the abundant wealth of many wicked people.
17 This is so because Yahweh will make wicked people unable to do what they want to do, but he will take care of people who do what is right.

18 Each day Yahweh watches over people who do not do wrong things, and what he gives them will last forever.
19 During times when bad things happen they will not despair;
even when there is a famine, they will still have enough to eat.

20 But wicked people will die.

Those who hate Yahweh will be like wildflowers that look beautiful in the meadows;

but then they will disappear as quickly as a puff of smoke.

21 Wicked people borrow money and never repay it, but people who do what is right are generous and give freely to others.

22 Moreover, those whom Yahweh blesses will possess the land, but he will destroy those whom he has cursed.

23 Yahweh directs a person to live securely, and he is pleased with how that person lives.

24 Even if something bad happens to that person, he will not completely fail, because Yahweh takes care of him.

25 I have been young, and now I am old, but in all those years I have never seen Yahweh stop caring for any person who does what is right, nor have I seen such a person's children needing to beg for food.

26 People who do what is right are generous and lend freely to others every day, and their children bless others.

27 Avoid doing evil and do what is right.

If you do that, you and your descendants will live in the land forever.

28 Indeed, Yahweh loves it when people do what is just,

and he will never stop caring for those who are faithful to him.

He will protect them forever,

but he will destroy the descendants of wicked people.

29 People who do what is right will possess the land that Yahweh gives them and will live there forever.

30 People who do what is right speak wisely, and they say what is just.

31 They continually think about the instructions that their God gave to them;

they succeed in living the way that God wants them to live.

32 Wicked people observe people who do what is right and look for ways to kill them.
33 But Yahweh will keep protecting them from what the wicked people want to do to them, and he will not let a judge wrongly condemn the people who do what is right.

34 Patiently rely on Yahweh to help you and obey what he commands.
If you do that, he will honor you by giving you the land.
When God destroys the wicked people, you will see it happen.
35 I once saw a wicked and tyrannical person who was becoming powerful, like a large tree that was spreading out its branches over its native soil.
36 But then he passed away! Suddenly, he was gone!
I looked for him, but he was not there.

37 Observe and imitate people who are honest and who live rightly, because people who live peacefully will have a long life.
38 But Yahweh will destroy all people who rebel against him;
he will make the lives of wicked people short.

39 Yahweh saves people who do what is right;
he protects them when bad things are happening.
40 Yahweh helps them and rescues them from what wicked people want to do to them.
He saves them because they have trusted in him to help them.

1 This is a psalm of David, to ask God to remember him. Yahweh, please do not correct me angrily;
no, please do not punish me wrathfully.
2 I feel as though you have shot arrows into me,
and that you have struck me with your hand.
3 Because you are so angry with me,

my whole body suffers.
My body is restless
because I have sinned.

4 Indeed, all my sins are like flood waters that rise above my head;
they are like a heavy load that is too much for me to bear.
5 Because I have acted foolishly,
I have sores that keep getting worse and stink.
6 My body is twisted and bent over very low.
I go around sad and grieving constantly.
7 This is because there is a fever inside me, and my whole body is sick.

8 I am exhausted and feel completely broken.
I moan loudly because I feel so distressed.

9 Lord, you know everything that I long for,
and you hear every time that I sigh.
10 My heart beats rapidly and I am very weak.
Even my eyesight is failing me.
11 My friends and the people I love keep away from me because of my disease; even my own family stays far away from me.
12 Those who want to kill me set traps for me, and those who want to harm me talk about how to destroy me and they constantly plot how they will deceive me.
13 But I act like someone who is deaf, and I do not listen to them.
I act like someone who cannot speak, and I say nothing to them.
14 I have become like a man who cannot hear and who cannot argue back.
15 This is because I wait for you, Yahweh, to help me.
You will be the one who will respond, Lord my God.
16 I know this because I prayed,

"Do not let my enemies celebrate over me. Do not let them gloat over me if something bad happens to me."

17 Indeed, I feel that something bad will soon happen, and I am constantly in pain.
18 Certainly, I confess all the wrong things that I have done;
I feel terrible about my sin.
19 But my vigorous enemies are powerful, and there are many people who hate me for no reason.
20 When I do good things for people, some of them do evil things to me in return.
Those people accuse me of doing evil things, even though I am trying to do what is right.

21 Yahweh, please do not leave me!
My God, please stay near me!
22 Come quickly to help me,
Lord, you who save me!

39

This is a note to the worship leader: David wrote this song. Perform in the style of Jeduthun.

1 I thought to myself, "I must be very careful about how I act so that I do not sin by what I say.
I must keep myself from speaking while wicked people are near me."
2 So I kept completely silent; I did not say anything, not even anything good, but my suffering only became worse.
3 I felt very agitated inside me;
the more I pondered, the more agonized I became.
Then finally I spoke and said,

4 "Yahweh, let me know when I will die.
Tell me how many days I have left to live.
Help me to understand how short my life really is.

5 Indeed, you have made my days very few;
the time that I have to live is practically nothing to you.
Truly, every person appears and disappears as quickly as vapor. Selah

6 Truly, each person does not do anything more substantial than a shadow would do.
Truly, people become agitated about things that do not matter.
They pile up wealth, but they do not know who will get it after they die.

7 So now, Lord, I realize that it is useless for me to expect any person to make my life purposeful.
You are the only one who can do anything worthwhile for me.

8 Please save me from all the ways that I sin against you.
Do not let me be someone whom foolish people ridicule.

9 I kept silent and did not say anything, because I knew that you were the one who caused me to suffer.

10 But now, please stop punishing me!
As for me, because you have afflicted me, I am about to die.

11 When you correct a person for the wrong things that he has done, you destroy what he treasures, just as moths destroy clothing.
Truly, every person lives only a very short time. Selah

12 Yahweh, please hear me as I pray to you and listen to me when I cry out for help.
Do not ignore my tears,
because I am only living before you on the earth for a short time, a temporary resident, just like all of my ancestors.

13 Please leave me alone in order that I may be happy for awhile before I die."

40

A note for the worship leader: David wrote this psalm.

1 I patiently waited for Yahweh to help me, and he was attentive to me and listened when I called out to him.

2 When bad things were happening to me, it was as though I was in a dangerous pit that was full of mud and slime but he rescued me from those terrible things as though he had lifted me out of the pit and set me onto a solid rock where I could stand securely.
3 He gave me reason to sing a new song, praising him, our God.
Many people will see what he did for me and will revere him and will trust in Yahweh.
4 What a good life the person has who trusts confidently in Yahweh and does not imitate proud people who are loyal to what is false.
5 Yahweh my God, you are the one who has done many wonderful things and made great plans for us!
No one compares to you.
If I tried to tell others about all of those wonderful things, there would be too many for me to mention.

6 It is not the sacrifices and offerings that you have wanted from me;
instead, you gave me the ability to hear and obey you.
Burnt offerings and sin offerings are not what you require to forgive my sins.
7 So I said, “Yahweh, here I am, ready to do the things that the scroll of your instruction says about me.”
8 My God, I gladly do what you desire;
I deeply treasure your instruction.

9 Whenever your people gather together in the large congregation,
I tell them about the righteous things that you do.

Indeed, Yahweh, certainly you know that I do not stop talking about this.

10 I have not kept to myself the good news that you are righteous;

I have told the large gathering of your people that you are faithful and that you save us.

I have not hidden from them that you faithfully love us and are always trustworthy.

11 Yahweh, you will not stop being merciful to me.

Because you faithfully love me and are always trustworthy,

I know that you will continually protect me.

12 I assure myself of this because so many bad things are happening to me that it seems that I cannot even count them.

the wrong things that I have done are now affecting me badly, and I cannot see a way to fix them.

It seems that they are more numerous than the hairs on my head, and I am very discouraged.

13 Yahweh, please rescue me!

Yahweh, please come quickly to help me!

14 May God completely disgrace all of the people who want to kill me.

May God frustrate the people who want me to suffer and may he humiliate them.

15 May those who mock me, saying, “Ha, Ha!”

feel horrified because God has so humiliated them.

16 May all those who come to worship you be very joyful because of you.

May those who love that you save them say continually,

“Yahweh is great!”

17 As for me, I am very poor, but the Lord cares about me.

You are the one who rescues me;

my God, please do not wait any longer!

41

Note for the worship leader: David wrote this psalm.

1 What a good life those people have who help powerless people!
When bad things happen to them, Yahweh will rescue them.
2 Yahweh will protect them and people will see that things turn our well for them as they live in the land.
Yahweh, please do not let their enemies do what they want with them.
3 Yahweh will strengthen them when they are sick;
Yahweh, you completely restore them whenever they become ill.
4 As for me, I said, "Yahweh, please be merciful to me and heal me.
I am sick because I have sinned against you."
5 My enemies say hateful things about me;
they say, "We want him to die so that everyone will forget him!"
6 Whenever one of them comes to visit me, he says things that mean nothing.
He secretly collects harmful information, then he goes outside and tells it to everyone.
7 Everyone who hates me whispers about me to one another;
they plot how to harm me.
8 They say about me, "Something terrible has happened to him, and he will never get up from where he is lying."
9 Even my closest friend, the one I trusted, who shared meals with me,
has greatly betrayed me.
10 However, Yahweh, please be merciful to me and make me well, so that I can do to them what they did to me.
11 When you do this, I will know that you are pleased with me, when my enemies will not be able to defeat me and so cannot rejoice about it.
12 As for me, you have helped me because I live honestly, and you will allow me to be with you forever.

13 We should all praise Yahweh, the God whom the people of Israel worship!
People should praise him at all times, now and forever!
Yes, let it be so!

Book Two

42

This is a note for the worship leader: One of the Korahites wrote this song.

1 When a wild deer is very thirsty, it takes short, quick breaths because it wants so badly to find a brook from which it can drink water.
That is how much I want you, God.
It is as if I am taking short, quick breaths.

2 You are the only true God, and I desire very greatly to be in your temple again and worship in your presence.
I desire that so much that it is as if I am very thirsty.

3 I have been crying continually.
I have been crying so much that I have not been able to eat.
This is because my enemies keep telling me,
"Your God will certainly not help you!"

4 It is appropriate for me to weep to express my great sorrow.
But to encourage myself, I should also remember how I used to go with large groups of people to celebrate festivals at God's temple.
Because I was one of the worship musicians,
I would lead the people as they walked to the temple.
On the way there,
we all shouted joyfully and praised God.

5 So I certainly should not be so sad and upset!

I can confidently expect God to rescue me!
When he does, I will have the opportunity to praise him as my savior and 6 my God. But I do feel very sad.
So even though I am a long distance from your temple, God
I will remember you from here at Mount Mizar in the land near Mount Hermon where the Jordan River begins.
7 The waterfalls you created make such a loud sound that it is as if one deep stream were shouting to another deep stream within the river.
I feel such anguish that it is as if one wave after another were crashing over me.
8 Yahweh continually loves me faithfully as he promised.
In response, as he inspires me, I continually sing prayers to him.
He is the God who keeps me alive.
9 God is like a huge rock on top of which I am safe.
So I will pray to him,
"Please pay attention to me!
I am living sorrowfully because my enemies are afflicting me!"
10 Those enemies are continually insulting me.
They keep telling me, "Your God will certainly not help you!"
When they insult me like that, it is as painful as if they were breaking my bones.
11 But I certainly should not be so sad and upset!
I can confidently expect God to rescue me!
When he does, I will have the opportunity to praise him as my savior and my God.

1 Please protect me, God, from the people who are being so cruel to me.
Please consider that I do not deserve that.

2 Rescue me from people who would deceive me and treat me unfairly. I ask you to do this because you are the God who protects me, and yet I feel as if you have abandoned me!

3 I am living sorrowfully because my enemies are afflicting me. Treat me favorably, as if you were smiling at me.
Help me, as you have promised to do for those who are loyal to you.
Guide me so that I can return to your temple on Mount Zion.

4 When I do come to Zion, I will go to your altar to worship you.
O God, you make me very joyful! At your altar, I will sing praise to you, the God whom I worship, as I play the harp.

5 So I certainly should not be so sad and upset!
I can confidently expect God to rescue me!
When he does, I will have the opportunity to praise him as my savior and my God.

This is a note for the worship leader: One of the Korahites wrote this song.

1 God, we listened carefully when our ancestors told us about the great things you did long ago when the Israelites first came into the land of Canaan.

2 They told us about how powerfully you forced the other nations to leave and established our ancestors securely in their land.
It was as if they had been plants that you put firmly in the ground.
You destroyed the people groups that had lived there and enabled our ancestors to settle there.

3 Our ancestors did not conquer this land with their own weapons or by their own power.
Instead, you helped them and defeated their enemies by your own great power.
You did that because you loved them.

4 You are our real king, O God.

Please enable the people of Israel to defeat their enemies.

5 You enable us to defeat our enemies.

Because you help us, we destroy armies that fight against us.

6 We do not expect to win victories because of the weapons we have.

7 Instead, you rescue us from our enemies.

You disgrace our opponents by defeating them.

8 We regularly celebrate what God has done for us.

We will always praise him. Selah

9 But now it appears that you no longer want to help us.

This has embarrassed us.

When our armies march out to fight a battle,

you no longer enable them to win victories.

10 You make us retreat from our enemies.

We must leave behind weapons and possessions, and they take as many of those as they want.

11 You have allowed our enemies to slaughter us as if we were sheep.

Foreign armies have captured many of our people and taken them back to their countries as slaves.

12 You did not even receive any money for allowing others to take your people as their slaves.

You did not become any richer as a result of that.

13 Because you no longer help us,

the people groups around us insult us.

They express contempt for us and laugh at us.

14 People in other nations are using us Israelites as an example of an unfortunate people group.

They are shaking their heads at us to ridicule us.

15 I am constantly aware of my disgrace.
I feel complete shame
16 because people are speaking so harshly to me.
Those people are my enemies, and they want to harm me.
17 These things have happened to us even though we have not stopped worshiping you and we have not disobeyed the solemn agreement that you made with our ancestors.
18 We still love you as our God, and we have continued to do what you have commanded us to do.
19 But you have allowed our enemies to ruin our land and leave it desolate.
You have left us feeling as though we are going to die.
20 If we had stopped worshiping you as our God and had started worshiping a foreign god, 21 you would surely have known that.
That is because you know even what people secretly think.
22 Because you are not helping us, our enemies are continuing to kill our people.
They believe they can kill us as easily as if we were sheep, which people slaughter easily.
23 Protect us! Do not fail to act, Lord, as if you were asleep!
Defend us! Do not keep treating us as if we were not your people!
24 Please be favorable to us and help us!
Consider how badly our enemies are harming us and how greatly we are suffering!
25 We ask you to do this because we are helpless, as if we had fallen down and were lying on the ground and could not get up.
26 You have promised to love us faithfully because we belong to you.
So please do something to rescue us from our enemies!

45

This is a note for the worship leader: One of the Korahites wrote this song. It is a love song. The tune is "Lilies."

1 There is something wonderful that I feel so strongly about that I must sing about it.

I will sing a song that I have composed in honor of the king.

As I sing, I will express my ideas in an orderly and complete way, just like a scribe who records quickly and accurately what he hears people say.

2 O King, you are the most handsome man in the world!

You speak very graciously!

So we know that God has always blessed you.

3 Prepare yourself to keep fighting powerfully for justice!

You are glorious and majestic when you do that.

4 Go and win victories to establish yourself as a king who is honest, who does not proudly oppress his people, and who does what is right.

As you do that, may you find that your skill as a warrior terrifies anyone who would resist you.

5 Your sharp arrows pierce into the hearts of your enemies.

You defeat the people groups that fight against you.

6 Your Majesty, you will be the king for a very long time.

You decide people's cases fairly as you rule your kingdom.

7 You love it when people do what is right, and you hate it when people do what is wrong.

That is why God, whom you worship, has made you so happy.

You are happier than all the people around you.

8 Your royal robes smell beautifully of the spices myrrh, aloes, and cassia.

From within your palace, which has ivory decorations, you hear people playing stringed instruments.

That music makes you happy.

9 The honored women of your court include foreign princesses.

Your bride, the queen, is standing at your right side.
Threads of gold fine gold from Ophir decorate her robe.
10 And as for you, dear bride, please listen carefully to my advice.
From now on, regard this as your country and these people as your family.
11 If you do that, the king will love and appreciate you even more.
Bow down in front of him to honor him as your husband and king.
12 Representatives of foreign kingdoms such as the wealthy kingdom of Tyre will bring gifts to you.
The wealthy people of this kingdom will ask you to treat them favorably.
13 This royal princess looked so beautiful in her private room where she had dressed for the wedding!
She had put on a robe that gold threads richly decorated.
14 As she came in procession to where you are, O king, people could see that her robe also had beautiful designs of colored thread.
Other young women, her bridesmaids, followed her in that procession.
15 As they came in procession into your palace, this made everyone very happy.
16 You will be famous not because of your ancestors but because of your descendants.
They will have influence and authority all over the world.
17 By this song, I want to make the people of future generations remember what a great king you are.
Then people will always say good things about you.

This is a note for the worship leader: One of the Korahites wrote this song. The tune is "Maidens."

1 God keeps us safe, as if he were a secure place where we could go if we were in danger.

God strengthens us.

He is always present to help us when we have troubles.

2 So we would not be afraid even if there were an earthquake that caused huge chunks of mountains to fall deep into the sea.

3 We would not be afraid even if there were a great storm in the ocean whose surging waves battered the coastline. Selah

4 A stream flows down from the mountains into Jerusalem.

Its cool waters refresh the people who live there.

Jerusalem is the location of God's holy temple.

He is greater than all other spirit beings.

5 God is present in Jerusalem in a special way, so no one destroys it.

God rescues the people of that city, and it is as if a dark night ends and a bright new day begins.

6 Sometimes foreign armies invade kingdoms and conquer them.

But that does not happen to us, because God powerfully defends us and defeats our enemies.

7 Yahweh, the commander of the heavenly armies, helps us.

The God whom we Israelites worship keeps us safe. Selah

8 Let me tell you what Yahweh does.

He destroys our enemies.

9 He stops wars all over the world.

It is as if he breaks bows and arrows, destroys spears, and burns up war wagons.

10 God says, "Calm down and remember that I am God.

The people of nations throughout the earth will honor me."

11 Yahweh, the commander of the heavenly armies, helps us.

The God whom we Israelites worship keeps us safe. Selah

47

This is a note for the worship leader: One of the Korahites wrote this psalm.

1 People all over the world, clap your hands!
Shout joyfully to praise God!
2 Everyone should revere Yahweh, who is much greater than any other spirit being.
He rules powerfully over the whole world!
3 He enables us to conquer people groups that oppose us.
4 He loved our ancestor Jacob, and so he chose this land to be our possession.
We are proud of the land he gave us. Selah
5 People have acclaimed Yahweh their God as their king by shouting and blowing ram's horns.
6 Sing songs to praise God our King!
Yes, sing songs to praise him!
7 Do that because God rules the whole world.
Sing a special song about that.
8 God rules over all people groups.
He rules them completely fairly, not the way many human kings do.
9 The rulers of the people groups will assemble to join those who worship the same God whom Abraham worshiped.
They will do that because the leaders of the world must obey God.
He is the supreme ruler of the world.

One of the Korahites wrote this psalm.

1 Yahweh is great, and he deserves to have people praise him greatly in Jerusalem, the city that belongs to him.
That city is high up on the mountain that he chose as the place where people would worship him.
2 The height of Mount Zion is magnificent.
People from all over the world are happy when they see it.
The city of Jerusalem, where Yahweh rules as the great king, is on the northern ridge of that mountain.

3 God is present as a defender in the city's fortifications.
He has shown that he protects the people of the city.

4 Listen to why Yahweh deserves our praise.
Kings joined together and led their armies to attack our city.

5 However, when they saw it, its secure position and defenses amazed them.
They became so frightened that they ran away.

6 Their bodies shook because they were so afraid.
They screamed as if they were women who were giving birth.

7 Just as you, Yahweh, can sent a strong east wind that wrecks even the sturdiest ships at sea, so you destroyed the armies that were attacking us.

8 Jerusalem belongs to Yahweh,
the commander of the heavenly armies, who is our God.
We had heard from our ancestors that God would always keep the city secure.
Now we who live in the city have seen for ourselves that this is true. Selah

9 We went into your temple, God, and recognized that you faithfully kept your covenant when you protected us.
We acknowledged that you had been just as faithful to us as you were to our ancestors.

10 People throughout the world praise you as you deserve.
You use your power to make sure that people treat each other right.

11 The people who live in Jerusalem and in other parts of the kingdom of Judah should celebrate the way you judge people fairly.

12 You Judeans should walk around the walls of the city of Jerusalem.
See how many defensive towers it has!

13 You should observe the strength of the walls and the fortifications so that you can tell your descendants about them.

14 The people of Judah and Jerusalem should praise Yahweh because he is our God and he will always be our God.
He will lead us for as long as we live.

49

This is a note for the worship leader: One of the Korahites wrote this psalm.

1 Listen to me, members of people groups from throughout the world, 2 whether or not you are famous and whether or not you are rich!
3 I have thought carefully about what I am going to say, so it will be wise, and it will help you understand things better.
4 There is a popular saying about something that people find difficult to understand.
I have considered it, and I will explain it as I sing and play my harp.
5 I do not have to be afraid during difficult times when wicked people around me try to harm me.
6 These wicked people believe that they will be able to use their money to overcome any difficulty.
They boast about how rich they are.
7 No one can use his money to keep a person from dying.
No, no one can pay God money so that another person will not die.
8 No matter how much money a person has,
it is never enough to keep someone else from dying 9 so that the person will live forever and never leave this world.
10 Whether people are wise or foolish and brutish, they all die.
Then other people inherit their money.
11 They imagine that the houses they live in will always exist.
They call their properties by their own names as if they would always have them.
12 Even if someone is great, he does not stay that way.

He still dies, just as animals do.

13 Those who think and act as if they will never die are living in a foolish manner.
Even so, some other people admire them and approve of what they say. Selah

14 God has determined that they will die, as easily as sheep die, and go to the place where dead people are.
They will remain there, as if death were a shepherd keeping them in a pen.
One day God will make righteous people rule over wicked people.
Wicked people will no longer live in comfortable homes.
Instead, their bodies will decay in their graves.

15 But God will take me to himself.
In that way, he will rescue me from the place where dead people are. Selah

16 Do not let it trouble you when a person becomes rich and has many valuable possessions.

17 After all, when that person dies, he will take nothing with him to the place where dead people are.
He will not be able to bring his money there with him.

18 While a rich person is alive, he says to himself that he is successful.
(People tend to praise anyone who is successful.)

19 Nevertheless, he will die and go to where his dead ancestors are.
All of them will remain in that dark place forever.

20 If someone is great but does not understand these things, he will die, just as animals do.

1 A Levite from the clan of Asaph wrote this song.

Yahweh is the only true God.
He has decreed that people from all over the world should come to him.

2 Mount Zion is as wonderful as a place can be because God's temple is there.
God's presence there is like a light that shines brightly.

3 Our God is approaching us to judge us.

He will now tell us what we have done right and what we have done wrong.

He is coming very powerfully, as he did at Mount Sinai, when there was a great thunderstorm and a burning fire on the mountain as he approached it.

4 He calls upon the sky and the land to serve as witnesses of his covenant with the Israelites.

This demonstrates that he will judge them fairly according to that covenant.

5 He says, "Summon those who worship me faithfully, those who made a covenant with me that involved offering sacrifices to me."

6 The sky displays the character of God so clearly, it is as though it is saying,
"God is righteous, and he is the supreme judge." Selah

7 God says, "You Israelite people who belong to me, listen as I speak to you.
I am the God whom you worship. I am going to tell you what you have done right and what you have done wrong.

8 You continually burn animals completely on the temple altar as sacrifices to me, so I have no complaint that you have failed to offer sacrifices to me.

9 However, I do not really need the bulls from your herds or the goats from your pens that you sacrifice to me.

10 I do not need them, because all of the animals that live in the forests belong to me.
All of the cattle everywhere on earth also belong to me.

11 I own all the birds that live in the mountains.
All the little creatures that move around in the fields also belong to me.

12 Because everything in the world belongs to me, if I were hungry, I would not tell you so that you would bring me some food to eat.

13 When you sacrifice bulls to me, I do not eat their flesh, and when you offer goats to me, I do not drink their blood.

14 I want you to offer sacrifices to me, your God, because you have promised to do that to thank me for helping you.

I am the God who is greater than all other spirit beings.
15 So pray to me when you are in trouble.
If you do that, I will rescue you, and then you will honor me publicly by offering a sacrifice."
16 But God says to wicked people,
"You should not be reciting my commandments or talking about the covenant that I made with you!
17 You should not do that, because you hate it when I correct you, and when I tell you to do something, you refuse to obey me.
18 When you see someone stealing, you decide that it is acceptable for him to steal.
When you learn that people are having sexual relations with people other than their spouses, you do the same thing.
19 You do not restrain yourselves from saying wicked things, and you make up things to say to deceive people.
20 You consistently say bad things about members of your own family, even about your closest relatives.
21 You do all those things, and I have not said anything to you about them, so you think that I do not care about them any more than you do.
But now I am going to show you all the wicked things you have done, and I am going to judge and punish you for doing them.
22 Many of you have been ignoring me.
Pay attention to what I am saying now!
If you do not, I will destroy you.
No one will be able to rescue you.
23 When people publicly offer sacrifices to thank me for helping them, that honors me greatly.
If people live as I want people to live,

I will rescue them when they are in trouble.”

51

This is a note for the worship leader: King David wrote this song after the prophet Nathan came and rebuked him for having sexual relations with another man’s wife, Bathsheba.

1 Oh God, since you promised to faithfully love me, please act mercifully toward me.
You gently love people in many ways,
so please forgive me for disobeying you so badly.

2 Remove my sin completely, as if it were dirt that you were washing off me to make me clean.

3 I ask this because I know that I have disobeyed you in many ways.
I am continually aware of that.

4 What grieves me most is how I have sinned against you.
I have done things that you consider to be very wrong.
So when you declare that I am guilty, you are right.
When you judge me, you are completely fair.

5 Indeed, I have been a sinner from birth.
In fact, I have been a sinner since my mother conceived me.

6 I know that you want me to have honest intentions.
You help me understand very well how to act wisely.

7 Make me acceptable to you again, as if you were using hyssop to sprinkle water on me to purify me.
Remove my sin as if it were dirt that you were washing off me.
Then I will be completely pure, like snow that has just fallen.

8 Please tell me that you have forgiven me.
That would make me very happy.
My guilt feels like a heavy weight on me,
but may I rejoice in your forgiveness.

9 Please forgive all the wrong things I have done so that it will be as if I never did them.

10 O God, please make me want to do only things that please you.
Help me to be loyal to you consistently.
11 Please allow me to come into your presence.
Please do not make your Holy Spirit leave me.
12 Please save me from the guilt and punishment of my sin.
That will make me very happy again.
Please make me eager to obey you so that I do not sin again.
13 Please make me so obedient that I can even teach people who are doing wrong things how you want them to live instead.
That way people who have been disobeying you will start obeying you again.
14 God, I admit that I deserve to die because I murdered someone, but please rescue me from that punishment.
You can save me from the guilt and punishment of my sin because you are God.
When you do that, I will sing joyfully about how good you are.
15 Lord, please do these things so that I will have a reason to speak publicly and say things to praise you.
16 If you had wanted me to offer a sacrifice because of the sin I committed,
I would certainly have done that.
But you do not accept burnt offerings from people who bring them to try to make things right with you after committing murder.
17 What you really want is for people to pray to you in genuine humility and ask for forgiveness.
When a person is very sorrowful for his sin, you, God, do not reject him.
18 Please regard us Israelites favorably and help us.
Protect us from our enemies.
19 Then people will offer sacrifices to you for the right reasons.
They will bring animals that they will burn completely as offerings to you.

They will completely burn up young bulls on your altar.

You will gladly accept these sacrifices.

52

This is a note for the worship leader: David wrote this song when Doeg the Edomite went to King Saul and told him, "David went to Ahimelech's house."

1 Doeg, you are boasting as if you were a great warrior because you killed so many people, but you are wrong to boast, because they were helpless.

God always protects me because he is kind to me.

2 You say things that you know will cause great harm to other people.

It is as if your tongue is a sharp knife slashing people.

People did something innocently, but you reported it in such a way that they seemed to be guilty.

3 You like to do what is wrong more than you like to do what is right.

You like to tell lies more than you like to tell the truth. Selah

4 You like to say anything that will cause harm to people.

What you say causes innocent people to suffer.

5 But God will destroy you permanently, just as you have destroyed others.

You may feel safe in your home, but God will take you from there and remove you from this world in which people are alive. Selah

6 When good people see that, they will respect God for being just.

They will laugh at you.

7 They will say, "Look what happened to this man who did not trust God to protect him.

He thought that because he had a lot of money, he could avoid trouble.

He believed that harming other people would make him powerful."

8 But I am safe, just like the olive trees that the priests plant and care for in the courtyard of the place where we worship God.

I know that God will always be kind to me.

9 I am confident that you, God, are going to do what I have described, and I will always praise you for that.

You have demonstrated to the people who are faithful to you that you are good.

So I will wait patiently for you to act according to your good character.

This is a note for the worship leader: David wrote this song to the tune of "Weakness."

1 People who do not want to obey God tell themselves that God does not exist.

People like that are bad. They do terrible things.

Every one of them acts wickedly.

2 God looks down from heaven at the people on the earth.

He wants to find out whether any of them are wise and want to know him.

3 But they have all chosen to disobey God.

They have all become bad people.

Every single one of them acts wickedly.

4 They take away people's possessions until they have nothing left.

They do that as easily as they would eat a loaf of bread.

The people who do such bad things ought to realize that God is going to punish them.

But they do not worship God.

5 An army came and attacked the Israelites.

Its soldiers did not have to be afraid that the Israelites would defeat them.

But God made them lose in battle so badly that the survivors were not even able to bury the dead soldiers.

This made them very afraid.

God regarded this army as insignificant compared with his great power.

He helped the Israelites, and so they were able to humiliate those soldiers by defeating them.

6 I wish that God, whose sanctuary is on Mount Zion, would rescue the Israelite people!

When God makes his people prosperous again, the Israelites, those descendants of Jacob, will be very happy.

This is a note for the worship leader: Musicians playing stringed instruments should accompany this song. David wrote this song when the people of the region of Ziph went to Saul and told him that David was hiding in their area.

1 God, please use your power to save me from my enemies!

If you do that, people will realize that I have not done anything wrong.

2 God, please listen to what I say as I pray to you.

3 I am praying for your help because even my fellow Judeans are treacherously acting against me.

These are violent men, and they want to kill me.

They do not respect you. Selah

4 But God is helping me.

The Lord is helping the people who are protecting me so that I stay alive.

5 My enemies want to do harmful things to me, but God will cause those things to happen to them instead.

Because you faithfully do what you promise, destroy them so that they do not kill me!

6 I promise that when you rescue me, I will publicly offer a sacrifice to honor you.

I will praise you, Yahweh, for how good you are.

7 I will be able to do this because he rescues me from all my troubles and, as a result, I see that he has defeated my enemies.

This is a note for the worship leader: Musicians playing stringed instruments should accompany this song. David wrote this song.

1 God, please listen to me as I pray to you.

Please do not ignore me as I am pleading with you.

2 Please pay attention to me and do what I ask.

The things I am praying about are agitating me and making me moan in distress.

3 This is because my enemies are saying things to threaten me.

Wicked people are attacking me.

They are causing me to have great troubles.

Because they are so hostile to me, they never stop trying to harm me.

4 My heart is pounding inside me because I am so upset.

I strongly feel many fears because I know that my enemies are trying to kill me.

5 I am shaking because I am so afraid.

The only thing I feel is fear.

6 I have been thinking, "How good it would be if I had wings like a dove!

I would fly away and find a place to rest.

7 If I could, I would go far away and stay in a desolate area. Selah

8 I would quickly find a safe place where my enemies could not harm me in the way that a powerful storm causes damage."

9 Lord, please destroy my enemies!

Make them disagree about what to do so that they cannot make successful plans against me.

I ask this because I know that they are fighting with people in the city and hurting them.

10 The fighting is constant, and the people in the city cannot get away from it.

Bad people are causing much trouble right in the middle of the city.

11 These bad people harm others right in the middle of the city.

Dishonest people continually deceive and cheat others in the marketplace.

12 If it were an enemy who was saying bad things about me,

I could endure it.

If it were someone who hated me who was powerfully opposing me,

I could hide from him.

13 But the person who is doing those things to me is someone I treated not as a subject but as an equal.

I knew him well, and we were together often.

14 We used to talk together in a wonderful way.

We also used to go to the temple courtyard together to worship God with the other Israelites who gathered there.

15 My enemies are so wicked in their inner beings that it is as if wickedness lives in their homes and influences what they do.

So I hope that bad things happen to them that destroy them!

I wish that the earth would open up under them so that they would go down alive to the place where dead people are.

16 But I will ask Yahweh, my God, to help me, and he will rescue me.

17 I will continually pray to him, whether I can express my concerns in words or whether I am only able to moan as a plea to him.

He will answer my prayer by helping me.

18 My enemies are coming with many soldiers to fight against me, but God will keep me safe and save my life when we fight a battle.

19 My enemies have no difficulties in life,

so they do not respect God. Selah

But God, who has ruled forever, will answer my prayer and punish them as they deserve.

20 The man I knew well is attacking me even though I was his friend.

He should have remained loyal to me, but he has not.

21 What he said was as easy to believe as butter is easy to swallow, but secretly he hated me.

The words he spoke were as soothing as olive oil, but all along he intended to use words to hurt people as sharp swords do.

22 Depend on Yahweh to help you when you are in trouble, and he will take care of you.

He will never allow anyone to destroy people who are righteous.

23 God, you will cause people who deceive and kill others to die before they have lived half as long as most people do.

But as for me, I will trust you to protect me.

56

This is a note for the worship leader: David wrote this song when the Philistines made him their prisoner in the city of Gath. The tune is "A Faraway Silent Dove."

1 O God, men are attacking me, so please help me!

They keep fighting me and making me suffer.

2 Many proud enemies are fighting against me, so there is continually someone attacking me.

3 But whenever I am afraid,

I trust you to help me.

4 I praise you, God, because you have promised to take care of me.

I trust you to do that, so I am not afraid.

I know that mere humans will not be able to harm me!

5 My enemies are continually trying to interfere in my activities. They keep planning ways to harm me.

6 Together they secretly watch where I am going because they are looking for an opportunity to kill me.

7 They should not be able to avoid punishment for the wicked things they are doing.

O God, in your anger, please defeat all of our foreign enemies!

8 You have watched me carefully as I have wandered to this place.

Please stay close to me as I have sad experiences here.

I know that you have watched me closely as I have had these experiences.

9 When I cry to God for help, my enemies will stop attacking me.

I know that will happen because God favors me.

10 I praise you, Yahweh my God, because you have promised to take care of me.

11 I trust you to do that, so I am not afraid.

I know that mere humans will not be able to harm me!

12 God, I have vowed that I will thank you publicly when you help me, so I will offer a sacrifice to thank you.

13 I will be able to do that because you will have rescued me.

No one will have killed me.

Because you protect me, I will be able to live in your presence here in this world where people are alive.

This is a note for the worship leader: David wrote this song when he fled into a cave to escape from Saul. The tune is "Do Not Destroy."

1 O God, please help me!
I ask you to do that because I depend on you to protect me.
I pray that you will protect me just as a mother bird protects her chicks under her wings.
I ask you to do that until the troubles I am having are over.

2 I am crying for help to God, who is greater than all other spirit beings.
God will complete what he has begun to do for me.

3 May he act from where he is in heaven to rescue me.
Someone is trying to harm me; may God prevent him from doing that. Selah
God is kind and loyal to the people who trust him, so may he help me.

4 Men who are as dangerous as lions are all around me.
I have no safe place to sleep far away from those men who are trying to kill me.
They say things about me that make other people want to harm me.

5 May you have the most glory, God, of anyone in heaven or on earth!

6 My enemies are trying to capture me, as if they had set out a net to trap me.
This has distressed me greatly.
Yes, they are trying to capture me, as if they had dug a deep pit along the path where I walk, hoping that I would fall into it.
But I believe that God will use what they are doing against them, as if they had fallen into that pit themselves. Selah

7 God, I trust you completely.
So instead of worrying, I will sing praises to you.

8 I will do that enthusiastically.

I will begin the day by praising you as I play my harp and lyre.

9 I will sing songs to praise you, Lord, so that people of other nations can find out about you.

10 You deserve this praise because your kindness and loyalty are much greater than anything on earth, just as the clouds in the sky are much higher than anything on earth.

11 May you have the most glory, God, of anyone in heaven or on earth!

58

Here is a note to the worship leader: The tune is "Do Not Destroy." David wrote this song.

1 You judges should not think that you can ensure justice if you do not speak out to condemn wickedness.

You are not judging cases fairly, and that shows that you are acting only as humans, not as God's representatives.

2 In fact, you keep thinking about doing things that are wrong.

The decisions that you make encourage people to commit violent crimes.

3 Wicked people do wrong things and tell lies from the time when they are born.

4 Wicked people harm other people just as poisonous snakes harm people.

They do not pay attention to God's commandments, as if they were cobras that refused to listen

5 and so did not respond to the music that snake charmers were playing.

Even the most skillful charmer could not get them to respond to music.

6 Yahweh my God, wicked people are as dangerous as young lions, but destroy them as if you were breaking the large teeth of such lions.

7 Make them disappear like water that flows away.

When they try to harm people as if they were shooting arrows at them, keep them from hurting those people, as if those arrows had no heads!

8 May they be like a snail that dissolves as it moves along.

May they be like a baby that never lives on earth because it dies before its mother gives birth to it.

9 God will punish and destroy them as powerfully as if a whirlwind were carrying them away.
He will do that more quickly than thorns can catch fire and heat a pot, even if the thorns are dry, not fresh.
10 Righteous people will celebrate when they see God punish wicked people.
It will be as if wicked people were an army that God destroyed and righteous people were walking triumphantly through the battlefield afterwards.
11 Then people will say, "It is true that there is a reward for righteous people!
It is true that God judges fairly the people who live on the earth!"

59

This is a note for the worship leader: David wrote this song when Saul sent men to watch his house so that they could kill him when he left it. The tune is "Do Not Destroy."

1 My God, please rescue me from my enemies!
Protect me from those who want to attack me!
2 Rescue me from wicked men who are trying to kill me!
3 Look! They are hiding and waiting for a chance to kill me!
Fierce men have gathered to harm me.
Yahweh, they are doing that even though I have not done anything that is wrong!
4 I have not committed any sin, but they are hurrying to get ready to attack me.
Please consider my situation and come quickly to help me.
5 Yahweh, you are the God who commands the heavenly armies.
You are the God whom we Israelites worship.
So I ask you to take action and punish all the people who do not honor you.
Do not act mercifully toward those wicked people who have acted treacherously toward me. Selah
6 They are like wild dogs that come out in the cool of the evening and growl as they roam around this city looking for scraps of food.
7 They make violent threats so loudly that it is as if they are belching.

They think, “No one who hears us will stop us!”

8 But you mock them, Yahweh.

You scoff at people who do not honor you.

9 Because you, God, are the one who protects me and makes me strong,

I will depend on you.

10 You, God, are faithfully loving to me, and you will come to help me.

You will defeat my enemies so that I can look triumphantly at them.

11 But do not kill them right away.

Otherwise, the Israelite people might forget how you punished them.

Instead, use your power to make them wander around helplessly, and then destroy them.

Lord, you are like a shield that protects us.

12 The things that they say are sinful.

They curse people falsely.

May their pride be like a trap that catches them and keeps them from doing what they are planning.

13 Become angry with them and destroy them so that they do not exist anymore.

That way people will know that you, God, rule over the Israelite people and the entire world. Selah

14 They are like wild dogs that come out in the cool of the evening and growl as they roam around this city looking for scraps of food.

15 They roam around searching for food.

If they do not get enough to eat, they keep roaming around all night.

16 But as for me, I will sing each morning about how powerful you are.

I will sing joyfully about how faithfully loving you are to me.

I will sing about how you protect me when I am in danger.

17 I will praise you, who enables me to be strong, because you, God, protect me and faithfully love me as you promised.

60

This is a note for the worship leader: The tune is "The Lily." David wrote this song when he was leading the Israelite army to fight against Aramean armies from Naharaim and Zobah and his general Joab had to leave and fight the Edomites in the Valley of Salt, where he killed 12,000 of their soldiers. David wanted to testify to the Israelite people so that they would learn from this song that they should depend on God to help them.

1 God, you have stopped helping us Israelites!

Because you have become angry with us, our enemies have been able to break through our ranks.

Please enable us to fight victoriously again!

2 It is as if you have caused a great earthquake that has split open the ground.

Our army is struggling, but please make it strong again.

3 You have caused us Israelites to experience great difficulties.

It is as if you have made us drink strong wine that is making us fall down as if we were drunk.

4 But you have raised a battle flag for those who honor you.

They can rally around it when their enemies attack them. Selah

5 That way you will rescue the people whom you love.

Please answer my prayer and use your power to save us.

6 God is holy and does not lie, and he has said,

"I delight in the territory that I have measured and divided up for you Israelites to live in.

That territory includes land on the east side of the Jordan River, where the Valley of Succoth is,

and land on the west side of the Jordan River, where Shechem is.

7 I own the region of Gilead east of the Jordan River, and I own the territory of Manasseh west of the Jordan River.

The mighty soldiers of the tribe of Ephraim who fight to protect Israel are like my helmet, and I have given Israel a ruler from the tribe of Judah.

8 The Moabites are my servants, like slaves who wash my feet.

I own the land of Edom; it is as if I have thrown my sandal onto it to show that it belongs to me.

And you Philistines might shout your battle cry against me, but I will defeat you."

9 But I still need someone to lead my army to the land of Edom and conquer their capital city that has strong walls around it.

10 It seems that you, God, have stopped helping us Israelites.

It seems that you do not enable our armies to defeat our enemies when they march out to fight them.

11 Any help that human beings could give us would not be at all sufficient.

So we need you to help us to defeat our enemies.

12 If you, God, help us defeat our enemies, then we will be able to fight very valiantly.

This is a note for the worship leader: A musician playing a stringed instrument should accompany this song. David wrote this song.

1 O God, I am calling to you for help.

Please do what I ask.

2 I am far from home, and I feel sad, so I am calling out to you for help.

Please keep me safe, as if you had put me on top of a high rock.

3 You protect me.

You are like a strong tower into which I can go so that my enemies cannot harm me.

4 I wish I could always be a guest in your home!

Keep me as safe as a baby bird is under its mother's wings. Selah

5 God, you know that I have solemnly promised to offer sacrifices to acknowledge you, so please help me.

You have given me the blessings that belong to people who honor you.

6 Please allow me, the king of Israel, to live and rule for many years.

Please allow my descendants to rule also.

7 May I reign for a long time as you watch over me.

You are faithful, and you keep your promises, so please protect me.

8 If you do that, I will always sing songs to praise you, and each day I will offer the sacrifices that I promised to give you.

This is a note for the worship leader: Perform in the style of Jeduthun. David wrote this psalm.

1 God is the one who saves me from my enemies, and I am waiting quietly for him to do that.

2 He is the only one who can save me.
He protects me as if he were a rock I could climb onto in order to be safe.
No one would harm me at all.

3 My enemies are threatening me, but they will not be able to keep doing that.
God will destroy all of them, just as a leaning wall falls down and just as people can push a fence onto the ground.

4 My enemies are plotting together to do one thing.
They want to remove me from my important position.
They enjoy telling lies.
They say things to bless people, but in their inner beings, they are cursing those people. Selah

5 Because I am expecting God to help me,
I will wait quietly for him alone to do that.

6 He is the only one who can save me.
He protects me as if he were a rock I could climb onto in order to be safe.
No one would harm me.

7 God is the one who saves me and honors me.
God is like a huge rock to which I can go to be safe.
He makes me strong.

8 You Israelite people should always trust in God.
Pray earnestly to him in his presence.
He is the one who keeps us safe. Selah

9 Certainly, ordinary people lack the power to help, and important people are not as powerful as they seem.

If you put them all on a scale,
it would be as if they weighed less than air.

10 It is foolish to expect to get rich by cheating other people or by stealing from them.
If you become wealthy, do not rely on your money.

11 God has said very reliably that he is the one who truly has power.

12 God is also the one who always keeps his promises.
He punishes people who do wrong things but rewards people who do good things.

63

David wrote this song when he was in the desolate area that belongs to the tribe of Judah.

1 God, you are the God whom I worship.
I greatly desire to be with you.
It is as if my body aches for you, just as a person in a dry, hot wilderness greatly desires water.

2 I have worshiped you in your sanctuary and recognized how powerful and glorious you are.

3 You are always kind to me, as you promised in your covenant.
This is worth more to me than even being alive,
so I will always praise you.

4 I will praise you for as long as I am alive.
I will lift up my hands and pray to you.

5 You satisfy me as if I had just eaten a delicious banquet of rich foods.
I will praise you very joyfully.

6 Sometimes I think about you when I am lying in bed.
When that happens, I reflect during the night on how wonderful you are.

7 I realize that you are wonderful because you have always helped me.
I sing to you joyfully because I am aware that you protect me just as a mother bird protects her chicks under her wings.

8 I remain completely loyal to you, and you protect me by your power.
9 Some people are trying to kill me, but they will die and go to the place where dead people are.
10 They may die in a battle, and then wild dogs will eat their corpses.
11 But I, the king of Israel, will rejoice in what God has done for me.
All those who swear oaths in the name of God will praise him because he will have stopped people from saying things that are not true.

This is a note for the worship leader: David wrote this song.

1 God, please listen to me as I tell you about what worries me.
I am afraid of my enemies; please save me from them.
2 Protect me from what wicked men are planning to do to me.
Protect me from that group of men who do evil things.
3 The hostile things they say are like sharp swords;
their cruel words are like arrows.
4 They are not afraid of anyone.
They falsely accuse people who have done nothing wrong. They are like a person who suddenly jumps up from a hiding place and shoots an arrow at someone.
5 They encourage each other to do the evil things they are planning.
They boast about how they have deceived people.
They say, “No one will realize what we are doing!”
6 They carefully plan the wicked things they want to do.
They brag, “We have planned this out perfectly!”
It is very difficult to know what people are thinking privately.
7 But God will suddenly judge and punish them, as if he were shooting an arrow at them and wounding them.
8 The deceitful things they say will get them into trouble.
Everyone who sees what happens to them will stay away from them.

9 People will think about how God has punished them, and they will tell others about it.
As a result, people will not dare to be wicked.
10 People who do what is right will be very happy that Yahweh has punished those wicked people.
They will trust Yahweh to protect them.
Yes, those who really want to do good things will be glad.

65

This is a note for the worship leader: David wrote this song.

1 God, when you come to your sanctuary on Mount Zion, you will find that we have been waiting quietly to praise you and to do what we promised we would do to honor you.
2 Because you help people when they pray, people everywhere will pray to you.
3 When we feel very badly because we have done wrong things, you forgive our sins and make it as if we had not committed them.
4 When you invite people to come and worship you in your sanctuary, that makes them very happy!
When we come to your sanctuary, we realize how good and holy you are,
and that satisfies us completely.
5 When we pray to you, you do good and powerful things to help us.
You are the God who saves us.
Even people who live in very remote places on the earth, on the other side of the oceans, trust in you.
6 You are so strong, you were able to use your power to set the mountains in their places.
7 When there is a storm at sea, you can calm it and stop its waves from crashing on the shore.
In the same way, you can keep nations from causing trouble.
8 People who live in very remote places on the earth deeply respect you because of the miracles that you perform.

People who live all over the world celebrate what you do.

9 You send rain to make the soil fertile so that it will produce good crops.
It is as if you bring water to the fields in a stream.
That is how you prepare the earth to produce abundant crops.

10 You send rain on the plowed fields, and you fill their furrows with water.
You soften the hard clods of soil with showers, and you help young plants to grow in the fields.

11 When harvest time comes, the fields are glorious with crops, as if you had put a golden crown on them.
You provide food for people in great abundance.

12 There is plenty of food for sheep and goats to eat in the pastures where they graze.
So many crops grow on the hills that it is as if the hills were celebrating.

13 Flocks of sheep and goats cover the meadows like a garment, and there is so much grain in the valleys that the ground is not visible.
It is as if the meadows and valleys are singing and shouting joyfully.

66

1 This is a note for the worship leader: This is a song, a psalm.
Everyone on earth should shout joyfully to praise God!

2 They should sing songs that tell how glorious God is and how much he deserves praise for being glorious.

3 Everyone should tell God, "You do such amazing things!
You are so powerful that your enemies come and bow down fearfully in front of you.

4 Everyone on earth should worship you and sing to praise you for your excellent character." Selah

5 Come and consider what God has done!

Think about the amazing things that he has done among people.

6 He made a dry path through the Sea of Reeds so that our ancestors could walk right through it.

They also walked across the Jordan River when he stopped it from flowing.

After they crossed, they celebrated what God had done, and we should still celebrate that today.

7 He is so powerful that he rules forever.

He observes what all the people groups do, so anyone who considers rebelling against him should not think that he will be able to do that. Selah

8 People from every nation, praise our God!

Praise him loudly so that others will hear you as you praise him.

9 He has kept us alive,

and he has not allowed anyone to destroy us.

10 God, you have allowed us to experience great difficulties in order to make us pure, just as people put silver in a hot fire so they can purify it.

11 It is as if you allowed someone to catch us in a trap or made us carry a load that was almost too heavy for us.

12 It is as if you allowed our enemies to trample on us.

We experienced troubles that were like walking through fires and floods.

But now you have brought us to a place where we are safe and have plenty of food.

13 God, I have come to your temple bringing offerings for the priests to burn completely on the altar.

I am doing what I promised to do for you.

14 When I was experiencing great trouble,

I said that I would bring these offerings to you if you rescued me.

15 So I have brought fat sheep to burn on the altar, and I have also brought bulls and goats.

When they are burning, you will enjoy the smell of the smoke. Selah

16 All you people who deeply respect God, come and listen as I tell you what he has done for me.
17 I called out to him to help me, and I praised him as I was praying to him.
18 If I had secretly intended to commit sins, the Lord would not have done what I asked.
19 But I did not do that,
so God has done what I asked.
20 I praise God
because he did what I asked him to do.
He has continued to be kind to me, as he promised.

67

This is a note for the worship leader: This is a song, a psalm. Musicians playing stringed instruments should accompany this song.

1 May God always be kind to us and bless us.
May he consider us favorably. Selah
2 God, please do that so that all of the people in the world will know how you want them to live and that you are the one who saves them.
3 May all the people in the world praise you, God!
4 You judge those nations fairly and show them what they should do.
So may they praise you loudly and joyfully! Selah
5 May all the people in the world praise you, God!
6 Good crops have grown on our land.
May the God whom we Israelites worship continue to give us good harvests.
7 May God bless us, and may that cause people throughout the world to respect him greatly.

68

This is a note for the worship leader: David wrote this psalm. It is a song.

1 God, take action and chase away your enemies!
Make those who hate you run away from you.

2 Chase your enemies away just as wind blows smoke away.
Make bad people go away, God, just as wax melts when it is near a fire.
3 But make good people happy.
May they rejoice when they are in your presence;
may they be very joyful.
4 Sing praise to God!
Sing a song for him who even cares for desolate regions.
His name is Yahweh;
be glad when you are in his presence.
5 God, who is present in his sanctuary, is like a father to those who are orphans,
and he protects widows.
6 He provides families for those who have no one to live with.
He frees prisoners and enables them to be successful.
But those who rebel against him will not be successful.
It will be as if they live in a place where it is very hard to grow crops.
7 God, you led your people out of Egypt, and then you marched with them through the desert. Selah
8 After you did that, the earth shook at Mount Sinai when you appeared to your people.
Rain poured down from the sky, and your people worshiped you.
9 You caused much rain to fall there in the wilderness, and so you enabled good crops to grow again on that land that you gave to us Israelites.
10 Your people built homes there.
You were kind to poor people and provided food for them.
11-12 Kings led their armies to fight against the Israelites, but God defeated them and they ran away.
The Lord declared victory over them, and a great crowd of Israelite women sang and danced to celebrate.
The men who fought against these enemies captured many valuable possessions and brought them back to the women who were at home.

13 Some men had to take care of the sheep instead of fighting, but the soldiers captured enough valuable possessions to give them some as well.

They received treasures such as a dove statue with silver wings and feathers shimmering with fine gold.

14 Shaddai defeated the enemy kings and their armies by making it snow on Mount Zalmon!

15 Mount Bashan is a very high mountain.

It has many peaks.

16 Because it is such a great mountain, if it could think, it might think that God should have chosen it as the place for his sanctuary.

But Yahweh chose Mount Zion instead, and he will always be present there.

17 God is so powerful that it is as if he has thousands and thousands of chariots.

In fact, it is as if he has ten thousands and ten thousands of them!

The same God who appeared to the Israelites on Mount Sinai is now present in his sanctuary on Mount Zion.

18 After he defeated his enemies, he went up to the sacred mountain where his sanctuary is.

He led many captured prisoners in a victory procession.

He received gifts from the enemies whom he had defeated.

He even received gifts from those who had rebelled against him.

Now Yahweh, our God, will always be present in his sanctuary.

19 Praise the Lord, who helps us every day as if he were carrying a heavy load for us.

He is the God who saves us. Selah

20 Our God is the God who saves us;

Yahweh our Lord is the one who rescues us from dying.

21 But God will completely destroy his enemies.

If anyone continues to behave sinfully, God will destroy that person.

22 The Lord said, “Even if my enemies try to climb a high mountain to be safe, or even if they try to hide at the bottom of the ocean, I will bring them back 23 so that you can trample on their heads.

Your dogs will lick up the blood that comes out of their heads."
24 And now you are parading triumphantly into your sanctuary, God.
You are our king, and you are leading a great crowd the way a king does.
25 There are singers at the front of the parade.
Musicians playing stringed instruments are at the back of the parade.
In the middle there are girls playing tambourines.
26 Praise God, you who have gathered together!
Praise Yahweh, you descendants of Israel!
27 People from the tribe of Benjamin, the smallest tribe, are marching first.
Leaders and many other people from the tribe of Judah come next.
There are even leaders from the far northern tribes of Zebulun and Naphtali in the parade.
28 Our God has made our Israelite tribes strong.
God, continue to help us with your power as you helped us in the past.
29 Since you have now established your sanctuary on a mountain above Jerusalem, kings will send tribute to you there.
30 Show the king of Egypt that even though he has a powerful army, he cannot defeat you.
Many kings who are strong like bulls may gather together.
They may form armies from their subject nations, which are like bulls' calves, but they will not be able to defeat you either.
Instead, they will come submissively and pay you tribute in silver.
Some nations are eager to fight wars; make their armies run away!
31 Then envoys will come from Egypt bringing gifts to you.
The ruler of Cush will hasten to send tribute to God.
32 People of nations throughout the world, sing praise to God!
He is the Lord Selah
33 who dwells above the sky that he created long ago.

When you hear thunder, it is as if he is shouting with his very powerful voice.

34 Proclaim how powerful God is!

He is the king who reigns over Israel

as he rules powerfully from the sky.

35 God, you are in your sanctuary, and you are very powerful.

This is the God whom we Israelite people worship.

He makes us very strong. Praise God!

69

This is a note for the worship leader: David wrote this song. The tune is "Lilies."

1 Please rescue me, God!

I am in great danger, as if I were just about to drown in a flood.

2 It is as if I am sinking in deep mud where there is no solid ground for me to stand on.

It is as if I am in deep water and a flood is swirling around me.

3 I am tired and my throat is dry because I have been calling to you for help for so long.

I have been looking for so long for you to come and help me that I have worn out my eyes.

4 There are people who hate me for no reason.

There are so many of these people, it is as if there are more of them than there are hairs on my head!

The enemies who want to harm me are powerful, and they are telling lies about me.

They are demanding that I pay back things that I did not steal!

5 O God, you know that I have foolishly disobeyed your laws;

you are aware of the sins that I have committed.

6 But Yahweh my Lord, commander of the heavenly armies, may the wrong things I have done not disappoint the people who trust you.

You are the God whom we Israelite people should worship.

Please do not let me embarrass those who do worship you.

7 People have insulted me because I am loyal to you.
They have thoroughly humiliated me.
8 Even my own family members act as if they do not know me.
9 I care so much about your temple that people are causing trouble for me.
People are speaking disrespectfully of you, and it is as if they are also insulting me.
10 I wept and fasted very sincerely, but they mocked me for doing that.
11 I wore rough clothing to show that I was sad, but they used me as an example of a foolish person.
12 Even the elders of the city say bad things about me.
The drunkards in the city sing insulting songs about me.
13 But I will continue praying to you, Yahweh.
You are always very kind to me, as you have promised.
So at the time that you choose,
please answer my prayer by rescuing me,
since you love me faithfully.
14 Rescue me so that it will no longer be as if I were sinking in mud.
Rescue me from my enemies so that it will no longer be as if I were drowning.
15 Make it so that it will no longer be as if a flood were swirling around me and I was about to go down to the bottom of deep water.
Rescue me so that I do not go to the place where dead people are.
16 Yahweh, it is so good that you faithfully love me,
so please do what I ask.
Because you are very merciful, please help me.
17 I am experiencing much trouble, so please consider my situation and act quickly to help me.
18 Come and save me;
please rescue me from my enemies.

19 You know personally how people are insulting, shaming, and dishonoring me.
You know who all my enemies are.
20 Their insults have deeply offended me, and I feel very badly.
I wanted someone to feel sorry for me and encourage me, but no one did.
21 Instead, they put poison in my food, and when I was thirsty, they gave me sour wine to drink.
22 May their own food be like a trap that they walk into!
May it harm their health.
23 May their eyes become dim so that they cannot see anything.
May their bodies keep getting weaker.
24 Become angry with them and punish them!
Angrily pursue them until you catch them.
25 Make them abandon their towns so that no one lives in them anymore.
26 Do this because they did things to harm people whom you were already disciplining.
They said that people whom you were correcting were suffering because they had done bad things.
27 Punish them for every wrong thing they have done.
Do not forgive them!
28 Remove their names from the book that records the names of people who have everlasting life;
do not include them in your list of righteous people.
29 As for me, I am in bad circumstances, and I am suffering.
O God, please protect me and save me.
30 When God does that, I will sing a song to praise God, and I will honor him by thanking him.
31 When I do that, it will please Yahweh more than if I had sacrificed oxen, yes, he will like that better than if I had offered him full-grown bulls.
32 Humble people will be happy when they see that God has rescued me.

This will encourage people who worship God sincerely.

33 When needy people pray to Yahweh, he does what they ask.

He greatly respects people who suffer for him.

34 May the entire creation praise God:

the birds in the sky, the animals on the land, and the creatures in the sea.

35 May God protect the people who live in Jerusalem and in other places in Judah.

May he strengthen their cities so that they keep living in them as their territory.

36 May the descendants of the people who are loyal to him inherit that territory, and may those who love him live there safely.

70

This is a note for the worship leader: David wrote this psalm to remind *God that he had promised to help him.

1 Yahweh my God, please act quickly to rescue me!

2 Some people are trying to kill me.

Embarrass them by making them fail to do that.

Some people would be happy to harm me.

Humiliate them by making them abandon that plan.

3 Some people are saying that I am suffering because I am a bad person.

Make them ashamed of saying that so that they stop saying it.

4 Rescue me so that everyone who is loyal to you will greatly celebrate.

Then the people who depend on you to rescue them will keep saying, "God certainly is great!"

5 But right now I am in very difficult circumstances, so please act quickly to help me, God!

Yahweh, you are the one who helps me and saves me, so please help me right away!

71

1 You, Yahweh, are the one who keeps me safe.

May it always be clear that I was right to trust you.

2 Because you always do what is right, take action to help me.

Consider my situation and save me!
3 You declare that I will be safe, since you are the one who keeps me safe and protects me, so please be like a huge rock on top of which I can always go to be safe.
4 My God, please rescue me from what wicked people want to do to me.
Rescue me from the power of violent, evil men.
5 Yahweh my Lord, you are the one whom I confidently expect to help me.
I have trusted in you ever since I was young.
6 I have depended on you for my entire life;
you even made sure that I was born safely,
so I will always praise you.
7 It shocks many people to see me now, but you are my mighty protector.
8 I praise you lavishly throughout the day for how glorious you are.
9 Please keep helping me now that I have become an old man.
Please help me even though I am not strong anymore.
10 My enemies are saying that they want to kill me, and they are planning together how to do that.
11 They are saying, “No one will rescue him, since God is not helping him anymore,
so we can pursue him and capture him.”
12 My God, do not neglect me;
hurry to help me!
13 Embarrass the people who want to kill me by making their plans fail.
Yes, completely shame and disgrace those who want to harm me!
14 But as for me, I will always trust you, and I will praise you even more now than I have in the past.
15 I will tell people how you have saved me because you are good.
I will do that continually because there will always be more for me to say about this.

16 Yahweh my Lord, you are the one who gives me great strength.
I will recall to others how you do what is right in a way that no one else does.
17 God, you have taught me many things ever since I was young, and I still tell people today about the wonderful things you do.
18 God, please keep helping me now that I am old and my hair is gray.
That way I will be able to tell my descendants how powerfully you have helped me.
19 God, you do so many great things because you are good, it is as if they have piled up to the sky.
There is no one else like you, God!
20 You have allowed me to experience many very difficult things, and it has seemed as if I was about to go to the place where dead people are,
but now please give me a good life again.
21 Please make me even greater than I was before, and comfort me rather than allow me to have difficult experiences.
22 When you do that, then I will play my lute and praise you, my God, for faithfully helping me.
I will play my harp as I sing to praise you.
You are the holy God whom we Israelites worship.
23 I will shout joyfully while I sing.
Because you will have rescued me,
I will sing to you wholeheartedly.
24 You will have defeated and disgraced the people who wanted to harm me, so throughout the day I will describe how you did what was right.

72

1 A psalm of Solomon.
O God, please enable the man who is now succeeding his father as king to judge cases rightly, as you would do.
2 Enable him to judge the cases of Israelite people fairly, especially for people who are vulnerable.
3 May the people live rightly so that they will be prosperous as crops grow abundantly on the hillsides of the land.

4 Help the king to defend poor people and rescue needy people and defeat those who are oppressing them.

5 May each successive generation of the people respect you.

May they do that for as long as the sun and the moon are in the sky!

6 May this king make the nation prosperous, just as heavy rains soak the soil and enable more hay to grow after a first cutting.

7 May people who live rightly prosper during the time when he reigns, and may the nation be very prosperous for as long as the moon is in the sky.

8 May he rule over all of the surrounding territory, right up to the shores of the seas.

May his realm extend from the Euphrates River to the limits of the lands that people know.

9 May the leaders of the desert tribes bow down in front of him to acknowledge him as their ruler, and may his enemies lie facedown on the ground in submission to him.

10 May the kings who rule the land of Tarshish and other coastal areas pay tribute to him.

May the king of Sheba and the king of Seba give him gifts.

11 In fact, may all the kings in the world acknowledge him as their ruler, and may every nation obey him.

12 May all these things happen because he rescues needy people when they cry out for help and he helps poor people who have no one else to help them.

13 May he feel compassion for people who are weak and needy and save their lives.

14 May their lives be important to him so that he rescues them from people who are oppressing and harming them.

15 May this king live for a long time!

May he receive much fine gold.

May people always pray for him and ask God to bless him.

16 May the fields produce such abundant crops that grain grows all the way up to the tops of the hills and sways in the wind like the branches of the trees in Lebanon.
May the cities in Israel be as full of people as the fields are full of grass.
17 May people always remember what a good king this was,
for as long as the sun is in the sky!
May he do good things for many people, and may the people of other nations say that he has a good life.
18 Praise Yahweh, the God whom we Israelites worship;
he does amazing things that no one else can do.
19 Praise him forever for how glorious he is!
May his glory fill the whole world! Amen! Yes, amen!
20 This is the end of the prayers that David, the son of Jesse, wrote.

Book Three

73

1 Asaph wrote this psalm.
God truly is good to us Israelite people, to those who want to do what pleases God.
2 As for me, I almost stopped trusting in God;
I was almost guilty of committing a great sin against him
3 because I envied those who proudly acted as if they did not need God, when I realized that they prospered even though they were wicked.
4 Those people do not suffer;
they always have plenty of food to eat.
5 They do not experience the difficult things that other people do;
they do not experience catastrophes and sicknesses like other people.
6 So they are proud and violent.
Their being prideful is like a necklace that they show off to others, and they openly display their violent actions like people openly display the clothes they wear.

7 Their eyes protrude because their faces are fat, and they are always thinking about more evil things to do.
8 They scoff at other people, and wickedly talk about doing unjust things to them;
they speak pridefully.
9 They exalt themselves and talk as if they are God in heaven, and they go about the earth talking boastfully.
10 The result is that people pay attention to them and listen to everything they say.
11 Wicked people say to themselves, “God certainly does not care what we do;
the Most High certainly will not judge us for what we do!”
12 Look at how these wicked people live; their lives are so easy that they never have to worry about anything, and they are always becoming richer.
13 When I saw this I thought that certainly it is useless that I have thought about things that are pleasing to you and have not sinned.
14 Every day I suffer,
and every morning you punish me.
15 If I had said these things out loud in front of others, surely I would have been sinning against your people.
16 When I tried to think about all this,
it was very difficult for me to understand it.
17 But when I went to the temple where people worship God, then I understood what will happen to wicked people in the future.
18 I know that you make their future insecure;
you will cause them to be ruined.
19 God will suddenly destroy these wicked people;
they will die in terrible ways.
20 Lord, when you act, you will cause the wicked to quickly vanish;
they will vanish like a dream which disappears as soon as a person awakes from their sleep.

21 When I was grieved in my inner being and felt emotionally hurt, 22 I was stupid and ignorant;
I behaved like an animal toward you.
23 Nevertheless I am always with you;
you constantly stay close to me.
24 You lead me by instructing me, and when I die, you will take me into your glorious presence.
25 You are the only one I have in heaven!
There is nothing on this earth that I desire more than you.
26 My body and my spirit may become very weak, but God enables me to feel encouraged;
he has granted to me that I would belong to him forever.
27 People who abandon you will perish;
you will ruin every person who is not loyal to you.
28 But for me, the only thing I need is to be close to God.
I trust in the Lord Yahweh to keep me safe so that I may tell others everything you have done for me.

74

1 A Levite from the clan of Asaph wrote this song.
God, it feels as if you have permanently abandoned us!
You care for us Israelites the way a shepherd cares for his flock.
So please do not continue to be angry with us.
2 Think about your people whom you chose long ago.
You rescued us from slavery so that we would belong to you.
Think about Mount Zion, where you have been present in your temple.
3 Come and walk through the ruins of your temple.
It seems that no one will ever rebuild it.
Look at all the damage that the enemy soldiers did to your temple.
4 Your enemies shouted in triumph right there in the place where you met with us Israelites.

They set up their battle flags to show that they had conquered it.

5 They acted like woodsmen who were swinging axes to cut down trees in a forest.

6 They smashed all the carved wooden panels with their axes and hammers.

7 Then they burned down your temple completely.

They treated the temple where you were present as if it were not a sacred place.

8 They said to themselves, “We will completely subdue the Israelites.”

They burned down every place in the land where people gathered to worship God.

9 You no longer give us any signs, and there are no prophets anymore.

None of us knows how long this will last.

10 God, do not allow your opponents to continue to insult you!

Do not allow your enemies to keep treating you with disrespect anymore!

11 You should not fail to use your great power.

Use your power to destroy your enemies!

12 God, I acknowledge that you have ruled from ancient times.

You have been saving people throughout the earth.

13 By your great power, you pushed back the sea so that the dry land would appear.

You created order out of the watery chaos.

14 It was as if you smashed the heads of a chaos monster that lived in the sea and left his body in the desert for scavengers to eat.

15 You are able to make springs and streams flow in dry areas, but you are also able to dry up rivers that usually flow all the time.

16 You determine when it becomes day and when it becomes night.

You make it light during the day when the sun shines.

17 You are the one who set all the boundaries of the earth.

You are the one who created the seasons of summer and winter.

18 Yahweh, remember that your enemies have insulted you and that foolish people have mocked your reputation.

19 Do not allow cruel enemies to destroy the people whom you cherish.

Save the lives of your vulnerable people before it is too late.

20 People are committing violent acts in places where they think others will not see them.

So we need you to help us. Please do that because of the covenant that you made with us.

21 We are asking you to help us; please do not disappoint us.

Then we poor and needy people will praise you for what you have done.

22 Take action to defend yourself, God!

Do not allow foolish people to keep insulting you!

23 Do not ignore what your enemies are saying.

Your opponents keep shouting things against you.

75

This is a note for the worship leader: Asaph wrote this song. The tune is "Do Not Destroy."

1 We thank you, God!

We thank you because you are close to us.

We tell people about the wonderful things that you have done.

2 You say, "I have set a time to judge people.

At that time, I will judge everyone fairly.

3 The earth may shake, and everyone who lives on it may tremble.

But I am the one who holds it steady." Selah

4 I warn those who boast, "Stop boasting!"

I tell wicked people, "Do not be proud!

5 Do not brag about your power!

Do not speak arrogantly!"

6 The one who judges and honors people does not come from the east, west, or south.

7 God is the one who judges people;

he shames and punishes some people, and he honors other people.

8 It is as if Yahweh holds a cup full of punishment in his hand.
It is full of punishment that is like foaming wine mixed with spices.
He pours it out to punish the wicked, and all the wicked people on earth must drink it.
He punishes them fully like they were drinking the cup to the last drop.

9 But as for me, I will never stop saying what the God whom Jacob worshiped has done;
I will never stop singing to praise him.
10 God promises this: "I will destroy the power of wicked people, but I will increase the power of righteous people."

76

This is a note for the worship leader: to be accompanied by stringed instruments. Asaph wrote this psalm.

1 People in Judah know God.
He is famous in Israel.
2 His home is in Jerusalem.
He lives on Mount Zion.
3 There he shattered the flaming arrows.
He destroyed the shields, the swords, and the weapons of war. Selah

4 You are glorious and excellent.
You are more majestic than the mountains where you destroyed your enemies.
5 Enemy soldiers plundered the brave soldiers.
They have fallen into their final sleep.
None of the warriors were able to lift their hands to defend themselves.
6 When you, the God whom Jacob worshiped, shouted at them, their war horses and their riders fell down dead.
7 You are the one whom everyone must fear.
No one can survive in your presence when you are angry.
8 You gave your decision from heaven.

The whole world was scared and silent.

9 This happened when you stood up to judge, O God, to rescue all the oppressed people of the world. Selah

10 Even human anger will bring you praise.
You will use the rest of their anger as a weapon.

11 Make promises to Yahweh your God and keep them.
Let everyone around him bring gifts to the Awesome One.

12 He humbles the leaders, and terrifies all the kings.

77

This is a note for the worship leader: Perform in the style of Jeduthun. Asaph wrote this song.

1 I cried out to God;
I cried aloud to him, and he listened to me.

2 When I was in trouble, I prayed to the Lord;
all during the night I lifted up my hands while I prayed, and I did not stop praying.
But nothing could comfort me.

3 When I thought about God, I despaired; as I thoughtfully considered him, I became weak and discouraged. Selah

4 All during the night he prevented me from sleeping;
I was so worried that I did not know what to say.

5 I thought about days that had passed;
I remembered what had happened in previous years.

6 During the night, I remembered the songs that I used to sing;
I thoughtfully considered, and I pondered these things:

7 I feared that the Lord would reject me forever and that he would never be kind to me again.

8 I wondered whether the Lord had completely stopped being faithful and had broken his promise to all future generations.

9 I asked myself whether God had forgotten to be gracious and whether his anger had caused him to stop being compassionate. Selah

10 I said, "What causes me to be sad the most is that it seems that God, who is greater than any other spirit being, is no longer using his power for us."

11 But then, Yahweh, I recall your great deeds;
I remember the wonderful things that you did in the past.

12 I contemplated all that you have done, and I thought carefully about your mighty acts.

13 God, everything that you do is amazing;
there is certainly no god who is great like you are!

14 You are God, the one who performs miracles;
you showed to the people of many people groups that you are powerful.

15 By your power you rescued your people from Egypt;
you saved those who were descendants of Jacob and his son Joseph. Selah

16 It was as though the waters saw you and became very afraid, and even the deepest part of the water shook.

17 Rain poured down from the clouds;
it thundered very loudly,
and lightning flashed in all directions.

18 Thunder crashed in the whirlwind—your voice!
Lightning lit up,
and the earth shook violently.

19 Then you walked through the sea in a path that you made through the deep water, but your footprints could not be seen.

20 You led your people as a shepherd leads his flock of sheep while Moses and Aaron were the leaders of your people.

78

1 A song of Asaph.

My friends, listen to what I am going to teach you;

pay careful attention to what I will say.

2 I am going to give you some sayings that wise people have said.
They will be sayings about things that happened long ago, things that were difficult to understand.

3 These are things that we have heard and known previously, things that our parents and grandparents told us.

4 We will tell these things to our children, but we will also tell our grandchildren to praise Yahweh for his power and the glorious things that he has done.

5 He gave requirements and instructions to the Israelites, those who are descended from Jacob, and he told our ancestors to teach them to their children.

6 He commanded this so that their children would also know them and so that they would teach them to their own children.

7 In that way, they also would trust in God and would not forget the things that he has done;
instead, they would obey his commandments.

8 They would not be like their ancestors, who were very stubborn and kept rebelling against God;
they did not continue firmly trusting in God,
and they did not worship him alone.

9 The soldiers of the tribe of Ephraim had bows and arrows, but they ran away from their enemies on the day that they fought with their enemies.

10 They did not do what they had agreed with God that they would do;
they refused to obey his laws.

11 They forgot what he had done;
they forgot about the miracles that they had seen him perform.

12 While our ancestors were watching,
God performed miracles in the area around the city of Zoan in Egypt.

13 Then he caused the Sea of Reeds to divide, causing the water on each side to pile up like a wall, with the result that our ancestors walked through it on dry ground.
14 He led them by a bright cloud during the day and by a fiery light during the night.
15 He split rocks open in the wilderness and gave to our ancestors plenty of water from deep inside the earth.
16 He caused a stream of water to flow from the rock;
the water flowed like a river.
17 But our ancestors continued to sin against God;
in the desert they rebelled against the one who is greater than any other spirit being.
18 By demanding that God give them the food that they desired, they tried to find out if he would always do what they requested him to do.
19 They insulted God by saying,
"God surely cannot supply food for us here in this desert.
20 It is surely true that Moses struck the rock, and God made a huge amount of water gush out, but we, his people, doubt that he can also provide bread and meat for us."
21 So when Yahweh heard that, he became very angry, and he sent a fire to burn up some of his Israelite people.
22 He did that because they did not trust in him, and they did not believe that he would rescue them.
23 But God spoke to the sky above them and commanded it to open like a door, 24 and then food fell down like rain, food that they named "manna."
God gave them grain from heaven.
25 So the people ate the food that angels eat.
God gave to them all the manna that they wanted.
26 Later, he caused the wind to blow from the east, and by his power he also sent wind from the south.

27 The wind brought birds to eat which fell like rain.
They were as uncountable as the grains of sand on the seashore.

28 God caused those birds to fall in the middle of their camp.
There were birds all around their tents.

29 So the people cooked the birds and ate the meat; their stomachs were full because God had given them what they wanted.

30 But they had not yet eaten all that they wanted,

31 when God angrily killed some of their strongest men.
He even sent young Israelite men to their graves.

32 In spite of all this, the people continued to sin;
in spite of all the miracles that God had performed, they still did not trust that he would take care of them.

33 So he shortened their lives so they seemed to only be a few days or like they were gone as quickly as a breath of air, and he terrified them during even those few years.

34 Whenever God caused some of the Israelites to die,
the others would repent;
they would be sorry and seriously ask God to save them.

35 They would remember that God was like a huge rock on which they would be safe, and that he, who was greater than any other spirit being, was the one who would buy them back.

36 But they tried to trick God by lying to him.

37 They were not loyal to him;
they did not keep the promises between God and them.

38 But God acted mercifully toward his people.
He forgave them for having sinned and did not get rid of them.
Many times he decided not to become angry with them and did not furiously punish them.

39 He remembered that they were only humans who die, humans who disappear as quickly as a wind that blows by and then is gone.

40 Many times our ancestors rebelled against God in the wilderness and made him very sad.

41 Many times they did evil things to find out if they could do those things without God punishing them.
They frequently caused the holy God whom the Israelites worship to become sad.

42 They did not remember how powerfully he had acted, and they forgot about the time when he rescued them from their enemies.

43 They forgot about all the wonderfully powerful things he did near Zoan in Egypt.

44 He turned the rivers of Egypt to blood, so that the people could not drink their streams.

45 He sent swarms of flies among the people of Egypt that bit them, and he sent frogs that destroyed everything.

46 He gave their crops to the locusts.
He let swarming locusts eat everything they had worked for.

47 He killed their grape vines with hail, and killed their sycamore trees with frost.

48 He sent a terrible thunderstorm with hail to kill all their domestic animals.

49 Because God was fiercely angry with the people of Egypt, he caused them to be very distressed.
The disasters that struck them were like a group of angels that destroyed everything.

50 He let himself be angry with them, and he did not prevent them from dying;
he sent a serious illness that killed many of them.

51 In that plague he caused all the firstborn sons of the people of Egypt to die.

52 Then he led his people out of Egypt like a shepherd leads his sheep, and he guided them like a flock in the desert.

53 He led them safely, and they were not afraid, but their enemies drowned in the sea.

54 Later God used his power to bring the Israelite people to the land he had set apart, to this hill country that he had taken for himself.

55 He drove out the people groups as the Israelites advanced;

he distributed the land for each tribe to possess as their own, and he settled the tribes of Israel in the homes of those peoples.

56 But the Israelites defied the God who is greater than all other spirit beings and disobeyed him to see what he would do.

They did not obey what he had required them to do.

57 They turned away and were unfaithful, just as their ancestors had been;

they were as unreliable as a bow that does not shoot straight.

58 They made God angry by worshiping at shrines on the hilltops, and they made him jealous by worshiping carved idols.

59 When God saw what they were doing, he became very angry and completely rejected the Israelite people.

60 He stopped living at Shiloh, the place where he had set up his tent and lived among people.

61 He let enemies capture the sacred chest which showed how strong and glorious he was.

62 He let enemies kill his people in battle, because he was very angry with the people who belonged to him.

63 Fire destroyed the young men, and no one sang wedding songs for the young women.

64 Enemies killed the priests in battle, and the wives they left behind were not able to mourn for them.

65 Then the Lord acted as though he had been sleeping and had woken up, like a warrior who becomes alert after drinking wine.

66 He drove his enemies back and disgraced them forever.

67 He did not choose the descendants of Joseph to be the leading tribe, and he did not choose the tribe of Ephraim.

68 Instead he chose the tribe of Judah whose capital is on Mount Zion, which he loves.

69 He had them build his temple there, high up like the heavens, and he established it to last as long as the earth.

70 He chose David, who served him, and took him away from tending the sheep.

71 He took David from caring for the mother sheep and their lambs and appointed him to lead the people of Israel, the people who belonged to God.

72 David led them with a sincere and devoted heart, and he guided them with great skill.

79

1 A Levite from the clan of Asaph wrote this song.

God, foreign nations have invaded the land that belongs to you.
They have made your holy temple unfit for worship, and they have made Jerusalem a pile of ruins.

2 They left the dead bodies of the people who were faithful to you for birds and wild animals to eat.

3 They killed so many of your people that blood flowed like water all around Jerusalem.
There were not enough people still alive to bury them.

4 The people of the nations around us insult us and laugh at us.

5 Yahweh, please do not stay so very angry with us, even though we sinned against you by worshiping other gods.

6 The people of other nations do not honor you as God.
You should be angry with them and punish them,

7 because they are the ones who have killed so many Israelites and destroyed the land in which they lived.

8 Please forgive the wicked things we did in the past.
Quickly be merciful to us,

because we are desperate.

9 God, you are the one who saves us, so please help us!
Do that for the sake of your glorious reputation.
Forgive us for our sins so that people will honor you.

10 Do not let the other nations say, “Their God was not able to help them!”
We want to see you punish those nations for killing the people who serve you.

11 Listen to the moans of your people who are now captives, and use your great power to save those who are about to die.

12 Lord, pay back our neighbors directly, seven times over, for the insults they have spoken against you!

13 Then we will always thank you.
You care for us, your people, the way a shepherd cares for his sheep.
Each generation of Israelites will tell their children how wonderful you are.

80

This is a note for the worship leader: The tune is “Lilies.” A Levite from the clan of Asaph wrote this song as an appeal to Yahweh for help.

1 God, you are like a shepherd to the people of Israel, so please listen to me.
You lead the descendants of Joseph the way a shepherd leads his flock.
You were present with us in your temple above the statues of the cherubim; reveal your glory to us again!

2 Just as you moved powerfully through the wilderness right ahead of the tribes of Ephraim, Benjamin, and Manasseh, come powerfully once again and save us.

3 God, make us strong again.
Regard us favorably and save us.

4 Yahweh, you are the God who commands the heavenly armies.
You have been angry with us, and so you have not been doing what we ask when we pray to you. But please now answer our prayers.

5 You have caused us to experience constant sorrow.
It feels as if you are punishing us three times as much as we deserve.

6 The nations around us have become hostile to us, and our enemies make fun of us.
7 God, you who command the heavenly armies, make us strong again!
Regard us favorably and save us.
8 You brought your people out of Egypt as if you were transplanting a vine from there.
You forced other nations to leave this land and you allowed your people to settle in it, as if you were planting that vine here.
9 You removed the foreign nations, just as a farmer clears the ground for a new plant.
This enabled your people to become a strong nation that occupied the entire country.
10 It was as if that vine became so large that its shadow darkened the mountains and its branches were like great cedar trees.
11 They controlled the territory from the Great Sea in the west to the Euphrates River in the east.
12 But now you have allowed enemies to invade and conquer us, as if you had torn down a fence that protected that vine, so that everyone who walked past it could take whatever fruit they wanted from it.
13 Those enemies have destroyed the country, as if a wild boar had chewed up that vine and wild animals ate what remained.
14 God, commander of the heavenly armies, please help us again!
Look down from heaven and see what is happening to us!
Come and care for your people, who are like a vine that you planted 15 and worked hard to make sure that it would grow well.
Your people are also like your own son whom you helped grow up to be strong.
16 But now, because you do not regard them favorably, their enemies are destroying them as if someone had cut down that vine and burned it.

17 Even though we are human, we are like your own son whom you helped grow up to be strong, so please help us with your power.
Restore us to a position of honor.

18 Then we will not worship other gods again.
Give us new life, and we will worship only you.

19 Yahweh, the God who commands the heavenly armies, make us strong again!
Regard us favorably and save us.

81

This is a note for the worship leader: Accompany the song with a stringed instrument. A Levite from the clan of Asaph wrote this song.

1 Sing joyfully to God, who makes us strong!
Shout with joy to the God whom we Israelites worship!

2 Start playing music! Beat tambourines and play lyres and pleasant-sounding harps.

3 Blow a ram's horn for the new-moon festival each month and on the day of the full moon when the Festival of Shelters begins.

4 Do this because the God whom we Israelite people worship has commanded us to do it.

5 God told our ancestors to observe these festivals when he delivered them from slavery to the Egyptians, a people whose language they did not understand.

6 Yahweh says, "They had to hold on to heavy baskets full of bricks as they carried them on their shoulders, but I freed them from doing that.

7 When they were suffering, they cried to me for help, and I rescued them.
At Mount Sinai, I spoke to them from dark clouds and gave them laws.
Then I saw whether they trusted me when they complained at Meribah that they had no water. Selah

8 Listen to me, my people, while I warn you!
I wish that you Israelites would pay attention to me!
9 You must not make any idols that represent any of the gods that other nations worship.
You must never bow down to worship any of those gods.
10 I am Yahweh your God.
I am the one who rescued you from slavery in Egypt.
If you depend on me,
I will provide everything that you need.
11 However, my people would not listen to what I said;
the Israelites refused to obey me.
12 So I let them do whatever they stubbornly wanted to do;
they did whatever they had decided to do.
13 I wish that my people would obey me!
Yes, I wish that the Israelites would live the way I want them to!
14 Then I would use my power against those who are opposing them, and I would easily defeat their enemies.
15 Then those who had rebelled against Yahweh would bow down fearfully in front of him to submit to his authority.
But the Israelites would always prosper.
16 I would make their fields produce abundant crops, and they would even find all the honey they wanted in wild bee hives in rocky places."

82

1 A Levite from the clan of Asaph wrote this song.
God has taken his place in the assembly that he governs;
he pronounces judgment on the rulers there.
2 He says, "You must stop making unjust decisions and favoring wicked people! Selah
3 Defend poor people and orphans, and decide cases fairly for people who have no one else to help them.

4 Save defenseless people
from what wicked people want to do to them!
5 You are foolish and ignorant!
You do not recognize the right things to do.
People are no longer living by the basic principles that make a society fair.
6 I said, ‘You are spiritual beings;
you are all rulers over creation like the Most High.
7 But you will die as humans do;
you will lose your power just as rulers do.’” 8 God, you rule all the nations, so take action and judge the people who live on the earth!

83

A Levite from the clan of Asaph wrote this song.

1 God, please take action to help us!
Please do that right away!
2 I ask this because the enemies who hate you are defiantly approaching us with a large army.
3 They have plotted deviously together to fight against us Israelites whom you cherish.
4 They have said to each other, “Come on, let us destroy them so completely that no one will ever remember that Israel existed!”
5 They have all agreed to do this,
and they have made an alliance against you.
6 This army includes soldiers who are Edomites, Ishmaelites, Moabites, Hagrites,
7 Gebalites, Ammonites, Amalekites, Philistines, and Tyrians.
8 The Assyrians are helping them.
They have given military support to the Moabites and Ammonites who are leading this army. Selah

9 Defeat them just as you helped Gideon defeat the Midianites, and just as you helped Barak defeat Sisera, the commander of the Canaanite king Jabin at the Kishon River!
10 You destroyed those Canaanites at En Dor, and their dead bodies rotted on the ground.
11 Kill the leaders of this invading army just as Gideon killed Oreb and Zeeb, the Midianite commanders.
Defeat all their rulers just as Gideon defeated Zebah and Zalmunna, the Midianite rulers.
12 They too had said, "Let us take for ourselves the land where God's people dwell."
13 My God, please defeat them so that they run away just as tumbleweed rolls away and just as chaff flies away in the wind!
14 Just as a forest fire burns down trees and flames burn up the dry vegetation on hillsides, 15 make them run away afraid
as if a great storm were driving them off.
16 Completely disgrace them so that they will acknowledge who you are, Yahweh.
17 Embarrass them and make them always afraid.
Humiliate them until they die.
18 Then they will know that you alone, Yahweh, are the Most High God who rules over everyone in the world.

84

This is a note for the worship leader: Accompany the song with a stringed instrument. One of the Korahites wrote this psalm.

1 Yahweh, commander of the heavenly armies, what a wonderful place your temple is!
2 I long greatly, deep inside, to be in the courtyards of Yahweh's temple.

With my whole being I call out to the only true God.

3 Even little birds have built their nests near your temple, and that is where they are taking care of their babies.
Yahweh, commander of the heavenly armies,
you are my king and my God.

4 What a good life people have who live by your temple!
They worship you continually there. Selah

5 What a good life people have whom you make strong so that they can travel to your temple as they greatly desire!

6 As they pass through the arid Valley of Baca, they dig wells to look for water, and God sends autumn rains that fill those wells with life-giving water.

7 They become stronger as they go, and each of them arrives at the temple in Zion where God is present.

8 Yahweh, you are the God who commands the heavenly armies.
Please answer my prayer.
You are the God whom we Israelite people worship.
Please do what I ask. Selah

9 God, please treat favorably the king you have appointed to protect us.

10 It is better be in your temple courtyards for a single day than to be anywhere else for a thousand days.
I would rather stand at the entrance to the courtyard of my God's temple than stay in any of the comfortable homes where wicked people live.

11 Yahweh our God makes us prosper, just as the sun makes crops grow, and he protects us, just as a shield protects a warrior.
He is kind to us and honors us.
Yahweh gives people who live rightly every good thing that they need.

12 Yahweh, commander of the heavenly armies,

what a good life people have who trust you!

85

This is a note for the worship leader: One of the Korahites wrote this psalm.

1 Yahweh, you have brought back the Israelites who were exiles so that this land can be prosperous again.
2 You forgave all the sins that your people committed. Selah
3 You completely ceased being angry with us and stopped punishing us severely.
4 God, you are the one who saves us.
Please stop being upset with us, and make us strong again.
5 Please do not be continually angry with us and with our children and grandchildren.
6 Please help us so that we will thrive again.
Then we, your people, will be happy because of you.
7 Yahweh, please treat us kindly as you promised and rescue us from our troubles.
8 I am going to listen to what Yahweh, my God, says to me.
I believe he will say that he will make his people thrive if they are loyal to him.
However, they must not do foolish things anymore.
9 He is surely ready to help people who deeply respect him.
Then he will be gloriously present with us in our land.
10 He will be faithfully kind and true to us.
He will do what is right and make us peaceful.
11 People on earth will be faithful to God, and God will act justly toward us from heaven.
12 Yes, Yahweh will give us good things, and our land will produce abundant harvests.
13 As he considers what to do,
he will recognize what the right thing is to do,
and he will do that.

86

A prayer of David.

Yahweh, I am poor and helpless,
so please do what I ask.
I am loyal to you, so please protect me.
I worship you as my God and I trust you,
so please save me.
I have been crying out to you continually, Lord,
so please be kind to me.
I am asking you to help me, Lord, as someone who worships you, so please make me happy by doing that.
Do this, Lord, because you are good and you forgive people's sins.
You very faithfully love everyone who prays to you.
Yahweh, I am pleading with you in prayer to help me;
please do what I ask.
Whenever I am in trouble, I call out to you,
because I know that you will help me.
Lord, among all the gods that the nations worship,
there is none like you;
none of them has done the great things that you have done.
Lord, the nations that you have made will all come and bow down before you,
and they will praise you.
They will do this because you are great and you do amazing things;
you are the only true God.
Yahweh, please teach me how you want me to live so that I will act properly, as you wish.
Give me a sincere desire to honor you.
Lord my God, I will thank you wholeheartedly, and I will praise you forever.
I will do that because you have been so faithfully kind to me;

you have kept me from going way down into the place where dead people are.

14 God, proud people are attacking me.
Yes, a group of cruel people is trying to kill me;
those people do not respect you.

15 But you, Lord, are a God who is merciful and kind.
You do not quickly become angry,
and you are so faithfully kind and true to us.

16 Consider my situation and be kind to me;
make me, your servant, strong.
Help me as if I had been born in your household.

17 Do something to show that you are helping me so that my enemies will see it, and it will embarrass them.
I believe that you, Yahweh, will help me and comfort me.

87

1 One of the Korahites wrote this song.

Yahweh established his city on mountains that he made holy.

2 He loves the city of Zion more than any other place where Israelites live.

3 People say wonderful things about this city that belongs to God. Selah

4 Yahweh says, "When I talk about people who know me, this will include Egyptians and Babylonians.
Indeed, I will also say about Philistines and Tyrians and Cushites,
'This person is a native of Zion.'"

5 People will say about Zion, "Every one of those people is a native of that city," and God Most High will personally keep Zion strong.

6 When Yahweh registers each of those people, he will record, "This person is a native of Zion." Selah

7 Singers and musicians will celebrate and say,
"Zion, everything that makes me flourish comes from you!"

88

One of the Korahites wrote this song. This is a note for the worship leader: The tune is "Weakness of Afflicting." Heman the Ezrahite wrote this song.

1 Yahweh, you are the God who saves me.
I continually ask you to help me.
2 Please pay attention to what I am saying as I pray to you.
3 I ask this because I have experienced so many bad things that I cannot endure any more;
I am about to die and go to the place where dead people are.
4 People expect me to die soon because I have so little strength left.
5 It is as if I belong among dead people who are lying in their graves.
It seems that you are no longer aware of such people and you stop taking care of them.
6 It is as though you have thrown me down to the bottom of a deep, dark pit.
7 I feel as if you are angry with me, and that is like an oppressive burden to me.
It is as if I am drowning in your anger. Selah 8 Because my illness is so unpleasant and you have not healed me, my friends stay away from me,
and I am not able to leave my home to visit anyone.
9 My eyes are swollen because I cry so much.
Yahweh, throughout the day I call out to you for help as I spread out my hands toward you in prayer.
10 If I were to die, it would be too late for you to do a miracle to help me.
Dead people do not come back to life and praise you! Selah
11 Dead bodies in graves do not talk about how you faithfully love us.
In the place where dead people go, no one talks about how faithful you are.
12 No one in that dark place sees the amazing things you do;
no one in the place where no one remembers anything knows how good you are.
13 But I am still alive, Yahweh, and I am calling out to you to help me.

It is as if my prayer is already there waiting for you when you get up in the morning.

14 Yahweh, please do not reject me!

Please do not ignore me!

15 Since I was young, I have been so ill that I have nearly died.

I have been sick for so long with this terrible illness that you permit that I have no more hope.

16 I feel as if you are very angry with me.

This terrible illness that you permit has destroyed the good life I could have had.

17 The bad things that are happening to me are like floodwaters that continually surround me and are about to drown me.

18 Because you have allowed this illness, my friends and family members stay away from me.

I can no longer see where they are.

89

Ethan the Ezrahite wrote this song.

1 Yahweh, I will always sing about how faithfully you love your people.

I will tell my children and grandchildren that you always do what you promise.

2 I know that you will always love us faithfully.

Just as the sky is permanent, so you will always be faithful to us.

3 Yahweh has said, "I made a covenant with the man I chose to be the king of Israel.

That was David, who loyally obeyed me.

I made a solemn promise to him.

4 I said, 'I will make sure that your descendants always rule as kings;

yes, I will make sure that your dynasty never ends.'" Selah

5 Yahweh, the angels in heaven praise you for the wonderful things you do,

When those holy beings gather, they celebrate how you always do what you promise.

6 No one in the sky is equal to Yahweh!
None of the heavenly beings is like Yahweh!
7 When the holy beings gather together, they all respect God greatly.
Everyone around his throne honors him.
8 Yahweh, you are the God who commands the heavenly armies.
No one is as mighty as you are!
You are always faithful in every way.
9 You control the sea so that it does not become too violent;
when its waves become too large, you make them smaller.
10 It was you who put the world in order as you created it, as if you had completely destroyed the sea monster Rahab;
You used your great power to defeat your enemies.
11 Because you created the world and everything in it, the sky belongs to you, and the earth also belongs to you.
12 You created the full extent of the world around us.
You made everything to the north and to the south.
You made everything to the west, where Mount Tabor is,
and you made everything to the east, where Mount Hermon is.
People throughout the world joyfully praise you because of who you are.
13 You are very powerful; yes, you are very strong, and you use your power to do great things.
14 As you rule, you always do what is right and just,
and you are always faithful and true in everything you do.
15 Yahweh, the people who worship you with joyful shouts have truly good lives;
they enjoy your favor as they live.
16 They rejoice continually because of who you are,
and they celebrate how you always do what is right.
17 You make your people strong and glorious, and because you were pleased with us, you gave us a good king.
18 The one who protects us belongs to you, Yahweh;
yes, our king belongs to you, the holy God whom we Israelites worship.

19 Long ago you spoke in a vision to the Israelites who were loyal to you.
You said, “I have given strength to a mighty warrior;
I have chosen a young man from among the people to be the king.
20 I have found David, who loyally obeys me, and I have had people anoint him with my holy oil to appoint him as king.
21 I will always support him with my power;
indeed, I will make him strong.
22 He will never have to pay tribute to a foreign ruler, and no wicked enemy will defeat him.
23 I will defeat his opponents when they fight against him;
yes, I will destroy his enemies.
24 I will always be faithful to him and treat him kindly, and I will make him a great ruler by my own authority.
25 I will make his realm extend from the Great Sea to the Euphrates River.
26 He will call out to me, ‘You are my Father;
you are my God, the one who protects me and saves me!’
27 For my part, I will treat him as if he were my firstborn son, and I will make him the greatest of all the kings on the earth.
28 I will always love him faithfully, and I will always honor my covenant with him.
29 I will make sure that his descendants always rule as kings, so that his dynasty lasts as long as the sky exists.
30 However, if his descendants disobey my instructions and do not live according to what I have decreed, 31 if they treat my decrees as something they can ignore, and if they do not obey my commands, 32 then I will punish them to correct them because of the wrong things they have done as if I were hitting them with a rod.
33 But I will not stop faithfully loving David;
I will not fail to do what I promised for his descendants.

34 I will not break my covenant;
no, I will not take back what I said.
35 I guaranteed my promise to David by my own holy character.
I said that I was not lying to him, and I meant it.
36 I promised solemnly that his descendants would rule as kings forever.
Yes, I said that I would preserve his dynasty just as I have made the sun to shine in the sky always.
37 The moon appears in the sky dependably each month, and in the same way, David's dynasty will always endure." Selah
38 Yet now it appears that you have completely rejected
David's descendant who was our king.
It appears that you have abandoned him.
39 It seems as though you are disregarding the covenant you made with David.
You have allowed his dynasty to end, as if you had not promised to preserve it.
40 You have allowed enemies to break down all the walls that protected his city of Jerusalem.
It had strong defenses, but you have allowed those enemies to reduce them to ruins.
41 Now people can come along and steal the things that remain in the city.
People in the surrounding countries are ridiculing us Israelites.
42 You have allowed our enemies to become strong,
and they are celebrating how they have defeated us.
43 Our armies have had to retreat from battles because you have not helped us when we fight.
44 Our kingdom is no longer glorious,
and we no longer have a king.
45 We are no longer strong, as young men are.
This has disgraced us completely. Selah
46 Yahweh, please help us, and do not delay! Do not keep neglecting us!
Do not keep being so angry with us!

47 Please remember how short human lives are!
Please remember that you created us human beings as mere mortals!
48 No one can live forever and never die;
everyone must go to the place where dead people are. Selah 49 Lord, you promised David that you would faithfully love us Israelites, and you did.
You always keep your promises, so please help us!
50 Lord, consider the insulting things that many people are saying about us who loyally obey you!
I deeply feel the pain of all those insults.
51 Yahweh, do something to stop your enemies from mocking the actions of the king you appointed.
52 May people always bless Yahweh!
Amen! Yes, amen!

Book Four

90

A prayer by the prophet Moses

1 Lord, you have been like a home for us throughout our generations.
2 Before you created the mountains, before you formed the earth and everything that is in it,
you were eternally God,
and you will be God forever.
3 When people die, you cause their corpses to become soil again;
you change their corpses to become dirt like that from which the first man was created.
4 When you consider time, a thousand years are as short as one day that passes;
you consider that they are as short as a few hours in the night.
5 You cause people to die suddenly;

they live only a short time as a dream lasts only a short time.

They are like grass in the morning that comes and goes.

6 In the morning the grass sprouts and develops, then in the evening it dries up and completely withers.

7 Similarly, because of the sins that we commit, you become angry with us;

you terrify us and then you destroy us.

8 It is as though you place our sins in front of you;

spreading out even our secret sins where you can see them.

9 Because you are angry with us, you cause our lives to end;

the years that we live pass as quickly as a sigh passes.

10 People live for only seventy years;

if they are strong, some of them live for eighty years.

But throughout our time we have much pain and troubles;

our lives soon end, and we die.

11 No one has fully experienced the powerful things that you can do to people when you are angry with them,

No, people are not adequately afraid of how you can punish them because you are angry with them.

12 So teach us to realize that we live for only a short time in order that we may think wisely about how we use our time.

13 Yahweh, how long will you be angry with us?

Pity us who serve you.

14 Each morning, show us that it is enough for us if you love us faithfully as you have promised that you would do.

Show us this so that we may shout joyfully and be happy all during the years that we live.

15 Cause us now to be happy for as many years as you afflicted us and we experienced bad things.

16 Enable us who serve you to see the great things that you do, and enable our descendants to see your glorious power also.

17 Lord, our God, give us your blessings and enable us to be successful;

yes, cause us to be successful in everything that we do!

91 1 Those people whom God Most High protects will be able to rest safely because Shaddai cares for them.
2 I will declare to Yahweh,
"You protect me;
you are like a stronghold in which I am safe.
You are my God, the one in whom I trust."
3 He will rescue you from all hidden traps and save you from deadly diseases.
4 He will protect you as a bird does who covers her young under her wings.
You will be safe in his care.
As he faithfully does what he has promised, that is like a shield or strong wall that will protect you.
5 You will not be afraid of things that happen during the night that could terrorize you or of arrows that your enemies will shoot at you during the day.
6 You will not be afraid of plagues that infect people in the night or of other evil forces that kill people in the light of day.
7 Even if a thousand people fall dead alongside you, even if ten thousand people are dying around you,
the deadly thing will not harm you.
8 All you need to do is watch and you will see that God is punishing evil people!
9 This is because you trust Yahweh, God Most High, who protects me, to also protect you.
10 Therefore, nothing evil will happen to you;
no plague will affect your family 11 because Yahweh will command his angels to protect you in whatever you are doing.

12 They will even hold you up with their hands so that you will not hurt your foot on a big stone.
13 Yahweh will not allow your enemies to harm you;
even if strong lions and poisonous snakes attack you, you will defeat them!
14 Yahweh says, “I will rescue those who love me;
I will protect them because they know me.
15 When they call out to me, I will answer them.
I will help them when they are experiencing trouble;
I will rescue them and honor them.
16 I will reward them by enabling them to live a long time, and I will save them.”

92

A psalm that is to be sung on Sabbath days.

1 Yahweh, it is good for people to thank you and to sing as they praise you, the Most High God.
2 It is good to proclaim every morning that you faithfully love us and to declare each night that everything that you say is true, 3 singing to the music of instruments that have ten strings and of lyres
and with musicians playing melodies on a harp.
4 I do this, Yahweh, because what you have done makes me happy;
I sing joyfully because of the things that you do.
5 Yahweh, the things that you do are great!
We cannot understand all that you think.
6 These are things that foolish people do not know about, things that dolts cannot understand:
7 They do not understand that when the number of wicked people increases as blades of grass increase, and when it seems that all those who do what is evil prosper,
Yahweh will destroy them forever.
8 But Yahweh, you will rule forever.

9 Just look at your enemies, Yahweh! Your enemies will certainly die.
You will destroy everyone who does wicked things.
10 But you have caused me to be as strong as a wild ox;
you have caused me to be very joyful.
11 I have observed my enemies as they oppose me, and I have heard those evil men.
12 But righteous people will prosper like flourishing palm trees, they will grow like the tall cedar trees in Lebanon.
13 They belong to Yahweh as securely as if they were trees with roots deep in his temple grounds.
They are as prosperous and healthy as if they were trees growing in our God's courtyard.
14 They are like trees that continue to bear fruit even when they are old.
They remain strong and full of energy, like trees that are full of sap and have abundant leaves.
15 That shows that Yahweh is just;
he is like a huge rock behind which I am safe,
and he never does anything that is unjust.

93 1 Yahweh, you are the King!
It is as though you are wearing royal robes that are majestic and powerful.
You are the one who put the world firmly in place, and no one can move it out of its place.
2 You have been king since long ago;
you have always existed.
3 Yahweh, the oceans rise up;
their waves loudly pound against the shore;
it is as though they roar with a powerful voice.
4 But you are more powerful than the roar of those oceans;
you are more powerful than the huge ocean waves!
You are Yahweh, the one who is great and powerful!
5 Yahweh, your laws are completely reliable;

your temple is a beautifully holy place.
That will be true forever.

94

1 Yahweh, you are a God who punishes your enemies.
So reveal to them who you are!
2 You are the one who judges all people on the earth;
so take action and give the arrogant people what they deserve.
3 Yahweh, wicked people just continue to be glad,
and that is not right!
4 They abundantly speak arrogant things;
all people who do evil things say that they are great people.
5 Yahweh, it is as though those wicked people were crushing us, your people;
they distress the people who belong to you alone.
6 They murder widows, people from other countries, and also young people who have no fathers.
7 Those wicked people think to themselves, "Yahweh does not see any of this;
the God whom the Israelites worship does not notice the evil things that we do."
8 You wicked people in Israel need to understand what is right;
you have been stupid and foolish far too long!
9 Since Yahweh is the one who made ears, of course he can hear what you say!
Not only that, he created eyes;
so of course he can see the evil things that you do!
10 He corrects the leaders of other nations, so he will punish you, as well.
He has taught people everything that they know,
so of course he knows everything that you do.
11 Yahweh knows everything that people are thinking;
he knows that what they think is evil and useless.
12 Yahweh, how fortunate are those who allow you to discipline them, how fortunate are those whom you teach from your laws!

13 You relieve those people from bad things when they happen, and someday you will punish the wicked people and stop them from doing wicked things.

14 This will happen because Yahweh will not reject his people;
he will not desert those who belong to him.

15 Yes, someday judges will again decide matters fairly for people, and all honest people will be pleased about that.

16 But when evil people oppressed me,
I could find no one to defend me against the wicked things that evil people did to me.

17 If Yahweh had not helped me at that time,
I would have gone quickly to the place where dead people say nothing.

18 Just when I thought, "I am about to die," then, Yahweh, you saved me by being faithful and loving to me.

19 Whenever I am very worried, you comfort me and cause me to be happy.

20 Corrupt rulers, those who establish laws that allow people to do what is not right, cannot be your friends.

21 They plot together how to destroy righteous people, and they declare that innocent people must die.

22 But Yahweh has become like a fortress for me;
my God is like a huge rock that protects me.

23 He will do to those wicked leaders the terrible things that they have done to others;
he will get rid of them because they do wicked things.
Yes, Yahweh our God will get rid of them.

95

1 Everyone, come and let us sing to Yahweh;
let us shout joyfully to the one who protects us and saves us!

2 Let us thank him as we come before him and sing joyful psalms as we praise him.
3 Because Yahweh is a great God.
He is a great king who rules over all other spirit beings.
4 He controls the whole earth.
From the deepest places to the highest mountains, it belongs to him.
5 The seas are his because he is the one who made them.
He also made the dry land.
6 Everyone, come, let us worship him and bow down before him.
Let us kneel before Yahweh, who is the one who made us.
7 Do this because he is our God, and we are the people whom he protects, like sheep that a shepherd takes care of.
I desire that today you may hear what Yahweh is saying to you.
8 He says, "Do not become stubborn as your ancestors did at Meribah, and as they did long ago at Massah in the wilderness.
9 There your ancestors tested whether I would continue to be patient with them.
They wanted to see if they could do evil things and not have me punish them.
They did this even though they had seen me perform many miracles.
10 For 40 years I was angry with those people.
I said about them, 'Those people are unreliable.
They completely refuse to obey my commands.'
11 So because I was very angry, I solemnly said about them,
'They will never enter the land of Canaan where I would have allowed them to rest!'"

96 1 Sing to Yahweh a new song!
All you people throughout the earth, sing to Yahweh!
2 Sing to Yahweh and praise him!
Every day proclaim to others that he has saved us.
3 Tell about how glorious he is to all people groups;

tell all peoples everywhere the marvelous things that he has done.

4 Do this because Yahweh is great, and he deserves very much for people to praise him;

people should revere him more than all other gods.

5 This is true because all of the gods that the other peoples worship are only idols, but it is Yahweh who made the heavens!

6 Yahweh is magnificent and majestic.

His holy house shows how strong and beautiful he is.

7 You peoples in nations all over the earth,

Proclaim that Yahweh is the one who is truly glorious and strong!

8 Praise Yahweh as he deserves for us to praise him;

bring an offering and come to his temple.

9 Bow down before Yahweh because he is marvelously holy.

Everyone on earth should tremble because of who he is.

10 Say to all the people groups, "Yahweh is the king!"

He put the world in its place, and nothing will ever be able to move it.

He judges all the peoples fairly.

11 All the beings that are in the heavens should be glad, and all the people on the earth should rejoice.

The oceans and all the creatures that are in the oceans should roar to praise Yahweh.

12 Let it be as though the fields and everything that is in them are rejoicing.

Then let it be as though all the trees in the forests are singing joyfully

13 in front of Yahweh.

They should do this because he is coming to judge everyone on the earth, and this is certain.

He will judge all the people fairly according to what he knows is true.

97

1 Yahweh is the king!

I want everyone on the earth to be glad and I want all the people who live on the land in and around the oceans to also rejoice about that!

2 There are very dark clouds all around him;
he always rules righteously and justly.
3 He sends fire out in front of him, and that fire burns all of his enemies.
4 All around the world he sends his bright lightning; people on the earth see it, and it causes them to be afraid and to tremble.
5 The mountains melt like wax before Yahweh;
he is the Lord who rules over all of the earth.
6 Everything that people can see in the heavens makes it clear that he is righteous, and all the people groups see how glorious he is.
7 Everyone who worships carved images should be ashamed;
all those who are proud of their useless false gods should be ashamed.
All those gods should bow down to worship Yahweh!
8 The people of Jerusalem heard Yahweh's just decrees and they were happy about them;
people in the other cities in Judah also heard and rejoiced because you judge people justly, Yahweh.
9 Of course, Yahweh, you are the supreme king who rules over all the earth;
You are far more powerful than any other spirit beings.
10 All you who love Yahweh, you must hate every evil thing that people do!
Yahweh protects those who are faithful to him;
he rescues them when wicked people try to harm them.
11 He makes good things happen for righteous people and he causes those who are honest to rejoice.
12 You righteous people, let Yahweh make you glad, and thank him, the one we all know to be holy!

98

1 A psalm.
Sing to Yahweh a new song
because he has done wonderful things!
By being powerfully holy he has saved his people.

2 Yahweh has shown openly that he saves his people;
he has revealed to people all over the world that he always does what is right.
3 He is always loyal to his covenant to be faithful to the Israelite people.
Even the people who live in the most remote places of the earth will see that our God saves his people.
4 All you people everywhere should shout joyfully to Yahweh;
praise him while you sing joyfully and make music!
5 Play to Yahweh on a harp, and sing along as you play.
6 Some of you should blow trumpets and ram's horns while others shout joyfully to Yahweh, our king!
7 The oceans and all the creatures that are in the oceans should roar to praise Yahweh.
The earth itself and everyone on it should do the same!
8 It should seem as though the rivers were clapping their hands to praise Yahweh and that the hills were singing together joyfully 9 before Yahweh because he will come to judge everyone on the earth!
He will judge all the people in the world justly and fairly.

99 1 Yahweh is the supreme king,
so all people should tremble in front of him!
He sits on his throne in the temple above the statues of the cherubim, so the earth should quake!
2 Yahweh is a mighty king in Jerusalem;
he is also the supreme ruler of all peoples.
3 They should praise you, Yahweh, because you are great and awesome!
They should say, "He is holy!"
4 Yahweh is a mighty king because he loves what is just.
You, Yahweh, have established what is fair.
You have acted justly and righteously for the people of Israel.
5 Praise Yahweh, the God whom we worship!

Bow down to him at the temple, which is his footstool.
He is holy!

6 Moses and Aaron were two of his priests;
Samuel also was someone who prayed to him.
Those three cried out to Yahweh to help them,
and he helped them.

7 He spoke to Moses and Aaron from the cloud that was like a huge pillar.
They obeyed all the laws and commandments that he gave to them.

8 Yahweh, our God, you helped Moses, Aaron, and Samuel when they cried out to you to help them;
you are the God who forgave them for the sins that they had committed, even though you punished them for the things that they did that were wrong.

9 Praise Yahweh, our God, and worship him at the temple on his holy hill;
it is right to do that because Yahweh, our God, is holy!

100

1 A psalm of thanksgiving.

Everyone in the world should shout joyfully to Yahweh!

2 We should worship Yahweh gladly!
We should come before him singing joyfully.

3 We should acknowledge that Yahweh is God.
It is he who made us; we did not make ourselves.
We are the people who belong to him;
we are like sheep that he cares for as a shepherd does.

4 Enter the gates of his temple thanking him;
enter the courtyard of his temple singing songs to praise him!
Thank him and praise him

5 because Yahweh always does good things for us.
He will faithfully love us forever, and he will always fulfill everything that he has promised.

1 David wrote this psalm.

Yahweh, I will praise you with singing!

I will sing that you are just and that you faithfully love us.

2 I will examine how to live in the right way.

Yahweh, I need you to come and help me!

In everything that I do in my household, I will sincerely try to do what is right.

3 I will not tempt myself to do any bad thing.

I hate any kind of sinful action;

I will not allow myself to think about doing those things.

4 I will not be dishonest, and I will not do anything evil.

5 I will get rid of anyone who secretly slanders someone else.

I will not tolerate anyone who is proud or arrogant.

6 I look for people in this land who are loyal to God to help me rule this nation.

Only people who behave honestly may work for me.

7 I will not allow anyone who deceives others to work in my palace, and I will not allow anyone who tells lies to continue working for me.

8 I will start every day by working to get rid of all of the wicked people in this land.

I will expel everyone who does what is evil from this city that belongs to Yahweh.

Someone wrote this prayer when he was feeling discouraged and pleads for Yahweh to help him.

1 Yahweh, please listen to me when I pray to you;

yes, please be attentive as I cry out to you!

2 When distressing things happen to me, please do not ignore me!

Listen to me,

and answer me quickly as soon as I call out to you!

3 Please hurry because my life is ending as quickly as smoke that disappears;

my body feels like a fire is burning it.

4 I feel as though I am withering away like grass that the sun has scorched.
You see, I do not even remember to eat any food.

5 I groan aloud so much that my bones protrude under my skin.

6 I am lonely and despised like an owl in the desert;
I have become like a screech owl in the ruins of a town.

7 I lie awake at night;
I am like a lonely bird sitting on a housetop.

8 During the whole of each day my enemies insult me.
Those who make fun of me use my name when they curse people, saying, "May you be like him."

9-10 It feels as though you have picked me up and thrown me away!
Because you are so very angry with me, my food tastes like ashes and my tears fall into my drink.

11 My time to remain alive is coming to an end like an evening shadow that will soon be gone.
I have withered as grass withers in the hot sun.

12 But Yahweh, you will rule forever on your royal throne; people of all times will talk about you.

13 You yourself will now act and be merciful to the people of Jerusalem; you will do this because it is now the time that you have set for you to be kind to them.

14 It is true that we who serve you love everything about Jerusalem.

15 Yahweh, someday the people of all nations will revere you, and all the kings on the earth will recognize how very glorious you are.

16 You see, it is Yahweh who builds Jerusalem;
he will appear there gloriously.

17 Yahweh listens to the prayers of his people who are homeless.
He does not ignore them when they pray for him to help them.

18 I will write these things down so that people in future years will know what he has done, in order that people who are not born yet will praise Yahweh.

19 They will describe how Yahweh looked down from his holy place in heaven and saw what was happening on the earth.

20 Yahweh looked down in order to help the groaning prisoners.
He looked down in order to set free the people whom their enemies were about to kill.

21 As a result, people in Jerusalem will tell what Yahweh has done and praise him for it.

22 This will happen when many peoples, including those from other kingdoms, gather to worship Yahweh together.

23 But now he has caused me to become weak while I am still young;
I think that I will not remain alive very long.

24 I say to you, "My God, do not let me die when I am only half-way through my lifetime!
In contrast, you live forever!

25 You created the world long ago, and you are the one who made the heavens.

26 As for the earth and the heavens, they will disappear, but as for you, you will remain.
All of it will wear out as clothes wear out.
You will get rid of them as people get rid of old clothes, and they will no longer exist.

27 But you are Yahweh;
you will always be.

28 The children of those who worship you will live safely in Jerusalem, and you will protect their descendants as they live in your presence."

1 A psalm of David

I tell myself, “Praise Yahweh!”

To everything that is within me, I say, “Praise him because he is holy!”

2 I tell myself, “Praise Yahweh, and think about all of the kind things that he has done for me.”

3 He forgives all of my sins, and he heals me from all of my sicknesses.

4 He rescues me from things that would kill me;

he blesses me by faithfully loving me and acting mercifully to me.

5 He gives me plenty of good things during my entire life.

He makes me feel young and strong as though I could fly high like an eagle.

6 It is Yahweh who does all this! He does what is right and judges justly for all those whom people have been treating unfairly.

7 Long ago he revealed to Moses the way that he works;

he showed to our ancestors, the people of Israel, the mighty things that he can do.

8 Yahweh acts mercifully and kindly;

he does not quickly get angry when we sin;

he always faithfully loves us.

9 He will not always rebuke us, and he will not remain angry forever.

10 He does not punish us for our sins nearly as much as we deserve.

11 Indeed, as high as the sky is above the earth, that is how much Yahweh faithfully loves everyone who reveres him.

12 He has taken away the guilt for our sins and put it as far from us as the east is from the west.

13 Just as parents always love their children,

Yahweh always loves those who revere him.

14 Indeed, he certainly knows how weak we are;

he remembers that he created us from dust.

15 The lifetime of humans passes quickly, like that of grass.
We are like wild flowers that bloom for a short while, 16 but then the wind blows over them and they disappear, and no one knows they were ever there.
17 But Yahweh will continue to faithfully love all those who revere him, forever.
He will do what is right for generations of their children, 18 that is, he will act that way to all those who obey the covenant that he made with them.
Yes, he will act that way to all those who obey what he has commanded us to do.
19 Yahweh rules as king in heaven.
From there, he rules over everything.
20 Praise Yahweh, you angels who belong to Yahweh,
You powerful warriors who do what he tells you to do,
you who obey what he commands!
21 Praise Yahweh, all you armies of his angels, you who serve him and do what he desires!
22 All of the creatures that Yahweh has created should praise him!
They should praise him in every place where he rules, which is everywhere!
I say to myself, "Praise Yahweh!"

104 1 I tell myself, "Bless Yahweh!"
Yahweh, my God, you are magnificent!
You are more majestic than a king appearing in his beautiful robes!
2 You use light itself as your robe;
you spread out all of heaven as your tent.
3 The rain clouds are like the upper rooms of your palace.
The clouds are like chariots for you;
the wind is like a bird that takes you wherever you want to go.
4 You send the winds like your messengers, and you control fire as your servant.

5 You created the world to be secure,
so that nothing can ever move it from its place.

6 Later, you covered the earth with a flood, like covering someone with clothing; water even covered the mountains.

7 Then you commanded the water, and it receded;
yes, you spoke loudly,
and the water rushed away.

8 Part of the water ascended to its place above the mountains, and part of it descended the valleys to its place in the earth.
All of it went back to the place that you had determined for it.

9 Then you set a boundary for the water that it cannot cross over.
That boundary ensures that the water will never again cover the whole earth.

10 You make the springs that pour water into the stream beds;
their water flows between the mountains.

11 Those streams provide water for all of his wild animals to drink.
The wild donkeys drink the water and are no longer thirsty.

12 Birds make their nests beside the streams.
They sing among the branches of the trees.

13 From the heavens you send rain down on the mountains.
As a result of doing this, you satisfy all of the creatures on earth with many good things.

14 You make grass to grow for the cattle to eat, and you make plants to grow for people to cultivate,
so that they can make bread from those plants that grew in the soil.

15 You give us grapes that produce wine that makes us cheerful;
you give us olives that produce oil to make our faces shine, and you give us grain to make bread that makes us strong.

16 Yahweh, you send plenty of rain to water your cedar trees that you planted in Lebanon.

17 Birds make their nests in those trees, and storks make their nests in the cypress trees.

18 High up in the mountains is where the wild goats live, and hyraxes live in the rocky cliffs.

19 Yahweh, you made the moon to indicate the times for our festivals, and you made the sun to always go down at the right time.

20 You bring darkness, and it becomes night when all of your forest animals prowl around.

21 The young lions roar then as they seek their prey, looking for the food that you have provided for them.

22 At dawn, they go back to their dens and lie down.

23 That is when people go to their work;
and they do their work until it is evening.

24 Yahweh, you have made so many different kinds of things!
You were very wise as you made them all.
The earth is full of the creatures that you made.

25 We see the ocean, which is vastly wide between its shores!
It is full of many kinds of wriggling creatures,
so many that no one can count them.
There are creatures ranging from small to big.

26 Ships sail on the sea.
Leviathan is also there, the creature that you made to splash around in it.

27 All of these creatures depend on you to give them the food that they need at the right time.

28 When you give them the food that they need,
then they gather it.
You give it to them freely.
They eat until they are full of your good things.

29 But when you refuse to give food to them, they panic.
When you cause them to stop breathing, they die;
their bodies decay and become part of the soil.

30 When you cause newborn creatures to begin to breathe, they begin to live.
You give new life to all the living creatures on the earth.
31 I want all of Yahweh's creatures to glorify him forever!
I want Yahweh to rejoice about everything that he has created!
32 He makes the earth shake just by looking at it!
When he merely touches the mountains they start to burn!
33 I will sing to Yahweh as long as I live.
I will praise my God until the day that I die.
34 May Yahweh be pleased by all these things that I have thought about him.
As for me, I will rejoice because I know him.
35 However, I want sinners to disappear from the earth, and for there to be no more wicked people!
I tell myself, "Bless Yahweh!"
Praise Yahweh!

105 1 Give thanks to Yahweh; worship him and pray to him.
Tell everyone in the world what he has done!
2 Sing to him; praise him with instruments;
tell others about all of his wonderful miracles!
3 Be proud of Yahweh, who is the holy one.
You people who worship Yahweh, rejoice!
4 Ask Yahweh to help you and to make you strong;
always try to be with him!
5-6 You people who are descendants of Yahweh's servant Abraham, you descendants of Jacob, the people whom Yahweh has chosen, think about all of the wonderful things that he has done;
he performed miracles, and he proclaimed righteous judgments.
7 He is Yahweh, the God whom we worship.
He rules over people throughout the earth.
8 He never forgets the covenant that he made;

that is, he will maintain what he promised for countless generations.

9 That is the covenant that he made with Abraham, and that he repeated with an oath to Isaac.

10 Then he repeated it as a reliable covenant with Jacob, that is, with Israel, and it was a covenant that would last forever.

11 What Yahweh said to them was, “I will give to you the region of Canaan; that will be what you and your descendants inherit from me.”

12 Yahweh said that to the people of Israel when there were only a few of them.
They were just a tiny group of people who were living in that land like strangers.

13 They continually wandered from one place to another, living in various kingdoms and people groups.

14 But Yahweh did not allow others to oppress the people of Israel.
On their behalf, he warned kings by saying to them,

15 “Do not harm the people whom I have chosen!
Do nothing bad to my prophets!”

16 Yahweh created a famine in the land of Canaan, that is, all of the people there had no food to eat.

17 So the people of Israel went to Egypt, but before they went, Yahweh had already sent someone there.
He sent Joseph, whom his brothers had sold to be a slave.

18 Later, while Joseph was in prison in Egypt,
the guards trapped his feet in shackles,
and they put an iron collar around his neck.

19 Joseph was in prison until the time when the events that he had predicted happened.
Yahweh spoke to him during this time and taught Joseph to trust him more.

20 The king of Egypt, the ruler of the people, commanded his servants who went to the prison and set Joseph free.

21 Then the king chose Joseph as the one to decide about everything in the king’s household, that is, to be in charge of everything that the king possessed.

22 The king permitted Joseph to command the king's officials to do anything that Joseph wanted them to do, and Joseph taught the king's advisors how to be wise.

23 Later, Joseph's father Jacob, also called Israel, arrived in Egypt.
He lived like a foreigner in that land that belonged to the descendants of Ham.

24 Over the years, Yahweh caused the descendants of Jacob to become very numerous.
As a result, the enemies of the people of Israel considered that the people of Israel were becoming too strong.

25 So Yahweh caused the rulers of Egypt to hate Yahweh's people, and they devised ways to oppress his people.

26 But then Yahweh sent his servant Moses along with Moses' older brother Aaron, whom Yahweh had also chosen to serve him.

27 Those two performed Yahweh's amazing miracles among the people of Egypt in that land where the descendants of Ham lived.

28 Yahweh sent darkness so that the land of Egypt was dark, and Moses and Aaron obeyed what Yahweh told them to do.

29 Yahweh caused all of the water in Egypt to become blood, which caused all of their fish to die.

30 Then he caused the land to become full of frogs;
the royal family even had frogs in their bedrooms!

31 Then Yahweh commanded that flies come, and swarms of flies descended on the people of Egypt.
Gnats also swarmed across the whole country.

32 Yahweh sent them hail instead of rain, and he started fires that burned throughout their land.

33 The hail ruined their grapevines, fig trees, and destroyed all the other trees in their country.

34 Yahweh commanded locusts to come, and hordes of them came of different kinds;

so many came that no one could count them.

35 The locusts ate every green plant in their land, including all of the crops.

36 Then Yahweh killed every firstborn son, the one who first demonstrated that the man was virile, in every house of the people of Egypt.

37 Then Yahweh brought the Israelite people out from Egypt.

They were carrying many heavy things made of silver and gold that the people of Egypt had given to them, and yet none of his people stumbled as they went.

38 The people of Egypt were glad when the Israelite people left because the people of Egypt had become very afraid of the Israelites.

39 Then Yahweh spread a cloud to cover the Israelites; and at night it became a big fire in the sky to give them light.

40 Then the Israelites asked for meat to eat, and Yahweh sent flocks of quail to them, and he gave them plenty of manna bread from the sky each morning.

41 One day Yahweh split open a rock, and water poured out from the opening for the people to drink.

The water became a river flowing in the desert.

42 Yahweh did those things because he continually thought about the sacred promise that he had given to his servant, Abraham.

43 So his people were joyful as Yahweh brought them out from Egypt.

These people whom he had chosen were shouting joyfully as they went.

44 Then Yahweh gave to the people of Israel the land that had belonged to the people groups that lived there in Canaan.

So the Israelites took over the fields that those peoples had planted.

45 Yahweh did all these things so that his people would do all the things that he had commanded them to do.

Praise Yahweh!

106

1 Praise Yahweh!

Thank Yahweh because he is good

and because he faithfully loves us forever!

2 Because Yahweh has done so many great things, no one can tell all the great things that Yahweh has done, and no one can praise him enough.

3 How happy are those who act fairly, always doing what is right!

4 Yahweh, be kind to me when you help your people!

Include me when you rescue them!

5 Allow me to see the people whom you have chosen become prosperous again.

Allow me to be happy with the people of your nation when they become happy again.

Allow me to praise you along with all those others who belong to you.

6 We have sinned just as our ancestors did;

we have done all kinds of evil.

7 Our ancestors did not appreciate the wonderful things that you did when they were in Egypt.

They forgot about the many times that you showed that you faithfully loved them.

Instead, when they were at the Sea of Reeds, they rebelled against you.

8 Even so, he rescued them because of who he is, so that he could show that he is very powerful.

9 He rebuked the Sea of Reeds and it became dry.

Then he led our ancestors through it and even the deepest parts were as dry as a desert.

10 In that way he rescued them from their hateful enemies.

11 Then their enemies drowned under the water of the Sea of Reeds; not one of them remained alive.

12 When that happened, our ancestors believed that Yahweh had truly done for them what he had promised to do, and they sang to praise him.
13 But they soon forgot what he had done for them;
they did things without waiting to find out what Yahweh wanted them to do.
14 They intensely wanted certain foods in the wilderness.
They did evil things there that challenged God to punish them.
15 So he gave them what they requested, but then he made many of them sick so that they died.
16 Later when some of the men in the camp became resentful of Moses and of his older brother Aaron, who was dedicated to serve Yahweh by being a priest, 17 the ground opened up and Dathan fell into it and it also buried Abiram and his people.
18 God made a fire start among their people that burned up all the wicked people who agreed with them.
19 Then the Israelite leaders made a metal statue of a calf at Mount Horeb and they worshiped it.
20 So instead of worshiping their glorious God, they worshiped a statue of a bull that eats grass!
21 They ignored God, who had rescued them by the great miracles that he performed in Egypt.
22 They stopped thinking about the wonderful things that he did for them in Egypt and the amazing things that he did for them at the Sea of Reeds.
23 Because of that, God said that he would get rid of the Israelites;
but Moses, whom God had chosen to serve him, confronted God to persuade him not to destroy them.
24 Then our ancestors refused to enter the beautiful land of Canaan because they did not believe that God would fulfill his promise that he would enable them to take the land from the people who were living there.
25 Instead, they stayed in their tents and complained.

They did not obey what Yahweh said that they should do.

26 So Yahweh solemnly swore to them that he would cause them to die there in the wilderness,

27 and that he would spread their descendants among the people of other nations, yes, that he would disperse them in those foreign lands.

28 Later the Israelite people began worshiping the statue of Baal at Mount Peor, and they ate meat that had been sacrificed to dead ancestors.

29 When the people did these things, that made Yahweh angry, so again he caused many of them to get a terrible disease.

30 But Phinehas stood up and punished the ones who had sinned, and as a result the plague ended.

31 Because of what Phinehas did, people have considered him to be a righteous man, and people in all future years will continue to remember him as righteous.

32 Then at Meribah, where the water came out of the rock, our ancestors caused Yahweh to become angry again, and Moses suffered because of what they did.

33 Moses suffered because they caused him to become very angry, and he said things that were foolish.

34 Our ancestors did not destroy the other people groups as Yahweh had told them to do.

35 Instead, the men married women from those people groups, and they started doing the evil things that those people did.

36 Our ancestors worshiped the idols of those people, and that is how they began to reject Yahweh and his ways.

37 Many of the Israelites sacrificed their sons and daughters to the demons that those idols represented.

38 They killed their own sons and daughters, who had done nothing wrong, by offering them as sacrifices to the idols of the Canaanites.
Because of those murders, the land of Canaan became defiled.

39 Because of what they did they made it impossible for Yahweh to accept them.
By worshiping idols instead of faithfully worshiping only Yahweh, they became like prostitutes.
40 So Yahweh became very angry with his people;
he was completely disgusted with them.
41 As a result, he allowed other people groups to conquer our ancestors, so that those who hated our ancestors were their rulers.
42 Their enemies oppressed our ancestors and completely controlled them.
43 Many times Yahweh saved his people, but they insisted on rebelling against him,
and they destroyed themselves by being more and more sinful.
44 However, Yahweh saw everything that was distressing to them, and he listened to them when they cried out to him for help.
45 He thought about the covenant that he had made with them, and because he was completely committed to faithfully loving them, he decided that he would stop punishing them.
46 He caused all those who had captured the Israelites to feel sorry for them.
47 Yahweh our God, rescue us and bring us back to Israel from among those other people groups so that we may thank you who are holy and joyfully praise you!
48 Praise Yahweh, the God whom we Israelites worship!
Praise him now and forever!
Let all the people say, “We agree!
Praise Yahweh!”

Book Five

107

1 Thank Yahweh because he is good
and because he faithfully loves us forever!

2 Those whom Yahweh has saved should tell others that he has rescued them from their enemies.
3 He has gathered them together from many foreign lands;
he has gathered them from the east and the west,
from the north and from the southern sea.
4 Some of those who returned from those countries wandered in the trackless desert;
they could find no town to live in.
5 They were hungry and thirsty, and they became weak and discouraged.
6 Then because they were distressed, they called out to Yahweh,
and he rescued them from what was distressing them.
7 He led them along a straight road where they walked safely to cities where they could live.
8 They should praise Yahweh for how he has loved them faithfully and for the wonderful things that he does for all people!
9 They should thank him because he satisfies people who are thirsty, and he gives hungry people plenty of good food to eat.
10 Some of them sat in deep darkness;
they were prisoners, suffering in iron chains fastened to their hands and feet.
11 They were suffering in prison because they had rebelled against God;
they actually rejected the instructions that the Most High God gave to them.
12 God made them experience difficult things so that they would no longer be proud.
When bad things happened to them, there was no one who would help them.
13 Then because they were so distressed, they called out to Yahweh, and he rescued them from what was distressing them.
14 He broke the chains that were on their hands and feet and brought them out of those very dark prisons.
15-16 Yahweh broke down the bronze gates and he cut through the iron bars of their prison.

Therefore they should praise Yahweh for how he has loved them faithfully and for the wonderful things that he does for all people!
17 Some of them foolishly rebelled against God, and they suffered because of their sins.
18 They did not want to eat any food,
and they almost died.
19 Then because they were so distressed, they called out to Yahweh,
and he rescued them from what was distressing them.
20 Then Yahweh healed them by speaking a message of healing;
in this way he saved them from dying.
21 They should praise Yahweh for how he has loved them faithfully and for the wonderful things that he does for all people!
22 They should give offerings to him to show that they are thankful, and they should tell about the miracles that he has performed by singing joyfully!
23 Some of them sailed in ships;
they bought and sold things far away across the sea.
24 These people saw the creatures that Yahweh created;
they saw the amazing things that he had made as they traveled across the very deep seas.
25 Then he commanded the winds to become strong.
They became a storm and stirred up very high waves.
26 The ships in which they were sailing went up on the high waves, then they went down into the troughs between the waves.
This dangerous action terrified the sailors.
27 They stumbled about and staggered as drunken men do, and everything that they tried to do was useless.
28 Then because they were distressed, they called out to Yahweh,
and he rescued them from what was distressing them.
29 He calmed the storm and he stilled the waves.

30 Then they were very glad that the storm had become calm and Yahweh brought them safely into the harbor where they had wanted to go.
31 They should praise Yahweh for how he has loved them faithfully and for the wonderful things that he does for all people!
32 They should praise him among the Israelite people when they have gathered together, and they should praise him in front of the leaders of the community.
33 Yahweh causes rivers to become dry so that the land becomes barren, and he makes springs of water to become dusty ground.
34 Yahweh causes land that normally produces a lot of crops to become salty wastelands.
He does that because the people who live there are very wicked.
35 But Yahweh also creates pools of water in deserts, that is, he causes springs to flow where the ground had been dry.
36 Then he brings people who are hungry into that land, to live there and to build cities there.
37 Then they sow some of the fields with seeds and in other fields they plant grapevines and it all produces a large amount of crops.
38 He blesses those people so that they have very many children, and so that their herds of cattle become very large.
39 Then the people become fewer because the leaders oppress them and cause them to become distressed and to suffer.
40 Then Yahweh shows that he despises the leaders who oppress them, and makes those leaders wander in a wilderness where there are no roads.
41 But he rescues poor people from those who oppress them and causes their families to increase in number as flocks of sheep do.
42 People who live rightly see Yahweh do these things, and they rejoice;
wicked people know about these things, too,

but they have nothing to say in reply.

43 Those who are wise should think carefully about these things;
they should thoughtfully consider all the things that Yahweh has done to show that he faithfully loves them.

108

David wrote this psalm. It is a song.

1 God, I am completely committed to worshiping you.
I will sing and I will play music to praise you.
I will do this with my whole being!

2 I will arise before the sun rises, and I will praise you while I play my lyre and my harp.

3 Yahweh, I will thank you as foreign people listen;
yes, I will play music to praise you before other people groups.

4 I will do that because the way that you faithfully love us is so great that it is like the distance between the heavens and the earth, and the way that you faithfully keep your promises is so great that it is like the distance between the earth and the clouds.

5 God, show all creatures that you are greater than anything in the heavens!
Show how wonderful you are to people all over the earth!

6 Please answer our prayers and rescue us from our enemies by your power so that we, the people whom you love, may be safe.

7 Because God is holy, he answered, "I will joyfully divide the area of Shechem for you and I will distribute among my people the land in the Valley of Succoth.

8 The region of Gilead is mine;
the area of the tribe of Manasseh is mine;
the tribe of Ephraim is like my war helmet;
and the tribe of Judah is like my royal scepter.

9 The people of Moab serve me as those who wash my feet;
the people of Edom also belong to me as menial servants;
I have defeated the people of Philistia."

10 I wait for God to lead us to fight against the people of Edom;

I wait for God to lead my army to attack their capital city that has strong walls around it.

11 God, we hope that you have not abandoned us;

we are distressed that you have not been going with us when our army marches out to fight our enemies.

12 Please help us when we fight against our enemies because the help that humans can give to us is worthless.

13 But with you helping us, we will win;

you are the one who will enable us to defeat our enemies.

1 A note to the worship leader: David wrote this psalm.

God, you are the one whom I praise,

so please answer my prayer

2 because evil and dishonest people slander me and tell lies about me.

3 On all sides of me they say things that show that they hate me, and they harm me for no reason.

4 I show them that I love them but instead of being kind to me, they say that I have done evil things.

So I pray to God about it.

5 I do good things for them and they respond by doing evil things to me.

I love them and they respond by hating me.

6 So appoint a wicked judge who will judge my enemy, and bring one of his enemies who will stand next to him and accuse him of doing evil things.

7 Let that judge declare that my enemy is guilty, and may you judge that even his prayer to you is a sin.

8 Then cause him to die soon;

let people honor someone else rather than him.

9 Cause his children not to have a father anymore, and cause his wife to become a widow.

10 Cause his children to wander far from their ruined homes, begging and looking for food.

11 Let the people to whom he owed money seize all of his property;
let strangers take away everything that he worked to acquire.

12 Make sure that no one is faithfully loving to him;
make sure that no one pities his fatherless children.

13 Cause all his children to die, so that there will not be another generation to continue his name.

14 Yahweh, consider all of the evil things that his ancestors did and do not forgive the sins that his mother committed.

15 Please think about their sins always, but cause everyone on earth to completely forget who they were.

16 I pray these things because that man, my enemy, was never faithful toward anyone as your covenant says we must be;
instead, he persecuted poor, needy, and grieving people until they were dead.

17 He enjoyed cursing other people, so now people are cursing him.
He did not want to bless other people, so there will be no one who blesses him.

18 Cursing other people is as natural for him as wearing clothes.
Cursing other people is so much a part of who he is that it is like the water that he drinks;
it is so much a part of who he is that it is like olive oil that has soaked into his bones.

19 Cause those terrible curses to continually afflict him like clothes that cling to him and like the belt that he wears every day.

20 Yahweh, let this curse be the way that you punish all of those who accuse me of doing bad things and all of those who say evil things about me.

21 But you, Yahweh, my God, please be kind to me because of who you are!
Rescue me from my enemies
because you faithfully love me as you promised.
22 I ask you to do this because I am destitute and I am intensely sorrowful.
23 I think that my time to remain alive will end as quickly as an evening shadow disappears.
I will be gone as quickly as a man shakes off a locust.
24 My knees are weak because I have fasted very often, and my body has become very thin; any fat is gone.
25 The people who accuse me despise me;
when they see me, they insult me by shaking their heads at me.
26 Yahweh, the God whom I worship, please help me!
Rescue me because you faithfully love me!
27 Then my enemies will know that you, Yahweh, are the one who has done it!
28 As for them, they will curse me, but you, in contrast, will bless me.
When they persecute me, the result will be that you make them ashamed, but you cause me, your servant, to be glad!
29 Please let everyone see that those who accuse me are completely disgraceful!
Yes, cause other people to see that they are shameful as easily as someone sees the clothes that they wear!
30 I will thank Yahweh very much out loud;
I will praise him when I am among the crowd of people who are worshiping him.
31 I will do that because he defends poor people like me in order to save us from those who would condemn us to die.

110

1 David wrote this psalm.
Yahweh said to my lord,

"Sit here, close to me, in the place of highest honor until I completely defeat your enemies and make them like a stool for your feet!"

2 Yahweh will extend your powerful kingdom from Zion to other lands;
you are to rule over all your enemies.

3 When you lead your army into battle, your people will offer themselves freely to join your army.
The way that they are completely devoted to you will be beautiful.
You will be as strong as you were as a young man every day, as surely as the dew comes that waters the earth every morning.

4 Yahweh has made a solemn promise and he will never change his mind about it; he said to the king, "You are an eternal priest in the way that Melchizedek was a priest."

5 The Lord fights for you;
when he becomes angry, he defeats many kings.

6 He will punish the people of many nations;
he will cause many enemy soldiers to fall dead, with crushed heads, all over a broad land.

7 But the king will drink from the stream alongside the road;
because of all this, he will be victorious.

111

1 Praise Yahweh!
I will thank Yahweh with my entire inner being every time that those who do what is right meet together.

2 The things that Yahweh does are wonderful!
All those who delight in those things study them carefully.

3 The things that he does show how wonderful and glorious he is,
and that he is eternally righteous.

4 He has done wonderful things that people will always remember;

Yahweh always acts kindly and mercifully.

5 He provides food for those who profoundly respect him;

he never forgets the covenant that he made with our ancestors.

6 By enabling his people to capture the lands that had belonged to other people groups, he showed to us, his people, that he is very powerful.

7 He does everything fairly and in the right way, and we can trust that everything that he tells us to do is for our good.

8 We must obey his instructions forever;

he created them in order to do what is best for us, and they are completely right.

9 He rescued us, his people, from being slaves in Egypt, and he made a covenant with us that will last forever.

He is holy and awesome!

10 Having a profound respect for Yahweh is the way to become wise.

All those who obey his instructions will come to understand why it is good to do them.

We should praise him forever!

112

1 Praise Yahweh!

How fortunate are those who have a profound respect for Yahweh;

How fortunate are those who happily obey his commands!

2 Their descendants will prosper in their land;

Yahweh will bless all who do what is right.

3 Their families will be wealthy, and their righteous deeds will endure forever.

4 For those who honor God, it is as if a light were shining on them in the darkness, on those who are kind, merciful, and righteous.

5 It is good to be kind to others and to generously lend money to them.

A person like that does everything honestly.

6 Righteous people do this because they know that bad things will never overwhelm them;

other people will always joyfully remember them.

7 Righteous people are not afraid when they receive bad news;
they confidently trust in Yahweh.

8 They are confident and not afraid because they know that they will see God defeat their enemies.

9 They give things generously to poor people;
their kind deeds will endure forever;
people will greatly honor them.

10 Wicked people will see those things and become angry;
they will gnash their teeth angrily, then people will stop hearing from them and they will die.
The wicked things that they want to do will never happen.

113 1 Praise Yahweh!
You people who serve Yahweh, praise him!
Praise Yahweh for who he is!

2 Everyone should praise Yahweh for who he is, both now and forevermore!

3 From the people who live in the far east to the people who live in the far west, everyone should praise Yahweh for who he is!

4 Yahweh rules over all the nations,
he is more glorious than anything under the heavens.

5 There is no one who is like Yahweh, the God whom we worship, who sits on his throne in the highest heaven

6 and who stoops down to look at the sky and at the earth.

7 He rescues very poor people from the very poor way that they live

8 and causes people to honor them by making them leaders among those who rule his people.

9 He also enables women who have had no children to live in their houses as happy mothers with children.
Praise Yahweh!

114 1 When the Israelite people left Egypt, yes, when the descendants of Jacob left those people who spoke a foreign language,

2 the land of Judah became the place where people worshiped God;

and the land of Israel became the area that he ruled over.

3 When they came to the Sea of Reeds, it was as though the water saw them and ran away!

When they came to the Jordan River, the water in the river stopped flowing so that the Israelites could cross it.

4 When Mount Sinai shook,

it was as though the mountains skipped like rams and the hills jumped like lambs.

5 If someone asks, "What happened at the Sea of Reeds that made it seem to run away?

What happened that caused the water in the Jordan River to stop flowing?

6 What happened at Mount Sinai that made the mountains seem to skip like rams and made the hills seem to jump like lambs?"

7 I would reply, "The earth trembles because the Lord is there!

Everyone should tremble because of the presence of the God whom Jacob worshiped!"

8 He is the one who caused pools of water to flow from a rock for the Israelite people to drink;

indeed, he caused a spring to flow from a solid rock!

115 A psalm written by David

1 Yahweh, we ask not so people will honor us, no, not that at all;

rather, we want people to honor you alone because of seeing how you faithfully love us and by seeing you do what you have promised to do.

2 It is not right that other people groups should say about us,

"We do not see their God doing anything to help them."

3 Well, the God whom we worship lives in heaven;

he does whatever he wants!

4 But the idols of those people groups are only silver and gold statues;
humans made them.

5 Their idols have mouths, but they cannot say anything;
they have eyes, but they cannot see anything.

6 They have ears, but they cannot hear anything;
they have noses, but they cannot smell anything.

7 They have hands, but they cannot feel anything;
they have feet, but they cannot walk;
they cannot even make any sounds in their throats!

8 The people who make those idols are as powerless as those idols,
Everyone who trusts in those idols to do anything is also powerless!

9 You, my fellow Israelite people, trust in Yahweh!
He is the one who helps you and protects you like a shield.

10 You priests, the descendants of Aaron, trust in Yahweh!
He is the one who helps you and protects you like a shield.

11 All you who deeply respect Yahweh, trust in Yahweh!
He is the one who helps you and protects you like a shield.

12 Yahweh has not forgotten us; he will bless us.
he will bless us Israelite people!
He will bless the priests!

13 Yahweh will bless all those who deeply respect him—those who are less important as well as the important people, that is, each one!

14 I pray that Yahweh may give many children both to you, my fellow Israelite people, and to your children after you.

15 I pray that Yahweh, the one who made heaven and the earth, may bless all of you!

16 The highest heavens belong to Yahweh, but he gave everything that is on the earth to humankind.

17 People who are dead are not able to praise Yahweh;

when they go to the place where dead people are,
they become silent and cannot praise him.
18 But we who are alive will praise Yahweh, both now and forevermore.
Praise Yahweh!

116 1 I love Yahweh
because he hears me when I cry out for him to help me.
2 I love him because he listens to me, so I will call out to him all during my life.
3 Everything around me caused me to think that I was about to die;
it seemed to me that I was already dying.
I was distressed and very sad.
4 But then I called out to Yahweh.
I said, "Yahweh, I plead with you to save me!"
5 Yahweh is kind and does what is right.
He is the God whom we worship, and he loves us.
6 Yahweh protects those who are helpless;
when I was experiencing bad things, he saved me.
7 I encourage myself to relax once again because Yahweh has restored me.
8 Indeed, Yahweh has saved me from dying, he has delivered me from being sorrowful,
and he has kept me from making bad mistakes.
9 So while I am still alive,
I will live as Yahweh directs me.
10 I continued to trust in Yahweh, even when I said, "As for me, I am greatly suffering." 11 For my part, I was so distressed that I thought,
"I cannot trust anyone."
12 I can never repay Yahweh for all the good things that he has done for me.

13 But I can do this: I will present a cup of wine as a thank offering as I call out to thank him for saving me.

14 Also, as the people who belong to Yahweh watch,
I will give to him the offerings that I solemnly promised to give to him.

15 Yahweh is very grieved when one of his people dies.

16 Certainly I am one of Yahweh's people;
I am his servant; I have belonged to him since my mother bore me.
So he saved me from what was going to kill me.

17 So I will offer to him a sacrifice to thank him, and I will pray to Yahweh.

18-19 As the people who belong to Yahweh watch, in the courtyard outside his temple,
in the middle of Jerusalem,
I will give to him the offerings that I solemnly promised to give to him.
Praise Yahweh!

117

1 You people of all nations, praise Yahweh!
All you people groups, greatly praise him!

2 Do this, because he is fully committed to love us faithfully, just as he promised to do, and we can trust that Yahweh will be faithful forever.
Praise Yahweh!

118

1 Thank Yahweh because he is good
and because he faithfully loves us forever!

2 All Israelite people should repeatedly shout,
"because he faithfully loves us forever!"

3 You priests who are descendants of Aaron should repeatedly shout,
"because he faithfully loves us forever!"

4 All you who deeply revere Yahweh should repeatedly shout,
"because he faithfully loves us forever!"

5 When I was distressed, I called out to Yahweh, and Yahweh answered me and set me free.
6 Yahweh is on my side,
so I will not be afraid of anything.
I know that humans cannot really harm me!
7 Yes, Yahweh is on my side. He helps me defeat my enemies, so I know that I will look triumphantly on them.
8 It is better to rely on Yahweh
than to depend on people.
9 It is better to rely on Yahweh
than to trust that influential people will protect us.
10 Armies of many nations surrounded me,
but Yahweh powerfully enabled me to make them retreat.
11 They completely surrounded me,
but Yahweh powerfully enabled me to make them retreat.
12 They swarmed around me like angry bees, but they diminished as quickly as a fire that is burning only thorns;
Yahweh powerfully enabled me to make them retreat.
13 My enemies attacked me fiercely and thought that they would defeat me, but Yahweh helped me.
14 Yahweh is the one who makes me strong,
and who gives me a reason to sing;
and he saves me from my enemies.
15 Listen to the joyful songs of how Yahweh saves people!
They come from the tents of the people who honor God!
They sing, "Yahweh has powerfully defeated our enemies;
16 Yahweh has shown himself to be victorious!
Yahweh has powerfully defeated our enemies!" 17 My enemies will not kill me;
no, I will live to proclaim the great things that Yahweh has done.
18 Yahweh has punished me severely, but he has not allowed me to die.

19 You gatekeepers, open for me the gates through which those who obey Yahweh may enter, so that I may enter through them and thank Yahweh.

20 The gatekeeper says, "This is Yahweh's gate;

all who obey him may enter through it."

21 Yahweh, I thank you that you answered my prayer and saved me from my enemies.

22 People considered me worthless, like a stone that builders rejected, but then Yahweh showed that he highly values me, as if that stone then became the most important stone in the building.

23 The people said, "Yahweh made that happen, and for us, it is a wonderful thing.

24 Yahweh made possible everything that we are celebrating today;

we should be extremely happy about all of it!

25 Yahweh, we plead with you to keep rescuing us from our enemies.

Yahweh, please continue to help us to succeed against our enemies.

26 Yahweh, bless the one who will come with your power.

From the temple we bless all of you.

27 Yahweh is God,

and he has made us victorious.

Bring an animal sacrifice for him and tie it to the horns of the altar."

28 Yahweh, you are the God whom I worship, and I will praise you!

You are the only God whom I worship, and I will tell everyone that you are great!

29 Thank Yahweh because he is good

and because he faithfully loves us forever!

119 ALEPH

1 How fortunate are those about whom no one can say truthfully that they have done things that are wrong!
Those are the people who always obey Yahweh's instructions.
2 How fortunate are those who do what he tells them to do!
Those are the people who sincerely want to know him.
3 They certainly do not want to cheat other people;
they live in a way that pleases Yahweh.
4 Yahweh, you have given us your instructions so that we would carefully obey them.
5 I want very much to continually obey everything that you command!
6 If I did that, then I would not be ashamed when I think about everything that you command.
7 As I learn all of your just regulations,
I thank you sincerely.
8 I will obey your regulations;
do not desert me!

BETH

9 I know how a young person can live in the right way;
it is by obeying your commands.
10 I eagerly want to please you.
Do not allow me to disobey what you have commanded.
11 I have memorized your commands in order to not sin against you.
12 Yahweh, I praise you;
teach me your rules.
13 I have proclaimed to the people all of the things that you have commanded us to do.
14 I delight in obeying your instructions;
I enjoy that more than being very rich.

15 I will carefully think about everything that you have commanded me, yes, I will pay attention to the way of living that you have taught me.
16 I am happy to obey your decrees;
I will not forget what you have said.

GIMEL

17 Do good things for me, the one who serves you, in order that I may continue to live and obey you.
18 Help me to understand how wonderful your instructions are.
19 I am living here on the earth for only a short time;
please let me know your instructions.
20 I am weak from constantly desiring to know your instructions.
21 You rebuke people who are proud;
you curse people who disobey your commands.
22 Do not allow them to continue to insult and scorn me;
I request this because I have obeyed what you have required.
23 Rulers gather together and plan ways to harm me, but I, your servant, will meditate on what you have commanded me.
24 Yes, I am delighted with your requirements;
they are like good advisors for me.

DALETH

25 Sometimes I feel like I will soon die; allow me to live as you have told me that you would do.
26 When I told you about what was happening with me, you responded to me; teach me the things that you want me to do.
27 Help me to understand how you want me to behave, and then I can think about how amazing your instructions are.

28 I am very sad, with the result that I am becoming weak; enable me to be strong again through a message from you.
29 Prevent me from telling lies,
and be kind to me by teaching me your instructions.
30 I have decided that I will faithfully obey you;
I know that what you say is right.
31 Yahweh, I try to carefully obey what you say;
please do not allow me to do anything shameful.
32 I eagerly obey your instructions because you help me increasingly to understand how they benefit me.

HE

33 Yahweh, teach me what your regulations mean, and then I will always obey them.
34 Help me to understand your instructions so that I may eagerly obey them.
35 I am happy to do the things that you command, so teach me the best way to obey them.
36 Cause me to want to do what you say rather than to want to get things that belong to other people.
37 Do not allow me to desire things that are not good for me;
make me able to live as you want me to live.
38 Please do what you promised to do for me, your servant.
Your promises are what cause people to deeply revere you.
39 I become afraid when my enemies insult me for obeying you;
so please stop them,
because it is good to do what you tell us to do.
40 Indeed, I very much desire to obey what you have declared that we should do!
Because you are righteous, please make me joyful again in living for you.

WAW

41 Then I will know that you faithfully love me, Yahweh; and that you will save me as you promised that you would do.
42 After you do that, I will be able to reply to those who insult me because I trust what you have said.
43 Please do allow me to truthfully tell them how you saved me;
you see, I am patiently waiting for you to act justly.
44 I will consistently obey your instructions, for as long as I live.
45 I will live freely and safely because I always try to obey your regulations.
46 I will tell kings the things that you have said;
I will not be ashamed to do so.
47 I am very happy to obey the things that you command me to do;
I love to do them.
48 I eagerly ask to receive more of your commandments.
I love them,
and I will think deeply about everything that you require us to do.

ZAYIN

49 Please do what you said you would do for me, the one who serves you, because what you have said has caused me to confidently expect good things from you.
50 When I am suffering, your promise to me comforts me;
knowing that you will do what you have said makes me joyful again in living for you.
51 Proud people are always making fun of me, but I do not stop obeying your instructions.
52 Yahweh, I think about your regulations that you gave to us long ago.

Doing that comforts me.

53 When I see wicked people disregard your instructions,
I become very angry.

54 During this short time that I am living here on the earth, the regulations that you have given to us are like music to me.

55 Yahweh, even during the night I think about you, so that I always obey your instructions.

56 This is what I do;
I obey your regulations.

HETH

57 Yahweh, you have granted to me that I would belong to you, and I promise to obey what you tell me to do.

58 I earnestly plead with you to be good to me;
act kindly to me as you promised that you would do.

59 I think about my behavior, and when it is wrong, I once again obey what you tell me to do.

60 When I understand your instructions,
I do them immediately.

61 Wicked people try to make me do bad things, but I continue to obey your instructions.

62 In the middle of the night I get up, in order to praise you because everything that you say is completely right.

63 I am a friend of all those who deeply revere you, yes, to all those who obey what you tell us to do.

64 Yahweh, you faithfully love people all over the earth;
please continue to teach me how you want people to live.

TETH

65 Yahweh, you have done good things for me, your servant, just as you promised that you would do.
66 Teach me to understand what is happening around me and to think carefully before I decide what to do, because I believe that the best way to live is to obey what you tell us to do.
67 Before you afflicted me, I did things that were wrong, but now I obey what you say to do.
68 You are good, and what you do is good;
teach me the good things that you have told us to do.
69 Proud people tell many lies about me, but as for me, I enthusiastically obey what you have told us to do.
70 Those people are stupid,
but as for me, I happily obey your instructions.
71 It was good for me that you afflicted me because the result was that I learned how good your regulations are.
72 The instructions that you give to us are beneficial to me.
They are more beneficial than thousands of pieces of gold and silver.

YODH

73 You created me and made me who I am;
please help me to be wise so that I may learn to obey what you tell me to do.
74 I want everyone who deeply reveres you to see what you have done for me.
Then they will be glad, because they will see how good it is that I have trusted you to do what you said.
75 Yahweh, I know that when you judge people, you are always right.
I know that you have made me suffer only because you faithfully love me.
76 Please comfort me by showing that you faithfully love me as you said to me, your servant, that you would do.
77 I want you to act mercifully to me in order that I may continue to live, because I am delighted with your instruction.

78 Cause the proud people who falsely accuse me to be ashamed;
but as for me, I will continue meditating on what you have commanded that I should do.
79 Cause those who deeply revere you to come to me in order that they may learn what you say to us.
80 Enable me to want to perfectly obey your regulations in order that I may not be ashamed because of not doing that.

KAPH

81 I desperately long for you to save me from my enemies, but I will wait, knowing that you will answer my prayer.
82 My eyes are tired from watching for you to do what you promised that you would do, and I ask, "When will you help me?"
83 Indeed, I feel as weak and useless as a wineskin that is shriveled up from hanging a long time in the smoke, but I have not forgotten your regulations.
84 I, your servant, cannot wait any longer!
I want you to punish those who persecute me soon!
85 It is as though my proud enemies have dug deep pits for me to fall into.
These people disobey your instructions to us.
86 Everything that you tell us to do is truly good for us;
but people are persecuting me by telling lies about me, so please help me!
87 Those people have come very close to killing me, but as for me, I have not stopped obeying what you have told us to do.
88 Because you faithfully love me, allow me to continue to live so that I may continue to obey what you have instructed us to do.

LAMEDH

89 Yahweh, what you have proclaimed is eternal;
it exists forever in heaven.
90 You will continue to act faithfully for people of every generation;
you have put the earth in its place, and it remains firmly there.
91 To this day, all things on the earth remain because you decided that they should remain; that is because everything on the earth serves you.
92 If I had not been delighted to obey your instructions, then I would have died because of what I was suffering.
93 I will always remember what you have declared that we should do.
I obeyed those things, and as a result, you have enabled me to continue to live.
94 I belong to you; please save me from my enemies because I intentionally obey what you have declared that we should do.
95 Wicked men are waiting to ambush and kill me, but I think about what you have instructed us to do.
96 I have learned that there is a limit to even the best that people can achieve, but what you decree is limitless.

MEM

97 I love your instructions very much!
I meditate on them throughout the day.
98 Because I know what you have told us to do and because I think about those things all the time,
I have become wiser than my enemies.
99 I understand more than any of my teachers do because I continually think about everything that you tell us.
100 I behave more intelligently than many old people do because I obey what you have declared that we should do.
101 I have avoided all evil behavior in order that I may obey what you have told us to do.

102 I have not stopped obeying your regulations because you are the one who taught them to me.

103 When I read your words, it is like eating something sweet;
yes, it is even better than eating honey!

104 Because I have learned what you have declared that we should do,
I am able to understand many things;
therefore, I hate all evil activities.

NUN

105 Your instruction is like a lamp that guides me;
yes, it is like a light that shows me where to walk.

106 I have solemnly promised, and I am solemnly promising it again, that I will always obey your regulations;
they are always right.

107 Yahweh, I am suffering very much;
cause me to be strong again as you have promised to do.

108 Yahweh, sometimes the sacrifices that I offer to you are just my prayers to thank and praise you.
Please accept them,
and teach me the things that you tell us to do.

109 My enemies are constantly trying to kill me, but I do not forget your instructions.

110 Wicked people have tried to seize me as a hunter tries to catch little animals with a trap, but I have not disobeyed what you declared that we should do.

111 You have given me your instructions and they are mine forever;
Indeed, they are what make me joyful.

112 I have determined that I will always obey your commands as long as I live, to the very end.

SAMEKH

113 I hate people who cannot decide what to commit to,
but I love your instructions.
114 You are like a place where I can hide from my enemies, and you are like a shield behind which I am protected from them;
I will wait, knowing that you will answer my prayer.
115 You people who do evil things, go away from me so that I may obey what my God has commanded!
116 Please enable me to be strong as you promised that you would do, in order that I may continue to live.
I am confidently expecting that you will restore me;
please do not disappoint me.
117 Please take care of me so that I can be safe and so that I can always pay attention to what you have decreed that we should do.
118 You despise everyone who disregards what you have decreed that we should do; indeed, they deceive others by lying.
119 You get rid of all the wicked people on the earth as people get rid of trash;
therefore, I love what you say to us.
120 I tremble because I am afraid of you;
I am afraid because you punish those who do not obey the rules that you have given to us.

AYIN

121 But I have done what is right and fair;
so please do not allow people to oppress me.

122 Please ensure that good things will happen for me, your servant, and do not allow proud people to oppress me.
123 My eyes are tired from watching for you to save me, yes, from watching for you to do what is right, as you promised to do.
124 Please do things for me, your servant, to show that you faithfully love me, and teach me how to do what you have decreed that we should do.
125 I am one who serves you;
please enable me to understand what you want me to know in order that I may learn what you have instructed us to do.
126 Yahweh, you should punish people now because they have disobeyed your laws.
127 Because I do not want to be like those people, I love your instructions more than I love gold;
I love them more than I love very pure gold.
128 So I am careful to obey everything that you have declared that we should do, and I hate all of the evil things that people do.

PE

129 All the things that you have instructed us to do are wonderful, so I obey them enthusiastically.
130 When someone explains what you have said to us, it is as though he is opening a door to a bright light that allows people to see what they did not see before;
what he says causes even people who have not studied your instructions to be wise.
131 I eagerly desire to know what you have commanded us, as eagerly as though I were panting for food and water.
132 Pay attention to me and act kindly to me as is right for you to do for all those who love you.
133 Please guide me by your instructions;

do not allow me to desire to do sinful things more than to obey you.

134 Rescue me from the people who oppress me so that I may obey what you have declared that we should do.

135 Please act kindly toward me, your servant, and teach me what you have decreed that we should do.

136 I cry very much because many people do not obey your instructions.

TSADHE

137 Yahweh, you are righteous and the rules that you have given to us are just.

138 All of the things that you have instructed us to do are absolutely right and exactly what we need.

139 I am furious
because my enemies disregard what you have told us to do.

140 All of the things that you have said are perfectly dependable, and I, your servant, love them.

141 I am not important, and people despise me, but I do not forget what you have declared that we should do.

142 You are righteous and you will be righteous forever, and your instructions are completely reliable.

143 I am constantly stressed and anxious,
but what you have commanded us causes me to rejoice.

144 All of the things that you have instructed us to do are always right;
help me to understand them in order that I may continue to live.

QOPH

145 Yahweh, fervently I call out to you; please answer me!
I fully intend to obey what you have decreed that we should do.

146 I call out to you, “Save me, in order that I may obey the things that you have instructed us to do.”
147 Each morning I arise before dawn and call to you to help me;
I confidently wait for you to do what you have promised to do.
148 All during the night I am awake, so that I can think about what you have said to us.
149 Yahweh, because you faithfully love me, please listen to me while I pray;
because you do what is right, make me joyful again in living for you.
150 People who intend to harm me are approaching me;
they completely disregard your instructions.
151 But Yahweh, you are near to me, and I know that what you command is completely right.
152 Long ago, I learned from what you have said that you established your commandments to last forever.

RESH

153 Please acknowledge that I am suffering, and save me from it, because I continually obey your instructions.
154 Defend me when others accuse me and rescue me from them;
allow me to continue to live as you promised that you would do.
155 Wicked people do not obey what you have decreed that we should do, so you will certainly not save them.
156 Yahweh, you are constantly being merciful to me in many ways;
because you always do what is right, please allow me to continue to live.
157 Many people cause me to suffer, but I continue to obey what you have instructed us to do.
158 When I look at those who are not faithful to you, I feel disgust because they do not obey what you have instructed us to do.
159 Yahweh, please notice that I love what you have declared that we should do;

because you faithfully love me, please allow me to continue to live.

160 Everything that you have said is true;
every statement that you have made is right and will endure forever.

SIN and SHIN

161 Rulers persecute me for no reason, but I deeply respect your words.

162 The things that you say make me very happy, as happy as someone who has found a great treasure.

163 I thoroughly hate all lies
but I love your instructions.

164 I praise you throughout the day because everything that you tell us to do is completely right.

165 Those who love your instructions live very peacefully;
they will continually do the right thing.

166 Yahweh, I confidently expect that you will rescue me, and I obey what you have commanded us.

167 I obey what you have told us to do;
I love all of it very much.

168 I obey what you have instructed us to do, because you know everything that I do.

TAW

169 Yahweh, please listen as I call out to you to help me;
help me to understand your message, as you said that you would do.

170 Please pay attention to me while I pray to you to help me, and rescue me as you said that you would do.

171 I intend to continue praising you abundantly because you teach me what you have told us to do.

172 I intend to continue singing about your instructions because everything that you command us to do is right.
173 Please be always ready to help me because I have chosen to obey what you have declared that we should do.
174 Yahweh, I eagerly desire for you to rescue me from my enemies, and I greatly enjoy your instructions.
175 Please allow me to continue to live in order that I may continue to praise you and may the things that you tell us to do continue to help me.
176 I am as vulnerable as a sheep that has left its flock;
please search for me, your servant, because I have not forgotten what you have commanded us.

120

1 A psalm for people going up to the temple to worship.
When I was distressed, I called out to Yahweh,
and he answered me.
2 I prayed, "Yahweh, rescue me from people who tell lies, who say things to deceive me!"
3 You people who lie, God will certainly punish you.
He will do even more to you than that.
4 He will punish you severely as with a warrior's sharp arrows, and as with burning coals from broom tree wood.
5 It is terrible for me that I have to live among people like those in Meshech, that I have to dwell with people like those who live in the tents of Kedar.
6 I have lived too long among people who hate to live peacefully with others.
7 I want to live peacefully, but whenever I speak about it, they want to fight.

1 A psalm for people going up to the temple to worship.
I look toward the hills and I ask myself, “Where will anyone to help me come from?”

2 I answer myself, “Yahweh is the one who helps me.”
He is the one who made everything that exists.

3 You say, “May Yahweh not let you stumble.
May Yahweh, who protects you, not become drowsy!”

4 I reply, “Listen to me, the one who protects the people of Israel will never become drowsy; he never sleeps!”

5 Yahweh watches over you.
He stays between you and what might harm you, like a shade from the sun.

6 The sun will not harm you during the day, and the moon will not harm you at night.

7 Yahweh will protect you from everything that could harm you.
He will keep you safe.

8 Yahweh will protect you in everything that you do.
He will do that now, and he will do that forever.

1 A psalm for people going up to the temple to worship. This is a psalm of David.

I was very happy when people said to me, “We should go to Yahweh’s temple in Jerusalem!”

2 Now we are standing inside the gates of Jerusalem.

3 This is Jerusalem, the city that people have built in a way that everything fits closely together.

4 The tribes of Israel who belong to Yahweh go there, as Yahweh told them to do,
in order to thank him.

5 Indeed, the kings who belong to King David’s family sit on their thrones there and judge the people.

6 Pray that people will live peacefully in Jerusalem!
May those who love Jerusalem be successful.

7 May everyone inside the city walls live well and prosper.

8 Because I love my fellow Israelites and my friends,

I want to say,
"May the people in Jerusalem live well."
9 Because Yahweh our God has his temple there,
I intend to always do what is best for Jerusalem.

123

1 A psalm for people going up to the temple to worship.

Yahweh, I look up toward you who live in heaven.
2 You see, just as servants watch their master closely, waiting for him to provide for them,
and just as a female servant watches her mistress, in the same way, we look to Yahweh our God, waiting for him to be merciful to us.
3 Yahweh, please be very merciful to us, because people have despised us so much that we cannot endure any more.
4 We have endured far too much mocking from people who are arrogant, yes, from proud people who despise us.

124

1 A psalm for people going up to the temple to worship; of David.

If Yahweh had not been helping us—
All Israelites should repeat this—
2 If Yahweh had not been helping us when our enemies attacked us, 3 then they would have destroyed us completely, because they were so angry with us.
4 They would have overwhelmed us like a flood;
they would have swept over us like a raging river.
5 They would have destroyed us as completely as raging waters would have drowned us.

6 We praise Yahweh
because he did not let our enemies destroy us as wild animals devour their prey.
7 We escaped from them like a bird that gets free from a hunter's trap.
It was as though the trap broke, and, as for us, we went free!
8 Yahweh is the one who helps us;
he is the one who made everything that exists.

125

1 A psalm for people going up to the temple to worship.
People who trust in Yahweh are as secure as Mount Zion, which will stand firm forever.
2 Just as the hills surrounding Jerusalem protect the city, so Yahweh protects his people, and he will protect them forever.

3 Indeed, wicked people will not rule over the land that God gave to righteous people, so that righteous people will not start doing what is wrong.

4 Yahweh, please do good things for people who do good things for others, yes, for those who obey you sincerely.
5 But as for those people who choose to do evil things,
Yahweh will send them away along with everyone else who does evil things.
May Yahweh bless the people of Israel!

126

1 A psalm for people going up to the temple to worship.
When Yahweh brought us back to Zion after our enemies had captured us and taken us away, we felt as if we were dreaming.
2 We laughed and shouted joyfully.
Then people from other people groups said about us,
"Yahweh has done great things for them!"

3 Yes! Yahweh truly has done great things for us, and we are very happy.
4 Yahweh, restore us as before our enemies captured us, as you restore the streams in the Negev that flow again after being dry.
5 Those who sow seeds while crying will shout joyfully when they gather the harvest.
6 They may indeed walk through the field crying, as they spread the seed from their bags.
But they will surely come back shouting joyfully, carrying their bundles of grain.

127

1 This is a psalm for people going up to the temple to worship. It is of Solomon.
If people are building a house, but Yahweh does not approve of it,
those who build it are doing nothing useful.
If Yahweh does not protect a city, it is useless for the guards to stay awake watching it.
2 It is useless for you to get up very early and stay up very late, working hard to get food,
because Yahweh wants to give sleep to those whom he loves.
3 Children are a gift that Yahweh gives;
Offspring are a benefit from him.
4 When a man has sons while he is still young, those sons become as useful as arrows are in the hand of a warrior.
5 A man who has many sons has such a good life!
When he argues with an opponent at the place where people settle disputes, the opponent will not defeat him.

128

1 This is a psalm for those going up to the temple to worship.
How good life is for all who deeply revere Yahweh and who do what he tells them to do!

2 You will enjoy eating the food that you have worked hard for,
and it will make you healthy.
3 Your wife will bear many children in the innermost rooms of your house, like a grapevine that produces many grapes.
Your children will grow strong like young olive trees as they fill the room around your table.
4 Yes, that is how Yahweh will bless every person who deeply reveres him.
5 May Yahweh bless you from where he lives in Zion, so that you may be able to experience how the people of Jerusalem prosper during the whole time that you live, 6 and so that you may live long enough to see your grandchildren!
May the people of Israel live well!

129

1 A psalm for people going up to the temple to worship.
Ever since I was young, my enemies have oppressed me frequently.
All of the people of Israel should say this with me:
2 Ever since I was young, my enemies have oppressed me frequently, but they have never defeated me!
3 They oppressed me severely as though they were plowing across my back, making long wounds like furrows in a field.
4 Yahweh does what is right;
he no longer allows wicked people to control me.
5 May everyone who hates the people of Zion be ashamed and go away.
6 May they be as insignificant as the grass that grows on the rooftops that dries up before anyone can pull it out, 7 that no harvester would bother to pick up and that no one gathering bundles would want to wrap his arms around to tie it up.
8 They will never hear someone walking by the reapers say,
"May Yahweh bless you!"

They will not hear the reapers reply, "We bless you as representatives of Yahweh."

130

1 This is a psalm for people going up to the temple to worship.

Yahweh, I am very distressed, so I call out to you.

2 Lord, please listen to me;

please listen attentively as I call out to you to have mercy on me!

3 Yahweh, if you kept a record of the sins that we have committed,

Lord, you would have to condemn and punish every one of us!

4 But you forgive us, with the result that we deeply revere you.

5 Yahweh has said that he would help me;

I trust what he said, and so I wait eagerly for him to do that.

6 I wait for the Lord to help me more eagerly than watchmen wait for the morning to come;

yes, I wait more eagerly than watchmen wait for the morning!

7 My fellow Israelites, confidently expect that Yahweh will help us.

He will help us because he faithfully loves us, and he is very willing to save us.

8 It is he who will make it so he will not need to punish us Israelite people for all the sins that we have committed.

131

1 This is a psalm for people going up to the temple to worship. It is a psalm of David.

Yahweh, I am not a proud, haughty person.

I do not concern myself with things that are too great or too amazing for me.

2 Instead, I have calmed myself, like a weaned child who rests calmly on the breast of his mother.

Yes, my inner being is peaceful like that contented child.

3 Israelites, confidently expect Yahweh to do good things for you, now and forever!

132

1 This is a psalm for people going up to the temple to worship.

Yahweh, think about King David and the many ways that he suffered.

2 He made a solemn promise to Yahweh,
the Mighty God whom Jacob worshiped.

3 He said, "I will not go home or lie down on my bed to rest.

4 I will not allow myself to sleep at all

5 until I build a home for Yahweh,
the Mighty God whom Jacob worshiped."

6 Listen, we heard about the sacred chest in Ephrathah;
we found it in the fields near Jaar (Kiriath-Jearim).

7 We said, "Let us go to the place where Yahweh lives;
let us worship before the sacred chest where he rests his feet."

8 Yahweh, come to the place where you will stay, together with the sacred chest that represents your powerful presence.

9 May your priests always do what is right, and may the people who are faithful to you shout joyfully.

10 Because of what you promised to David, who served you, do not reject the king whom you chose.

11 Yahweh swore a promise to David, and he will certainly not take it back: "I will place one of your own descendants to rule as king on your throne.

12 If your sons obey my covenant and the commands that I will teach them, then their sons will also rule as kings on your throne forever."

13 Indeed, Yahweh has chosen Zion because he wanted it to be the place where he lives.

14 He said, "This is the place where I will stay forever;

I will live here because I have chosen this place.

15 I will certainly give the people of Zion everything that they need;
I will give enough food to satisfy even the poor people who live there.

16 I will enable the priests of Zion to show others what a person looks like whom I have saved, and the people there who are faithful to me will shout very joyfully.

17 In Zion I will cause a powerful king to come from David's family;
I have arranged for the king whom I have chosen that a son of his will always rule.

18 I will cause his enemies to be very ashamed, but his kingdom will prosper."

1 This is a psalm for people going up to the temple to worship. It is of David.

Think about how wonderful and delightful it is when God's people live together in a unified way!

2 It is as delightful as watching someone pour fine olive oil on the head of Aaron, the priest, oil that runs down onto his beard and flows down to the collar of his robes.

3 It is as delightful as feeling the dew from Mount Hermon coming down on the mountains of Zion.
That is where Yahweh blessed his people, giving them a way to live forever.

134

1 This is a psalm for people going up to the temple to worship.

Listen! Praise Yahweh,
all you who serve Yahweh,
you who stand in Yahweh's temple during the night hours.

2 Raise your hands to pray toward the holy place and praise Yahweh.

3 I pray that Yahweh will bless you from his temple on Mount Zion, for he is the one who made everything that exists.

135 1 Praise Yahweh!
Praise him because of who he is!
You who serve Yahweh, praise him,
2 you who stand and serve in Yahweh's temple, in the courtyards of the house of our God!
3 Praise Yahweh, because he is good;
sing praises to him, because doing that is delightful.
4 Praise him because Yahweh chose us, the descendants of Jacob, the people of Israel, to belong only to him.
5 Indeed, I know very well that Yahweh is great and that our Lord is more powerful than all other spirit beings.
6 Yahweh does whatever he wants to do, everywhere, whether it is in heaven or on the earth or in the ocean, even deep down in the ocean.
7 He causes clouds to form in distant places on the earth;
he makes lightning flash along with the rain, and he sends out wind from the places where he stores it.
8 He killed every firstborn in Egypt, including those from both people and animals.
9 He did amazing miracles
among the people of Egypt to punish Pharaoh and all of his officials.
10 He defeated many nations and killed their powerful kings.
11 He killed Sihon, king of the Amorites, and Og, king of Bashan,
and all the kings of Canaan.
12 Then he gave the land that those kings had ruled over to his own people, that is, to us, the people of Israel, to be our own land.

13 Yahweh, people will always know how great you are;
Yahweh, people in every generation will remember you, 14 because Yahweh defends his people and is merciful to those who serve him.
15 The idols that other people groups worship are only statues made of silver and gold; people made them with their own hands.
16 Those idols have mouths, but they cannot say anything;
they have eyes, but they cannot see anything.
17 They have ears, but they cannot hear anything;
In fact, they do not even breathe.
18 The people who make those idols will become as helpless as they are,
and so will everyone who trusts in them.
19 You Israelites, praise Yahweh!
You descendants of Aaron, praise Yahweh!
20 You descendants of Levi, praise Yahweh!
All you who deeply revere Yahweh, praise him!
21 Praise Yahweh from his temple on Mount Zion, where he lives in Jerusalem!
Praise Yahweh!

136 1 Thank Yahweh because he is good to us,
because he faithfully loves us forever!
2 Thank God, the one who is greater than all other spirit beings,
because he faithfully loves us forever!
3 Thank the Lord, the one who is greater than all other rulers;
because he faithfully loves us forever!
4 Thank him, the only one who does wonderful miracles,
because he faithfully loves us forever!
5 Thank him, the one who wisely created the heavens;
because he faithfully loves us forever!

6 Thank him, the one who formed the earth over the waters;
because he faithfully loves us forever!

7 Thank him, the one who created the great lights in the sky;
because he faithfully loves us forever!

8 He made the sun to light up the daytime,
because he faithfully loves us forever!

9 He made the moon and stars to light up the nighttime,
because he faithfully loves us forever!

10 Thank him, who killed the firstborn sons of the Egyptians;
because he faithfully loves us forever!

11 He brought the Israelite people out from among them,
because he faithfully loves us forever!

12 He did that by being very powerful,
because he faithfully loves us forever!

13 Thank him, the one who divided the Sea of Reeds into two parts;
because he faithfully loves us forever!

14 He enabled the Israelite people to walk through the middle of it on dry land,
because he faithfully loves us forever!

15 But he caused Pharaoh and his army to drown in the Sea of Reeds,
because he faithfully loves us forever!

16 Thank him, the one who led his people safely through the desert,
because he faithfully loves us forever!

17 Thank him, the one who defeated powerful kings,
because he faithfully loves us forever!

18 He killed powerful kings,
because he faithfully loves us forever!

19 He killed Sihon, the king of the Amorites,
because he faithfully loves us forever!

20 He killed Og, the king of Bashan;
because he faithfully loves us forever!

21 He gave their land to the people of Israel to possess;

because he faithfully loves us forever!

22 He gave it to the people of Israel, who serve him, to be our own land,
because he faithfully loves us forever!

23 He did not forget about us when our enemies were oppressing us,
because he faithfully loves us forever!

24 He rescued us from our enemies,
because he faithfully loves us forever!

25 He gives food to every living creature;
because he faithfully loves us forever!

26 Thank God, who rules from heaven;
because he faithfully loves us forever!

137

1 After soldiers had taken us to Babylon, we sat down by the rivers there, and we cried when we thought about the temple on Mount Zion in Jerusalem.

2 We hung our harps on the willow trees there and did not play them.

3 We did that because those who had captured us and taken us there demanded that we sing for them.
They tormented us and told us to sing a joyful song. They said, "Sing for us one of the songs about Zion!"

4 We thought, "We are not able to sing joyful songs about Yahweh in this foreign land!"

5 If I ever forget about Jerusalem, may my right hand be unable to play the harp!

6 May my tongue and my mouth make me unable to sing
if I forget about Jerusalem, or even if I do not consider that Jerusalem causes me to be more joyful than anything else does.

7 Yahweh, please punish the Edomites for what they did when the enemy destroyed Jerusalem. They shouted, "Completely tear it down to its foundations!"

8 Concerning the people of Babylon, who devastate other nations, How good it will be for the person who completely pays them back with what they did to us!
9 How good it will be for the one who seizes your babies and smashes them against the rocks!

138

1 This is a psalm of David.

Yahweh, I sincerely thank you.
In the presence of idols of other gods, I sing to praise you.
2 I bow down toward your sacred temple to worship you and I thank you because you faithfully love us and because we can trust you to do all that you have promised.
You have given cause for people everywhere to honor you and what you have said more than anything else.
3 When I called out to you, you helped me;
you enabled me to be brave and strong.
4 Yahweh, someday all the kings of this earth should praise you because they will have heard what you have said.
5 They should sing about what you have done because you are very glorious.
6 Yahweh, although you live in heaven,
you take care of humble people.
Proud people, however, you identify from far away.
7 Even when dangerous things happen all around me,
you keep me safe.
You rescue me from my enemies who are angry with me.
8 Yahweh, I know that you will continue to do what is good for me;
Yahweh, you faithfully love us forever.
Please do not abandon us, the people that you have made!

139

1 This is a note for the worship leader: This is a psalm of David.

Yahweh, you have thoroughly examined me, and you know me completely.

2 You are the one who knows everything that I do, including when I sit and when I stand.

Even from far away, you know what I am thinking.

3 You have examined in detail all of my movements, from the time I go out until I lie down, and you know intimately all of my habits.

4 Indeed, even before I say anything,

Yahweh, you already know everything that I am going to say!

5 You guard me on every side, and you put your hand on me to protect me.

6 I am in awe that you know everything about me.

I am not able to comprehend that.

7 There is nowhere I could go to get away from your Spirit!

There is nowhere I could run to escape from your presence!

8 If I went up to heaven, you would be there.

Even if I lay down in the place where dead people go, you would be there!

9 If I rose up and flew to where the sun rises in the east, or if I settled in the farthest place across the western sea,

10 even there you would guide me and you would keep me secure.

11 Even if I said, “Let the darkness completely overwhelm me, and the light around me turn to night,”

12 even darkness is not dark to you, and the night shines as bright as the daytime.

For you, darkness and light are the same.

13 Indeed, you are the one who created my deepest inner parts;

you formed me inside my mother’s womb.

14 I praise you because you made me in such an awesome and wonderful way.
Everything that you do is wonderful!
I know that very well.
15 You saw my bones when you made me in that hidden place.
As you wove me together deep in the womb,
16 you saw me before I had any form.
You wrote in your book each day that you had planned for me to live, before any of those days had even started.
17 God, the things that you think are very valuable to me!
There are so many of them!
18 If I tried to count them, I would not be able to do that, because they are more than the grains of sand on the earth.
Every morning I wake up, I am still with you, and there are still more of them to count.
19 God, I wish that you would kill all wicked people!
I wish that all violent men would go away from me!
20 They say wicked things about you and plan evil things;
your enemies misuse your name.
21 Yahweh, I certainly hate those who hate you, and I am disgusted with those who rise up against you.
22 I hate them completely;
I consider them to be my enemies.
23 God, I invite you to search me and to know what I am thinking;
please examine me and know what I worry about.
24 See if there is any harmful way in me, and teach me to live in the way that lasts forever.

140

This is a note to the worship leader: David wrote this psalm.

1 Yahweh, please save me from evil people;
protect me from people who want to attack me.
2 They are always planning how to do evil things, and every day they provoke fights.

3 They say things to people that hurt them;
what comes from their mouths is as deadly as the venom of a viper. Selah

4 Yahweh, protect me from wicked people who want to harm me; keep me safe from violent people who have planned to destroy me.

5 Proud people are trying to destroy me.
It is as though they have hidden a snare for me;
It is as though they have spread out a net along my path;
It is as though they have set traps to catch me. Selah

6 I say to you, "Yahweh, you are my God."
Yahweh, please listen to me as I plead with you to help me!

7 Yahweh, my Lord, you are the one who powerfully saves me; you have protected me during battles as though you had covered my head with a helmet.

8 Yahweh, do not give wicked people what they want;
do not let their plans succeed, or they will become proud. Selah

9 As for the leaders of those who surround me, let the harmful things that they have said to others happen to them.

10 Pour burning coals on them!
Throw them into a fire!
Throw them into deep holes from which they will never get out!

11 Yahweh, please do not allow people who slander others to prosper in this land;
Cause evil things to continually happen to violent people and destroy them.

12 Yahweh, I know that you do what is just and right for poor people.

13 People who do what is right will surely thank you, and they will live with you.

141

1 This is a psalm of David.

Yahweh, I call out to you; please help me quickly!

Please listen to me when I am calling out to you.

2 Please accept my prayer as though it were an offering of incense to you.

Please accept me while I lift up my hands to pray to you, just as you accept the sacrifices that people offer to you each evening.

3 Yahweh, do not allow me to say things that are bad or wrong.

Do not allow me to say those things as a sentry does not allow the wrong people to go through a doorway.

4 Prevent me from wanting to do anything that is wrong and from joining with wicked men when they want to do evil deeds.

Do not even allow me to share in eating their delightful food!

5 It is all right if righteous people strike me because they are acting faithfully and kindly toward me to correct me.

If they do that, it will be as if they have honored me by anointing my head with olive oil, and may I never refuse to accept it.

but I am always praying that you will punish the wicked because of the wicked deeds that they do.

6 When their rulers are thrown down from the top of rocky cliffs, the wicked will hear what I am saying, and will know that what I am saying is right and good.

7 They will say, "Just as one scatters clods of earth when he breaks up the ground, soon our bodies will lie scattered on the way to the place where dead people are."

8 But Lord Yahweh, I continue to rely on you.

I ask you to protect me;

please do not stop protecting my life!

9 People who do evil things are trying to trick me and destroy me.

It is as though they have laid out snares and set traps for me.

Please keep me safe from what they are trying to do to me.

10 I desire that wicked people fall together into the traps that they have set to catch me, while, for my part, I escape from them.

142 This is a psalm that David prayed when he was hiding in a cave.

1 Yahweh, I cry out to you;
I plead for you to help me.
2 I am complaining to you about all of my problems;
I am telling you all of my troubles.
3 When I am very discouraged, you are the one who knows what I must do.
As I go about my activities, it is as though my enemies have hidden traps along my path for me to fall into.
4 If you look to my right you will see that there is no one who watches over me.
There is nowhere I can go to be safe, and no one cares what happens to me.
5 So Yahweh, I called out to you to help me;
I said, "You are the one who protects me;
you are all that I need while I am alive."
6 Please listen to me while I call out to you to help me because I am very distressed.
Save me from those who are making me suffer, because they are stronger than I am.
7 Please free me from those who are distressing me so that I may thank you.
When you do that, the other righteous people will gather with me to praise you together because you will have fulfilled my request.

143 1 This is a psalm of David.

Yahweh, please listen to me as I pray to you, pleading for you to help me!
Because you are righteous and because you faithfully do what you have promised, please do what I am asking you to do for me!

2 Please do not judge me, your servant, because you know that there is no one alive who is completely innocent.

3 Please help me because my enemies have pursued me;
they have completely defeated me.
It is as though they have already put me in a grave like people who are dead for eternity.

4 So I am very discouraged;
I feel very dismayed.

5 I remember what has happened previously;
I think about all the things that you have done;
I consider the great deeds that you have performed.

6 I lift up my hands to you as I pray;
I need you, just as much as a very dry land needs water. Selah

7 Yahweh, I am absolutely despairing, so please answer me right now!
Do not keep away from me because if you do that, I will soon be among those who descend to where the dead people are.

8 Every morning cause me to remember that you faithfully love me because I trust in you.
show me the things that I should do because I depend on you for my life.

9 Yahweh, please save me from my enemies;
I rely on you to protect me.

10 You are the God to whom I belong, so teach me to do what pleases you.
I want your good Spirit to show me the best way to live.

11 Yahweh, please keep me alive because of who you are;

because you are righteous, please rescue me from the people who are oppressing me!

12 I am one who serves you;
so because you faithfully love me as you promised to do,
please kill all of my enemies who want to kill me.

144

1 This is a psalm of David.

I praise Yahweh, who protects me!
He equips me to fight well in wars.

2 He is always faithful and kind to me.
He keeps me safe and helps me escape from danger, as if he were my shield or a place where I could go to be safe.
He enables me to rule other peoples.

3 Yahweh, people are so insignificant;
it is amazing that you pay any attention to them!

4 People live for only a very short time, just as a mist or a shadow quickly disappears.

5 Yahweh, please come down from the sky and split open the mountains so that smoke pours from them.

6 Please send lightning bolts like arrows against my enemies to make them run away.

7 Reach down from heaven and rescue me from my enemies who are surrounding me like a dangerous flood.
Save me from the power of these foreign people.

8 They say things that are not true
and raise their right hands to swear oaths that are false.

9 God, I will sing a new song to you and play my ten-stringed harp to praise you,

10 because you are the one who saves kings and who rescues me, your servant David, from danger in battle.

11 Save me from the power of these foreign people.
They say things that are not true
and raise their right hands to swear oaths that are false.
12 Then our sons will be like strong plants that grow tall when they are young, and our daughters will be as beautiful and stately as pillars that craftsmen carve to decorate a palace.
13 May our barns overflow with many kinds of crops.
May our sheep give birth to great numbers of lambs,
yes, very great numbers as they graze in our pastures.
14 May our oxen be strong to pull plows.
May no one break through our walls, may no one go into exile, and may no one cry out in distress in our city squares.
15 What a good life people have when these things happen for them!
What a good life people have who worship Yahweh as their God!

145

1 This is a psalm of David.
My God and king, I will proclaim that you are very great;
I will praise you now and always.
2 I will bless you every day;
I will praise you forever.
3 Yahweh, you are great, and people should praise you very much;
no one can fully understand how great you are.
4 People of every generation will tell the next generation about what you have done;
they will tell about your mighty deeds.
5 I will think about how very glorious and majestic you are,
and I will think about your wonderful deeds.
6 People will talk about how powerful your awesome deeds are,
and I will proclaim how great you are.
7 People will celebrate how very good you are,

and they will sing joyfully about how righteous you are.

8 Yahweh acts kindly and mercifully;
he does not quickly become angry, and he faithfully loves us very much.

9 Yahweh is good to everyone, and he acts mercifully toward everything that he has made.

10 Yahweh, all the creatures that you have made will praise you, and the people who are faithful to you will bless you.

11 They will tell others about how gloriously you rule as king and about how powerful you are,

12 so that all people will know about your mighty deeds and about how gloriously and majestically you rule.

13 You will never stop ruling as king;
you will rule throughout every generation.

14 Yahweh sustains people who are in difficult circumstances, and he helps those who are struggling.

15 All creatures look to you expectantly, and you give them food when they need it.

16 You give generously and satisfy the desire of every living thing.

17 Yahweh does everything rightly;
indeed, he acts faithfully in all that he does.

18 Yahweh is ready to help everyone who asks him for help when they do that sincerely.

19 He gives those who deeply respect him what they need.
He responds to them when they call for help,
and he rescues them.

20 Yahweh protects all those who love him, but he destroys wicked people.

21 I will always say things to praise Yahweh;
I want all people always to praise him because he is so holy.

146

1 Praise Yahweh!

I will praise Yahweh with my whole being.

2 I will praise Yahweh for as long as I am alive;

Yes, I will sing to praise my God for the rest of my life.

3 Since no human being can save you, do not rely on your leaders.

4 When they die, their bodies decay and become soil again.

When that happens, they can no longer carry out their plans.

5 Some people confidently expect Yahweh their God to help them.

He is the God whom Jacob worshiped.

He does help them, and they have a very good life.

6 He is the one who created the sky and the land.

He also created the oceans and all the creatures that are in them.

He always does what he has promised to do.

7 He defends people whom others oppress, and he provides food for people who are hungry.

Yahweh frees people who are in prison.

8 Yahweh enables people who are blind to see again;

Yahweh helps people who are struggling;

Yahweh loves people who do what is right.

9 Yahweh protects foreigners;

he preserves the property of orphans and widows,

but he makes the plans of wicked people fail.

10 Yahweh will be the king forever;

yes, the God of the people of Jerusalem will always reign.

Praise Yahweh!

147

1 Praise Yahweh!

Singing praises to our God is a good thing to do.

He deserves it, and it makes us happy.

2 Yahweh is rebuilding Jerusalem and bringing back the Israelites whom our enemies had scattered.

3 He comforts people who are very sad and heals their pain.

4 He knows how many stars there are,
and he has given each one its name.

5 Our Lord is great and very powerful;
no one can measure how much he understands.

6 Yahweh helps humble people, but he makes wicked people fail in what they want to do.

7 Thank Yahweh, our God, for all he has done for us as you play the harp and sing to him.

8 He makes the sky form rain clouds so that they will rain on the earth and make grass grow on the mountains.

9 He provides food for wild animals.
He even feeds young ravens when they cry out for food.

10 He does not value the strength of a horse or the speed of a human runner.

11 Instead, Yahweh values people who deeply respect him.
He values people who confidently expect him to be faithful to his covenant promises.

12 Praise Yahweh our God, you people of Jerusalem who live on Mount Zion!

13 He has made the defenses of your city strong, and he has blessed the people who live among you.

14 He keeps your borders safe, and gives you plenty of wheat to eat.

15 He gives commands about what will happen on the earth, and these things happen right away.

16 He makes snow that covers the ground like a white wool blanket, and he scatters frost on the ground like ashes.

17 He hurls down hail like small stones.
When he makes it cold, no one can stand outside.
18 But then he gives a command, and the snow and ice melt.
He sends a warm wind, and the water flows again.
19 He told the descendants of Jacob how he wanted them to live.
Yes, he gave decrees and laws to the Israelites.
20 He has not done this for any other nation;
they do not know his laws.
Praise Yahweh!

148 1 Praise Yahweh!
You who are in heaven, praise Yahweh;
yes, you who are in the highest places, praise him.
2 All you angels, praise him;
all you heavenly armies, praise him.
3 Sun and moon, praise him;
all you shining stars, praise him.
4 You highest heavens, praise him,
and you waters above the sky, praise him.
5 Let all of these praise Yahweh, because he created them by his own command.
6 He set them in their places permanently;
to do that, he made a decree that will always be in effect.
7 You who are on the earth, praise Yahweh!
You great sea creatures and everything deep in the ocean, 8 lightning and hail, snow and clouds, and strong winds that obey what he commands, 9 all you mountains and hills,
all you fruit trees and cedar trees, 10 all you wild animals and livestock, all you creatures that crawl on the ground and all you birds that fly in the sky,

11 you kings of the earth and all your peoples, you rulers and all you judges,

12 you young men and young women,

you old people and children,

13 you should all praise Yahweh, because he alone is truly great.

He is more glorious than everything on earth and in heaven.

14 He has made his people strong, and other nations respect them.

His people are the Israelite people, who are close to him.

Praise Yahweh!

149

1 Praise Yahweh!

Sing a new song to Yahweh!

Let his faithful people praise him when they gather together.

2 You Israelite people, God made you.

Be happy because of what he has done for you.

You people of Jerusalem, rejoice because God is your king.

3 Praise Yahweh by dancing.

Play tambourines and harps to honor him.

4 Do that because Yahweh loves his people;

he honors poor people by rescuing them.

5 God's faithful people should celebrate because he has honored them.

Even on their beds at night, they should praise him with joyful songs.

6 They should also shout loudly to praise God when they go into battle holding swords that have two sharp edges.

7 They should be ready to punish the people of other nations for the sins they have committed against God.

8 They should bind their kings with chains and put iron shackles on their leaders.

9 In that way, they will carry out the judgment that God has decreed against them.
God will give his faithful people the honor of doing that for him.
Praise Yahweh!

150 1 Praise Yahweh!
Praise God in his temple here on earth, and praise him in the heavens that he created by his power!
2 Praise him for the mighty things he has done!
Praise him because he is so very great!
3 Praise him by blowing horns loudly!
Praise him by playing lyres and harps!
4 Praise him by beating tambourines and by dancing!
Praise him by playing stringed instruments and flutes!
5 Praise him by playing loud cymbals and cymbals that make high notes!
6 Let everything that breathes praise Yahweh!
Praise Yahweh!

Proverbs

1

1 These are the wise sayings said by Solomon. He was David's son and Israel's king.

2 These wise sayings are for knowing what is wise and instructive.
They are for understanding insightful things that people say.

3 These wise sayings are for instructing someone about what is insightful, righteous, just, and honest.

4 They are for making naive people prudent, and for making young people knowledgeable and discreet.

5 (Let wise people listen to these wise sayings and learn more.
Indeed, let these sayings guide understanding people so that they know what to do.)

6 These wise sayings are for understanding wise sayings and parables.
Indeed, they are for understanding what wise people say and the riddles they tell.

7 In order to become knowledgeable, a person must begin by deeply respecting Yahweh.
But foolish people detest what is wise or instructive.

8 My child, listen carefully to what I, your father, am teaching you.
Indeed, obey the rules that your mother has commanded.

9 Obey your parents' teaching because then people will admire and respect you; it will be as if those teachings were an attractive wreath on your head, or beautiful necklaces around your neck.

10 My child, if sinful people tempt you to sin with them, refuse to do so.

11 Those sinful people may say, "Join us!
We will hide and wait in order to kill someone who walks by.

Indeed, we will hide ourselves in order to suddenly attack an innocent person for no good reason.

12 We will kill living people completely, as if we were their grave.

Yes, we will kill healthy people, as if they could not escape dying.

13 We will discover many valuable treasures!

We will fill our houses with what we steal!

14 Join our gang!

We will share all the loot between us."

15 My child, do not associate with those sinful people!

Prevent yourself from doing the things that they do!

16 Avoid those sinners because they are eager to do wicked things.

They even rush to murder people.

17 It is useless for a hunter to put out a net to trap a bird while the bird is watching because the bird will avoid the net.

18 However, these sinful people are more foolish than birds. They hide in wait, but they kill themselves.

Indeed, they hide so that they can suddenly attack, but they themselves die.

19 That is what happens to anyone who gains wealth in an unjust manner.

What they gained unjustly will kill them.

20 Imagine that everything that is wise is a woman who calls out to everyone in public.

Imagine that this woman shouts to people in crowded places.

21 Imagine that she calls out to people at the place where busy streets intersect.

Imagine that she speaks her wise words at the crowded entrance of the city gates.

22 She says, "You naive people have loved being naive for too long!

You people who ridicule others have enjoyed ridiculing others to benefit yourselves for too long!

You foolish people have hated what you should know for too long!

23 Turn around and listen to me when I correct you!

Listen! I will tell you all that I am thinking.

Indeed, I will help you to understand what I have to say to you.

24 I called out to you, but you refused to listen.

Indeed, I invited you to come to me, but no one paid any attention to me.

25 You ignored everything that I advised you to do.

Indeed, you rejected what I said to correct you.

26 Therefore, as for me, I will laugh at you when disastrous things happen to you.

Indeed, I will ridicule you when you are terrified.

27 Yes, when you are terrified as if a violent storm has arrived, when disastrous things happen to you violently, and when you become distressed and anguished, I will ridicule you!

28 At that time, those foolish people will cry out to me to help them, but I will not reply to them.

Indeed, they will desperately look for me,

but they will not be able to find me.

29 Those foolish people will not find me because they refuse to learn.

Also, they have decided not to respect Yahweh.

30 Those foolish people rejected what I advised them to do.

Indeed, they detested everything I said to correct them.

31 Those foolish people will suffer rightly for what they have done.

Indeed, they will suffer fully for what they have planned.

32 Ultimately, naive people will die because they refuse to be wise.

Indeed, being complacent will destroy foolish people.

33 By contrast, people who listen attentively to what I say will live safely.

They will not fear that something evil might happen to them."

2

1 My child, accept what I say.

Consider what I command you to be precious.

2 Do this by listening carefully to what is wise, and by thinking seriously about what you should understand.

3 Yes, cry out to God for him to show you what you should perceive.

Call loudly to God for him to teach you what you should understand!

4 Try to learn what is wise as eagerly as you would try to find silver.

Indeed, look for it as you would look for a treasure that someone has hidden.

5 If you do those things, then you will understand how to reverently fear Yahweh.

If you do those things, then you will be able to know God.

6 This is because Yahweh provides people with what is wise.

He tells them what they should know and understand.

7 He gives what is truly wise to upright people.

He protects people who behave honestly.

8 He does these things in order to guard those people who live justly.

Indeed, he keeps safe those people who are faithful to him.

9 If you listen to me, then you will understand what is righteous, just, and honest—all the best ways to behave.

10 This is because you will truly know what is wise, and knowing what is wise will please you.

11 Being able to choose wisely will make you safe.

Indeed, being able to understand what is happening around you will make you secure.

12 Being wise like this will keep you from doing wicked things, and you will stay away from people who speak perversely.

13 Those people refuse to behave righteously in order to behave wickedly.

14 They gladly do what is wrong.

They enjoy doing things that are perverse and evil.

15 They behave deceptively.

Indeed, they act deviously.

16 Being discreet and insightful will protect you also from adulterous women.

Being discreet and insightful will save you from immoral women who speak to you seductively.

17 Those women left the husbands they married when they were young.

They even forgot what they had promised to God when they married.

18 Being discreet and insightful will rescue you because going to such a woman's house will cause you to die.

Indeed, going with her is the same as going to the place where the spirits of dead people are.

19 No man who acts adulterously with her will live again.

He will no longer be able to live in a way that results in life with God.

20 Therefore, behave like a good person.

Indeed, conduct yourself like a righteous person.

21 This is important because only people who live uprightly will live in our land,

Indeed, it is the people who do not act wickedly who will stay in this land for a long time.

22 By contrast, Yahweh will remove people who act wickedly from our land.

Be sure of this: Yahweh will completely remove people who act treacherously from this land!

3

1 My child, remember the rules I have taught you!

Always be mindful to obey what I have commanded you!

2 Do this because obeying what I have commanded you will help you live for a long time with many fulfilling and peaceful years.

3 Always be faithful and trustworthy.

Let everyone see how faithful and trustworthy you are, as if they were a necklace you are wearing.

Remember to be faithful and trustworthy at all times.

4 As a result of doing so, both God and people will approve of you and consider you an insightful person.

5 Trust Yahweh completely, and do not rely on what you understand.

6 Let Yahweh lead you whenever you do anything.

As a result of doing so, he will show you what you should do.

7 Do not think that you know what is best.

Instead, revere Yahweh and refuse to do what is evil.

8 Doing so will make your body healthy.

Indeed, doing so will strengthen you from the inside.

9 Revere Yahweh by giving to him some of your riches, and by giving to him some of the first crops from everything that you harvest.

10 Doing so will result in your places for storing crops becoming completely full of crops.

Even your containers for wine will overflow with fresh wine.

11 My child, do not refuse to listen when Yahweh corrects you.

Do not be resentful even when he rebukes you.

12 Do not respond in that way because Yahweh only reproves the people whom he loves, just as a father reproves the children whom he cherishes.

13 People who become wise are happy.

Indeed, the people who understand Yahweh's world are the ones who are truly happy.

14 This is because being wise benefits people more than silver could benefit them.

Indeed, being wise is worth more to people than having gold.

15 Being wise is more valuable than precious jewels.

There is nothing that you could desire that is worth as much as being wise.

16 Being wise will help you live for a long time.

Being wise will help you become wealthy and honorable.

17 Being wise will allow you to live pleasantly.

Indeed, in every way being wise will allow you to live peacefully.

18 What is wise is like a tree with fruit that sustains the people who possess it,

People who are consistently wise live happily.

19 Yahweh made the world through being wise.

Through being skillful, he made the sky and everything in it.

20 Through knowing all things, Yahweh made water burst forth from deep below the earth and he made water fall from the clouds above.

21 My child, always remember to do what is prudent and brings a good outcome.

Always be mindful to do those things.

22 Doing so will give you a satisfying life and people will honor and respect you.

23 Doing what is prudent and good will also cause you to live safely.
They will keep you from making any serious mistakes.

24 When you lie down to sleep, you will not fear anything.
You will lie down to sleep and sleep peacefully.

25 Do not worry about something terrible suddenly happening to you, or about what will happen when God destroys wicked people.

26 Do not worry because Yahweh will make you confident.
He will not allow people to harm you.

27 Do not refrain from giving what is good to people who deserve it when you are able to do so.

28 When you are with a friend who needs something, and you have it with you, do not tell that person,
"Go away and come back tomorrow. I will give it to you then."

29 Do not plan to harm people that you interact with, because they live near you and they trust you.

30 Do not argue needlessly with someone who has not harmed you.

31 Do not envy violent people.
Do not imitate anything they do.

32 Do not do so because Yahweh detests such people who act wickedly, but he converses like a friend with people who act uprightly.

33 Yahweh causes bad things to happen to the families of wicked people, but he causes good things to happen to the families of righteous people.

34 When people ridicule others, it is Yahweh who ridicules them, but he kindly helps those who are humble.

35 People will honor wise people, but people will shame foolish people.

4

1 Children, listen carefully to what I, your father, am teaching you.
Pay attention in order to learn what you should understand.

2 Do this because what I am teaching you is good.

So remember the rules that I am teaching you.

3 When I was just a boy with my father, and my mother's delicate, only son.

4 During that time, my father taught me. He told me,

"Remember what I have told you!

Do what I have commanded you, so that you will keep on living!

5 Learn what is wise and what you should understand!

Always remember and keep doing the things that I have said to you!

6 Keep doing what is wise, because doing so will keep you safe.

Love doing what is wise, because being wise will protect you from harm.

7 Being wise is the most important thing. So become wise!

Even if it costs you everything that you own, become a person who understands God's world!

8 Prize what is wise, so that you will become great.

People will honor you when you value what is wise.

9 Being wise will make you respectable, as though you had an attractive wreath on your head.

Indeed, being wise will make you honorable, as though you were wearing a magnificent crown."

10 My child, listen attentively and accept what I say.

Doing so will increase the number of years that you live.

11 I instructed you in how to act wisely.

I directed you in how to live in the right way.

12 If you follow my teaching, nothing will hinder you from succeeding.

Indeed, if you attempt great things, you will do well.

13 Consistently remember the things I have instructed you;

keep remembering them!

Always be mindful of them, because they will keep you alive.

14 Do not do what wicked people do.

Indeed, do not behave in the way that evil people behave.

15 Shun doing what is evil. Do not even consider doing it!

Refuse to act wickedly and do something else.

16 Do not act wickedly because it is as if evil people cannot even sleep unless they have done something evil on that day;

it is as if they cannot rest unless they hurt someone.

17 Do not act wickedly because evil people do wicked things as if they were eating food;

they violently hurt others as if they were drinking wine.

18 As for righteous people, they will live wisely and safely as people do who walk in the sunshine;

they will live more and more wisely and safely, just as the sun shines brighter and brighter until the brightest time of day.

19 But the way that wicked people live is dangerous, like people who walk in total darkness.

Like people walking in darkness do not know what they trip over, wicked people do not know what hurts them.

20 My child, pay attention to what I am saying to you!

Listen carefully to what I say!

21 Keep thinking about what I say!

Fully commit yourself to remembering such things!

22 Do this because those who live according to my words will have good lives, and their whole bodies will be healthy.

23 More than anything else, be extremely careful about what you think and desire, because those things will control how you live.

24 Do not say anything that deceives people.

Indeed, never say anything that misleads people.

25 Focus on doing what is right, like someone who is always looking straight ahead.

Indeed, act like someone who is looking straight in front of himself.

26 Plan carefully to do things in the right way.

As a result of doing so, you will succeed in everything that you do.

27 Do not do anything other than what is right.

Prevent yourself from doing what is evil.

5

1 My son, pay attention to the wise things that I tell you!
Listen carefully to what I say you should understand!
2 Do this so that you will be able to choose wisely what to do, and so that you will know the right things to say.
3 Do this because what adulterous women say seems delightful like the taste of honey.
Yes, their words are more soothing than how olive oil feels on your skin.
4 However, after being with such a woman you will be miserable, as if you had eaten a bitter plant.
You will suffer like a person whom someone has cut with a sharp, double-edged sword.
5 Being with such a woman will cause both of you to die.
Indeed, what she does with you will cause you to become a dead person.
6 She does not want to do what will cause her to live well.
She does not realize that she lives precariously like someone who is walking on a broken path.
7 So now, children, pay attention to what I say!
Always remember what I have spoken to you!
8 Stay far away from any adulterous woman!
Do not even go near the door of the place where such a woman dwells!
9 If you go to such a woman, you will be giving the best efforts of your youth to others, and a merciless person will take away everything that you would gain in the best time of your life.
10 If you go to such a woman, people you do not know will satisfy themselves with what you produced when you were strong, and an outsider will fill his house with what you labored to gain.
11 Then you will groan when you are about to die and have worn out your whole body.
12 Then you will say, “I hated it extremely when people corrected me!
Indeed, I scorned people when they rebuked me!

13 I did not obey the people who taught me.
Indeed, I did not listen carefully to the people who instructed me.
14 My people are close to considering me as someone who has wasted his life.”
15 So be like someone who only drinks water from his own well; have sex with your wife only.
16 Do not be like someone who lets his water run out into the streets;
never have sex with other women!
17 Only have sex with your own wife!
Do not have sex with other women!
18 As a result, may Yahweh bless your marriage with children; enjoy sexually the woman whom you married when you were young!
19 She is as beautiful as a loving deer and a graceful mountain goat.
Let her breasts satisfy you always.
Constantly be exhilarated by how she loves you.
20 My son, you should never be exhilarated by an adulterous woman!
You should never passionately caress an immoral woman!
21 Never do that because Yahweh fully knows what people do.
Indeed, he knows everything that people do.
22 The wicked things that wicked people do are like traps that catch them;
the sinful things that they do are like ropes by which others can grab them.
23 Those wicked people will die because they did not discipline themselves.
They will do what kills them because they are extremely foolish.

6 1 My child, if you guarantee to pay a loan for someone you meet, that is, if you agree to pay a loan for someone you do not know, 2 if in this way you have said things that you regret because it would be very difficult for you to fulfill what you promised, 3 then, my child, do this in order to save yourself from having to pay back this loan:
humbly go to that person and beg him to cancel what you have promised, because he now controls you.
4 Do not wait until tomorrow; go immediately!

do not allow yourself to rest until you go and talk to him.

5 Save yourself immediately, as if you were a deer fleeing from a hunter or a bird fleeing from a trapper.

6 You lazy person, learn something from watching ants!
Consider what ants do so that you can be wise.

7 Absolutely no one tells ants what to do.

8 Nevertheless, they work hard all during the summer, gathering and storing food to eat during the winter.

9 But you lazy person, stop sleeping!
Wake up!

10 If you say to yourself, "Let me sleep just a little more!
Let me lay my hands across my chest in order to rest comfortably for a little while longer!"

11 Then the result of being so lazy will be that you will become poor and needy just as surely as if a thief has robbed you.

12 I will describe for you what worthless, sinful people do. They constantly deceive people by what they say.

13 They make gestures, such as winking their eyes, signaling with their feet, and pointing their fingers to communicate their evil plans to their friends.

14 They are always thinking perversely while planning how to do evil things.
They cause people to argue with each other.

15 Because of this, disastrous things will suddenly happen to those people.
Someone will destroy them instantly and they will not be able to recover.

16 Yahweh absolutely hates six, no, seven things:

17 being proud, speaking falsely, someone murdering a person who has not done anything wrong,

18 someone planning ways to act sinfully, someone eagerly looking for ways to act wickedly,

19 someone who naturally lies when testifying, and someone causing members of the same family to argue.

20 My child, be mindful to obey what I, your father, have commanded you.

Indeed, obey the rules that your mother has commanded.

21 Remember what we have taught you as if it were always a part of you.

Indeed, remember these lessons as if you wore them like a necklace.

22 The wise things that we have taught you will help you to know what you should do as you go about each day.

They will cause you to be safe when you sleep.

When you wake up in the morning, they will be what will continue to instruct you.

23 This is so because what I have commanded you is like a lamp that shows you your way.

Indeed, the rules we taught you are like a light to guide you.

When we rebuke you while instructing you, we do that so that you can do what will give you a good life.

24 We taught you these lessons in order to prevent you from going to wicked women, and to prevent you from believing the seductive talk of immoral women.

25 Do not think lustfully about her beautiful body.

Do not let her seduce you by the flirtatious way she looks at you.

26 Do not do so because, although having sex with a prostitute may only cost you a cheap meal, doing so with an adulterous married woman will cause you to die.

27 A man cannot hold fire against his chest without burning his clothes!

28 No one can walk on burning coals without blistering his feet!

29 It is similar with anyone who has sex with another man's wife.

People will certainly punish anyone who does that.

30 People do not resent someone who steals if he only steals food because he is hungry.

31 Nevertheless, if people catch thieves, those thieves must pay back seven times as much as they stole to those from whom they stole.

They may have to give everything that they own in order to repay what they stole.

32 By contrast, a man who acts adulterously with a woman is not thinking.

By doing this, he destroys himself!

33 The woman's husband will injure him, people will despise him,
and he will always be ashamed.

34 This is so because the jealous husband will become furious.
He will act mercilessly when he revenges himself on the man who acted adulterously with his wife.

35 That jealous husband will not accept any money to stop being furious, no matter how much money you offer him.

7

1 My son, obey what I have told you.
Carefully remember the things that I have commanded you.

2 Do what I have commanded you, so that you will live long and well.
Consider the rules I have taught you to be the most precious things that you possess.

3 Constantly remind yourself of the things that I have commanded you.
Memorize them!

4 Love what is wise as if it were your sister.
Indeed, love what you should understand as if it were a close relative.

5 Do this so that you will be able to stay away from adulterous women, and stay away from immoral women who speak to you seductively.

6 I was once standing near the window in my house, and I looked down from above the street through the shutters on the window.

7 Then I observed someone among the naive people.
I noticed among the youths a young man who does not think wisely.

8 He walked down the street near the corner of the road where the adulterous woman dwells.
Then he walked on the path toward her house.

9 (It was the time of day when night begins, and then it became dark.)

10 Then I saw that an adulterous woman approached the young man.
She was wearing a prostitute's clothing and intended to deceive the young man.

11 (That woman spoke loudly and acted rebelliously.

She never stayed at home.

12 She often walked around the streets and public places.

At the corner of any road she waited for a man whom she could seduce.)

13 When she saw the young man, she firmly took hold of him and kissed him.

She shamelessly told him,

14 "Today I have meat in my house, because I sacrificed an animal in the temple to promise friendship with Yahweh.

In this way I did what I had vowed to do.

15 So I have come out here to meet you.

I have come out to look everywhere for you, and now I have found you!

16 I have covered my bed with expensive Egyptian fabric.

17 I have put pleasant-smelling perfumes on my bed:

myrrh, aloes, and cinnamon.

18 Come with me! Let us satisfy ourselves sexually all night!

Let us enjoy ourselves sexually!

19 Come with me because my husband is not at home.

He has gone away on a long journey.

20 He filled a bag with money and took it with him.

He will not return home until the middle of the month."

21 Thus that adulterous woman persuaded the young man by speaking many persuasive things;

by speaking seductively she allured him into doing what she wanted him to do.

22 He quickly followed her to her home.

He unknowingly went to die like an ox going to the place where its owner will kill it.

He unknowingly went to die like a foolish person who lets others lead him by a chain to where they will punish him 23 until someone kills him by shooting an arrow into his entrails.

He was as foolish as a bird flying quickly into a trap.

He did not realize that going with the adulterous woman would cause him to die.

24 So now, children, listen to what I say!

Carefully pay attention to what I have spoken to you!

25 Do not desire to be with any adulterous woman.

Indeed, never go with one of them!

26 Do not do so because they have ruined the lives of many men.

It would be difficult to count all of the men that they have caused to die!

27 Going to an adulterous woman's house is like choosing to become a dead person.

Those who enter her bedroom will die as a result.

8

1 Imagine that there is a woman who represents everything that is wise. Surely such a woman calls out to everyone.

Indeed, imagine that this woman represents everything that people should understand.

Surely such a woman shouts these things to people.

2 Imagine that this woman stands at the highest place next to the crowded crossroads where everyone can hear her.

3 Imagine that this woman shouts loudly beside the gates at the entrance to a city.

4 Imagine that she proclaims: "I am calling out to all of you!

I am speaking to all people!

5 You naive people must learn to be prudent.

You foolish people must learn how to be discerning.

6 Listen to what I say, because I will tell you some excellent things.

I will speak to you about what is right.

7 Listen to what I say because I speak what is true.

I detest speaking what is evil.

8 Everything that I say is honest.

I do not say anything that is false or that deceives people.

9 Everything that I say is plain for people who understand.

Everything that I say is right to people who have become knowledgeable.

10 Choose to learn what I instruct you instead of silver.

Indeed, choose to learn what you should know instead of the finest gold.

11 Do this because being wise is more valuable than having precious jewels.

Being wise is more valuable than anything that you can desire.

12 I am what is wise. I am a close relative to what is prudent.

I enable people to know how to decide things intelligently.

13 Everyone who reverently fears Yahweh hates what is evil.

I, what is wise, hate it when people are proud or arrogant.

I hate it when people act wickedly and when people speak perversely.

14 I advise people well and enable them to be truly wise.

I am what people need in order to understand how things truly are.

I strengthen people.

15 I enable kings to rule well.

I enable rulers to make righteous laws.

16 I enable princes and nobles to govern well.

I enable every royal official who judges righteously to do so.

17 I am what is wise, and I benefit anyone who loves me.

Anyone who earnestly tries to become wise will succeed.

18 I enable people to become rich and I cause people to honor those people.

I enable people to have riches that will last and I enable people to become righteous.

19 What I can give people is more valuable than even the purest gold and the best silver.

20 I always do what is righteous and just 21 in order to give property to people who love me.

I will fill up the places where they store valuable items.

22 Yahweh had me, what is wise, when he began to create everything.

Indeed, he had me before he started doing that.

23 Yahweh established me a very long time ago—at the very beginning, before the world existed.

24 Yahweh revealed me before the oceans existed and before there were springs abounding with water.

25 Yahweh revealed me before he made the mountains and before he made the hills.

26 Yahweh revealed me before he made the land or the fields or the first particles of dirt on the earth.

27 I was there when Yahweh made the sky, and when he made the boundary between the sky and the ocean's surface.

28 I was there when Yahweh made the clouds above the earth, and when he made the springs flow at the bottom of the ocean.

29 I was there when Yahweh set boundaries for the seas, so that the water in the seas would not go past the boundaries that he commanded.

I was there when Yahweh made the parts supporting the dry land.

30 At that time I was like someone who was beside Yahweh, skillfully helping him to create everything.

I made him happy every day.

I was always rejoicing when I was with him.

31 I was rejoicing in the whole world that Yahweh had made.

I was also happy with the people he had made.

32 So now, children, pay attention to what I say!

Do this because anyone who obeys my teachings will be happy.

33 Listen to what I teach you, so that you will become wise.

Think about what I teach you!

34 People who listen to me will be happy.

People who are as eager to listen to me as if they were waiting for me at the door of my house every day and watching for me to come out will be happy.

35 This is true because people who learn to be wise will live well, and Yahweh will approve of them.

36 But those who refuse to be wise hurt themselves.

All those who hate to be wise act like they are people who would love to die."

9 1 Continue imagining that there is a woman who represents everything that is wise. Imagine that this woman has built her own spacious house and made seven pillars to support its roof.

2 Imagine that she has prepared a meal for guests.

She has prepared the meat to eat and wine to drink.

She has fully prepared her table for a meal.

3 Imagine that this woman has sent out her maids to invite her dinner guests.

Then she calls out at the highest place in the city where everyone can hear her.

4 She tells those who are not wise,

"Come into my house, all you naive people!

5 Come to me! Eat the food that I have prepared, and drink the wine that I have prepared.

6 Stop acting naively so that you can live well.

Do what will cause you to learn what you should understand.

7 If you try to teach someone who ridicules other people, that person will ridicule you.

If you correct an evil person, that person will hurt you.

8 So do not correct a person who ridicules other people. If you do so, then that person will hate you.

However, if you correct a wise person, that person will love you for doing so.

9 If you instruct wise people, then they will become even wiser.

If you teach righteous people, then they will learn even more.

10 If you want to be wise, you must start by revering Yahweh, and only by knowing what is holy will you understand which teachings are wise and true.

11 Surely being wise will cause you to live for many more years.

12 Any wise person benefits himself from being wise, just as anyone who ridicules other people will personally suffer for doing so."

13 Foolish women speak loudly, act naively, and are very ignorant.

14 They sit at the doors of the places where they dwell.

They sit on seats at the highest place in the city where everyone can hear them.

15 They sit there in order to call out to the people who are walking past them.

They call out to those walking down the road, who are only concerned about where they are going.

16 They tell those who are not wise,

"Come into my house, all you naive people!

17 Come to me, because having sex with someone to whom you are not married is as sweet as water that you have stolen.

Indeed, it is as delicious as food that you eat all by yourself."

18 But men who go to the houses of such women are not aware that the men who have gone there before have died.

They are not aware that the guests of such women are now in the deepest parts of the place where dead people are.

10

1 These are more wise sayings said by Solomon:

Wise children make their fathers glad,

but foolish children make their mothers sad.

2 Riches that people acquire by acting wickedly will not benefit them, but people who act righteously prevent themselves from dying too soon.

3 Yahweh prevents righteous people from starving, but he prevents wicked people from getting what they want.

4 People who are lazy become poor, but people who work hard become rich.

5 Sons who collect crops at the right time are insightful, but sons who sleep during the time to harvest crops are shameful.

6 God blesses righteous people, but what wicked people say sometimes prevents others from knowing about the violent acts that they do.

7 People will be happy when they remember righteous people, but people will forget wicked people as if they were something that decays and disappears.

8 People who think wisely are willing to obey the good things that people tell them to do, but people who speak foolishly destroy themselves.

9 People who behave honestly will live safely;
but God will catch people who behave deceitfully.
10 People who gesture with their eyes to deceive others hurt people, and people who speak foolishly destroy themselves.
11 What righteous people say is like a spring that enables people to live long and well;
but what wicked people say prevents others from knowing about the violent acts that they do.
12 When people hate others, they argue with each other;
but when people love others, they forgive people for the wrong things that they do.
13 Discerning people say what is wise, but someone must punish people who do not think wisely.
14 Wise people continue to learn all that they can,
but when foolish people speak, they start to destroy things.
15 What rich people own keeps them safe like a strong wall keeps a city safe, but poor people suffer much because they are poor.
16 God rewards righteous people by allowing them to live for a long time, but God recompenses wicked people by punishing them for sinning.
17 People who heed what is instructive will live for a long time;
but people who do not let others correct them do what will destroy them.
18 People who hate others but pretend that they do not hate them speak falsely.
People who slander others are foolish.
19 People who talk a lot sin a lot;
but people who refrain from speaking unnecessarily are wise.
20 What righteous people say is as valuable as the best silver;
but what wicked people think is worthless.
21 What righteous people say benefits many people, but foolish people die because they do not think wisely.
22 When people become wealthy, it is because Yahweh has blessed them, and working harder will not make them to become wealthier.

23 Foolish people enjoy doing the wicked things that they planned to do, but sensible people enjoy doing what is wise.
24 Wicked people will experience what frightens them;
but righteous people will receive what they want.
25 When something disastrous happens, it destroys wicked people, but righteous people are like a foundation that lasts forever.
26 Lazy people irritate people who send them to do something for them, like vinegar irritates teeth and smoke irritates eyes.
27 People who revere Yahweh will live for a long time, but wicked people will live for only a short time.
28 What righteous people hope for will make them joyful, but what wicked people hope for will not happen.
29 Yahweh protects honest people like a fortress because they live the way that he directs people to live, but not living that way destroys people who act sinfully.
30 Righteous people will always be secure,
but wicked people will never live in our land.
31 Righteous people say what is wise, but Yahweh will stop people from speaking who speak perversely.
32 Righteous people know good things to say, but wicked people continually say things that are not true.

11 1 Yahweh detests people using weighing instruments in order to deceive others, but it pleases him when people use correct weights on their weighing instruments.
2 When people act proudly, they will soon disgrace themselves, but humble people are wise.
3 Upright people know what to do because they are honest, but being deceitful will ruin treacherous people.
4 What people own will not help them when Yahweh punishes wicked people, but he will not kill those who live righteously.

5 Being righteous will cause innocent people to live securely, but being wicked will ruin those who act wickedly.
6 Being righteous will cause people who act uprightly to escape harm, but desiring bad things will cause people who act treacherously to trap themselves.
7 When wicked people die, what they hoped for never happens;
they hoped that being strong would benefit them, but it will not.
8 Yahweh rescues righteous people from becoming distressed;
but wicked people will become distressed instead.
9 People who reject God ruin other people by what they say, but what righteous people know will cause them to escape.
10 People in a city rejoice when the righteous people there prosper, and they shout joyously when wicked people die.
11 A city becomes great when people who act uprightly bless the people there, but what people who act wickedly say destroys that city.
12 People who openly detest someone they know are not thinking wisely;
but understanding people say nothing.
13 People who go around gossiping tell others what is secret, but trustworthy people will keep a matter private.
14 Not having anyone to guide a group of people will ruin them, but having many people to advise them will keep that group secure.
15 People who guarantee to pay a debt for someone they do not know will surely suffer, but people who avoid agreeing to do such a thing will be safe.
16 People honor a gracious woman, but cruel men only get wealth.
17 People who are faithfully kind greatly benefit themselves, but cruel people hurt themselves.
18 People who act wickedly falsely believe that they have gained something good, but God truly rewards people who do what is right.
19 People who truly act righteously will live well, but people who eagerly do what is evil will die.

20 Yahweh detests people who think deceitfully, but people who act blamelessly please him.

21 It is certain that Yahweh will punish wicked people, and that he will not punish those who belong to the righteous group.

22 It is as unsuitable for a beautiful woman to refuse to act discreetly as it is for a pig to have a gold ring in its snout.

23 When righteous people get what they want, it results in only good things, but when wicked people get what they hope for, it results in Yahweh being angry.

24 Some people generously share what they have with others but they receive even more.
Other people keep more of what they have than they should keep, but they still become poor.

25 People who generously bless others will prosper; and people who generously give others what the others need will also receive everything that they need.

26 People curse anyone who selfishly hoards grain instead of selling it, but they bless people who sell it when others need it.

27 If you sincerely want to do what is right, people will treat you well, but evil things happen to people who try to do what is evil.

28 People who depend on their money will not be successful, but righteous people will thrive like a green plant.

29 People who trouble their families will not inherit anything, and people who act foolishly will serve people who think wisely.

30 What righteous people say and do is like a tree with fruit that keeps people alive, and people who persuade others to be righteous are wise.

31 Pay attention! Righteous people on the earth will get what they deserve; but even more so, wicked, sinful people will also get what they deserve!

12 1 People who love other people correcting them also love learning what they should know.

But people who hate other people correcting them are foolish.

2 Yahweh approves of people who are good, but he condemns people who plan to do what is evil.

3 People do not become secure by acting wickedly, but righteous people are as secure as a tree with immovable roots.

4 A virtuous wife causes people to praise her husband, but a disgraceful wife destroys her husband like a disease that destroys his bones.

5 Righteous people plan to treat people fairly;
wicked people advise people in order to deceive them.

6 What wicked people say is like a trap that kills people who pass by;
but what upright people say will enable them to escape.

7 Yahweh destroys wicked people and they disappear, but the families of righteous people will continue.

8 People will praise someone according to how insightful that person is, but people will despise someone who thinks perversely.

9 It is better to be a lowly person yet have a servant than to think that you are important yet have no food.

10 Righteous people care for their animals, but even when wicked people think that they act compassionately, they act cruelly.

11 People who work hard will have enough food to eat, but people who waste time doing worthless things do not think wisely.

12 Wicked people want what evil people steal, but righteous people benefit others like a tree with deep roots.

13 The sinful things that wicked people say will destroy them, but righteous people escape from trouble.

14 The good things that people say to others will also satisfy them with what is good;
what people work hard to accomplish will also benefit them.

15 Foolish people always think that what they are doing is right; but wise people listen to what other people advise them to do.

16 People know immediately when foolish people are angry;
but smart people ignore it when someone disrespects them.
17 People who naturally say what is true speak righteously, but witnesses who say what is false speak deceitfully.
18 When people speak without thinking about what to say, they hurt others like someone who stabs people with a sword, but what wise people say helps people heal.
19 What people say truthfully will last forever, but what people say falsely will only last for a moment.
20 People who plan to act evilly think deceitfully, but people who advise others to act peacefully will be joyful.
21 Bad things usually do not happen to righteous people, but wicked people will experience many bad things.
22 Yahweh detests people who speak falsely, but people who act faithfully please him.
23 Smart people do not reveal all of what they know, but foolish people shout out foolish things.
24 People who work hard will reign over others, but lazy people will become forced laborers.
25 When people worry, they feel sad, but when others speak kindly to them, it causes them to be cheerful again.
26 Righteous people guide their friends in the right way to live, but by living wickedly, wicked people destroy themselves.
27 Lazy people do not even cook the animals that they catch, but people who work hard value their possessions.
28 People who do what is righteous will live.
Indeed, people who do so will not die.

13 1 Wise children pay attention when their fathers instruct them, but people who ridicule other people do not pay attention when people correct them.

2 The good things that people say are like good food to them, and the violent things that treacherous people do are like food for them.
3 People who are careful about what they say enable themselves to stay alive, but people who speak carelessly destroy themselves.
4 Lazy people want things very much and get very little, but people who work hard will receive everything that they want.
5 Righteous people detest speaking falsely, but what wicked people do is disgusting and disgraceful.
6 Acting righteously enables people who act blamelessly to be safe, but acting wickedly causes sinful people to do what will destroy them.
7 Some people act as if they are wealthy while they are actually poor.
Other people act as if they are poor while they are actually wealthy.
8 Rich people might have to pay money to someone who threatens them in order to stay alive, but poor people do not even listen when someone threatens them.
9 Righteous people live joyfully like a light that shines brightly, but wicked people will merely die like an oil lamp that stops burning oil.
10 People who act proudly cause people to argue, but people who let others advise them cause people to be wise.
11 Riches that people gain effortlessly will disappear, but people who gain riches by working steadily will increase their riches.
12 People despair when they do not receive what they have been hoping to receive, but when people receive what they have been wanting to receive, they feel like they have everything that they need.
13 People who detest what others try to teach them will suffer for doing so, but God will reward those people who respect what he has commanded.
14 What wise people teach continuously benefits people throughout their lives.
It enables people to avoid dangerous things that could kill them.
15 People approve of people who are very insightful, but treacherous people are stubborn in the way that they live.
16 All clever people think carefully before they do something, but foolish people show that they are foolish by how they act.

17 Bad things happen to messengers who are not reliable, but reliable messengers make people peaceful.

18 People who do not let other people correct them will become poor and ashamed, but people respect those who let other people rebuke them for any bad behavior.

19 People feel pleasant when they get what they want, but foolish people detest refusing to do what is evil.

20 People who associate with wise people will become wise themselves, but people who are companions of foolish people will suffer.

21 Bad things happen to sinful people, but good things happen to righteous people.

22 Good people will leave riches for their grandchildren when they die, but righteous people will receive the riches that sinful people have saved.

23 Poor people have fields that can produce a lot of food, but unjust people take it away from them.

24 Parents who do not punish their children for bad behavior act as if they hate their children, but parents who truly love their children are careful to discipline them.

25 Righteous people have enough food to eat and satisfy themselves, but wicked people will be hungry.

14

1 The wisest women help their families to thrive, but foolish women ruin their families by the foolish things that they do.

2 People who behave uprightly show that they greatly revere Yahweh, but people who behave deceptively show that they detest Yahweh.

3 What foolish people say causes others to punish them for being proud, but what wise people say protects them.

4 If a man has no oxen to plow his field, he does not need to put grain in their feedbox, but if he has oxen, they will enable him to produce an abundant crop.

5 Honest witnesses do not lie, but dishonest witnesses lie easily.
6 People who ridicule other people try to become wise and fail to do so, but people who understand what is right learn things easily.
7 If you associate with foolish people, you will not learn anything from knowledgeable people.
8 People who have good sense know that it is wise to understand the consequences of what they do, but stupid people deceive themselves and others, which is foolish.
9 Foolish people scorn people who make amends with Yahweh after sinning, but Yahweh approves of people who do what is right.
10 Only you truly know how miserable you are,
and only you truly know how joyful you are.
11 The families of wicked people will die out, but the families of upright people will thrive.
12 There is a way to do things that is easy and convenient for people, but in the end, doing things that way will cause them to die.
13 People who are laughing may still be suffering, and people who feel joyful may ultimately feel sad.
14 People who refuse to live righteously will receive from Yahweh what they deserve from living that way;
and good people will also receive from Yahweh what they deserve from living the good way.
15 Naive people believe whatever people say, but smart people think carefully about what they do.
16 Wise people are careful and avoid doing things that annoy others, but foolish people confidently interfere in other people's business.
17 People who quickly become angry act foolishly, and people hate those who plan to do evil things.
18 Naive people only acquire foolish habits, but the reward for clever people is what they know.

19 Some day evil people will respectfully bow in front of good people, and wicked people will bow at the doors of the houses where righteous people dwell.
20 Even the friends of poor people despise them, but rich people have many friends.
21 It is sinful to despise your poor neighbors, but God is pleased with those who do kind things for poor people.
22 People who plan to act wickedly are surely doing the wrong thing with their lives, but people who plan to do what is good are faithful and trustworthy people.
23 If people work hard, they will gain from it, but if people only talk, they will remain poor.
24 A reward of being wise is to become rich, but because stupid people are foolish, they only become more foolish.
25 Truthful witnesses save people from dying, but deceptive people tell lies that cause harm to people.
26 People who revere Yahweh are completely confident that he will protect them.
Yahweh will also protect their children.
27 Reverently fearing Yahweh is like having a refreshing spring that enables people to live well.
It enables people to avoid what could kill them.
28 Kings who rule over many people are glorious, but kings who have no people to rule over have nothing.
29 People who do not become angry quickly are very wise, but people who become angry quickly show everyone how foolish they are.
30 Feeling peaceful makes a person's body healthy, but envying others makes a person's body unhealthy, like something that rots a person's bones.
31 People who make poor people suffer ridicule Yahweh, who made them, but people who are kind to needy people respect Yahweh.
32 Wicked people destroy themselves by doing evil things, but righteous people are safe even when they die.

33 Understanding people think wisely, but when one is among foolish people what is wise is especially obvious.

34 Acting righteously makes a country great, but acting sinfully disgraces communities.

35 Insightful servants please their kings, but kings are furious with servants who act disgracefully.

15 1 Replying gently to angry people will calm them, but speaking harshly to them will make them angrier.

2 What wise people say makes others want to know more,
but foolish people constantly say what is foolish.

3 Yahweh sees everything that is happening;
he observes both evil people and good people.

4 What people say soothingly is like a tree with fruit that enables people to live well, but what people say deceitfully makes people despair.

5 Foolish people detest what their fathers say to correct them, but people who let others rebuke them are clever.

6 Righteous people have houses that contain a lot of riches, but what wicked people gain disrupts them.

7 What wise people say informs others of what they should know, but what foolish people think does not do that.

8 Yahweh detests the sacrifices that wicked people offer to him, but he delights in the prayers of upright people.

9 Yahweh detests what wicked people do, but he loves people who diligently try to do what is right.

10 Yahweh will severely punish people who refuse to live righteously, and people who refuse to let other people correct them will perish.

11 Yahweh knows everything about the place where dead people are, so he surely knows everything that everyone thinks!

12 People who ridicule others despise anyone who corrects them;
they avoid wise people.
13 People smile when they are happy, but feeling sad can make people despair.
14 Sensible people are always trying to learn more,
but foolish people satisfy themselves with what is foolish.
15 People who suffer experience bad things every day, but cheerful people live as though they are always feasting.
16 Being poor while reverently fearing Yahweh is better than being rich while worrying.
17 It is better for someone to have a small meal of vegetables with people who love each other than to have a large meal of good meat with people who hate each other.
18 People who easily become angry cause people to argue, but people who do not easily become angry will help people to be peaceful.
19 Lazy people are unproductive like people walking through thorny plants, but upright people are productive like people walking on a level road.
20 Wise sons and daughters make their parents happy, but any sons or daughters who detest their parents are foolish.
21 People who are not wise enjoy acting foolishly, but understanding people do what is right.
22 People will not accomplish what they plan to do if there is no one to advise them well, but when many people advise them well, they will succeed.
23 People rejoice when they answer someone aptly.
It is so good to say something at the right time!
24 Insightful people live in a way that causes their lives to become increasingly better, in order for them to avoid living in a way that would result in dying.
25 Yahweh will destroy what proud people own, but he protects the few things that widows own.

26 Yahweh detests the evil things that people think,
but the pleasing things that people say are pure.
27 People who gain wealth in an unjust manner trouble their families, but people who refuse bribes will live in a better way.
28 Righteous people think carefully about how to reply to people, but wicked people quickly say what is evil.
29 Yahweh does not listen to what wicked people request him to do, but he listens and responds when righteous people pray to him.
30 People feel happy when they see someone smile, and people feel healthy when they hear something good.
31 People who begin to behave in a more life-giving way when others rebuke them for behaving badly show that they belong to the group of wise people.
32 People who refuse to let others correct them act as if they despise themselves, but people who listen when others rebuke them think wisely.
33 Revering Yahweh teaches people to be wise, and people must be humble before other people can respect them.

16 1 People plan what they want to say, but Yahweh determines how they will actually speak.
2 People think that everything that they do is right, but Yahweh knows why people do what they do.
3 Entrust what you do to Yahweh, and he will make what you plan to do succeed.
4 When Yahweh made everything, he planned what would happen to each thing.
He has even made wicked people for the time when he will punish them.
5 Yahweh detests all proud people;
he will certainly punish them.
6 Be loyal to Yahweh and faithfully obey him; if you do that, he will forgive you for having sinned.
People who revere Yahweh will avoid doing what is evil.
7 When Yahweh approves of what people do,

he even causes their enemies to be peaceful with them.

8 It is better for someone to have just a few things while being righteous, than for someone to have a lot of crops while being unjust.

9 People plan what they want to do, but Yahweh determines what they will actually do.

10 Kings speak for God;
when kings judge, they must always speak justly.

11 Yahweh made accurate weighing instruments for us to use honestly.
Indeed, he made all the stones in the weighing bag so that we would use them honestly.

12 Kings should detest any wicked thing that people do because acting righteously causes kings to rule securely.

13 Ideally, kings enjoy hearing people speak honestly.
Indeed, they love people who say what is true.

14 When kings are angry, they cause people to die, so wise people will appease them.

15 When kings are happy, they let people live;
when they approve of people, it is as refreshing as rain in springtime.

16 Becoming wise is better than having gold.
Indeed, it is better to choose to become understanding than to have silver.

17 Upright people act in a way that avoids doing what is evil; people who want to stay alive are careful about what they do.

18 Being proud causes people to destroy themselves.
Indeed, being arrogant causes people to ruin themselves.

19 It is better to live humbly among poor people than to live proudly and receive some of what proud people have taken from others.

20 People who act prudently in a matter will succeed, and people who trust in Yahweh are happy.

21 People will call those who think wisely, “understanding ones,” and people who speak pleasantly are able to teach others effectively.

22 Being insightful allows a person to live well continually, but foolish people can only teach others to be foolish.
23 What wise people think causes them to speak insightfully, and what those people say causes others to learn.
24 The pleasing things that people say are like a honeycomb:
They cause people to feel pleasant and healthy.
25 There is a way to do things that is easy and convenient for people, but in the end, doing things that way will cause them to die.
26 Being hungry helps working people work because wanting to eat motivates people to keep on working.
27 Worthless people plot how to hurt others;
the evil things they say harm others like fire burns people.
28 Perverse people cause other people to argue with each other, and people who gossip about others cause friends to stop being friends.
29 Violent people tempt other people to sin, and they guide them to behave wickedly.
30 People who use their eyes to signal to others are planning to do something perverse; people who use their lips to signal to others are about to do the evil thing that they had planned to do.
31 The gray hair that old people have is like an honorable crown on their heads;
they achieve it by living righteously.
32 It is better to be someone who does not become angry quickly than to be powerful.
It is better to control oneself than to be as powerful as someone who conquers a city.
33 People throw lots in order to decide what to do, but Yahweh decides whatever happens.

17 1 It is better for someone to have a little stale food to eat while living peacefully than for someone to live in a house where people frequently eat large meals while arguing with each other.

2 An insightful slave will become the boss of a disgraceful son of his master, and that slave will inherit a portion of his master's property along with his master's sons.

3 People put silver and gold into very hot furnaces to burn out what is impure, and Yahweh tests what people are thinking and desiring to do in a similar manner.

4 People who act wickedly listen carefully when people speak what is sinful; people who lie pay attention when people say things that destroy others.

5 People who ridicule poor people despise Yahweh, who made them;
Yahweh will certainly punish people who rejoice when other people experience disastrous things.

6 Old people are proud of their grandchildren, and children are proud of their parents.

7 It is not fitting for worthless people to speak eloquently.
It is even less fitting for royal officials to speak falsely!

8 People who pay bribes think that bribes are magical;
by paying bribes, they think that everything that they do will be successful.

9 If you want people to love you, forgive them for the wrong things that they have done to you.
If you continue to remind them about those wrong things, they will no longer be your friends.

10 Rebuking sensible people once causes them to learn more than hitting foolish people a hundred times causes them to learn.

11 Evil people only want to rebel, so a merciless messenger will come and punish them.

12 A mother bear who is furious because someone has stolen her cubs is dangerous, but it can be more dangerous to confront a foolish person who is doing something foolish.

13 If someone does bad things to people who have done good things to him, then bad things will always happen to his family.

14 When people start arguing with each other, it is as difficult to stop as it is to stop water that is leaking out of a dam, so prevent yourself from arguing before you start to argue.
15 There are people who acquit guilty people, and there are people who condemn innocent people;
Yahweh detests both types of people.
16 How useless it is for foolish people to try to pay money in order to become wise when they are unable to think!
17 A friend loves you all the time, and relatives exist in order to help other relatives when disastrous things happen.
18 People who do not think wisely agree to pay someone else's loan and even guarantee to pay that loan in front of people whom they know.
19 People who love to sin also love to cause people to argue;
people who brag a lot cause others to destroy them.
20 People who think deceitfully will not experience good things, and bad things will happen to people who speak deceitfully.
21 Foolish people grieve their parents.
Indeed, worthless people will cause their parents to be very sad.
22 Being cheerful helps the body to heal, but being discouraged makes the body weak.
23 Wicked people accept bribes that people give to them secretly, so that they will decide matters unfairly.
24 Understanding people concentrate on what is wise, but foolish people cannot concentrate on anything.
25 Foolish children grieve their fathers and make their mothers miserable.
26 Punishing innocent people is surely very bad, and flogging noble people would be just as wrong.
27 People who refrain from speaking unnecessarily are knowledgeable, and people who can remain calm are truly wise.

28 People will think even foolish people are wise if those foolish people do not speak.

Indeed, if fools refrain from speaking people will consider them to be insightful.

18

1 People who avoid other people only care about doing what they want to do.

They refuse to do anything that is wise.

2 Foolish people hate learning.

Instead, they only want to tell others what they think.

3 People treat wicked people contemptuously, and people scold people who act shamefully.

4 What wise people say is as profound as a deep ocean.

Wise people are always saying wise things, like a fountain that flows in a constant stream.

5 It is very evil for judges to favor guilty people in order to prevent judging innocent people justly.

6 What foolish people say makes people argue, and it makes people want to beat them.

7 What foolish people say will ruin them.

Indeed, what they say may cause them to die, as a trap may cause an animal to die.

8 People are eager to listen to what people who gossip say,

and what they say deeply affects those who hear it.

9 People who are lazy when they work are like people who destroy things.

10 Yahweh is like a strong tower that righteous people run into and are safe.

11 Rich people think that what they own keeps them safe like walls keep cities safe;

they think that what they own protects them as well as a high wall.

12 Before people ruin themselves, they have first become proud; and before people will respect someone, that person must become humble.

13 It is foolish and shameful for someone to reply to what a person has said before hearing it.

14 When someone is inwardly strong, he can endure being sick.

However, when someone is inwardly weak and depressed, it is very difficult to make the person feel better!

15 Understanding people are always learning more.

Indeed, wise people are always trying to learn more.

16 Giving something to someone can benefit the one who gives it;

doing so can enable that person to meet important people.

17 People who state their cases first seem to be right until people whom they know arrive and question them.

18 Throwing lots in order to decide something can make people stop arguing, it can also decide who is right between powerful people.

19 It is more difficult to reconcile with a relative whom you have offended than to conquer a fortified city;

and when people argue, they avoid each other as if a castle's strong gate were between them.

20 What people say will satisfy them when they are hungry.

Indeed, what people say will satisfy them.

21 What people say can cause people to die or to remain alive.

So people who are skillful at talking will strongly influence what happens to themselves and to others.

22 A man who marries a good wife will experience good things, and Yahweh approves of them.

23 Poor people plead for others to be merciful to them, but rich people reply to them rudely.

24 Having companions who only seem to be true friends will destroy a person, but there is a type of friend who loves us and is more loyal than any brother.

19

1 It is better to be poor and behave honestly than to speak deceitfully and be foolish.

2 Furthermore, it is very bad for people to be enthusiastic about doing something while not knowing anything about it;

people who act hastily do things wrong.

3 People who act foolishly destroy themselves, yet they become furious with Yahweh and blame him.

4 Wealthy people easily make many friends, but when people become poor, they lose even the friends they have.

5 Someone will surely punish lying witnesses.

Indeed, someone will surely punish people who lie easily.

6 A lot of people want royal officials to favor them, and many people want to be friends with people who give gifts.

7 All the relatives of poor people despise them, and even their friends avoid them!

Although they call out to them for help, they do not respond.

8 People who love to learn benefit themselves;

people who are consistently sensible will surely succeed.

9 Someone will surely punish lying witnesses.

Indeed, people who lie easily will die.

10 It is wrong for foolish people to live luxuriously, and it is even worse for slaves to reign over princes!

11 Insightful people do not get angry quickly, and people show how honorable they are by forgiving people who sin against them.

12 When kings are furious, they frighten people like the roaring of young lions frightens people, but when they approve of people, it is as refreshing for the people as dew is on plants.

13 Foolish children destroy their fathers, and when wives argue with their husbands, it is as annoying as constantly dripping water.

14 People inherit houses and riches from their fathers, but Yahweh alone gives men insightful wives.

15 Lazy people sleep well, but such idle people are always hungry.

16 People who obey God's commandments stay alive, but people who do not care about God's ways will die.

17 Giving things to poor people is like loaning them to Yahweh;
he will reward anyone who does this.

18 Discipline your children while they are young and you can expect them to learn to live in the right way.
If you do not discipline them, it is as though you want them to die.

19 Very angry people will pay for being angry;
so if you rescue them once from what they must pay, you will have to do that again and again.

20 Pay attention to what people advise you to do and let people teach you.
If you do so, you will become wise for the rest of your life.

21 People plan to do many things, but only what Yahweh advises will succeed.

22 People want others to consider them to be faithful.
It is better to be poor than to be someone who lies.

23 Revering Yahweh causes people to live for a long time;
such people rest contentedly at night;
nothing will harm them.

24 Some people are so lazy that even though they have put their hands in a dish of food, they will not even lift the food to their mouths.

25 If you punish people who ridicule others, then naive people who see you do that will learn to be sensible.
If you correct understanding people, then they will know even more.

26 Children who act violently toward their fathers and chase away their mothers are disgraceful and embarrassing.

27 My child, if you want to become stupid, then stop listening to what people teach you.

28 Worthless witnesses scorn what is just,
and wicked people enjoy acting sinfully as if they were gulping down delicious food.
29 Yahweh is ready to condemn people who ridicule others, and he is ready to beat fools on their backs.

20 1 Drinking a lot of intoxicating drink causes people to start ridiculing and fighting others; becoming drunk is very foolish.
2 When kings are terrifyingly angry, they frighten people like the roaring of young lions frightens people;
people who make kings angry cause themselves to die.
3 It is honorable to cease arguing with other people, but all foolish people are eager to argue with others.
4 Lazy farmers do not plow their fields when they should plow their fields.
Then when it is time to harvest crops, they look for crops in their fields, but there are none.
5 Knowing what people are thinking and planning is as difficult as drawing water out of a deep well, but discerning people are able to do so.
6 Many people claim that they are faithful individuals, but very few people actually act faithfully!
7 Righteous people live honestly; their children are very fortunate.
8 Ideally, kings who sit on their thrones in order to judge people discern anything that is evil and remove it from their lands.
9 No one can truthfully say, "I do not think sinfully anymore; I do not sin anymore."
10 Yahweh detests people dishonestly using both weights that differ and measurements that differ to benefit themselves.
11 Even young people show others who they are by what they do;
how they act shows whether they are innocent and right or not.

12 Yahweh has made both ears with which to hear and eyes with which to see.

13 If you sleep a lot, you will become poor;

but if you stay awake and work, you will have plenty of food.

14 Buyers claim that something is not good at all when they are bargaining with the seller about its price.

But after they buy it, they go and boast to their friends about the good thing that they bought.

15 Gold and precious jewels are plentiful, but the knowledgeable things that people say are rare and precious.

16 Take the coats of people who promise to pay a loan for someone whom they do not know.

Indeed, hold onto the coats of people who do so for a foreigner because those people are not likely to repay those loans.

17 Food that people get by deceiving others may taste sweet to them at first, but later what they have done will be as unpleasant to them as having a mouth full of rocks.

18 When people give you good advice, if you do what they suggest, your plans will succeed.

Therefore, let others advise you before you start fighting a war.

19 People who walk around gossiping tell others what is secret, so avoid people who speak carelessly.

20 People who curse their parents will die like an oil lamp that stops burning oil in a totally dark place.

21 If people inherit property hastily before the proper time, they will ultimately not receive any blessing from it.

22 Do not say that you will harm someone who has harmed you.

Rather, wait for Yahweh to resolve the matter, so that he may vindicate you.

23 Yahweh detests people dishonestly using differing weights to benefit themselves.

Indeed, using weighing instruments in order to deceive others is very bad.

24 Yahweh directs what happens even to powerful people.

So then, no one can comprehend what will happen to him!

25 It is dangerous for people to declare thoughtlessly that they will dedicate something to Yahweh, and then later regret that they have promised to do that.
26 Wise kings separate the wicked people from the good people and then punish the wicked people severely.
27 Just as the light of a lamp penetrates into and illuminates a dark place, the life-breath that Yahweh puts into each person penetrates into the person's inner being.
That breath is like the presence of Yahweh, who sees everything that is inside a person.
28 Being faithful and trustworthy makes kings safe.
Indeed, being faithful enables them to rule securely.
29 People admire young men because they are strong,
but people admire old men because they have become wise.
30 Flogging people for doing evil things can stop them from doing those evil things, and hitting those people on the outside can change who they are on the inside.

21 1 Yahweh directs what kings think as a farmer directs streams of water to make them go wherever he wants them to go.
2 People always think that what they do is right, but Yahweh rightly evaluates why they do those things.
3 Doing what is right and fair is more acceptable to Yahweh than sacrificing animals to him.
4 Being proud and arrogant guide what wicked people do like a lamp shows people where to go;
they are sinful.
5 What diligent people plan will certainly profit them, but all those who act too hastily will certainly become poor.
6 When people gain wealth by speaking falsely, that wealth quickly vanishes like mist, and doing that will kill them.
7 When wicked people act violently, they cause others to punish them for it because they refuse to do what is right.

8 Guilty people continually do what is wrong, but innocent people do what is right.
9 It is better to live alone in a corner of a housetop than to live inside a house with a wife who always argues with you.
10 Wicked people strongly desire to do what is evil, they will not be merciful to the people around them.
11 If you punish people who ridicule others, then naive people who see you do that will become wise, and if you teach wise people, they will become even more knowledgeable.
12 Righteous people are able to understand what the households of wicked people do; they let the evil things that wicked people do happen to them.
13 People who refuse to listen to poor people when they cry out for help will also cry out for help themselves, but no one will help them.
14 Secretly giving something to an angry person will stop him from being angry.
Indeed, secretly bribing a furious person will calm him down.
15 Righteous people are glad when people judge justly, but judging justly terrifies people who act sinfully.
16 People who stop behaving sensibly will soon go to the place where the spirits of dead people are.
17 People who love what is pleasurable will be poor.
Indeed, people who indulge themselves in wine and rich food will never be wealthy.
18 Wicked people will suffer instead of righteous people, and treacherous people will suffer in place of upright people.
19 It is better to live alone in a desolate land than to live with an argumentative and nagging wife.
20 Wise people store up precious riches and olive oil, but foolish people waste everything that they have.
21 People who diligently try to be righteous and faithful will live well, will be righteous, and people will respect them.

22 Wise people know how to conquer cities that mighty warriors are defending;
they can pull down the walls that people in those cities believe will protect them.
23 People who are careful about what they say avoid becoming distressed.
24 People who ridicule others are proud and arrogant;
they behave furiously and presumptuously.
25 Lazy people want food, but they will die because they refuse to work.
26 Lazy people always want more things for themselves, but righteous people generously give what they have to others.
27 Yahweh detests the sacrifices that wicked people offer to him;
it is even more detestable when they are offering something to Yahweh while intending to act wickedly!
28 Witnesses who lie will die, but when someone who listens carefully speaks, what he says will finish the matter.
29 Wicked people pretend to know what they are doing, but upright people think about what they do.
30 Even the wisest and most knowledgeable counselor is nothing compared to Yahweh.
31 Soldiers prepare to fight, but Yahweh determines who wins that fight.

22 1 Being someone whom people respect is more important than being very wealthy.
Indeed, being someone whom others approve of is better than having silver and gold.
2 Rich people and poor people have this in common:
Yahweh made all of them.
3 Sensible people observe something dangerous happening and avoid it, but naive people just keep going and suffer for doing so.
4 People who are humble, who revere Yahweh, will become rich, people will respect them, and they will live long and well.

5 Deceptive people live dangerously, as if they were walking down a road covered with thorns and traps, but people who want to stay alive avoid living that way.

6 Teach children how to behave properly, so that when they become old, they will still continue to do so.

7 Rich people reign over poor people, and people who borrow money from others become like slaves to the people who loaned them money.

8 People who act unjustly will suffer for doing so,

and they will no longer be able to furiously oppress other people.

9 Yahweh will bless generous people because they give some of their own food to poor people.

10 If you banish people who ridicule others, then people will stop arguing with each other,

condemning each other, and shaming each other.

11 People who love being sincere and speaking graciously are companions of kings.

12 Yahweh preserves true sayings, but he makes what treacherous people say fail.

13 Lazy people as an excuse to not work claim that there is a lion outside that will kill them in the street if they go outside.

14 What adulterous women say is as dangerous as a deep hole that men could fall into;

those with whom Yahweh is angry will suffer from it.

15 Children naturally think foolishly, but physically disciplining them will teach them to stop being foolish.

16 People who oppress poor people in order to make more money for themselves or who give things to rich people in order to become rich will only become poor.

17 Listen carefully to what wise people have said;

consider carefully what I am teaching you!

18 Do this because if you remember these sayings and if you are always ready to repeat them to others, then you will be glad.

19 I am teaching these sayings to you—yes, you—right now so that you will trust Yahweh.

20 I am indeed writing these 30 sayings to advise and teach you.

21 I am writing them in order to teach you what is true in trustworthy sayings, and in order to answer those who sent you with trustworthy sayings.

22 Do not steal from poor people just because they are poor; and do not oppress suffering people in court.

23 Do not do these things because Yahweh will defend those poor people when you dispute with them, and he will kill the people who stole from them.

24 Do not become friends with angry people.
Indeed, do not associate with people who easily become angry.

25 If you do so, then you will act like them, and you will endanger yourself like an animal caught in a trap.

26 Stay away from those people who agree to pay loans for others.
Indeed, stay away from those people who guarantee to pay the loans of others.

27 Because if you cannot pay back the loan, then the person to whom you owe money will surely take away even your own bed in order to pay back the loan.

28 Do not cheat people by moving the stones that their ancestors placed long ago to mark the boundaries of their land.

29 Consider this: People who work skillfully will serve kings rather than serving unknown people.

23

1 When you sit down to eat a meal with someone who rules over others, pay attention to the food that is in front of you.

2 Restrain yourself from eating too much if you like eating a lot of food.
3 Do not crave the expensive food that the ruler has because that ruler is using that food to deceive you.
4 Do not work so much that you exhaust yourself in order to become rich.
Be understanding enough to stop doing so.
5 As soon as you look at that wealth, it will surely be gone!
This is because wealth certainly disappears quickly as if it had wings and flew off into the sky like a fast bird.
6 Do not eat food that stingy people give you.
Do not crave the expensive food that they have,
7 because stingy people are always thinking about how much the food costs them.
They will tell you to eat and drink, but they do not mean what they say.
8 When you realize this, you will want to vomit what little food you ate.
You will have wasted the kind things you said to them.
9 Do not try to talk to foolish people because they will only despise the insightful things that you say.
10 Do not cheat people by moving the old stones that mark the boundaries of their land.
Do not claim the land that belongs to defenseless orphans, 11 because Yahweh is the one who redeems them and he is powerful.
He is the one who will defend them when they dispute with you.
12 Consider carefully what people say when they correct you.
Indeed, listen carefully to what people teach you.
13 Do not refuse to discipline your children.
If you physically punish them, they will not die.
14 In fact, if you physically punish your children, you will prevent them from dying.
15 My child, if you are wise,
then surely I myself will be very happy,

16 and I will be deeply joyful when you say what is right.
17 Do not envy sinful people;
instead always revere Yahweh.
18 If you do so, then you will surely have a good future,
and what you hope will happen will indeed occur!
19 My child, listen to me so that you can become wise.
Make yourself think about behaving rightly.
20 Stay away from drunkards and gluttons,
21 because drunkards and gluttons will become poor.
They sleep so much that they will only have rags to wear.
22 Pay attention to your father, who enabled you to exist, and continue to honor your mother when she becomes old.
23 Learn what is true and remember it.
Learn what is wise and instructive and what you should understand.
24 Fathers of righteous people are very joyful.
Indeed, those who father wise people are happy because of them.
25 So do what will make your parents happy!
Do what will make your mother joyful!
26 My son, pay close attention to me!
Carefully observe what I do!
27 Do this because prostitutes are as dangerous as a deep hole.
Indeed, becoming involved with an adulterous woman is as dangerous as falling into a well that you cannot escape from.
28 These very women certainly wait for men to seduce like robbers wait for people to rob.
They cause many men to become unfaithful.
29 These are the kind of people who are woeful, sorrowful, and quarrelsome, who lament, get hurt for no reason,
and have red eyes:
30 those people who drink too much wine and are always looking around for wine to drink that someone has prepared.

31 Do not let wine become overly attractive to you, even though it is beautifully red, glistens in the cup, and goes down your throat smoothly.

32 Afterward you will feel as terrible as if a poisonous snake has bitten you.

33 When you are drunk, you will hallucinate, and you will imagine distorted things.

34 You will feel dizzy and sick as if you were trying to sleep on a ship that the sea was tossing back and forth.

Indeed, you will feel as if you were trying to sleep while swaying at the top of a ship's sails.

35 You will say, "People hit me, but it did not hurt.

People beat me, but I did not feel it.

I wish I could be sober

so that I could find even more wine to drink again!"

24 1 Do not envy evil people;

do not want to associate with them,

2 because they plan to act violently, and they talk about doing bad things to people.

3 People build households by acting wisely;

they make those households stable by acting sensibly.

4 By acting knowledgeably, people fill the rooms of those households with all kinds of valuable and delightful riches.

5 Wise people are strong, and knowledgeable people make themselves more powerful,

6 because letting people advise you will make you fight your war successfully, and letting many people counsel you will rescue you from losing the war.

7 Foolish people cannot understand what is wise;

they have nothing useful to say in court.

8 Some people are always planning to do evil things; people refer to them as schemers.

9 Foolish plans are sinful, and people detest those who ridicule others.

10 If you give up during distressful times, then you are weak.

11 Save people whom others are trying to kill;

save the ones who will certainly die unless you do something!

12 If you falsely claim that you did not know that those people were dying unjustly, then think about this:

Yahweh knows exactly what you are thinking and he understands what you are doing!

He is the one who keeps you alive and he knows everything about you!

He will surely make people receive what they deserve for whatever they have done or not done!

13 My child, eat honey because it tastes good, and honey dripping from the comb tastes sweet.

14 Be aware that what is wise is like honey for you.

If you become wise, then you will have a good future,

and what you hope will happen will indeed occur!

15 Do not be like wicked people and hide in wait in order to attack the places where righteous people dwell.

Do not devastate the places where righteous people rest!

16 Do not do so because righteous people can recover many times when disastrous things happen to them, but disastrous things will destroy wicked people.

17 Do not be happy when something disastrous happens to your adversaries.

Indeed, do not rejoice when that happens!

18 If you do, then Yahweh will notice and disapprove, so that he stops being angry with your enemies.

19 Do not worry about people who do what is evil.

Do not be envious of wicked people.

20 Do not do so because evil people will not have good futures, but wicked people will merely die like an oil lamp that stops burning oil.
21 My child, reverently fear Yahweh and kings.
Avoid people who rebel against either Yahweh or the king, 22 because disastrous things will happen quickly to those people, and no one knows how terribly both Yahweh and kings can destroy others!
23 Here are more things that wise people have said:
It is very evil to favor someone when you judge.
24 If anyone declares that a guilty person is innocent, many people will curse him and whole people groups will hate him.
25 However, people who condemn guilty people will prosper, and Yahweh will bless them well.
26 People who answer honestly show that they are true friends.
27 Do the work you must do outside and prepare your fields before you build your house.
28 Do not testify against someone if you do not have a good reason to do so, and do not try to deceive people by what you say.
29 Do not say, "I will do to him that same bad thing that he did to me;
I will pay him back for what he did to me!"
30 I walked by the land of a lazy person and past the vineyard of someone who does not think wisely.
31 And I saw that thistles and weeds were everywhere in that field and vineyard.
Even the stone wall surrounding them had fallen down.
32 When I saw that, I considered carefully what I was seeing. When I observed that,
I learned this:
33 If you say to yourself, "Let me sleep just a little more!
Let me lay my hands across my chest in order to rest comfortably for a little while longer!"
34 Then the result of being so lazy will be that you will become poor and needy just as surely as if a thief has robbed you.

25 1 Here are more wise sayings said by Solomon that the scribes who served Hezekiah, the king of Judah, copied from a scroll that Solomon had written:

2 God shows how glorious he is when he makes something that is difficult for people to understand.
But kings show how glorious they are when they explain something that is difficult for people to understand.
3 As people cannot fully understand how high the sky is or how deep the earth is, so they cannot fully understand what kings think.
4 People who make things from metal must remove impurities from silver before they can make that silver into something useful.
5 In the same way, people must remove wicked advisers from the presence of kings so that they can rule securely by being righteous.
6 Do not promote yourself in front of kings, and do not pretend to be great.
7 Do not do so because it is better if someone invites you to sit in a place that is closer to the king, than for someone to embarrass you in front of a royal official whom you have seen by telling you to sit farther away from the king.
8 Do not plead your case too quickly against someone you know.
If you do, then you will not know what to do when that person wins the case and embarrasses you!
9 If you do indeed plead your case against someone you know, settle it between yourselves and do not tell others any secret about that person.
10 If you do tell a secret, then the people who hear you may shame you for it, and people will speak badly about you from then on.
11 When someone says something that is very appropriate to a situation, it is as delightful as seeing golden apples in a setting of silver.
12 When a wise person rebukes someone who is willing to listen, it is as valuable as a gold ring or jewelry made from the best gold.

13 Reliable messengers are as refreshing to those who send them as cold snow would be refreshing during the summer harvest time;
they refresh the people whom they serve.

14 People who brag about giving something but then do not give it are as disappointing as clouds and wind that do not bring rain.

15 People can persuade leaders by being patient, and by speaking gently people can convince those who oppose them to agree with them.

16 If you discover some wild honey, do not eat too much of it.
If you do, then you will become sick from it and vomit.

17 In the same way, do not visit too often the houses of your friends.
If you do, then they may feel that they have had too much of you and even hate you.

18 People who lie when they testify against other people are deadly, as if they had attacked them with a club, a sword, or a piercing arrow.

19 Trusting treacherous people during distressful times is like trying to eat with a rotten tooth or trying to walk with a crippled foot.

20 Singing songs to someone who is sad is as unhelpful as taking a coat off of someone in cold weather or pouring vinegar on soda.

21 Feed your enemies if they are hungry;
give them something to drink if they are thirsty.

22 Do so because by doing so you will shame them, as if you were pouring burning coals on top of them, and Yahweh will reward you for doing so.

23 When wind blows from the north, that produces rain.
Similarly, when people tell the secrets of others, that produces angry people.

24 It is better to live alone in a corner of a housetop than to live inside a house with a wife who always argues with you.

25 When people hear something good from a faraway place, it is as refreshing as drinking cold water when one is thirsty.

26 When righteous people yield to wicked people, it is as bad as a spring that people have made murky by walking in it or as bad as a polluted fountain.

27 As it is not good to eat too much honey;

so it is not honorable to try to make people honor you.

28 People who cannot control themselves are as defenseless as a city that an army has broken into and knocked down its walls.

26

1 Honoring foolish people is just as inappropriate as snow falling in hot summer and rain falling during the time to harvest crops.

2 Just as a bird will fly by and not land on you, so a curse will not harm you if you are innocent.

3 As people must whip horses and bridle donkeys in order to guide them, so people must physically punish foolish people in order to guide them.

4 Do not reply to foolish people according to their foolish way of thinking.

If you do, then you also will be foolish.

5 Reply to foolish people according to their foolish way of thinking.

If you do not, then they may think that they are wise.

6 Anyone who asks a foolish person to take a message to someone is doing something as foolish as cutting off his own feet or drinking poison.

7 As the legs of people who cannot walk are useless, so are the sayings that foolish people say.

8 Honoring foolish people is just as useless as a harmless weapon.

9 A drunken person picks up a thorn and it will hurt someone, in the same way a foolish person says a proverb that can only be harmful.

10 People who employ foolish people or random strangers are as dangerous as someone who randomly shoots arrows at people.

11 Foolish people who do the same foolish thing over and over again are like dogs that eat what they have vomited up.
12 Consider this: Foolish people are more likely to learn than people who wrongly think that they are already wise.
13 Lazy people claim that there is a lion in the path or in the midst of the streets so that they can stay inside their houses and do nothing.
14 As doors swing on their hinges and do not go anywhere, so lazy people turn back and forth in their beds.
15 Lazy people put their hands in a dish of food, but they are so lazy that they will not lift the food to their mouths.
16 A typical lazy person wrongly thinks that he is wiser than several people who answer intelligently.
17 People who make themselves angry because of an argument that does not concern them are as foolish as people who grab the ears of a dog that is passing by.
18-19 People who trick others and then say that they were just joking are as dangerous as a crazy person who shoots deadly flaming arrows at people.
20 Fires stop burning when they have nothing to burn.
In the same way, people stop arguing when no one is gossiping.
21 As charcoal keeps coals burning and wood keeps fires burning, so people who always argue keep other people arguing.
22 People are eager to listen to what people who gossip say,
and what they say deeply affects those who hear it.
23 People who fervently say that they are your friend while thinking about doing evil things to you are as deceptive as a cheap clay pot that someone has made to look like silver.
24 People who hate you will use what they say to hide what they feel, but they are really thinking about how to betray you.
25 Do not believe those people when they speak kindly to you, because they are thinking many detestable things.

26 Although those people deceive others by pretending that they do not hate you,
When people gather together, they will discover how wicked those people are.

27 People who dig pits to trap others will fall into those pits instead;
and people who try to crush others with stones will become crushed by those stones instead.

28 Liars hate the people whom they hurt, and flatterers cause disastrous things to happen.

27

1 Do not brag about what you will do tomorrow, because you do not know what will happen then.

2 Do not praise yourself; let someone else praise you.
Indeed, let other people praise you, not yourself.

3 Stones and sand are heavy, but fools are so annoying that they are harder to bear than either of those.

4 Angry people are cruel and furious people are destructive, but no one can withstand jealous people!

5 It is better to correct people openly, than to love them without showing them that you love them.

6 Friends will be faithful to you by criticizing you when necessary, but enemies will deceive you by acting affectionately toward you.

7 When people have full stomachs, they do not want to eat even honey.
But when people are hungry, even bitter things taste sweet to them.

8 People who stray from their homes are like birds that stray from their nests.

9 Fragrant oil and perfume make people feel happy, but having a friend who advises you sincerely is even better.

10 Do not ignore your friends or your father's friends.
Do not think that you must go to the house of a relative when something disastrous happens to you.

Rather, it is better to go to a nearby neighbor than to relatives who live far away.

11 My child, make me happy by becoming wise.
Then I will be able to reply to anyone who argues against me.

12 Sensible people observe something dangerous happening and avoid it, but naive people ignorantly do not avoid it and suffer for doing so.

13 Take the coats of people who promise to pay a loan for someone whom they do not know.
Indeed, hold onto the coats of people who do so for a foreigner.

14 If you rise early in the morning and loudly call out a blessing to your neighbor while he is still sleeping, he will consider it to be a curse, not a blessing.

15 A wife who always argues with you is as annoying as constantly dripping water on a rainy day.

16 It is as difficult to stop her from arguing as stopping the wind, or catching oil in one hand.

17 We can use one iron tool to sharpen another iron tool; similarly, when one person shares what he is thinking, it can help another person to think more clearly.

18 Just as people who take care of fruit trees will also eat the fruit from those trees, so too will masters honor their servants who guard them.

19 When people look in water, the water reflects their faces.
In the same way, what people think reveals what kinds of people they are.

20 Just as the place where dead people go never becomes full;
so people never stop wanting things.

21 People use crucibles and furnaces to test and refine silver and gold.
In the same way, people can know what kind of person someone is by how he reacts when people praise him.

22 If you were to crush a fool the way that you would crush grain into powder, you would still not be able to find any part of him that is not foolish.

23 Be fully aware of how your sheep are doing.
Indeed, consider carefully how your animals fare.

24 Do so because riches will not last forever.

Even a king's family will not rule forever!

25 Harvest the grass and then you will see new grass.
Collect and store the plants that grow on the hillside.

26 If you do these things, then you will have lambs with wool that you can clothe yourself with. You will also have male goats that you can sell for enough money to buy a field.

27 You will even have female goats that produce enough milk for yourself, your family, and your servant girls to drink.

28

1 Wicked people run away even though no one is chasing them, but righteous people are as brave as lions.

2 When the people in a country sin, they will continually have new leaders;
but when they have a truly knowledgeable ruler, then they will have a stable government that will last.

3 A poor person who oppresses other poor people is as destructive as rain that washes away the crops, leaving nothing to eat.

4 People who reject Yahweh's laws say good things about wicked people;
but people who obey those laws oppose such wicked people.

5 Evil people cannot comprehend what is just, but people who desire to please Yahweh comprehend everything about it.

6 It is better to be poor and honest than to be dishonest and rich.

7 Young people who obey Yahweh's laws are wise, but young people who carouse with gluttons disgrace their fathers.

8 Money that people gain by charging an unreasonably large amount of interest from those to whom they loan money will eventually belong to someone who is kind to poor people.

9 Yahweh detests hearing prayers from people who refuse to obey his laws.

10 People who guide upright people to act evilly will destroy themselves by what they do, but people whom Yahweh does not blame for acting wickedly will receive what is good.

11 Rich people tend to think that they are wise, but perceptive poor people can tell whether or not this is true.

12 People celebrate when righteous people become powerful, but people hide when wicked people become powerful.

13 People who try to hide the sinful things that they do will never be successful, but Yahweh will be merciful to people who confess the sinful things that they have done and stop doing them.

14 People who constantly examine how they are thinking and behaving are happy, but bad things will happen to people who become uncaring about those things.

15 Wicked people who rule over poor people are as dangerous as a roaring lion or attacking bear.

16 Leaders who are not sensible severely oppress other people, but people who despise gaining wealth unjustly will live for a long time.

17 People who murder others will keep running away from those who would punish them until they die.
Do not help them!

18 Yahweh will rescue people who continually do what is right, but people who behave dishonestly will ruin themselves in the end.

19 People who work hard will have enough food to eat, but people who waste time doing worthless things will only be poor.

20 Yahweh abundantly blesses faithful people, but he will certainly punish people who are eager to be wealthy.

21 Although it is very evil to unfairly favor one person over another, some people will sin by doing so to get even a small bribe.

22 People who are eager to become rich are greedy.
They do not realize that they will become poor.

23 Afterward, people appreciate someone who has corrected them more than they appreciate someone who has spoken flatteringly to them.

24 People who rob their parents and say that doing so is not wrong are as bad as thieves.
25 Greedy people cause people to argue with each other, but Yahweh will prosper people who trust him.
26 People who trust in themselves are foolish, but people who act wisely are the ones who will escape what is dangerous.
27 People who give poor people what they need will have all that they need, but there are many who will curse people who ignore poor people.
28 People hide when wicked people become powerful, but when those wicked people die, there will be more and more righteous people.

29 1 Some people remain stubborn even though other people often correct them;
but someday something will destroy them quickly, and they will not be able to recover.
2 People are joyful when righteous people become influential, but people are miserable when wicked people rule over them.
3 People who cherish what is wise make their fathers happy, but people who have sex with prostitutes waste all their money.
4 Kings make the people in their land succeed by acting justly, but leaders who take money dishonestly ruin the people in their land.
5 People who flatter others are really just preparing to exploit them in some way 6 Evil people endanger themselves by acting sinfully, but righteous people sing joyfully and are happy.
7 Righteous people know that they should treat poor people justly, but wicked people do not even understand that they should know this.
8 People who mock others agitate people throughout a city, but wise people enable others to remain calm.
9 If wise people dispute with foolish people, the foolish people will become angry and sneer and not resolve anything.

10 Murderers despise people who always try to do what is right, but righteous people try to protect them.
11 Foolish people uncontrollably express everything that they feel, but wise people control how they express what they feel.
12 Leaders who believe the false things that people tell them have only wicked servants.
13 Poor people and the people who oppress them have at least one thing in common:
Yahweh is the one who causes both of them to live.
14 Kings who judge poor people according to what is true will always rule securely.
15 If parents punish and correct their children, doing so can make those children wise;
but if parents let their children do whatever they want to do, then their children will disgrace them.
16 People sin more when wicked people rule over them, but someday Yahweh will destroy those wicked people, and righteous people will see it happen.
17 If you discipline your children, then you will no longer feel worried about their behavior and they will make you very happy.
18 When the people of a nation do not have messages from Yahweh through his prophets, then they do not control themselves, but people who obey Yahweh's laws are happy.
19 You cannot correct servants by only speaking to them because they will not do what you say even though they understand what you say.
20 Consider this: Foolish people are more likely to do well in life than people who speak thoughtlessly.
21 If you give your servants everything they want when they are young, then they will eventually be arrogant.
22 People who easily become angry cause people to argue.

Indeed, angry people cause many people to sin.

23 People will humiliate proud people for being proud, but people will honor those who are humble.

24 People who take a share of a thief's spoils greatly endanger themselves;
They hear that Yahweh will curse them for not testifying to what they know, but they do not say anything about the crime.

25 Being anxious is as dangerous as walking into a trap, but Yahweh will protect people who trust in him.

26 Many people want leaders to help them, but Yahweh is the only one who surely does for them what is just.

27 Righteous people detest unjust people, and wicked people detest people who do the right thing.

30 1 These are the sayings of Agur son of Jakeh, which Yahweh told him to say;

these are what Agur declared to both Ithiel and Ucal:

2 I am certainly less intelligent than other people.
Indeed, I do not understand as much as everyone else understands!

3 I have not learned how to become wise, nor do I know much about Yahweh, the Holy One.

4 But I will say this: Surely nobody has ever gone to heaven and returned to earth!
Surely nobody has ever controlled the wind!
Surely nobody has ever gathered the water for rain in the clouds!
Surely nobody has ever formed the boundaries of the earth!
You do not know the name of any such person, or the name of his son.
Therefore, you also do not know much!

5 Everything that God says is true;
he is like a shield that protects people who trust him to protect them.

6 Never claim that God has said something other than what he has actually said.
If you do that, then he will correct you and he will prove that you lied about what he said.

7 God, I ask you to do two things;
please do them for me before I die:
8 Please prevent me from being dishonest or speaking what is not true.
Please do not let me become too poor or too rich, but just provide the proper amount of food for me.
9 Because if I become rich, I might say that I do not know you and that I do not need you;
and if I become poor,
I might dishonor you by stealing things.
10 Never say bad things about servants to the people whom they serve.
If you do, then they will curse you, and people will hold you responsible for what you said.
11 Some people disrespect their parents.
12 Some people think that they are sinless, but they have committed disgusting sins, like people who have covered themselves with excrement.
13 Some people are very proud!
14 They think that they are better than other people. Some people are very cruel toward others;
they harshly oppress and destroy poor people as fierce animals attack and eat other animals.
15 Greedy people are like the offspring of leeches because they always want other people to give them more.
There are three, even four things that always want more:
16 the place where dead people are,
childless women,
soil that never receives enough water,
and fire that keeps consuming more.
17 People who ridicule their fathers, and refuse to obey their mothers deserve to die

and have wild animals eat their dead bodies.

18 There are three, even four things, that are too amazing for me to comprehend:

19 how a bird flies in the air,
how a snake slithers over a rock,
how a ship sails in the middle of the ocean, and how a young man loves a young woman.

20 Acting adulterously is as easy for adulterous women as eating and wiping their mouths.
Afterward, they claim that they have not sinned at all.

21 There are three, even four, things that the people in the world cannot tolerate:

22 what slaves do who become rulers, what worthless people do when they have plenty of food to eat, 23 what women whom people hate do when they marry someone, and what servant girls do who replace the wives of their masters.

24 There are four creatures in the world that are small but extremely wise:

25 Although ants are not strong, they store up their food during the summer so that they have it to eat during the winter.

26 Although hyraxes are also not strong, they are able to make their homes high up in the rocks on cliffs.

27 Although locusts do not have a king, they move in orderly groups like soldiers in an army.

28 Although anyone can easily catch lizards in his hands, they can freely enter into kings' palaces.

29 There are three, even four, things that look very impressive when they walk:

30 lions, which are the most powerful animals and never flee from anything,

31 strutting male birds, male goats, and kings whom people are afraid to rebel against.

32 If you have acted foolishly by bragging about yourself, or if you were plotting to do what is evil,

then stop doing so immediately!
33 Stop doing so because just as churning milk produces butter, and squeezing a nose produces blood, making people angry causes them to fight.

31 1 These are the sayings of King Lemuel; Yahweh had spoken these sayings that his mother had taught him:

2 My son, whom I gave birth to and whom I vowed to dedicate to Yahweh, listen to me!
3 Do not exhaust yourself by having sex with women;
they can destroy kings.
4 Lemuel, kings and dignitaries should not constantly drink wine, or greatly desire to drink what can intoxicate them.
5 They must not do this so that they do not forget the laws that they have made and prevent all suffering people from getting what they legally deserve.
6 Let dying people drink what can intoxicate them, and let miserable people drink wine.
7 They can drink what can intoxicate them to forget that they are poor and to completely forget what troubles them.
8 Defend those who cannot speak for themselves; defend all those whom others are threatening to kill so that they get what they legally deserve.
9 Defend, judge rightly, and plead for suffering and poor people to get what they legally deserve.
10 Virtuous and capable women are difficult to find!
This kind of woman is more valuable than precious jewels.
11 Her husband completely trusts her,
and he will always gain many things because of her.
12 Such a woman benefits her husband for as long as she lives.

13 She gets materials to make clothing for both warm and cool weather, and she enjoys making that clothing.

14 She is like merchant ships because she brings food to her home from distant places.

15 She gets up before dawn in order to prepare food for her family and to prepare some food for her female servants.

16 She carefully evaluates a field and then buys it.
Then she uses some of what she earned by working to plant a vineyard in it.

17 She keeps her body strong, and she makes her arms strong by working hard.

18 She knows that what she does is very profitable.
She works late into the night.

19 She makes thread for clothing with her own hands.

20 She generously helps people who are poor and suffering.

21 She is not worried that her family will be cold during cold weather because her whole family has the best clothing.

22 She makes her own blankets to cover beds.
She wears clothing made from expensive cloth.

23 People respect such a woman's husband at the city gates, when he sits there with the other leaders of the city.

24 This woman makes clothing and sells it.
She also sells belts to merchants.

25 People notice how strong and dignified she is,
and she is cheerful about what will happen in the future.

26 She speaks wisely, and when she speaks, she teaches others to be faithful and kind.

27 She carefully watches what happens in her household, and she is never lazy.

28 This woman's children stand respectfully and declare that she lives well.
Her husband says good things about her, as well.

29 He says to her, “Many women have acted virtuously and capably, but you indeed have done better than them all!”

30 Charming women who are not good can deceive people into thinking that they are good, and beautiful women will be beautiful for only a short time.
However, people will always praise those women who reverently fear Yahweh.

31 Give to such women what they have earned,
and praise them publicly for what they have done.

Song of Songs

1 1 This is King Solomon's most beautiful song.

The woman thinks about the man she loves

2 I wish he would kiss me on my lips,

The woman speaks internally to the absent man because how you love me is more delightful than wine.

3 The fragrance of the perfume on your skin is very pleasing.
More and more people are honoring you, just as the fragrance of the perfume that you have put on your skin is spreading farther and farther.
That is why the other young women are attracted to you.

4 Take me quickly;
take me to your home.

The woman speaking to herself

He is like a king to me;
I desire him to bring me into his bedroom.

The women of Jerusalem speaking about the man

We are very happy about you;
we say that how you love is better than wine.

The woman speaking to the man about the young women of Jerusalem

It is not surprising that the young women adore you.

The woman speaking to the women of Jerusalem

5 You young women of Jerusalem,
I am brown but beautiful;
my dark skin is like the tents in Kedar, and I am beautiful like the curtains in Solomon's palace.
6 But do not stare at me because the sun has made my skin dark;
my brothers were angry with me, so they forced me to work outside in the sunshine in the vineyards, so I was not able to take good care of my skin.

The woman speaking to the man she loves

7 You whom I love, where will you take your flock of sheep today?
Where will you allow them to rest at noontime?
I want to know because it is not right for me to wander around like a prostitute, looking for you among the flocks that belong to your friends.

The man answering the woman he loves

8 You who are the most beautiful of all the women, if you search for me and do not know where I will take my sheep, follow the tracks of the sheep.
Then allow your young goats to eat grass near the shepherds' tents.
9 You excite me, my dear one,
like a mare walking among Pharoah's stallions.
10 Your cheeks are lovely with jewelry, and your neck is lovely with strings of beads around it.
11 We will make for you some gold earrings that are inlaid with silver.

The woman speaking to herself

12 During the time that he who is like a king to me reclined on his couch, the fragrance of my perfume spread around the room.

13 During the night I desire to cradle the man I love between my breasts; to me, he is like the bag of sweet-smelling perfume which I keep there.
14 The man whom I love is like a bunch of the fragrant flowers that are in the grape farms of the city of En Gedi.

The man speaking to the woman he loves

15 My dear one, you are beautiful;
you are very beautiful!
Your eyes are as gentle and beautiful as doves.

The woman speaking to the man she loves

16 You whom I love, you are very good-looking, you are delightful!
The green grass will be like a bed where we lie down.
17 Branches of cedar trees will shade us;
branches of pine trees will be like a roof over our heads.

2 1 I am like an insignificant flower on the plains, like an insignificant lily growing in the valleys.

The man speaking to the woman he loves

2 Among all the other young women, you, my dear one, are like a lily growing among thorns!

The woman speaking to herself

3 Compared to other men, you, the one whom I love, are like an apple tree that produces delicious fruit and grows in the forest among common trees.
You are like a tree whose shade protects me from the sun, and your being close to me is delightful, like eating sweet fruit.
4 I want you to lead me to the place where we can make love, and it is evident that you love me very much.

The woman speaking to the man she loves

5 Strengthen and refresh me with fruit, because the way you love me makes me feel lovesick.

The woman speaking to herself

6 The man whom I love has placed his left arm under my head, and he holds me close with his right arm.

The woman speaking to the women of Jerusalem

7 You young women of Jerusalem,
I want you to solemnly promise me, while the female gazelles and female deer are listening,
that you will not cause people to love romantically
until it is the right time.

The woman speaking to herself

8 Listen! Look! The man whom I love is coming.
It is as though he is leaping over the mountains and skipping over the hills, 9 like a gazelle or a young male deer.
Look! There he is! He is standing outside the wall of our house, peering in through the window, and looking intently through the wooden strips inside the window frame.
10 The man whom I love spoke to me and said,
“My dear one, get up;
my beautiful one, come with me!
11 Look, the cold season has ended;
the rain has stopped.
12 The flowers are blooming throughout the country.
It is now time to sing;
we hear the doves cooing throughout our land.
13 There are new figs on the fig trees, and there are blossoms on the grapevines, and their fragrance fills the air.

My dear one, get up;
my beautiful one, come with me!
14 You are like a dove that is hiding far from me in an opening in the rocky cliff.
Allow me to see your form,
and allow me to hear your voice,
because your voice sounds sweet,
and your form is comely."

The woman speaking to the man she loves

15 There are harmful things that are like little foxes that ruin vineyards; do not allow these things to ruin our growing relationship.
16 You whom I love, you are mine, and I am yours.
You have pleasure when you kiss my lips,
as a gazelle does when eating among the lilies.
17 You whom I love, come and be like a gazelle or a young male deer on the mountains in Bether, until the evening breeze blows and the sun sets.

The woman speaking to herself

3

1 At night while I lay on my bed,
I searched for the man whom I love.
I searched for him,
but could not find him.
2 So I said to myself,
"I will get up now and walk around the city,
through the streets and plazas, to search for the man whom I love."
So I got up and went out to search for him, but I could not find him.

3 The city watchmen saw me while they were walking around the city.
I asked them,
"Have you seen the man whom I love?"
4 As soon as I walked past them,
I found the man whom I love.
I clung to him and would not release my hold on him until I brought him to my mother's house, to the bedroom of my mother who had conceived me.

The woman speaking to the women of Jerusalem

5 You young women of Jerusalem,
I want you to solemnly promise me, while the female gazelles and female deer are listening,
that you will not cause people to love romantically
until it is the right time.

The woman speaking to herself

6 Look! See what is coming up from the dry and uninhabited area.
Look at what is stirring up dust like clouds of smoke, and like billows of smoke from burning myrrh and incense, which are from the fragrant powders imported by traveling traders!
7 Look! Solomon has sent his portable royal chair, and it is surrounded by 60 bodyguards chosen from the greatest soldiers in Israel.
8 They all have swords,
and they all know how to use them.
Each one has his sword strapped to his side and is prepared to defend against dangers that might occur during the night.
9 King Solomon commanded his servants to make that royal portable chair for him;

it was made with wood from Lebanon.

10 The canopy that covered it was held up by posts made with silver, and the base of the palanquin was made with gold.
The seat was covered with purple cloth, and the inside of the palanquin was lovingly decorated by the women of Jerusalem.

11 You young women of Jerusalem, come and look at King Solomon wearing the headdress that his mother put on his head on the day when he was married, on the day when he was very happy.

The man speaking to the woman he loves

4 1 My dear one, you are beautiful,
you are very beautiful!
Beneath your veil, your eyes are as gentle and as beautiful as doves.
Your long black hair moves from side to side like a flock of black goats moving down the slopes of Mount Gilead.

2 Your teeth are very white, white like a flock of sheep whose wool people have just cut off and which have just come up from washing in a stream.
You have all of your teeth on both sides of your mouth;
none of them is missing.

3 Your lips are the color of bright red thread, and your mouth is beautiful.
Beneath your veil,
your cheeks are round and rosy like the halves of a pomegranate.

4 Your long neck is beautiful like the tower of King David that was built using layers of stone.

The beauty of your jeweled neck is like a thousand shields hanging on the walls of a tower;
like the beauty of a thousand warrior's shields hanging from a tower.
5 Your two breasts are as beautiful as two young twin gazelles that eat grass among lilies.
6 Until the evening breeze blows and the sun sets,
I will go to your breasts
because they are like two hills that smell like pleasant spices.
7 My dear one, you are completely beautiful;
your body is perfectly formed and has no blemish!
8 Come back to me, my bride. It is as though you are in Lebanon far away, where I cannot reach you.
Come back to me.
It is as though you are inaccessible on the top of Mount Hermon or the nearby peaks, where I cannot go to you.
Come from the mountains, where the lions have their dens and where the leopards live.
9 You who are as dear to me as a sister, my bride, by only once quickly looking at me with your eyes, and by one strand of jewels in your necklace, you have obtained my full affection.
10 You who are as dear to me as a sister, my bride, your love for me is delightful!
It is more delightful than wine!
The fragrance of your perfume is more pleasing than any spice!
11 When you kiss me, my bride, it is as delightful as eating honey.
Your kisses are as sweet as milk mixed with honey.
The aroma of your clothes is like the aroma of cedar trees in Lebanon.

12 You who are as dear to me as a sister, my bride, you are like a garden that the owner keeps locked so that other men cannot enter it; you are like a spring or a fountain that is covered so that others may not drink from it.
13 You are like an orchard of pomegranate trees full of delicious fruit and plenty of plants that produce henna and nard spices, 14 and saffron and calamus and cinnamon and many other kinds of incense, myrrh and aloes,
and many other fine spices.
15 You are like a spring in a garden, like a well of fresh-flowing water, and like streams that flow down from the mountains of Lebanon.

The woman speaking to the man she loves

16 I want the north wind and the south wind to come and blow on me,
so that the fragrance of my body will spread through the air and attract the man I love.
You whom I love, I am like your garden.
I want you to come and enjoy my body, like someone comes into a garden and enjoys eating the delicious fruit that grows there.

The man speaking to the woman he loves

5 1 You who are as dear to me as a sister, my bride,
I am ready to go away with you now and enjoy making love with you.
It will be delightful, delightful like when I gather my myrrh with my other spices, as wonderful as eating my honey and honeycomb, and as enjoyable as drinking my wine with milk.

The women of Jerusalem speaking to the newly married couple

Friends, enjoy making love;
fully enjoy all that you do with each other.

The woman speaking to the women of Jerusalem

2 I was asleep, and I had a dream.
In it I heard the man I love knocking at the door.
He said, “You who are as dear to me as a sister, my dear one, you who are like a dove, my flawless one.
Open the door for me because my hair is wet from the dew, from the mist that has fallen during the night.”
3 But I had already taken my robe off;
I did not want to put it on again to open the door.
I had already washed my feet;
so I did not want them to get dirty again by answering the door.
4 The man I love put his hand through the opening in the door, and I was thrilled in my inner being that he was there.
5 I got up to open the door for the man I love, but first I put much myrrh on my hands.
The liquid myrrh was dripping from my fingers while I unlatched the bolt.
6 I opened the door for the man I love, but he had left.
He had turned away and was gone!
I greatly despaired because he was not there.
I searched for him, but I could not find him.
I called out for him, but he did not answer.

7 The city watchmen saw me while they were walking around the city.
They struck me and bruised me because they thought I was a prostitute;
those watchmen who were guarding the city walls took my robe that was on me.

8 You young women of Jerusalem,
if you see the man I love, what will you tell him?
I want you to solemnly promise me that if you see him, you will tell him that the way he loves me makes me feel lovesick.

The women of Jerusalem speaking to the woman

9 You who are the most beautiful of all the women, why do you think that the man you love is better than other men?
In what way is he better than other men that would cause you to want us to solemnly promise that we will tell him that?

The woman speaking to the women of Jerusalem

10 It is because the man I love is handsome and healthy, outstanding among an uncountable number of other men.

11 His face is beautiful and gleams like gold; he is as precious as purest gold.
His hair is wavy and as black as a raven.

12 His eyes are as gentle and beautiful as doves which are beside streams.
His eyes are as white as white doves which are sitting beside pools of water.

13 His cheeks are like a garden where spices grow and like towers where spices are kept.
His lips are like lilies that have myrrh dripping from them.

14 His arms are like round gold rods, that are decorated with precious stones.
His abdomen is like ivory that is decorated with sapphires.
15 His legs are like alabaster columns that are set in bases made of pure gold.
He is majestic, like the mountains of Lebanon.
He is tall and strong and outstanding like the cedar trees that grow there.
16 His kisses are very sweet;
he is completely attractive.
You young women of Jerusalem,
this is what the man I love, who is my friend, is like, and this is why he is better than all other men.

The women of Jerusalem speaking to the woman

6 1 You who are the most beautiful of the women, where has the man you love gone?
Tell us which direction he went,
and we will go with you to search for him.

The woman speaking to herself

2 The man who I love has come to me.
I am like his garden where pleasant spices grow.
He has come to enjoy my body as a gazelle enjoys grazing in a garden and as a 3 person enjoys picking lilies. I belong to the man I love, and he belongs to me.
He feels pleasure when he is near me, as a gazelle does when eating among lilies.

The man speaking My dear one, you are beautiful.

4 You are as beautiful as the city of Tirzah and as lovely as the city of Jerusalem.

You are as exciting and majestic to look at as an army with banners.

5 Stop looking at me like that, because your eyes excite me very much.
Your long black hair moves from side to side like a flock of black goats moving down the slopes of Mount Gilead.

6 Your teeth are very white,
white like a flock of sheep that has just come up from being washed in a stream.
You have all of your teeth on both sides of your mouth;
none of them is missing.

7 Beneath your veil,
your cheeks are round and rosy like the halves of a pomegranate.

8 Even if a king had 60 queens and 80 concubines and more young women in his court than anyone can count,

9 none of them would be as special as she is. She is like a dove; she is flawless.
Her mother considers her to be very special;
she is her mother's favorite child.
When the young women of the king's court see her, they say that she is fortunate, and the queens and concubines praise her.

10 Look at this woman who appears like the dawn, who is as beautiful to look at as the moon,
who is radiant like the sun,
who is as exciting and majestic to look at as an army with banners!

11 I went down to the walnut tree orchard to look at the new plants that were growing in the valley.
I wanted to see if the grapevines had budded and if the pomegranate trees were blooming.

12 All of a sudden
I imagined that I was among the chariots of my noble people.

The women of Jerusalem speaking

13 Come back to us, beautiful woman from Shulam, come back to us, in order that we may see you!

The man speaking

Why do you want to look at the beautiful woman from Shulam, as if she were a dancer who dances to entertain armies?

7 1 You who are the daughter of a prince, have very lovely feet in your sandals!
Your curved hips are like jewels that have been made by a man who shapes jewels very well.
2 Your navel is like a round bowl that is always full of wine mixed with spices.
Your belly is like a pile of wheat with lilies growing around it.
3 Your breasts are as delicate as two young twin gazelles.
4 Your neck is long and beautiful, like a tower made of ivory.
Your eyes sparkle like the pools of water in the city of Heshbon, near the Bath Rabbim gate.
Your nose is beautiful like the tower in Lebanon that faces Damascus.
5 Your head is majestic like Mount Carmel.
Your long hair is shiny and black;
it is as though I, your king, am captured by your tresses.
6 You are very beautiful and very lovely!
Loving you is very delightful!
7 You are tall like a palm tree, and your breasts are full and round like date clusters that hang from palm trees.
8 I said to myself, “I will climb that palm tree and take hold of those clusters of dates.”

I want your breasts to be like sweet bunches of grapes that I can enjoy;

9 I want your breath to be like the sweet fragrance of apples. I want your kisses to be like very good wine.

The woman speaking to the man she loves

When I kiss you, the man whom I love,

I want my kisses to be as if you are freely drinking wine,

10 and as if wine is flowing over our lips as we sleep together. I belong to the man I love,

and he desires me.

11 You whom I love, come with me, and let us go to the countryside, and sleep in one of the villages.

12 And let us go early to the vineyards to see if the grapevines have budded and if there are blossoms on them that have opened, and to see if the pomegranate trees are blooming,

and there I will have sexual relations with you.

13 The mandrake plants are producing a fragrant scent, and the pleasures we will experience as we express our love for each other will be like choice fruits that have been stored, new ones and old ones.

You whom I love, I have reserved my love for you as if I were storing choice fruit.

8 1 I wish that you were like my brother, my own brother, who nursed from my mother's breasts when he was a baby.

Because then, whenever I met you outside the house, I could kiss you, and no one would criticize me.

2 I would like to bring you to my mother's house, to where my mother, who taught me so many things, lives.

I would like to take you to my mother's house so I could have sexual relations with you there.

Having sexual relations with you would be as if I were giving you spiced wine to drink, as if I were giving you sweet pomegranate wine.

3 The man I love has placed his left arm under my head and he holds me close with his right arm.

The woman speaking to the women of Jerusalem

4 You young women of Jerusalem,
I want you to solemnly promise me,
that you will not cause people to love romantically
until it is the right time.

The women of Jerusalem speaking

5 Look at this woman who is coming up from the wilderness, the woman who is leaning on the man she loves!

The young woman speaking to the man she loves

I woke you up when you were under the apple tree at the place where your mother gave birth to you, the place where you were born.

6 Keep me close to you, like a seal that rests against your chest as it hangs down from its cord, or like a seal worn on your bracelet.
The strength with which I love you is as powerful as the strength of death;
it is as strong as the grave.
It is as though our love for each other bursts into flames, and as though our love is the lightning that Yahweh creates.

7 We love each other so deeply, that how we love each other can be compared to a strong fire that no river or flood can put out.
If a man tried to cause a woman to love him by saying he would give her everything that he owns,

she would refuse.

The young woman's brothers speaking among themselves

8 We have a young sister, and her breasts are not large yet.
What should we do for her at the time that we promise some young man that he can marry her?

9 We will protect her virginity, as if we were soldiers building a battlement of silver to protect a wall.
We will protect her virginity,
like we would protect a door from intruders by covering it with boards made of cedar wood.

The woman speaking

10 Like a wall that allows no one to enter, I have remained a virgin and let no man come into me;
but now my breasts are large like towers.
So I am delightful to my beloved.

11 King Solomon had a vineyard at a place called Baal Hamon, and he rented it to people for them to farm it.
He required each one to pay him one thousand pieces of silver each year for the grapes that they harvested.

12 But my body is like my own vineyard, which is mine to give to the man whom I choose.
Solomon can keep the one thousand pieces of silver that he receives from renting his vineyard, and the farmers who take care of it for him can keep the two hundred pieces of silver he pays them.

The man speaking to the woman he loves

13 You, the woman I love, who are staying in the gardens, my friends are eagerly listening so that they can hear you speak;

speak to me!

The young woman speaking to the man she loves

14 You whom I love, come to me quickly!
Run to me like a gazelle or a young male deer runs across mountains where spices grow.

Lamentations

1 ALEPH

1 Jerusalem, the city that was once so full of people, is now empty and deserted.
It was once the greatest city among all the nations, but now it is like a widow—alone and without protection.
It was once honored among the provinces like a princess,
but now her people are forced to do slave labor.

BETH

2 Jerusalem's inhabitants weep and cry bitterly all through the night;
tears run down their cheeks.
None of the nations that loved them have come to comfort them.
All their allies have turned against them;
they have all become their enemies.

GIMEL

3 Enemies drove the people of Judah out to other countries, and made them suffer greatly as slaves.
They live among foreign nations,
where they find no peace or rest.
Their enemies caught up with them;
they were trapped and could not escape.

DALETH

4 No one comes to Zion anymore for the sacred festivals, so the roads to the city are silent and empty.
The city gates stand deserted;
the priests groan in sorrow.
The young women of the city are grieving,
and the whole city is filled with bitterness.

HE

5 Jerusalem's enemies have become rulers over it;
its adversaries are doing well.
Yahweh has caused it to suffer greatly,
because of all the ways its people sinned against him.
Its children have been taken captive and marched away before the enemy.

WAW

6 All the glory and beauty that Zion once had has left it completely.
Its leaders are like deer that are starving because they cannot find any grass to eat.
They stumble along weakly with the enemy chasing them.

ZAYIN

7 Now as Jerusalem suffers in exile and misery, its people remember all the good things that they had in former times.

When the enemy conquered the people,
no one came to help them.
Some enemies watched and laughed contemptuously as others destroyed the city.

HETH

8 Jerusalem's people sinned so greatly that the city became something everyone treated as filthy and defiling.
All those who had honored it now despise it, because they have seen how shamefully disgraced it has become.
Now its people moan and humbly hide.

TETH

9 Everyone can see that the people in Jerusalem have made themselves impure by sinning, but its people never thought about what would happen to them as a result.
The enemy devastated Jerusalem in a terrible way;
no one has come to comfort its people.
They cried out, "Yahweh, see how we are suffering!
The enemy has triumphed over us!"

YODH

10 The enemy took possession of all its precious treasures.
Its people watched as foreign nations entered the temple—the nations that you, Yahweh, had commanded to stay out of your holy place.

KAPH

11 All the people groan and search for food.
They have traded their precious things just to get something to eat so that they can stay alive.
They cried out, “Yahweh, look at us!
See how people treat us contemptuously!”

LAMEDH

12 Jerusalem’s people cried out to those passing by the ruined city, “Do you not care at all about what has happened to us?
Look around you and see—has anyone ever suffered as much as we have suffered?
Yahweh inflicted this terrible pain on us on the day when he was fiercely angry.

MEM

13 He sent fire down from above that burned deep inside us.
He set a trap that caught our feet and forced us to turn back.
He left us devastated and abandoned, exhausted and miserable all day long.

NUN

14 God tied our sins around our necks like a heavy yoke;
they are twisted tightly together so that we cannot remove them.
They are piled onto our necks and weigh us down, so that we have no strength left.

The Lord handed us over to enemies we have no power to defeat.

SAMEKH

15 The Lord has despised and rejected all our warriors.
He called our enemies together at the right time to destroy our young men.
The Lord has crushed the people of Judah like someone treading on grapes in a winepress.

AYIN

16 These are the things we weep over, weeping without stopping;
our eyes overflow with tears.
There is no one near us to comfort us or to restore our strength.
Our children have been left with nothing, because the enemy has overcome us."

PE

17 Zion's people reach out their hands, pleading for help, but no one comes to comfort them.
Yahweh ordered that all the nations surrounding Jacob would become his enemies.
Jerusalem has become something all the neighboring nations treat as defiling and avoid.

TSADHE

18 Jerusalem's people said, "Yahweh is righteous, because we disobeyed his commands.
Listen, all you peoples of the world, and see what great pain we are in.
Our young women and young men have been taken away as captives.

QOPH

19 We called to our allies for help, but they completely betrayed us.
Our priests and our elders died in the city, while they were desperately searching for food just to stay alive.

RESH

20 Yahweh, look at how much we are suffering!
Our stomachs churn with anguish;
our hearts are completely devastated within us,
because we have deeply and truly rebelled against you.
In the streets, the sword kills people;
inside the city, people are dying like a plague.

SIN

21 People have heard us groaning in misery, but no one has come to comfort us.
All our enemies have heard about the disaster that came upon us;
they are glad about it,

because you are the one who brought it.
Bring the day of punishment that you promised,
when they will suffer as we have suffered!

TAW

22 Let all the evil things they have done come to your attention, and punish them for what they have done.
Treat them the way you treated us for all the ways we sinned against you.
We are constantly sighing and groaning, and we grieve greatly."

2 ALEPH

1 The Lord was very angry with the people of Jerusalem, so he brought darkness and judgment on them.
Jerusalem used to be a beautiful and glorious city, but he humiliated it and brought it down to nothing.
When the day came for him to punish Israel,
he did not even spare his own temple.

BETH

2 The Lord completely destroyed all the homes of Jacob's descendants and was not merciful to them.
Because he was furious,
he tore the fortresses of the people of Judah down to the ground.
He disgraced their kingdom and its rulers.

GIMEL

3 Because he was extremely angry, he took away all of Israel's power.
He refused to protect his people when their enemies attacked them.
He destroyed everything among Jacob's descendants like a raging fire that burns up everything around it.

DALETH

4 He got ready to shoot his bow at us, his own people, as though we were his enemies.
He used his power to kill everyone we loved most among the people of Jerusalem.
He was extremely angry with us; his anger burned like a fire.

HE

5 The Lord started treating us like an enemy;
he destroyed Israel.
He destroyed all of Jerusalem's palaces and turned its fortresses into ruins.
He caused the people of Judah to grieve and weep even more.

WAW

6 He wrecked his own temple as easily as someone tears down a garden hut;
he destroyed the place where people gathered to worship him.
Yahweh caused the people of Zion to stop celebrating their sacred festivals and Sabbath days.
Because he was so furiously angry,

he rejected both the king and the priest.

ZAYIN

7 The Lord turned away from his own altar;
he abandoned his own holy place.
He let the enemies have power over the walls of Jerusalem's palaces.
Those enemies shouted triumphantly inside Yahweh's temple, as if they were celebrating one of the sacred festivals.

HETH

8 Yahweh planned to destroy the wall of Jerusalem.
He carefully measured it out for destruction and then he did not stop himself from devouring it.
He made the outer wall and the inner wall fall into ruin;
together they crumbled.

TETH

9 Jerusalem's gates have sunk into the ground;
Yahweh smashed the bars that held them shut.
The enemy has taken the king and the officials away to foreign nations;
no one teaches them God's instruction anymore.
The prophets also no longer receive any messages from Yahweh.

YODH

10 The old men of Jerusalem sit on the ground and say nothing.
They have thrown dust on their heads and put on rough sackcloth to show how deeply they grieve.

The young women of Jerusalem bow their faces all the way down to the ground.

KAPH

11 I have cried until my eyes can produce no more tears;
my stomach is churning with anguish.
I feel as if my insides are spilling out on the ground, because so many of my people have died.
Even children and babies are fainting in the city streets because they have nothing to eat.

LAMEDH

12 The children cry out to their mothers,
"We need food and drink!"
They collapse in the city streets like fatally wounded soldiers, and they die slowly
in the arms of their mothers.

MEM

13 People of Jerusalem,
there is nothing I can say to help you.
Nothing that has ever happened to anyone else compares to what has happened to you people who live on mount Zion;
I do not know how to comfort you.
The disaster that struck you is as vast as the sea;
no one can restore you.

NUN

14 The prophets among you claimed to hear messages from Yahweh, but what they said was false and worthless.
They did not rebuke you when you sinned so that you could have changed your ways and avoided disaster.
Instead, the messages they told you were lies that caused you to do wrong things.

SAMEKH

15 Everyone who passes by on the road claps their hands to mock you.
They hiss with contempt and shake their heads at Jerusalem:
"Can this really be the city that people used to say was the perfectly beautiful city, the city that made all the earth rejoice?"

AYIN

16 All your enemies open their mouths wide against you to mock you.
They hiss with contempt and grind their teeth with hatred;
they say, "We have devoured her!
This is the very day we waited for;
we have lived to see it!"

PE

17 Yahweh has done what he planned to do;
he has carried out the threat that he announced long ago.
He has torn the city down and shown no mercy;
he has let your enemies celebrate over you,
and he has made those who attack you more powerful than ever.

TSADHE

18 The people of Jerusalem cried out to the Lord from deep within themselves.
People of Jerusalem,
let your tears flow like a river
all day and all night!
Do not stop weeping;
do not let your eyes rest from crying.

QOPH

19 Get up and cry out during the night, right when the night watches begin!
Tell the Lord everything that is in your heart, holding nothing back, like water pouring out.
Raise your hands and pray to him for your children to survive, because they are fainting from hunger on every street corner.

RESH

20 Yahweh, look at what you have done and pay attention!
Think about whom you have treated this way!
Women should never have to eat their own children, the babies they lovingly cared for!
No one should kill priests and prophets inside your own holy place!

SIN

21 People of every age lie dead on the ground in the streets.
The enemy has killed all our youth.
On the day you were angry, you let the enemy kill them;
you let them slaughter them mercilessly.

TAW

22 You called enemies to attack me from every direction, as if you were summoning guests to come to a feast.
On the day Yahweh was angry,
no one escaped and no one survived.
The children I carried and raised, my enemy has destroyed them all.

3 ALEPH

1 I am a man who has suffered greatly because God punished me when he was very angry.
2 He sent me into a place where I only suffer and nothing good happens to me.
3 He keeps acting against me again and again, all day long.

BETH

4 He afflicted my body and broke my bones.
5 He attacked me on every side and caused me to suffer terribly.
6 He made me feel hopeless, like no one remembers me.

GIMEL

7 He has completely trapped me so that I cannot escape.
8 Even though I beg him to help me, he refuses to listen when I pray.
9 He has blocked every way forward for me so that I cannot make any progress in my life.

DALETH

10 He waited to attack me like a bear hiding to ambush its prey, like a lion crouching in a hidden place.
11 He ruined my plans and destroyed me;
he made me poor.
12 He deliberately chose to attack me and made me the one he would harm.

HE

13 He deliberately caused me intense suffering.
14 All my own people mock me constantly with their songs.
15 He has caused me to suffer
so much that I cannot bear it.

WAW

16 He completely humiliated me and degraded me.

17 God took away all my peace;
I no longer remember what happiness feels like.
18 So I said to myself, “I cannot endure any longer, and I have no more reason to hope in Yahweh.”

ZAYIN

19 Yahweh, remember how I have suffered and wandered;
I have suffered so very greatly.
20 I keep thinking about it over and over, and it makes me deeply depressed.
21 Yet when I think about this one thing,
I find reason to hope:

HETH

22 Yahweh never stops faithfully loving us, and he never stops showing us mercy.
23 Every morning he shows us mercy again;
he is always faithful to us.
24 I said to myself, “Yahweh is all that I need;
so I will confidently wait for him.”

TETH

25 Yahweh is good to everyone who depends on him, to everyone who hopes that Yahweh will help him.
26 It is good to wait quietly for Yahweh to save us.
27 It is good for a person to endure suffering patiently while still young.

YODH

28 A person should accept his situation quietly and not complain when God causes him to suffer.
29 He should bow down with his face to the ground, because there may still be reason to hope.
30 He should offer his cheek to the one who hits him and accept all the insults people give him.

KAPH

31 The Lord does not reject people forever.
32 Even though he causes people to grieve, he will show them mercy because he always faithfully loves them.
33 He does not enjoy causing people to suffer or making them grieve.

LAMEDH

34 When people crush all the prisoners in a land under their feet, 35 when they cheat someone and deny him what he deserves right in front of the Most High God, 36 when they treat someone unfairly in his legal dispute—the Lord does not approve of any of these things.

MEM

37 No one can simply speak and make something happen unless the Lord has commanded it.
38 The Most High God is the one who decides both the bad things and the good things that happen.

39 No living person should complain when God punishes him for his sins.

NUN

40 Instead, we should carefully examine how we have been living, and we should turn back to Yahweh.
41 We should sincerely pray, raising our hands to God in heaven:
42 "We have sinned and rebelled against you, and you have not forgiven us.

SAMEKH

43 Because you were angry, you chased after us;
you killed us without showing us any mercy.
44 You made yourself unreachable
so that you did not hear any of our prayers.
45 You have made the other nations treat us as though we are nothing but garbage and filth.

AYIN

46 All our enemies have spoken hateful things against us.
47 We have experienced nothing but fear and danger, ruin and destruction."
48 Many tears flow from my eyes because enemies have destroyed my people.

PE

49 My tears pour out and will not stop;
they will not end
50 until Yahweh looks down and sees us from heaven.
51 What I see makes me grieve deeply because of what has happened to all the women of my city.

TSADHE

52 My enemies relentlessly pursued me without any reason, even though I had done nothing wrong.
53 They threw me into a pit to kill me and dropped stones on top of me.
54 Water rose over my head, and I said to myself, “I am going to die!”

QOPH

55 I called out to you, Yahweh, from the deepest part of that pit.
56 You heard me;
do not ignore me when I cry out to you for help!
57 You came near when I called to you and said, “Do not be afraid!”

RESH

58 Lord, you defended me;
you saved my life.
59 Yahweh, you have seen how my enemies have wronged me;
make things right for me!

60 You have seen how they want to take revenge on me and all the things they have planned to do to me.

SIN

61 Yahweh, you have heard them insult me
and all the things they have planned to do to me.
62 Those who oppose me whisper and mutter things about me all day long.
63 Look at them! No matter what they are doing, they make fun of me in their songs.

TAW

64 Yahweh, pay them back for what they have done!
65 Make them stubborn, and let your curse fall on them.
66 Because you are angry with them, chase them and destroy them so they no longer exist anywhere on earth.

4 ALEPH

1 How terrible that the people of Jerusalem, who used to be so valuable, have now become completely worthless!
The enemy has thrown out the precious young men at every street corner.

BETH

2 People once considered the young men of Zion to be extremely valuable,

but now everyone treats them as completely worthless, like ordinary clay pots that a potter makes.

GIMEL

3 Even jackals nurse their young, but the women among my people have neglected their own children and have stopped caring for them.

DALETH

4 The babies are so thirsty that their tongues stick to the roofs of their mouths.
The children beg for food, but no one gives them any.

HE

5 People who used to eat the finest food now starve in the streets.
People whose parents raised them wearing expensive clothes now search through garbage heaps for something to eat.

WAW

6 God has punished my people more severely than he punished the people of Sodom.
He destroyed Sodom in an instant, and nobody cried for it.

ZAYIN

7 Jerusalem's most honored people used to look very pure and healthy.
They had strong, attractive bodies and appeared very vigorous.

HETH

8 But now they look so dark and thin that no one recognizes them in the streets.
Their skin has shriveled tightly over their bones and has dried out completely.

TETH

9 Those who died quickly in battle were better off than those who died slowly from starvation, because the starving people wasted away gradually since no food grew in the fields.

YODH

10 Women who were normally very compassionate cooked their own children.
They ate them as food
when the enemy destroyed Jerusalem.

KAPH

11 Yahweh expressed all of his anger against Jerusalem.
He burned the city with fire and destroyed it down to its very foundations.

LAMEDH

12 No king anywhere on the earth, and no one else in the whole world, believed that an enemy could ever enter the city of Jerusalem.

MEM

13 But it happened because Jerusalem's prophets sinned and her priests did evil things.
They killed innocent people right there in the city.

NUN

14 Those prophets and priests wandered through the streets, confused and unable to find their way.
The blood of the people they had killed made them so unclean that no one would touch even their clothes.

SAMEKH

15 People shouted at them, "Go away! You are unclean!
Do not touch us!"
So those priests and prophets fled and wandered from place to place, but even the people in other nations said, "They cannot stay here."

AYIN

16 Yahweh himself scattered them and no longer watches over them.

People in those nations do not respect our priests and do not show any kindness to our elders.

PE

17 We kept watching and waiting for a nation to come and help us, but no help ever came.
The nation we hoped would rescue us could not save us.

TSADHE

18 Our enemies tracked us so closely that we could not even walk through our own city squares.
The time for our destruction was near,
and our final days had come.

QOPH

19 Those who chased us were extremely fast.
They pursued us over the mountains and ambushed us in the desert.

RESH

20 Our enemies captured the king whom Yahweh had chosen to lead us, the one who kept us alive.
We had said about him,
"He will protect us even if we have to live among other nations."

SIN

21 The people of Edom who live in the land of Uz may be happy now about what has happened to Jerusalem, but Yahweh will punish them too.
He will cause them to suffer greatly and be completely humiliated.

TAW

22 Yahweh will finish punishing the people of Jerusalem, and he will not keep them in exile any longer.
However, he will punish the people of Edom and expose all the evil things they have done.

A prayer for God's mercy

5 1 Yahweh, think about what has happened to us.
Pay attention and see how people have disgraced us.
2 Our enemies have taken our property and given it to people we do not know; they have seized our homes and given them to people who are not Israelites.
3 We have no fathers to care for us;
our mothers have no husbands.
4 We have to pay money to drink our own water, and we have to buy the wood that we need.
5 Our enemies chase us and never let up;
we are exhausted, but they do not let us rest.
6 We surrendered to Egypt and Assyria so that we could get enough food to survive.
7 Our ancestors sinned and then they died, but we are the ones suffering for what they did wrong.

8 People who used to be slaves now rule over us, and no one can rescue us from their power.

9 We risk our lives when we go out to get food, because violent people in the wilderness will kill us.

10 Our skin burns with fever because we are starving so badly.

11 Our enemies raped women in Zion and young women in the towns of Judah.

12 Our enemies hung our leaders by their hands;
they did not respect our elders.

13 They forced our young men to grind flour with millstones, and boys staggered under heavy loads of firewood.

14 Our elders no longer gather to make decisions, and our young men no longer play music.

15 We no longer feel happy;
instead of dancing, we grieve.

16 We have lost the honor that we once had.
How terrible it is for us, because we have sinned!

17 Because of all this, we feel sick inside;
because of these things, we cannot stop crying.

18 We are sad because Mount Zion lies empty with no one living there;
foxes roam through it.

19 But you, Yahweh, rule forever!
You have authority over every generation.

20 It feels as though you have forgotten us completely and abandoned us for such a long time.

21 Yahweh, please bring us back to yourself so that we may return; make our lives as good as they were before.

22 Please do not completely reject us or stay extremely angry with us forever!

Daniel

1 After King Jehoiakim had been ruling Judah for almost three years, King Nebuchadnezzar of Babylon came to Jerusalem with his army and surrounded the city. 2 After two years, the Lord allowed Nebuchadnezzar to capture Jehoiakim, the king of Judah. They also captured some of the things that the priests used in God's temple. They brought them back to Shinar, and Nebuchadnezzar put them in the treasury of the temple of his god.

3 Then Nebuchadnezzar commanded Ashpenaz, the chief official in his palace, to bring some Israelite men to Babylon. He wanted men who belonged to important families, including the family of the king of Judah. 4 He wanted young men who were healthy, handsome, and very intelligent. They needed to be people who had learned and understood many things. They had to be capable of working in the palace. People were to teach them the language and literature of the Chaldeans. 5 The king told his servants to give them each day the same food and wine that he ate and drank. He told them to train them for three years. After that, they could work for him.

6 Among the Judeans whom Ashpenaz brought to Babylon were Daniel, Hananiah, Mishael, and Azariah. 7 The chief official gave them Babylonian names. He called Daniel Belteshazzar. He called Hananiah Shadrach. He called Mishael Meshach. And he called Azariah Abednego.

8 But Daniel resolved not to make himself ritually unclean by eating the same food that the king ate or drinking the same wine that he drank. So he asked the chief official for permission to eat and drink something else. 9 God caused the chief official to respect Daniel and to want to help him. 10 However, the chief official told Daniel, "My master, the king, ordered us to give you his own food and drink. So I am afraid of what he might do to me if I let you eat something else. Suppose he saw that you were not as healthy as the other young men who are your age. Then he might execute me!"

11 So Daniel spoke instead to the man whom the chief official had appointed to care for him and for Hananiah, Mishael, and Azariah. 12 He asked him, “Please let us try something for ten days. Give us only beans, grains, and vegetables to eat and only water to drink. 13 Then examine us and see how we look. Compare us to the other young men who are eating the same food as the king. Based on what you see, decide what food you will let us eat.” 14 The man agreed to do what Daniel suggested. He let them try eating and drinking something different for ten days.

15 After those ten days, he saw that Daniel and his friends looked better and healthier than all the young men who had been eating the same food as the king. 16 So after that, the guard allowed them to keep eating only beans, grain, and vegetables. He did not make them eat the same food and drink the same wine as the king.

17 God enabled those four young men to learn what the Babylonians were teaching them.
He enabled them to understand their literature and to learn to think wisely. He enabled Daniel to understand what visions and dreams meant.

18 The king had said to bring the young men to him at the end of those three years. So the chief official brought them into the presence of Nebuchadnezzar. 19 The king spoke with each young man. He realized that none of the others were as capable as Daniel, Hananiah, Mishael, and Azariah. So he included those four young men among his advisors. 20 Whenever the king asked them to help him understand something, he found that what they told him was much better than what any of the magicians or sorcerers in his kingdom told him.

21 Daniel remained an advisor in the royal court right up to the time when Cyrus became king.

2 1 One night during the second year of his reign, Nebuchadnezzar had a dream. The dream worried him very much. As a result, he could not get back to sleep. 2 So he told his servants to summon his magicians, enchanters, sorcerers, and other advisors. He wanted them to tell him what he had dreamed and what it meant. They came and stood in his presence. 3 He told them, “I have had a dream, and it has worried me. I want to know what I dreamed.”

4 The advisors replied to the king, speaking in Aramaic, “King Nebuchadnezzar, we hope you live for a long time! Tell us what you dreamed, and we will tell you what it means.”

5 But the king replied to them, “I am giving a strict command. If you do not tell me what I dreamed and what it means, I will order my soldiers to cut you into pieces. I will also order them to destroy your houses completely. 6 But if you do tell me what I dreamed and what it means, I will reward you. I will give you splendid gifts, and I will greatly honor you. So tell me what I dreamed and what it means!”

7 But again they replied, “Please tell us what you dreamed, and then we will tell you what it means.”

8 The king responded, “I recognize clearly that you know that I will certainly do what I have said, so you are trying to get more time. 9 But if you do not tell me what I dreamed, I will do to you exactly what I said. I believe that you have all agreed to tell me a false explanation of my dream so that I do not punish you. So I insist that you tell me what I dreamed. Then I will know that you can also tell me what it really means.”

10 The advisors replied to the king, “There is no one on the earth who can tell you what dream you had! That is why no king, even a great and mighty one, has ever asked any of his magicians or enchanters or other advisors to tell him what he dreamed. 11 What you are asking us to do is impossible. The only beings who could tell you what you dreamed are the gods, but they do not live among us people!”

12 When the king heard that, he became extremely angry. He commanded his soldiers to execute all the wise men in Babylon. 13 Because the king had commanded his soldiers to kill all the wise men, some soldiers went to find Daniel and his friends so that they could kill them.

14 Arioch, the commander of the king’s bodyguard, was leading the soldiers who came to kill Daniel and his friends. And Daniel spoke to him wisely and tactfully. 15 He asked Arioch, the king’s officer, “Why did the king give such a harsh command?” Then Arioch explained to Daniel what had happened. 16 Daniel went to the king and asked him to give me some time so that he tell him his dream and what it meant.

17 Then he went home and told his friends Hananiah, Mishael, and Azariah what had happened. 18 He asked them to pray to God in heaven and ask him to be merciful to them and show them what the king had dreamed and what it meant. Then the king's soldiers would not kill them, even if they killed the other wise men in Babylon. 19 That night God revealed the dream and its meaning to Daniel in a vision. Then Daniel praised God. 20 He said,

"People should praise God forever!
He is the one who is truly wise and powerful.
21 He controls the different things that happen at various times.
He stops some kings from reigning, and he makes other kings start reigning.
He is the one who enables people to be wise and to understand difficult things.
22 He reveals things that are very mysterious.
Everything is light where he is,
but he also knows what happens where it is dark.
23 You are the God whom my ancestors worshiped.
I thank you and praise you because you have made me wise and strong.
You have revealed to us what the king dreamed and what it meant.
So you have done just what we prayed you would do."

24 Then Daniel went to Arioch, the man whom the king had appointed to execute the wise men of Babylon. He said to him, "Please do not kill us wise men. Take me to the king, and I will tell him what his dream means."

25 So Arioch quickly took Daniel to the king. He told the king, "Here is one of the men whom our soldiers brought from Judah. He says that he can tell you what your dream means."

26 The king spoke to Daniel. (He called him Belteshazzar.) He asked, "Can you really tell me what I dreamed and what it means?"

27 Daniel replied to him, "No wise man or enchanter or magician or fortuneteller could tell you what you want to know. 28 But there is a God in heaven who reveals secrets, and he has shown you, King Nebuchadnezzar, what will happen in the future. This is what you saw in your dream as you were lying on your bed.

29 Your Majesty, while you were sleeping, you dreamed about what is going to happen in the future. God, who reveals secrets, has shown you what is going to happen. 30 I do not know your dream and its meaning because I am wiser than anyone else on earth. It is because God wants you to understand what your dream means. It explains what you were wondering about.

31 Your Majesty, in your dream you saw a giant statue standing in front of you. It was very impressive, and it was shining very brightly. It was frightening to look at it. 32 The head of the statue was pure gold. Its chest and arms were silver. Its belly and thighs were bronze. 33 Its legs were iron, and its feet were partly iron and partly clay. 34 As you watched, someone cut a rock from a mountain, but it was not a human who did that. The rock tumbled down and smashed the iron and clay feet of the statue. It broke them into tiny pieces. 35 Immediately the iron, clay, bronze, silver, and gold parts of the statue also broke into tiny pieces. Those pieces were as small as the chaff that people separate from grain after they harvest it. The wind blew away all those tiny pieces. Nothing remained. But the rock that had smashed the statue became a large mountain that covered the whole earth.

36 That was what you dreamed. Now I will tell you what it means. 37 You are a king who rules over many other kings. God, who rules in heaven, has enabled you to rule over them. He has given you great power and much honor. 38 He has made you the ruler of a great territory. It seems as if you have power over every place where people and animals and birds live. The golden head of the statue represents you.

39 But your kingdom will end, and afterward there will be another great kingdom, which the silver part of the statue represents. However, it will not be as great as yours. After that, there will be a third great kingdom, which the bronze part of the statue represents. Its king will rule over a very great territory. 40 After that, there will be a fourth great kingdom. The iron part of the statue represents that kingdom. It will be very strong, just as iron is so strong that it crushes and breaks whatever it strikes. The army of this kingdom will conquer the territory of the previous kingdoms as if it were an iron weapon smashing them. 41 You saw that the feet and toes of the statue were partly clay and partly iron. That meant that this kingdom will divide into two parts. You saw that there was iron as well as clay, and that meant that this kingdom will still be somewhat strong like iron. 42 However, you saw that there was clay as well as iron in the toes of the statue. That meant that some of this kingdom will be weak, like clay that breaks easily, even though some of it will be strong like iron. 43 You saw iron and clay together in the statue's feet and toes. That meant that the rulers of the parts of this kingdom will try to join themselves together through marriage alliances. However, they will not succeed in uniting their realms. After all, iron does not mix with clay.

44 While those kings are ruling, God, who rules everything from heaven, will establish a kingdom that will never end. No one will ever defeat its king and take over his kingdom. He will completely destroy all those kingdoms, but his kingdom will last forever. 45 You saw a rock that someone, but not a human, cut from a mountain. That rock crushed the iron, bronze, clay, silver, and gold parts of the statue. It represents this last king. Your Majesty, the great God has shown you what will happen in the future. Since I have told you what you actually dreamed, you can trust that I have also told you what it truly means."

46 Then King Nebuchadnezzar bowed down in front of Daniel to honor him. He commanded his officials to give Daniel a grain offering and to burn incense to honor him. 47 The king told Daniel, "Your God has enabled you to tell me the meaning of my dream. So he truly is greater than any of the gods that other nations worship. He is more powerful than any earthly king. He reveals secrets that no one else could know."

48 Then the king made Daniel a powerful royal official. He gave him many lavish gifts. He appointed him to rule the entire province of Babylon. He also made him the leader of the officials who governed the wise men of Babylon. 49 At Daniel's request, the king appointed Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego to important positions in the province of Babylon. Daniel himself worked in the king's palace.

1 King Nebuchadnezzar ordered his craftsmen to make a giant statue and cover it completely with gold. It was 27 meters high and 2. 7 meters wide. They set it up on the Plain of Dura in the province of Babylon. 2 Then the king sent messengers to the satraps, the prefects, the governors, the counselors, the treasurers, the judges, the magistrates, and the other officials in the province. He ordered them to come to the dedication of the statue that he had set up. 3 So the satraps, the prefects, the governors, the counselors, the treasurers, the judges, the magistrates, and the other officials in the province came for the dedication of the statue that the king had set up. They all stood in front of that statue.

4 Then a royal herald shouted loudly, “You people who come from many different nations and groups and who speak many different languages, listen to what the king has commanded! 5 When you hear the music of horns, flutes, lyres, zithers, harps, bagpipes, and other instruments, you must bow down to worship King Nebuchadnezzar’s golden statue. 6 The king’s soldiers will immediately throw anyone who does not do that into a furnace that is blazing with fire!”

7 So when the officials who had gathered there heard the music of horns, flutes, lyres, zithers, harps, and other instruments, they bowed down to worship King Nebuchadnezzar’s golden statue.

8 But because of something they saw, some of the king’s advisors then went to him and said bad things about the Jews who were provincial officials. 9 They told King Nebuchadnezzar, “Your Majesty, we hope that you will live for a very long time! 10 You commanded all of us officials to bow down and worship your golden statue when we heard the music of horns, flutes, lyres, zithers, harps, bagpipes, and other instruments. 11 You said that if anyone did not do that, you would command your solders to throw him into a furnace that was blazing with fire. 12 But there are some men who are not obeying your decree, Your Majesty. They are men from Judah whom you have appointed to be officials in the province of Babylon. Their names are Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego. They refuse to worship your gods. They did not bow down to your golden statue.”

13 When he heard that, Nebuchadnezzar became extremely angry. He commanded his soldiers to bring Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego to him. When those three men arrived, 14 Nebuchadnezzar said to them, “Is it true, Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego, that you refuse to worship my gods? Did you not bow down to my golden statue? 15 I will not punish you if you are willing to bow down and worship my statue when you hear the music of horns, flutes, lyres, zithers, harps, bagpipes, and other instruments. But if you do not bow down, I will immediately command my soldiers to throw you into a furnace that is blazing with fire. Then what god would be able to rescue you from my power?”

16 Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego replied, “Nebuchadnezzar, we do not need to make a decision about what to do and then tell you whether we are willing to bow down to your statue. 17 If that happened, our God, whom we worship, would be able to rescue us from the furnace. He could rescue us from your power, Your Majesty. 18 But we want you to know, Your Majesty, that even if he did not rescue us, we would never worship your gods. We would not bow down to your golden statue.”

19 When Nebuchadnezzar heard that, he became extremely angry. He had been regarding Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego with a generous expression, but now he looked at them with a very hostile expression. He ordered his soldiers to heat the furnace as hot as possible, hotter than it had ever been before. 20 Then he commanded some of the strongest soldiers in his army to tie up Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego and throw them into that extremely hot furnace. 21 So those soldiers tied up the three men and threw them into the furnace. The men were still wearing their robes, tunics, turbans, and other clothes. 22 The king had given a very stern command, so his servants had made the furnace extremely hot. As a result, the heat of the furnace killed the strong soldiers who threw Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego into it. 23 And those three men, Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego, fell into the roaring flames with ropes around them.

24 But then King Nebuchadnezzar saw something that amazed him. He quickly jumped up and asked his advisors, “Did we not tie up three men and throw them into the furnace?”

The advisors replied, “Yes, Your Majesty, we did.”

25 Nebuchadnezzar responded, “But look! I see four men! They have no ropes around them, and they are walking around in the flames. The fire is not hurting them! And the fourth man looks like a divine being!”

26 Then Nebuchadnezzar came closer to the opening of the furnace. He shouted, “Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego, you men who worship the Supreme God, come out of there! Come over here!” So they stepped out of the furnace.

27 Then the satraps, prefects, governors, and royal counselors crowded around them. They saw that the flames had not harmed them. The flames had not even singed any of the hair on their heads or scorched any of their clothes! There was not even any smell of smoke on them!

28 Then Nebuchadnezzar said, “People should praise the God whom Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego worship! He sent one of his angels to rescue these three men who worship him and who trusted him to protect them. They were willing to die rather than worship any other god other than their own God. As a result, they made my punishment have no effect.
29 Therefore, I am now making this decree: ‘No person, no matter what nation or group he comes from or what language he speaks, may criticize the God whom Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego worship. If anyone does, I will order my soldiers to cut him into pieces. I will also order them to destroy his house completely. That is because there is no other god who can rescue people like this!’”

30 Then the king gave Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego more important positions in the province of Babylon.

4 1 I, King Nebuchadnezzar, am writing to all of you people who live in my empire. You come from many different nations and groups, and you speak many different languages. I hope that all is well with you. 2 I want you to know the wonderful things that the Supreme God has done for me.

3 He performs great miracles;
yes, he does very wonderful things.
His kingdom will last forever;
indeed, he will rule over every generation of people.

4 I, Nebuchadnezzar, was reigning firmly over my kingdom, and I was living comfortably in my palace. 5 But one night I had a dream that scared me. What I saw in my dream as I was asleep in bed distressed me greatly. 6 So I sent an order to all the wise men in Babylon to come and tell me what my dream meant. 7 And various magicians, enchanters, advisors, and fortunetellers came to me. I told them what I had dreamed, but they could not tell me what it meant. 8 But finally a certain man, Daniel, came to me. One of my officials had given him the name Belteshazzar, which includes the name of one of my gods, Bel. The spirit of the holy gods is in him. I told him what I had dreamed. 9 I said, “Belteshazzar, you are the leader of my advisors. I know that the spirit of the holy gods is in you, so no mystery is too hard for you to explain. So I will tell you the dream that I saw, and you tell me what it means. 10 This is what I dreamed as I was lying in bed. In my dream, I saw a tree in the middle of the land. It was very tall. 11 It grew very big, and it became strong. It seemed that its top reached up to the sky, so that everyone in the world could see it. 12 It had beautiful leaves, and it produced much fruit for people to eat. Wild animals rested in the shade of that tree, and birds built nests in its branches. Many creatures came and got food from that tree. 13 But while I was still asleep and dreaming, I saw a holy angel coming down from heaven. 14 The angel shouted loudly, 'Cut down that tree, and cut off its branches! Shake it until its leaves fall off, and throw away its fruit. Chase away the animals that are lying in its shade and the birds that are in its branches. 15 But leave the stump of the tree with its roots in the ground where grass grows. Fasten a band of iron and bronze around the stump to protect it from splitting. Let the dew that forms from the air keep it damp.' That tree seemed to represent a person, since the angel then said, 'Make him eat grass from the ground as animals do. 16 For seven years, make him have the mind of an animal instead of the mind of a human being. 17 The holy angels have decided that this will be his punishment. They want people to know that the Supreme God rules over human kingdoms. He chooses who will be their kings. He even makes people who were not important into kings.' 18 That is what I, King Nebuchadnezzar, saw in my dream. Now I want you, Belteshazzar, to tell me what it means. I am asking you because none of my other wise men could tell me what it meant. But I believe you can tell me because the spirit of the holy gods is in you." 19 But Daniel, whom we called Belteshazzar, did not say anything for a while. That was because he knew what the dream meant, and it distressed him. Finally I said to him, "Belteshazzar, do not let the dream and its meaning distress you." He replied, "Sir, I hope that what your dream shows will happen to your enemies, who hate you, and not to you. 20 In your dream you saw a very tall, strong tree. It seemed that its top reached up to the sky, so that everyone in the world could see it. 21 It had beautiful leaves, and it produced much fruit for people to eat. Wild animals rested in the shade of that tree, and birds built nests in its branches. 22 Your Majesty, that tree represents you! You have become great and strong. It is as if you rule everything from the ground up to the sky, all throughout the world. 23 But in your dream, you saw a holy angel coming down from heaven. That angel said, 'Cut down that tree so that it does not keep growing! But leave the stump of the tree with its roots in the ground where grass grows. Fasten a band of iron and bronze around the stump to protect it from splitting. Let the dew that forms from the air keep it damp. Make the person whom that tree represents eat what wild animals do for seven years.' 24 This is what your dream means, Your Majesty. It shows what the Supreme God has decided will happen to you. 25 You will no longer have a human mind, and so you will no longer live among people. Instead, you will live with wild animals. This will require you to eat grass as oxen do. The dew that forms from the air will make your body damp. You will live that way for seven years, until you recognize that the Supreme God rules over human kingdoms. He chooses who will be their kings. 26 However, the angel said to leave the stump of the tree in the ground with its roots. That means that you will rule your kingdom again when you recognize that God rules over human kingdoms. 27 So that this does not happen to you, Your Majesty, please do what I advise. Stop sinning and do what is right. Stop doing oppressive things and help poor people. If you do that, perhaps you will continue to reign comfortably." 28 But everything that the dream depicted happened to King Nebuchadnezzar. 29 A year later, he was walking around on the flat roof of his royal palace in Babylon. 30 As he looked out over the city, he said aloud, "This is the great city of Babylon that I have built as the place where I rule! I have built it by my own great power to show people what a glorious king I am!" 31 While he was still saying that, someone spoke to him from heaven. He said, "King Nebuchadnezzar, this decree is about you: you are no longer the ruler of this kingdom! 32 You will no longer live among people. Instead, you will live with wild animals. This will require you to eat grass as oxen do. You will live that way for seven years, until you recognize that the Supreme God rules over human kingdoms. He chooses who will be their kings." 33 Immediately what this person had said happened to me, Nebuchadnezzar. I no longer lived among people. Instead, I ate grass as oxen do. The dew that forms from the air made my body damp. I lived like that until my hair became as long as eagles' feathers. My fingernails became like birds' claws. 34 But at the end of those seven years, I, Nebuchadnezzar, prayed to God, and he gave me a human mind again.

Then I worshiped the Supreme God, and I praised and honored him, who lives forever.
He will rule forever;
indeed, he will be the king of every generation of people.
35 Compared with him, all the people in the world are insignificant.
He does whatever he wants with the angels in heaven and with us people who live on the earth.
No one can stop him from doing what he wants or tell him, “You may not do that.”

36 Then I was able to think reasonably again. I became the very powerful ruler of a glorious kingdom once more. My advisors and my nobles treated me respectfully again. Once more I ruled my kingdom firmly, and I became much more powerful than I had been before.
37 Now I, Nebuchadnezzar, greatly praise and honor God, the king who rules in heaven. Everything that he does is right, and he always treats people fairly. When people become too proud, he is able to humble them.

5 1 King Belshazzar of Babylon invited a thousand of his officials to a great feast. He drank a lot of wine with them. 2 He became drunk, and he commanded his servants to bring the gold and silver cups that his grandfather, Nebuchadnezzar, had taken from the temple in Jerusalem. He wanted to drink from them with his officials, his wives, and his concubines. 3 So his servants brought in the gold cups that Nebuchadnezzar’s solders had taken from the temple where God had been present in Jerusalem. Then the king, his officials, his wives, and his concubines drank wine from those cups. 4 They drank toasts to honor their gold, silver, bronze, iron, wood, and stone idols.

5 Suddenly the fingers of a man’s hand appeared. They started writing on the plaster of a section of the wall of the royal palace. A lamp was shining on that section, so the king could see the palm of the hand as it was writing. 6 That made him very afraid, and his face turned pale. His knees started shaking, and his legs became so weak that he could not stand up.

7 He shouted loudly to tell his servants to bring in his magicians, advisors, and fortunetellers. He said, “If any of them can read this writing and tell me what it means, I will give him a purple robe to wear. I will also give him a gold chain to put around his neck. I will also make him the most powerful ruler in my kingdom except for me and the crown prince.”

8 Then all the wise men whom the king had summoned came in. But none of them could read the writing or tell him what it meant. 9 This made King Belshazzar even more afraid. His face became even paler. The officials he had invited to the feast did not know what to do.

10 The king’s mother learned that the king and his nobles were talking about what to do. So she came into the room where they were having the feast. She said to Belshazzar, “Your Majesty, I hope that you will live for a very long time! Please do not let this frighten you and make your face turn pale. 11 There is a man in your kingdom who has the spirit of the holy gods in him. When your grandfather Nebuchadnezzar was ruling, they discovered that this man could understand many things. He was very wise, like the gods. Your grandfather King Nebuchadnezzar, who was one of the kings before you, made him the leader of all the different wise men of Babylon. 12 Nebuchadnezzar did that because he has very good character. He can learn and understand many things. He is able to say what dreams mean. He can solve puzzles and explain things that are very difficult to understand. That man is Daniel. The king gave him a new name, Belteshazzar. If you summon Daniel, he will tell you what this writing means."

13 So the king had his servants bring Daniel to him. The king said to him, "You must be Daniel. I understand that you are one of the Judeans whom the soldiers of my grandfather Nebuchadnezzar brought here as prisoners from Judah. 14 I have heard that the spirit of the gods is in you, that you are very intelligent, and that you are very wise. 15 I want you to know that I brought in my wise men, such as my enchanters, to read this writing and tell me what it means. But they have not been able to do that. 16 But then someone told me about you. You are able to say what dreams mean and explain things that are very difficult to understand. If you really can read this writing and tell me what it means, I will give you a purple robe to wear. I will also give you a gold chain to put around your neck. I will also make you the most powerful ruler in my kingdom except for me and the crown prince"

17 Then Daniel replied to the king, "You may keep your gifts or give them to someone else. But I will read this writing for you and tell you what it means.

18 Your Majesty, this is why the hand wrote that for you. The Supreme God made Nebuchadnezzar, one of the men who ruled before you, a great king. People honored him and admired him. 19 Because God made him such a powerful king, people who came from many different nations and groups and who spoke many different languages were very afraid of him. If he wanted someone to die, he could command his soldiers to execute that person. If he wanted someone to live, he could command his soldiers not to harm that person. If he wanted to give someone an important position, he could do that. If he wanted to make someone unimportant, he could do that too. 20 However, he began to think of himself as very great. He became stubborn, and he acted arrogantly. As a result, God made him no longer the king. He was not glorious anymore. 21 He no longer lived among people. He had a mind like an animal.

He lived among wild donkeys. He ate grass as oxen do. The dew that forms from the air made his body damp. He lived that way until he recognized that the Supreme God rules over human kingdoms. He chooses who will be their kings.

22 You, Belshazzar, have now become the king. You knew all these things, but you have not been humble. 23 Instead, you have considered yourself to be greater than God, who reigns in heaven. You have commanded your servants to bring you the cups from his temple in Jerusalem. You, your officials, your wives, and your concubines have been drinking from those cups. You have been making toasts in honor of your own gold, silver, bronze, iron, wood, and stone idols. Those idols represent gods that are not real. They cannot see, hear, or know anything! You have not honored the God who keeps you alive and who controls everything that happens to you. 24 So God sent this hand to write this message to you.

25 The hand wrote these words: 'Mene,' 'Mene,' 'Tekel,' and 'Parsin.'

26 This is what these words mean.

'Mene' means 'counted.' This means that God has counted how many days you have been king, and he has decided that there should not be any more.

27 'Tekel' means 'weighed.' It is as if God has weighed you on a scale and found that you do not weigh what you should.

28 'Peres' means 'separated.' God is going to separate your kingdom from you. The Medes and the Persians will conquer it, and they will rule it instead of you."

29 Then Belshazzar ordered his servants to put a purple robe on Daniel and a gold chain around his neck. He proclaimed that Daniel would be the most powerful ruler in his kingdom except for him and the crown prince

30 But that same night, enemy soldiers got into the city and killed Belshazzar, the king of the Chaldeans. 31 Darius the Mede became the king instead. He was 62 years old.

6 1 King Darius decided to appoint 120 satraps to govern the different parts of his kingdom.

2 He also appointed three sareks to supervise those satraps. To make sure that none of them cheated the king, those satraps had to give them regular accounts of their work. Daniel was one of the sareks. 3 Daniel had very good character, so he soon showed that he was more capable than all the satraps and the other sareks. As a result, the king planned to put him in charge of the whole kingdom. 4 Then the satraps and other sareks tried to find something they could accuse Daniel of doing wrong in his work for the king. But Daniel was very reliable, so he had not done anything negligent or corrupt. So the other royal officials could not find anything they could accuse him of doing wrong. 5 So they concluded, "The only thing we will find to accuse Daniel about will be something that he has to do to obey his God."

6 So the sareks and satraps went together to the king and told him, "King Darius, we hope that you will live for a very long time! 7 All of your sareks, rulers satraps, counselors, and governors have agreed that you should make a law and enforce it strictly. Your Majesty, the law would be that for the next 30 days, no one may ask any god or man except you for anything. If anyone does that, your servants will throw him into a pit full of lions. 8 So, Your Majesty, please make this law. Have one of your scribes write it out, and then sign it. No one will then be able to change it, because the laws of the Medes and Persians are permanent." 9 So King Darius made the law, and when one of his scribes wrote it out, he signed it.

10 When Daniel learned that the king had made that law and signed it, he went home. He went to his upstairs room and opened the windows so that he could look toward Jerusalem. He knelt down and prayed and gave thanks to God. He did that three times each day, just as he had done before. 11 Then the royal officials came to his house together, and they saw that he was praying to God and asking him to help him. 12 So they went back to the king and talked with him about the law he had made. They said, "Your Majesty, you signed a law that for the next 30 days, no one may ask any god or man except you for anything. The law said that if anyone did that, your servants would throw him into a pit full of lions." The king replied, "Yes, I made that law. And the laws of the Medes and Persians are permanent."

13 Then they told the king, "Your Majesty, that man Daniel, who is one of the Judeans whom our soldiers brought here as prisoners, is disregarding you. He is not obeying the law that you signed. He is still praying to his God three times each day!" 14 When the king heard that, it distressed him greatly. He determined to save Daniel. For the rest of that day, he tried hard to find a way to rescue him.

15 But in the evening, those royal officials went back to the king together and told him, "Your Majesty, you know what our Median and Persian laws require. If the king makes any rule or law, no one can change it."

16 So the king gave a command, and his servants brought Daniel to him. The king told him, "I hope that your God, whom you obey so faithfully, will rescue you!" Then the servants threw Daniel into a pit full of lions.

17 They put a large stone across the top of the pit. Then the king sealed the stone with the ring he wore that had his royal seal on it. His nobles also sealed it with their rings. That kept anyone from removing the stone and rescuing Daniel. 18 Then the king returned to his palace. To show how sorry he was for Daniel, he did not eat any food that evening, and he did not have anyone play music for him. He did not sleep that night.

19 As soon as it became light the next morning, the king got up and went quickly to the pit of lions. 20 As he arrived at the pit where Daniel was, he cried out in distress. He said, "Daniel, the God whom you worship is really alive! Has your God, whom you obey so faithfully, been able to save you from the lions?"

21 Daniel responded, "Your Majesty, I hope that you will live for a very long time! 22 Yes, my God sent an angel to keep the lions from harming me. They did not hurt me at all. God rescued me because he knows that I did not do anything sinful. He also knows that I have not done anything that hurt you, Your Majesty!"

23 This made the king very happy. He commanded his servants to lift Daniel up out of the pit. When they did that, they saw that the lions had not wounded him at all. Daniel had trusted God, and so God had protected him.

24 Then the king commanded his soldiers to arrest the men who had said bad things about Daniel. They threw them into the pit where the lions were. They also threw in their wives and children. While they were still tumbling toward the bottom of the pit, the lions leaped on them and tore them apart.

25 Then King Darius sent a letter to the people who lived in his empire. They were from many different nations and groups, and they spoke many different languages. He wrote, "I hope that all is well with you. 26 I am making a decree that throughout my empire, people should show great respect to the God whom Daniel worships.

He is the God who is really alive, and he lives forever.
No one will ever destroy his kingdom;
he will rule forever.
27 He certainly rescues people who trust him.
He performs great miracles
in heaven and on earth.
He rescued Daniel by keeping the lions from attacking him!"

28 After this, Daniel was successful for the rest of the time that Darius was king. He was also successful during the time when Cyrus the Persian was king.

7 1 During the first year that Belshazzar was the king of Babylon, Daniel saw things in a dream one night as he was lying on his bed. The next morning, he wrote down the main points of what he had dreamed.

2 Daniel wrote, "This is what I saw in the dream I had last night. Strong winds were blowing from four directions and making big waves in the Great Sea. 3 I saw four great beasts coming up out of the water. Each one was different from the others.

4 The first beast looked a lion. However, it had wings like an eagle's wings. But as I watched, someone tore off its wings. Then this beast reared up and stood on two legs, as people do. It also became able to think as people do.

5 The second beast that I saw looked like a bear. One of its sides was higher than the other. It was holding three ribs in its mouth with its teeth. Someone told it, 'Go and eat as much meat as you want!'

6 The next beast that I saw looked like a leopard, but it had four wings like bird's wings on its back. It had four heads. It received authority to rule many people.

7 The next thing I saw in my dream last night was a fourth beast. It was very powerful and very terrifying. It had huge iron teeth. It killed the other beasts and devoured them, and then it trampled on their carcasses. It was different from the other three beasts. It had ten horns on its head.

8 I was looking at those horns, and I saw a little horn grow up in the middle of them. It tore out three of the other horns. I saw that this little horn had eyes that were like humans eyes. It also had a mouth, and it was speaking very boastfully.

9 Then, as I watched,

some beings brought in some thrones.
God, who has always existed, sat on one of the thrones.
His clothes were as white as snow,
and his hair was as white as pure wool.
His throne was like a chariot; it was blazing with fire, and its wheels were also blazing with fire.
10 A stream of fire
was rushing out in front of him.
Many thousands of people were there serving him, and millions of other people were standing in front of him ready to serve him.
Judges began a court session, and they opened books that recorded what people had done.

11 I heard the little horn speaking very boastfully, so I looked over at it. As I watched, someone killed the fourth beast and threw its body into the fire to burn it up completely.
12 The other three beasts lost their authority to rule, but they were able to continue living for a little while.

13 The next thing I saw in my dream last night was someone who resembled a human being. He was riding on the clouds in the sky. He got to where God was, the one who has always existed, and God's servants brought him to his throne. 14 God honored him and gave him the authority to rule as king. People from every nation and group and who speak every language will obey him. He will rule forever; he will never stop ruling. No one will ever destroy the kingdom that he rules.

15 As for me, Daniel, what I saw in my dream scared me. I felt very upset inside. 16 I went up to one of those who were standing in front of God's throne. I asked him to tell me what all of this meant. So he told me what the things in my dream meant so that I could understand them.

17 He said, "The four great beasts represent four kingdoms that will become powerful in the world. 18 But the Supreme God will give power to his people to rule, and they will rule forever and ever."

19 Then I wanted to know exactly what the fourth beast represented. That beast was different from the other three beasts. It was very terrifying. It had iron teeth and bronze claws. It killed the other beasts and devoured them, and then it trampled on their carcasses. 20 I also wanted to know about the ten horns on its head and the little horn that grew up in the middle of them. It tore out three of the other horns. It had human eyes and a mouth. It spoke very boastfully, and it looked more powerful than the other horns. 21 In my dream, I saw this horn attack God's people. It was defeating them, 22 but then God, who has always existed, came and decided in favor of the people who belonged to him, the Supreme God. Then it was time for them to receive authority to rule.

23 The one I was speaking with told me, "The fourth beast represents a fourth empire that will become powerful in the world. That empire will be different from the other empires that were before it. Its army will conquer other kingdoms throughout the world. It will defeat them badly and destroy them. 24 The ten horns of this beast represent ten kings who will rule that empire. Another king will succeed them. He will be different from the previous kings, and he will conquer three other kings. 25 He will say insulting things about the Supreme God, and he will oppress the people who belong to him. He will try to change their religious festivals and laws. He will have power over them for a time, times, and half a time.

26 But then there will be a session of the heavenly court. The court will take away that king's authority. That will be the end of his kingdom forever. 27 Then the people who belong to the Supreme God will receive great honor and the power to rule every kingdom in the world. The kingdom of the Supreme God will last forever. All earthly rulers will be his subjects."

28 That is what I saw in my dream. As I, Daniel, thought about these things, they really scared me. My face became pale. But I did not tell anyone about the dream I had."

8 1 During the third year that Belshazzar was the king of Babylon, I, Daniel, had a vision, after the one that I had earlier. 2 In that vision, I saw that I was in Susa, the capital city of the province of Elam. I saw that I was standing alongside the Ulai Canal. 3 I looked up and saw a ram standing alongside the canal. It had two long horns. One of the horns was longer than the other. The ram had grown the longer horn after the shorter one. 4 I saw the ram butting away the animals that were around it in all directions. No other animal could resist it, and none could rescue other animals from it. The ram did whatever it wanted to do, and it became very powerful.

5 I kept looking, and the next thing I saw was a goat coming from the west. It ran across the whole world so quickly that its feed seemed not to touch the ground. This goat had one very large horn in the middle of its forehead. 6 It came to the ram that I had seen standing alongside the canal, the ram that had two horns. It was very angry, and it ran straight at the ram. 7 I saw that when the goat got to the ram, it struck it furiously. That broke off the ram's two horns, and so the ram was not able to defend itself. The goat knocked the ram down and trampled on it. No one could rescue the ram from the goat. 8 The goat became very powerful. But when its power was very great, its large horn broke off. Four other large horns grew in its place. They pointed to the north, south, east, and west.

9 A little horn grew from one of those horns. It became very large. It pointed toward the south and then toward the east and then toward the beautiful land of Israel. 10 That horn became so strong that it even attacked the angels in heaven. It threw some of the angels and some of the stars from the sky onto the earth, and it trampled on them. 11 The horn wanted people to worship it instead of Yahweh, the commander of the heavenly army. It prevented his priests from offering the regular sacrifices to him each morning and evening. It also ruined his temple. 12 Many Israelites disobeyed Yahweh and instead obeyed the horn, who had stopped the priests from offering sacrifices to Yahweh each morning and evening. The horn prevented people from worshiping Yahweh truly. It succeeded in doing what it wanted to do.

13 Then I heard an angel saying something. Another angel asked the one who was talking, "This vision shows that someone will prevent the priests from sacrificing to Yahweh. It shows that many of the Israelites will disobey Yahweh and that this will allow someone to ruin his temple and harm his people. How long will these things continue?"

14 The other angel replied, "They will continue for a total of 2,300 evenings and mornings, or 1,150 days. After that, the temple will become a holy place again."

15 After I, Daniel, had seen this vision, I was trying to understand what it meant. Suddenly someone in the form of a human being appeared in front of me. 16 Then I heard someone calling out from the middle of the Ulai Canal. His voice sounded human. He said, "Gabriel, explain to him what his vision means."

17 So Gabriel came and stood next to me. This made me so afraid that I fell onto the ground. But he told me, "You mortal, understand that your vision shows something that will happen when the world is about to end."

18 As he was speaking to me, I fainted. I was unconscious on the ground, but Gabriel took hold of me and picked me up so I was standing again.

19 Then he said, "I have come to tell you what will happen as God finishes punishing people. He has determined to do that at the end of the world, and your vision shows this.
20 You saw a ram that had two horns. Those horns represent the kingdoms of Media and Persia. 21 The goat that you saw represents the kingdom of Javan. The large horn in the middle of its forehead represents its first king. 22 The four horns that grew after the first horn broke off represent four kingdoms into which his kingdom will divide. None of them will be as strong as the original kingdom was.

23 The people in those kingdoms will become very wicked. Near the time when those kingdoms will end, one of them will have a king who defeats his enemies in battle. That king will also be very deceitful. 24 That king will become very powerful, but only because God allows that to happen. He will violently destroy many things, and he will succeed in doing what he wants to do. He will destroy powerful opponents, and he will also destroy some of God's people. 25 Because he will be so treacherous, he will achieve what he wants by deceiving people. He will be very proud of himself. He will make people think that they are safe, but he will then destroy many of them. He will even try to oppose God, who rules over all earthly kings. But God, not a human being, will destroy him.

26 Your vision showed how this king will prevent Yahweh's priests from sacrificing to him each morning and evening. That will happen. But for now, do not tell others what you saw, because those things will not happen until many years from now."

27 Then I, Daniel, had no strength left. I was sick for several days. After that, I got up and went back to work for the king. But I did not understand the vision, and that disturbed me.

9 1 Darius son of Ahasuerus, who was a Mede, became the next ruler of the Chaldean kingdom. 2 During the first year that Darius was the king, I, Daniel, was studying our holy books. I saw that Yahweh had told the prophet Jeremiah how long Jerusalem would be in a bad condition. It would be for seventy years. 3 After I read that, I resolved to ask the Lord God to help us. I prayed to him very earnestly. To show how sorry I was for our sins, I ate little food, I wore rough cloth, and I put ashes on my head.

4 As I prayed to Yahweh my God, I admitted that we Israelites had sinned. I said, "Oh Lord, you are the powerful God whom everyone should respect! You keep your promises and you faithfully love people who love you and obey your laws. 5 But we Israelites have sinned against you. We have done things that are wrong. We have done wicked things and rebelled against you. We have disobeyed many of your laws. 6 You sent prophets to bring messages from you to our kings, our other rulers, and our ancestors. They spoke those messages to all the Israelite people. But we did not obey what they told us to do. 7 Lord, you were right to punish us for sinning so seriously against you. But as a result, we are now in a shameful condition. This is true of the Israelites who still live in Jerusalem and other places in Judea. It is also true of the Israelites whose enemies you allowed to take away to other countries. Some of those countries are near Israel, and others are farther away. 8 Yahweh, we have sinned against you, and so we and our kings, our other rulers, and our ancestors are in a shameful condition. 9 I ask you, our Lord and God, to forgive us and treat us kindly, even though we have rebelled against you. 10 You sent your prophets to speak to us directly and tell us to obey your laws.

But we did not obey what you, our God, said to us through them. 11 All of us Israelite people have failed to do what your law requires and have done other things instead. We have not obeyed what you told us to do. We have sinned against you, and as a result, you have made very bad things happen to us. You swore that you would do that if we sinned so badly. Your servant Moses wrote this in the law. 12 You said that these things would happen to us and our rulers, and you have done just what you said. You made a great disaster happen to us. No other city in the world has experienced something like what has happened to Jerusalem. 13 You have made this great disaster happen to us just as Moses wrote in the law. Even so, we have not tried to make you, our God, treat us favorably again. We have not stopped committing sins. We have not recognized that you tell us the right way to live. 14 Because we did not obey what you told us, it was right for you, our God, to punish us as you did. You were ready to cause this disaster, and you made it happen to us when we deserved it. 15 Now here is my request. Lord our God, you rescued us Israelites from slavery in Egypt by your great power. As a result, you have had a great reputation ever since then. But we still sinned against you by doing wicked things.
16 Lord, just as you have delivered us in the past, I ask you now to stop being so very angry with the people of Jerusalem. That is the city where you chose to be present in a special way in your temple on Mount Zion. I ask this because the people of other nations are saying bad things about Jerusalem and us Israelites. They are doing that because you have punished us for the sins that we and our ancestors committed. 17 But now, our God, please do what I, your servant, am earnestly asking you to do. For the sake of your own reputation, please regard favorably your temple, which our enemies have ruined. 18 My God, please listen to my prayer and do what I ask. Please consider carefully that Jerusalem, the city that belongs to you in a special way, is in ruins. I am not pleading with you to help us because we are good people and deserve that. I am asking you to help us because you are very merciful. 19 Lord, please listen to me! Lord, please forgive us! Lord, please do what I am asking you to do! Jerusalem belongs to you in a special way, and so do we Israelites. So please help us quickly, my God, for the sake of your own reputation."

20-21 I was praying and confessing the sins that I and my fellow Israelites had committed.
I was pleading with Yahweh my God on behalf of Jerusalem, the place where he was present in a special way in his temple on Mount Zion. While I was still praying, Gabriel, the angel whom I had seen in my previous vision, came flying rapidly to me. He came at the time in the evening when the priests offered a sacrifice each day. 22 By speaking with me, he enabled me to understand what Yahweh had told Jeremiah about Jerusalem. He told me, "Daniel, I have come to enable you to understand. 23 When you first started to plead with Yahweh, he gave me a message for you. He loves you very much, so he sent me to you with this message. So please understand what I tell you and understand why I have appeared to you.

24 Yahweh has determined that there will be seventy sets of seven time periods for you Israelites and for the holy city of Jerusalem. He will stop you from rebelling against him and keep you from committing more sins. He will forgive the wrong things you have done, and he will enable you always to do what is right. He will make the things happen that he showed to his prophets in visions. He will make his temple a sacred place again.

25 I want you to understand this well. A king will command people to rebuild Jerusalem. When they rebuild it, it will have a large public plaza, and it will have a ditch around it to protect it. It will be a dangerous time. After that, there will be seven sets of seven time periods and then sixty-two more sets of seven time periods. Then a leader will come whom God will have chosen. 26 But after those sixty-two sets of seven time periods, he will die, so he will no longer be the ruler. Instead, another ruler will come, and his army will destroy the city of Jerusalem and the temple. It will be as if a flood has destroyed it. There will be war continually. Yahweh has determined that armies will destroy many things. 27 That ruler will make an agreement with many people that he will firmly promise to keep for seven time periods. But halfway through that time, he will stop Yahweh's priests from offering sacrifices to him. He will put something disgusting in the temple that makes it unclean. It will be there until Yahweh finally punishes the ruler who made the temple unclean. That is what Yahweh has determined to do."

1 During the third year that Cyrus was the king of Persia, God revealed a message to Daniel. (The Babylonians had given him the name Belteshazzar.) The message was about a terrible war that was certainly going to happen. The message came in a vision, and Daniel understood what it meant.

2 At that time, I, Daniel, had been mourning for three weeks. 3 Throughout those three weeks, I did not eat any tasty food. I did not eat any meat or drink any wine. I did not put olive oil on my face or hair.

4 Then, on the twenty-fourth day of the first month of the year, I was standing on the bank of the great Tigris River. 5 I looked up, and I saw a man who was wearing linen clothes and a fine gold belt. 6 His body shone like a jewel. His face was as bright as a flash of lightning. His eyes were like flaming torches. His arms and legs shone like polished bronze. His voice was very loud, like the roar of a huge crowd.

7 I, Daniel, was the only one who saw this vision. There were some men with me, but they did not see it. However, they became very afraid, and they ran away and hid. 8 So I remained there by myself, looking at this great vision. I felt very weak. My face became pale because I was so weak. 9 Then I heard the man speak. When I heard him, I fainted and fell to the ground. I lay there with my face on the ground.

10 But then he took hold of me and lifted me up so that I was on my hands and knees. I was shaking. 11 The man told me, "Daniel, God loves you very much. God has sent me to you, so stand up. I am going to tell you a message, and I want you to understand it." When he said that to me, I stood up, but I was still shaking.

12 Then he told me, "Daniel, you determined to ask God humbly to show you what would happen to your people in the future. God has heard what you have been praying since then. I have come because of what you have prayed. So do not be afraid! 13 For 21 days, the evil spirit that influences the kingdom of Persia kept me from coming to you. But Michael, one of God's chief angels, came and helped me. Otherwise, I would not have been able to get past that evil spirit that influences the Persian rulers. 14 I have come to enable you to understand what will happen to your people when the world is about to end. Now this will happen sometime in the future."

15 While he was saying these things to me, I was looking at the ground, and I was not saying anything. 16 But then this person who looked like a human being touched my lips. Then I was able to speak. I said to him, "Sir, because I am seeing this vision, I am very upset, and I have become very weak. 17 I am not able to speak with you, sir. I feel very weak right now, and it is difficult for me to breathe."

18 But then this person who looked like a human being took hold of me again, and that made me feel stronger. 19 He told me, "Do not be afraid, you mortal. God loves you very much. Be peaceful, and be very strong." When he said that to me, I did feel stronger. I said, "Sir, you have helped me feel stronger. So please do give me your message."

20-21 Then he said, "Remember what I told you about why I have come to you. There is a book that reveals God's truth, and I have come to tell you what it says. After that, I must return to fight against the evil spirit that influences the kingdom of Persia. After I have defeated him, the evil spirit that influences Javan will come. Michael, the angel who protects you Israelite people, is the only one who can help me defeat these spirits.

11 1 I myself helped and protected Michael during the first year that Darius the Mede was king.

2 And now I will tell you what will surely happen in the future. Pay attention. Three more kings will rule Persia, and then there will be a fourth king who will be much richer than the others. Because he will be so rich, he will be able to assemble a great army from throughout his empire to attack the kingdom of Javan.

3 Then there will be a king who is very powerful. He will reign over a very large empire. He will do whatever he wants to do. 4 But while he is still powerful, he will die. His kingdom will break up into four parts. Men who are not his descendants will rule those parts. They will not be as powerful as he was as a king. That is because his empire will be like a plant that someone has pulled out of the ground. Other people will rule its parts. 5 The king who rules the southern part will become very powerful. But one of the military commanders of the great king who died will become more powerful than him. He will become a king, and he will rule a large empire in the north. 6 After many years, the southern king and the northern king will become allies. To make a peace treaty, the southern king will allow the northern king to marry his daughter. But she will not be the queen for very long. Her husband, the northern king, will not continue to rule. People will kill her, her child, her husband, and the officials who brought her from the southern kingdom.

7 But then a member of her family will become the next southern king. He will lead his army to attack the northern army, and he will defeat them when they fight. He will conquer the capital city of the northern kingdom. 8 He will also take away the idols that represent their gods and their gold and silver treasures. He will bring them back to Egypt with him. For the next several years he will not attack the northern king. 9 Then the northern king will invade the southern kingdom. But he will lose the battle and have to retreat to his own kingdom. 10 But his sons who rule after him will prepare to attack the southern kingdom again. They will gather a very large army. As that army marches south, it will cover the land like a huge flood. After some fighting, there will be a truce, but then the northern army will attack again. It will conquer a city that has strong walls around it.

11 This will make the southern king very angry. He will lead his army to fight against the northern king. The northern king will gather a great army, but the southern king will defeat that great army. 12 When his soldiers destroy the northern army, they will kill tens of thousands of its soldiers. This will make the southern king very proud. But his army will not continue to win battles. 13 Instead, the northern king will prepare to fight again. He will gather an even bigger army than the one that he had before. After several years, he will invade the southern kingdom with a large army that has much military equipment.

14 When that happens, many people will rebel against the southern king. Some violent men among the Israelites will revolt against him, but he will defeat them. However, this will help make happen the things I am showing you. 15 Then the northern king will invade the southern kingdom. His soldiers will attack a city that has strong walls around it. They will capture it by piling up dirt against its walls. The northern army will be so strong that the southern army will not be able to defend that city, even with its best troops. 16 The northern king who is attacking will succeed in his plans. The southern king will not be able to oppose him. His army will occupy the beautiful land of Israel, and he will have the power to destroy it. 17 Then the northern king will determine to invade the southern kingdom with as strong an army as he can form from his kingdom. He will bring a peace treaty and make the southern king agree to it. He will allow the southern king to marry his daughter, but he will want his daughter to work for him against her husband. But this plan will not succeed, so it will not help him. 18 The northern king will then attack the regions by the sea, and he will conquer many of them. This will shame the rulers that controlled those regions. But a military commander from another kingdom will defeat him. That will shame the northern king instead. 19 The northern king will have to return to the strong forts in his own land. But he will die there, and that will be the end of him.

20 The king who rules after him will send one of his officials to collect tribute from Judea, the most glorious part of his kingdom. But after a few years, that king will die. He will not die in battle or because people rebel angrily against him; instead, someone will murder him.

21 The king who rules after him will be an evil man. He will not deserve to become king, since he will not be the son of the previous king. He will come when people do not expect it, and he will become king by making secret plots. 22 Great armies will oppose him, but he will defeat them and destroy them. He will also remove God's high priest. 23 The rulers of other nations will make treaties with him, but he will betray them. He will begin with a small army, but he will become very powerful. 24 When people are not expecting it, he will capture the most fertile regions in the southern kingdom. The kings who ruled the northern kingdom before him had not been able to do that, but he will do it. He will reward his troops and supporters with valuable possessions that he takes from those regions. He will make plans to capture the cities in the southern kingdom that have walls around them. But he will pursue those plans only for a short time.

25 The northern king will feel strong and confident, and he will gather a large army to attack the southern king. The southern king will gather a very large army so that he can fight against him. But he will lose the battle because some of his officials will betray him. 26 Some of his own royal officials will help destroy him. The northern king will defeat his army, and many of his soldiers will die. 27 Then the northern king and the southern king will meet together to make a peace treaty. But each one will be trying to trick the other, so they will lie to each other. However, neither one will get what he wants, because God has decided what will ultimately happen. 28 The northern king will then return to his own land. He will take away many valuable things that his army has captured. He will be hostile to the Jewish people, and he will harm them on his way back to his land.

29 At the time that God has determined, the northern king will invade the southern kingdom again. But this time he will not be successful as he was before. 30 An army will sail across the sea to oppose him. This will terrify hm, and he will have to retreat. This will make him very angry, and so he will harm the Jewish people again as he retreats. He will favor those Jews who no longer obey the agreement between Yahweh and the Israelites. 31 The northern king will send his army to make the temple ritually unclean. They will prevent the priests from offering the regular sacrifices to Yahweh each morning and evening. They will put something disgusting in the temple that makes it unclean.

32 Some Jews will be wickedly disobeying the agreement with Yahweh. The northern king will deceive them so that they become loyal to him. But other Jews will still be loyal to Yahweh, their God. They will firmly oppose him. 33 Some wise Jewish leaders will help other Jews recognize that they should resist the northern king. But for a short time, the northern king's soldiers will be able to kill them with their swords or by burning them. They soldiers will take some of them as prisoners, and they will steal their possessions.

34 While the Jews who are loyal to Yahweh are suffering in this way, some people will help them a little bit. However, some of them will not help them sincerely. 35 Some of those wise leaders will die. But as a result, other Jews will live in a way that honors Yahweh even more. These things must happen at the time when God has determined, so this suffering will continue until God ends it.

36 This northern king will do whatever he wants to do. He will boast and say that he is greater than any god. He will even say bad things about Yahweh, the one true God. He will succeed until God has finished punishing his people for their sins. That is because God will do what he has announced. 37 This northern king will no longer worship the gods that his ancestors worshiped. He will also not worship the god that many women adore. Because he will think that he is greater than any god, he will not worship those gods. 38 Instead, he will honor a god that he thinks will help him win wars. His ancestors did not worship that god, but he honors it with gifts of gold, silver, jewels and other expensive items. 39 He will ask that foreign god to help him conquer strong fortresses. He will greatly honor those who obey him as their king. He will make them rule over many people, and to reward them, he will give them property.

40 When all of these events I am describing are about to end, the southern king will attack the northern king. The northern king will fight back against him furiously. His soldiers will be driving chariots and riding horses and traveling in a fleet of ships. His army will invade many countries. It will spread all over those countries like a flood. 41 The northern king will invade the beautiful land of Israel. His soldiers will kill many people. But the Edomites, Moabites, and most of the Ammonites will survive his attack. 42 The northern king will invade many countries. He will even defeat the kingdom of Egypt. 43 The northern king will become the owner of gold and silver treasures and other valuable items that belonged to the Egyptians. The Libyans and Cushites will obey him as their king. 44 But he will become very frightened when he hears reports about what is happening in the east and in the north. He will become very angry, and he will lead his army to defeat his enemies and destroy them completely. 45 The northern king will set up his royal tents in the area between the sea and the mountain in Jerusalem where Yahweh's holy temple is. But that is where he will die. No one will be able to help him so that he does not die.

12 1 When those things happen, the great angel Michael, who protects the Israelites, will help them. The Israelites will have more trouble than they have had since they became a nation until now. But at that time, God will rescue every one of his people whose name he has written in his book. 2 Many people who have died and who are in graves in the ground will become alive again. Some of them will live eternally with God, but God will condemn others forever. 3 Those who have done what is wise will shine as brightly as the sky. And those who have helped others to live right will shine like stars forever. 4 But as for you, Daniel, do not tell anyone what I have told you. You may write this down, but seal the scroll so that no one opens it and reads it until it is time for these things to start happening. People will go to different places trying to find out what is going to happen."

5 When that angel finished speaking, I, Daniel, looked up, and I saw two other angels. One angel was standing on my side of the river, and the other angel was standing on the opposite side. 6 One of them called to the angel who had been speaking to me, who was wearing linen clothes. He was above the river. That other angel asked him, "How long will it be until these amazing events end?"

7 The angel wearing linen clothes who was above the river raised both of his hands toward the sky. I heard him solemnly swear by God, who lives forever, that it would be for a time, times, and half a time. For a while, God's holy people will lose their power. But when that time is over, these other events will also end.

8 I heard what he said, but I did not understand it. So I asked, "Sir, what will be the result of all these events?"

9 He replied, “Daniel, no one will be able to understand what this message means until the time of these events. So just continue to live your life now. 10 Many people will make sure that they live in a way that honors Yahweh greatly. But wicked people will continue to do wicked things. None of them will understand what is happening, but wise people will understand. 11 There will be 1,290 days after the northern king prevents the priests from offering the regular sacrifices to Yahweh each morning and evening and puts something disgusting in the temple that makes it unclean. 12 God will greatly bless those who remain loyal to him until 1,335 days are over.

13 But as for you, Daniel, you will die before these things happen. But when the world ends, you will live again, and God will reward you. So for now, just continue to live the rest of your life.”

Hosea

1 1 Yahweh gave this message to Hosea son of Beeri during the time when Uzziah, Jotham, Ahaz, and Hezekiah were kings of Judah, and when Jeroboam son of Joash was king of Israel.

2 When Yahweh first spoke through Hosea, Yahweh said to him, "Go and marry a prostitute. Some of her children will result from her sexual relations with other men. Do this to show how the people of this land have been very unfaithful to me, as though they were an unfaithful wife who has abandoned her husband in favor of other men."

3 So Hosea married Gomer daughter of Diblaim, and she became pregnant and gave birth to a son for him. 4 Yahweh said to Hosea, "Name him Jezreel, because very soon I will punish the descendants of Jehu for all of the people that he slaughtered at the town of Jezreel. I will end the nation of Israel. 5 At that time, I will destroy the army of Israel in the Valley of Jezreel."

6 Gomer became pregnant again and gave birth to a daughter. Yahweh said to Hosea, "Name her Lo Ruhamah, because I will no longer pity the people of Israel. Instead, I will certainly remove them from their land. 7 However, I will pity the people of Judah, and I, Yahweh their God, will rescue them. I will do it myself; I will not save them by using their bows, swords, warfare, horses, or horsemen."

8 After Gomer had weaned Lo Ruhamah, she became pregnant again and gave birth to another son. 9 Yahweh said, "Name him Lo Ammi, because you people of Israel are no longer my people, and I am no longer your God."

10 Yet someday the people of Israel will become a people group that is vast in number. In the very place where God said to them, "You are not my people," he will call them, "sons and daughters of the living God." 11 Then the people of Judah and the people of Israel will unite together and choose one leader for all of them. It will be a marvelous time when Jezreel happens, that is, when God brings his people back to their own land as though sowing them there as seeds, and they will prosper there.

2 1 Yahweh also said, “At that time, you will say to your fellow Israelite men, ‘Ammi, you are God’s people,’ and you will say to your fellow Israelite women, ‘Ruhamah, you are ones whom God loves.’”

2 Children, dispute earnestly with your mother, because she is no longer my wife, and I am no longer her husband.

Tell her to stop her sexually immoral behavior and to stop being unfaithful to me.

3 Otherwise, I will strip her as naked as on the day she was born.

I will make her as bare as a wilderness. I will cause her to become as dry as a desert, and I will let her die of thirst.

4 I will not pity her children, because they are as unfaithful as their prostitute mother.

5 I say this because she has been unfaithful to me and has acted shamefully.

Indeed, she said, “I will run to the ones who love me;

they are the ones who give me my food and water,

my wool and linen,

my olive oil and my wine to drink.”

6 So I am about to do things that will be as though I am blocking her road with thorn-bushes and building a wall in her way

so that she does not know what to do.

7 She will repeatedly seek the ones that she thinks love her,

but she will not find them.

Then she will think, “Perhaps I should return to my actual husband, because I was better off then than I am now.”
8 None of them understand that I, Yahweh, am the one who gave them their grain, wine, and olive oil;
I am the one who gave them abundant silver and gold, which they used to make images for Baal.
9 Therefore, I will come back and take my grain from them when it is ripe and the juice of my grapes in their season.
I will take from them the wool and linen that I gave to them to cover their bodies.
10 Now I will expose how shameful they have been in front of those gods that they think love them.
No one will be able to rescue them when I punish them.
11 I will stop all of their celebrations:
their yearly feasts, their new moon festivals, their Sabbath days,
and all of their other regular festivals.
12 I will destroy all their grapevines and fig trees, which they said were payments to them from those gods who loved them.
I will turn those productive plants into a wild thicket, and wild animals will eat the fruit that remains.
13 I will punish them for all the times that they burned incense to honor the various Baals.
They decorated themselves with rings and other jewelry and went to worship those false gods that they thought loved them, but they forgot about me!
—this is what Yahweh declares.
14 However, listen! I am working to persuade my people to worship me again;
I will make them experience what their ancestors did in the wilderness and I will speak tenderly to them.
15 I will give their vineyards back to them from that starting point, and I will cause the Valley of Achor, instead of a place of trouble, to become a place where they will confidently expect me to do good things for them.

They will respond to me there willingly as they did long ago, when I freed them from being slaves in Egypt.
16 At that time—this is what Yahweh declares—they will call me 'My Husband.'
They will not call me 'My Baal' anymore.
17 I will not allow them to speak the names of the Baals, and they will never use those names again.
18 At that time I will make an agreement for them with the wild animals, the birds, and the creatures that crawl on the ground.
I will also remove weapons of war such as bows and swords from the land.
The result will be that my people will be able to live safely and peacefully.
19 They will belong to me forever as though we are married.
I will do what is right and fair toward them, and I will faithfully love them and act mercifully toward them.
20 I will be faithful to them, and they will truly know me, Yahweh.
21 At that time, when they ask for what they need,
I will respond—this is what Yahweh declares—
I will tell the heavens to send rain, and on their part, the heavens will water the earth.
22 Then the earth will produce grain, new wine, and olive oil, and those things will provide for my people, Jezreel.
23 I will establish them in the land as my own.
I will pity Lo Ruhama, and I will say to those whom I called Lo Ammi, "You are my people," and they, yes, they will say to me, "You are our God."

3 1 Then Yahweh said to me, "Go and show to your wife that you still love her, even though she has been committing adultery with another man who is her lover. That will show that I still love the people of Israel, even though they worship other gods and love to eat raisin cakes in feasts that honor those gods." 2 So I bought her back for myself for 15 pieces of silver and 335 liters of barley. 3 Then I said to her, "You will live here with me for a long time. During that time, you must not be a prostitute, and you must not have sex with any man, and I will do the same concerning you." 4 This will show that in a similar way, the Israelites will live for a long time without a king, without leaders, without sacrifices, without sacred stone pillars, without a sacred vest for a priest, and without household idols. 5 But later, the people of Israel will again worship Yahweh their God and want to obey him and their king who is a descendant of King David. In that future time, they will revere Yahweh and marvel at how he has blessed them.

1 You Israelite people, listen to what Yahweh says!
Listen, because he is bringing charges against you people who live in this land, as follows:
no one is honest,
no one acts faithfully as they promised in the covenant,
and no one knows God in this land.
2 Instead, people curse and lie and murder and steal and commit adultery.
This is happening everywhere! People are killing other people continually!
3 Because of all these things, the land dries up, and everyone who lives in it wastes away, along with the wild animals and the birds in the sky.
Even the fish in the sea are diminishing.
4 Certainly there is no one who can dispute these charges, and there is no one who can say that I am wrong.
But you are like people who argue with a priest when he corrects you!
5 Bad things will happen to you during the day, and also at night, and to your prophets, as well.
I am going to destroy the nation of Israel, which is like a mother to you.
6 I will destroy my people because they have refused to know me, and because, on their part, they have refused to know me,

I will no longer allow them to be my kingdom of priests.
The nation of Israel has rejected the laws of their God;
therefore, for my part, also I will reject her people.
7 The more the people increased in number, the more they sinned against me.
So instead of honoring them, I will make people despise them.
8 The priests feed on the sin offerings that my people bring,
and each one craves for my people to sin even more.
9 I will punish the priests along with the other people.
I will punish them for how they have behaved;
yes, I will pay them back for what they have done.
10 They will eat, but they will still go hungry.
They act like prostitutes, but they will not have more children, because they have abandoned obeying Yahweh.
11 Having sex with prostitutes, drinking wine and new wine, all make people unable to think clearly.

12 My people ask their wooden idols to guide them, and they think that a wooden stick will answer them.
They do this because they have strongly desired to be unfaithful sexually and so they are also unfaithful spiritually, and because they are unfaithful in these ways, their God no longer directs or protects them.
13 They burn sacrifices and incense on the mountaintops, on the hills, and under oak trees, poplar trees, and terebinth trees, because the shade there is pleasant.
That is why your daughters have become prostitutes and your daughters-in-law have been unfaithful to your sons.

14 I will not punish your daughters for being prostitutes or your daughters-in-law for being unfaithful to their husbands, because the men themselves go off to be with prostitutes and offer sacrifices with the prostitutes who serve at the idol shrines.

The people as a whole does not understand what is right, and so Yahweh will destroy them.

15 Even though you people of Israel are being unfaithful to Yahweh by worshiping idols,
you should not cause the people of Judah to sin also.
Warn them, "Do not go to Gilgal or go up to Beth Aven to worship idols there.
Do not swear oaths there, saying, 'I swear by the life of Yahweh that I will do what I am promising.'" 16 I say this because the Israelite people behave as stubbornly as a young cow that refuses to obey.
So Yahweh certainly will not allow them to freely graze like a gentle lamb in a broad meadow.
17 No, the people of Ephraim have chosen to worship idols.
We can only leave them alone.
18 They have drunk all that there was to drink;
they have fully prostituted themselves.
Their leaders have absolutely loved shameful things.
19 They will go into exile as though a powerful wind has swept them away, and all of their sacrifices to idols will only make them ashamed.

5 1 You priests, listen to this!
You people of Israel, pay attention!
You members of the royal court, listen carefully, because I am going to judge you.
because you have enticed the people to sin at Mizpah, and you have made them sin at Mount Tabor.
2 Those who have rebelled against me have killed many people, so I will punish all of them.
3 I myself know all about you, people of Ephraim;
I can see everything that the people of Israel do.

Indeed, people of Ephraim, you have now been unfaithful to me by worshiping idols, yes, the people of Israel have made themselves unacceptable to me.

4 They prefer to do evil things, so they refuse to worship their God any more.

They do this because a strong desire to be physically and spiritually unfaithful is working among them, and they do not know Yahweh.

5 The way that the people of Israel are so proud makes this clear to everyone.

The people of Israel and Ephraim will fail because of how much they have sinned, and the people of Judah will fail with them.

6 They will bring their flocks and herds and try to appease Yahweh by making sacrifices to him, but he will not receive them because he has removed himself from them.

7 Those nations have been like an unfaithful wife to Yahweh because their people are like illegitimate children; they do not belong to Yahweh.

So now, when they bring their sacrifices to the New Moon Festival,

Yahweh will kill them as they kill the animals that they bring to sacrifice.

8 Blow a horn in Gibeah;

blow a trumpet in Ramah!

Sound the alarm at Beth Aven!

The troops will follow behind you, Benjamin!

9 The people of Ephraim will become desolate when I punish them.

I have declared to the tribes of Israel

what will certainly happen.

10 The leaders of Judah act like people who steal land by moving boundary markers.

Therefore, I will punish them abundantly.

11 I will cause the people of Ephraim to suffer greatly when I judge them because they were determined to worship worthless idols.

12 So I will destroy the people of Ephraim, just as moths eat through wool clothing.
I will destroy the people of Judah, just as rot eats through wood.

13 Then the leaders of Ephraim realized that their nation was weak and the leaders of Judah realized that their people were suffering.
Then the leaders of Ephraim sent messengers to the king of Assyria, asking for his help.
But that king cannot help Ephraim or take away the suffering of Judah.

14 This is because I will be like a lion to the people of Ephraim;
I will be like a young lion to the people of Judah.
I will be the one who will cause soldiers to kill many of them, and I will stop caring for them.
I will cause soldiers to take them away, and no one will rescue them.

15 Then I will leave them to themselves, until they admit that they have sinned and that they need me to forgive them.
When they are greatly suffering,
then they will sincerely ask me to help them.

6 1 They will say to each other, "Come, let us start obeying Yahweh again!
Although he is the one who has hurt us, he will heal us;
he has wounded us, but he will bandage our wounds.

2 In a very short time he will make us strong again;
in just a few days he will restore us so that we may live in his presence.

3 We need to know Yahweh; let us try hard to do that.
He will certainly help us, as surely as the dawn comes every morning.
He will restore us again like the rain,

as the spring rain restores the land."

4 Yahweh says, "You people of Ephraim and you people of Judah,

I do not know what more I can do with you!

You say that you will faithfully love me, but you love me about as long as the mist stays in the morning;

you love me about as long as the dew stays that is gone early in the day.

5 That is why I sent my prophets to tell you to reform yourselves;

the messages that I told them to speak warned you that soldiers were coming to kill you.

What I have justly decided to do will happen as surely as the sun will shine.

6 I do all of this because I want you to faithfully love me rather than to offer me sacrifices;

I want you to truly know me rather than to give me burnt offerings.

7 However, on their part, they broke my covenant, just as Adam did;

in that way they were unfaithful to me.

8 Gilead is a city full of people who do wicked things.

People murder others there so often, it is as though their footprints leave trails of blood everywhere.

9 The priests are like bandits who lie in wait to ambush a man;

they join together to murder people on the road to Shechem.

Indeed, they have done terrible and shameful things.

10 Among the people of Israel I have seen something horrible:

the people of Ephraim stopped worshiping me and became prostitutes.

Yes, the people of Israel made themselves unacceptable to me by sinning.

11 People of Judah, I have also appointed a time when I will judge you.

Whenever I consider enabling my people to prosper again,

7 1 whenever I want to restore the people of Israel,

I see how sinfully the people of Ephraim act and all of the evil things that the people of the city of Samaria do.

Indeed, they constantly deceive others, thieves break into houses, and gangs of robbers steal from people in the streets.

2 They never stop to think that I remember every evil thing that they do.
It is as though they have piled up their sins all around them;
it is as though those sins are always right in front of me.

3 The people of Israel please their king by doing evil things, and they please the royal officials by telling lies.

4 All the people are unfaithful to me like an adulterous spouse.
They are so intent on doing evil things that they are like a burning oven that a baker has heated;
it is so hot that the baker does not need to stir the fire from when he starts to knead the dough until he adds leavening to it.

5 On the day that they celebrate the king's festival, the officials made him drunk with wine until he became sick.
Then the king joined in with those who mock me.

6 Indeed, the officials strongly desire to murder the king, as though their hearts were as hot as an oven.
They remain angry through the night, like an oven that the baker neglects while he sleeps; but then in the morning it blazes up like a roaring fire.

7 All of those conspirators are so passionate to be important that they are like hot ovens, and they destroy their rulers.
All of their kings die violently;
yet not one of them calls out to me to help him.

8 The leaders of Ephraim make alliances with foreign nations, so Ephraim has become ruined, like a pancake that someone has failed to turn over.

9 Foreigners have drained away their resources, yet the people of Israel do not realize it.
Their nation is becoming powerless, like a man who is growing old and weak, yet they do not realize it.

10 The way that the people of Israel are so proud makes this clear to everyone.
Yet they have not begun again to worship Yahweh their God, and they have not tried to know me despite all of these things that have happened.

11 The leaders of Ephraim are like a dove, foolish and stupid.
They asked the leaders of Egypt to help them;
then they asked the leaders of Assyria to help them.

12 Whenever they go to seek help, I will not allow them to succeed.
I will be like a hunter who catches birds with a net and pulls them down from the sky.
I will punish them,
just as I warned their assembly that I would do.

13 Terrible things will happen to them because they have stopped obeying me!
I will destroy them because they have rebelled against me!
For my part, I wanted to rescue them, but for their part, they just tell lies about me.

14 They do not sincerely cry out to me to help them; instead they just lie on their beds and wail.
They slash themselves to offer their blood to pagan gods, hoping to get grain and new wine, but they reject me.

15 As for me, I trained them and made them strong, but now they plan to do evil things to me.

16 They ask for help, but not from me, the Most High God;
they are as unreliable as a bow that does not shoot straight.
Their officials will die in battle because what they have said has made me very angry.
The people of Egypt will laugh at them for this."

8 1 Yahweh said to me, "Blow a trumpet to warn the people!
My people have rejected the agreement that I made with them, and they have rebelled against obeying my laws.

Therefore, an enemy is ready to invade the land where my people live, as a vulture watches its prey.

2 The Israelites cry out to me,

'Our God, we people of Israel know you!'

3 But the people of Israel have rejected what is good, so an enemy will chase after them.

4 As for them, they set up kings without asking me, and they chose leaders, but I did not approve them.

They used their silver and gold to make idols for themselves, and that is why I will destroy them."

5 "I reject your calf idol, you people of Samaria!

I am very angry with you.

You need to stop acting in ways that make you guilty!

6 And it was in Israel that a craftsman made that idol!

It is not God!

I will make sure that someone smashes that calf idol of Samaria into pieces.

7 What the people of Israel have done is completely foolish, like trying to plant wind.

What they get in return will be terrible, like reaping a whirlwind.

Their plans will produce nothing good, like grain stalks that have no heads and that can produce no flour.

Even if they did produce something, foreigners would come and steal it all.

8 The other nations have already stolen Israel.

Even now the Israelites live as one of the other nations, and there is nothing special about them at all.

9 Indeed, the Israelites have gone to Assyria like a lonely wild donkey looking for a mate.

The people of Ephraim have paid other nations to be their allies.

10 But although they pay other nations to help them,

I will now begin to punish them.
They will soon suffer greatly because of everything that the great king will demand from them.
11 Because the people of Ephraim built many altars on which to make sacrifices to take away sin, those altars became places where they sinned even more.
12 Even if I wrote down my law for them ten thousand times, they would still consider that it did not apply to them.
13 They offer sacrifices to me and eat some of the meat from those sacrifices, but I, Yahweh, am not pleased with those people.
I remember the wrong things that they have done and now I will punish them because they have sinned.
As for them, they will become slaves again like they were in Egypt.
14 The people of Israel have forgotten God, the one who created their nation, and they have built palaces for themselves instead.
The people of Judah have built many cities with strong walls to protect them, but I will send fire to burn down their cities and it will completely consume their strong towers."

9 1 You people of Israel, do not celebrate joyfully the way other peoples do!
I say this because you have been unfaithful to your God.
You have loved the gifts that you thought were payments from your idols at every threshing floor where people thresh grain.
2 Soon the people will not have enough grain or wine, and the new wine will be gone.
3 The people of Israel will not continue to live in the land that belongs to Yahweh.
Instead, the people of Ephraim will go back to being slaves as they were in Egypt, and in Assyria they will eat food that God has forbidden them to eat.

4 They will not pour out wine offerings to Yahweh, and their sacrifices will not please him.
Their sacrifices will be like the food that is in the house with a dead body;
everyone who eats that food will be unacceptable to God, because they will eat that food only for themselves;
they will not bring it into Yahweh's temple.
5 You will not be able to celebrate the feasts that Yahweh appointed or the festivals that honor Yahweh.
6 Look! Even if some of them escape when the Assyrians destroy their towns, people in Egypt will capture them, and people in the Egyptian capital city of Memphis will bury them.
Weeds will grow over the silver objects that they treasure, and thorns will fill their tents.
7 Now is the time for God to punish the Israelites;
now is the time for him to do to them as they deserve.
When he does, the people of Israel will know it!
You say that the prophet is a fool and that the one whom the Spirit inspires is insane, but that is only because you have sinned so much and because you are very hostile toward God.
8 Prophets watch over the people of Ephraim because my God told them to do so,
but people set traps for them everywhere they go.
People are hostile to them, even in the temple of their God.
9 The people have become very grievously sinful, just as the people of Gibeah were long ago.
God will not forget how wickedly they have acted;
he will punish them for their sins.
10 Yahweh says, "When I chose Israel,
I was as pleased with them as someone who finds grapes in a desert.
When I first looked at your ancestors, they were as delightful as the very first figs that grow on a young fig tree.

But then they started worshiping the Baal of Peor.
They gave themselves completely to that disgusting idol, and they became as disgusting as the idol that they loved.
11 What the people of Ephraim are most proud of will quickly disappear.
No one will conceive, carry, or give birth to children.
12 Even if they do raise children,
I will take away every one of them so that none survive.
Yes, indeed, it will be terrible for them when I abandon them!
13 I have decreed for Ephraim just as I have decreed for Tyre, that city in its beautiful place, that the people of Ephraim will bring out their own children for their enemies to slaughter."
14 Hosea says, "So Yahweh, give to these people—but what can I ask you to give them?
Give them miscarriages and no way to nurse babies." 15 Yahweh says, "Because of all of the wicked things that my people have done at Gilgal, that is where I started to hate them.
Because of all of the evil things that they do,
I will drive them out of my land.
I will not love them any longer;
all of their leaders rebel against me.
16 I have struck the people of Ephraim so that they are as infertile as grapevines that have shriveled roots and cannot produce fruit.
Even if the women do give birth,
I will kill the children whom they love."
17 Hosea says, "The God whom I worship will reject the people of Israel because they have not obeyed him.

Therefore, they will wander among the other nations, away from their home."

10 1 The people of Israel are selfish, like a productive vine that establishes its fruit for itself.
The more the people prospered,
the more altars they built to worship idols.
The more their land produced,
the more elaborate they made their pillars to idols.
2 The people of Israel deceive themselves;
now they must suffer for their sins.
Yahweh will be the one to tear down their altars and smash their sacred pillars.
3 Indeed, soon they will say, "We have no king because we did not honor Yahweh.
However, even if we had a king,
he could not do anything to help us."
4 The people of Israel make false promises; they swear empty oaths and make agreements that they do not keep.
So people accuse each other to the judges and the number of these harmful legal disputes is multiplying throughout the land like poisonous weeds in a plowed field.
5 The people who live in Samaria will be afraid about what will happen to the calf idol of Beth Aven.
Indeed, the people who worship it will mourn over it, and the idolatrous priests who serve that idol will cry out about it and about how splendid it was, because it will be splendid no more.
6 The enemy will carry the idol itself to Assyria as a gift for its king.
The people of Ephraim will be ashamed, yes, all of the people of Israel will feel humiliated because what they had believed and lived by was wrong.

7 The king of Samaria will be no more.

He will go away like a chip of wood floating away on the surface of the water.

8 Yahweh will destroy the places on the hilltops, like Beth Aven, where the people of Israel sin by worshiping idols.

Thorns and weeds will grow up and cover their altars.

Then the people will beg the mountains and hills,

"Fall down on us and cover us to protect us from Yahweh!"

9 Israel, you have been sinning ever since your ancestors did those terrible things at Gibeah, and you have continued doing such things ever since then.

War will certainly overtake all of the wicked people in Gibeah.

10 Yahweh says, "When I decide to act, I will punish them.

I will gather armies from other nations to attack them and capture them because of their double sin.

11 The people of Ephraim were like a young cow that someone had trained and that was happy to walk around on the stalks of grain.

Its neck was flawless because no one had ever put a yoke on it.

But for my part, I will ignore its beautiful neck.

Now I will make the people of Ephraim work hard, as though they were a young cow that I was harnessing for the first time.

It will be as though the people of Judah will have to plow, yes, it will be as though the people of Jacob will have to break up the hard ground with no one to help them.

12 Start doing what is right, as though you were planting good seeds, and it will be as though you were harvesting the crop from those good seeds when I reward you for being faithful to me.

Do the hard work of changing your ways as though you were plowing new ground.

Now is when you must start to know me.

Then I will come and abundantly bless you by doing what is right for you.

13 But instead of that, you have done what is wicked, which is like planting poisonous crops, and it is as though you have harvested and eaten those crops because what you have done has made you lie to each other and treat each other unjustly.
You did this because you deceived yourselves, thinking that you knew the best way to do things and that your many soldiers would protect you.
14 But they will not; your enemies will attack you,
and they will destroy all of your strong cities,
just as Shalman destroyed the city of Beth Arbel, when his soldiers bashed mothers to death on top of their children.
15 I will do the same thing to you, people of Bethel, because you are extremely wicked.
When the battle begins at dawn,
the enemy will completely destroy the king of Israel.

11 1 When the Israelite people were young as a nation, I loved them as a father loves a son, and I brought them out of Egypt.
2 However, the more I called to the Israelites, the more they ignored me.
Those people kept offering sacrifices to the Baal gods and burning incense to honor the statues of them.
3 The people of Ephraim were like a small child and I was like the one who taught them to walk.
It was as though I carried them in my arms, but they did not understand that I was the one who took care of them.
4 I gently guided them, because I loved them.
I was to them like a loving father who lifts his infant to his cheek and I bent down to feed them.
5 The Israelites will not return to being slaves in the land of Egypt, but now the king of Assyria will rule over them, because they refused to worship me any more.

6 Enemies will attack the people in their cities with swords and will destroy the bars of their gates.
Their enemies will kill them because of their evil plans.
7 My people are determined to no longer worship me.
Though they call out to me, the Most High,
I will certainly not help them.
8 And yet, I cannot bring myself to give you up, Ephraim!
I cannot just let you go, Israel!
I cannot completely destroy you the way I destroyed the cities of Admah and Zeboiim!
I am in anguish deep within me;
I love you much too strongly to do this!
9 Although I am extremely angry, I will not act accordingly;
I will not destroy the people of Ephraim again!
I will do this because I am God, not a human being.
I am the Holy One who lives among you, and I will not come to destroy you even though I am extremely angry."
10 Hosea said, "The Israelites will return to Yahweh.
He will call out with a loud, powerful voice, and when it is he who calls out, his people will come back, deeply respectful, from the lands around the sea to the west.
11 Others of his people will come from Egypt as timid as a bird, and others will come from the land of Assyria as docile as a dove."
I will settle them in their own homes again. This will happen, because I, Yahweh, have declared it.
12 The people of Ephraim have constantly lied to me, yes, the people of Israel are continually treacherous.
However, the people of Judah still obey God;
they remain faithful to the Holy One.

12 1 The people of Ephraim do what is useless;
yes, they keep busy all day doing worthless things.
They constantly tell lies and do violent things.
First they make a treaty with Assyria, and then they send olive oil to Egypt to get help from that nation.
2 Yahweh is bringing a legal case against Judah as well, and he will punish the descendants of Jacob for how they have lived.
He will give them what they deserve for the things they have done.
3 When their ancestor Jacob was still in his mother's womb, he grabbed the heel of his brother Esau because he wanted to be the firstborn.
When Jacob grew up and became strong, he wrestled with God.
4 He struggled with an angel who appeared to him, and he won.
Then Jacob wept and begged the angel to bless him.
God met Jacob at Bethel, and there God spoke with him.
5 That one is Yahweh, the commander of the heavenly armies;
"Yahweh" is the name that he commanded us always to use for him.
6 So you, people of Israel, restore yourselves as God's people by obeying your God!
Be faithful to him and act justly toward others, and always trust in your God.

7 But the merchants among you use dishonest scales;
they love to cheat people.
8 The people of Ephraim boast and say,
"We have become very rich!
We have gained great possessions for ourselves.
No one can find anything wrong in all the work we have done, that is, nothing that would count as sin for us."

9 "I am Yahweh your God, the one who brought your ancestors out of Egypt.
I will make you live in tents again, just as your people did when they celebrated the Celebration of Shelters.

10 I told the prophets what to say to the people, and I am the one who showed them many times what I am going to do.
I used the prophets to teach my people through stories and examples."

11 The people of Gilead are certainly wicked;
they are now completely worthless.
The people sacrifice bulls at Gilgal, but enemies will tear down their altars and leave them looking like piles of stones in a plowed field.

12 Your ancestor Jacob ran away to the land of Aram to escape from his brother Esau.
There he, Israel, worked as a shepherd to pay for a wife, and he kept on tending sheep to pay for a wife.

13 Later Yahweh used the prophet Moses to bring the Israelites out of Egypt, and through that prophet, Yahweh took care of them.

14 But the people of Ephraim have made their Lord extremely angry.
Their Lord will hold them responsible for all of the people whom they have killed, and he will give them what they deserve for all of the ways that they have offended him.

13

1 In the past, when the leaders of Ephraim spoke, many people became afraid.
The leaders of Israel became arrogant.
Then they caused the people to sin by worshiping Baal,
and so they must die.

2 Now they keep on sinning more and more;
they use their silver to make metal idols for themselves.
They cleverly design the statues, but all of them are only the work of human craftsmen.
The people who worship these idols talk to them.

They sacrifice human beings to them, and they kiss these calf-idols!

3 Because of these things, those people will quickly disappear like clouds that form in the morning and then vanish, like dew that the sun dries up early in the day, like chaff that the wind blows away from the threshing floor, like smoke that drifts out through a window.

4 Yahweh says to his people, "Even so, I am Yahweh your God, the one who brought your ancestors out of the land of Egypt.
You should acknowledge no god except me,
and no one else can save you.

5 I was the one who cared for your ancestors when they were in the very dry desert land.

6 When I fed them, they ate until they were full;
when they ate until they were full, they became proud.
That is why they stopped thinking about me.

7 So I will be as fierce toward them as a lion;
I will be like a leopard that lurks to ambush them beside the road.

8 I will attack them as furiously as a mother bear whose cubs someone has stolen;
it will be as though I will rip their chests open.
Right then and there I will completely destroy them, like a lioness devouring her prey, like wild animals tearing their victims apart.

9 You have caused me to destroy you, people of Israel, because you rebelled against me, your only helper.

10 You have a king, but it looks like he is unable to save you in any of your cities.
Your ancestors said to me, 'Give us a king and officials,' and I did so.
But those rulers cannot help you now.

11 I become angry when you request a king, but I give you a king.
Later, I become angry again, so I take him away.

12 I have kept a record of all of the evil things that you people of Ephraim have done;

yes, I have stored up an account of all of your sins.

13 You people of Ephraim will suffer like a woman does when she gives birth, but you are like a foolish baby who refuses to come out when it is time to be born.

14 I would have rescued you from going to the grave;

yes, I wanted to save you from dying.

But now, you must suffer as with a plague and die!

The enemy must destroy you and send you to your graves!

I cannot decide differently about this.

15 Even though the people of Ephraim have prospered more than the other tribes,

I, Yahweh, will send enemies who will come from the east like a scorching wind out of the desert.

They will destroy all of Ephraim's sources of wealth, and they are the ones who will carry away everything valuable that the people of Ephraim own.

16 The people of Samaria are guilty and so I must punish them because they have rebelled against me, the God whom they promised to worship.

Their enemies will kill them with swords;

they will smash their little children on the ground, and they will cut open their pregnant women."

14

1 You people of Israel, begin again to worship and obey Yahweh your God.

You must do this because terrible things are happening to you because you have been sinning.

2 Decide what you will say, and determine that you will obey Yahweh.

Say to him, "Please forgive us for all of the wrong things that we have done, and accept what we will do now to please you, and please accept what we say as we promise to obey you instead of sacrifices of animals.

3 We know that Assyria will not save us and it will not benefit us to ride on war horses.
We will never again say, 'You are our gods' to the idols that we have made.
You, Yahweh, are the one who acts mercifully toward orphans."

4 Yahweh says, "When they say that to me, I will forgive them for turning away from me;
I will love them generously,
because I will no longer be angry with them.

5 I will refresh the people of Israel just as dew refreshes the ground.
They will prosper and become beautiful and they will become as strong and stable as the trees of Lebanon.

6 They will become widely influential;
they will be as majestic as an olive tree, and they will be as delightful as the aroma of the cedar trees in Lebanon."

7 The people of Israel will come back and live under Yahweh's protection.
They will grow abundant grain again;
they will become as productive as a vineyard.
People will speak well of Yahweh, like they speak well of the fine wine from Lebanon.

8 Yahweh says, "People of Ephraim, I want nothing more to do with idols!
I am the one who responds to you and watches over you.
I am the source of everything good in your life, like a tree that always stays green and always produces fruit."

9 Anyone who is truly wise should understand these things that I have written.
Anyone who has good sense must be sure that he knows them.
Because what Yahweh tells us to do is right, and people who do what is right will obey him, but people who rebel against him will ruin themselves by not doing what he tells us to do.

Joel

1 1 I am Joel son of Pethuel. This is a message that Yahweh gave to me.

2 You leaders of Israel, and everyone else who lives in this country, listen to this message!
Nothing like this has ever happened during the time that we have lived or during the time when our ancestors lived.
3 Tell your children about it, and tell your children to tell it to their children,
and tell your grandchildren to tell it to their children.
4 Tell them this:
The first swarm of locusts came and cut many of the leaves of the crops;
then another swarm came and ate the rest of the leaves, then hopping locusts came and ate what they had left,
and finally, another swarm came and they destroyed everything else.
5 You people who are drunk, wake up and cry!
Cry loudly, all of you who drink wine, because all the grapes are ruined,
and so there will be no new wine!
6 Huge swarms of locusts have entered our country.
They are like a powerful army that has very many soldiers;
no one can count them.
The locusts have teeth that are as sharp as the teeth of lions!
7 They have destroyed our grapevines and our fig trees by stripping off and eating all the bark, with the result that the branches are white and bare.

8 Cry and wail as a young woman does when the young man to whom she was engaged has died.
9 There is no more flour or wine for us to offer as sacrifices at Yahweh's temple, so the priests who serve Yahweh are mourning.
10 The locusts have ruined the crops in the fields.
It is as though the ground itself is mourning because the grain is gone;
there will be no grapes to make wine, and there is no more olive oil.
11 You farmers, despair!
You who take care of grapevines, cry loudly, because the crops in the field are gone;
there is no wheat or barley growing any more.
12 The grapevines and the fig trees have withered, and the pomegranate trees, palm trees, and apricot trees have also dried up.
The people are no longer joyful.
13 You priests, put on rough sack clothes and wail.
You who serve my God by offering sacrifices on the altar, wear those sack clothes all night to show that you are mourning, because there is no flour or wine to be offered at the temple of your God.
14 Set apart a day for when the people should go without food.
Tell the leaders and the other people to gather at the temple and to cry out to Yahweh there.
15 It will soon be the time when Yahweh, who is the Almighty God, will punish us, when he will cause us to experience more disasters.
That will be a terrible time!
16 Our crops are already gone, and no one is rejoicing at all at the temple of our God.
17 When we plant seeds, they do not grow;
they dry up in the ground,
so there are no crops to harvest.

Our barns are empty;
there is no grain to store in them.
18 Our cattle groan, searching for a pasture with some grass to eat but not finding any.
The sheep also bleat because they are suffering.
19 Yahweh, I cry out to you, because it is as though a fire has completely burned our pastures and our forests.
20 The wild animals also are desperate for you to help them, because all the streams have dried up.
The dryness is like a fire burning up the wilderness pastures.

2 1 Blow horns on Mount Zion,
God's sacred hill in Jerusalem!
Shout to the people of Judah that they should be afraid and tremble, because it will soon be the time for Yahweh to punish us further.
2 That will be a very dark and gloomy day;
A huge swarm of locusts forms a black cloud, making it very dark.
The swarm spreads over the mountains like the light of dawn;
they are like a mighty army.
Nothing like this has ever happened before,
and nothing like this will ever happen again.
3 It is as though the locusts set everything on fire wherever they go.
In front of them, the land was as beautiful as the garden of Eden, but behind them the land is like a desert,
and nothing is able to withstand them.
4 The locusts resemble horses and they run like war horses.
5 Leaping over the mountaintops, they make a noise like rumbling chariots, like a mighty army that is preparing for a battle, or like the roar of a fire that burns up stubble in a field.

6 When people see them coming,
they become very pale and frightened.

7 The locusts run and climb over walls like soldiers do;
each one continues on its way and never turns aside from its course.

8 They rush straight ahead without pushing each other.
People try to fight against them,
but that does not cause them to stop.

9 They swarm over the city walls and enter our houses;
they enter through our windows as thieves do.

10 It is as though they cause the earth to shake and the sky to tremble as they come.
The sun and the moon become dark, and the stars do not shine because there are so many locusts in the sky.

11 Yahweh commands this army of countless locusts, and they obey him powerfully.
This time during which Yahweh is judging and punishing us is very terrible, with the result that it seems that no one can survive it.

12 But Yahweh says,

"In spite of these disasters that you have experienced,
you can still reconcile yourselves to me in your inner being.
Weep, and mourn, and fast to show that you are sorry that you have abandoned me."

13 Do not tear only your clothes to show that you are sorry;
more importantly, show in your inner being that you are truly sorry and in that way reconcile yourselves to Yahweh your God.
Do this because Yahweh is merciful and kind;

he does not quickly become angry;
instead, he greatly and faithfully loves us,
and he does not like to punish us.
14 It is possible that he will change his mind about punishing you and, instead, act mercifully toward you.
If he does that, he will bless you by giving you plenty of grain and wine so that you can offer some of those things for sacrifices to our God, Yahweh.
15 Blow the signal horns on Mount Zion!
Gather the people together!
Set apart time to fast, to show that you are sorry for your sins.
16 Gather everyone together and prepare them for a special meeting for Yahweh.
Bring everyone—
the old people and the children, even the babies;
yes, even summon bridegrooms and brides from their rooms.
17 Tell the priests who serve Yahweh to cry all the way from the entrance of the temple to the altar and to pray this:
"Yahweh, be merciful to us, your people;
do not allow people from other nations to despise us;
do not allow them to rule over us and say among themselves,
'Their God has abandoned them!'" 18 Then Yahweh showed that he cared deeply about his people and that he would act mercifully toward them.

19 When the people prayed,

Yahweh answered and said,
"I will give you plenty of grain and wine and olive oil,
and you will be satisfied.
I will no longer allow other nations to insult you.
20 When an army from the north comes to attack you,

I will force them to continue past Jerusalem into the desert.
Some will go into the Dead Sea in the east, and some will go into the Mediterranean Sea in the west.
There they will all die, and their bodies will stink powerfully, because they were powerful in what they did."

21 Do not be afraid, people, for what might happen to the land.

22 You can rejoice, because Yahweh will be powerful in what he does! And the wild animals should not be afraid, because the meadows will soon become green again;
the fig trees and other trees will be full of fruit, and the grapevines will be covered with grapes.

23 You people of Jerusalem, rejoice about what Yahweh, your God, will do for you.
He will send rain to deliver you at the right time—before planting and before harvesting, as he did previously.

24 The ground where you thresh the grain will be covered with grain, and your vats where you store the fresh grape juice and olive oil will be full.

25 Yahweh said, "I will repay you for everything that those great swarms of locusts destroyed, that enormous army that I sent to attack you.

26 Then you will eat until your stomachs are full.
Then you will praise me, Yahweh, your God, for the wonderful things that I have done for you, and never again will I let others shame you, my people.

27 When that happens, you will know that I am always among you, that I am Yahweh, your God,
and that there is no other God.
Never again will I let others shame you."

28 "Some time later, I will give my Spirit to many people.

You sons and daughters will proclaim messages that come directly from me.
Your old men will have dreams that come from me, and your young men will have visions that come from me.
29 At that time, I will generously give my Spirit even to servants, both men and women.
30 I will do unusual things on the earth and in the sky.
On the earth, there will be much bloodshed, and there will be very large fires and smoke that resembles huge clouds.
31 In the sky, the sun will become dark, and the moon will become as red as blood.
Those things will happen before that great and terrible day when I, Yahweh, come to judge all people.
32 And I will do this: I will save everyone who worships me.
As I have said before, 'On Mount Zion in Jerusalem I will make a way for them to escape;
those whom I have chosen will survive.'"

3 1 Yahweh says this:

"At that time, I will bring back the people whom their enemies took away from Jerusalem and from other places in Judah.
2 Then in the Valley of Jehoshaphat I will gather together the people of all of the other nations;
there I will judge and punish them because they scattered my Israelite people and forced them to go to other countries, and because they divided up my land among themselves.
3 I will judge them also because they played games of chance to determine who would get each of my people.
They traded some of the Israelite boys for prostitutes, and they sold some of the Israelite girls to get money to buy wine, and they drank it.

4 You people of the cities of Tyre and Sidon, and you people of Philistia—you have no reason to be angry with me. You are behaving as if you are trying to avenge yourselves on me for something. If that is what you are doing, I will very quickly do the same thing to you.
5 You took the silver and gold and other valuable things from my temple and put them into your own temples. 6 You dragged away the people of Jerusalem and other places in Judah, and you took them far away from their homes and sold them to Greek traders.

7 But I will make it possible for my people to return from the places to which you sold them, and I will do to you what you did to them. 8 Then I will cause people to take some of your sons and your daughters and sell them to the people of Judah! And then they will sell some of them to the Sabean people, who live far away. That will certainly happen because I, Yahweh, have said it."

9 Proclaim to the people of all nations,
"Prepare for a war!
Summon your soldiers;
tell them to stand in their battle positions.
10 Take your plows and make swords from them;
take your pruning knives and make spears from them.
Even the weak people must also act like they are strong soldiers.
11 All of you people from the nations that are near Judah must come quickly and gather there."
But Yahweh, when that happens, send your army of angels to attack them!
12 Yahweh says, "The people in the nations near Judah must get ready and come to the Valley of Jehoshaphat.
There I will sit as a judge, and I will punish them.
13 They are like crops that are ready for farmers to harvest them;
so strike them as a farmer swings his sickle to cut the grain.
They are like large piles of grapes in the pits where farmers will press them;
so crush them as a farmer tramples on the grapes.
Punish them severely because they are very wicked.

If all of the wicked things that they have done became grape juice, they are so wicked that the juice would make the vats overflow."

14 There will be huge crowds of people in that Valley of Judgment.
It will soon be the time that Yahweh will punish them in that Valley of Judgment.

15 At that time there will be no light from the sun or moon, and the stars will not shine.

16 From Mount Zion in Jerusalem, Yahweh will speak forcefully; his voice will be like thunder, and his voice will cause the sky and the earth to shake.
But Yahweh will protect his people;
he will be like a strong wall around the people of Israel.

17 Yahweh says, "At that time, you Israelite people will know that I am Yahweh, your God.
I live on Zion, my holy hill.
Jerusalem will be a holy city, and soldiers from other countries will never conquer it again.

18 At that time, there will be vineyards bearing sweet grapes on the mountains, and your cattle and goats on those hills will produce plenty of milk.
The streams in Judah will have abundant water, and a stream will flow from my temple into the Valley of Shittim northeast of the Salt Sea.

19 The armies of Egypt and Edom attacked the people of Judah and killed many people there who had not done anything that was wrong.
As a result, those countries will become wastelands, with no one living there any longer.

20 But there will always be people living throughout Judea

21 and in Jerusalem, forever. I, Yahweh, live on Mount Zion in Jerusalem, and I will not punish people further for killing my people, for which I previously punished them."

Amos

1 1 This is the message that Yahweh gave to me, Amos. I am a man who raises sheep, and I am from the village of Tekoa. Yahweh showed me in a vision this message about Israel during the time when Uzziah was the king of Judah and Jeroboam, the son of Jehoash, was the king of Israel. This was two years before the great earthquake.

2 This is the message:

Yahweh is speaking powerfully, like the roar of a lion, from Zion, in the middle of Jerusalem.
He is causing the pastures where shepherds take care of their sheep to dry up, and even the forests on the top of Mount Carmel will wither.

3 This is what Yahweh says,

"The people of Damascus have sinned again and again,
so I will certainly punish them and will not change my mind about it, because they cruelly attacked the people of the region of Gilead, destroying them as people crush grain with iron-toothed threshing tools.

4 So I will send fire to destroy that place, including the palace that their king Hazael built, and it will burn down the fortresses where his son, their king Ben-Hadad, has his armies.

5 I will smash the gate bars that protect the city of Damascus, and I will get rid of the one who sits on the throne in the Valley of Aven and the king who rules in the region of Beth Eden.
The people of Aram will become captives and will go to the land of Kir," says Yahweh.

6 This is what Yahweh says,

"The people of the city of Gaza have sinned again and again,
so I will certainly punish them and will not change my mind about it, because they captured whole people groups and took them away in order to sell them as slaves to the people of Edom.
7 So I will send fire to destroy the walls of Gaza,
and it will burn down the fortresses of that city.
8 I will get rid of the one who sits on the throne in the city of Ashdod and the king who rules in the city of Ashkelon.
I will also powerfully punish the people of the city of Ekron, and all the people of the region of Philistia who are still alive will die," says my Lord Yahweh.

9 This is what Yahweh says,

"The people of the city of Tyre have sinned again and again,
so I will certainly punish them and will not change my mind about it, because they also captured whole people groups and took them away to Edom, and they ignored the treaty that they had made with another nation.
10 So I will send fire to destroy the walls of Tyre,
and it will burn down the fortresses of that city."

11 This is what Yahweh says,

"The people of Edom have sinned again and again,
so I will certainly punish them and will not change my mind about it, because they attacked the people of Israel, who descended from Esau's brother Jacob, and killed them with swords.
They did not act mercifully toward them at all.
They were constantly wrathful to the people of Israel, and they kept encouraging each other to stay angry with the people of Israel always.
12 So I will send fire to destroy the region of Teman, and it will burn down the fortresses of the city of Bozrah."

13 This is what Yahweh says,

"The people of Ammon have sinned again and again,
so I will certainly punish them and will not change my mind about it, because their soldiers even ripped open the pregnant women of the region of Gilead when they attacked it in order to enlarge their own territory.

14 So I will start a fire that will destroy the walls of the city of Rabbah,
and it will burn down the fortresses of that city.
During that battle, the enemies will shout loudly.
They will come as quickly and violently as a strong windstorm.

15 Then the king of Ammon will become a captive and will go to another country, and his officials will go with him,"
says Yahweh.

2 1 This is what Yahweh says,

"The people of Moab have sinned again and again,
so I will certainly punish them and will not change my mind about it, because they burned the bones of the king of Edom until only lime remained.

2 So I will send a fire to destroy the nation of Moab, and it will burn down the fortresses of the city of Kerioth.
Many people of Moab will die while soldiers shout, blow the ram's horn, and destroy Moab.

3 I will get rid of the ruler of Moab, and I will kill all of Moab's leaders along with him.
That is what I, Yahweh, say."

4 This is what Yahweh says,

"The people of Judah have sinned again and again,

so I will certainly punish them and will not change my mind about it, because they have rejected the instructions that I, Yahweh, gave them, and they have not obeyed my commands.
The false gods that they worship have deceived them,
the same false gods that their ancestors chose to worship.
5 So I will send a fire to destroy the nation of Judah, and it will completely burn down the fortresses of the city of Jerusalem."

6 This is what Yahweh says,

"The people of Israel have sinned again and again,
so I will certainly punish them and will not change my mind about it, because they sell good people in order to get silver, and they sell needy people to get a pair of sandals.
7 They oppress poor people as though they are crushing them into the dirt, and they are unjust to people who are suffering.
A man and his father both have sexual relations with the same servant girl, and so they dishonor me, the holy God.
8 They take the cloaks from poor people as a guarantee that those people would repay what they had borrowed. Then, instead of returning them at the end of the day, they lie down on them beside the altars where they worship.
They force people to pay fines to them, and then use the money to buy wine that they drink in the temple of their God.
9 But I am the one who destroyed the Amorite people group on behalf of your ancestors, even though those people were very tall like cedar trees and very strong like oak trees.
I destroyed them completely.
10 I am the one who brought you Israelite people from being slaves in the land of Egypt, and then I led your ancestors through the wilderness for forty years, so that I could give you the land of the Amorite people as your own.

11 Over the years, I chose some of your young men to become prophets, and others to be Nazirites.
You Israelite people certainly know that this is true! This is what I, Yahweh, declare.
12 But you forced the Nazirites to drink wine, and you commanded the prophets to not tell people the messages that I, Yahweh, give to them!
13 So now I will make you unable to escape what will happen to you right where you are, just as a cart loaded with too much grain cannot move from where it is.
14 At that time, even people who can run quickly will not be able to escape, and even strong people will not be strong enough,
and even warriors will not be able to rescue themselves.
15 Even those who shoot arrows will not be able to stand and do so, and even those who can run quickly will not be able to escape, and even those who have a horse to ride will not be able to save themselves.
16 At that time, even the bravest of the mighty men will run away naked.
This is what I, Yahweh, declare."

3 1 You people of Israel, listen to this message that Yahweh has spoken against you. He is speaking against all of the descendants of the people whom he brought up out of the land of Egypt. He says this:

2 "From among all of the families of people on the earth,
I chose only you to belong to me.
That is why I must now punish you for all of the ways that you have sinned."
3 Two people do not travel together unless they have agreed to do that.
4 A lion does not roar in the forest unless it has caught an animal to eat, and a young lion does not growl in its den unless it has caught something.

5 A bird does not get caught in a trap on the ground unless someone has set a trap for it, and a trap does not spring up to catch an animal
if there is nothing to catch.
6 If someone blows an alarm on a ram's horn in a city, the people there become afraid, and if something terrible happens in a city,
then Yahweh has done it.
7 In the same way, the Lord Yahweh does not do something unless he has first revealed his plans to his servants the prophets.
8 When a lion roars,
everyone is afraid;
similarly, when the Lord Yahweh speaks,
the prophets must proclaim what he says.
9 Yahweh says, "Announce this to the rulers who live in the fortresses in the city of Ashdod and to the rulers who live in the fortresses in the land of Egypt.
Say to them, 'Gather together on the hills around the city of Samaria, and see how the people there are panicking, and how the powerful people are oppressing the other people there.'" 10 Yahweh declares, "The people who live in Samaria do not know how to do what is right.
They violently rob other people, and they fill their fortresses with the things that they steal."

11 So this is what the Lord Yahweh says to them,

"An enemy army will come and surround your land.
They will tear down your fortifications, and they will carry away the valuable things in your fortresses."

12 This is what Yahweh says,

"When a lion attacks a sheep, sometimes a shepherd can grab from the lion only two legs of the sheep or a piece of its ear.

Similarly, only a few of you people of Israel who live in Samaria will survive, along with only a side of a bed or a piece of a couch."

13 The Lord Yahweh, the God who commands the armies of angels, declares,
"Listen, and warn the descendants of Jacob:

14 Be aware that when I punish the people of Israel for the sins that they have committed,

I will also destroy the altars at Bethel.

I will cut off the horns that are on the corners of the main altar, and they will fall to the ground.

15 I will tear down the houses where people live in the winter and the houses where they live in the summer.

I will destroy the beautiful houses that they have decorated with ivory.

I will destroy the mansions.

This will surely happen, because I, Yahweh, have said it."

4

1 Listen to this message, you wealthy women of the city of Samaria!

You have indulged yourselves and grown fat, just as the cattle in the region of Bashan grow fat.

You oppress poor people, and you cause needy people to suffer.

Then you say to your husbands,

"Bring us more wine to drink!"

2 But Yahweh our Lord says, "Because I am holy, I solemnly promise this:

Indeed the time is coming when your enemies will capture you and take you away, as easily as someone catches fish with hooks.

They will do this to every last one of you.

3 The enemies will break through your city walls, and then each of you women will go straight out through the gap in front of her.
Each of you will flee toward Harmon.
I, Yahweh, declare that this will happen.

4 You act like I am telling you this: Go to the town of Bethel and sin!
Go to the town of Gilgal and sin even more!
Bring your animal sacrifices to the altars there every morning, and bring a tenth of your crops every third day!

5 Burn bread that contains yeast as an offering to thank me, and announce the offerings that you bring willingly!
Make sure to loudly brag about them!
I say these things because that is what you Israelite people love to do.
I, Yahweh your Lord, declare this.

6 I am also the one who caused you to have no food at all in any of your cities and towns,
yet you did not stop sinning and become loyal to me again.
I, Yahweh, declare this.

7 I am also the one who kept you from getting rain when there were still three months before your crops were ready to harvest.
Sometimes I sent rain on one town and held it back from another town.
I made it rain on some fields, but I gave no rain to other fields, so the crops there dried up.

8 People from towns without water would stagger to a town that did have water, but they could not get enough water to drink.
But even so you did not stop sinning and become loyal to me again.
I, Yahweh, declare this.

9 I made your crops dry up and have disease.
Locusts ate up everything in your many gardens and vineyards and on your fig trees and olive trees, yet you did not stop sinning and become loyal to me again.

I, Yahweh, declare this.

10 I made many of you become diseased, just as I had done to the people of Egypt long ago.

I caused your enemies to kill your young men in wars, and I let your enemies capture your horses.

I made you smell the stench of their corpses in the camps where they died, yet you did not stop sinning and become loyal to me again.

I, Yahweh, declare this.

11 I destroyed some of you, just as I destroyed the cities of Sodom and Gomorrah long ago.

Those of you who survived were like a burning stick that someone grabs out of a fire before it burns up completely, yet you did not stop sinning and become loyal to me again.

I, Yahweh, declare this.

12 Because of that, you people of Israel, this is what I am going to do to you.

And because I am going to do this to you, prepare to truly meet me, your God, people of Israel!"

13 Prepare yourselves, because this is who he is: he is the one who formed the mountains and who creates the wind.

He reveals to people what they are thinking.

He makes the morning light and the darkness.

Even the highest mountains are small things to him.

He is Yahweh, God who commands the heavenly armies; that is his name!

5

1 You people of Israel, listen to this sad funeral song that I am singing about you:

2 Enemies have devastated my dear people of Israel, and they are unable to defend themselves.

The enemies have come into their land and can do to them whatever they want to do there.

There is no one to help them.

3 You will need this sad funeral song because Yahweh our Lord says this about Israel,

"When your enemies attack you, a town that sends out a thousand soldiers to fight will have only a hundred who survive, and a town that sends out a hundred soldiers will have only ten who survive."

4 But Yahweh also says this to you people of Israel,

"Sincerely worship me again, and then you will live.
5 Do not go to the town of Bethel to worship anything there, and do not go to the town of Gilgal, and do not travel to the town of Beersheba to worship there, either.
Your enemies will certainly take the people of Gilgal away to a foreign country, and the people of Bethel will experience evil things because they worship evil things."

6 Sincerely worship Yahweh again, and then you will live.

If you do not do that, Yahweh will punish you descendants of Joseph as suddenly and fiercely as a fire spreads.
Yahweh will punish you like a fire that destroys everything, and that no one in Bethel will be able to stop.
7 I am talking to you people who do not decide things fairly. Instead, you make life as bitter as the taste of wormwood for people.
You consider that living in the right way is as worthless as trash on the ground.
8 There is one who created the star groups that people call the Pleiades and Orion.
Every morning he turns the darkness into daylight, and every evening he turns the daylight into darkness.
He summons the waters in the sea and pours them out as rain on the surface of the earth.

The name of that one is Yahweh!
9 He suddenly destroys strong people, and destroys the strong walls of cities.
10 You people hate any leader who officially corrects people who do wrong, and you hate anyone who tells the truth.

11 So, because you oppress poor people and force them to give you part of their grain, this is what will happen:

Although you have built large mansions out of cut stone,
you will not live in them.
Although you have planted pleasant vineyards,
you will not drink the wine that comes from them.
12 This will happen because I know that you have sinned very many times, and that the things that you have done are terrible.
You oppress people who do what is right, and you accept bribes to do what is wrong, and at the city gate where leaders decide legal matters you treat poor people unjustly and send them away.
13 So at that time, wise people will be quiet, because it will be customary in that time for people to do evil things.
14 Start doing what is good, and stop doing what is evil, in order that you may stay alive.
If you do that, Yahweh, God the commander of the heavenly armies, will help you, just as you claim that he does.
15 Hate what is evil, and love what is good, and make sure that people decide things fairly at the city gatewhere leaders decide legal matters.
If you do that, maybe Yahweh, God the commander of the heavenly armies, will act kindly toward you descendants of Joseph who are still alive.

16 So this is what Yahweh, God the commander of the heavenly armies, our Lord, says,

"People will be weeping loudly in all the public squares, and in all the streets people will cry out, 'This is terrible! This is terrible!'
People will summon the farmers to come and mourn, and they will summon those who lament at funerals to wail.

17 People will be weeping in all the vineyards, because I will come and punish you." That is what Yahweh says.

18 Terrible things will happen to you people who long for the day when Yahweh comes!
You should not think that the day when Yahweh comes will be good for you.
On that day Yahweh will punish you severely, and nothing good will happen to you.

19 On that day, you will be like a man who runs away from a lion but then meets a bear;
or who flees into his house and rests his hand on the wall, and a snake bites him.

20 On the day when Yahweh judges people, he will surely punish you severely and nothing good will happen to you.
Yes, it will be a time when you are deeply sad; you will not be happy at all.

21 Yahweh says, "I hate your religious celebrations;
I completely reject them, and your assemblies when you gather to worship do not please me at all.

22 Even if you offer to me animals that you completely burn on the altar, and offerings of grain,
I will not accept them.
Even if you offer me your best animals as fellowship sacrifices,
I will pay no attention to them.

23 Your songs are just noise to me; stop singing them.
I refuse to listen to the music that you play on your harps.

24 Instead, you should be treating people justly, and you should always be doing what is right.

You should be doing these things continually, like a stream of water that flows and never stops.

25 You people of Israel, when your ancestors traveled through the wilderness for forty years, they did not bring animal sacrifices and grain offerings to me.
26 Instead, you have carried the idols that you made for yourselves:
Sikkuth, the god you treated as your king,
and Kiyyun, the star-god that you worshiped.
27 So I will force you to go far away, beyond the city of Damascus, into exile."
That is what the one whose name is Yahweh, God the commander of the heavenly armies, says.

6 1 Terrible things will happen to you people in Zion who do not worry about anything, and also to you leaders in the city of Samaria who think that you are safe there.
You are the prominent men of Israel, the nation that thinks it is the most important nation of all.
You are the men to whom the people of Israel come for you to help them.
2 Go and look at the city of Calneh.
Then go on to the city of Hamath Rabbah, and then go down to the city of Gath in Philistia.
Those cities are not better than your kingdoms, and their territory is not larger than yours.
3 Terrible things will happen to you who refuse to think about the day when Yahweh will punish you, but by your own actions you are shortening the time before violent people will come and rule over you.
4 Terrible things will happen to you who lie on expensive beds and lounge on your couches, eating the meat of the most special sheep from your flocks and of the fattened calves from your stalls.

5 Terrible things will happen to you who sing idly to the sound of your harps and try to be like King David by inventing musical instruments for yourselves.
6 Terrible things will happen toyou who drink wine by the bowlful and rub the finest oils on your skin, but who do not grieve at all that the descendants of Joseph are destroying themselves.
7 Because of all of that, soon you will be among the first ones whom your enemies will force to go into exile, and your feasting and lounging on couches will come to an end.
8 The Lord Yahweh has solemnly sworn this on his own life. Yes, Yahweh, the commander of the heavenly armies, declares it,
"I despise the nation of which the descendants of Jacob are so proud, and I hate their fortresses.
So I will deliver each city and everyone in it to their enemies."

9 When that happens, even if only ten men remain in a single house, they will all die. 10 A dead man's relative, the one who will burn his corpse, will carry the dead body out of the house. He will call to anyone still hiding in the farthest corner of the house, "Is anyone else there with you?" That person will answer, "No one." Then the relative will say, "Say no more! Especially we must not mention Yahweh's name!"

11 The reason is this: Yahweh is about to command the enemy soldiers to attack you, and they will shatter all the houses, from large to small ones, into little pieces.
12 Horses do not gallop on rocky cliffs, and no one plows there with oxen.
Yet you have done something even more absurd:
instead of treating people justly, you kill them,
and instead of doing good things for each other, you make each other angry and resentful.
13 You are proud because you captured the town of Lo Debar, and you boast, "We captured the town of Karnaim for ourselves because we are so strong!"

14 But this is what Yahweh, the commander of the heavenly armies, declares,
"Listen, you people of Israel! I am about to bring a foreign nation to attack you.
Its army will oppress you throughout your entire land, from Lebo Hamath in the far north to the brook of the Arabah in the far south."

7 1 Yahweh our Lord showed me a vision. In the vision, he was forming a swarm of locusts to destroy our crops. This was happening right after the workers had harvested the king's share of the hay, when the second crop of the season was just starting to grow. 2 In the vision, when the locusts had finished eating everything green in the land, I cried out, "Yahweh our Lord, please forgive us! We people of Jacob are weak and helpless; we will not be able to survive this!" 3 So Yahweh changed his mind about this. Yahweh said, "This will not happen."

4 Then Yahweh our Lord showed me another vision. In it, Yahweh our Lord was summoning fire to punish his people. The fire dried up the great deep waters and then was burning up the land. 5 Then I cried out, "Yahweh our Lord, please stop! We people of Jacob will not be able to survive this, because we are weak and helpless!" 6 So Yahweh changed his mind about this also. Lord Yahweh said, "This will not happen, either."

7 Then Yahweh showed me another vision. In it, I saw the Lord standing beside a wall. Someone had built the wall very straight, using a plumb line. Yahweh was holding a plumb line in his hand. 8 Yahweh asked me, "Amos, what do you see?" I replied, "A plumb line." Then the Lord said,

"Look, I am about to test my people the Israelites to see if they are living rightly, just as a builder uses a plumb line to see if a wall is straight.
I will no longer hold back from punishing them for their sin.
9 I will destroy the hilltop shrines where the descendants of Isaac worship idols, and I will demolish the other holy places in Israel, and I will send men with swords to end the dynasty of King Jeroboam."

10 Then Amaziah, the priest at Bethel, sent a message to Jeroboam, the king of Israel. In the message he said, "Amos is plotting against you right here among the people of Israel. He is saying so much against you that the people of this land cannot bear to hear it. 11 In fact, this is what Amos keeps saying, ‘Someone will kill Jeroboam with a sword, and an army will force the people of Israel to leave their own land and become exiles in a foreign country.’”

12 Then Amaziah said to Amos, “You seer, get out of here! Run away to the country of Judah! Earn your living there, and do your prophesying there! 13 But you have prophesied here at Bethel for the last time, because this is the king’s holy place; it is a royal temple.”

14 Then Amos replied to Amaziah, “I am not a professional prophet, and I do not belong to any group of prophets. Instead, I take care of sheep, and I also take care of sycamore-fig trees. 15 But Yahweh took me away from tending the flock, and Yahweh said to me, ‘Go, prophesy to my people in Israel.’ 16 So now listen to what Yahweh has to say to you. You keep telling me, ‘Do not prophesy against the people of Israel, and stop preaching against the descendants of Isaac!’ 17 Therefore, this is what Yahweh says to you,

> ‘When your enemies come, your wife will become a prostitute in this city, > and they will kill your sons and your daughters with their swords, > and they will measure your land with a rope and divide it up among themselves.
> As for you, you will die in a foreign, pagan country, > and your enemies will certainly force the people of Israel to become exiles, far from their own land.’”

8 1 Yahweh, my Lord, showed me a vision. I looked, and in the vision I saw a basket of ripe fruit. 2 He said to me, “Amos, what do you see?” I replied, “I see a basket of ripe fruit.” Then Yahweh said to me,

> “It is time for me to put an end to my people, the Israelites!
> I will no longer hold back from punishing them for their sin.
> 3 At that time, the people who sing songs in the temple will wail loudly instead of singing.
> There will be so many corpses > that people will throw them everywhere. Everyone, be silent!” This is what Yahweh, my Lord, declares.

4 Listen to this, you people who oppress needy people and get rid of the poor people in the land!

5 You say to yourselves, “We wish the new moon festival would be over, so that we could start selling our grain again!

We wish the Sabbath day would be over, so that we could start selling our wheat again!

Then we can cheat people by making the baskets that we measure our grain in smaller than standard, and by making the weights for measuring the buyer’s silver heavier than standard, and we can also make our scales weigh dishonestly.

6 Then we can use our silver to buy poor people to be our slaves.

We can buy needy people for only a pair of sandals.

We can even sell the worthless chaff mixed in with the wheat!”

7 Yahweh has solemnly sworn by the very land that he gave to you descendants of Jacob,

“I will certainly never forget any of the evil things that you have done.

8 Because of the evil things that you have done, it will be as though the land itself will writhe, and everyone who lives in the land will mourn.

It will be as though the whole land will heave up and down, just as the Nile River in Egypt floods and then sinks back down again.”

9 Yahweh, my Lord, declares this, “At that time, when I punish you,

I will make the sun go down at noon.

Yes, I will make the earth become dark during the daytime.

10 Because of what I will do, your religious festivals will become times when you mourn, and instead of singing joyful songs you will wail funeral dirges.

All of you will wear rough sackcloth and shave your heads to show that you are grieving.

Because of what I will do, you will be as sorrowful as when parents grieve for their only son who has died.
By the time I stop punishing you, you will be grieving bitterly."

11 Yahweh, my Lord, declares this, "Listen! There will soon be a time when I will cause something to become very scarce in the land.

It will not be a time when people lack food or thirst for water.
Instead, it will be a time when people will not be able to hear any message from me, Yahweh.
12 People will wander everywhere, staggering from one coastline to another and from the north to the east.
They will roam around, searching for a message from me, Yahweh, but they will not get one.
13 At that time, even the beautiful young women and the strong young men will faint because they are so thirsty.
14 These are the people who make solemn promises using the name of the shameful idol in Samaria.
Some of them make promises using the name of the god that people worship in Dan, and others make promises using the name of the god that people travel to worship in Beersheba.
All of those people will fall down and die, and they will never get up again."

9 1 In another vision, I saw the Lord standing beside the altar, and he said,

"Strike the tops of the pillars of the temple so hard that the thresholds shake, and shatter them so that the pieces fall down on all the people there and crush them.
I will cause enemies to kill with swords anyone who survives.
None of them will be able to run away and escape.
2 Even if they dig down to the place where dead people go as they try to escape from me,

I will reach down there and seize them.
Even if they climb up to the sky,
I will bring them down from there.
3 Even if they hide themselves on the top of Mount Carmel,
I will search for them there and capture them.
Even if they hide from me at the bottom of the sea,
I will command the sea snake there to bite them.
4 Even if their enemies capture them and force them to march away as exiles,
I will command those enemies to kill them there with their swords.
I will continually do things to harm them, not to help them."

5 Yahweh our Lord, the commander of the heavenly armies, is the one who can make the earth melt by touching it,
so that everyone who lives in it mourns.
He can make the whole land rise up and then sink down again, just as the Nile River in Egypt rises and falls.
6 He made the stairway to his palace in the sky, and he set his dome of the sky firmly in place above the earth.
He gathers up the water from the sea and pours it out as rain on the surface of the ground.
The name of the one who does all this is Yahweh!

7 Yahweh declares this, "You people of Israel, you are just like the people of Cush to me.
It is true that I brought your ancestors out of the land of Egypt, but I also brought the Philistines from the land of Caphtor and the Arameans from the region of Kir.
8 Listen! I, Yahweh your Lord, am fully aware of how sinful you people are in the kingdom of Israel, so I will destroy your kingdom and remove it from existing on the earth.
However, I will not completely destroy all of the descendants of Jacob."

That is what Yahweh declares.

9 Yahweh also says, “Listen! This will happen because I am giving the command to send you people of Israel to live among all the nations, and there it will be as though I am shaking you in a sieveto sort you out into those who are faithful and those who are not faithful, just as a farmer shakes a sieve to separate grain from the stones.
It will be as though not one pebble slips through the sieve and falls to the ground, because not one of the unfaithful people among you will escape.

10 All of the sinful ones among my people will die as enemies kill them with swords.
They are the ones who say that nothing bad will ever happen to them.

11 At that time, I will restore the kingdom that King David once ruled, the kingdom that sinners have ruined.
I will repair it and rebuild it, and I will cause it to prosper again, as it did long ago,

12 so that the kingdom of my people may contain those who remain in Edom and those who belong to me in all of the nations.”
That is what Yahweh declares, and he is the one who will do it.

13 Yahweh declares this, “Listen! The time is coming when your crops will grow so well it will be as if those who plow the ground will catch up with those who are still harvesting the grain, and those who tread on the grapes will still be working when the sowers are ready to start planting the seed.
There will be so much sweet wine that it will seem as if it will flow down from the mountains and that all of the hills will melt with it.

14 For my people Israel I will make things as good as they were before they became captives in other nations.
They will rebuild the cities that now lie in ruins, and they will live in them.
They will plant vineyards and drink the wine that comes from them, and they will plant gardens and eat the fruit that grows in them.

15 I will settle my people securely in their own land, and no one will ever remove them again from the land that I gave to them."

That is what Yahweh your God says.

Obadiah

1 1 This is a message that Yahweh our God gave to me, Obadiah, about the people of Edom.
Yahweh our God has said this to us:

"I have sent a messenger to other nations, 2 telling them to prepare to go and attack Edom." Now Yahweh says this to the people of Edom:
"Listen to me—I will soon cause you to become the weakest and most despised nation on the earth.
3 Your capital city is high in the rocky cliffs, and you are very proud.
You think that you are safe there—that no army can conquer you.
But you have deceived yourselves.
4 Even if you could live where eagles live or even higher than that, among the stars, you would still not be safe there from the attackers that I am sending to you.
I, Yahweh, declare this to you.
5 When thieves break into someone's house during the night and rob them, they certainly steal only the things that they want.
And people who pick grapes always leave a few grapes on the vines.
But, unlike them, attackers will destroy your country completely!
6 Descendants of Esau, these attackers will completely take away everything that you own.
They will even find and take away the valuable things that you have hidden.
7 All your allies will turn against you, and they will force you to leave your country.
Those with whom you have peace now will trick you and defeat you.
Those who eat meals with you now are planning to trap you.

You people of Edom do not understand any of this.

8 I, Yahweh, declare that at that time,

I will certainly destroy even Edom's famous wise men. No one living in those cliffs will know what to do any more.

9 The soldiers in the army of Edom will become terrified.

Then when your army stops fighting, the attackers will completely destroy all you people who live in the land of Edom."

10 "All of this will happen because you acted cruelly to your relatives who are descendants of Jacob, the twin brother of your ancestor Esau.

So now everyone will be ashamed of you, and the attackers will destroy you forever.

11 At the time when strangers carried away the Israelite's wealth, you did nothing to help them.

Foreigners conquered all the cities of Judah, and they even took whatever they wanted from Jerusalem.

And you were just as bad as those foreigners, because you did nothing to help.

12 You should not have gloated about the disaster that the Israelites were experiencing.

You should not have been happy when their towns were ruined.

You should not have made fun of them when they were suffering.

13 They are my people, so you should not have entered their city gates when they were experiencing this terrible disaster.

Yes, you! You should not have enjoyed watching them suffer.

You women should not have taken away their valuable possessions.

14 You should not have stood at the crossroads to kill some of the Israelites who were trying to escape.

You should not have captured others of them who had survived and turned them over to their enemies when they were experiencing those disasters."

15 "You should have helped the Israelites, because the time is coming soon when I, Yahweh, will judge and punish all the nations.

I will do the same things to you people of Edom that you did to others.

The same evil things that you did to others will happen to you.

16 The people of Edom should not have done these evil things to you, people of Israel, because in the way that you suffered in Jerusalem, the hill where my holy temple is,
in that same way I will continue to punish all the other nations.
I will punish them severely and make them disappear completely.
17 But some people in Jerusalem will survive, and Jerusalem will become a holy place.
Then the Israelites will once again occupy the land that belongs to them.
18 The people of Israel will be like a fire, and the people of Edom will be like dry grass.
They will destroy the people of Edom, just as fire completely burns up dry grass.
None of the descendants of Edom will survive.
This will certainly happen because I, Yahweh, have said it will happen."
19 The Israelites who live in the southern wilderness of Judea will capture the land of Edom.
The Israelites who live in the western foothills will capture the region of Phoenicia.
The Israelites will also capture the areas that belonged to the tribe of Ephraim and that surrounded the city of Samaria to the north.
The people of the tribe of Benjamin will capture the region east of the Jordan River.
20 A great number of the people from the kingdom of Israel were captured and taken away from their homes. They lived in the land of Canaan. But they will return, and they will capture and occupy that land as far north as Zarephath.
Many of the people were captured and taken away from Jerusalem. They now live in Sepharad. They will return and occupy the cities in the southern wilderness of Judea.
21 After Israel's military leaders conquer the land of Edom, they will then rule over Edom from high up in Jerusalem.
And Yahweh will be their king.

Jonah

1 1 There was a man named Jonah, the son of Amittai. It happened one day that Yahweh spoke to him. This is what Yahweh said: 2 "I have seen that the people of Nineveh are continually doing things that are very evil. Therefore, get moving. Go to Nineveh, that huge capital city of Assyria, and proclaim to the people there that I am planning to punish them for their evil actions." 3 So Jonah went, but in the opposite direction, towards the far-away city of Tarshish, thinking that he could get away from Yahweh there. He went down to the port at the city of Joppa and found a ship that was about to go to Tarshish. The captain of the ship asked him for money, and he gave it to him. Then he went down into the ship in order to go with the crew of the ship to Tarshish, in order to get away from Yahweh.

4 But Yahweh caused a strong wind to blow over the sea, and such an enormous storm happened that the waves were about to break the ship apart. 5 The sailors were frightened and each one prayed loudly to the god that he worshiped for that god to save them from the storm. They even threw the cargo from the ship into the sea in order to make the ship lighter, so that it would not so easily take on water and sink. While all of this was going on, Jonah was down inside the ship, lying down and sleeping soundly!

6 Then the captain of the crew went down to where Jonah was sleeping. He wakened Jonah and said to him, "Something must be wrong with you, to sleep during a storm like this! Get up! Pray earnestly to the god that you worship! Perhaps that god will think about us and save us."

7 After a while the sailors started to say to each other, "We need to cast lots, to determine who has caused this terrible thing to happen to us!" They all agreed, so they cast lots, and the lot indicated Jonah.

8 So the sailors said these things to Jonah: "You must tell us who has caused this terrible thing to happen to us. What kind of work do you do? Where do you come from? What country are you from? What group of people do you belong to?"

9 Jonah answered them, “I am a Hebrew. I worship Yahweh, the One True God who lives in heaven. He is the one who made both the sea and the land.” 10 Jonah also told the sailors that he was trying to get away from Yahweh in order to avoid doing something that Yahweh had told him to do. So now, when they learned that Yahweh was the one controlling the sea, they were terrified.

One of the sailors said to Jonah, “You have done a terrible thing! Now we are all about to die because of you!” 11 The storm continued to become worse, and the waves continued to become bigger. So one of the sailors asked Jonah, “What should we do to you so that the sea might calm down and stop threatening us?”

12 Jonah told them, “Pick me up and throw me into the sea. If you do that, the sea will calm down and stop threatening you. This will work because I am certain that this terrible storm happened to you because I did not do what Yahweh told me to do.”

13 But the sailors did not want to do that. Instead, they tried hard to row the ship back to the land. But they could not do it because the waves became even bigger and stronger against them. 14 Finally, all of the sailors prayed to Yahweh, “O Yahweh, you are the one controlling all of these things that have happened to us, including this storm and the lot that we cast.
Therefore we beg you, Yahweh, please do not let us die because of this man. No, do not kill us for killing someone who has done nothing against us.” 15 Then they picked Jonah up and threw him into the sea. Immediately, the sea became calm. 16 When that happened, the sailors became greatly awed at how powerful Yahweh was. They offered a sacrifice to Yahweh and solemnly promised to worship him.

17 Meanwhile, Yahweh caused a huge fish to swallow Jonah, and Jonah was inside the fish for three days and three nights.

2 1 While he was inside the fish, Jonah prayed to Yahweh, the God whom he worshiped.
2 This is what he said:

> “When I was deeply distressed, I prayed to Yahweh to rescue me, and he did.
> Even though I was in the belly of a fish where I thought I would die, yet even > there you heard my voice and listened to me when I begged for you to help me.

3 You had thrown me into the deep water, into the middle of the sea where the currents swirled around me.
All of those terrible waves that you made passed above me.
4 But as for me, I thought, ‘You have thrown me away; you do not care even to look at me;
even so I may still see your holy temple again.’
5 Water was all around me, close to ending my life; yes, deep water surrounded me;
seaweed became wrapped around my head.
6 I went down as far as the place where the mountains start rising from the bottom of the sea; I felt as though the earth was a prison with no possible way for me to escape.
But you, Yahweh God, whom I worship, rescued me from going down to the place of the dead.
7 When I was almost dead, I thought about you, Yahweh, to ask you for help.
And from your holy place where you live, you accepted my prayer.
8 Those who worship worthless idols reject you, the one who would always be faithful to them.
9 But I will not do that. Rather, I will give a sacrifice to you as I loudly thank you.
I will do what I have solemnly promised you that I would do.
Yahweh, you are the only One True God who saves people.”

10 Then Yahweh commanded the huge fish to spew out Jonah, and the fish spewed out Jonah onto the land.

3 1 Then Yahweh spoke to Jonah again. This is what Yahweh said: 2 “Get moving! Go to Nineveh, the large capital city of Assyria, and preach to the people who live there the message that I tell you to preach to them.” 3 This time, Jonah got moving and went to Nineveh, just as Yahweh had told him to do.

Now Nineveh was an extremely large city. It was so large that a person had to walk for three days to go completely through it. 4 When Jonah arrived, he began walking through the city for about one day. Then he proclaimed to the people in the city, “Forty days from now, God will destroy Nineveh!”

5 The people of Nineveh believed the message from God that Jonah proclaimed. They decided that everyone should fast and wear coarse cloth on their bodies in order to show that they were sorry for the evil things that they had been doing. So everyone in the city did that, from the most important people to the least important people. 6 When the king of Nineveh heard about the message that Jonah was preaching, he got up from his throne. He took off his royal robes, put on coarse cloth instead, and sat down on a heap of cold ashes. He did all this to show that he also was sorry for the evil actions that he had been doing.

7 Then he sent messengers to proclaim to the people in Nineveh: “The king and his officials have decreed that no person or animal may taste any food nor drink any water. Even the cows and the sheep may not graze. 8 Every person and every domestic animal must wear coarse cloth on their bodies. Everyone must pray fervently to God. Also, everyone must stop doing the evil things that they have been doing and the violent things that they have been doing to other people. 9 If everyone does those things, it is possible that this god will change his mind and be merciful to us. He may relent from being so angry with us, with the result that we will live.”

10 So the people did those things and stopped doing the evil actions that they had been doing. God saw all of this. So God had mercy on them and did not destroy them as he had said he would do. Even though he had said that, he did not do it.

4 1 For Jonah, it was wrong, terribly wrong, that God did not destroy Nineveh. He became very angry about it. 2 He prayed to Yahweh, “See! Yahweh, This is exactly what I said would happen even before I left home! I knew that you are a God who acts very kindly and compassionately toward all people. You do not quickly become angry with people who act in evil ways. You love people very much, and you prefer to be merciful to people rather than to punish them. Therefore, I ran away to go to Tarshish in order to stop this very thing from happening. 3 So now, Yahweh, please kill me, because I would rather die than continue to live if you do not destroy Nineveh.”

4 Yahweh replied, “It is wrong for you to be angry that I did not destroy Nineveh.”

5 Then Jonah left the city of Nineveh and sat down a short distance away on the east side of the city. There he made a small shelter to shade himself from the sun. He stayed under the shelter and waited to see what would happen to the city.

6 Then Yahweh God caused a plant to grow up very quickly above Jonah to shade his head from the sun. Yahweh did that in order to remove the bad things that Jonah was experiencing. Jonah was very happy to have this plant that shaded him from the sun. 7 Then, at dawn the next day, God caused a worm to chew the plant so much that the plant withered away. 8 Then, shortly after the sun had risen, God caused a hot wind to blow from the east. The sun shone very hotly on Jonah's head, and Jonah began to feel faint. He wanted to die and he exclaimed, "It would be better for me to die than to continue living!"

9 Then God said to Jonah, "Is it right for you to be angry about what happened to the plant?"

Jonah replied, "Yes, it is right for me to be angry! I am so angry that I want to die!"

10 Then Yahweh said to him, "As for you, you felt very sad about the plant when it died, even though you did not work to take care of it, nor did you do anything to make it grow. It grew up in one night, and it completely withered by the end of the next night. 11 In the same way, but very much more, it is right for me to feel sad about destroying the huge city of Nineveh. There are more than 120,000 people living there who do not know right from wrong. There are also many animals. I created all of them, so it is right for me to be concerned about them."

Micah

1 1 These are the messages that Yahweh gave to Micah, who was from the town of Moresheth in Judah. Yahweh gave these messages to Micah during the time when Jotham, then Ahaz, and then Hezekiah ruled as kings of Judah. These are messages about what Yahweh showed Micah would happen to Samaria and to Jerusalem.

2 Hear this, all you people everywhere on the earth!
The Lord Yahweh is about to testify against you from the holy place where he rules in heaven.
3 But now look! Yahweh is about to come out from heaven and come down to the earth where he will walk on the tops of the mountains.
4 He is so powerful that it will be as though the mountains will melt beneath him as easily as wax melts near a fire and as quickly as water rushes down a hillside, and the valleys will split apart.
5 All of this will happen because the people of Israel, the descendants of Jacob, have sinned against Yahweh.
It was the leaders of the people in the city of Samaria who led all of the descendants of Jacob to sin!
It was the leaders of the people in Jerusalem who led the people of Judah to worship idols on the hilltops!
6 So Yahweh says, "I will turn the city of Samaria into a heap of rubble in the countryside;
it will be a place for planting vineyards.
I will roll the stones of its buildings down into the valley and strip the buildings down to their foundations.
7 Enemies will smash all of the idols in Samaria to pieces and burn up all the gifts that people gave at the idol temples.

I will make all of the idols there into ruins because the people of Samaria collected these precious things by their business of prostitution at the temples, so enemies will carry them off and use them to pay prostitutes elsewhere."
8 Because of all of this, I will weep and wail.
I will walk around without my sandals and without my clothes.
I will howl like a jackal and cry out like a family of owls.
9 This is because nothing now can stop Yahweh from destroying Samaria.
And because the same thing will also happen to Judah;
it is as though the enemy army has arrived already at the gates of Jerusalem, the city where my people live.
10 Do not tell our enemies in the city of Gath about this!
Certainly do not cry aloud!
Instead, roll in the dust at Beth Leaphrah.
11 You people who live in Shaphir will march away naked and ashamed.
The people of Zaanan will not go out to help you.
The people of Beth Ezel will mourn, and by their mourning you will know that Beth Ezel will not help you stand against the enemy.
12 Indeed, the people of Maroth wait anxiously for something good to happen, but nothing good will come.
Instead, Yahweh has caused terrible things to happen,
all the way to the gates of Jerusalem.
13 You people of Lachish, hitch your swift horses to your war chariots and flee!
You were the first ones to lead the people of Zion to sin, because you caused the people of Israel to rebel against Yahweh.

14 So you leaders in Jerusalem will have to send farewell gifts as you part with the town of Moresheth Gath, as a father does when giving a daughter in marriage.
The town of Achzib will prove to be deceptive to the rulers of Israel.
15 You people of Mareshah,
Yahweh will bring a conqueror to take over your town, as well.
The honored leaders of Israel will go to Adullam once again to hide in the cave.
16 You leaders of Israel, completely shave your heads in mourning for the children whom you love.
Shave yourselves completely bald, like an eagle, because your enemies will take your children far away from you into exile.

2 1 Terrible things will happen to you who lie awake in bed at night planning how to do evil things.
You get up at dawn and you do those things, simply because you are able to do them.
2 You want fields that belong to other people, so you forcefully take them;
you want their houses, so you steal them.
You cheat people and take away their property, including what their families have owned for generations.
3 So this is what Yahweh says, "Listen to me! I am planning to destroy you people, and you will not be able to escape from it. You will no longer be able to act proudly, because you will be experiencing terrible things. 4 At that time, your enemies will mock you by singing this very sad song about you, 'Yahweh has completely destroyed us Israelites! Yahweh is taking the portions of land away from us that he had given to us! We are extremely distressed because he is giving our fields to our enemies!'" 5 So when Yahweh's people return to divide up the land again,
no one from your families will be there to receive any of it.
6 False prophets who hear me say this prophesy to me,

"Do not prophesy!"

They do not prophesy about these things, therefore Yahweh will certainly dishonor them.

7 You descendants of Jacob should not say such things as,

"Yahweh does not become impatient."

Or "These are not the kinds of things that he does."

What I say certainly helps those who do what is right.

8 However, Yahweh says,

"Recently my people have turned against me and become my enemies.

When people pass by feeling safe, like soldiers returning from battle to their own people, you strip the fine outer garments right off their fronts.

9 You force the women among my people out of the homes that they love, and you take away from their children forever

the good things that I wanted to give them.

10 So get up and leave!

This land is no longer a place where you can live.

You have made it unacceptable to me by your sins, so I will destroy it in a way that is severe."

11 If someone who speaks nothing but lies were to say,

"I will preach that you should drink wine and beer!"

that is the kind of prophet you people would accept.

12 "However, some day I will certainly gather all of you descendants of Jacob.

I will certainly bring together the Israelite people who survive.

I will bring them together in one place, as a shepherd gathers a flock of sheep into a good pasture.

They will make a lot of noise because there will be very many of them.

13 I will send someone who will open the way in front of them, and they will follow behind him, going out through the gate. Their king will go before them, and I, Yahweh, will be the one leading them."

1 Then I said,

"You leaders of the people of Jacob and you rulers of the people of Israel, listen to me!

You are the ones who should know all about how to treat people fairly.

2 Yet you hate what is right and love what is evil!

You violently rob my people as though you are stripping off their skin and flesh.

3 You greedily strip my people of everything that they have as though you are a butcher who strips off their skin, breaks their bones,

chops them up,

puts them into a cooking pot,

and eats them."

4 Someday, when bad things happen to those leaders, they will call out for Yahweh to help them, but he will not help them.

He will be as diligent to ignore them at that time,

as they were to do evil deeds.

5 This is what Yahweh says,

"This is about the prophets who are misleading my people.

They prophesy good things for anyone giving them something to eat.

However, they declare holy war against anyone who does not give them food.

6 Because of that, it will be as though it is always night for you prophets because you will no longer be able to see visions, and you will no longer be able to practice divination.

Yes, it will be as though the sun has set for you prophets even during the day, because I will show you nothing."

7 Those who claim to see the future will feel ashamed, and those who practice divination will feel disgraced.

They will all cover their faces to express how ashamed they are,
because God will not answer them.
8 But as for me, Yahweh's Spirit greatly empowers me to do what is right and to be strong so that I can tell the people of Jacob how they have rebelled against God and tell the people of Israel how they have sinned.
9 You leaders of the people of Jacob and you rulers of the people of Israel, listen to this!
You are the ones who hate it when people do what is right, and when people say what is true, you change it into something false.
10 You are getting the wealth to build up Jerusalem by murdering people and treating people unjustly.
11 The city's leaders decide cases favorably only for those who give them bribes.
The city's priests teach only when people pay them well.
The city's prophets require people to pay them money in order to tell them what they think will happen to them.
Yet those same leaders trust in Yahweh and say,
"Yahweh is among us,
so nothing bad will happen to us."
12 So, because of what you leaders are doing, enemies will make Mount Zion look like a field that a farmer has plowed.
Jerusalem will become a pile of rubble, and the temple hill will become an overgrown forest.

4 1 But Yahweh says that in the latter days, the mountain where his temple stands will become the most important of all the mountains.
Yes, Yahweh will cause it to be the most important place, and a lot of people from many different people groups will come there to worship.
2 People from many nations will gather and say to each other,

"Let us go to the mountain where Yahweh is, to the temple where we can worship the God whom Jacob worshiped.
There God will teach us how he wants us to live, and we will do what he tells us to do."
Indeed, Zion is the place from which God will send out his instructions, and from Jerusalem Yahweh will announce his messages.

3 Yahweh will settle disputes among many peoples and will make decisions for powerful nations that are far away.
Then those peoples will reshape their implements of war into implements for farming.
Armies of nations will no longer fight against armies of other nations, and people will no longer train to be soldiers.

4 Everyone will sit peacefully under his own grapevines and under his own fig trees, and no one will cause any of them to be afraid.
That will certainly happen because Yahweh, the commander of the heavenly armies, has commanded it.

5 Even though each one of all of the other people groups obeys its own god, as for us, we will obey Yahweh our God forever.

6 Yahweh says, "At that time
I will gather the people who are injured and those who are scattered, that is, everyone whom I have caused to suffer.

7 I will cause the injured ones to be the faithful survivors of my people and I will cause all of those whom I drove away to become a mighty nation.
Then I, Yahweh will rule over them on Mount Zion,
now and forever.

8 You people of Zion, who are like a watchtower on the hill guarding my people,
I will again authorize you to rule.
Jerusalem will once again be the capitol of my kingdom.

9 But now you are crying out, and it is not because you have no king, or because your advisors have all died.

You act as though you are suffering greatly, as much as a woman who is birthing a child!

10 People of Zion, you should agonize and wail like a woman birthing a child, because now you must leave this city and live out in the open fields.
You will go all the way to Babylon.
However, while you are there,
I, Yahweh will rescue you.
That is where he will take you away from your enemies.

11 But now the armies of many nations have gathered to attack you.
They are saying, 'We are here to destroy this city!
We want to see the ruins of Zion!'

12 But as for them, they do not know what I, Yahweh am thinking.
They do not understand that this is what I have planned for them.
In fact, I have gathered them together to destroy them, just as a farmer gathers grain onto a threshing floor to crush it.

13 So you people of Zion, become active and defeat your enemies!
You can do this because I will cause you to be very strong.
So destroy these many peoples and give to me, Yahweh, the Ruler of the whole earth, everything valuable that your enemies possess."

5 1 Now, people of Jerusalem, gather yourselves into a troop!
Even though you have a wall to protect your city, enemy soldiers have surrounded it.
They are here to overpower and humiliate the ruler of Israel.

2 However, I have something to say about Bethlehem in the region of Ephrathah.
Even though the clan that lives there is the smallest of the clans of Judah, someone who will rule Israel for me will come from that town.

He has been active since ancient times, from eternity.

3 So God will allow Israel's enemies to conquer them, until the time when she who will bear gives birth.
Then the rest of those who, with him, are part of Israel will rejoin their fellow Israelites.

4 Yahweh will strengthen him to rule and to care for his people as majestically and authoritatively as if Yahweh, his God, were doing those things himself.
His people will live safely, because, at that time, people all over the earth will honor him.

5 He will cause his people to prosper.
When the army of Assyria attacks our land and breaks through our fortresses, we will appoint many leaders to lead our army to fight against them.

6 They will lead our army to rule the land of Assyria, that is, the territory that Nimrod founded long ago.
The ruler will rescue us from the Assyrians when they cross our borders to invade our land.

7 Then the descendants of Jacob who have survived will live among many other peoples.
They will be a blessing for those peoples, just as the dew and the rain are that Yahweh sends for the grass.
They will depend on Yahweh to sustain them just as the grass does,
and not on other people.

8 Yes, the descendants of Jacob who have survived will be in other nations, living among many other peoples.
But they will be powerful, like a lion is among the other animals.
If they need to do so, they can easily defeat those peoples, just as a young lion pounces on sheep and tears them apart, and no one can rescue them.

9 Yahweh, we want you to powerfully defeat all of your enemies and to destroy them completely!

10 Yahweh declares, "At that time,
I will take away your war horses and I will destroy your chariots.

11 I will tear down the cities in your land and I will destroy all of your fortresses.

12 I will stop you from practicing witchcraft, and there will be no more fortune tellers among you.

13 I will destroy your idols and your sacred stone pillars, and then you will no longer worship things that you yourselves have made.

14 I will remove the poles that you use to worship the goddess Asherah, and I will destroy your cities.

15 Because I am very angry,
I will severely punish the people of the nations that have not obeyed me."

6

1 Listen, everyone, because Yahweh has something to say,
"Micah, stand up and present my case, and let the mountains and the hills be witnesses to what you say."

2 It as though the mountains and the enduring foundations of the earth are listening as Yahweh contends against his people.
Indeed, Yahweh is bringing charges against his people;
he is about to argue his case against Israel.

3 Yahweh says,"My people, you act as though I have harmed you!
You treat me as though I have made things difficult for you!
If you can accuse me of anything, then do it now!

4 Instead of doing bad things,

I brought your ancestors out of Egypt, rescuing them from the place where they had lived as slaves.
I sent Moses to lead them, along with his older brother Aaron and his older sister Miriam.
5 My people, remember when Balak, the king of Moab, wanted to conspire with Balaam son of Beor to curse your ancestors, and think about how Balaam answered him.
Remember what happened as your ancestors traveled from Shittim to Gilgal, so that you may recognize that I, Yahweh, have always done the right things for you." 6 An Israelite asks, "What should I bring when I come to Yahweh, the God who lives in the highest heaven,
and bow down before him?
Should I bring offerings to burn;
should I bring one-year-old calves as sacrifices?
7 Will Yahweh accept thousands of rams or vast quantities of olive oil?
Should I sacrifice my firstborn child to pay for my sin?
Can a sacrifice from my physical body compensate for my spiritual sin?"
8 No! Yahweh has already told you, human person, what is good and that he wants from you only this:
He wants you to do what is just, to love being faithful to others, and to conduct yourself humbly as you live before your God.
9 Yahweh is calling out a message to the people of the city of Jerusalem.
(Truly wise people revere you, Yahweh.)
Listen carefully, you tribe of Israel and all leaders that Yahweh has appointed!
10 "It disgusts me that wicked people still have wealth in their houses that they got by cheating others, and that they use measures that are smaller than they should be.
This is something that I have cursed.
11 No one is innocent who uses dishonest scales or a bag of deceptive weights.

12 The rich people in this city always act violently to others.
All of the people who live here tell lies.
Yes, they always speak deceitfully.
13 For my part, I will attack you severely.
I will ruin you because of your sins.
14 As for you, you will eat food, but it will not satisfy you because it will rush right through you.
You will try to save people, but you will not be able to rescue anyone and even if you do rescue a few, I will allow enemies to kill them.
15 As for you, you will plant crops,
but you will not harvest them.
As for you, you will press olives,
but you will not get to use the olive oil.
Yes, also with the wine—you will crush grapes,
but you will not get to drink any of it.
16 These things will happen because you follow the wicked laws that King Omri established and do all of the evil things that King Ahab and his descendants practiced.
You have lived according to what they advised, so I will destroy your city and cause people of other nations to scorn everyone who lives there.
Other peoples will detest you, because that is what my people deserve."

7 1 I am very miserable!
It is because I am very frustrated like someone who looks for fruit to pick after everyone else has already picked all of the summer fruit and harvested all of the grapes.
I am like someone who cannot find a single cluster of grapes to eat or an early fig, which he longs for.
2 I am looking for faithful people, but all of them have disappeared from the land, and there are no longer any honest people among us.

All of the people who remain are eager to kill others;
each person tries to find ways to exploit his fellow citizens.
3 They are energetic and skillful in doing evil things.
Government officials and judges demand bribes.
Powerful people tell others what they want for themselves, and they all plot together to get it done.
4 Even the best people among them are harmful, and even those who seem the most honest, cause people pain.
The time that the prophets foretold, the time when God will punish those who do evil things, is coming soon.
This is when they will panic.
5 So, do not trust anyone, not even a neighbor or a friend.
Be careful what you say even to your own wife!
6 Indeed, even sons treat their fathers contemptuously, and daughters defy their mothers.
Daughters-in-law defy their mothers-in-law.
A person's enemies are the people who live in his own household.

7 But as for me, I will watch to see what Yahweh will do to help me.
I intend to wait confidently for God, who saves me.
The God whom I worship will listen when I call to him.
8 You who are our enemies,
do not celebrate over what has happened to us, because even though you have defeated us, we will recover.
Even though it looks like everything is bad for us,
Yahweh will take care of us.
9 We will patiently endure whatever Yahweh does to punish us, because we have sinned against him.

Eventually he will defend us and make things right for us.
He will change everything bad around us to good,
and we will see that he always does what is right.
10 I want my enemies to see the same thing,
and then everyone will completely despise them.
They are the ones who mocked me by saying,
"Yahweh your God is not helping you at all!"
But at that time I will watch as people destroy the homes of my enemies, making them just like the mud in the streets.

11 People of Zion, the day is coming when you will rebuild your walls!
On that day, your city will extend far beyond its present boundaries.
12 On that day people will come to you from everywhere. The places they will come from will be from Assyria to Egypt, and from Egypt all the way to the Euphrates River, from one sea to another and from every mountain.
13 In contrast the rest of the earth will become an empty wasteland because of the evil things its people have done.
14 Yahweh, protect and guide your people, as a shepherd does for his sheep!
They are the people whom you have chosen to belong to you.
They are like sheep that live apart from others in a wooded area of Mount Carmel, but give them the rich pasturelands of the Bashan and Gilead regions that they enjoyed long ago.

15 Yahweh says,

"Yes, just as I did long ago when I rescued your ancestors from Egypt,

I will do amazing things for you.”

16 People from many nations will see what Yahweh does for his people, and what they see will humiliate them because they thought that they were powerful, but they are not.
They will be so amazed that they will be unable to say or hear anything.
17 They will grovel on the ground like a snake, like an insect in the dirt.
They will be so afraid that they will come trembling from their fortresses.
They will be very afraid as they approach Yahweh, the God whom we worship.
They will be afraid because of you, Yahweh.
18 Yahweh, no other God is like you!
You forgive the sins of the people who have remained faithful to you, those who belong to you.
You do not stay angry forever because you are the one who delights in faithfully loving us.
19 You will be merciful to us once again.
You will completely forgive all of our sins, as though you are throwing them into the deepest part of the ocean.
20 You will show the descendants of Jacob that you are trustworthy, and you will faithfully love the descendants of Abraham, just as you solemnly promised to our ancestors long ago.

Nahum

1 I am Nahum, from the village of Elkosh. This is a message about the city of Nineveh, a message that Yahweh gave me in a vision.

2 Yahweh our God tolerates no rival gods to himself.
Yahweh is very angry with those who worship other gods, and he punishes them.
He continues to be angry with those who oppose him.

3 Yahweh does not quickly become angry;
but he is very powerful,
and he will certainly punish those who have done evil things.
Wherever Yahweh walks, there are whirlwinds and storms, and the clouds are like dust around his feet.

4 When he commands oceans and rivers to become dry, they dry up.
He causes the grass to wither in the fields in the region of Bashan and on the slopes of Mount Carmel, and he causes the flowers in Lebanon to fade.

5 When he appears, it is as though the mountains quake and the hills melt;
the earth quakes before him, and all the people on the earth tremble.

6 There is no one who can resist him when he becomes extremely angry;
there is no one who can survive when Yahweh is angry with him.
When he is very angry, it is as though fire blazes out from him;
it is as though mountains explode into pieces before him.

7 Yahweh is good;
he protects us, his people, when we experience troubles.
He takes care of those who trust in him.

8 But he will completely destroy Nineveh with an overwhelming flood.
Wherever his enemies go,

9 terrible things will happen to them. So it is useless for you people of Nineveh to plot against Yahweh.
He will destroy your plan quickly;
he will not need to strike you two times.
10 The Ninevites will be like tangled thorn-bushes or dry stubble in a fire;
they will be like the wine in their own cups.
All of those things disappear quickly and completely.
11 Yes, in the city of Nineveh there are people who advise and plan evil deeds against Yahweh. 12 But this is what Yahweh says to the people of Judah:
"Although the nation of Assyria has very many people and its army is very powerful, Nevertheless I will shear them like helpless sheep and destroy those who plan evil deeds.
Although I have punished you,
I will not punish you again.
13 Now I will cause the people of Assyria to no longer enslave you; it will be as though I will break off the chains on your hands and feet."

14 And this is what Yahweh also declares about the people of Nineveh:

"The people of Nineveh will not have any descendants who will continue to have their family names.
And I will destroy all the wooden and metal idols that are in their temples.
I will cause them to be killed and sent to their graves, because they are vile!"
15 You people of Judah, look to the mountains! A messenger will come from there, and he will bring good news to you.
He will declare that you will now have peace.
So keep your festivals, and do what you solemnly promised Yahweh that you would do.
You can do this because your wicked enemies will not invade your country again,

because I will destroy them completely.

2 1 You people of Nineveh, your enemies are coming to attack you. So place guards on the tops of the walls around the city! Guard the roads into the city! Get ready to fight! Gather all of your troops together! 2 Even though soldiers have pillaged the people of Jacob and destroyed their vineyards, Yahweh will cause other nations to honor them again. Yes, Jacob and Israel will be majestic again. 3 The shields of Yahweh's soldiers are red, and they will wear bright red uniforms.

The metal of their chariot wheels will flash like fire when they prepare them for battle.

The spears will look like a forest of quivering cypress trees as the soldiers raise them.

4 Their chariots dash through the streets of Nineveh and rush furiously through the plazas.

Appearing to move as quickly as lightning, they look like flaming torches.

5 The attacking commander calls to his officers and they come to him so quickly that they stumble.

They run up to the city wall to attack it;

they set up a large wooden shield above the soldiers to protect them.

6 Soldiers open the floodgates that hold back the rivers, and the palace collapses.

7 Yahweh decrees that soldiers will take the inhabitants of Nineveh away as captives.

The women of Nineveh moan like doves and beat their breasts to show that they are very sad. 8 The people of Nineveh used to be as calm as a pool of water, but now they are running away.

The officials shout, "Stop! Stop!"

But the people will not even look back as they run away.

9 The attackers say to each other,

"Seize the silver!

Grab the gold!

There is a huge amount of very valuable things in the city;

there are many wonderful things of all kinds!"

10 Soldiers have completely looted and destroyed the city of Nineveh. The people of Nineveh are afraid, trembling, and deeply sorrowful. Their faces have all become pale with fear.

11 After that happens, people will say,

"Nineveh used to be full of great and powerful people!

It was like a den full of lions, where the male and female lions lived with their cubs, where they fed the young ones, where the inhabitants were afraid of nothing.

12 The officials in Nineveh were like lions that killed animals for their cubs, strangled others for their lionesses, and kept killing more to fill their dens with prey." 13 Yahweh, commander of the angel armies, says to the people of Nineveh,

"I am your enemy;

I will burn up your chariots.

I will cause soldiers to kill your young men.

I will make sure that your soldiers will never again conquer other nations and seize their valuable possessions.

Your messengers will never again disturb the people of other nations."

3 1 Terrible things will happen to Nineveh, that city that is full of people who continually murder people and lie to others and steal valuable things from people in other countries.

Their armies constantly bring to the city the people and things that they have

2 stolen. But now listen as the enemy soldiers come to attack Nineveh! Listen to them cracking their whips, and listen to the rattle of their chariot wheels!

3 Listen to their galloping horses and their chariots as they bounce along! Look at their flashing swords and glittering spears as the horsemen race forward!

The enemy soldiers will kill many people of Nineveh.

There will be piles of corpses, so many dead bodies that people will stumble over 4 them. All of that will happen because Nineveh is like a beautiful prostitute who attracts many men and destroys them, and who practices witchcraft.
The people of Nineveh teach people of other nations to worship Nineveh's idols.
They control other people through witchcraft and cause them to become their slaves.
5 So Yahweh, commander of the angel armies, says to the people of Nineveh:
"I am your enemy, and I will completely humiliate you in the sight of the people of other nations, just as people humiliate a woman who has committed adultery by lifting her skirt over her head so that people can see her naked body.
People of other nations will be ashamed of you.
6 It will be as though I am throwing garbage on you;
I will show others that I despise you very much,
and I will cause everyone to publicly ridicule you.
7 All those who see you will run away from you and say,
'Nineveh lies in ruins,
but absolutely no one will mourn for it.'
People of Nineveh, no one will want to comfort you."
8 Nineveh is not stronger than the city of Thebes was.
Thebes was an important city beside the Nile River;
deep water protected Thebes on all sides.
9 The rulers of Cush and Egypt helped Thebes; together they were very strong.
The governments of the nearby countries of Put and Libya were also allies of Thebes.
10 Nevertheless, enemies conquered Thebes and took its people as captives.
The enemies smashed the babies of Thebes to death in the streets.
The enemies used marked stones to choose which officials they would take as slaves.

The enemies led all of the leaders of Thebes away in chains.

11 You people of Nineveh will similarly become confused.

You will search for places to hide from your enemies as they did.

12 When people want to eat the first figs, all they have to do is shake the fig tree and the figs fall into their mouths.

Your enemies will capture your fortresses that quickly and easily.

13 Look at your soldiers!

They are as weak as women!

The gates of your cities will be wide open to allow your enemies to enter them, and your enemies will burn the beams of those gates.

14 People of Nineveh, store up water now to use when your enemies surround the city!

Make your defensive buildings stronger!

Dig up clay and trample it to make it soft;

put it into molds to make bricks to strengthen the walls!

15 Nevertheless, your enemies will burn your city;

they will kill you with their swords;

they will kill you as locusts destroy crops.

16 Increase your population like grasshoppers and swarms of locusts! In your city there are now very many merchants; almost more than one could count.

But when your city is being destroyed,

they will take all the valuable things and quickly leave, like locusts that strip the leaves from plants and then fly away.

17 Your leaders are also like a swarm of locusts that crowd together on the stone walls on a cold day.

When the sun shines, they fly away, and no one knows where they have gone.

18 King of Assyria, all of your important people will die.

Your people will scatter to many different places in the mountains, 19 and there will be no one to gather them together. Nothing can help you now.

You are like someone who has a fatal wound.

All of those who hear about what has happened to you will joyfully clap their hands about it.

They will do this because all of them have suffered from your continual evil actions.

Habakkuk

1 1 I am Habakkuk the prophet. This is the message that Yahweh gave me in a vision.

2 I said, “Yahweh, how long must I keep praying to you for help before you respond?
I ask you to rescue us from people who are acting violently everywhere, but you do not rescue us!
3 Why do you make me keep seeing people doing evil?
Why do you not punish people who are doing what is wrong?
I see people destroying things and acting violently, and there is fighting and quarreling everywhere.
4 No one obeys your instruction, and judges never decide cases fairly.
Wicked people always defeat righteous people in the courts, so that no one ever gets justice.”
5 Yahweh replied to me, “Look at the completely amazing thing happening among the other nations;
you will be astounded, because I am doing something during this time that you would not believe even if someone told you about it.
6 I am making the Chaldeans powerful; they are fierce and swift soldiers.
They will march across the entire earth and conquer countries that do not belong to them.
7 They are terrifying people who do whatever they want and pay no attention to the laws of other countries.
8 Their horses are faster than leopards and fiercer than wolves at night.

Their horsemen gallop swiftly from distant places;
they swoop down like eagles rushing to kill their prey.
9 They all advance with the purpose of acting violently.
They advance like a desert wind, gathering prisoners as numerous as grains of sand.
10 They mock the kings and rulers of other countries and laugh at all the cities with high walls.
They pile up dirt against those walls and climb up to capture those cities.
11 They rush past like the wind and move on.
But they are very guilty, because they think that their own military power is their god.”
12 Then I said, “Yahweh, you have always been God from ancient times.
You are my Holy One; we will not die.
You have appointed the Chaldeans to judge us and punish us.
You are our Rock, and you have sent them to correct us.
13 You are pure, and you cannot endure seeing evil, so why are you tolerating treacherous people?
Why do you say nothing
when wicked people destroy people who are more righteous than they are?
14 You treat us like fish in the sea or like other sea creatures that have no one to rule over them.
15 The soldiers of Chaldea treat us like fish; they pull us out with hooks or catch us in their nets, and they rejoice and celebrate.
16 They worship the weapons with which they capture people and offer sacrifices to them and burn incense in front of them. They say, ‘Those weapons have enabled us to become rich and eat expensive food.’
17 Will you allow them to keep conquering people?

Will you allow them to keep destroying people of other nations without showing any mercy?”

2 1 After I said that, I said to myself, “I will climb up into my guard post, and stand there in my watchtower.
I will wait there to find out what Yahweh will say, to know how I should answer.”

2 Then Yahweh replied to me,

“Write plainly on tablets what I am revealing to you in this vision, and then read it to a messenger
so he can run with it to tell it to other people.

3 In this vision I will talk about things that will happen when I decide.
They will certainly happen in the future, I do not lie.
You want those things to happen immediately, but they are not happening.
But wait patiently for them to happen!
When they occur, they will occur quickly, and not slowly.

4 Think about the people in that proud nation!
They are certainly not doing what is righteous.
But people who are righteous will live because they faithfully do what I want them to do.

5 Drunk armies are foolish,
they cannot stop pillaging.
No matter how much they kill and steal, they want more.
They will conquer every people group they encounter.

6 But soon all those whom they have captured will ridicule the soldiers from Babylonia!
They will make fun of them, saying, ‘Terrible things will happen to you who have stolen things from other countries!

You got many things by forcing people to give them to you.
But you certainly will not keep those things for long!’
7 Suddenly those you owe a debt to because you pillaged them will come to pillage you.
You will be afraid.
They will recapture all the things that you stole from them.
8 You stole things from the people of many nations.
You murdered people of many people groups,
and you destroyed their land and their cities.
So those who are still alive will steal valuable things from you.
9 Terrible things will happen to you people of Babylonia who build big houses with money that you got by forcing others to give it to you.
You are proud, and you think that your houses will be safe because you have built them in places where you can easily defend them.
10 But because you have destroyed others, you have harmed yourself and disgraced your own family!
11 The very stones in the walls of your houses and the wooden beams in your ceilings show that you did evil things to get them 12 Terrible things will happen to you people of Babylonia who kill people in order to build cities, cities that you build by using money that you have gotten by committing crimes.
13 But Yahweh, commander of the angel armies, has declared that fire will destroy everything built by people who do things like that;
they will have worked hard uselessly.
14 But in contrast, just as water fills the oceans, Yahweh will fill the earth with people who know how glorious he is.
15 Terrible things will happen to you people of Babylonia, who cause people who live in nearby countries to become drunk.
You force them to drink a lot of drugged wine until they are drunk and then they walk around naked because you are happy when you see that.

16 But you are the ones whom Yahweh will soon disgrace instead of honor.
Yahweh will make you drink so much wine that you will also stagger around drunk and naked.
Yahweh will powerfully judge and curse you, and everyone will see that you are weak and not strong.
17 You did violent things to the people in Lebanon, and you killed the wild animals there, so you will be punished severely for doing that.
You have killed many people and you have destroyed their lands and their cities.
18 An idol that someone carves or casts from metal does not help anyone at all;
it only deceives the people who trust it.
The person who makes an idol trusts something that he himself created, 19 something that cannot even speak! Terrible things will happen to you who say to lifeless idols that are made of wood or rock,
‘Wake up!’
Stone idols certainly cannot tell you what you should do;
they look nice because they are covered with silver and gold,
but they are not alive.
20 But Yahweh is in his holy temple;
everyone on the earth should be silent in his presence!”

3 1 Habakkuk the prophet prayed this prayer, set to the tune called Shigyonoth.

2 Yahweh, I have heard reports about what you have done, and I am in awe of all you have done.
Do again in our time what you did long ago!
Even when you are angry with us,
act mercifully toward us!

3 God came from Teman, and the Holy One came from Mount Paran.
His glory covered the sky,
and praise for him filled the whole earth.
4 He shone like the sunrise;
his rays of light flashed from his hands,
and that is where he conceals his awesome power.
5 Sickness went ahead of him like a soldier, and burning disease followed behind him.
6 He stopped and surveyed the earth.
He looked at the nations and made them tremble.
The mountains that have existed from the beginning of time collapsed;
the ancient hills crumbled.
He has always existed and always will.
7 I saw that the people in the tents of Cushan were distressed, and the people of Midian were trembling like tent curtains.

8 Yahweh, were you angry at the rivers and streams?
Were you furious at the sea?
No! You rode on your horses and on your chariots to defeat your enemies and rescue your people.
9 You took your bow out of its cover, ready to shoot.
You made ready your arrows, just as you had promised.
You split the ground, and water gushed out in rivers.
10 The mountains trembled when they saw you.
A great flood of water rushed past.
The ocean depths roared loudly and seemed to raise their hands high in the air.
11 The sun and the moon stopped moving as your arrows flew through the sky like flashes of light and your shining spear gleamed brightly.

12 You marched across the land in your anger, and you trampled the nations in your fury.
13 You went out to rescue your people, to save the king you had chosen.
You crushed the ruler of the wicked people, destroying his power from his crown to his very foundation.
14 With the enemy's own spear you killed their leader, who had come rushing like a whirlwind to scatter us and gloated like they were about to devour helpless people in hiding.
15 You smashed through the sea on your horses, churning through the great surging waves.

16 When I heard this, my stomach churned inside me; at the sound of it, my lips trembled.
My bones felt like they were rotting, and my legs gave way beneath me.
However, I will wait quietly for the time when disaster comes to the people who are attacking us.
17 The fig trees may not blossom, and there may be no grapes on the vines.
The olive trees may produce nothing, and the fields may yield no crops.
The flocks of sheep and goats may disappear from the pastures, and there may be no cattle in the stalls.
18 Even so, I will rejoice because I know Yahweh.
I will be joyful because Yahweh is the God who saves me.
19 Yahweh the Lord makes me strong.
He makes me as sure-footed as a deer and enables me to go safely to the high places.

(This is for the choir director to use when the people sing this prayer with stringed instruments.)

Zephaniah

1 1 These are the messages that Yahweh spoke through Zephaniah during the time when Josiah, the son of Amon, was the king of Judah. Zephaniah was the son of Cushi. Cushi was the son of Gedaliah. Gedaliah was the son of Amariah. And Amariah was the son of King Hezekiah.

2 Yahweh says,

"I will completely destroy creatures all over the earth."

3 Yahweh says,

"I am going to destroy the people and animals that live on the earth.

I am going to destroy the birds that fly in the sky and the fish that swim in the sea.

I am going to destroy the idols that represent false gods, and I am going to destroy the people who worship those idols.

I will do this so that there will not be wicked people on the earth.

4 I am going to punish the people who live in the city of Jerusalem and in other places in the kingdom of Judah.

I am going to destroy everything in Jerusalem that is related to the worship of the false god Baal.

No one will even remember that there used to be priests of Baal in Jerusalem.

And no one will remember the priests descended from Aaron who helped people worship Baal.

5 I am going to punish the people who have been going up onto the flat roofs of their houses in order to worship the sun, moon, and stars.

I am also going to punish the people who claim to worship me but who swear oaths in the name of the false god Milcom.

6 Finally, I am also going to punish the people who used to worship me but no longer do.

I am going to punish the people who no longer ask for my help or ask me to tell them what they should do."

7 Yahweh is the God whom you should worship.
Soon he will judge and punish people, so show your respect for him by keeping quiet.
Be respectful, because Yahweh is getting ready to destroy the people of Judah.
He has decided to allow the enemies of Judah to come and destroy them.

8 Yahweh says, "At the time when I destroy the people of Judah,
I will punish their officials and the king's sons and all those who worship foreign gods.

9 At that time, I will punish all the officials who force their way into people's homes and take away what they own in order to make themselves rich."

10 Yahweh also says, "At the time when I destroy the kingdom of Judah, people will cry out in distress at the Fish Gate of Jerusalem.
People will wail with sorrow in the Second Quarter of the city.
People will hear a loud crash of buildings collapsing in the towns on the hills that surround the city.

11 Your enemies are going to slaughter all those who buy and sell goods for money, so all you people who live in the market area of Jerusalem should wail.

12 At that time, it will be as if I light lanterns and search even in the darkest places in Jerusalem to find wicked people and punish them.
I am going to punish the people who do not even care that they are doing wicked things.
They wrongly think that I, Yahweh, do not make people experience the consequences of their actions.

13 So an enemy army is going to come and destroy their houses completely.
Then that army will carry away their valuable possessions.

This will fulfill what I told the Israelites would happen if they disobeyed me:

'The people will build houses,

but they will not live in them.

They will plant vineyards, but they will not be able to make wine from the grapes and drink it.'

14 It will soon be the terrible time when I, Yahweh, destroy the people who have sinned against me.

Yes, I am going to do that very soon.

The people of Judah will cry out in sorrow at that time.

Then even the strong soldiers who are trying to defend them will wail in despair.

15 That will be a time when I, Yahweh, show that I am very angry.

It will be a time when people experience much trouble.

At that time, an enemy army will destroy many things.

It will be a very sad time.

People will feel the way they do when black clouds cover the sky.

16 It will be a time when soldiers blow ram's horns and shout to call other soldiers to come and fight.

Your enemies will tear down the walls around your cities and the high towers at the corners of those walls.

17 Because you have sinned against me, Yahweh,

I am going to cause you people of Judah to suffer greatly.

As I told the Israelites would happen if they sinned against me,

'You will wander around, not knowing where to go, as if you were blind.'

Your enemies will stab you with their weapons

so that your blood and your insides pour out in great quantities.

18 At the time when I, Yahweh, show how angry I am with you, you will not be able to save yourselves by giving silver or gold to your enemies."

Because Yahweh is very angry that people have worshiped false gods, he is going to destroy wicked people all over the world.

Indeed, he is soon going to destroy wicked people no matter where they live in the world.

1 You people of Judah ought to be ashamed of your sins!
You should certainly gather together and ask Yahweh to be merciful to you.
2 Gather together and pray for mercy before Yahweh punishes you as he has said he will.
Otherwise he will destroy you completely, just as the wind blows chaff away entirely.
Yahweh is very angry with you,
3 and if you do not repent, he will punish you. All of you people in Judah who are willing to humble yourselves, worship Yahweh and obey what he has commanded.
Try to do what is right and make sure that you stay humble.
If you do that, perhaps Yahweh will protect you when he punishes other people for their sins.
4 When Yahweh punishes the Philistines, the cities of Gaza and Ashkelon will lose all of their inhabitants.
An army will attack the city of Ashdod in broad daylight and drive away all of its people.
An army will also drive away the people of the city of Ekron.
5 Terrible things will happen to you Philistine people! You live near the sea.
Yahweh has said that he will punish you Philistines who live in that part of the land of Canaan.
He will punish you until everyone who used to live there is dead.
6 There will no longer be any cities in the seaside land of Philistia.
There will only be grass.
Shepherds will keep their sheep there so that they can eat the grass.
7 The Judean people who survive will go and live in that land.
They will graze their sheep in those pastures.
They will move into the houses that the Philistines have abandoned in the city of Ashkelon.

This will happen because those Judeans will worship Yahweh once again as their God.

Yahweh will take care of them and make them prosperous again.

8-9 Yahweh is the commander of the heavenly armies and the God of the Israelites. He says this:

"I have heard the people of Moab and Ammon insult my people.

I have seen them stealing territory from my people. So now I swear that I am going to destroy Moab and Ammon as completely as I destroyed Sodom and Gomorrah.

Crops will no longer grow on their land, only weeds.

The only way people will be able to make a living from that land will be to dig in the ground to get salt from the salt deposits there.

No one will ever rebuild the buildings that were there.

My people who survive will take away all the valuable possessions that once belonged to the Moabites and Ammonites.

Those people will be the ones who own that land."

10 The people of Moab and Ammon will get what they deserve for having been so proud.

They should not have insulted the people who belong to Yahweh, the commander of the heavenly armies.

They should not have tried to take away their land.

11 The people of Moab and Ammon will be greatly afraid when Yahweh punishes them.

He will do that so powerfully that people will stop worshiping all other gods.

People in every nation will worship Yahweh instead.

Each person will do that in his own country.

12 Yahweh has also said that he will slaughter the people of Ethiopia.

13 Yahweh will also punish and destroy the people of Assyria.

They live in a land that is northeast of us.

He will cause an enemy army to destroy their capital city of Nineveh.

It will become a place where no plants grow, like the desert.

14 Groups of many different kinds of wild animals will live where Nineveh used to be.

Various kinds of owls will make their nests on top of the columns of its destroyed buildings.

Those owls will sometimes perch on the sills of empty windows and hoot.

Rubble will block the doorways.

Rain and sunlight will ruin the valuable cedar wood that the Assyrians used to build their buildings.

15 The people of Nineveh used to be proud.

They thought that no other country could conquer them.

They said to each other,

"Our city is the greatest city!

No other city is as great as ours!"

But an enemy army will completely destroy Nineveh.

It will become a place where wild animals make their dens.

People who go by that area will often make hissing sounds and shake their fists to show how much they hated that city.

3 1 The people who live in the city of Jerusalem have rebelled against Yahweh.

They have committed terrible sins, and this has made them unacceptable to Yahweh.

They have treated others violently.

As a result, terrible things are going to happen to them!

2 The people of Jerusalem have not paid attention to the prophets whom Yahweh has sent to correct them.

The people in Jerusalem do not believe in Yahweh, their God, and they do not worship him.

3 The leaders of the city treat its people violently, like lions that roar as they attack their prey.

Their judges are greedy. They are like wolves that have not eaten all day and so devour an entire animal that they kill.

4 The prophets in Jerusalem say what they think people want to hear.

They do not honestly give the people messages from Yahweh.
The priests in Jerusalem do things that the law of Moses forbids.
As a result, they have made the temple there unholy.
5 But Yahweh is still in the city, and he always does what is right.
He treats people justly, day after day, without fail.
Still, wicked people are not ashamed when they do what is wrong.

6 So Yahweh says this:

"I have destroyed many nations.
I have destroyed their strong city walls and towers.
I have destroyed the streets in those cities. No one walks on them anymore.
Those cities are in ruins. All the people who used to live in them are now dead.
7 I said to myself,
'The people of Jerusalem will certainly honor me and allow me to correct them.
If they do that, I will not destroy their city. I will not do all the things that I said I would do to them.'
But even though the people of Jerusalem knew that I had punished other nations, they eagerly did even more wrong things."
8 So this is what Yahweh declares:
"You can confidently expect that an enemy army is going to conquer you and take away your possessions.
I have decided to judge all of the people groups on the earth at the same time.
I am going to punish them severely because I am very angry with them for being so wicked.
Because I am very angry that people have worshiped false gods, I am going to destroy wicked people all over the world.
9 But after that, I will make the people groups do what is right and say what is right.
That way all of them will worship me, Yahweh.

I will be the only God whom any of them worship.

10 Enemy armies will take some of the people who worship me away to other countries.

They will take them as far away as the place where the Nile River begins.

But even from that far away, my people will come back to Jerusalem, bringing offerings to me.

11 When I restore you, you will no longer feel shame for disobeying me and doing many wrong things.

Many of you boasted about how great you thought you were.

But I will punish those people, and then you will always come humbly to worship me in my temple.

12 Then the people who live in Jerusalem will be poor, but they will be humble.

They will depend on me, Yahweh, to help them.

13 Then the people of Israel who survive will not do wicked things.

They will not tell lies or say things to deceive others.

They will not be afraid that an enemy army will conquer them, so they will be able to eat and sleep peacefully."

14 You Israelites who live in Judah should sing and shout loudly!

You people who live in Jerusalem should celebrate because you are feeling very happy!

15 You should celebrate because Yahweh is not going to punish you any more.

He is going to keep enemy armies far away from you!

Yahweh himself, who is the true king of you Israelites, is going to live among you.

You will never be afraid again that others will harm you.

16 At that time, prophets will say to the people who live in Jerusalem,

"You people who live on Mount Zion should not be afraid!

No, you should not become discouraged.

17 Yahweh your God lives among you!

He is mighty, and he will protect you.

He will be very happy about you.

He will not say anything harsh to you, and you will know how much he loves you.

He will sing loudly to rejoice about you."

18 Yahweh says, "Enemy armies took some of you Judeans away from your homeland.

Those people became very sad because they could no longer gather with others to worship me.

They felt shame because of what had happened to them.

But I am going to bring them back to Judah.

19 You can be certain that I will severely punish all those who oppressed you.

When I do that, I will rescue those who had to make a long journey to go and live in other countries.

They felt shame when they had to do that.

But now I will make the people of those countries praise and honor them.

20 When I act to help you, I will gather you together and bring you back home to Israel.

Then I will cause all the people groups in the world to praise and honor you greatly.

You will be able to see that I am making you rich again."

This is what Yahweh has promised!

Haggai

1 1 The prophet Haggai received a message from Yahweh in the second year after Darius had become king of Persia. Haggai received this message on the first day of the sixth month of that year. He told it to the governor of Judah, Zerubbabel the son of Shealtiel. Haggai also told the message to the high priest, Joshua the son of Jehozadak. He said, 2 "Yahweh, the commander of the heavenly armies, says this: 'The people of Judah are saying that it is not yet the right time for them to rebuild my temple.'" 3 Yahweh then told the prophet Haggai to tell the people this: 4 "It is not right for you to live in comfortable houses while you have still not repaired Yahweh's temple! 5 So this is what Yahweh, the commander of the heavenly armies, is telling you: 'Think about what you are doing!

6 You are planting many seeds, but you are not harvesting many crops.
You eat food, but you never get enough to eat.
You drink wine, but you never get enough to satisfy you.
You still have clothes to wear, but they are so worn-out that they no longer keep you warm.

7 You earn money, but it is not enough to pay your expenses.' So this is what Yahweh, the commander of the heavenly armies, is telling you: 'Think about what you should do differently! 8 Go up into the hills and cut down trees! Bring the timber from them here to Jerusalem and rebuild my temple! This will honor me, and I will be proud of my temple again.' That is what Yahweh is telling you. 9 Yahweh, the commander of the heavenly armies, is also telling you, 'There is a reason why you have not grown many crops even though you have planted many seeds. The reason is that I kept the crops from growing. I did that because you have built comfortable homes for yourselves, but you have not repaired my temple. 10 Because you were not repairing my temple, I kept the crops from growing by making it so dry that no rain fell from the sky and there was not even any moisture on the ground in the mornings. 11 I have kept the plants from growing in the fields and on the mountains. I have kept your wheat and barley from growing. I have kept your vines from producing grapes. I have kept your olive trees from producing olives. Even though you worked very hard, you were not able to grow enough food. As a result, both people and animals have not had enough to eat.'" 12 The governor of Judah, Zerubbabel the son of Shealtiel, knew that Yahweh their God had told the prophet Haggai to speak this message. The high priest, Joshua the son of Jehozadak, also knew this. The rest of the people who had returned to Judah from exile in Babylon also knew this. And they all respected Yahweh. So they all obeyed the message that Yahweh their God had spoken. 13 Yahweh was pleased that the people had obeyed him. So Yahweh gave Haggai, his messenger, another message to speak to the people. Haggai said, "Yahweh is telling you, 'I am with you!'" 14 This message from Yahweh made the governor of Judah, Zerubbabel the son of Shealtiel, want to rebuild the temple. It also made the high priest, Joshua the son of Jehozadak, want to rebuild the temple. It also made the rest of the people want to rebuild the temple. So they all gathered together and started rebuilding the temple of Yahweh, the commander of the heavenly armies, their God. 15 They started the work on the twenty-fourth day of the sixth month of the second year that Darius was king of Persia.

2 1 Yahweh gave another message to the prophet Haggai on the twenty-first day of the seventh month of Darius' second year as king of Persia. Yahweh told Haggai, 2 "I want you to ask a question to the governor of Judah, Zerubbabel the son of Shealtiel, and to the high priest, Joshua the son of Jehozadak, and to the rest of the people. Ask them, 3 'Is there still anyone among you who remembers how glorious the temple used to look? If so, do you think that the temple looks glorious now? You must agree that it does not look very glorious at all.'" 4 But after Haggai had asked those questions, he said, "Yahweh is telling you, Zerubbabel, 'Now do not be discouraged!' Yahweh is also telling you high priest, Joshua the son of Jehozadak, and all the Jewish people, 'Do not be discouraged!' Yahweh, the commander of the heavenly armies, is telling you, 'Repair the temple, because I am with you to help you! 5 That is what I promised your ancestors when I brought them out of slavery in Egypt and made a covenant with them. And I am still keeping that promise now, since my Spirit is living among you. So do not be afraid of the people who are trying to keep you from rebuilding my temple!' 6 Do not be afraid, because Yahweh, the commander of the heavenly armies, is telling you, ‘Soon it will be as if I am shaking the sky and the earth, the sea and the land. 7 It will seem that way because I will be making the other nations respect you. Then those people will bring their treasures to this temple, and I will make it very glorious again.’ That is what Yahweh, the commander of the heavenly armies, is telling you. 8 Yahweh, the commander of the heavenly armies, says, ‘The silver and gold that the people of other nations have really belong to me.’ 9 Yahweh, the commander of the heavenly armies, says, ‘The temple will be even more glorious in the future than it was in the past.’ Yahweh, the commander of the heavenly armies, also says, ‘I will protect the temple from people who would want to destroy it.’” 10 Yahweh spoke another message to the prophet Haggai on the twenty-fourth day of the ninth month of Darius’ second year as king of Persia. Yahweh told Haggai, 11 “This is what I, Yahweh, the commander of the heavenly armies, am telling you to do. Ask the priests a question about what Moses directed in his instructions. Say, 12 ‘Suppose a priest takes from the altar some meat that a person has offered to Yahweh. And suppose the priest carries the meat within his robe. If his robe touches some bread or stew or wine or olive oil or any other food, does that food become like food that someone has offered to Yahweh?’” When Haggai asked the priests this question, they replied, “No, it does not.” 13 Then Haggai asked the priests this question: “Suppose someone becomes unclean by touching a dead body. If this unclean person then touches any food, does that food also become unclean?” The priests replied, “Yes, that food does become unclean.” 14 Then Haggai said, “Yahweh is telling you this: ‘I consider you Jewish people to be unclean as well! And since you are unclean, the crops that you grow and the animals that you raise are also unclean. And so you cannot offer those unclean crops or the unclean meat from those animals on the altar at the temple. 15 So now think about what has been happening to you during this whole time that you have not been rebuilding my temple. 16 During that time, when you thought you could take 20 measures of grain from a heap, you found that there were only 10 measures in the heap. When you thought you could draw 50 measures of wine out of a wine vat, you found that there were only 20 measures in the vat. 17 I caused blight, mildew, and hail to destroy all the crops that you worked so hard to raise. Even so, you did not do what I wanted you to do and rebuild my temple.’ This is what Yahweh is saying to you. 18 Think about what has been happening to you during the whole time between when you laid the foundation of my temple when you first returned from exile until this day, the twenty-fourth day of the ninth month. Yes, think about that! 19 You have no grain left in your barns. Your grapevines have not been producing grapes. Your fig trees have not been producing figs. Your pomegranate trees have not been producing pomegranates. Your olive trees have not been producing olives. But from now on, I will bless you with an abundance of crops!" 20 Yahweh then gave a second message to Haggai on that same day. He said, 21 "Tell Zerubbabel, the governor of Judah, this for me: 'It is going to be as if I am shaking the sky and the earth. 22 It will seem that way because I am going to stop kingdoms from ruling over other kingdoms. I am going to make strong nations weak. I am going to do this by making the nations fight wars against each other. When they do, they will completely destroy one another's armies.' 23 Tell Zerubbabel for me, Yahweh, the commander of the heavenly armies, 'After I destroy the armies of the other kingdoms, I am going to make you powerful, Zerubbabel son of Shealtiel, my servant.' Tell him for me, Yahweh, 'Just as a king seals his orders with a signet ring, so I will use you to accomplish my purposes.' Tell him for me, Yahweh, the commander of the heavenly armies, 'I am going to do this because I have chosen you!'"

Zechariah

1 1 I am Zechariah, a prophet, the son of Berechiah and grandson of Iddo. When Darius had been the emperor of Persia for almost two years, in the eighth month of that year, Yahweh gave me this message:

2 "Yahweh was very angry with your ancestors. 3 So tell the people this: 'Yahweh, the commander of the heavenly armies, says, "Come back to me"—this is what Yahweh, the commander of the heavenly armies, solemnly declares—"and I will help you again, says Yahweh, the commander of the heavenly armies. 4 Do not be like your ancestors. The prophets who lived before you continually told your ancestors that Yahweh, the commander of the heavenly armies, said, 'Stop doing the evil things that you are doing!' However, they refused to listen to me or pay attention to me," solemnly declares Yahweh. 5 "Your ancestors have all died. The prophets also did not live forever. 6 However, the warnings and decrees that I commanded my servants the prophets to tell your ancestors did come true. So your ancestors repented and said, 'Yahweh, the commander of the heavenly armies, has punished us for the way we behaved and for the things we did, just as he said he would do.'"""

7 Three months later, on the twenty-fourth day of the eleventh month, the month of Shebat, when Darius had been emperor for almost two years, Yahweh gave another message to me, Zechariah the son of Berechiah the son of Iddo, the prophet. 8 During the night I had a vision. In the vision I saw a man riding a red horse. He stood among the myrtle trees in a deep valley, and behind him other riders sat on red, reddish-brown, and white horses. 9 I asked the angel who had been talking to me, "Sir, who are those riders?" The angel replied, "I will show you who they are." 10 Then the man who stood among the myrtle trees explained. He said, "Yahweh sent these riders to patrol throughout the earth."

11 Then those riders reported to an angel representing Yahweh, who stood among the myrtle trees. They said, "We have patrolled throughout the earth, and everywhere the nations are living peacefully and undisturbed."

12 Then the angel representing Yahweh pleaded, “Yahweh, commander of the heavenly armies, how long will you continue to not show mercy to the people of Jerusalem and the people of the other cities of Judah? You have been angry with them for 70 years!” 13 So Yahweh spoke kind and encouraging words to the angel who had been talking to me. 14 Then the angel who had been talking to me said to me, “Proclaim this message: ‘Yahweh, the commander of the heavenly armies, says, “I care very deeply about the people of Jerusalem and of Zion. 15 I am extremely angry with the nations that feel so secure. I was only a little angry with my people, but those nations made things much worse by harming them so much.”

16 Therefore, this is what Yahweh says, “I have once again chosen to show mercy to the people of Jerusalem. They will rebuild my temple there,” solemnly declares Yahweh, the commander of the heavenly armies, “and workers will stretch out a measuring line to rebuild Jerusalem.” 17 Therefore, this is what Yahweh says, “I have once again chosen to show mercy to the people of Jerusalem. They will rebuild my temple there,” solemnly declares Yahweh, the commander of the heavenly armies, “and workers will stretch out a measuring line to rebuild Jerusalem.”

18 Then I looked up and in front of me I saw four horns. 19 I asked the angel who had been talking to me, “What are those?” He replied, “Those horns represent the powerful nations that used their military power to scatter the people of Judah, Israel, and Jerusalem.” 20 Then Yahweh showed me four craftsmen. 21 I asked, “What are these craftsmen coming to do?” He replied, “Those horns represent the powerful nations that scattered the people of Judah so badly that no one could resist them. These craftsmen have come to terrify those nations and to crush the military power that those nations used against the people of Judah to scatter them.”

2 1 Then I looked up and saw a man who was holding a measuring line. 2 I asked him, “Where are you going?” He replied, “I am going to measure Jerusalem to find out how wide it is and how long it is.”

3 Then the angel who had been talking to me went out, and another angel came out to meet him. 4 The second angel said to him, “Run and tell that young man this: ‘Someday so many people and animals will live in Jerusalem that they will not all fit inside the city walls. Many of them will live outside the walls. 5 Yahweh says that he himself will protect the city all around, just as a wall of fire would protect it, and he will show everyone how great he is by living among his people in the city.'"

6 Yahweh declares, "Pay attention! You must flee from Babylonia, because I scattered you in every direction."

7 Yahweh says, "You people of Jerusalem who are still living in Babylon, escape from there! 8 This is what Yahweh, the commander of the heavenly armies, says. In order to honor his people, he sent me to rebuke the nations that took away your valuable possessions. He says, 'Anyone who harms you harms what is most precious to me. 9 I am about to use my power against those nations, and the people who used to serve them will take back their possessions from them.'" When that happens, you will know that Yahweh, the commander of the heavenly armies, sent me.

10 Yahweh says, "You people of Jerusalem, shout and be happy, because I am about to come to you and live among you!"

11 At that time, people from many nations will start worshiping Yahweh and become his people. He will live among all of you. Then you will know that Yahweh, the commander of the heavenly armies, sent me to you. 12 Yahweh will claim the people of Judah as his own special people in the land that he has set apart for himself, and he will once again choose Jerusalem as his city. 13 All people everywhere must be silent before Yahweh, because he has risen up from heaven, the holy place where he lives, and he is ready to act!

3 1 Then Yahweh showed me a vision. I saw Joshua, the high priest, standing in the presence of an angel representing Yahweh. The accuser was standing at the place where an accuser stands in a court, ready to bring charges against Joshua. 2 Yahweh said to the accuser, "I, Yahweh, reject your accusations! I am the one who has chosen Jerusalem, and I reject your accusations! I rescued this man just barely, the way someone pulls a burning stick out of a fire before the fire destroys it." 3 Now Joshua was wearing extremely dirty clothes as he stood near the angel.

4 The angel told the other angels who were standing there, "Take those filthy clothes off of him." Then the angel said to Joshua, "Look at what I have done! I have taken away your sin, and I will dress you in beautiful clothes." [5] Then I said, "Put a clean turban on his head too!" So the angels put a clean turban on his head and dressed him in new clothes while an angel representing Yahweh stood watching.

[6] Then an angel representing Yahweh gave Joshua this serious command: [7] "Yahweh, the commander of the heavenly armies, says this to you, 'If you obey me and do what I command you to do, then you will be in charge of my temple and will take care of my temple courtyards. I will also allow you to come into the presence of these angels who stand here. [8] Listen carefully, Joshua the high priest, you and your fellow priests who sit in front of you, because you are all living signs that point to what will happen in the future. I am going to bring my servant, the one who will be like a new branch that sprouts from the stump of David's family. [9] Look at the stone that I have placed in front of Joshua. That single stone has seven facets that represent how I watch over everything. I will engrave an inscription on it. This is what Yahweh, the commander of the heavenly armies, declares. When I do this, I will take away all the sin from this land in a single day.

[10] When that day comes, each of you will invite your neighbors to come and enjoy peace and security with you.' This is what Yahweh, the commander of the heavenly armies, declares."

4 [1] Then the angel who had been talking with me came back and woke me up. I had been thinking deeply, as though I had fallen asleep. [2] He asked me, "What do you see?" I replied, "I see a lampstand made completely of gold. It has a small bowl for olive oil at the top, and seven lamps around the bowl, with seven channels going to each of the seven lamps that are on top of it. [3] I also see two olive trees beside it, one olive tree on the right side of the bowl and one olive tree on its left side."

[4] I asked the angel who was talking with me, "Sir, what do these things mean?"

[5] The angel replied, "You really should know what they mean!" I answered, "No, sir, I do not know."

[6] Then the angel said to me, "This is the message that Yahweh has for Zerubbabel, 'You will not accomplish this by being strong or by your own efforts. Instead, my Spirit will accomplish it,' says Yahweh, the commander of the heavenly armies. 7 Every great difficulty that stands in front of Zerubbabel will disappear! He will set the final stone of the temple in its place, and all the people will shout, 'How beautiful! May God bless it!'

8 Then Yahweh gave me another message. 9 He said, 'Zerubbabel began the work of rebuilding this temple, and he will finish it.' When that happens, you will know that Yahweh, the commander of the heavenly armies, sent me to you people.

10 No one should think that the small beginnings of a big project are unimportant. People will be happy when they see Zerubbabel holding the plumb line as he checks the walls. Those seven lamps represent how Yahweh watches over everything that happens on the whole earth."

11 Then I asked the angel, "What do the two olive trees on each side of the lampstand mean?

12 In particular, what do the two olive branches that are beside the two gold pipes that pour out olive oil mean?" 13 He said to me, "You really should know what these things mean!" I replied, "No, sir, I do not know."

14 So he said, "They represent the two people whom God has anointed to serve the Lord who rules over the whole earth."

5 1 I looked up again and saw a scroll flying through the air.

2 The angel asked me, "What do you see?" I replied, "I see a scroll flying through the air. It is about 30 feet long and about 15 feet wide."

3 Then he said to me, "This scroll contains the words that Yahweh speaks to punish people throughout the whole land. On one side, the scroll says that Yahweh will remove everyone who steals. On the other side, it says that he will remove everyone who lies when making a solemn promise. 4 Yahweh, the commander of the heavenly armies, declares, 'I will send this scroll to the houses of people who steal and to the houses of people who use my authority to make false promises. The scroll will remain in those houses and will destroy them completely, including all their wooden beams and stones.'"

5 Then the angel who had been talking to me came closer and said, “Look up and see what is coming out.”

6 I asked him, “What is it?” He replied, “It is a large measuring basket that is coming out.” Then he said, “It represents what the people are doing throughout the whole land.”

7 Then I saw someone lifting the heavy lead cover off the basket. There was a woman sitting inside the basket! 8 The angel said, “She represents how wicked the people are.” Then the angel threw her back down into the basket and put the heavy lead cover back over the opening.

9 Then I looked up and saw two women coming toward me. The wind was blowing under their wings, and they had large wings like those of a stork. They lifted the basket up high between the ground and the sky.

10 I asked the angel who had been talking to me, “Where are they taking that basket?”

11 He replied, “They are taking it to Babylonia to build a temple for it there. When they finish building the temple, they will place the basket inside on a pedestal.”

The vision of four chariots

6 1 I looked up again, and in the vision I saw four chariots coming toward me from between two bronze mountains. 2 Red horses pulled the first chariot, and black horses pulled the second chariot. 3 White horses pulled the third chariot, and strong, spotted horses pulled the fourth chariot. 4 I asked the angel who had been speaking to me, “Sir, what do those chariots mean?”

5 The angel replied, “These are the four spirits that serve the Lord who rules the entire earth. They go out across the sky in four directions. 6 The chariot with the black horses will go north, the white horses will follow them, and the spotted horses will go south.”

7 When those strong horses went out, they were eager to go and patrol the earth. The angel said to them, “Go, patrol the earth!” So they went and patrolled the earth.

8 Then the angel called out to me, “Look, the chariots that went north have satisfied my anger in the land of the north.”

Yahweh commands Zechariah to crown Joshua

9 Then Yahweh gave me another message. 10 He said, “Heldai, Tobijah, and Jedaiah will bring silver and gold from the people who returned from exile in Babylon. On the day they arrive, go to the house of Josiah son of Zephaniah. 11 Take some of the silver and gold from those men and make crowns. Then place them on the head of Joshua son of Jehozadak, the high priest. 12 Tell him, ‘This is what Yahweh, the commander of the heavenly armies, says, There is a man whose title is the Branch, because he will grow up like a new branch from the stump of David’s family. He will emerge from where he is, and he will build the temple of Yahweh. 13 Yes, he will build Yahweh’s temple.

He will receive great honor, and he will sit on his throne and rule.
He will also serve as a priest while he sits on his throne, and there will be peace because he is both king and priest.’

14 The crowns will remain in the temple of Yahweh to remind people of what Helem, Tobijah, Jedaiah, and Hen son of Zephaniah did. 15 People who live far away will come and help build Yahweh’s temple. When that happens, you will know that Yahweh, the commander of the heavenly armies, has sent me to you. This will happen if you truly obey what Yahweh your God commands.”

7 1 When Darius had been the emperor for almost four years, on the fourth day of Kislev (which was the ninth month in their calendar), Yahweh gave me another message. 2 The people of the city of Bethel sent two men, Sharezer and Regem-Melech, along with some other men, to consult with Yahweh [3] by asking the priests at Yahweh's temple and the prophets if they should continue their years-long practice of mourning the anniversary of the destruction of the temple by fasting during the fifth month.

[4] Then Yahweh, commander of the angel armies, gave me, Zechariah, a message. [5] He told me to say this to the priests and, in fact, to everyone in the whole land: "Tell me whom you were honoring when you did not eat but went around in dirty clothing. It was not me you honored in the fifth and seventh months these 70 years. [6] And when you feasted at my temple, you did it just to have a good time, not to honor me. [7] This is exactly what I kept telling the former prophets to proclaim to the people, when the people in Jerusalem and the nearby towns were many and prosperous, and when people also lived in the southern Judean wilderness, and in the foothills to the west."

[8] Yahweh gave another message to me: [9] "Tell the people that this is what Yahweh, commander of the angel armies, said to your ancestors: 'I told them to do what is just, to act faithfully and mercifully toward each other, in order to honor my covenant with you. [10] I told them not to oppress widows or orphans or foreigners or poor people. I told them not to even think about doing evil to anyone else.'

[11] But the people refused to obey Yahweh. They resisted him. They did not even listen to what he said. [12] He had given these messages for his Spirit to repeat to the prophets in earlier times. The prophets were meant to speak these messages to the people. But the people were very stubborn; they would not listen to the law of Moses or to any message from God. So Yahweh, commander of the angel armies, became very angry with them.

[13] In those times, when Yahweh, commander of the angel armies, called to the people, they refused to listen. So he said, 'In exactly the same way, I will refuse to listen when they call to me. [14] I scattered them among many nations, nations that they had never been to before just as a storm scatters leaves. After they were gone, their own land was empty, with no one living there. No one traveled through it or came back to it, because they have turned it, their most pleasant land, into a wilderness.’”

Yahweh promises to bless Jerusalem

8 1 Yahweh, the commander of the heavenly armies, gave me another message: 2 This is what I, Yahweh, the commander of the angel armies, say, “I love the people of Jerusalem; I love them very much, and I am very angry with their enemies.”

3 So this is what I, Yahweh, say: “Some day I will return to Mount Zion and I will live there. At that time, people will call Jerusalem ‘The City of Faithful People’, and they will call the mountain that Yahweh, the commander of angel armies, possesses ‘The Sacred Mountain.’”

4 Yahweh, the commander of the angel armies, also says this: “Some day old men and old women will again sit along the streets of Jerusalem, each of them holding a cane because they are very old. 5 Boys and girls will fill the city streets, playing there.”

6 Yahweh, the commander of the angel armies, also says this: “When those things happen, it will seem marvelous to the people who are still alive, but it certainly will not seem marvelous to me!”

7 Yahweh, the commander of the heavenly armies, also says this: “Pay attention! I will rescue my people from countries in the east and in the west, wherever they are. 8 I will bring them back, and they will live in Jerusalem. They will be my people, and I will be their God. I will be faithful to them and treat them fairly.”

9 Yahweh, the commander of the angel armies, also says this: “When people laid the foundation for my temple, there were prophets there who gave messages from me. Some of you people heard what those prophets said. So be brave while you are building the temple, in order that you may finish building it. 10 Before that time, no one could earn any wages for their work, and no one could hire animals for work, because there was no money. No one was safe going about their daily activities because of enemies, since I caused everyone to fight against one another. 11 But now I will act differently toward you people who are still alive than I did previously." That is what Yahweh, the commander of the angel armies, says.

12 "Instead, everything will go well for them: planting time will be peaceful, grapevines will produce grapes, good crops will grow in the fields, and rain will fall from the sky. I will give all these things to the people of this nation who have survived. 13 You people of Judah and Israel, right now, the people of other nations think of you when they say what a curse means. But I will rescue you, and I will give you so many good things that they will think of you when they say what a blessing means. So be brave; work hard to finish building the temple."

14 Yahweh, the commander of the angel armies, also says this, "When your ancestors caused me to become very angry, I did not change my mind about that. Instead, I indeed punished them. 15 But now I will do something different. I am planning to do good things to the people of Jerusalem and other towns in Judah again. So do not be afraid. 16 These are the things that you should do: You should always tell the truth to each other. In the courts, your judges must make decisions according to what is correct and fair. 17 Do not plan to do evil things to others, and do not approve of swearing false accusations against others. I hate all those things," says Yahweh.

18 Yahweh, the commander of the angel armies, said this to me: 19 "I tell you, the times when you people of Judah abstain from food during the fourth, fifth, seventh, and tenth months of each year will become times when you celebrate pleasant and joyful festivals instead. But you must want to speak truthfully and to be peaceful."

20 Yahweh, the commander of the angel armies, also says this, "Some day people from many people groups and foreign cities will come here to Jerusalem. 21 People from one city will go to the people in another city and say, 'Quick! Let us go together to Jerusalem to worship Yahweh and ask him to bless us; we ourselves are going.' 22 And people from many people groups and from powerful nations will come to Jerusalem to ask Yahweh, the commander of angel armies, to bless them, and they will worship him."

23 Yahweh, the commander of the angel armies, also says this, "At that time, many people from every people group, speaking their own language, will come and firmly grab the fringe of robe belonging to a man from Judah's tribe. They will say to him, 'We want to be near you, because we have heard people say that God is with you.'"

9 1 This is another message that Yahweh gave to me:
He pays close attention to all people everywhere, and especially to all the Israelite tribes.
This message is about the region of Hadrach and the city of Damascus, where he is staying.
2 Hamath also is a nearby city,
as are the cities of Tyre and Sidon, whose people think that they are very wise.
3 The people of Tyre have built a strong wall around their city, and they have piled up as much silver and gold as if it were dust and mud in the streets.
4 But look out! The Lord will take away everything that the people of Tyre own and destroy their merchant ships out at sea, and an enemy army will burn their city down.
5 When the people of the city of Ashkelon see that happen, they will be scared.
The people of the city of Gaza will also tremble in great anguish, and the people of the city of Ekron will tremble too, because they will no longer expect anything good to happen.
There will no longer be a king ruling in Gaza, and no one will live in Ashkelon anymore.
6 People of mixed descent will live in the city of Ashdod, and so I will cause the Philistine people to no longer be proud.
7 I will no longer allow them to eat meat that still has blood in it, and I will no longer allow them to eat the disgusting food that they offered to their idols.
Then the Philistine people who survive will worship me and become my people, like one of the clans in Judah.

The people of the city of Ekron will become my people, just as the people of the city of Jebus did.

8 I will protect my temple like an army that guards it, so that no enemy soldiers can march through it or come back to attack it.
No one who oppresses my people will ever invade them again, because now I am watching over my people carefully.

9 You people of Jerusalem, rejoice very much!
Shout joyfully, everyone in Jerusalem!
Look! Your king is coming to you.
He does what is right, and God will give him victory.
He is humble, and he will ride into the city on a donkey, on a young donkey.

10 I will take away the chariots from the region of Ephraim and the war horses from the city of Jerusalem, and I will destroy the bows that soldiers use in war.
Your king will tell the nations that they will now live peacefully.
He will rule over all the earth,
from one sea to the farthest sea, and from the Euphrates River to the most distant places on the earth.

11 As for you people of Jerusalem, because of the blood of the animals that the priests killed when I made my covenant with you, I will set your people free, the ones who suffer like prisoners stuck in a dry pit.

12 You people who are like prisoners but who still confidently expect me to help you, return to your land, where you will be safe.
Today I am telling you that I will give back to you twice as much as you have lost.

13 I will use the people of Judah to fight for me as a warrior uses a bow, and I will use the people of Ephraim like the arrows in that bow.

People of Jerusalem, I will stir up your young men to fight against the army of Greece, and I will make you as powerful as a warrior's sword.

14 Then Yahweh will appear above his people, and the arrows that he shoots will flash like lightning.
Yahweh my Lord will blow a trumpet to signal the attack, and he will advance fiercely, like a storm blowing from the south.
15 Yahweh, the commander of the heavenly armies, will protect his people.
His soldiers will completely defeat their enemies who attack them with slingstones.
Those soldiers will shout in victory and celebrate as noisily as men who have drunk much wine.
They will be as full of joy as the bowls that the priests fill with blood and pour out on the corners of the altar.
16 On that day, Yahweh, the God his people worship, will rescue them just as a shepherd rescues his flock of sheep from danger.
They will be as precious to him as sparkling jewels in a crown shining over his land.
17 How wonderful and how beautiful everything will be!
The young men will grow strong from eating plenty of grain, and the young women will grow strong from drinking plenty of new wine.

10 1 Ask Yahweh to send rain in the springtime, because he is the one who makes the storm clouds. He gives people showers of rain, and he makes plants grow in their fields. 2 The household idols that people consult tell them worthless things, and those who practice divination see false visions; the dreams they describe are lies, and the comfort they give is empty. So the people wander about helplessly and suffer, because they have no leader to guide and protect them, just as sheep suffer when they have no shepherd.

3 Yahweh says, "I am very angry with the leaders of my people, and I will punish those rulers. I, Yahweh, the commander of the heavenly armies, care for my people, the people of Judah, as a shepherd cares for his flock, and I will make them strong, like a splendid warhorse in battle. 4 All their rulers will come from the tribe of Judah. Some will support the people, as a cornerstone supports a building; some will hold them together, as a tent peg holds up a tent; and some will lead them in battle, as a warrior holds his bow in war. Yes, from Judah every ruler will come. 5 Those rulers and their people will be like mighty warriors who trample their enemies into the mud of the streets during battle. They will fight and win, because I, Yahweh, am with them, and they will completely defeat even their most powerful enemies.

6 Because I am Yahweh their God and I pity my people, I will answer them when they pray to me. I will make the people of Judah strong, and I will rescue the people of Israel. I will bring them back to their own land. Then it will be like I had never rejected them. 7 The people of Ephraim will be strong like warriors, and they will be as happy as people who have drunk wine. Their children will see it and be glad; they will celebrate loudly because of what I, Yahweh, have done.

8 I will whistle to signal my people, and I will gather them together because I have rescued them, and they will become as numerous as they were before. 9 Even though I scatter my people among the nations, they will remember me even in those distant lands. They and their children will survive, and they will return to their land. 10 I will bring them back from Egypt in the south and gather them from Assyria in the north. I will bring them to the region of Gilead and to Lebanon, and there will not be enough room for them all.

11 Even though my people's troubles seem like a terrifying sea, I will bring them safely home. I will subdue those troubles completely, as if I were striking down the waves of the sea and drying up the deep waters of the Nile River. I will humble the proud army of Assyria, and I will take away the royal power of Egypt. 12 I will make my people strong by my power, and they will live faithfully, honoring my authority. That is what I, Yahweh, declare."

11 1 Open your gates, people living in Lebanon, because you will not be able to stop the fire from burning up your cedar trees!
2 The cypress trees will be like people who are wailing because the mighty cedar trees have fallen; enemies have destroyed those magnificent trees!

The oak trees in the region of Bashan will also be like people wailing because enemies have cut down the trees of their thick forest!
3 Listen to the shepherds crying because enemies have ruined the rich pastures where they fed their flocks!
Listen to the young lions roaring because enemies have destroyed the thickets along the Jordan River where they lived!

4 This is what Yahweh my God said to me, “Act as a shepherd for a flock of sheep that people are about to slaughter. 5 The people who buy the sheep slaughter them, and no one punishes those buyers. The people who sell the sheep say that they praise Yahweh because they are becoming rich. Not even the shepherds pity the sheep. 6 That is because I, Yahweh, will no longer pity the people who live in this land. That is what I, Yahweh, declare. Instead, I will let everyone’s neighbors and their king dominate them. Those people will devastate this land, and I will not rescue anyone from their control.”

7 So I became like a shepherd of a flock of sheep that people were about to slaughter. I took good care of the sheep, especially the weakest ones. Then I took two shepherd’s staffs. I named one staff “Favor” and the other staff, “Union.” And I took care of the sheep. 8 In one month I got rid of the three other shepherds.

I became impatient with them, and they also hated me. 9 So I said, “I will no longer be your shepherd. Let the sheep that are dying die, and let the sheep that are perishing perish. And let those that remain destroy each other.”

10 Then I took my staff that I had named “Favor,” and I broke it to signify that Yahweh was canceling the covenant that he had made with all the peoples. 11 So the covenant ended on that day. Then the afflicted people of the flock who were watching me knew that this was truly a message from Yahweh. 12 I said to them, “If it seems right to you, pay me my wages; but if not, do not pay me.” So they weighed out my wages: thirty pieces of silver.

13 Then Yahweh said to me, “Throw that money to the potter! What a pathetic price they decided to pay for me!” So I took the thirty pieces of silver and threw them to the potter at the temple of Yahweh. 14 Then I broke my second staff, the one that I had named “Union,” to signify that the close family relationship between the people of Judah and the people of Israel would end.

15 Then Yahweh said to me, “Take again the tools that a foolish shepherd uses, 16 because surely I am going to appoint a shepherd over the people in this land, one who will not care for them. He will not help the sheep that are perishing, he will not search for the ones that have strayed, he will not heal the ones that are injured, and he will not feed the healthy ones. Instead, he will eat the meat of the fattest sheep and tear off their hooves.

17 Terrible things will happen to that worthless shepherd who abandons the flock that he should care for!
Enemies will attack his arm and his right eye with a sword!
As a result, his arm will lose all its strength and his right eye will become completely blind!”

12 1 This is a message that Yahweh gave concerning Israel. Yahweh, the one who created the sky, who formed the earth, and who breathed life into humanity, solemnly declares this:

2 “Listen! I am about to cause the city of Jerusalem to be like an intoxicating drink that makes all the nations around it stagger helplessly when their armies besiege Jerusalem and the region of Judah. 3 Then every nation on earth will come to attack Jerusalem, but I will make it like a solid rock that will badly hurt everyone that comes to attack it. 4 This is what I, Yahweh, declare: On that day I will cause all the horses of the enemy armies to panic and all their riders to go insane. I will watch over the people of Judah and protect them, but I will cause all the horses of those enemy nations to go blind. 5 Then the leaders of the clans of Judah will say to themselves that the people who live in Jerusalem are strong because Yahweh, the commander of the heavenly armies, is their God. 6 On that day I will make the leaders of the clans of Judah able to destroy their enemies completely and quickly. They will defeat all the surrounding peoples on every side of them, and the people of Jerusalem will live safely in their own city again.”

7 Yahweh will first rescue the people who live in the villages of Judah, so that the descendants of King David and the people who live in Jerusalem will not consider themselves more important than the rest of the people of Judah. 8 On that day Yahweh will protect the people who live in Jerusalem. Then even the weakest person among them will fight as powerfully as King David, the great warrior, once did. God will give the descendants of King David such great power that as they lead the people, it will seem as though Yahweh's own angel is going ahead of them.

9 "At that time, I will set out to destroy all the nations that come to attack Jerusalem. 10 I will act very kindly toward the descendants of King David and the people who live in Jerusalem, and I will cause them to plead with me for mercy. They will look to me, the one whom they pierced, and they will mourn for me as strongly as parents mourn for an only son who has died. They will weep many tears for me, as many tears as people weep when a firstborn son dies." 11 On that day the people in Jerusalem will mourn very loudly. They will mourn as loudly as the people did at Hadad Rimmon in the plain of Megiddo, where they grieved for King Josiah after he died in battle.

12 All the people in the land will mourn, each clan by itself. The clan descended from King David will mourn by itself, and their wives will mourn by themselves. The clan descended from Nathan, King David's son, will mourn by itself, and their wives will mourn by themselves. 13 The clan descended from Levi will mourn by itself, and their wives will mourn by themselves. The clan descended from Shimei will mourn by itself, and their wives will mourn by themselves. 14 All the clans that remain will each mourn by itself, and their wives will mourn by themselves.

13 1 At that time, Yahweh will continually cleanse the descendants of King David and the people who live in Jerusalem; he will forgive the sins that they have committed and take away everything that has made them impure. 2 Yahweh, the commander of the heavenly armies, declares, "At that time I will destroy all the idols in the land, so that no one will even speak their names or remember them anymore. I will also drive out of the land those who falsely claim to be prophets, along with the impure spirit that controls them.

3 If anyone still prophesies falsely, his own father and mother, the ones who gave birth to him, will tell him that he must die, because he has lied by claiming that he was speaking with my authority. Then, while he is prophesying, his own father and mother, who gave birth to him, will stab him to death.

4 At that time, every one of those prophets will feel ashamed of the visions that he claimed to see when he prophesied. None of them will wear the rough garment of animal hair that prophets wear, because they will no longer try to deceive people. 5 Instead, each one will say, ‘I am not a prophet. I am a farmer; a man sold me to this land’s owner when I was young.’ 6 If someone asks him, ‘Then what are these wounds on your chest?’ he will answer, ‘Someone wounded me at the house of my friends.’”

7 Yahweh, the commander of the heavenly armies, says this: “I command that someone kill with a sword the leader who cares for my people, the man who is my close associate.
When someone strikes that leader down,
the people whom he led will scatter in every direction, and I myself will attack even the lowliest people among them.”
8 Yahweh declares, “Throughout the whole land, two out of every three people will certainly die,
and only one third of the people will remain alive.
9 I will cause that remaining third to suffer greatly in order to purify them, just as a person refines silver and tests gold by heating them in a fire.
Then they will call out to me for help,
and I will answer them.
I will tell them that they are my people, and they will declare that I, Yahweh, am their God.”

14 1 Pay attention! Yahweh has appointed a time when enemies will plunder the city of Jerusalem, deciding who will take what valuables while they are still in the city where you have to watch them. 2 Yahweh will gather the armies of all the nations to come and fight against Jerusalem. Those armies will capture the city, ransack the houses, and rape the women.
Half of the people who live there they will take away to other lands as captives, but they will not remove the rest of the people from the city. 3 Then Yahweh will go out and fight against those nations, just as he fought his enemies in battles long ago. 4 On that day, Yahweh himself will stand on the Mount of Olives, which is east of Jerusalem. He will split the Mount of Olives in two from east to west, and a very large valley will open up between the two parts.

Half of the mountain will move away toward the north, and half of it will move away toward the south. 5 You people will escape through that valley between the mountains, because the valley will reach all the way to Azal. You will run away just as your ancestors ran away because of the earthquake that happened when Uzziah was the king of Judah. Then Yahweh my God will come, and all his holy angels will come with him. 6 At that time, there will be no daylight; the bright lights in the sky will grow dim. 7 That will be a unique day, and only Yahweh knows when it will happen. It will not follow the normal cycle of day and night. Even in the evening, when it is usually dark, there will still be light. 8 At that time, fresh water will flow out from Jerusalem. Half of it will flow east to the Salt Sea, and half of it will flow west to the Great Sea. The water will keep flowing throughout the whole year.

9 Then Yahweh will rule as king over the whole earth. At that time, people everywhere will worship Yahweh alone, and they will honor him alone as God. 10 The whole land from Geba in the north to Rimmon, south of Jerusalem, will become a flat plain. But Jerusalem will rise up high and will remain where it has always stood. The city will stretch from the Gate of Benjamin to the place of the First Gate, on to the Gate of the Corners, and from the Tower of Hananel to the king's winepresses. 11 People will live in Jerusalem, and enemies will never again completely destroy it. The people who live in Jerusalem will always be safe.

12 Yahweh will cause all the nations who fought against Jerusalem to have these terrible diseases. Their flesh will rot away while they are still alive and standing. Their eyes will rot in their sockets, and their tongues will rot in their mouths. 13 At that time, Yahweh will cause those people to panic completely. They will grab one another by the hand, and they will attack each other. 14 The people of Judah will also fight with Jerusalem. They will gather the wealth of all the surrounding nations—huge amounts of gold, silver, and clothing. 15 The horses, mules, camels, donkeys, and all the other animals in the camps of those enemies will suffer from that same disease.

16 Then everyone who survives from all the nations that attacked Jerusalem will go up to Jerusalem every year to worship the King, Yahweh, the commander of the heavenly armies, and to celebrate the Festival of Shelters, when the people live in temporary shelters. 17 If any of the people groups on the earth do not go up to Jerusalem to worship the King, Yahweh, the commander of the heavenly armies, then Yahweh will not send any rain on their land, and their crops will fail. 18 If the people of Egypt do not go up to Jerusalem to worship there, Yahweh will not judge them the same way. Since they depend on the Nile River rather than on rain, Yahweh will cause them to have the same diseases experienced by all the other nations that do not go up to celebrate the Festival of Shelters. 19 That is how Yahweh will punish the people of Egypt and the people of every other nation that does not go up to celebrate the Festival of Shelters. 20 At that time, someone will engrave the words “Sacred to Yahweh” on the bells that hang on the horses. People will consider the cooking pots in the temple of Yahweh to be just as sacred as the bowls that the priests use in front of the altar. 21 Every cooking pot in Jerusalem and in Judah will be sacred to Yahweh, the commander of the heavenly armies. Everyone who comes to offer sacrifices will take some of those pots and boil the meat of their sacrifices in them. At that time, there will no longer be any merchant selling goods in the temple of Yahweh, the commander of the heavenly armies.

Malachi

1 1 This is a serious message from Yahweh. Yahweh gave it to Malachi to tell to the Israelite people.

2 Yahweh says to the Israelites, “I have shown that I love you.” They may wonder what I mean and ask, “How have you shown love to us?” Yahweh would reply, “Esau and Jacob were brothers. I chose to love Jacob and his descendants. 3 But I did not favor Esau and his descendants. I turned Esau’s hill country into empty land. I let wild dogs live in the places where Esau’s people used to live.” 4 The people of Edom, who are Esau’s descendants, might say, “Enemies have destroyed our towns, but we will rebuild them.” But Yahweh, who commands the heavenly armies, says, “Even if they rebuild, I will tear down what they build. People will call Edom a land of evil people. They will say that Yahweh will always be angry with the people of Edom. 5 You Israelites will see this happen. Then you will say, ‘Even outside the land of Israel, people know that Yahweh is great!’”

6 Yahweh, who commands the heavenly armies, says, “A son honors his father, and a servant respects his master. Since I am like a father to you, you should honor me, but you do not. Since I am your master, you should respect me, but you do not. I am saying this to you priests who do not respect me. You may wonder what I mean and ask, ‘How have we shown disrespect to you?’ 7 You show disrespect by offering unacceptable sacrifices on my altar. You may wonder what I mean and ask, ‘How have we offered unacceptable sacrifices?’ I will tell you. You show disrespect by thinking that you can treat my altar with contempt. 8 You bring blind animals to sacrifice to me. That is wrong. You bring animals that cannot walk or are sick. That is also wrong. If you gave animals like that to your governor, he would not be pleased with you, and he would not accept them.” This is what Yahweh, who commands the heavenly armies, says. 9 “But you are asking me, God, to be kind to you, even though you have done these wrong things. Do not think that I will accept you!” This is what Yahweh, who commands the heavenly armies, says. 10 Yahweh. Who commands the heavenly armies, says, “I wish one of you would close the temple doors. Then you would not light useless fires on my altar. I am not happy with you. I will not accept any offerings from you. 11 People all over the world will respect me. In every place, people will burn incense to honor me and bring me pure offerings, because everyone will know how great I am." This is what Yahweh, who commands the heavenly armies, says. 12 "But you dishonor me. You say that my altar is not important, and you do not value the food you get from it. 13 You even say, 'We are tired of doing this work!' You show that you do not care about it." This is what Yahweh, who commands the heavenly armies, says. "You bring me animals that you stole, cannot walk, or are sick. If you bring these as offerings, do not think that I will accept them from you!" says Yahweh. 14 "I will punish anyone who tries to cheat me. If someone promises to give me a good male animal from his flock but then gives me one that is not healthy, I will punish that person. After all, I am the great King. I am Yahweh, who commands the heavenly armies, and people all over the world respect me."

2 1 Yahweh says, "Now, priests, this command is for you. 2 If you do not obey me and make sure that you honor me, I will curse you," says Yahweh, who commands the heavenly armies. "I will even curse the good things I have given you. In fact, I have already started to curse them, because you are not taking seriously what I have told you to do. 3 I am ready to punish you by keeping you from having good harvests. You will be disgraced, as if I had spread animal waste on your faces, the waste from the animals you sacrifice at festivals. People will consider you as worthless as that waste! 4 Then you will know that I gave you this command so that my agreement with the priests, the descendants of Levi, will continue." This is what Yahweh, who commands the heavenly armies, says. 5 "I made a peaceful and life-giving agreement with them because they revered me, and they revered me greatly. 6 They taught the people what was true, and they did not say things that were wrong. They lived peacefully and honestly, the way I wanted them to, and they helped many people stop doing bad things. 7 After all, a priest should teach people how to know God better. People should learn from what the priest says, because he brings messages from me, Yahweh, the commander of the heavenly armies. 8 But you priests have stopped living the way I want. Your teaching has caused many people to do wrong things. You have failed to keep the agreement I made with the Levite priests," says Yahweh, the commander of the heavenly armies. 9 "So I have made people disrespect you and I have humiliated you before all the people. This is because you have not lived the way I want people to live. You have also not treated everyone fairly when you have applied my laws."

10 In a sense, we all have the same father, since the same God created each of us. So we should not break our promises to each other. If we do, we dishonor the agreement God made with our ancestors. 11 The people of Judah have not been faithful to God. They have done terrible things in Israel and Jerusalem. They have dishonored the temple that Yahweh loves. They are worshiping foreign gods instead of Yahweh. 12 I hope Yahweh will remove from among the people of Israel every single person who does this, even if they bring offerings to Yahweh, who is the commander of the heavenly armies. 13 This is another thing you do: When you come to offer sacrifices at Yahweh's altar, you weep bitterly. You cry and groan because Yahweh no longer accepts your offerings. 14 You may wonder what I mean and ask, "Why does he not accept them?" It is because Yahweh knows that you have not been faithful to the wife you married as a young man. You did this even though she was your partner and you promised to be her husband. 15 God has united husbands and wives so that they are one, and he has made their marriage a spiritual relationship. God made them one because he wants them to have children who are faithful to him. So be careful. Do not break your promise to the wife you married when you were a young man. 16 Yahweh, the God of Israel, says, "I hate divorce. I hate it when one of you does such a cruel thing to your wife. So be careful. Do not break your promise to be faithful to your wife." This is what Yahweh, who commands the heavenly armies, says.

17 Yahweh is tired of hearing what you have been saying. You may wonder what I mean and ask, "How have we made him tired?" You have made him tired by saying, "Yahweh thinks that people who do evil things are actually good. He is happy with them." Yahweh is also tired of hearing you say, "God is not being fair!"

3 1 Yahweh, who commands the heavenly armies, says, "Pay attention! I am about to send my messenger. He will get things ready for me to come. Then I, the Lord you are looking for, will suddenly come to my temple. You want someone to bring you a message about my agreement with you, and I am going to send someone to do that. 2 But when he does come, no one will be able to keep living the way they were living before. When he appears, he will not tell anyone that he is innocent. But he will purify people from sin, just as fire makes metal pure and soap makes clothes clean. 3 He will help people stop sinning, just as a metalworker sits patiently near silver he has melted and keeps removing impurities from it. He will purify the descendants of Levi, just as a metalworker purifies gold and silver. Then they will bring proper offerings to Yahweh. 4 After that, Yahweh will accept the offerings that the people of Judah and Jerusalem bring him, just as he did in ancient times." 5 Yahweh, who commands the armies of heaven, says, "I will come to judge you. I will immediately declare people guilty and punish them if they have practiced witchcraft, committed adultery, made false promises, not paid fair wages to their workers, or taken advantage of widows and orphans and foreigners. People have done those things because they did not think I would punish them, but I will.

6 I will do this because I am Yahweh, and I swore to Abraham that I would bless his descendants. When I make a promise, I keep it. That is why you descendants of Jacob are still living here in Judea, even though you are disobeying me. 7 Ever since the time of your ancestors, you have disobeyed my laws. You have completely ignored them. Now come back to me, and I will come back to you," says Yahweh, the commander of the heavenly armies. "You may wonder what I mean and ask, 'How can we come back to you?' 8 You might think that no one would even try to steal from God. But you are stealing from me! You may wonder what I mean and ask, 'How are we stealing from you?' You are stealing from me by not giving me the tithes and offerings that you should. 9 Because you are robbing me in this way, I have put a curse on all of you Israelites. 10 Bring all the tithes to the room in the temple where the priests keep contributions. Make sure there is food for the priests who serve in my temple. Try this and see what I do in response," says Yahweh, the commander of the heavenly armies. "If you do this, then I will bless you so much that it will be as if I had opened windows in the sky and poured out blessings to you. You will not have enough room to store all of the crops that grow in your fields. 11 I will prevent pests from eating your crops. Your grapevines will produce plenty of grapes," says Yahweh, the commander of the heavenly armies. 12 "Then people from all nations will say that God has blessed you. They will say that because your land will be a delightful place," says Yahweh, the commander of the heavenly armies.

13 Yahweh says, "You have said terrible things about me. You may wonder what I mean and ask, 'What have we said about you?' 14 You have said, 'It is useless to serve God. We have not gained anything by obeying his commands or by showing Yahweh, the commander of the heavenly armies, that we are sorry for our sins. 15 We have come to think that proud people become prosperous. Even when people do bad things, they succeed. They challenge God by doing wicked things, but God does not punish them.'"

16 Then those who honored Yahweh all spoke with one another. Yahweh listened carefully to what they said. Those who honored Yahweh and respected him all wrote their names down in a book as he watched. 17 Then Yahweh, the commander of the heavenly armies, said, "These people especially will belong to me. On the day when I judge people, I will spare them from punishment. I will treat them kindly, just as parents treat kindly the children who obey them. 18 Then once more you will clearly see that righteous people do prosper while wicked people do not. There is that difference between those who obey God and those who disobey him."

4 1 Yahweh, the commander of the heavenly armies, says, "Pay attention! The time is coming when I am going to judge people. People will feel their guilt intensely, as if they were standing in front of a hot furnace. At that time, I will destroy all proud and wicked people as if they were straw burning in a fire. I will destroy them completely, just as a fire burns up plants from top to bottom. 2 But those of you who honor me will experience my power saving you as if the sun were rising and bringing you warmth and light. By my power, I will heal you. You will be as happy as calves are when they leave their stalls to go and play out in the open fields. 3 At the time when I do this, you will completely defeat every wicked person. It will be as if you are stomping them down with your feet." This is what Yahweh, who commands the heavenly armies, says. 4 "Remember to obey the laws that I gave to my servant Moses on Mount Sinai. Obey all the rules and regulations that I gave him for all the Israelite people to obey. 5 Listen carefully! I will send the prophet Elijah to you before the grand and frightening day comes when I, Yahweh, will judge everyone. 6 Because of his message, parents and children will love each other again. I am going to make this happen so that I will not have to come and curse your country."

Matthew

1 1 This is a record of the ancestors of Jesus the Messiah. He is a descendant of King David, who was a descendant of Abraham, the ancestor of all Jewish people.

2 Abraham was the father of Isaac. Isaac was the father of Jacob. Jacob was the father of Judah and Judah's older and younger brothers. 3 Judah was the father of Perez and Zerah. Their mother was Tamar. Perez was the father of Hezrom. Hezrom was the father of Aram. 4 Aram was the father of Amminadab. Amminadab was the father of Nahshon. Nahshon was the father of Salmon. 5 Salmon was the father of Boaz. Boaz's mother was Rahab. Boaz was the father of Obed. Obed's mother was Ruth. Obed was the father of Jesse. 6 Jesse was the father of King David.

David was the father of Solomon. Solomon's mother was Bathsheba, who had been Uriah's wife. 7 Solomon was the father of Rehoboam. Rehoboam was the father of Abijah. Abijah was the father of Asaph. 8 Asaph was the father of Jehoshaphat. Jehoshaphat was the father of Joram. Joram was an ancestor of Ozias. 9 Ozias was the father of Jotham. Jotham was the father of Ahaz. Ahaz was the father of Hezekiah. 10 Hezekiah was the father of Manasseh. Manasseh was the father of Amos. Amos was the father of Josiah. 11 Josiah was the grandfather of Jechoniah and Jechoniah's brothers. They lived at the time when the Babylonian army took the Israelites as captives to the country of Babylon.

12 After the Babylonian army took the Israelites as captives to the country of Babylon, Jechoniah became the father of Salathiel. Salathiel was the father of Zerubbabel.
13 Zerubbabel was the father of Abiud. Abiud was the father of Eliakim. Eliakim was the father of Azor. 14 Azor was the father of Zadok. Zadok was the father of Achim. Achim was the father of Eliud. 15 Eliud was the father of Eleazar. Eleazar was the father of Matthan. Matthan was the father of Jacob. 16 Jacob was the father of Joseph. Joseph was Mary's husband. Mary was the mother of Jesus. Jesus is the one whom we call the Messiah.

17 So then, there are 14 ancestors when we count from Abraham to David. There are 14 ancestors when we count from David until when the Babylonian army took the Israelites as captives to the country of Babylon. There are 14 ancestors when we count from that time to the Messiah.

18 I will tell you what happened when the mother of Jesus the Messiah gave birth to him. His mother Mary was about to marry a man named Joseph, and they had not yet had sex. Despite that, Joseph discovered that Mary was pregnant with a baby (whom the Holy Spirit had given to her). 19 Joseph, who was about to marry her, thought that Mary had sex with another man. Joseph usually did what was right, and he also did not want to shame Mary. So, he decided to say in private that he would not marry her. 20 While Joseph was deciding what to do, he saw an angel from the Lord while he was sleeping! The angel said to him, "Joseph, King David's descendant, do not be reluctant to marry Mary. I say that because it was the Holy Spirit who caused her to become pregnant. 21 She will have a male child. You should name him 'Jesus,' which means 'the Lord rescues'. You should name him that because he will rescue his people from the sins that they have committed."

22 When all those things happened, what the Lord said by speaking through the prophet Isaiah came true. Isaiah said,

23 "A young woman who has never had sex will become pregnant! She will give birth to a male child. People will name him 'Immanuel.'"

The name Immanuel means, "God is with us." 24 After Joseph woke up, he married Mary, which is what the angel from the Lord had told him to do. 25 However, he did not have sex with her before she gave birth to a male child. Joseph named the child Jesus.

2 1 Mary gave birth to Jesus in the town of Bethlehem in the region of Judea. During that time, Herod was the king there. Some time after Mary gave birth to Jesus, some scholars who studied the stars traveled from eastern countries to the city of Jerusalem! 2 They were asking people, "Where is the child who will be the king over the Jewish people? We saw a star appear in the sky that indicated that his mother had given birth to him. We traveled here so that we can worship him."

3 When King Herod learned what these men were asking, he was upset. Many people in the city of Jerusalem were also upset. 4 So, King Herod summoned all the Jewish ruling priests and teachers of the Jewish law. He asked them about where the Messiah's mother would give birth to him.

5 They answered him, "His mother will give birth to him in the town of Bethlehem in the region of Judea. We know that because of what the prophet Micah wrote.

> 6 'You who live in the town of Bethlehem in the land of Judah, > your town is one of the important towns in Judah.
> That is because someone from your town will become a leader.
> That person will rule God's people, the Israelites.'"

7 After that, King Herod summoned the scholars who studied the stars to talk with him privately. He asked them about exactly when they first saw the special star. 8 After that, he told them, "Go to the town of Bethlehem and look for the child. When you are sure that you know who he is, come back and tell me who he is. That way, I too can go and worship him." Then he sent them away.

9 The scholars listened to the king, and then they traveled to Bethlehem. The star which they saw when it appeared in the sky guided them! It moved in the sky until it was directly above the place where the child, Jesus, was living. 10 When they saw how the star moved and then stopped, they were extremely happy. 11 They went into the house above which the star had stopped. There, they saw the child Jesus and his mother Mary. They bowed down and worshiped him. Then, they unpacked the valuable things that they had brought with them.
They gave Jesus gold, incense, and valuable tree resin. 12 After that, God used a dream to tell them not to go back to King Herod. So, they went home on a different road than the one on which they had come.

13 After the scholars who studied the stars went home, Joseph saw an angel from the Lord while he was sleeping! The angel told him, "King Herod wants to find the child so that he can kill him. So, when you wake up, escape to the land of Egypt with the child and his mother, your wife. Stay there until I tell you that you can return home."

14 Then Joseph woke up. During that night, he left for the land of Egypt with the child and the child's mother, his wife. 15 They lived in the land of Egypt while King Herod ruled. So, what the Lord said by speaking through the prophet Hosea came true:

"I have told my son to leave Egypt."

16 When the scholars who studied the stars did not come back to King Herod, he realized that they had fooled him. He became furious. He had some of his soldiers go to the city of Bethlehem and the areas around it and kill every male child who was two years old or younger. He picked those ages because of what the scholars who studied the stars told him about the exact time when they first saw the star. 17 At that time, what God said by speaking through the prophet Jeremiah came true:

18 "People heard women in the town of Ramah lamenting loudly.
It was the descendants of Rachel mourning for their children.
Because their children were dead, they would not stop mourning."

19 During this time, Joseph and his family were living in the land of Egypt. After Herod died, Joseph saw an angel from the Lord while he was sleeping! 20 The angel told him, "Everyone who wanted to kill the child has died. So, when you wake up, return to the country of Israel with the child and his mother, your wife." 21 Then Joseph woke up. He went back to the country of Israel with the child and the child's mother, his wife.

22 However, Joseph heard that Archelaus had succeeded his father, King Herod, as king over the region of Judea. So, he was afraid to live there. Further, while Joseph was sleeping, God instructed him to live somewhere else. So, Joseph decided to live in the region of Galilee. 23 When he and his family arrived in Galilee, they lived in the town of Nazareth. In that way, what God said by speaking through the prophets came true:

"People will say that the Messiah is from Nazareth."

3 1 While Jesus was living in Galilee, a man whom people called John the Baptizer went to a desolate area in the region of Judea. He proclaimed, 2 "Stop doing what is wrong! You should do that because God is about to establish his heavenly kingdom here.” 3 That man is the one about whom the Lord said, by speaking through the prophet Isaiah,

> “In the desolate place, someone will be calling out to the people:
> ‘Prepare yourselves to receive the Lord!
> Make yourselves ready for when he comes!’”

4 As for this man John, he wore rough clothes that he made out of camel’s hair. He fastened around his waist a belt that he made from animal skin. He ate grasshoppers and honey that he found in that desolate area. 5 At that time, people who lived in the city of Jerusalem, many people who lived in the region of Judea, and many people who lived near the Jordan River often went to listen to John. 6 Many of these people agreed that they had sinned. Then, John baptized them in the Jordan River.

7 In fact, many men from the Pharisee sect and from the Sadducee sect went to John so that he would baptize them. When he saw them, he declared to them, “You people are sneaky and dangerous like poisonous snakes! You think that if I baptize you, God will spare you when he punishes sinners. But I did not say that! 8 You need to do the things that show that you have truly rejected your previous sinful way of living! 9 Do not think to yourselves, ‘Certainly God will not punish us, because we are descendants of Abraham!’ That does not impress God. Let me assure you, God could turn these stones into descendants of Abraham! 10 You are like fruit trees that do not produce good fruit. God is like a man who is positioning the head of his axe at the base of those trees, ready to chop them down and throw them into the fire. God is ready to punish you like that if you continue sinning.

11 I use water to baptize you so that you stop doing what is wrong. However, soon you will see someone else who is more powerful than I am. It is not appropriate for me to be even his servant. He will give you the Holy Spirit and make you pure. 12 The Messiah is ready to do that, just like a farmer who has his winnowing fork ready to use. A farmer separates all the good grain from the useless chaff. He stores the grain safely in his barn, but he burns the chaff until it is all gone. Much like that farmer, the Messiah will preserve the people who obey God, and he will punish the people who disobey God.”

13 After John began preaching and baptizing people, Jesus traveled from the region of Galilee to where John was near the Jordan River. He wanted John to baptize him. 14 However, John did not want to baptize him. He said to Jesus, “You should not want me to baptize you.
Actually, I need you to baptize me!”

15 Jesus answered him, “Please baptize me at this time. When you do, you and I will be acting appropriately by doing what God requires.” After Jesus said that, John agreed to baptize him.

16 Right after John baptized him, Jesus walked out of the River Jordan. Then, God allowed him to see into heaven! He saw that the Holy Spirit, who looked like a small bird, was descending from heaven and landing on him. 17 Then God spoke from heaven! He declared, “This man is my Son, the one whom I love dearly. What he does pleases me.”

4 1 After that, the Holy Spirit took Jesus into a desolate area. That way, the ruling evil spirit could try to make him sin. 2 He did not eat any food for 40 days. After that, he was hungry.
3 Then the devil arrived. He wanted to make Jesus sin. He said to Jesus, “Show me that you really are God’s Son. Command these stones to become loaves of bread for you to eat.”

4 Jesus responded, “I will not do that, because Moses wrote in the Scriptures, ‘People need more than food to stay alive. They also need to do everything that God tells them to do.’”

5 After that, the ruling evil spirit transported Jesus to Jerusalem, the sacred city. He made him stand on the highest part of the temple. 6 Then, he said to Jesus, “Show me that you really are God’s Son. Jump from here! You will not hurt yourself, because it says in the Scriptures, > ‘God will tell his angels to protect you.

> They will carry you,
> and you will not hurt yourself at all.’”

7 Jesus responded, “Again, I will not do that, because Moses wrote in the Scriptures, ‘Do not provoke the Lord your God to see what he will do.’”

8 Then, the devil transported Jesus to the top of a very tall mountain. From there, he showed Jesus all the nations in the world. He showed Jesus how rich and powerful they were.
9 He told Jesus, "Bow down and worship me. Then, I will make you the ruler of all these countries."

10 After that, Jesus responded, "Leave me, Satan! I will not worship you, because Moses wrote in the Scriptures, 'You must only worship the Lord your God. He is the only one you may honor as God.'"

11 After Jesus said that, the ruling evil spirit went away. Then, angels arrived and took care of Jesus!

12 Soon afterward, Jesus learned that King Herod Antipas had put John the Baptizer in prison. So, Jesus went back to the region of Galilee. 13 After he visited the town of Nazareth, he went to live in the town of Capernaum. Capernaum is next to the Sea of Galilee in the region that used to belong to the tribe of Zebulun and the tribe of Naphtali. 14 So, what God said by speaking through the prophet Isaiah came true:

> 15 "I am speaking about people in the regions that belong to the tribe of Zebulun and to the tribe of Naphtali.
>
> These regions are by the Sea of Galilee, on the other side of the Jordan River.
>
> We call these regions Galilee, where many non-Jewish people live.
>
> 16 The people who live in those regions sin and despair. They are like people who sit in dark places.
>
> However, God will rescue them. They will be like people who see a bright light.
>
> Again, the people in those regions suffer and die. They are like people who sit in a dangerous place without any light.
> However, God will save them. It will be as if a light shines on them."

17 After he went to live in the town of Capernaum, Jesus started proclaiming, "Stop doing what is wrong! You should do that because God is about to establish his heavenly kingdom here."

18 One day, Jesus was walking next to the Sea of Galilee. He saw two men: Simon, who also had the name Peter, and Simon's younger brother Andrew. They earned money by catching and selling fish. When Jesus saw them, they were using nets to try to catch fish. 19 Jesus commanded them, "Come with me and be my apprentices. I will teach you how to gather people to be my apprentices, just as you have been gathering fish." 20 As soon as Jesus said this, they stopped working. They went with him and were his apprentices. 21 Jesus kept walking next to the sea. Then, he saw two more men: James, the son of Zebedee, and James' younger brother John. When Jesus saw them, they were preparing their fishing tools in a boat with their father, Zebedee. Jesus commanded them, "Come with me and be my apprentices." 22 As soon as they heard what Jesus said, they got out of the boat and left their father. They went with Jesus and were his apprentices.

23 Jesus visited all the towns in the region of Galilee. He instructed people when they gathered in the Jewish meeting places. He proclaimed the good news about God's kingdom. He cured many Jewish people who were sick in any way. 24 Many people who lived in the region of Syria heard about him. They took to him many people who were suffering, people who were sick or hurting, people with demons, and people who could not move or who had seizures. Jesus healed them. 25 Large groups of people went wherever Jesus went. These people came from the region of Galilee, from the region of the Ten Towns, from the city of Jerusalem, from the region of Judea, and from the east side of the Jordan River.

5 1 When Jesus saw these large groups of people, he went up on a hill. He sat down there, ready to teach, and his apprentices gathered around him to listen. 2 Then he began to instruct them. He said,

3 "It is very good for those who do not have spiritual strength.
That is because they are part of God's heavenly kingdom.

4 It is very good for those who grieve.
That is because God will encourage them.

5 It is very good for those who are gentle.
That is because God will give them the world when he renews it.

6 It is very good for those who greatly desire to do what is right.

That is because God will enable them to do what they desire to do.

7 It is very good for those who are merciful to other people.

That is because God will be merciful to them.

8 It is very good for those who desire what is good.

That is because they will be with God.

9 It is very good for those who enable people to be peaceful with each other.

That is because God will regard them as his own children.

10 It is very good for those whom others mistreat because they do what is right.

That is because they are part of God's heavenly kingdom.

11 It is very good for you whenever people act against you because you are my apprentices. They may shame you, mistreat you, and tell many hurtful lies about you. 12 When people treat you like that, God is ready to reward you greatly from heaven. So, you should rejoice very much! Further, people mistreated the Jewish prophets long ago just as people mistreat you now.

13 You are like salt since you make people in this world better, just as salt seasons food. However, if salt were to stop seasoning food well, no one could make it season food well again. No one can use it for anything. So, people throw it away, and others walk on it. In the same way, I will punish you if you do not make this world better.

14 You are like a light that illuminates everyone in this world since you tell people about me. You are like a town on a hill that everyone can see since everyone notices the good things that you do. 15 Further, when people light a lamp, they do not cover it with a basket. Instead, they put it on a lampstand. That way, it illuminates everyone in the house. 16 Just as the light from a lamp illuminates everyone in a house, so you should publicly do what is right. That way, people will notice the good things that you do. Then, they will praise God, your Father, who rules from heaven.

17 You should not conclude that I am here to abolish any parts of the Scriptures. I am not here to abolish them. Rather, I am here so that they come true. 18 Every part of the Scriptures will be authoritative as long as what God has created continues to exist. Further, the Scriptures will be authoritative until everything that their authors wrote about happens. What I have said is true. 19 So then, suppose that someone disregards even one of the most insignificant laws. Also, suppose that this person teaches other people to do the same thing. This person will be insignificant in God's heavenly kingdom. In contrast, suppose that someone obeys the laws and teaches other people to do the same thing. This person will be very important in God's heavenly kingdom. 20 Here is what I mean: You need to do what is right even more than the teachers of the Jewish law and the Pharisees do. That is the only way to participate in God's heavenly kingdom.

21 You know that God said to our ancestors, 'You must not murder anyone. People who murder someone deserve to have a judge decide they are guilty and punish them.' 22 Now here is what I want to tell you: people who become angry with fellow believers deserve to have a judge decide they are guilty and punish them. People who insult fellow believers deserve to have the Jewish council decide they are guilty and punish them. People who say that fellow believers are foolish deserve to have God punish them in hell. 23 So then, suppose that you are standing near the altar in the temple to present something to God. Then, you recall that you have offended a fellow believer. 24 You should set down near the altar what you are presenting to God and depart to visit that fellow believer. You should resolve what happened to offend that fellow believer. Then, you can go back to the altar and present your gift to God. 25 Suppose that someone intends to say to a judge that you did something wrong. You should try to resolve what happened before that person can speak to the judge. That way, the person does not bring you to the judge, who would command one of the officials to put you in jail. 26 If you go to jail, you will never get out of there until you are able to pay every bit of what the judge says you owe. What I have said is true.

27 You know that God said, 'Married people must remain sexually faithful to their spouses.' 28 Now here is what I want to tell you: suppose that a man stares at a woman who is not his wife so that he can think about having sex with her. Simply because of what he desires, he has been sexually unfaithful to his wife. 29 Suppose that you sinned because you looked at something. You should never do that again, even if you have to remove your eyes to make sure of it! You should respond that drastically because it is better for you to have no eyes than to have a complete body but end up in hell. 30 Suppose that you sinned because you touched something. You should never do that again, even if you have to chop off your hands to make sure of it! You should respond that drastically because it is better for you to have no hands than to have a complete body but end up in hell.

31 God said, ‘Suppose that a man wants to divorce his wife. He must present her with a document that states that he is divorcing her.’ 32 Now here is what I want to tell you: a man may divorce his wife only if she has had improper sex. When a man divorces his wife for any other reason, he makes her disobey what God commanded about being sexually faithful to one’s spouse. Further, any man who marries a woman whose husband has divorced her also disobeys what God commanded about being sexually faithful to one’s spouse.

33 Here are more examples: you know that God said to our ancestors, ‘You must not promise to do anything that you will not do. Rather, you must always do what you promised the Lord that you would do.’ 34 Now here is what I want to tell you: you must never have someone or something guarantee what you promise. For example, you must not have heaven guarantee it. That is because heaven is where God rules. 35 You must not have the earth guarantee what you promise. That is because the earth is what God rules over. You must not have the city of Jerusalem guarantee it. That is because Jerusalem is a city that belongs to God, who is a powerful king. 36 You must not have your own head guarantee what you promise. That is because you cannot even control the color of one of your hairs. 37 When you promise something, just say ‘Yes, I will do it,’ or ‘No, I will not do it.’ When you say more to guarantee what you promised, you are doing what Satan wants you to do.

38 You know that God said, ‘You must punish people in a way that matches how they hurt others. For example, consider a person who blinded someone. You should punish that person by blinding him or her too. Consider a person who knocked out someone’s tooth. You should punish that person by knocking out his or her tooth too.’ 39 Now here is what I want to tell you: do not try to stop people who do bad things to you. Rather, suppose that someone insults you by hitting you on the right side of your face. You should turn your face so that the person can hit the left side also. 40 Suppose that someone wants to sue you for your shirt. You should give that person your coat as well. 41 Suppose that someone requires you to carry his or her burden for one section of road. You should continue to carry that person’s burden for a second section of road. 42 Suppose that someone requests something from you. You should give that person what they requested. Suppose that someone wants to receive a loan from you. You should lend money to that person.

43 You know that God said, ‘Care for your fellow Jews.’ Some people add, ‘Despise those who oppose you.’ 44 Now here is what I want to tell you: you should care for those who oppose you. You should pray for those who mistreat you. 45 God causes the sun to shine on people who are wicked and on people who are good. God makes it rain on people who do what is right and on people who do what is wrong. So, when you care and pray for people who oppose you, you are like children of God, your Father, who rules from heaven. 46 Further, if you care for only those who care for you, do not expect God to reward you for doing that. Even unkind tax collectors care for those who care for them. 47 If you say hello only to fellow believers, you are not behaving any differently than unbelievers do. Even unbelieving non-Jews say hello to their friends. 48 So, you should always do what is right, just as God, your Father, who rules from heaven, always does what is right.

6 1 When you do what God desires, make sure that you are not doing it so that people praise you for it. When you do what God desires so that others praise you, God your Father, who rules from heaven, will not reward you.

2 Whenever some people give money to help poor people, they have someone announce what they are doing by playing a loud instrument in the Jewish meeting places and in the main roads. They pretend to help others, but they just want other people to praise them. God will not reward them any more than that. What I have said is true. So, you should not behave like that.
3 Instead, when you give money to help poor people, you should do it as privately as possible.
4 That way, only God your Father will know that you have given money to help poor people.
When he observes you doing that privately, he will reward you.

5 Whenever some people pray to God, they enjoy doing so while standing in the Jewish meeting places and on the street corners. They pretend to focus on praying, but they just want other people to recognize them. God will not reward them any more than that. What I have said is true. So, you should not behave like that. 6 In contrast, when you want to pray to God, you should go to a private room in your house and close the door. Then, you can pray to God your Father, who is there with you in private. When he observes you doing that privately, he will reward you. 7 Further, as you are praying, do not repeat yourself as non-Jews do. They suppose that their gods will listen to them if they use many words. 8 So then, do not pray to God as they do. In fact, before you ask him for anything that you need, God your Father is already aware of what you need.

9 Here is how you should pray to God:

'I pray to God our Father, who rules from heaven.
May all people glorify you.
10 May you establish your kingdom.
May everyone do what you want here on earth, just as they already do in heaven.
11 Please give us the food we need each day.
12 We have forgiven people for when they did not treat us rightly.
In the same way, please forgive us for when we do not act rightly.
13 Please protect us from everything that tries to make us sin.
Please rescue us when Satan tries to harm us.'

14 God your Father, who rules from heaven, will forgive you as long as you forgive the people who sin against you. 15 However, God your Father will not forgive you when you sin against him as long as you do not forgive other people.

16 Whenever some people do not eat in order to please God, they change how their faces look. They pretend to be sad, but they just want other people to recognize that they are not eating. God will not reward them any more than that. What I have said is true. So, you should not behave like that. 17 In contrast, when you do not eat in order to please God, you should keep yourselves neat and clean. 18 That way, other people do not know that you are not eating. Only God your Father, who is there with you in private, will know. When he observes you doing that privately, he will reward you

19 You should not collect many valuable things for yourselves in this world. In this world, insects eat clothes, and metal objects corrode. Further, robbers force their way into people's houses to take their goods. 20 Rather, you should collect many valuable things for yourselves in heaven. In heaven, insects do not eat clothes, and metal objects do not corrode. Further, robbers do not force their way into people's houses to take their goods. 21 That is important because you think and care most about the place where you collect valuable things.

22 Your eyes are like a lamp since they enable you to see. If your eyes are working properly, then your whole body will benefit. 23 However, if your eyes are not working properly, then your whole body does not benefit at all. So consider how bad it is when what you see as bright light is actually very dark!

24 Servants cannot serve two different masters at the same time. If they tried to do that, they would hate one of them and love the other one, or they would be loyal to one of them and consider the other one to be unimportant. In the same way, you cannot devote your life to serving God if you are also devoting your life to acquiring money and other material possessions.

25 So then, here is what I want to tell you: do not worry about whether you will have enough to eat or drink to stay alive. Do not worry about whether you will have enough clothes to wear to stay warm. After all, your life is more important than the food you eat, and your body is more important than the clothes you put on it. 26 Think about the birds that fly in the sky. They do not plant seeds, and they do not harvest crops. They do not store crops, but God your Father, who rules from heaven, provides food for them. You are certainly much more important than they are, so you can be sure that God will give you what you need. 27 You cannot add even a minute to your life by worrying about it!

28 So, you should not worry about whether you will have enough clothes to wear. Observe the way that flowers grow in a field. They do not work to earn money, and they do not make their own clothes. 29 However, here is what I want to tell you: King Solomon, who lived long ago and wore glorious clothes, never dressed as beautifully as a single flower. 30 God makes plants beautiful, even though they grow for only a short time. Then people cut them down and throw them into the fire. But you are very precious to God. He will care for you even more than he cares for the plants. You should trust God more than you do! 31 So then, do not worry by asking about whether you have anything to eat or drink, or whether you have clothes to wear. 32 The people who do not know God worry about such things. However, you should not worry about such things because God your Father, who rules from heaven, knows that you need them all. 33 You should concentrate primarily on what you can do for God's kingdom and on doing what God considers to be right. When you do those things, you can trust God to provide everything you need.

34 So then, do not worry about what will happen tomorrow. You can worry tomorrow about what will happen during that day. Enough bad things happen each day that you should not worry about bad things that might happen tomorrow.

7 1 Do not harshly criticize other people. That way, God will not harshly criticize you. 2 I say that because God will harshly criticize you in the same way that you harshly criticize others. In fact, God will treat you in the same way that you treat others. 3 None of you should concentrate on the small faults of another person. You should concentrate on your own serious faults. Otherwise, that would be like noticing a speck in the eye of that person while not noticing a huge wooden plank in your own eye. 4 You should not tell another believer, 'Let me help you correct your faults,' while you have not yet dealt with your own faults. 5 If you do that, you are a hypocrite! You should first stop committing your own sins. That will be like removing a large plank from your own eye. Then, as a result, you will have the spiritual insight you need to help others get rid of the smaller faults that are like little specks in their eyes.

6 Apply this saying to how you live: do not present sacred things to dogs, and do not put valuable things in front of pigs. I say that because the pigs will crush your valuable things, and the dogs will destroy the sacred things and then attack you.

7 Keep asking God for the things you need, and he will give them to you. Keep seeking those things from God, and you will receive them. Ask God to make things possible for you, and he will act on your behalf. 8 You should do those things because everyone who keeps asking God for the things they need will receive them. Everyone who seeks those things from God will receive them. If people ask God to make things possible for them, God will act on their behalf. 9 Suppose one of you had a child who asked you for bread to eat. You certainly would not give your child a rock to eat! 10 Similarly, suppose that your child asked you for a fish to eat. You certainly would not give your child a poisonous snake to eat! 11 So, even though you people are sinful, you still know how to give good gifts to your children. Therefore, it is even more certain that God your Father, who rules from heaven, will give good things to those who ask him.

12 In conclusion, in whatever way you want others to act toward you, that is the way you should act toward them. Then, you will be doing what it says in all the parts of the Scriptures.

13-14 When you choose how to live, you are like a traveler choosing which path to take. There is an easy path and a large gate, and many people go that way. However, if you go that way, God will punish you. There is also a hard path and a small gate, and only a few people go that way. You should use that small gate, because that is how you will truly live.

15 Watch out for people who lie when they claim to speak messages from God. They may look like they are part of God's people, but really they want to hurt God's people. 16 You can tell what people are really like by the things that they do. So, people are like plants in this way. A bush with thorns does not produce grapes. A thorny plant does not produce figs.
17 Similarly, all healthy fruit trees produce fruit that is good to eat. All unhealthy fruit trees produce fruit that is bad to eat. 18 Healthy fruit trees cannot produce fruit that is bad to eat. Unhealthy fruit trees cannot produce fruit that is good to eat. 19 People chop down every tree that does not produce fruit that is good to eat. Then, they burn those trees for fuel. In the same way, God will punish everyone who does not do what is right. 20 Therefore, you can tell if a plant is healthy or unhealthy by what kind of fruit it produces. In the same way, you can tell what people are really like by the things that they do.

21 Just calling me your Lord is not enough for you to participate in God's heavenly kingdom. Rather, you need to do what God my Father, who rules from heaven, wants you to do.
22 On the day when God will judge everyone, many people will tell me, 'Our Lord, we represented you when we proclaimed what God says! We represented you when we drove evil spiritual beings out of people! We represented you when we did many powerful things!' 23 I will then respond to them, 'You were never part of my people. You do what is wrong. Leave me!'

24 So, all people who hear my teachings and obey them are acting as wise people who construct their homes on top of solid rock. 25 There may be heavy rain, and there may be floods, and there may be strong winds that buffet those homes. However, they will not collapse. That is because the wise people constructed them on top of solid rock. 26 However, all people who hear my teachings and do not obey them are like foolish people who construct their homes on top of shifting sand. 27 There may be heavy rain, and there may be floods, and there may be strong winds that buffet those homes. Then, they will collapse completely."

28 When Jesus finished teaching, the large groups of people who had listened to him felt amazed at the way he taught. 29 They felt amazed because he did not teach as the teachers of the Jewish law did. Rather, he taught them like someone whom God had authorized to do so.

8 1 When Jesus went down from the hill, large groups of people went wherever he went.

2 Then, a man who had a skin disease came and knelt before Jesus. He said to Jesus, "Lord, please heal me! I know that you are able to heal me if you are willing!"

3 Then Jesus stretched out his hand and touched the man. He said, "I am willing to heal you, and I heal you now!" At that time, Jesus healed the man from his skin disease. 4 Then Jesus told him, "Do not tell anyone what just happened. Instead, go and show yourself to a priest so that he can examine you and see that you no longer have the skin disease. Also, present the offering that Moses required for people whom God has healed from skin disease. This will prove to the community that you no longer have the skin disease."

5 While Jesus was visiting the city of Capernaum, an important Roman officer came to him. He urged Jesus to help him. 6 He said, "Lord, one of my servants is lying in bed at my home because he cannot move. He is suffering very much. Please help him."

7 Jesus answered, "I will go to your home and cure him."

8 The important officer responded, "Lord, I am not important enough for you to come into my house. Instead of going to my house, you can cure my servant just by speaking a command. 9 I know that you can do this because I myself am a man who must obey the orders of my superiors. I also have soldiers who must obey my orders. When I say to one of them, 'Go there!' he goes there. When I say to another one, 'Come here!' he comes to me. When I say to my slave, 'Perform this task!' he does it."

10 What the officer said impressed Jesus. Jesus declared to the people who were with him, "I have not met any Israelite who trusts me as much as this man does! What I have said is true. 11 So, here is what I want to tell you: many people from every part of the world, including many non-Jewish people, will arrive in God's heavenly kingdom. They will feast along with our Jewish ancestors, Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob. 12 However, God will cast out many people who think that they will participate in his kingdom. He will punish them in a dark place, where they will cry and sorrowfully grind their teeth.” 13 Then, Jesus told the important officer, “Return home. I will do for you what you have trusted me to do.” Jesus healed the servant at that exact time.

14 After that, Jesus went to Peter’s home. There, he saw that Peter’s mother-in-law was lying in bed because she had a fever. 15 He touched her hand, and she recovered from the fever. Then she stood up and offered Jesus some food. 16 When it was evening, people brought to Jesus many men and women whom evil spiritual beings controlled. Jesus drove these evil spiritual beings out of those men and women just by speaking words. Also, he cured everyone who was sick. 17 So, what God said by speaking through the prophet Isaiah came true: “When we were sick, he helped us. When we were ill, he cured us.”

18 When Jesus saw that there was a large group of people around him, he told his apprentices to take him by boat to the other side of the Sea of Galilee. 19 Before they got into the boat, a teacher of the Jewish law came up to Jesus and said to him, “My instructor, I want to go with you and be your apprentice.”

20 Jesus replied, “Foxes have holes in the ground to live in, and birds have nests to live in, but I, the Son of Man, do not have a home to sleep in!”

21 A different person who was one of Jesus’ apprentices said to him, “Lord, let me first go home and stay there until I bury my father. Then I will go with you.”

22 Jesus responded, “Come with me and be my apprentice now. You cannot help anyone who has died.”

23 After that, Jesus got on the boat, and his apprentices went with him. They started sailing to the other side of the Sea of Galilee. 24 As they were sailing a strong windstorm developed over the Sea of Galilee! Very high waves were splashing into the boat and filling it, but Jesus was asleep. 25 So Jesus’ apprentices came over to wake him up. They said to him, “Lord, please help us! We are all going to die!”

26 Jesus answered, “You should not be so afraid. You should trust God more than you do!” Then he stood up. He scolded the wind and the water, and everything became calm.

27 What happened impressed the apprentices. They wondered, “What kind of person is Jesus? The wind and the water do what he says!”

28 After that, they arrived on the other side of the Sea of Galilee, in the region where the Gadarene people lived. When they landed, two men whom demons controlled came up to Jesus. They came from the burial caves. They were strong and dangerous. Because of them, no one could travel on the road that went near the burial caves. 29 They shouted to Jesus, “Leave us alone, you who are God’s Son! You should not arrive to punish us before it is the time that God has appointed.” 30 Now there was a large herd of pigs grazing relatively far away from them. 31 The demons pleaded with Jesus, “When you drive us out of these two men, please allow us to control that herd of pigs!”

32 Jesus answered, “I will allow that!” So, the demons left the men and began to control the pigs. Then, the whole herd of pigs rushed down the steep bank into the Sea of Galilee! They died there in the sea. 33 Then those who were taking care of the pigs ran away. They went to the nearby town, where they told people about everything that had happened, including what had happened to the men whom the demons had controlled. 34 Then many people who lived in that town went to see Jesus! When they met him, they pleaded with him to leave their area.

9 1 After that, Jesus and his apprentices got into a boat. They sailed across the Sea of Galilee and arrived back in the city of Capernaum, where Jesus was living. 2 Some people brought to Jesus a man who could not move! He was lying on a sleeping pad. Jesus perceived that these people believed that he could heal the man. So, he said to the man who could not move, “Do not worry, young man. I forgive you for your sins!”

3 Some teachers of the Jewish law thought to themselves, “He is insulting God!”

4 Jesus realized what they were thinking. He said, “You should not be thinking what is wrong! 5 You may think that it is easy to claim to forgive other people for their sins, since it is difficult to prove whether this has happened. Similarly, you may think that it is difficult to tell someone who cannot move to stand up and walk around, since it is easy to prove whether this has happened. 6 However, I want you to know that God has authorized me, the Son of Man, to forgive people on earth for their sins." So, he said to the man who could not move, "Stand up, carry your sleeping pad, and go home!" 7 Then, the man stood up and went home. 8 Once the large groups of people who were near Jesus saw what had happened, they felt afraid. Also, they praised God for enabling people to do such amazing things.

9 As Jesus was walking away from that place, he noticed a man whom people called Matthew. Matthew was sitting in the booth where the people came to pay him the taxes that the government required. Jesus said to him, "Come with me and be my apprentice!" So Matthew stood up and went with him as his apprentice.

10 Later, Jesus was feasting in Matthew's home. Many people who collected taxes and other sinful people arrived! They feasted with Jesus and his apprentices. 11 When the Pharisees saw what Jesus was doing, they told Jesus' apprentices, "Your instructor should not be feasting with people who collect taxes and other sinful people."

12 Jesus learned what they said. He answered, "People who are well do not need a doctor. Rather, people who are sick need a doctor. 13 You should study and learn from what God has said in the Scriptures: 'What I most want is that people treat each other mercifully, not that people present offerings to me.' Much like that, I am here not to invite those who think they are righteous to come to me. Rather, I invite those who know that they have sinned to come to me."

14 Sometime later, the apprentices of John the Baptizer visited Jesus. They asked him, "We and the Pharisees frequently do not eat in order to please God. However, your apprentices do not do so. Why not?"

15 Jesus answered, "The friends of the bridegroom do not grieve while the wedding celebration is still going on. However, someday the bridegroom will no longer be with his friends. Then they will not eat. 16 People do not place a piece of unshrunken cloth on old clothing in order to mend a hole. That is because, when they washed the garment, the new piece of cloth would shrink and completely rip out of the clothing. As a result, the hole would become even bigger! 17 Similarly, people do not put fresh wine into old skin bags to store it. If they did that, the skin bags would tear open because they would not stretch when the fresh wine fermented and expanded. That would ruin the skin bags, and the wine would spill out. On the contrary, people put fresh wine into new skin bags. That way, they do not ruin the wine and the bags."

18 As Jesus was speaking to John's apprentices, an important man arrived! He knelt before Jesus and said, "My daughter just died. Please come with me and touch her. That way, she will live again." 19 Jesus and his apprentices stood up, and they went with the man.

20-21 Now there was a woman who had been suffering for 12 years from a disease that caused continual bleeding. She thought, "Just touching Jesus' robe will cure me." So, she approached Jesus from behind, and she touched the hem of his robe.

22 After the woman touched Jesus' robe, Jesus turned around and looked at her. He said to her, "Do not worry, young woman. Because you believed that I could heal you, you are now well." At that very moment, the woman became well.

23 After that, Jesus arrived at the important man's home. He saw people grieving there. Some people were playing instruments, and many people were making a lot of noise. 24 He said to these people, "Leave! The young woman is not dead! She is only sleeping." Then, the people made fun of him for saying that. 25 After those people left, Jesus went to where the girl was. He took hold of her hand, and she became alive again and stood up. 26 After that, people throughout that whole area heard about what Jesus had done.

27 When Jesus left the important man's house, two men who were blind went with him. They were shouting, "You who are a descendant of King David, help us!"

28 After Jesus entered the house where he was staying, the blind men approached him. Jesus asked them, "Do you believe that I can heal you?"

They answered, "Yes, Lord, we do!"

29 After they said that, he touched their eyes. He declared, "I will do for you what you have trusted me to do." 30 Then, they could see. Jesus sternly told them, "Do not tell anyone about what just happened!" 31 However, after the two men left, they told people throughout that whole area about what Jesus had done.

32 While the two men were leaving, some people brought a man to Jesus! A demon was controlling him and keeping him from speaking. 33 Jesus drove the demon out of the man, and he was able to speak. What Jesus had done impressed the large groups of people who were nearby. They declared, “We have not seen anything like this before in our country Israel!”

34 However, the Pharisees declared, “It is the leader of the demons who enables this man to drive out demons!”

35 Jesus traveled to many of the cities and towns in that area. He instructed people when they gathered in the Jewish meeting places. He proclaimed the good news about God’s kingdom. He cured people who were sick in any way. 36 Jesus observed that the large groups of people who traveled wherever he went seemed upset and confused. They were like sheep who did not have a sheepherder to lead them and to take care of them. So, Jesus pitied them. 37 So he told his apprentices, “Many people are ready to believe in me, but there are only a few people whom I can send out to help them. 38 So pray to God, who wants all of those people to believe, and plead with him for more people who can go and help them.”

10 1 Then, Jesus told his 12 apprentices to come to him. He authorized them to drive demons out of people and to cure people who were sick in any way. 2 Here is a list of the names of the 12 men whom Jesus chose to represent him: Simon, whom people also call Peter; Andrew, Peter’s younger brother; James, Zebedee’s son; John, James’ younger brother;
3 Philip; Bartholomew; Thomas; Matthew, a man who collected taxes; James, Alphaeus’ son;
Thaddaeus; 4 Simon the Zealot; and Judas Iscariot, who eventually helped to arrest Jesus.

5 Jesus sent those 12 men to represent him. Before they went, he told them, “Do not travel to places where non-Jews live. Do not visit Samaritan towns. 6 Instead, go to your fellow Israelites. They are like sheep who have wandered off and need help. 7 While you are traveling, proclaim to people, ‘God is about to establish his heavenly kingdom here.’ 8 Cure people who are sick. Make people who have died alive again. Heal people with skin diseases. Drive demons out of people. I have not charged you money as I enable you to do these things. So, you should not charge other people money to do these things for them. 9 Do not pack any money to take with you. 10 Do not pack a traveler’s bag, or an extra shirt, or sandals, or a walking stick. I tell you not to bring these things because people who work deserve their food. So, the people whom you help will give you what you need. 11 When you visit a city or town, look for someone who lives there who welcomes you. When you find such a person, stay in that person's home until you leave that area. 12 When you go into that person's home, say hello to the people who live there and pray that God will make them peaceful. 13 Suppose that the people who live in that house really do welcome you. Then, God will make them peaceful, as you prayed. However, suppose that the people who live in that house do not welcome you. Then, God will not make them peaceful. 14 Whenever people do not welcome you or listen to what you say, you should leave that home or city. As you are going, shake the dust from that place off your feet to show that you reject those people. 15 God will judge and punish any people who reject you more severely than he will judge and punish the wicked people who lived in the cities of Sodom and Gomorrah. What I have said is true.

16 I am sending you out to represent me to people who will be hostile to you, so you will be like sheep among wolves. Therefore, you need to be as clever as snakes are. You also need to be as innocent as small birds are. 17 Watch out for certain people. They will arrest you and accuse you in front of groups of important people. They will beat you in the Jewish meeting places. 18 Because you are my apprentices, people will accuse you before local rulers and kings. That way, you will tell those rulers and the rest of the non-Jews about me. 19 Whenever people arrest you and accuse you, do not worry about how you will respond. At that time, God will reveal to you what you should say. 20 You can be sure of that because the Holy Spirit, whom God your Father sends, will reveal to you what to say. You will not speak for yourself.

21 Men will have someone arrest their own brothers, and they will ask the judge to execute them. Fathers will do the same thing to their own children. Children will rebel against their parents and cause them to die. 22 Because you are my apprentices, many people will be hostile to you. However, if you persevere in being my apprentices while people harm you, God will rescue you. 23 When people in one city try to harm you, you should quickly travel to another city. You should do that because I, the Son of Man, will return before you have proclaimed the good news in every town in Israel. What I have said is true.

24 Apprentices are not greater than their teacher. Similarly, servants are not greater than their master. 25 Those apprentices should be content when they become like their teacher. Similarly, those servants should be content when they become like their master. Since people called the person who leads the family Satan, they will also call the people who are part of the family bad names. 26 So then, do not be afraid of those people. I say that because someday God will let everyone know everything people are trying to hide. 27 You should declare publicly everything I have said to you privately. You should shout for everyone to hear what you have heard me say quietly. 28 Do not be afraid of people. They can kill you physically, but they cannot kill you spiritually. Instead, you should be afraid of God. He can destroy you both spiritually and physically in hell. 29 Think about the sparrows. They have so little value that you can buy two of them for only one small coin. However, God your Father knows about it whenever one sparrow dies. 30 God even knows how many hairs there are on your head.

31 So, do not be afraid, because you are more precious to God than many sparrows.

32 If people tell others that they are my apprentices, then I will say to God my Father, who rules from heaven, that those people are my apprentices. 33 However, if they tell others that they are not my apprentices, then I will say to God my Father, who rules from heaven, that those people are not my apprentices.

34 You should not think that I am here so that people will live together peacefully. Indeed, I am here so that people quarrel, not so that they live peacefully. 35 In fact, I am here so that family members oppose each other. A man will oppose his father. A woman will oppose her mother. A woman who married a man will oppose her husband's mother. 36 People who are part of a person's family will be those who oppose that person.

37 People who care for their fathers or mothers more than they care for me are not behaving as my apprentices should. People who care for their sons or daughters more than they care for me are not behaving as my apprentices should. 38 People who are not willing to suffer or die, as if they were carrying their own crosses, when they come with me as my apprentices are not behaving as my apprentices should. 39 People who do anything to stay alive will not truly live. However, people who are willing to die because they are my apprentices will truly live.

40 When people welcome you, it is the same as welcoming me. When people welcome me, it is the same as welcoming God the Father, who sent me here. 41 As for those who welcome someone because they know that person speaks for God, God will reward them in the same way that he rewards people who speak for him. As for those who welcome someone because they know that person does what is right, God will reward them in the same way that he rewards people who do what is right. 42 As for those who offer an unimportant person cold water to drink just because they know that person is my apprentice, God will most certainly reward them. What I have said is true."

11 1 So, Jesus completed instructing his 12 apprentices about what they should do. Then, he left that place in order to proclaim the good news to people in the towns throughout the area.

2 Meanwhile, John the Baptizer was in jail. People told him about what Jesus the Messiah was doing. So, he sent some of his apprentices 3 to ask Jesus, "Are you the one whom God promised would come, or should we be waiting for someone else?"

4 So Jesus answered John's apprentices, "Go back and tell John what you have heard and seen. 5 People who were blind are now seeing. People who could not walk are now walking. People who had skin diseases no longer have them. People who were deaf can now hear. People who were dead are alive again. I am proclaiming good news to poor people. 6 God will bless anyone who sees what I do and hears what I teach and continues to believe in me."

7 When John's apprentices left, Jesus started to talk to the large groups of people about John. He said, "Surely you did not travel to John in the desolate area to see someone who often changed his mind, who was like the thin stalk of a plant that the wind shakes. 8 Surely you did not travel to the desolate area to see someone who wore fancy clothes. You know very well that the people who wear fancy clothes live in palaces, not in desolate areas. 9 Surely you traveled to the desolate area to see a man who spoke for God. Yes, that is who John is! But I want to tell you that John is more significant than other people who speak for God. 10 He is the one about whom a prophet wrote in the Scriptures:

'Listen, I am sending my messenger ahead of you. He will make things ready for when you come.'

11 Of all the people who have ever lived, there has been no one more important than John the Baptizer. However, the most insignificant people who participate in God's heavenly kingdom are more important than John. What I have said is true. 12 From the time when John the Baptizer began to preach publicly until this time, people have attacked God's heavenly kingdom. Indeed, violent people try to conquer it. 13 Further, before John began to preach, the laws that God gave Moses and the things that the prophets wrote predicted what is now happening. 14 In fact, if you trust what I say, you can know that John is the one whom God promised would come, the one who is like the prophet Elijah. 15 You should think carefully about what you just heard me say!

16 I will tell you what you people who live in this time period are like. You are like children playing games in an open area. They call out to their friends, 17 'We played happy music for you on the flute, but you did not dance! Then we sang sad funeral songs for you, but you did not grieve!' 18 Similarly, when John came to you and often did not eat or drink, people rejected him and said, 'A demon is controlling him!' 19 But when I, the Son of Man, came to you and I enjoyed food and drink, people rejected me and said, 'Look! This man eats too much food and drinks too much wine, and he associates with people who collect taxes and other sinful people!' But those who are wise themselves recognize that what John and I do is also wise."

20 Now people who lived in the towns where Jesus had done many powerful things did not stop doing what was wrong. So, Jesus began to scold them: 21 "How terrible it will be for you people who live in the cities of Chorazin and Bethsaida! I say this because I did powerful things while I was in your cities. If I had done those same powerful things in the ancient cities of Tyre and Sidon, the wicked people who lived there would have stopped doing what was wrong. They would have shown how sorry they were by wearing coarse clothing and putting ashes on their heads. 22 So I want to tell you that when God judges everyone, he will punish you more severely than the wicked people who lived in Tyre and Sidon. 23 I also have something to say to you people who live in the town of Capernaum. You may think that God is going to give you great rewards. No, God is not going to reward you at all! I say this because I did powerful things while I was in your town. If I had done those same powerful things in the city of Sodom, the wicked people who lived there would have stopped doing what was wrong, and God would not have destroyed them. 24 So I want to tell you that when God judges everyone, he will punish you more severely than the wicked people who lived in the region of Sodom."

25 Then Jesus responded by praying, "God my Father, you are Lord over everything you have made. I praise you that you have prevented people who think they are smart from understanding things. Instead, you have revealed them to people who accept what you say as readily as little children do. 26 That is true, my Father, and you have done that because it pleased you to do so."

27 Then Jesus told the people who were there, "God, my Father, has given everything to me. Only my Father really knows me, his Son. And only I, his Son, really know my Father. But I do choose to show some people who he is. 28 Many of you feel tired and are struggling. Become my apprentices! I will enable you to rest. 29 I am not forceful or proud, and I will help you to rest. So, do what I command and listen to what I teach. 30 I say that because you can easily do what I command. Indeed, you can easily do what I ask you to do."

12 1 Some time later, Jesus and his apprentices were walking through grain fields during one of the Jewish days of rest. His apprentices became hungry, so they started to pick some grain and eat it. 2 Some Pharisees saw the apprentices picking grain. They said to Jesus, "Look! Your apprentices are working on the Jewish day of rest. Our law forbids us to do that."

3 Jesus replied, "Consider the story in the Scriptures about what King David did when he and the men who were with him became very hungry. 4 As you know, David entered the sacred tent. He ate some of the bread that had been on display before God, even though the law prohibited him and the men who were with him from doing that. Only priests could eat that bread. 5 Likewise, consider the laws in the Scriptures that permit priests to work during the Jewish days of rest because they are serving in the Jewish sanctuary. 6 However, I want you to know that there is now something even more important than the Jewish sanctuary. 7 Suppose that you truly understood what God has said in the Scriptures: 'What I most want is that people treat each other mercifully, not that people present offerings to me.' Then, you would not have declared my apprentices guilty when they have actually not disobeyed the laws about the Jewish day of rest. 8 I say those things because I, the Son of Man, can decide what is right for people to do during the Jewish day of rest!"

9 Then Jesus left the grain fields and visited one of the Jewish meeting places. 10 Now there was a man there who could not move his hand. The Pharisees wanted to accuse Jesus of disobeying the laws about not working on the Sabbath. So, they asked Jesus, "Does our law allow us to cure people from their diseases during Jewish days of rest?"

11 Jesus replied, “Suppose that one of you had a single sheep. Also suppose that this sheep fell into a deep hole on a Jewish day of rest. You would certainly pull it out of the hole, even though this would be doing work on the Jewish day of rest! 12 Therefore, since people are more important than sheep, you should help others even more than you help sheep on Jewish days of rest. So then, the laws that God gave Moses allow people to do what is good on Jewish days of rest.” 13 After saying that, Jesus commanded the man, “Extend the hand that you cannot move!” The man extended his hand, and he could move it just as well as his other hand.
14 Then the Pharisees left the Jewish meeting place. They started planning how they could kill Jesus.

15 Jesus knew that the Pharisees were planning to kill him. So, he left that area. Many people went with him, and he cured all of them who were sick. 16 Jesus commanded them strongly that they should not tell other people about him. 17 So, what God said by speaking through the prophet Isaiah came true:

> 18 “Consider the one who serves me, whom I selected.
> I love him, and what he does pleases me.
> I will empower him with the Holy Spirit.
> He will declare to the non-Jews that I do what is right.
> 19 He will not quarrel with people. He will not shout loudly.
> He will not speak to many people in public areas.
> 20 He will be gentle with weak people.
> He will be kind to feeble people.
> He will do those things until he successfully completes doing what is right.
> 21 Non-Jewish people will confidently trust in him.”

22 After that, some people brought a man to Jesus. A demon was controlling him and keeping him from seeing or speaking. Jesus cured the man, and he was able to speak and see.
23 What Jesus had done impressed all the large groups of people who were nearby. They declared to each other, “Perhaps this man is the special descendant of King David.”

25 Jesus realized what they were thinking. So he said to them, “When the people in one nation fight against each other, they will destroy their nation. When people who live in the same town or household fight against each other, that town or household will not last.
26 Suppose that Satan enabled people to force out his own demons. In that case, he would be fighting against himself. So, he would soon cease to rule over the demons! 27 Further, suppose that Beelzebul is enabling me to force out demons. Then, it must also be true that he is enabling your apprentices to force out demons. But you know that is not true. So your own apprentices prove that you are wrong. 28 Actually, the Holy Spirit enables me to force out demons. That means that God is establishing his kingdom among you. 29 Before thieves can break into the home of a strong man and take his belongings, they must first tie up the strong man. After that, they can take the belongings from his home.

30 Anyone who is not supporting me is opposing me. Anyone who is not bringing people to me is sending them away from me.

31 So then, here is what I want to tell you: God will forgive many people who sin in many ways or say bad things about God or others. However, God will not forgive people who say bad things about the Holy Spirit. 32 Further, God will forgive people who say bad things about me, the Son of Man. However, God will not forgive people who say bad things about the Holy Spirit. He will not forgive them right now or at any later time.

33 You must decide either that both a tree and its fruit are healthy or that both a tree and its fruit are unhealthy. I say that because you can tell if a tree is healthy or unhealthy by what kind of fruit it produces. Similarly, you can tell what people are really like by the things that they do. 34 You people are sneaky and dangerous like poisonous snakes! Because you are wicked, you cannot say anything good. I say that because people speak based on what they are thinking about. 35 Good people say good things because they think good things. Evil people say evil things because they think evil things. 36 Here is what I want you to know: when God judges everyone, he will hold people responsible for all the useless things that they have said. 37 In fact, God will declare that you are either innocent or guilty based on what you have said.”

38 After Jesus said those things, some teachers of the Jewish law and some Pharisees responded, “Instructor, we want to see you perform a miracle that proves that God sent you.”

39 Then Jesus replied to them, “You people who are alive right now are wicked and faithless. You want me to do a miracle that proves that God sent me. However, the only miracle you will see is a miracle like the one that happened to the prophet Jonah. 40 A huge fish swallowed Jonah, and he was inside this fish for three whole days. Then, God had the fish spit him out. Similarly, people will bury me, the Son of Man, and I will be in a tomb for three whole days. Then, I will live again. 41 The people who lived in the ancient city of Nineveh stopped sinning when Jonah preached to them. And now there is something even more important than the prophet Jonah. However, you have not stopped sinning. Therefore, when God judges everyone, the people who lived in Nineveh will stand up and condemn the people who are alive right now. 42 Long ago the Queen of Sheba traveled a great distance to listen to the wise things that King Solomon said. And now there is something even more important than Solomon. However, you have not really listened to what I say. Therefore, when God judges everyone, she will stand up and condemn the people who are alive right now.

43 Listen to this story: an evil spirit leaves someone and wanders around in desolate areas looking for someone else to live in. However, it does not find anyone there. 44 After that, it says to itself, ‘I am going to go back to the person I used to live in!’ So it goes back and finds that the person is like a house that someone has cleaned and organized, but no one is living in it. 45 Then this evil spirit goes and gets seven other spirits that are even more evil than it is. They all enter that person and begin living in him. That person experienced bad things before, but now he will experience worse things. Something like that is what you wicked people who are alive right now will experience.”

46 As Jesus was saying those things to the large groups of people, his mother and his younger brothers arrived and waited outside where he was. They wanted to talk with him. 47 A person told him, “Your mother and your younger brothers are waiting outside. They want to talk with you.”

48 Jesus replied, “I will tell you whom I consider to be my mother and my brothers.” 49 He pointed to his apprentices and said, “These are the people whom I consider to be my mother and my brothers! 50 In fact, when a person does what God my Father, who rules from heaven, wants, I consider that person to be my brother or sister or mother.”

13 1 That same day, Jesus left the house where he had been teaching. He walked to the Sea of Galilee and sat down to teach next to it. 2 Then large groups of people came to where Jesus was. Because there were so many people, he got into a boat and sat down there to teach. All the people stood on the shore of the Sea of Galilee to listen to him.

3 Jesus began to use stories to instruct them about many things. He said, “Listen to this: a farmer began to plant some grain seeds. 4 As he was scattering them over the soil, some of the seeds fell on the path. Then some birds flew down and ate those seeds up. 5 Other seeds fell on shallow soil on top of a layer of rocks. Because they were growing in shallow soil, the seeds sprouted very quickly. 6 However, the sun shone on the new plants and dried them up. Then, because they did not have good roots, the plants died. 7 Other seeds fell onto an area full of thorny plants. These thorny plants grew quickly and crowded out the grain plants. 8 Finally, other seeds fell on fertile soil. They sprouted, and the plants produced a crop. Some plants produced 100 grains of wheat each, others produced 60 grains each, and others produced 30 grains each. 9 You should think carefully about what you just heard me say!”

10 Then, the apprentices came to Jesus and asked him, “Why do you use stories to instruct these people?”

11 Jesus replied, “God has revealed to you hidden things about his heavenly kingdom. However, he has not revealed those things to these people. 12 I say that because God will reveal even more to people who already know some things about God’s heavenly kingdom. They will know many things. In contrast, God will cause people who know very little about God’s heavenly kingdom to know nothing about it at all. 13 I use stories to instruct these people because they can look at things, but they do not really see them. They can hear what people say, but they do not really listen to it or learn from it. 14 What God said by speaking through the prophet Isaiah has come true for them:

> ‘You will hear things, but you will not learn from them.
> You will look at things, but you will not really see them.
> 15 These people do not understand because they have become stubborn; > their ears are almost deaf;

and they have closed their eyes because they do not want to see.
They do not want to listen or try to understand,
for then they would come back to me, and I would welcome and forgive them.'

16 However, it is very good for you, because you really see. It is very good for you, because you really listen. 17 Indeed, many people who spoke for God and other people who did what was right would have wanted to see the things that you are seeing me do. But they did not get to see them, because they lived long ago. They would have wanted to hear the things that I have said to you. But they did not get to hear them, because they lived long ago. What I have said is true.

18 So then, listen to me explain the story about the farmer who planted grain seeds.
19 Some people hear the message about God's kingdom, but they do not learn from it. Then Satan comes and takes the message they heard away from their minds. These people are like the seeds that fell on the path. 20 Other people are like the seeds that fell on shallow soil on top of a layer of rocks. When they hear the message about God's kingdom, they rejoice and quickly believe it. 21 However, they are like plants without good roots, which do not live very long. In fact, when bad things happen or when people hurt them because they accepted the message about God's kingdom, they quickly stop believing it. 22 Other people are like the seeds that fell onto an area full of thorny plants. After they hear the message about God's kingdom, they continue to focus on things in this world and on becoming rich, even though being rich is not as helpful as they think it will be. Focusing on these things makes the message ineffective, just as thorny plants crowd out the good plants and keep them from producing a crop. 23 Other people are like the seeds that fell on fertile soil. When they hear the message about God's kingdom, they learn from it. They are like the plants that produced a crop. Some plants produced 100 grains of wheat each, others produced 60 grains each, and others produced 30 grains each."

24 Then Jesus told the people another story. He said, "Here is what God's heavenly kingdom is like: a farmer planted some fertile grain seeds in his field. 25 However, as the farmer and his workers were asleep, someone who hated the farmer went into the field and planted weed seeds among the grain seeds. Then, he left before the farmer and his workers woke up. 26 Some time later, the wheat plants sprouted and began to produce grain. At the same time, the weed plants also sprouted, and the workers noticed them. 27 So, the workers reported this to the farmer. They said, 'Sir, we know that you planted fertile seeds in your field. However, weed plants are growing there!'

28 The farmer replied, 'A person who hates me planted these weed plants.'

Then his servants asked him, 'Do you want us to go to the field and remove all the weeds plants?'

29 He answered, 'Do not do that. If you did, you might remove some of the wheat plants while you were removing the weed plants, since they are growing together. 30 Allow the wheat and weed plants to grow in the field together until we begin to harvest them. Then, I will command the people who are harvesting, "Pull up the weed plants first. Collect them in groups and burn them. After that, harvest the wheat plants and store the grain in my storehouse."'"

31 Then Jesus told the people another story. He said, "Here is what God's heavenly kingdom is like: a man plants a tiny mustard seed in his field. 32 This kind of seed is smaller than other kinds of seeds. However, after it sprouts, the plant becomes a tree that is bigger than other plants that people grow. In fact, birds land on its branches and make nests there."

33 Then Jesus told the people another story. He said, "Here is what God's heavenly kingdom is like: a woman measured out some yeast and mixed it with about 25 kilograms of flour. The yeast made the whole batch of dough swell up."

34 Jesus used stories to teach all these things to the large groups of people who were standing on the shore of the sea. In fact, he taught them by using stories only. 35 So, what God said by speaking through one of the prophets came true:

> "I will speak by using stories.
> I will reveal things that have been secret since God created everything."

36 After speaking these stories, Jesus departed from the large groups of people and entered the house where he was staying. His apprentices went to him and asked, "Please teach us what the story about the weed plants in the field means."

37 Jesus replied, “The farmer who planted some fertile grain seeds is like me, the Son of Man. 38 The field is like the world. The fertile grain seeds are like people who participate in God’s kingdom. The weed plants are like people who obey Satan. 39 The person who hated the farmer and planted the weed seeds is like the devil. The time when the workers begin to harvest the grain is like when this time period will end. The people who are harvesting are like angels. 40 The workers collect the weed plants and burn them. That is like what will happen when this time period ends. 41 I, the Son of Man, will have my angels collect everything that causes people to sin and everyone who does what is wrong. They will remove those things and people from my kingdom. 42 Then, the angels will cast those things and people into hell, which is like a burning oven. There people will cry and sorrowfully grind their teeth. 43 After that, the people who did what was right will live in God their Father’s kingdom. They will be as glorious as the sun when it shines. You should think carefully about what you just heard me say!

44 Here is what God’s heavenly kingdom is like: A man discovered a secret treasure in a field. He was very happy, but he put the treasure back into its secret place. He went home and sold everything that he owned. Then, he bought the field so that he could have the treasure in it.

45 Here is what God’s heavenly kingdom is also like: a trader wanted some valuable pearls. 46 Eventually, he saw a very expensive pearl. He went home and sold everything that he owned. Then, he bought that pearl.

47 Here is what God’s heavenly kingdom is also like: people used a net to catch fish in a lake. They caught many kinds of fish. 48 When the net was full of fish, the people pulled it onto the shore. They sat down to sort through the fish that they had caught. They put the edible fish into buckets and threw away the useless fish. 49 That is like what will happen when this time period ends. Angels will come, and they will divide people who do what is wrong from people who do what is right. 50 Then, the angels will cast the people who do what is wrong into hell, which is like a burning oven. There they will cry and sorrowfully grind their teeth.

51 Do you know what all these things that I have taught you mean?”

The apprentices answered, “Yes, we know what they mean.”

52 Jesus responded, “So then, consider teachers whose leader has trained them to participate in God’s heavenly kingdom. They are like people who manage households. That is because both the teachers and the people who manage households offer old and new things that are valuable.”

53 So, Jesus completed telling these stories. Then, he left that place. 54 Then Jesus traveled to the city of Nazareth, where he had grown up. He instructed the people there when they gathered in the Jewish meeting place. What he said impressed them, and they said to each other, “We do not know how this man became so wise and powerful. 55 He is just the woodworker’s son. His mother’s name is Mary, and his younger brothers are James, Joseph, Simon, and Judas. 56 All his sisters live here in our town. So, we do not know how this man learned to do these things.”

57 These people rejected Jesus. So, Jesus told them, “The only ones who do not respect people who speak for God are those from where they grew up and their own families.”
58 Since the people did not trust in him, Jesus did very few powerful things in that place.

14 1 While Jesus was teaching and doing powerful things, King Herod Antipas, the ruler over the region of Galilee, learned what he was doing. 2 He told his attendants, “This man must be John the Baptizer. God has made him alive again, and that is why he does these powerful things.”

3-4 Herod said that because John had already died. Here is how that happened: Herod married Herodias, who had previously been the wife of Herod’s brother Philip. John the Baptizer told Herod, “Our law forbids you to marry Herodias, your sister-in-law.” So, Herod told his soldiers to arrest John. They tied him up and put him in jail. 5 However, Herod was afraid of the large group of people who believed that John spoke for God. So, even though he wanted to have his soldiers execute John, he did not do that.

6 Sometime later, during Herod’s birthday party, Herodias’ daughter danced for him and his guests. Herod greatly enjoyed her dancing. 7 So, he solemnly promised that he would give her whatever she wanted. 8 Her mother, Herodias, had already told her what to ask for. So, she said to Herod, “I want you to cut off John the Baptizer’s head and bring it to me here on a plate!” 9 King Herod was sad about what she asked for. However, because he had solemnly promised in front of all his guests to give her what she asked for, he told one of his men to do what she asked. 10 He had the man go to the jail and cut off John’s head there. 11 Then, the man put John’s head on a plate and gave it to Herodias’ daughter. She gave it to her mother. 12 Later, John’s apprentices went to the jail. They took John’s dead body and buried it. Then, they went to Jesus and told him what had happened.

13 After Jesus heard that John was dead, he sailed with his apprentices in a boat on the Sea of Galilee to a place where no one lived. Then, the large groups of people learned that he had traveled there. They left their towns and walked around the Sea of Galilee to join him. 14 When Jesus got out of the boat, he saw a large group of people. He pitied them, and he cured those who were sick.

15 When it was evening, the apprentices approached Jesus. They said to him, “This is a place where no one lives, and it is very late in the day. So, please tell the large groups of people to walk to the small towns that are nearby, where they can buy food to eat.”

16 Jesus replied, “They do not need to leave to buy food. I want you to provide them with food to eat!”

17 The apprentices replied, “We have very little food! We only have five loaves of bread and two fish.”

18 Then Jesus said, “Bring those things to me.” 19 Jesus told the large groups of people to sit down on the ground. He picked up the five loaves of bread and the two fish. Then he thanked God for the food. After that, he tore the bread into pieces and gave the pieces to his apprentices. They distributed them to the large groups of people. 20 Everyone ate the bread, and they all had enough to eat. Then the apprentices gathered the food that was left. They filled 12 large containers with the leftovers! 21 About 5,000 men ate the bread, and there were women and children there too!

22 As soon as everyone was done eating, Jesus had his apprentices get into a boat and sail across the Sea of Galilee without him. He stayed behind to tell the large groups of people to go home. 23 After he told the large groups of people to go home, he climbed to the top of a hill to pray to God by himself. When it became dark, he was on top of the hill by himself.

24 Meanwhile, the apprentices were on the boat in the middle of the Sea of Galilee. The wind was blowing from where they wanted to go, so many waves were striking the boat. 25 Later, soon before morning, Jesus joined them. He was walking on top of the Sea of Galilee!
26 When the apprentices saw Jesus walking on top of the Sea of Galilee, it disturbed them. They did not know that it was Jesus, so they said to each other that he must be a dangerous spiritual being. They were so afraid that they shouted loudly. 27 As soon as they shouted loudly, Jesus said to them, "Do not worry! I am Jesus. Stop being afraid!"

28 Peter replied, "My Lord, please show me that it is really you. I ask that you tell me to walk on top of the water to you!"

29 Jesus said to Peter, "Walk to me!"

So, Peter stepped out of the boat and walked on top of the water toward Jesus.
30 However, Peter realized how powerful the storm was, and he was afraid. Then he started to sink into the water. He shouted to Jesus, "My Lord, please rescue me!"

31 As soon as Peter shouted, Jesus reached out and lifted Peter up out of the water. Then he said to Peter, "You should not have been unsure that I could make you walk on top of the water. You should trust God more than you do!"

32 Then Jesus and Peter climbed into the boat. At that moment, the wind stopped blowing.
33 Then the apprentices who were in the boat worshiped Jesus. They declared, "You really are God's Son!"

34 After they finished sailing across the Sea of Galilee, they landed on the shore in the region of Gennesaret. 35 The men in that region recognized Jesus. So they sent people to the nearby areas to say that Jesus had arrived. Then people from those areas brought to Jesus many others who were sick. 36 Those who were sick asked Jesus to allow them just to touch the hem of his robe. Everyone who did so became healthy.

15 1 After that, some Pharisees and teachers of the Jewish law who were from the city of Jerusalem visited Jesus. They told him, 2 "Your apprentices do not cleanse their hands before they eat. So, they are disobeying the teachings we received from our ancestors. They should not do that!"

3 Jesus replied, "Sometimes you use the teachings that you received to disobey the laws that God gave us. You should not do that! 4 For example, God gave this law: 'Treat your parents respectfully.' He also gave this law: 'Execute anyone who insults his or her parents.' 5 However, you tell people that they can say to their parents, 'I have given to God everything that I could have used to provide for you.' 6 Then, you tell these people that they cannot treat their parents respectfully by providing for them. In that way, you use the teachings that you received to ignore what God commanded. 7 You say that you obey God, but you really do not! Isaiah the prophet was right when God spoke through him about you,

> 8 'You people treat me respectfully when you talk,
> but you do not really care about me.
> 9 When you worship me, it is useless.
> That is because you use only what humans have commanded to instruct others.'"

10 Then Jesus told the large group of people to come to him. He told them, "Listen to what I am about to say and learn from it. 11 Whatever people eat cannot make them unclean. Rather, it is what people say that makes them unclean."

12 Later, his apprentices went to him and asked him, "We want you to know that the Pharisees heard what you said and became very upset."

13 Jesus replied, "Those Pharisees are like plants that God my Father, who rules from heaven, did not plant. He will punish them in the same way that he would tear up such plants. 14 Do not listen to them. They do not know what they should be teaching. They are like blind people who guide other blind people right into a hole in the ground."

15 Peter replied, "Please tell us what that story means." 16 Jesus answered, "You too have not yet learned what I mean. 17 I want you to realize that everything that people eat simply goes into their stomachs. Eventually, their bodies expel what they ate into toilets. 18 What actually makes people unclean is what they say, which shows what they think and care about. 19 In fact, it is because of what people think and care about that they think evil things, kill others, are sexually unfaithful to their spouses, have improper sex, steal things, speak what is untrue, and say bad things about God or others. 20 It is doing those things that makes people unclean. However, when people do not cleanse their hands before they eat, that does not make them unclean."

21 After that, Jesus and his apprentices left the region of Gennesaret. They traveled to the areas near the cities of Tyre and Sidon. 22 Then, a non-Jewish woman who was from those areas visited Jesus. She called out to him, "My Lord, you who are a descendant of King David, help me! A demon is controlling my daughter and making her suffer."

23 However, Jesus did not say anything to her. Then his apprentices came to him and said, "This woman is bothering us by following us and calling out to you. Please tell her to go home."

24 Jesus answered them, "God told me to go only to my fellow Israelites. They are like sheep who have wandered off and need help."

25 Then the woman approached Jesus. She knelt down in front of him and pled, "My Lord, please help me!"

26 Jesus replied, "Suppose that someone takes food for children and gives it to dogs instead. That is not appropriate! That is why I am not helping you."

27 The woman replied, "My Lord, what you say is correct. In fact, though, dogs do eat leftovers that their owners spill on the ground. What I am asking you to do is like those leftovers."

28 When he heard that, Jesus told her, "You have impressed me because you trust me very much! I will do for you what you want me to do." At that very moment, Jesus cured her daughter.

29 After that, Jesus and his apprentices left the areas near the cities of Tyre and Sidon. They traveled to the shore of the Sea of Galilee. Then Jesus went up on a hill and sat down. 30 Large groups of people came to him. They brought people who could not walk, people who could not see, people who could not use their hands normally, people who could not speak, and people who were sick in many other ways. They set these people down in front of Jesus. Then, Jesus cured these people. 31 The large group of people saw what Jesus had done. People who could not talk were now speaking. People who could not use their hands normally were now able to do so. People who could not walk were now walking. People who could not see were now seeing. What Jesus had done impressed the large group of people. They praised the God whom the Israelites worship.

32 After that, Jesus told his apprentices to come to him. He said to them, "I pity the large group of people. They have already spent three days with me, and they do not have any food to eat. Further, I do not want to tell them to go home while they are hungry, because then they might pass out while they are walking home."

33 The apprentices replied, "In this place where no one lives, we certainly do not have enough food for this large group of people to have enough to eat!"

34 Jesus asked them, "How many loaves of bread do you have with you?"

They replied, "We have with us seven loaves of bread and a few little fish."

35 Then Jesus told the large group of people to sit down on the ground. 36 He picked up the seven loaves of bread and the fish. Then he thanked God for the food. After that, he tore the bread into pieces and gave the pieces to his apprentices. They distributed them to the large group of people. 37 Everyone ate the bread, and they all had enough to eat. Then the apprentices gathered the food that was left. They filled seven large containers with the leftovers! 38 About 4,000 men ate the bread, and there were women and children there too! 39 After he told the large group of people to go home, Jesus climbed into a boat. He and his apprentices sailed to the areas near the town of Magadan.

16 1 Some Pharisees and Sadducees came to Jesus in order to investigate him. They said to him, "We want you to perform a miracle that shows that God sent you."

2 He answered them, "[When it is evening and the sky looks red, you know that there will be good weather the next day. 3 When it is morning and the sky looks red and cloudy, you know that there will be storms that day. So, you realize what it means when the sky looks a certain way. However, you do not realize what God is doing right now.] 4 You people who are alive right now are wicked and faithless. You want me to do a miracle that proves that God sent me. However, the only miracle you will see is a miracle like the one that happened to the prophet Jonah." Then Jesus and his apprentices departed from the Pharisees and Sadducees.

5 They sailed to the other side of the Sea of Galilee. Then, the apprentices realized that they had not remembered to take any bread with them. 6 At that point, Jesus said to them, "Be alert and watch out for the yeast that the Pharisees and Sadducees use."

7 Then the apprentices told each other, "He must have said that because we did not take any bread with us."

8 Jesus realized what they were saying to each other. He told them, "You should not be telling each other that you do not have bread. You should trust God more than you do! 9 You should already remember and understand how I fed 5,000 men with just five loaves of bread. Then you gathered the food that was left into 12 large containers. 10 You should also remember and understand how I fed 4,000 men with just seven loaves of bread. Then you gathered the food that was left into seven large containers. 11 I want you to understand that I am speaking about bread in a figurative way. So I say again, watch out for the yeast that the Pharisees and Sadducees use." 12 After Jesus said that, the apprentices realized that he was telling them to watch out for what the Pharisees and Sadducees were teaching. He was not telling them to watch out for the yeast that people use to make bread.

13 Sometime later, Jesus and his apprentices arrived in the area near the city of Caesarea Philippi. Then Jesus asked his apprentices, "Who do people say that I, the Son of Man, really am?"

14 The apprentices replied, "People say that you are one of the prophets who has come back to life. More specifically, some people say that you are John the Baptizer. Other people say that you are the prophet Elijah. Other people say that you are the prophet Jeremiah."

15 Jesus asked, "As for you, who do you say that I really am?"

16 Simon Peter replied, "You are the Messiah! You are the Son of the only real God."

17 Jesus responded, “Simon, descendant of Jonah, God my Father, who rules from heaven, has blessed you. He has made known to you what you said. In fact, no human could have made it known to you. 18 I also want you to know that I will make you become like your name, Peter, which means ‘rock.’ I will make you like a foundation stone on which I will construct a building, which represents everyone who believes in me. Even when those people die, that will not destroy them. 19 I will commission you to oversee God’s heavenly kingdom. When you confirm something here on earth, God will confirm it in heaven. When you nullify something here on earth, God will nullify it in heaven.” 20 After that, Jesus ordered the apprentices not to tell anyone that he was the Messiah.

21 From then on, Jesus the Messiah began to teach his apprentices that he had to travel to the city of Jerusalem. There, the Jewish leaders, the ruling priests, and the teachers of the Jewish law would hurt him very much and have people kill him. During the third day after he died, God would make him alive again. 22 Then Peter spoke to Jesus privately. He began to scold Jesus, “My Lord, do not say those things! What you have spoken about will never happen to you.”

23 Then Jesus faced Peter. He said, “Do not try to stop me. You are behaving as Satan does! You are thinking about what humans care about instead of thinking about what God cares about. Because of that, you are trying to make me do what is wrong.”

24 Next, Jesus said to all his apprentices, “People who want to come with me and be my apprentices must refuse to do what they want to do. They must be willing to suffer or die, as if they were carrying their own crosses, when they come with me as my apprentices. 25 That is because people who are willing to do anything to stay alive will not truly live. However, people who are willing to die because they are my apprentices will truly live. 26 Suppose that some people acquire everything they could possibly want. However, they can no longer truly live. That is not worth it! People cannot acquire anything that is as valuable as truly living. 27 That is important because I, the Son of Man, will soon return with my angels. I will be as glorious as God my Father. At that time, I will justly reward or punish people for whatever they have done.

28 Some of you who are here with me will definitely see me, the Son of Man, ruling over my kingdom before you die. What I have said is true.”

17 1 Six days later, Jesus climbed up a tall mountain. He had Peter, James, and James' younger brother John go with him. No one else was with them. 2 Then, the three apprentices saw Jesus change how he appeared. His face became as radiant as the sun. His clothes became bright white. 3 After that, Moses and Elijah, who were prophets from long ago, appeared to the three apprentices! These prophets were speaking to Jesus.

4 Peter responded by saying to Jesus, "My Lord, it is appropriate for all of us to be here. If you want me to, I will build three shelters. You, Moses, and Elijah can each use one." 5 As Peter was talking, a radiant cloud covered all of them! Then God spoke from the cloud! He declared, "This man is my Son, the one whom I love dearly. What he does pleases me. Do what he says."

6 After the three apprentices heard that, they became extremely afraid. They kneeled down to worship God. 7 Then Jesus came close to them. He touched them and told them, "Stand up! Stop being afraid!" 8 When they looked up, the only person whom they saw was Jesus.

9 While they were walking down the mountain, Jesus instructed them, "Do not tell anyone about what you just saw until I, the Son of Man, live again."

10 Then, those three apprentices asked Jesus, "The teachers of the Jewish law tell us that the prophet Elijah has to be here before the Messiah gets here. Are they right about that? We ask because we just saw the prophet Elijah."

11 Jesus replied, "They are right that the prophet Elijah has to be here and that he will make everything as it should be. 12 Now here is what I want you to know: the prophet Elijah has been here already. However, people did not realize that it was Elijah. Instead, they treated him badly. Further, they are about to hurt me, the Son of Man, in similar ways." 13 After that, the three apprentices realized that Jesus was telling them that the person he called Elijah was John the Baptizer.

14 When the four of them returned to the large group of people, a man came up to Jesus and bowed down in front of him. 15 He said to Jesus, "My lord, please help my son! He is very sick and has seizures. He frequently falls into fires or bodies of water. 16 I took him here to your apprentices in order that they might cure him. However, they were not able to do so."

17 Jesus responded, "You people who are alive right now do not believe or think properly. It is hard for me to live here with you. It is difficult for me to be patient with you." Then he said to them, "Bring the man's son here to me!" 18 Then, Jesus commanded the demon who was controlling the man's son to stop doing so. The demon obeyed and left him. At that very moment, Jesus cured the man's son.

19 Later, the apprentices came to Jesus when they were alone. They asked him, "Why could we not drive out that demon?"

20 He answered, "You could not drive it out because you trust in God so little. Suppose that you trusted God even a little bit, as little as a tiny mustard seed. Then, you could tell the mountain we just walked down to go from one place to another, and it would do so. You could do anything! What I have said is true. 21 [1] [Now you can only drive out this type of demon by praying and by not eating in order to please God.]"

22 Sometime later, the apprentices met together in the region of Galilee. Jesus told them, "Soon somebody will help my enemies arrest me, the Son of Man. 23 They will have people kill me. Then, during the third day after I died, God will make me alive again." When they heard that, the apprentices became very sad.

24 Later, Jesus and his apprentices went to the city of Capernaum. Some people who collected taxes for the temple came up to Peter. They asked him, "Your instructor pays the tax for the temple, right?"

25 Peter answered, "Yes, he does pay it."

Then Peter went into the house where Jesus was staying. Before Peter could say anything, Jesus said to him, "Simon, tell me what you think. Who has to pay taxes to the kings who rule in this world? Do their own children have to pay taxes? Or do people whom the kings do not know have to pay taxes?"

26 Peter replied, "People whom the kings do not know have to pay taxes."

Then Jesus said to him, “So then, the children of kings do not have to pay anything. That means that we do not have to pay anything either. 27 However, we do not want to upset the people who collect taxes. So, go to the Sea of Galilee and prepare your fishing tools. Pick up the first fish that you capture. Look in its mouth, and you will see a silver coin that is worth about twice the tax. Take the coin to the people who collect taxes to pay for my tax and your tax.”

18 1 Immediately after that, the apprentices came to Jesus. They asked him, “So then, who will be the most important people in God’s heavenly kingdom?”

2 Jesus told a young child to come to him. He had the young child stand among them.
3 Then he told them, “You need to change so that you are like young children. That is the only way to participate in God’s heavenly kingdom. What I have said is true. 4 So then, consider people who make themselves less important, so that they are as unimportant as this young child. It is those people who are the most important in God’s heavenly kingdom. 5 Further, when people, because they are my apprentices, welcome a young child such as this one here, it is the same as welcoming me.

6 On the other hand, suppose that an insignificant person who trusts me sinned because of certain people. God will punish those people so severely that they would prefer to have someone tie a heavy stone around their necks and drop them into the middle of the ocean. 7 How terrible it will be for people in this world because of the things that cause them to sin! Now those things have to exist. However, how terrible it will be for the people who cause those things to exist! 8 Suppose that you sinned because you touched something or went somewhere. You should never do that again, even if you have to chop off your hands or your feet to make sure of it! You should respond that drastically because it is better for you to truly live without hands or feet than to have both hands and feet but end up in hell. 9 Suppose that you sinned because you looked at something. You should never do that again, even if you have to remove your eyes to make sure of it! You should respond that drastically because it is better for you to truly live with only one eye than to have both eyes but end up in hell.

10 Do not consider even one insignificant person who trusts me to be unimportant. In fact, I want you to know that the angels that protect them are in heaven. They are continually with God my Father, who rules from heaven. 11 [2] [I, the Son of Man, am here to rescue people who do not worship and obey God.] 12 Think about this situation: A man owns 100 sheep, but one of them wanders away. The man will most certainly leave the 99 other sheep on the side of a hill by themselves and search for the one sheep that wandered away! 13 Now suppose that he found the one sheep that wandered away. He would be much happier about this one sheep than about the 99 other sheep that did not wander away. What I have said is true! 14 God your Father, who rules from heaven, is like that man. He does not want even one insignificant person who trusts me to end up in hell.

15 Suppose that fellow believers sin against you. You should visit them and privately tell them what they did wrong. Suppose that they accept what you say. In that case, you have made things right with your fellow believers. 16 However, suppose that those fellow believers do not accept what you say. In that case, bring one or two other believers with you when you visit them again to tell them what they did wrong. That way, you are doing what Moses wrote in the law, that two or three people must confirm what someone says. 17 Suppose that those fellow believers reject what the people you brought with you say. In that case, tell the whole group of believers about what happened. Finally, suppose that those fellow believers reject what the group of believers says. In that case, treat those fellow believers as if they were unbelieving non-Jews or people who collect taxes. Do not treat them as fellow believers any longer. 18 When you confirm anything here on earth, God will confirm it in heaven. When you nullify anything here on earth, God will nullify it in heaven. What I have said is true! 19 Also, when at least two of you here on earth together request the same thing, God my Father, who rules from heaven, will do whatever it is that you request. What I have said is true! 20 God will do that because I am spiritually present whenever at least two or three of you come together as my apprentices."

21 After that, Peter came to Jesus and asked, "My Lord, how many times do I need to forgive fellow believers when they keep sinning against me? Do I need to forgive them as many as seven times?"

22 Jesus replied, "I tell you that you must forgive others 77 times and more, not just seven times. 23 Given what I have told you, here is what God's heavenly kingdom is like: a king wished to have his servants pay him what they owed him. 24 So, the king began to find out what his servants owed him. Someone led in a servant who owed the king an extremely large sum of money. 25 However, the servant did not have enough money to pay what he owed. So, the king told his men, ‘Sell as slaves the servant, the servant’s wife, and the servant’s children. Also, sell anything that the servant owns. Then, give me the money that you received.’

26 After he heard that, the servant knelt down in front of the king. He begged him, ‘My lord, please wait patiently. I will eventually pay all the money that I owe.’

27 The king pitied his servant. So, he did not require the servant to pay what he owed, and he let him go. 28 When the servant left the king, he noticed another servant who owed him only 100 small coins. He grabbed that servant around the throat and began to squeeze it. He demanded, ‘Pay me the money that you owe!’

29 After he heard that, the other servant knelt down before him. He begged him, ‘Please wait patiently. I will eventually pay the money that I owe.’ 30 However, that servant did not want to wait. When he left that place, he had someone put the other servant in jail and keep him there until he paid the money that he owed.

31 When the rest of the servants learned what that servant had done, they became very sad. They went to the king and told him about everything that the servant had done. 32 After that, the king told that servant to come to him. The king told him, ‘You are an evil servant! Since you asked me to wait patiently, I did not require you to pay any of what you owed. 33 I helped you. So, you should have helped the other servant.’ 34 Then the king was angry. He had his men arrest and torture that servant until he paid all the money that he owed. 35 Whenever any of you do not completely forgive a fellow believer, God my Father, who rules from heaven, will do to you what that king did to his servant.”

19 1 So, Jesus completed saying those things. Then, he and his apprentices left the region of Galilee. They traveled to the region of Judea on the other side of the Jordan River. 2 Large groups of people went with him, and in that place, he cured those who were sick.

3 Some Pharisees came to Jesus in order to investigate him. They asked, “Does our law allow a husband to divorce his wife whenever he wants to?”

4 Jesus replied, “You have read in the Law that God gave Moses that when God first created everything, he created people to be male and female. 5 Then God said, ‘That is why men, when they marry, no longer live with their parents and instead live with their wives. Each husband and wife together become like one person.’ 6 Consequently, each husband and wife are not like two different people any longer. Rather, they are like one person. Since that is true, no one should divide people whom God has united.”

7 The Pharisees responded, “If that is true, why did Moses instruct us in our law about how to divorce wives? He required each husband to present his wife with a document that states that he is divorcing her. Then, he can divorce her.”

8 Jesus answered, “Moses knew that you were unwilling to obey. That is why in the Law he permitted you to divorce your wives. However, when God first created everything, that is not what he intended. 9 Now here is what I want to tell you: a man may divorce his wife only if she has had improper sex. When a man divorces his wife for any other reason and marries another woman, he disobeys what God commanded about being sexually faithful to one’s spouse. Further, any man who marries a woman whose husband has divorced her also disobeys what God commanded about being sexually faithful to one’s spouse.”

10 Jesus’ apprentices responded, “If that is the only basis on which a husband can divorce his wife, it is not beneficial to get married!”

11 Jesus replied, “Many people do not accept what you have said. Only people whom God enables to accept it can do so. 12 Here is what I mean: Some men are impotent because they were already like that when their mothers gave birth to them. Other men are impotent because people castrated them. Other men are impotent because they chose to live that way in order to serve in God’s heavenly kingdom. Anyone who can accept what I am saying should accept it.”

13 After that, some people took young children to Jesus. They wanted him to bless them by touching them and to pray for them. However, the apprentices told them to stop. 14 However, Jesus told the apprentices, “Allow the young children to come here. Do not stop them! I say that because they and people like them are part of God’s heavenly kingdom.” 15 After saying that, Jesus blessed the young children by touching them. Then, he left that place.

16 After that, a person came to Jesus! He asked, “Instructor, what is a good thing I can do so that I will live with God forever?”

17 Jesus replied, “You should not ask me about what would be a good thing to do. God is the only one who is good. Now to answer your question, since you desire to truly live, you should do what God has commanded.”

18 The man replied, “Which things that God has commanded do you mean?”

Jesus answered him, “Here are the ones I mean: Do not murder others. Do not be sexually unfaithful to your spouse. Do not steal things. Do not say what is untrue. 19 Treat your parents respectfully. Care for people you know as much as you care for yourself.”

20 The young man replied, “I have done each of these things that God commanded. What more do I need to do to truly live?”

21 Jesus answered, “Since you desire to complete doing what is good, go home and sell what you own. Give that money to poor people. If you do that, God will reward you in heaven. Then, come with me as my apprentice.” 22 After the young man listened to what Jesus said, he felt very sad and left. He was very sad because he was rich and did not want to lose what he owned.

23 After that, Jesus told his apprentices, “It is hard for rich people to participate in God’s heavenly kingdom. What I have said is true. 24 I want you to understand that, so I will repeat it. Large animals like camels cannot fit into very small spaces. However, it is even harder for rich people to participate in God’s kingdom.”

25 What Jesus said greatly surprised the apprentices. They said, “So then, it must be that God does not actually rescue anyone!”

26 Jesus looked directly at his apprentices. He said, “People cannot rescue themselves. However, God can do anything!”

27 After Jesus said that, Peter replied, “We left behind everything we had and went with you as your apprentices! So then, how will God reward us?”

28 Jesus replied, “Someday God will renew everything that he has made, and I, the Son of Man, will sit down to rule from my great throne. When that happens, you too, since you have come with me as my apprentices, will sit down to rule from 12 thrones, one for each of you. You will decide whether people from the 12 Israelite clans are guilty or innocent. What I have said is true. 29 Some people leave behind houses, siblings, parents, wives, children, or fields. They do that because they want to be my apprentices. God will give those people many times what they left behind. Further, he will enable them to live with him forever. 30 At that time, many people who are important right now will become unimportant. Many people who are unimportant right now will become important.

20 1 In fact, here is what God’s heavenly kingdom is like: a man who managed a household left his house in the morning to go to the town’s open area. He wanted to hire people to take care of his grape vines. 2 He found some people who agreed to work that day for one coin. Then, he told them to take care of his grape vines. 3 At about nine o’clock in the morning, the man arrived in the town’s open area again. He noticed more people there who wanted to work. 4 He told them, ‘Join the other people who are taking care of my grape vines. I will pay you a fair wage.’ 5 They agreed to do so. At about noon and at about three o’clock in the afternoon, the man again arrived in the town’s open area. He said the same thing to the people he found there, and they too agreed to take care of his grape vines. 6 At about five o’clock in the afternoon, the man again arrived in the town’s open area. He noticed that there were still people there who wanted to work. He asked them, ‘Why have you been here waiting all day to work?’

7 They replied, ‘We are waiting here because nobody has hired us.’

Then the man said, ‘Join the other people who are taking care of my grape vines.’ They agreed to do so.

8 When it was evening, the man who managed the household spoke to the man who supervised the workers. He said, ‘Tell the people who worked today to come here. Starting with the people that I hired latest in the day and ending with the people that I hired earliest in the day, pay them what they earned.’ 9 Then the people who started working at about five o’clock in the afternoon came forward. The supervisor paid one coin to each of them. 10 Then the people who started working first came forward. They expected that the supervisor would pay them more than that. However, he paid one coin to each of them also.

11 After these workers took their money, they complained about how the man who managed the household was behaving. 12 They said to him, 'These people who started working last worked for just one hour. However, you are treating them as if they worked as much as we have! We worked the most and during the hottest parts of the day.'

13 The man who managed the household spoke to one of the workers who was complaining, 'My friend, I am not treating you unfairly. You agreed to take care of my grape vines for one coin. 14 I want to pay those who started working last as much as I pay you who started working first. So, take what I have paid you and go home. 15 Our law allows me to do what I like with what I own. You should not be jealous because I am being generous!'

17 Sometime later, Jesus was walking toward the city of Jerusalem. He had his 12 apprentices come with him. No one else was with them. While they were walking, he told them, 18 "We are walking toward the city of Jerusalem! There, somebody will help the ruling priests and the teachers of the Jewish law arrest me, the Son of Man. They will decide that I am guilty and that someone should kill me. 19 They will bring me to the non-Jewish authorities. Those people will make fun of me, beat me, and kill me by nailing me to a cross. Then, during the third day after I died, God will make me alive again."

20 After that, Zebedee's wife came to Jesus with her two sons, James and John. She knelt before Jesus and asked him to do something for her. 21 Jesus replied, "What do you want me to do for you?"

She said, "Please promise me that, when you rule, you will greatly honor my two sons by having one of them sit at your right side and the other one sit at your left side."

22 Then Jesus responded by speaking to her two sons, "You do not realize what you have actually requested. Are you willing to suffer as I will soon suffer?"

Her two sons, James and John, replied, "Yes, we are willing to suffer."

23 Then Jesus said to them, “You will certainly suffer as I will soon suffer. However, I am not the one who chooses whom to honor by having them sit at my right side and at my left side. Rather, God my Father has already chosen who will sit in those places.”

24 When the ten other apprentices learned what James and John had requested, they were very upset with them. 25 So, Jesus told his apprentices to come to him. He said to them, “You understand that the people who govern the non-Jews dominate them. Further, important people among them control everyone else. 26 You must not behave like that. Rather, when one of you wants to be important, that person must serve the others. 27 Likewise, when one of you wants to be most important, that person must work for the others. 28 You should be like me, the Son of Man. I am here to serve other people. I am not here so that other people will serve me.
Indeed, I am going to die in order to free many people from their sins.”

29 After that, Jesus and his apprentices left the city of Jericho, which they had been visiting.
A large group of people went with them. 30 Now two men who were blind were sitting down next to the path! Someone told them, “Jesus is walking by.”

So, they were shouting, “Our Lord, you who are a descendant of King David, please help us!”

31 Some people from the large group of people scolded them to keep them quiet. However, the men who were blind yelled even louder, “Our Lord, you who are a descendant of King David, please help us!”

32 Then, Jesus stopped walking. He spoke to the two men who were blind. He asked, “How would you like me to help you?”

33 They replied, “Our Lord, we want to be able to see!” 34 Jesus pitied them. He touched their eyes. As soon as he did that, they could see. Then, they went with Jesus as his apprentices.

21 1 After that, Jesus and his apprentices continued to walk toward the city of Jerusalem, and they were getting closer. They were near the Mount of Olives, just outside the village of Bethphage. Then, Jesus told two of his apprentices to go ahead of them. 2 He commanded them, “Enter the village of Bethphage, which you see ahead of you. As soon as you enter it, you will see a female donkey that someone has tethered. Her colt will be next to her. Remove the tether from the female donkey and lead her and her colt to me here. 3 People might ask you about what you are doing. In that case, tell them, ‘The Lord needs this donkey and colt.’ As soon as you say that, those people will let you have the donkey and colt.” 4 When he said those things, what God said by speaking through one of the prophets came true:

5 “Say to the people who live in the city of Jerusalem,
‘Your king will soon be with you!
He is gentle. He sits on a donkey, on a colt, which is a donkey’s offspring.’”

6 The two apprentices went to the village and did what Jesus had told them to do. 7 They led the donkey and her colt to Jesus. They spread their coats on the animals, and Jesus sat on the coats. 8 Then, to honor Jesus, a very large group of people laid their coats down on the path in front of Jesus. Other people cut small branches down from trees and laid them down on the path too. 9 Large groups of people walked in front of Jesus and behind him. They were shouting, “Praise this descendant of King David!

May God bless him who is here to represent the Lord!
May everything in heaven praise him!”

10 How people welcomed Jesus when he went into the city of Jerusalem unsettled many people who lived there. They asked, “Who is this man?”

11 The large groups of people answered, “He is Jesus, from the town of Nazareth, which is in Galilee. He is a man who speaks for God.”

12 Later, Jesus visited the temple area. Some people were selling and buying things there. He forced them to leave. Other people were exchanging regular money for special temple money, and other people were selling small birds for people to sacrifice. Jesus flipped over their tables and chairs. 13 Then Jesus told those people, “The prophets wrote in the Scriptures, ‘People should say that my temple is a place where people pray.’ However, you have turned it into ‘a hideout for thieves’!”

14 Later, people who could not see and people who could not walk came to Jesus while he was in the temple area. Jesus cured them. 15 The ruling priests and the teachers of the Jewish law saw the amazing things that Jesus did. They heard young children in the temple area shouting, "Praise this descendant of King David!" When they saw and heard those things, they were very upset.

16 They asked him, "Do you realize what those young children are saying about you?"

Jesus replied, "Yes, I realize it! What they are doing fits with what you have read in the Scriptures:

> 'You have appointed young children and little babies > to honor you.'"

17 Then Jesus and his apprentices went away from the ruling priests and the teachers of the Jewish law. They left the city of Jerusalem and stayed overnight in the village of Bethany.

18 Early the next morning, when Jesus and his apprentices were going back to the city of Jerusalem, Jesus became hungry. 19 He noticed a fig tree near the path. So, he went over to it to pick some figs to eat. However, the tree only had leaves. Then Jesus spoke to the fig tree, "May you never again produce figs!" As soon as he said that, the fig tree died.

20 What the apprentices had just seen impressed them. They asked, "How did the fig tree die as soon as you spoke to it?"

21 Jesus replied, "Suppose that you trusted God and were not unsure about what he can do. Then, you could do what I did to the fig tree. Even more, you could tell the hill we are near to leave this place and fall into the ocean, and it would happen. What I have said is true.
22 Further, suppose that you trust God to do whatever you ask when you are praying. Then, he will do it for you."

23 Then Jesus visited the temple area, and he was instructing people there. The ruling priests and the Jewish leaders came to him. They asked, "In what way did someone authorize you to do what you have done? Who was it that authorized you to do these things?"

24 Jesus replied, “I too will ask you a question. When you answer it, I too will answer your question about the way in which someone authorized me to do what I have done. 25 Who authorized John the Baptizer to baptize people? Did God authorize him from heaven, or did people authorize him?”

Then the ruling priests and the Jewish leaders told each other, “Suppose that we answer that God authorized John from heaven. Then, he will tell us that we should have listened to John. 26 On the other hand, suppose that we answer that people authorized John. Then, since the large group of people believe that John spoke for God, we are afraid of how they would react.”

27 So, they answered Jesus, “We do not know who authorized John.”

Jesus responded, “Because you did not answer my question, I will not tell you in what way someone authorized me to do what I have done. 28 Think about this situation: There was a man with two children. He went to the older one and told him, ‘My child, go to where my grape vines are and take care of them today.’

29 His child replied, ‘I will not do that!’ However, later he regretted what he had said. He took care of the grape vines after all.

30 After speaking with the older child, the man went to the younger child and told him to take care of his grape vines.

His child replied, ‘I will do that, my father!’ However, he did not take care of the grape vines.

31 Which of these two children did what their father wanted?”

The ruling priests and the Jewish leaders answered, “The older one.”

Jesus replied, “Prostitutes and people who collect taxes are participating in God’s kingdom before you are. What I have said is true. 32 I say that because, when John the Baptizer was with you, he did what was right. However, you did not trust him. In contrast, prostitutes and people who collect taxes did trust him. When you realized that even they trusted John, you did not regret how you were acting and trust him after all.

33 I will tell you another story. A man who managed a household planted a vineyard. He built a fence around it in order to protect it. He made a stone tank to collect the grape juice that they would press out of the grapes. He also built a tower for someone to sit in to guard his vineyard. He rented the vineyard to some people who would take care of it, and he left to travel to a different country. 34 When it was almost time to harvest the grapes, the man told some of his servants to go to the people who were taking care of the vineyard. He wanted them to give him his share of the grapes that the vineyard had produced. 35 However, the people who were taking care of the vineyard grabbed the man's servants. They beat up some servants. They executed other servants. They killed other servants by throwing stones at them. 36 After that, the man told an even greater number of his servants to go to the people who were taking care of the vineyard. However, those people treated these servants just as they had treated the other servants. 37 Finally, the man told his own son to go to them. He thought that they would treat his son well and give him his share of the grapes.

38 However, when the people who were taking care of the vineyard saw the man's son arriving, they told each other, 'This man is the one who will inherit the vineyard. We should kill him, and then we can take the vineyard for ourselves.' 39 So, they grabbed the man's son and dragged him outside the vineyard. Then, they killed him. 40 After that, the man who owned the vineyard came back. How do you think he treated the people who were taking care of the vineyard?"

41 The ruling priests and the Jewish leaders replied, "He would kill those evil people! Then, he would rent the vineyard to other people who would give him his share of the grapes when it was time to harvest them."

42 Jesus responded, "What I have said fits with what you have read in the Scriptures:

> 'The people who were constructing a building refused to use a certain stone.
> However, that stone is now the most important one in the building.
> The Lord God did that,
> and we think it is amazing.'

43 So then, here is what I want to tell you: God will stop you from participating in his kingdom. He will have a different group of people participate in his kingdom. They will do what he wants those in his kingdom to do. 44 Any people who trip over the stone that is now the most important one will injure themselves. Further, that stone will squash anyone on whom it drops."

45 The ruling priests and the Pharisees listened to the stories that Jesus told. They realized that Jesus was telling the stories about them. 46 They wanted to arrest Jesus. However, since the large groups of people believed that Jesus spoke for God, they were afraid of how those people would react. So, they did not arrest Jesus at that time.

22 1 Then Jesus used more stories to teach the chief priests and the Jewish leaders. He said, 2 "Here is what God's heavenly kingdom is like: a king prepared a banquet to celebrate his son, who was getting married. 3 When it was time for the banquet, the king told his servants to summon the people that he had asked to attend the banquet. However, those people refused to attend the banquet. 4 So, the king told different servants to summon again the people he had asked to attend the banquet. He instructed them to say that the meal was ready, that his servants had prepared special cows to eat and everything else, and that they should attend the banquet. 5 However, the people that the king had asked to attend the banquet ignored his servants. Instead, some of them left for other places, like their farms or workplaces. 6 Other people that the king had asked to attend the banquet grabbed his servants. They abused some of them, and they killed some of them. 7 So, the king was very upset. He told his soldiers to kill the people who killed his servants and to burn down their town. 8 After that, the king told his servants that, although the feast for his son's wedding was ready, the people he had asked to attend did not deserve to be there. 9 So, he told his servants to walk to the intersections of the main roads and to tell the people they encountered to attend the feast for his son's wedding. 10 So, his servants walked to the intersections of the roads. They brought all the people they encountered, whether those people did what was right or did what was wrong. Then, the wedding hall was full of people who were feasting. 11 The king went into the hall to see the people who were feasting. While he was there, he noticed that one person did not have on the proper clothing for a wedding. 12 The king called him friend and told him that he should not have attended without having on the proper clothing for a wedding. The person had nothing to say in response. 13 After that, the king told his servants to tie the person up and cast him out of the wedding hall. He told them to punish him in a dark place, where people will cry and sorrowfully grind their teeth. 14 As that story illustrates, God summons many people to participate in his kingdom. However, he only chooses a few of them to do so."

15 After Jesus said those things, the Pharisees left that place. They started to plan how they could cause him to make a mistake in what he said. 16 So, the Pharisees told some of their apprentices and some people who supported King Herod to go to Jesus and say to him, "Our instructor, we realize that you say what is true. Further, you truthfully instruct people in what God wants them to do. You do not pay attention to how important or powerful people are. So, you do not care about what other people think. 17 So, please tell us how you answer this question: Does our law allow us to pay taxes to the Roman government, or does it not allow that?"

18 However, Jesus knew that they were trying to harm him. So, he replied, "You are trying to make me say something wrong. You pretend to respect me, but you really do not! 19 Hand me one of the coins that you use to pay taxes." Someone handed him a Roman coin.

20 Then Jesus asked, "Whose picture and name are on this coin?"

21 They replied, "It is Caesar's picture and name."

Then Jesus said, "In that case, give to the Roman government what belongs to it, and give to God what belongs to him." 22 What Jesus said impressed the Pharisees' apprentices and the people who supported King Herod. They left where he was.

23 Later that day, some Sadducees came to Jesus. They are a Jewish group that does not believe that God will make people who have died alive again. They asked Jesus, 24 "Our instructor, Moses wrote in the Scriptures about what should happen when a man with a wife but no children dies. When that happens, the man's brother should marry the dead man's wife. When they have a child, they should consider it to be the child of the dead man. 25 So, consider this situation: seven brothers lived here. One brother got married, but then he died before he had children. So, one of his brothers married his widow. 26 The same thing happened to the second brother, the third brother, and the other four brothers. They each married the widow but died before they had children. 27 Finally, the widow died. 28 So then, of those seven brothers, whose wife will she be when God makes people alive again? We ask because she got married to all seven of them at different times."

29 Jesus replied, "You do not realize what the Scriptures mean or how powerful God is. So, you believe what is wrong. 30 Here is what I mean: after God makes people alive again, they will not get married. Instead, they will be like angels who dwell in heaven and do not get married. 31 Now I will speak about whether God makes people who have died alive again. You have read in the Scriptures that God said to you, 32 'I am the God whom Abraham worships, the God whom Isaac worships, and the God whom Jacob worships.' It is living people who worship God, not dead people. So, Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, who all have died, must be alive again!" 33 The things that Jesus taught impressed the large groups of people.

34 The Pharisees heard that Jesus answered so well that the Sadducees could not respond. So, the Pharisees met together and went to where Jesus was. 35 Then, one of the Pharisees, who was an expert in the Jewish law, decided to investigate Jesus. He asked him, 36 "Instructor, which of the laws that God gave us is the most important?"

37 Jesus replied: "We must love the Lord, the God whom we worship, with everything that we desire, everything that we do, and everything that we think. 38 That is the most important law. 39 The next most important law is similar. It is that we must care for people we know as much as we care for ourselves. 40 All the parts of the Scriptures depend upon these two laws."

41 While those Pharisees were still all together near Jesus, he asked them, 42 "I want you to answer a question about the Messiah. Who is his ancestor?"

They replied, "His ancestor is King David."

43 Jesus replied, "In that case, why did the Holy Spirit cause King David to write that the Messiah was his Lord? People do not describe their descendants as their lords. However, King David wrote 44 that the Lord God said to David's Lord,

> 'Rule with me
> while I defeat all of your enemies!'

45 So then, since King David wrote that the Messiah was his Lord, how is it possible for King David to be his ancestor?" 46 The people who were there could not answer his question. In fact, after that nobody was bold enough to ask him more questions.

23 1 After that, Jesus said to the large groups of people and to his apprentices, 2 "The Pharisees and the teachers of the Jewish law instruct you as Moses did. 3 So then, you should do whatever they tell you to do. However, they themselves do not do what they tell you to do. So, do not act as they do. 4 They tell people to do many things that are difficult. However, they do not do anything to help those people. 5 Whenever they do anything, they do it so that people praise them for it. For example, when they tie boxes containing Scripture on their foreheads and arms, they make sure the boxes are large. They make the hems on their robes very long. 6 They greatly enjoy sitting in the places for important people when they attend feasts or go to the Jewish meeting places. 7 They greatly enjoy it when people greet them respectfully in the open areas of towns and speak to them as important teachers. 8 However, you have only one teacher, me. Also, you are all fellow believers. So then, you should not allow people to speak to you as important teachers. 9 Further, you have one Father, the one who rules from heaven. So, you should not honor people here on earth by using the title 'my father' for them. 10 You have one instructor, I, who am the Messiah. So, you should not allow people to speak to you as their instructors. 11 The most important person in your group must serve the others. 12 God will cause people who think they are important to be unimportant. God will cause people who think they are unimportant to be important.

13 You Pharisees and teachers of the Jewish law say that you obey God, but you really do not! You keep people from participating in God's heavenly kingdom. In fact, you yourselves do not participate in the kingdom. Further, you prevent people who want to participate in it from doing so. How terrible it will be for you!

14 [You Pharisees and teachers of the Jewish law say that you obey God, but you really do not! You steal the property of women whose husbands have died. To make other people think that you are righteous, you pray for a long time. How terrible it will be for you! God will punish you very severely.]

15 You Pharisees and teachers of the Jewish law say that you obey God, but you really do not! You travel to many places to convert even one person to the Jewish religion. However, once you have done that, you cause that person to deserve to end up in hell as much as you do. How terrible it will be for you!

16 You do not know what you should be teaching. You say that when people have the temple guarantee what they promise, they do not need to do what they promised. However, you say that when they have the precious metal in the temple guarantee what they promise, they must do what they promised. How terrible it will be for you! 17 You do not understand what is true! You should realize that the precious metal in the temple is less important than the temple itself. It is the temple that makes the precious metal holy. 18 Similarly, you say that when people have the altar guarantee what they promise, they do not need to do what they promised. However, you say that when they have the sacrifice on the altar guarantee what they promise, they must do what they promised. 19 You do not understand what is true! You should realize that the sacrifice on the altar is less important than the altar itself. It is the altar that makes the sacrifice holy. 20 So, when people have the altar guarantee what they promise, they are having both it and every sacrifice on it guarantee what they promise. 21 Further, when people have the temple guarantee what they promise, they are having both it and God, who dwells there, guarantee what they promise. 22 When people have heaven guarantee what they promise, they are also having God's throne and God himself, who rules from that throne, guarantee what they promise.

23 You Pharisees and teachers of the Jewish law say that you obey God, but you really do not! You give one tenth of even your herbs and spices to God. However, you fail to obey the more important commands that God gave: to do what is right, to be merciful to others, and to be faithful to God. You should do these things as well as giving a tenth of everything to God. How terrible it will be for you! 24 You do not know what you should be teaching. You are like people who filter small flies out of their drinks without noticing large animals like camels in the same drinks!

25 You Pharisees and teachers of the Jewish law say that you obey God, but you really do not! You seem to do what is right, just like dishes that you have washed on the outside. However, really you want what other people have and do not control yourselves, just like dishes that are still dirty on the inside. How terrible it will be for you! 26 You Pharisees do not understand what is true! You should focus on doing what is right. Once you do that, you will also seem to do what is right, just like dishes that are clean on both the inside and the outside.

27 You Pharisees and teachers of the Jewish law say that you obey God, but you really do not! I compare you to graves that people have painted white. They look good, but they are dirty and have many corpses in them. How terrible it will be for you! 28 Similarly, you seem to do what is right, but really you usually do what is wrong while pretending to do what is right.

29 You Pharisees and teachers of the Jewish law say that you obey God, but you really do not! How terrible it will be for you! You construct monuments to honor the people who spoke for God long ago. You decorate the graves of people who did what was right. 30 You declare that, had you been alive when your ancestors were, you would not have helped them murder the people who spoke for God. 31 When you declare that, you admit that you are descendants of and similar to the people who did murder those who spoke for God. 32 As for you, think about what will happen if you do what your ancestors did.

33 You are sneaky and dangerous like poisonous snakes! You will not avoid God punishing you in hell. 34 Since you are like that, I will have people who speak for God, people who are wise, and teachers of the Jewish law go to you! You will murder some of them and kill some of them by nailing them to crosses. You will beat some of them in your meeting places. You will chase them from one town to another. 35 So, God will consider you to be guilty for murdering everyone who did what was right here on earth but whom someone murdered. I am referring to Adam's son Abel, who did what was right, and Barachiah's son Zechariah, whom your ancestors murdered in the temple area, and everyone in between. 36 God will consider you people who live in this time period to be guilty of all those murders. What I have said is true.

37 Oh, people of Jerusalem! You killed the people who spoke for God long ago. Then you killed others whom God sent to you. You killed them by throwing stones at them. Many times I have wanted to bring you together to protect you, as a chicken brings her offspring together under her wings. However, you did not want me to do that. 38 Your city will become a place where no one lives! 39 In fact, here is what I want to tell you: the next time you see me, you will be saying, 'May God bless him who is here to represent the Lord!'"

24 1 After that, Jesus left the temple area. As he was walking, his apprentices came to him and pointed out the impressive structures that were in the temple area. 2 He responded, “Look at all these structures! Enemies will completely destroy them. They will not leave anything standing. What I have said is true.”

3 Later, Jesus sat down on top of the Mount of Olives. His apprentices came to him. No one else was with them. They asked him, “Please explain to us when what you have described will happen. Also, please explain to us how we can tell when you are going to return to this world and when this current time period will end.”

4 Jesus replied, “Make sure that nobody deceives you! 5 I say that because many people will meet you and say that God has authorized them as he has authorized me. They will say that they are the Messiah. By doing that, they will deceive many people. 6 Whenever people tell you about wars that are happening and about wars that could happen, make sure that you are not afraid. Things like that have to happen. However, the current time period will not yet end. 7 Further, groups of people will attack each other. Many people will not have enough food to eat, and earthquakes will happen in many places. 8 Those events are like the first pains a pregnant woman feels when she is going to birth. They are bad, but many more bad things will still happen after them.

9 While those things are happening, people will hurt you and kill you. Indeed, because you are my apprentices, many groups of people will be hostile to you. 10 Also while those things are happening, many people will stop believing in me. They will have people arrest their fellow believers. They will be hostile to each other. 11 There will be many people who lie when they claim to speak for God. They will deceive many people. 12 Since more and more people will do what is wrong, many people will stop caring for each other. 13 However, if you persevere in being my apprentices while people harm you, God will rescue you. 14 You, my apprentices, will proclaim the good news about God’s kingdom throughout this world. That way, you will tell every group of people about me. After that, the current time period will end.

15 At some point, you will realize that the detestable thing that destroys is in the temple building. Daniel, who spoke for God, already referred to this detestable thing.” (So, anyone who has read what Daniel wrote should know what Jesus meant.) 16 “When you realize that, those of you who are in the region of Judea should escape to the hilly areas nearby. 17 Those of you who are outside your homes should not go back into your homes to get anything.

18 Those of you who are working in fields should not go back home to get your coats.
19 When what I have described happens, how terrible it will be for pregnant women and for nursing mothers! 20 Ask God to keep you from having to escape during the winter season or on the Jewish day of rest, when it is difficult to travel. 21 I say that because people will suffer very severely when what I have described happens. People have not suffered that severely since God created the world up to now, and no one will ever suffer that severely again.
22 Suppose that God were to allow what I have described to continue. In that case, nobody would survive. However, because of the people whom he has chosen to belong to him, God will not allow what I have described to continue.

23-24 While those things are happening, there will be people who lie when they claim to be the Messiah or to speak for God. They will perform amazing miracles. They will try to deceive the people whom God has chosen to belong to him, and they will almost succeed in doing so. Therefore, when people tell you that the Messiah is here or there, do not trust what they say.
25 I have warned you about this before it happens! 26 So, suppose someone says to you that the Messiah is in a place where no one lives. Do not go there. Similarly, suppose that someone says to you that the Messiah is in some private rooms. Do not trust what that person says.
27 Here is why I say that: lightning lights up the sky from one side to the other, and everyone can see it. Similarly, when I, the Son of Man, return to this world, everyone will see it.
28 Carrion birds assemble wherever there is a dead body.

29 Once people suffer in the ways I have described, immediately God will cause the sun to become dark. The moon will not shine. Stars will drop down from the sky. God will disrupt the angels in heaven. 30 After that, people will see something in the sky that shows that I, the Son of Man, am about to act. In response, many groups of people here on earth will grieve. They will see me, the Son of Man, arriving by means of clouds. I will be powerful and very great.
31 I will have an angel sound a loud trumpet. I will tell my angels to collect the people whom I have chosen. They will collect them from every place that exists.

32 Listen to this story about how fig trees grow. Whenever they begin to produce new branches and leaves, you can tell that it is almost the summer season. 33 Similarly, whenever you realize that what I have described is happening, you can tell that I will act very soon.

34 Most of the people who are alive right now will still be alive when what I have described happens. What I have said is true. 35 Everything that God has created will eventually change or disappear. However, what I have said will never change or disappear.

36 However, as for when this current time period will end, no human being knows that.
The angels who dwell in heaven do not know that. Even I, the Son, do not know that. In fact, only God my Father knows that. 37 So, when I, the Son of Man, return to this world, it will be like what happened when Noah was alive long ago. 38-39 Here is what I mean: at the time before God flooded the whole world, people did not realize what was going to happen. They did normal things, like eating, drinking, and getting married. They did those things right up to the moment when Noah went into the big boat that he had built. Then, God flooded the whole world and destroyed everyone who was not in the boat. That is what it will be like when I, the Son of Man, return to this world. 40 Consider what will happen to two men working on a farm when I return. God will bring one man to be with him. He will leave the other man behind to punish him. 41 Consider what will happen to two women using a stone to prepare grain. God will bring one woman to be with him. He will leave the other woman behind to punish her.

42 So then, you cannot know at what moment I, your Lord, will return to this world.
Because of that, you need to be ready at all times. 43 Now learn from this situation: Suppose that a man who managed a household learned at what time a robber was going to steal from the house. In that case, he would be ready for the robber. He would prevent him from stealing from the house. 44 So then, since I, the Son of Man, will return to this world when you do not expect me, you too need to be ready.

45 To further understand what I am saying, consider an important servant. His master has put him in charge of all the other servants, and he needs to feed them at the proper times. He should be trustworthy and act wisely. 46 When his master returns, it will be very good for that servant if his master learns that he has done what he put him in charge to do. 47 The master will put that servant in charge of everything that he owns. What I have said is true.
48 However, suppose that the servant were wicked. Then, he would think that his master was staying away for a long time. 49 So, he would start hitting the other servants. He would feast with drunk people. 50 However, then his master would return at a time when the servant does not expect him. 51 The master will punish that servant severely. He will send him where he punishes people who pretend to obey but really do not. There, people will cry and sorrowfully grind their teeth.

25 1 Here is what God's heavenly kingdom will be like at that time: Ten young women each took an oil lamp and prepared to escort a bridegroom to his wedding celebration. 2 As for those young women, five of them were foolish, and the other five of them were wise. 3 Here is how five of them were foolish: they each took an oil lamp, but they did not take any extra oil for their lamps. 4 In contrast, here is how five of them were wise: they each took an oil lamp and also some extra oil for their lamps. 5 Now the bridegroom did not arrive for a long time. So, all the young women became drowsy and then fell asleep. 6 Later, sometime during the night, someone shouted, 'The bridegroom is almost here! You must escort him to his wedding celebration!' 7 When they heard that, all the young women woke up and prepared their oil lamps.

8 The foolish young women said to the wise young women, 'Our oil lamps no longer shine brightly. So, please share your oil with us.'

9 The wise young women replied, 'We will not share our oil, because there is not enough for all of us. You should find someone from whom to buy oil for yourselves.' 10 So, the foolish young women left to buy oil. While they were gone, the bridegroom arrived. The wise young women, who were ready to escort him, went with him to the wedding hall. Then, people closed its doors.

11 Later, the other young women also arrived at the wedding hall. They asked the bridegroom, 'Sir, please open the door so that we can come in!'

12 The bridegroom replied, 'I will not open the door, because I do not recognize you. What I have said is true!' 13 So then, you cannot know at what moment I will return to this world. Because of that, you need to be ready at all times.

14 Even further, here is what God's heavenly kingdom is like: a man decided to travel to a different country. So, he summoned his servants and put them in charge of what he owned.

15 He gave as much money to each servant as each one could manage. He gave five bags of money to one servant. He gave two bags of money to another servant. He gave one bag of money to another servant. As soon as he did that, he traveled to a different country. 16 Then, the servant who had five bags of money went to invest the money. He made five more bags of money. 17 Similarly, the servant who had two bags of money invested the money. He made two more bags of money. 18 However, the servant who had one bag of money went to bury it in the ground to keep it safe.

19 Much later, the servants' master returned. He wanted to know what they had done with the bags of money. 20 So, the servant who had five bags of money went to him. He brought them and the five more bags of money that he had made. He said, 'Master, you gave me five bags of money. I have made five more bags of money!'

21 His master replied, 'I approve of what you have done. You are a trustworthy servant who does what is right! You were trustworthy when I put you in charge of only some money. Now I will put you in charge of many important things. Enjoy what I have with me!'

22 Then, the servant who had two bags of money went to him too. He said, 'Master, you gave me two bags of money. I have made two more bags of money!'

23 His master replied, 'I approve of what you have done. You are a trustworthy servant who does what is right! You were trustworthy when I put you in charge of only some money. Now I will put you in charge of many important things. Enjoy what I have with me!'

24 Then, the servant who had one bag of money went to him too. He said, 'Master, I realized that you are a demanding person. You are like a farmer who harvests crops that he did not plant. 25 So, because I feared you, I went to bury your bag of money in the ground to keep it safe. Now I am giving you back your money!'

26 His master replied, 'You are an evil servant who refuses to work! You claim that you realized that I am like a farmer who harvests crops that he did not plant. 27 If that were true about me, you should have given the bag of money to people who lend money. Then, when I returned, I would have gotten it back plus the interest it earned.'

28 So the master said to his other servants, ‘Take the bag of money from him! Give it to the servant who has ten bags of money. 29 I command that because people give more to those who already have something. They will have many things. In contrast, people take everything from those who already have very little. 30 Now to punish this useless servant, cast him out into a dark place, where people will cry and sorrowfully grind their teeth.’

31 When I, the Son of Man, return to this world with all the angels, I will be very glorious. At that time, I will sit down to rule from my great throne. 32 Then all groups of people will assemble in front of me. I will divide them into two groups, as a sheepherder divides his animals into a group of sheep and a group of goats. 33 I will have some people, who are like sheep, go to the area to my right to honor them. I will have the other people, who are like goats, go to the area to my left to shame them. 34 After that, I, the king, will tell the people in the area to my right, ‘You are people whom God my Father has blessed. Come with me! God will enable you to participate in the kingdom that he set up for you when he created everything. 35 You will do that because you fed me when I was hungry. You gave me water when I was thirsty. You welcomed me when I arrived from a different place. 36 You gave me clothes when I did not have enough to wear. You took care of me when I was ill. You visited me when I was in jail.’

37 After that, the people who did what was right will reply, ‘Lord, we do not remember feeding you when you were hungry. We do not remember giving you water when you were thirsty. 38 We do not remember welcoming you even though you were from a different place. We do not remember giving you clothes when you did not have enough to wear. 39 We do not remember visiting you when you were ill or in jail.’

40 I, the king, will respond, ‘Whenever you do something to help an insignificant fellow believer, it is as if you did it to help me. What I have said is true.’

41 After that, I will tell the people in the area to my left, ‘You are people whom God has cursed. Leave me! I send you to hell, which God set up for Satan and his demons. 42 You will go there because you did not feed me when I was hungry. You did not give me water when I was thirsty. 43 You did not welcome me when I arrived from a different place. You did not give me clothes when I did not have enough to wear. You did not take care of me when I was ill and in jail.'

44 After that, those people will reply, 'Lord, we do not remember failing to help you when you were hungry or thirsty or came from a different place or did not have enough to wear or were ill or in jail.'

45 He will reply, 'I tell you truly that you did not do for me whatever you did not do for even the least important one among these people of mine.'

46 As for those people who did what was wrong, God will punish them forever. In contrast, the people who did what was right will live with God forever."

26 1 So, Jesus completed saying all those things. Then, he told his apprentices, 2 "As you know, two days from now, the Passover festival will begin. At that time, somebody will help the authorities arrest me, the Son of Man. They will have people kill me by nailing me to a cross."

3 At that time, the ruling priests and the Jewish leaders assembled outside the house of the ruling priest whose name was Caiaphas. 4 They started to plan a clever way to arrest Jesus and have others execute him. 5 However, they agreed that they would not act during the Passover festival. Otherwise, the people who were there in Jerusalem might riot.

6 One time, Jesus and his apprentices were in the village of Bethany. They were in the home of Simon, who used to have a skin disease. 7 While Jesus was feasting there, a woman came to him. She brought with her a stone jar that contained a valuable, fragrant ointment. She poured the ointment on Jesus' head. 8 When the apprentices noticed what the woman had done, they were very upset. They declared, "She wasted the valuable ointment! 9 She could have sold it for a lot of money! Then, she could have given that money to poor people."

10 However, Jesus realized what they were saying. He told them, "Do not bother this woman! I say that because what she did to me was right. 11 There will always be poor people with you. So, you can help them whenever you want to. However, I will not always be with you. 12 When she poured this ointment on me, she was getting me ready for when someone buries me. 13 In every place where my apprentices proclaim the good news, they will also tell what this woman just did. That way, people remember her. What I have said is true."

14 After that, one of Jesus' 12 representatives visited the ruling priests. This man's name was Judas Iscariot. 15 He said to them, "Suppose that I help you arrest Jesus. How much money would you pay me?" In response, they offered Judas 30 silver coins. 16 From that moment on, Judas tried to find a good time to help the ruling priests arrest Jesus.

17 During the first day of the Celebration of Unleavened Bread, the apprentices came to Jesus. They asked him, "Where should we set up the meal for the Passover celebration?"

18 Jesus told them, "Enter the city of Jerusalem and find a certain man. Tell him, 'Our instructor says that something important is about to happen to him. He wants to eat the meal for the Passover celebration with us, his apprentices, in your home.'" 19 The apprentices did what Jesus told them to do. They went to that man's house and set up the meal for the Passover celebration.

20 When it was evening, Jesus and his 12 representatives began to feast. 21 As they ate, Jesus told them, "One of you is going to help my enemies arrest me. What I have said is true."

22 The apprentices became very sad. Every one of them told Jesus, "Lord, I will not do that!"

23 Jesus replied, "The one who will help my enemies arrest me is eating food here with me. 24 I, the Son of Man, will die. That is what you can read in the Scriptures about me. Nevertheless, how terrible it will be for the man who helps my enemies arrest me, the Son of Man. In fact, that man would be better off if he had never existed."

25 Judas, the one who was going to help his enemies arrest him, replied, "Teacher, I will not do that!"

Jesus replied, "Yes you will."

26 As they ate, Jesus picked up a loaf of bread. He thanked God for the loaf of bread. Then, he tore it into pieces and handed the pieces to the apprentices to eat. He said, "This bread is my body. Receive it and eat it.” 27 Then Jesus picked up a cup of wine. He thanked God for the wine. Then, he handed the cup of wine to the apprentices. He said, “All of you must drink wine from this cup. 28 This wine is my blood, which inaugurates the agreement God is making with you. My blood will flow from my body when my enemies kill me. That way, God will forgive the sins of many people. 29 Here is what I want to tell you: From this moment on, I will not drink any more wine until the time when I drink it again with you when we participate in God my Father’s kingdom.”

30 After they sang a song praising God, Jesus and his apprentices walked to the Mount of Olives.

31 After that, Jesus told them, “God had Zechariah write in the Scriptures,

> ‘I will kill the one who is like a shepherd.
> Then, the people who are like sheep in his flock will flee.’

So, tonight all of you will reject me! 32 However, once God has made me alive again, I will go ahead of you to the region of Galilee and meet you there.”

33 Peter replied, “Suppose that everyone else rejects you. Despite that, I will never reject you!”

34 Jesus replied, “Tonight before male chickens crow at dawn, you will say three times that you are not my apprentice! What I have said is true.”

35 Peter told him, “I will always say that I am your apprentice, even if I die with you because of that!” The rest of the apprentices said the same thing.

36 After that, Jesus and his apprentices walked to a place whose name was Gethsemane. He told the apprentices, “Stay here. I will walk over there and pray to God.” 37 Jesus had Peter and Zebedee’s two sons, James and John, go with him. Then, Jesus started to become very sad and upset. 38 He told those three apprentices, “I am so sad that I feel like I am dying. Stay here and stay awake with me!” 39 After saying that, Jesus walked a little further. Then, he kneeled down to pray. He said, “God my Father, if there is any way to do so, please prevent me from suffering terribly. However, please do what you want to do, not what I want you to do.”

40 Then he returned to the three apprentices. He discovered that they were asleep. He woke them up and rebuked Peter, “It disappoints me that you men could not stay awake with me for just a short time! 41 You want to do what I say, but you are not strong enough. Stay awake and pray! That way, nothing can convince you to sin.” 42 Then Jesus walked a short distance away a second time. He prayed, “God my Father, there may be no way to prevent me from suffering terribly. So, please do what you want to do!”

43 Then he returned a second time to the three apprentices. He discovered that they, because they were so sleepy, had fallen asleep again. 44 So, Jesus walked a short distance away a third time. He prayed again what he had prayed before. 45 Then he returned to the three apprentices. He woke them up and rebuked them, “It disappoints me that you continue to sleep! The time when I will suffer is about to begin! Someone is about to help sinful people arrest me, the Son of Man. 46 Stand up! We are going to leave this place. The person who is helping my enemies arrest me has arrived!”

47 While Jesus was still talking to the three apprentices, Judas arrived. He was one of the 12 men whom Jesus had chosen to represent him. He brought with him a large group of people carrying swords and clubs. The ruling priests and the Jewish leaders had sent them to arrest Jesus. 48 Previously, Judas, who was helping Jesus’ enemies arrest him, told the group of people how they would know which man was Jesus. He instructed them, “The man you should arrest is the one whom I will greet affectionately.”

49 As soon as he arrived, Judas went to Jesus and said, “Greetings, Teacher!” Then he greeted Jesus affectionately.

50 Jesus told him, “My friend, I know why you are really here.”

After that, the large group of people arrested Jesus. 51 Then one of the men who were with Jesus pulled his sword out of its sheath! He attacked a man who served the ruling priest, but he only cut off that man’s ear. 52 After that, Jesus told him, “Put your sword back in its sheath! I say that because someone will kill with a sword every person who tries to kill another person with a sword. 53 You should realize that I could ask God my Father to protect me, and he would immediately send more than 12 armies of angels to do so! 54 However, if I did that, then what people wrote in the Scriptures would not come true. They wrote that what is happening to me has to occur."

55 At that time, Jesus told the groups of people who were arresting him, "You did not need to treat me like a dangerous bandit by arming yourselves with swords and clubs to arrest me. Each day I was peacefully instructing people in the temple area. You did not arrest me then! 56 However, as all these things have happened, what the prophets wrote has come true." After that, all of Jesus' apprentices deserted him and ran away.

57 The people who had arrested Jesus took him to the house where Caiaphas, the ruling priest, lived. The teachers of the Jewish law and the Jewish leaders had already assembled there. 58 Peter followed Jesus, but he stayed a safe distance away. He went into the area just outside the house where the ruling priest lived. He sat there with the servants. That way, he could see what was going to happen.

59 The ruling priests and all the rest of the Jewish council tried to find people who would say what was untrue about Jesus. That way, they could have the Roman authorities execute him. 60 However, even though many people said what was untrue about Jesus, the Jewish council did not find anything that they could tell the Roman authorities about. Finally, two people came forward. 61 They said, "This man said that he could tear down God's temple and construct it again within three days."

62 Then the ruling priest stood up. He asked Jesus, "Are you going to reply? How do you respond to what these people have said about you?" 63 Despite that, Jesus kept quiet. Then the ruling priest told him, "I want you to have the only real God guarantee that you will say truthfully whether you are the Messiah, God's Son."

64 Jesus replied, "What you have called me is right. In fact, here is what I want to tell you: From this time on, you will see me, the Son of Man, ruling powerfully with God. You will see me arriving by means of clouds."

65 When he heard that, the ruling priest was so upset that he ripped his outer garments. He said, "This man has insulted God! We certainly do not need anyone else to say anything about him. You all just heard him insult God! 66 What should we decide to do?"

The Jewish council replied, “Someone should execute him because of what he has said!”

67 After that, some of the people there spit in Jesus’ face to insult him. They struck him with their fists. They slapped him 68 and demanded, “You who claim to be the Messiah, prove to us that you speak for God! Name the people who just struck you!”

69 Meanwhile, Peter was sitting down in the area just outside the ruling priest’s house. A female servant came up to him and said, “I can tell that you were an apprentice of Jesus, that man from the region of Galilee.”

70 However, while everyone there was listening, he told them that he was not Jesus’ apprentice. He said, “I do not understand what you are talking about!”

71 Then Peter walked to the entrance into the area just outside the house. Another female servant noticed him there. She told the people who were standing nearby, “This man was an apprentice of Jesus, that man from the town of Nazareth.”

72 Peter again said that he was not Jesus’ apprentice. He solemnly promised, “I have never met that man!”

73 A little later, some people who were there came up to Peter. They told him, “When you talk, you sound like you are from where Jesus is from. So, you must really be one of his apprentices.”

74 After they said that, Peter asked God to punish him if he was lying. Then he solemnly promised, “I have never met that man!” As soon as he said that, a male chicken crowed.

75 Then Peter remembered what Jesus had told him. He had said, “Before male chickens crow at dawn, you will say three times that you are not my apprentice.” Peter left the area just outside the ruling priest’s house and cried very sorrowfully.

27 1 When it was morning, all the ruling priests and the Jewish leaders planned how they could have someone execute Jesus. 2 They had their guards tie Jesus up and take him from there to Pilate, the Roman local ruler. They wanted Pilate to condemn him.

3 After that, Judas, the man who had helped Jesus' enemies arrest him, realized that the ruling priests and Jewish leaders had decided that Jesus was guilty. He regretted what he had done. So, he gave the 30 silver coins that they had paid him back to them. 4 He told them, "I have done what is wrong by helping you arrest someone who is not guilty."

They replied, "We do not care what you think! That is your problem."

5 So Judas took the silver coins that they had paid him and threw them into the temple. Then he left the temple area. After that, he hanged himself and died.

6 Later, the ruling priests picked up the silver coins that Judas had thrown. They declared, "This is money that we paid so that a man would die. So, our laws prohibit us from adding these coins to the money for the temple."

7 After planning what to do, they used the coins to buy some land that people called the Potter's Field. That way, they could bury on that land people who came from a different place but who died in Jerusalem. 8 That is why people now call that land Blood's Field. 9 At that time, what God said by speaking through the prophet Jeremiah came true:

"They took the 30 silver coins, which was what some of the Israelites had decided that he was worth. 10 Then, the Israelites did what the Lord God had commanded me to do. They used those coins to buy the Potter's Field."

11 As for Jesus, the Jewish council had him stand in front of Pilate, the Roman local ruler. Pilate asked him, "Do you claim to be king over the Jewish people?"

Jesus replied, "What you are calling me is right."

12 Then the ruling priests and the Jewish leaders claimed that Jesus had done many bad things. However, Jesus did not respond. 13 After that, Pilate asked him, "Are you going to respond to anything that they have accused you of doing?" 14 However, Jesus did not respond to even one of the things that they accused him of doing. How Jesus was acting greatly impressed Pilate, the Roman local ruler.

15 It is important to know that whenever the Passover festival began, the Roman local ruler, Pilate, usually set free one person who was in jail. He allowed the group of people who were in Jerusalem to decide who it would be. 16 It is also important to know that a famous man whose name was Barabbas was in jail. 17 So, when the people who were in Jerusalem assembled, Pilate told them, "I will set free one person who is in jail. Whom do you want it to be? Do you want it to be Barabbas? Or do you want it to be Jesus, whom people call the Messiah?" 18 Pilate asked that question because he realized that the Jewish council had arrested Jesus and brought him to Pilate because they were jealous of Jesus.

19 While Pilate was sitting where he did when he was deciding whether people were guilty or innocent, his wife sent a message to him: "Today I dreamed about that man, and it upset me very much. So, do not do anything with that man. He is a man who does what is right!"

20 However, the ruling priests and the Jewish leaders convinced the groups of people who were there to ask Pilate to set Barabbas free. Also, they convinced the groups of people to have Pilate execute Jesus. 21 Then the Roman local ruler, Pilate, told the groups of people who were there, "Choose one of these two men, and I will set that man free."

They replied, "We want you to set Barabbas free!"

22 Pilate replied, "So what do you want me to do with Jesus, whom people call the Messiah?"

All the people who were there replied, "Have your soldiers kill him by nailing him to a cross!"

23 Pilate replied, "But he has not done anything wrong!"

But they shouted even louder, "Have your soldiers kill him by nailing him to a cross!"

24 Then Pilate realized that he was not accomplishing anything by asking those questions. Rather, the group of people who were there were starting to riot. So, while they were watching, he washed his hands in water to indicate that he was not guilty. He declared, "I am not guilty of killing this man! That is your problem."

25 All the people who were there replied, "We and our children will be responsible for killing this man!" 26 Then Pilate set Barabbas free. He had his soldiers whip Jesus and take him away to kill him by nailing him to a cross.

27 After that, the soldiers who served the Roman local ruler, Pilate, took Jesus into their headquarters. They assembled all the soldiers who were there. 28 They pulled off his clothes and put a red robe on him, the kind that kings wear. 29 They took some branches with thorns and laced them together to make a crown. They put it on Jesus' head and had him hold a staff. Then they bowed down in front of him and made fun of him. They said, "Greetings, you who are king over the Jewish people!" 30 Then, they spat on Jesus to insult him. Also, they took the staff from him and kept hitting his head with it. 31 After the soldiers made fun of Jesus, they pulled the robe off of him. They put his own clothes back on him. Then, they took him from there to the place where they were going to kill him by nailing him to a cross.

32 As they were on their way, they passed a man who was from the city of Cyrene. His name was Simon. The soldiers forced this man to carry the cross for Jesus. 33 Then, they arrived at a place whose name is Golgotha. That name means "Skull Place." 34 The soldiers offered Jesus a drink that they had made out of wine and a bitter liquid. After he took a sip of it, Jesus refused to drink it. 35 After nailing Jesus to the cross, the soldiers split up his clothes among them by gambling for them. 36 Then, the soldiers stayed there to make sure that Jesus died. 37 They wrote on a sign why they were executing Jesus. On the sign were these words: "This man is Jesus. He was king over the Jewish people." The soldiers placed the sign above Jesus' head.

38 After that, the soldiers nailed two bandits to crosses near Jesus. They put one bandit on one side of Jesus. They put the other bandit on the other side of Jesus. 39 The people who walked past Jesus insulted him by shaking their heads at him. 40 They said to him, "You said that you could tear down God's temple and construct it again within three days. So, rescue yourself! Show us that you really are God's Son. Get down from that cross!"

41 Similarly, the ruling priests, the teachers of the Jewish law, and the Jewish leaders made fun of Jesus. They declared, 42 "He has rescued other people. However, he cannot rescue himself! He says that he is king over the people of Israel. So, he should get down now from that cross. Then we will trust him! 43 He says that he is God's Son and that he relies on God. However, if God really wanted to do so, he would protect him right now." 44 The two bandits whom the soldiers had nailed to crosses near Jesus also insulted him in similar ways.

45 At noon, it became dark in that whole area. It stayed dark until three o'clock in the afternoon. 46 At about three o'clock in the afternoon, Jesus shouted, "Eli, Eli, lama sabachthani?" That means, "My God, my God, why did you abandon me?"

47 Some people who were there heard what Jesus said and misunderstood it. They said, "He is speaking to the prophet Elijah!" 48 As soon as they said that, one person quickly went to get a sponge. He soaked it in sour wine and attached it to the top of a staff. Then, he held it up to Jesus so that Jesus could suck the sour wine from it.

49 Then the other people there said, "Do not do anything else for him! We should wait to find out whether Elijah appears to rescue him." 50 After that, Jesus shouted loudly again. Then, he died. 51 Then the drape hanging in front of the Most Holy Place in the temple ripped in half. It tore from the top down to the bottom. Also, the earth quaked, and rocks broke apart. 52 Also, graves opened, and God made many of his people who had died alive again. 53 After God made Jesus alive again, those people left their graves. They went into Jerusalem, the sacred city. Many people saw them there.

54 The Roman officer and his soldiers, who were making sure that Jesus died, saw the earth quaking and the other things that happened. They became extremely afraid. They declared, "This man really was God's Son."

55 While all that was happening, many women were there. They had come with Jesus from the region of Galilee. They were the ones who had taken care of him. These women observed what was happening from farther away. 56 These women included Mary from the town of Magdala, another Mary who was the mother of James and Joseph, and Zebedee's wife.

57 When it was evening, a wealthy man arrived. His name was Joseph, and he was from the city of Arimathea. He too was one of Jesus' apprentices. 58 Joseph went to Pilate. He asked Pilate to allow him to take the body of Jesus to bury it. So, Pilate told his soldiers to give him the body. 59 So Joseph received Jesus' body. He prepared to bury it by winding a fresh sheet of cloth around it. 60 Then, Joseph put Jesus' body into Joseph's own fresh grave. Joseph's workers had made it by digging into a rock cliff. After that, Joseph rolled a huge flat stone to block the entrance to the grave. Then he left. 61 While Joseph was doing those things, Mary from the town of Magdala and the other woman whose name was Mary were there in front of the grave.

62 The next day was the Jewish day of rest, the day after Preparation Day. On that day, the ruling priests and the Pharisees assembled to meet with Pilate. 63 They said, "Sir, we can recall something that Jesus, that man who deceived others, said while he was still alive. He claimed that during the third day after he died, God would make him alive again. 64 So, please tell your soldiers to protect Jesus' grave for the next three days. That way, his apprentices cannot go there, remove his corpse, and tell people that God had made him alive again. If they succeed in deceiving people in this way, it will be more dangerous than how Jesus himself deceived people."

65 Pilate told them, "Take with you some soldiers. Walk to the grave and protect it as well as you can." 66 So, they went to Jesus' grave and protected it. They marked the huge flat stone that blocked the entrance. That way, they would know if anyone moved it. Also, they left some soldiers there to make sure that no one opened the grave.

28 1 When the Sabbath ended, at dawn on Sunday morning, Mary from the town of Magdala and the other woman whose name was Mary went to observe Jesus' tomb. 2 Then the earth quaked violently! That happened because an angel from the Lord descended from heaven. He went to Jesus' grave. He rolled the flat stone away from the entrance to the grave. Then, he sat down on the stone. 3 This angel looked as bright as lightning. His garments were pure white. 4 The soldiers who were protecting the grave trembled because they were afraid of the angel. They were so afraid that they looked like they had died.

5 The angel told the two women, "I realize that you are looking for Jesus, whom people killed by nailing him to a cross. So, you should stop being afraid! 6 God made him alive again, which is what he told you would happen. So, he is no longer in this place! If you walk with us, we will show you where his body was. 7 Then, hurry to his apprentices and tell them that God has made Jesus alive again. Tell them that they should listen, and that Jesus is going ahead of them to the region of Galilee. Tell them that Jesus will meet them there. I have told you what to say!"

8 So the two women hurried away from the grave. They were afraid and also very happy. They ran to where Jesus' apprentices were to tell them what had happened and what the angel had said. 9 As they were running, Jesus came up to them! He said, "Greetings!" The two women went to him and bowed down to hold his feet to honor him. Also, they worshiped him. 10 After that, Jesus told them, "You should stop being afraid! Go to my apprentices and tell them to leave for the region of Galilee. I will meet them there."

11 Then, the two women went to meet Jesus' apprentices. Meanwhile, some of the soldiers whom the Jewish leaders had told to make sure that no one opened Jesus' grave entered the city of Jerusalem. They told the ruling priests about everything that had happened at Jesus' grave. 12 So, the ruling priests and the Jewish leaders assembled and planned what to do. They paid those soldiers a large number of silver coins to bribe them. 13 They instructed them, "Tell people that his apprentices arrived during the night while you were asleep and stole his body. 14 Suppose that the Roman local ruler, Pilate, learns what you are telling people. In that case, we will convince him to refrain from punishing you. You will not have to worry about anything." 15 So, the soldiers accepted the silver coins. They told people what the ruling priests and Jewish leaders had instructed them to say. In fact, even now Jewish people continue to repeat the story that the soldiers told.

16 Meanwhile, Jesus' 11 apprentices traveled to the region of Galilee. They went to the hill to which Jesus had told them to go. 17 When they met him there, they worshiped him. However, they were unsure that it really was Jesus. 18 Then Jesus came up to them and said, "God my Father has authorized me to rule over everything that God has created. 19 So then, go from here. Help all groups of people become my apprentices. Baptize them so that they belong to God the Father, me his Son, and the Holy Spirit. 20 Instruct them so that they do everything that I have told you to do. Finally, I will be with you at all times, even up to the point when this current time period ends."

Mark

1 1 I am going to tell you the good news about Jesus, the Messiah. He is the Son of God.

2 This story began as Isaiah, who spoke for God, wrote that it would:

> "Listen, I am sending my messenger ahead of you.
> He will make things ready for when you come.
> 3 In the desolate place, someone will be calling out to the people:
> 'Prepare yourselves to receive the Lord!
> Make yourselves ready for when he comes!'"

4 Now there was a man whose name was John. He baptized people in a desolate area. He proclaimed that people should allow him to baptize them. That would show that they were going to stop doing what was wrong. That way, God would forgive their sins. 5 Many people who lived in the region of Judea and many people who lived in the city of Jerusalem often went to listen to John. Many of these people agreed that they had sinned. Then, John baptized them in the Jordan River. 6 John wore rough clothes that he made out of camel's hair. He fastened around his waist a belt that he made from animal skin. He ate grasshoppers and honey that he found in that desolate area. 7 He often preached, "Soon you will see someone else who is greater than I am. It is not appropriate for me even to kneel down and help him take off his sandals. 8 I use water to baptize you. However, he will give you the Holy Spirit, which will be like baptizing you."

9 Now while John was preaching and baptizing people, Jesus traveled from the town of Nazareth, which was in the region of Galilee. He arrived where John was and had John baptize him in the Jordan River. 10 As soon as John baptized him, Jesus waded out of the Jordan River. Then, he saw God opening the way from heaven. He saw that the Holy Spirit, who looked like a small bird, was descending from heaven to him. 11 Then God spoke from heaven, "You are my Son, the one whom I love dearly. What you do pleases me." 12 As soon as that happened, the Holy Spirit sent Jesus into a desolate area. 13 Jesus stayed for 40 days in that desolate area with the animals that lived there. During that time, Satan tried to make Jesus sin. Also, angels took care of Jesus.

14 Later, after King Herod Antipas arrested John, Jesus traveled back to the region of Galilee. There, he preached the good news from God. 15 He declared, “This is the moment when God is about to establish his kingdom here. Stop doing what is wrong! Trust the good news!”

16 One day, Jesus was walking next to the Sea of Galilee. He saw a man whose name was Simon and that man’s younger brother, whose name was Andrew. They earned money by catching and selling fish. When Jesus saw them, they were using nets to try to catch fish. 17 Jesus told them, “Come with me and be my apprentices. I will teach you how to gather people to be my apprentices, just as you have been gathering fish.” 18 As soon as Jesus said that, they stopped working. They went with him and were his apprentices.

19 Then Jesus walked a short distance next to the sea. He saw a man whose name was James and that man’s younger brother, whose name was John. They were sons of a man whose name was Zebedee. When Jesus saw them, they were preparing their fishing tools in a boat. 20 As soon as he saw them, Jesus commanded them, “Come with me and be my apprentices.” They got out of the boat and left Zebedee their father with the workers they had hired. They went with Jesus and were his apprentices.

21 Jesus, along with Peter, Andrew, James, and John, went to the town of Capernaum. As soon as it was the Jewish day of rest, Jesus visited the Jewish meeting place and instructed the people who were there. 22 The way that Jesus taught impressed the people who were there. It impressed them because Jesus did not teach as the teachers of the Jewish law did. Rather, he taught them like someone whom God had authorized to do so. 23 As Jesus was instructing people in the Jewish meeting place, a man whom a demon controlled was there. He shouted, 24 “Jesus from the town of Nazareth, leave us alone! You must be here to punish us. I realize who you are. You are the special one whom God has set apart!”

25 Then Jesus commanded the demon to stop controlling the man. He said, “Be quiet. Leave that man!” 26 The demon shook the man violently and shouted loudly. Then, it left the man.

27 What Jesus had done impressed all the people who were in the Jewish meeting place, and they talked about it with each other. They said, "What he does is amazing! He teaches new things as someone whom God has authorized to do so. He tells the demons what to do, and they do what he says!" 28 And so, throughout the whole region of Galilee, people kept talking about what Jesus had done.

29 As soon as Jesus forced the demon out of the man, he left the Jewish meeting place. He, along with Simon, Andrew, James, and John, went to Simon and Andrew's home.
30 Meanwhile, Simon's mother-in-law was resting in bed because she had a fever. As soon as Jesus arrived, the people there told him that she was sick. 31 So, Jesus went to her. He took her hand and helped her stand up. Then, she recovered from the fever and offered Jesus and his disciples some food.

32 When it was late in the evening, people brought to Jesus many men and women who were sick or whom demons controlled. 33 In fact, almost everybody in the town of Capernaum assembled outside the door of Simon and Andrew's home. 34 Jesus cured many people who were sick in many different ways. He also forced demons out of many people. Further, because the demons realized that Jesus was the Messiah, he did not allow them to say anything.

35 Jesus woke up early the next morning, before sunrise. He left the house and walked to a place where no one lived. He prayed to God there. 36 When they realized that Jesus was gone, Simon and other people with him urgently searched for Jesus. 37 When they found Jesus, they told him, "Almost everybody in the town of Capernaum is trying to find you. We think that you should return there with us."

38 Jesus replied, "I will not return with you. I need to do what I am here to do. So, we need to visit other towns in this area. That way, I can preach the good news in those places too." 39 So Jesus and his apprentices visited all the towns in the region of Galilee. Jesus preached the good news in the Jewish meeting places. Also, he forced demons out of people.

40 One day, a man who had a skin disease approached Jesus. He bowed down before Jesus and urged him, "Please heal me! I know that you can heal me if you want to do so."

41 Jesus pitied the man. So, he stretched out his hand and touched the man. Jesus told him,
"I want to heal you, and I heal you now!" 42 At that time, Jesus cured the man. He no longer had the skin disease!

43 As soon as he healed the man, Jesus commanded him to leave. As he was leaving, Jesus sternly told him, 44 "Do not tell anyone what just happened. Instead, go and show yourself to a priest so that he can examine you and see that you no longer have the skin disease. Also, present what Moses required you to offer to become ceremonially clean again. This will prove to the community that you no longer have the skin disease." 45 However, after the man left, he frequently told people about how Jesus had healed him. As a result, people from many different places kept approaching Jesus. So, Jesus could no longer walk into any town publicly.
Instead, he stayed outside the towns in places where no one lived.

2 1 Sometime later, Jesus returned to the town of Capernaum. Then, people learned that he was in a certain house. 2 So, very many people assembled there. There were so many of them that there was no room for them inside the house or even outside the door. Jesus preached the good news to them. 3 Then some people arrived at the house where Jesus was. Four of them were carrying a man who could not move. 4 However, because of how many people were there, they could not carry the man close to Jesus. So, they went up on the flat roof of the house and dug a hole through it. Then, they lowered the man down as he was lying on his sleeping pad. 5 Jesus perceived that these people believed that he could heal the man. So, he said to the man who could not move, "Young man, I forgive you for your sins!"

6 Now some teachers of the Jewish law were there. They were thinking to themselves, 7 "This man should not be saying that he forgives sins. The only one who can forgive sins is God. So, he is insulting God!"

8 As soon as they thought that, Jesus realized what they were thinking to themselves. He told them, "You should not be thinking to yourselves that I cannot forgive sins. 9 You may think that it is easy to claim to forgive this man who cannot move for his sins, since it is difficult to prove whether this has happened. Similarly, you may think that it is difficult to tell this man who cannot move to stand up, carry his sleeping pad, and walk around, since it is easy to prove whether this has happened. 10 However, I want you to know that God has authorized me, the Son of Man, to forgive people on earth for their sins." So, he said to the man who could not move, 11 "Here is what I want you to do: stand up, carry your sleeping pad, and go home!"

12 Then the man stood up! As soon as he did that, he carried his sleeping pad and left. Everyone saw him do those things, and it impressed all of them. They praised God and declared that they had never seen anything like that before.

13 Then Jesus returned to the area next to the Sea of Galilee. A large group of people approached him, and he instructed them. 14 As Jesus was walking along, he noticed a man whose name was Levi. He was the son of a man whose name was Alphaeus. Levi was sitting in the booth where the people came to pay him the taxes that the government required. Jesus said to him, "Come with me and be my apprentice!" So, Levi stood up and went with him as his apprentice. 15 Later, Jesus was feasting in Levi's home. Many people who collected taxes and other sinful people feasted with Jesus and his apprentices. All these people went with Jesus as his apprentices.

16 Then, some Pharisees who taught the Jewish law noticed that Jesus was eating food with sinful people and people who collected taxes. They told Jesus' apprentices, "He should not be feasting with people who collect taxes and other sinful people."

17 Jesus learned what they said. He told them, "People who are well do not need a doctor. Rather, people who are sick need a doctor. I am here not to invite those who think they are righteous to come to me. Rather, I invite those who know that they have sinned to come to me."

18 One day, the Pharisees and the apprentices of John the Baptizer were abstaining from eating in order to please God. Meanwhile, some people visited Jesus. They asked him, "The apprentices of John the Baptizer and the apprentices of the Pharisees are abstaining from eating in order to please God. However, your apprentices do not do so. Why not?"

19 Jesus answered, "The friends of the bridegroom do not abstain from eating while the wedding celebration is still going on. Indeed, they continue to eat as long as the wedding celebration continues. 20 However, someday the bridegroom will no longer be with his friends. Then they will abstain from eating.

21 People do not attach a piece of unshrunken cloth on old clothing in order to mend a hole. However, suppose that they did. When they washed the garment, the new piece of cloth would shrink and completely rip out of the old clothing. As a result, the hole would become even bigger! 22 Similarly, people do not put fresh wine into old skin bags to store it. However, suppose that they did. The fresh wine would ferment and expand and tear open the skin bags. That would ruin the wine and the skin bags. So, in contrast, people put fresh wine into new skin bags."

23 Later, Jesus and his apprentices were walking through grain fields during one of the Jewish days of rest. As the apprentices were walking along, they picked some grain and ate it. 24 So, some Pharisees said to Jesus, "Look! Your apprentices should not be working on a Jewish day of rest. Our law forbids us to do that."

25 Jesus replied, "Consider the story in the Scriptures about what King David did when he and the men who were with him became very hungry but did not have any food. 26 As you know, David entered the sacred tent while Abiathar was the ruling priest. He ate some of the bread that had been on display before God, and he had the men who were with him eat some of it too. He did that even though the law allowed only the priests to eat that bread."

27 Then Jesus told the Pharisees, "God did not create humans because of the Jewish day of rest. Rather, he created the Jewish day of rest because of humans. 28 So then, I, the Son of Man, can decide what is right for people to do even during the Jewish day of rest!"

3 1 Then Jesus again visited the Jewish meeting place there. A certain man also was there. He could not move his hand. 2 Since it was the Jewish day of rest, the Pharisees who were there focused on Jesus to see whether he would cure the man. They wanted to accuse Jesus of disobeying the laws about not working on the Sabbath. 3 Then Jesus told the man who could not move his hand, "Stand here in front of everyone!" So, the man stood there.

4 Then Jesus told the Pharisees, "You know that the laws that God gave Moses allow people to do what is good and to rescue people on Jewish days of rest. They do not allow people to do what is wrong and to kill people on Jewish days of rest." However, the Pharisees did not respond to him.

5 So Jesus stared at them angrily. Because they stubbornly refused to listen to him, he became very sad. Then Jesus commanded the man, “Extend the hand that you cannot move!” The man extended his hand, and he could move it again. 6 Then the Pharisees left the Jewish meeting place. As soon as they left, they met with some people who supported King Herod. Together, they started planning how they could kill Jesus.

7 Jesus and his apprentices went back to the Sea of Galilee. Very many people from the region of Galilee went with him. Also, there were more people from the region of Judea, 8 from the city of Jerusalem, from the region of Idumea, from the east side of the Jordan River, and from the regions around the cities of Tyre and Sidon. Because they learned about all the things that Jesus was doing, all these many people went to where he was. 9-10 Further, because Jesus cured many people, many other people who were sick pushed forward in order to touch him. So, Jesus told his apprentices to prepare a boat for him to get into. That way, all those people would not crush him. 11 Also, when demons saw Jesus, they caused the people whom they controlled to kneel down in front of Jesus and yell, “You are the Son of God!” 12 Jesus frequently commanded the demons strongly that they should not tell people about him.

13 Then Jesus went up on a hill. He told the apprentices whom he chose to come to him there. They joined him on the hill. 14 He chose 12 men to be his closest apprentices and to proclaim the good news. He called them his representatives. 15 He also authorized them to force demons out of people. 16 Here are the 12 representatives that Jesus chose. He chose Simon, whom he called Peter. 17 He chose James, Zebedee’s son, and John, James’ younger brother. He called the two of them Boanerges, which means “men who are like thunder.” 18 He chose Andrew, Philip, Bartholomew, Matthew, Thomas, James (who was Alphaeus’ son), Thaddaeus, and Simon the Zealot. 19 Finally, he chose Judas Iscariot. He was the one who helped Jesus’ enemies arrest him.

20 Then Jesus and his apprentices entered a certain house. A large group of people again assembled there. There were so many people that Jesus and his apprentices did not have enough time even to eat food. 21 Jesus’ relatives heard about what was happening. They thought that Jesus was insane. So, they traveled from the town of Nazareth to where Jesus was to force him to return with them.

22 Now some teachers of the Jewish law arrived from Jerusalem. They were telling people, “Beelzebul controls this man. In fact, it is the leader of the demons who enables him to force demons out of people!”

23 So Jesus told the people there to come to him. He used stories to teach them. He said, “Satan does not enable people to force out his own demons! 24 Suppose that the people in one nation fight against each other. That nation will not last. 25 Further, suppose that the people in one household fight against each other. That household will not last. 26 Similarly, suppose that Satan and his demons fight against one another. Satan would soon cease to rule over the demons! 27 Here is what is really true: before thieves can break into the home of a strong man and take his belongings, they must first tie up the strong man. After that, they can take the belongings from his home. 28 God will forgive many people who sin in many ways or who frequently insult God or others. What I have said is true. 29 However, God will not ever forgive people who insult the Holy Spirit. They will always be guilty because of how they sinned.”

30 Jesus spoke those things because the scribes had said, “A demon controls this man!”

31 Then Jesus’ mother and his younger brothers arrived. They waited outside the house where he was. They asked someone to go in and ask him to come out to them. 32 A large group of people were sitting with Jesus. They told him, “Your mother and your younger brothers are waiting for you outside.”

33 Jesus replied, “I will tell you whom I consider to be my mother and my brothers.”

34 Then Jesus looked at the people who were sitting with him. He declared, “These are the people whom I consider to be my mother and my brothers! 35 In fact, when a person does what God wants, I consider that person to be my brother or sister or mother.”

4 1 Sometime later, Jesus again started to instruct people while he was next to the Sea of Galilee. A very large group of people assembled to hear him. Because there were so many people, he got into a boat on the sea and sat down to teach. All the people stood on the shore, by the water. 2 Jesus began to use stories to instruct them about many things. As he was instructing them, he said, [3] "Listen to this: a farmer began to plant some grain seeds [4] As he was scattering them over the soil, some of the seeds fell on the path. Then some birds flew down and ate those seeds up. [5] Other seeds fell on shallow soil on top of a layer of rocks. Because they were growing in shallow soil, the seeds sprouted very quickly. [6] Then, the sun shone on the new plants and dried them up. Then, because they did not have good roots, the plants died. [7] Other seeds fell onto an area full of thorny plants. These thorny plants grew quickly and crowded out the grain plants. So, the grain plants did not produce a crop.

[8] Finally, other seeds fell on fertile soil. They grew quickly, and they produced a crop. Some plants produced 30 grains of wheat each, others produced 60 grains each, and others produced 100 grains each."

[9] Then Jesus told them, "You should think carefully about what you just heard me say!"

[10] Later, when no one else was with them, Jesus' 12 representatives and some other apprentices asked Jesus to explain the stories he had told. [11] He replied, "God has revealed to you hidden things about his kingdom. However, I use only stories to instruct people who are not my apprentices. [12] That way, just as you can read in the Scriptures,

> 'They will look at things, but they will not really see them.
> They will hear things, but they will not learn from them.
> Otherwise, they would stop doing what is wrong, and God would forgive them.'"

[13] Then Jesus told his apprentices, "Unless you realize what that story means, you will not be able to realize what any of the other stories that I tell mean. [14] In the story that I told you, the seeds that the farmer planted represent the good news. [15] Some people are like the seeds that fell on the path. They hear the good news. However, as soon as they hear it, Satan comes and makes them forget the message that they heard. [16] Other people are like the seeds that fell on shallow soil on top of a layer of rocks. When they hear the good news, they rejoice and quickly believe it. [17] However, they are like plants without good roots, which do not live very long. In fact, when bad things happen or when people hurt them because they accepted the good news, they quickly stop believing it. [18] Other people are like the seeds that fell onto an area full of thorny plants. They hear the good news. [19] However, they continue to focus on things in this world. They try to become rich, even though being rich is not as helpful as they think it will be.

Also, they desire many other things. When they do those things, it makes the good news ineffective, just as thorny plants crowd out the good plants and keep them from producing a crop. 20 Finally, other people are like the seeds that fell on fertile soil. When they hear the good news, they believe it. They are like the plants that produced a crop. Some plants produced 30 grains of wheat each, others produced 60 grains each, and others produced 100 grains each."

21 Then he told the people who were there, "People do not bring an oil lamp into a house in order to cover it with a basket or a bench. Instead, they put it on a lampstand so that it shines brightly. 22 Here is what I mean: some things are secret, but that is only because God will eventually let everyone know about them. 23 You should think carefully about what you just heard me say!"

24 Then he told the people who were there, "Make sure that you are listening carefully to what I tell you. How carefully you listen is how much God will enable you to learn and understand. 25 God will reveal even more to people who already know some things about the good news. However, God will cause people who know very little about the good news to know nothing about it at all."

26 Then Jesus said, "Here is what God's kingdom is like: a farmer planted some seeds. 27 During a period of many days, those seeds started to grow. The farmer did not really know how they grew. 28 The plants grew out of the ground on their own. First, the stalks grew. Then, the parts where the seeds would appear grew. Finally, the grain seeds grew in that part. 29 As soon as the plants produced grain, it was time to harvest it. So, the farmer told people to cut down the plants and collect the grain."

30 Then Jesus said, "I would like us to consider together what God's kingdom is like. I will use a story to make sure that we all understand it. 31 Here is what it is like: someone plants a tiny mustard seed in the ground. This kind of seed is smaller than every other kind of seed in the world. 32 Once someone plants it, the seed sprouts and grows quickly. The plant becomes bigger than every other kind of plant that people grow. It has big branches. In fact, birds can land in the shade it creates and make nests there."

33 Jesus used many stories like these to teach the good news to the people who were there. He taught them as much as they could understand. 34 He taught them by using stories only. Later, when no one else was with them, he told his apprentices what all the stories meant.

35 When it was evening on the same day, Jesus told his apprentices, "Let us go by boat to the other side of the Sea of Galilee." 36 Since Jesus was already in the boat, the apprentices sailed away with Jesus from the large group of people. Other people sailed with them in other boats. 37 Then there was a powerful windstorm! High waves were splashing into the boat and quickly filling it up with water.

38 Meanwhile, Jesus was in the back part of the boat. He was asleep, with his head on a pillow. The apprentices woke him up and told him, "Instructor! We are going to die. You should be paying attention!"

39 Then Jesus got up. He scolded the wind. He told the water, "Become still!" The wind stopped blowing, and everything became calm. 40 Then Jesus told his apprentices, "You should not be so afraid. You should be trusting God by now!"

41 The apprentices became very afraid. They kept asking each other, "Who could Jesus be? The wind and the water do what he says!"

5 1 Then Jesus and his apprentices arrived on the other side of the Sea of Galilee, in the region where the Gerasene people lived. 2 As soon as Jesus got out of the boat, a man whom a demon controlled came up to him. This man had come from the burial caves. 3 In fact, he lived in the burial caves. The people who lived nearby could not tie him up, not even with metal chains. 4 In the past, they had frequently tied him up with metal chains and bonds. However, he always snapped the metal chains and broke apart the bonds. He was so strong that nobody could overpower him. 5 All day long, this man would yell and hurt himself with rocks while he wandered around among the burial caves and the hills.

6 After Jesus arrived, this man saw him from far away. He ran to where Jesus was and knelt before him. 7-8 Then Jesus said, "You demon, leave this man!"

Then the demon shouted loudly. It said, “Jesus, Son of the greatest God, leave me alone! I want you to have God guarantee that you will not make me suffer.”

9 Then Jesus asked the man, “What do people call you?”

He replied, “People call me ‘Thousands.’ They call me that because there are many of us demons in this man.” 10 Then the demon repeatedly urged Jesus not to make the many demons leave that area.

11 While all that was happening, a large herd of pigs was grazing nearby on a hillside.
12 The demons urged Jesus, “When you force us out of this man, please allow us to go to those pigs. That way, we can control them.”

13 Jesus allowed them to do that. So, the demons left the man and began to control the pigs. Then, the herd of pigs rushed down the steep bank into the Sea of Galilee! There were about 2,000 of them, and they drowned there in the sea.

14 Then those who were taking care of the pigs ran away. They told all the people who lived around them about what they had seen. Those people went to see what had happened.
15 When they arrived where Jesus was, they saw the man whom the thousands of demons had controlled. He was sitting down, he had clothes on, and he was thinking normally. So, they realized how powerful Jesus must be, and they became afraid. 16 The people who had seen what Jesus did explained everything to the people who had just arrived. They told them about what Jesus did for the man whom the demons had controlled. They also told them what happened to the pigs. 17 Then the people who were there started to urge Jesus to leave their area.

18 While Jesus was entering the boat to leave, the man whom the demons had controlled urged Jesus to allow him to go with Jesus as his apprentice. 19 However, Jesus did not allow the man to go with him. Instead, he told him, “Go home to your friends and family. Tell them about everything that the Lord God has done for you and how he has helped you.” 20 So, the man traveled around the region of the Ten Towns. He told people how much Jesus had done for him. What the man said impressed all the people who heard it.

21 Meanwhile, Jesus and his apprentices sailed in a boat back to the other side of the Sea of Galilee. Jesus stayed next to the Sea of Galilee, and a large group of people assembled near him. 22 Then, a certain man arrived. He was a leader of the Jewish meeting place there. His name was Jairus. When he saw Jesus, Jairus knelt before him. 23 He urged Jesus repeatedly, "My young daughter is about to die. Please come with me and touch her. That way, you will rescue her, and she will stay alive."

24 So Jesus and his apprentices left with Jairus to go to his house.

A large group of people went with them, and they were almost crushing Jesus. 25 Now there was a woman in the crowd who had been suffering for 12 years from a disease that caused continual bleeding. 26 During those 12 years, she had spent all the money that she had to pay for doctors. However, these doctors only hurt her more. So, she did not get any better. Instead, she actually became more sick. 27-28 When she learned what Jesus had done, she thought, "Just touching Jesus' clothing will cure me." So, in the large group of people, she approached Jesus from behind. She touched his robe. 29 As soon as she did that, her bleeding stopped. She could feel inside herself that she was no longer sick.

30 As soon as she touched his robe, Jesus recognized that someone had benefited from how powerful he was. So, in the middle of the large group of people, he spun around and asked, "Which of you touched my clothing?"

31 His apprentices replied, "Look at the large group of people that is almost crushing you! Probably many people have touched you. So, it does not make sense to ask who touched you."

32 However, Jesus kept trying to see the person who had touched his clothes. 33 Then the woman came up to Jesus. She realized what had happened, and she shook because she was afraid. She knelt before Jesus and told him exactly what had happened. 34 Jesus replied, "Young woman, because you believed that I could heal you, you are now well. Now go on your way, and may God make you peaceful. You will not be sick in that way again."

35 While Jesus was still talking with that woman, some messengers arrived from the house of Jairus, the leader of the Jewish meeting place. They told Jairus, "Your daughter is dead. You should not continue to ask the instructor to help."

36 Jesus listened to what the messengers said. Then, he told Jairus, "You should stop being afraid! You just need to trust that I can help your daughter."

37 Then Jesus took only Peter, James, and James' younger brother John with him. He did not allow anyone else to come with them. 38 Then they arrived at the house of Jairus, the leader of the Jewish meeting place. Jesus noticed that the people there were making a lot of noise. They were crying very sorrowfully. 39 Then Jesus went into the house. He told the people there, "You should not be making much noise and crying sorrowfully! The young woman is not dead! She is only sleeping." 40 The people made fun of him for saying that.

However, Jesus made all of them leave the house. Then, he went to where the young woman was. He took with him the young woman's father and mother as well as Peter, James, and John. 41 Jesus took hold of the young woman's hand. He said to her, "Talitha koum!" That means, "Young woman, I tell you to get up!" 42 As soon as Jesus said that, the young woman became alive again, stood up, and walked around (in fact, she was 12 years old). That greatly impressed everyone who was there. 43 Jesus ordered them firmly, "Do not tell anyone about what I have done here!" Also, he told them to serve the young woman some food to eat.

6 1 After that, Jesus left the city of Capernaum. He traveled to the city of Nazareth, where he had grown up. His apprentices went with him. 2 When it was the Jewish day of rest, he started to instruct the people there when they gathered in the Jewish meeting place. What they heard him say impressed the many people who were there. They said to each other, "We do not know how this man is able to do what he does. We do not know how he is so wise and does such powerful things. 3 He is just a woodworker! He is Mary's son, and he is an older brother to James, Joses, Judas, and Simon. His younger sisters live here in our town." So, these people rejected Jesus.

4 So, Jesus told them, "The only ones who do not respect people who speak for God are those from where they grew up, their clans, and their own families."

5 Jesus could do very few powerful things in that place. He only touched a few people who were sick and cured them. 6 How little the people trusted him surprised Jesus. After that, Jesus traveled through the small towns in that area, and he instructed the people there.

7 One day, Jesus told his 12 representatives to come to him. He told them that he was going to have them travel around in groups of two. He authorized them to force demons out of people.

8-9 He told them to wear sandals and to bring a walking stick. However, he instructed them not to pack anything else to bring with them, including food, a traveler's bag, money, or an extra shirt. 10 He also told them, "When someone welcomes you into their home, continue to stay there until you leave that area. 11 Whenever people in a certain place do not welcome you or listen to you, you should leave that place. As you are going, shake the dust from that place off your feet to warn them that God will punish them."

12 Then Jesus' 12 representatives left to travel around. They preached that people should stop doing what was wrong. 13 They forced demons out of many people. They put olive oil on many people who were sick. Then, they cured them.

14 By this time, Jesus had become famous. So, King Herod Antipas, the ruler over the region of Galilee, heard people talking about him. Some people declared, "God has made John the Baptizer alive again as Jesus, and that is why he does these powerful things."

15 Other people declared, "He is the prophet Elijah, who has returned to us."

Other people declared, "He is a person who speaks for God, just like one of the people who spoke for God long ago."

16 King Herod Antipas listened to those people. Then he declared, "I had someone cut John the Baptizer's head off! However, God must have made him alive again as Jesus."

17-18 Herod said that because John had already died. Here is how that happened: Herod married Herodias, who had previously been the wife of Herod's brother Philip. John the Baptizer told Herod, "Our law forbids you to marry Herodias, your sister-in-law." So, Herod told his soldiers to go and arrest John. They tied him up and put him in jail. 19-20 Herodias was so upset with John that she wanted to have someone execute him. However, Herod realized that God had set John apart and that John did what was right. So, Herod was afraid to do anything to John. Also, he prevented Herodias from doing what she wanted to John. Whenever Herod listened to John, he was not sure how to respond, but he enjoyed listening to him.

21 Then, one day, Herodias realized that she might be able to have someone execute John. It was Herod's birthday, and he had invited his important officials, some military commanders, and the most important people in the region of Galilee to feast with him. 22 While they were feasting, Herod's stepdaughter, the daughter of Herodias, came in. She danced for Herod and his guests, and they greatly enjoyed her dancing. So, King Herod told her, "I will give you whatever you request!" 23 Further, he solemnly promised, "You can even ask for half of what I rule over. I will still give you whatever you request!"

24 So, the young woman left that place and went to her mother, Herodias. She asked her mother, "What should I request?"

Her mother replied, "Request that someone cut off John the Baptizer's head and give it to you."

25 As soon as her mother said that, the young woman hurried back to King Herod. She told him, "I want you to cut off John the Baptizer's head right now and bring it to me on a plate!"

26 King Herod was sad about what she asked for. However, because he had solemnly promised in front of all his guests to give her what she asked for, he decided to do what she requested. 27 So, King Herod told a soldier to go to the jail where John was, cut off his head, and bring his head back. The soldier left and cut off John's head while he was in jail. 28 Then, the soldier put John's head on a plate and gave it to the young woman. She left and gave it to her mother, Herodias. 29 When John's apprentices learned what had happened, they went to the jail. They took John's dead body and buried it.

30 As for Jesus' representatives, they returned to Jesus from where they had traveled. They told him about everything that they had done and everything that they had instructed people about. 31 Now people were arriving and leaving where they were all the time. In fact, they did not even have enough time to eat food. So, Jesus told his representatives, "Come to a place where no one lives and where no one else will be with us. Then, you can rest some!"

32 So, they sailed in a boat to a place where no one lived and where no one else would be with them. 33 Now people noticed them sailing away. Many of those people realized that it was Jesus and his apprentices. So, they left all their towns and ran to where Jesus and his apprentices were sailing. They got there before Jesus and his apprentices did! 34 When Jesus got out of the boat, he saw a large group of people. He noticed that they were like sheep who did not have a sheepherder to lead them and to take care of them. So, he pitied them and started to instruct them about many things.

35 When it was already late in the day, the apprentices approached Jesus. They said to him, "This is a place where no one lives, and it is already late in the day. 36 So, please tell these people to walk to the places that are near us, where they can buy food to eat."

37 Jesus replied, "I want you to provide them with food to eat!"

They responded, "Surely you do not want us to go and spend 200 coins to buy enough loaves of bread to provide these people with food!"

38 Then Jesus asked his apprentices, "How many loaves of bread do you have? Find out!"

Once they had found out how many they had, they told Jesus, "We have five loaves of bread and two fish."

39 Then Jesus told all the people who were there to sit down in groups on the fresh grass that was growing on the ground. 40 So, they sat down in groups. Some groups had 100 people, and some groups had 50 people. 41 He picked up the five loaves of bread and the two fish. Then he thanked God for the food. After that, he tore the bread into pieces and gave the pieces to his apprentices. That way, they could serve them to the people who were there. He similarly had his apprentices serve the two fish to everyone who was there. 42 Everyone ate the bread and the fish, and they all had enough to eat. 43 Then the apprentices gathered what was left of the bread and fish. They filled 12 large containers with the leftovers! 44 There were about 5,000 men who ate the bread and fish.

45 As soon as everyone finished eating, Jesus had his apprentices get into a boat and sail without him across the Sea of Galilee to the town of Bethsaida. He stayed behind to tell the large group of people to go home. 46 After he said goodbye to the people who were there, he walked to the top of a hill to pray to God. 47 When it became dark, the apprentices were in the boat in the middle of the Sea of Galilee. Meanwhile, Jesus was on the hill by himself. 48 Now the wind was blowing from where the apprentices wanted to go, so they were struggling to row the boat across the Sea of Galilee. Jesus noticed that. So, soon before morning, he joined them.

He was walking on top of the Sea of Galilee! He planned to walk right past them. 49-50 When the apprentices saw Jesus walking on top of the Sea of Galilee, it disturbed them. They did not know that it was Jesus, so they thought that he must be a dangerous spiritual being. So, they shouted loudly.

However, as soon as they shouted loudly, Jesus told them, "Do not worry! I am Jesus. Stop being afraid!" 51 Then Jesus joined the apprentices in the boat. At that moment, the wind stopped blowing. When that happened, it impressed them greatly. 52 They reacted that way because they did not realize what it meant when Jesus fed the large group of people with the loaves of bread. In fact, they stubbornly refused to understand it.

53 After Jesus and his apprentices finished sailing across the Sea of Galilee, they landed on the shore in the region of Gennesaret. They tied the boat there. 54 As soon as they got out of the boat, people realized that Jesus was there. 55 Those people hurried to all the places within that region. Whenever people in those places learned that Jesus was in a specific place, they started to bring there on sleeping pads many other people who were sick. 56 Jesus visited many villages, towns, and farms. Wherever he visited, people put those who were sick in the open areas. These people who were sick asked Jesus to allow them just to touch the hem of his robe. Everyone who did so became healthy.

7 1 After that, some Pharisees and some teachers of the Jewish law arrived from the city of Jerusalem. They assembled where Jesus was. 2 Then, they noticed that some of Jesus' apprentices did not cleanse their hands before eating food. So, their hands were unclean when they ate the food. 3 The Pharisees and the teachers of the Jewish law noticed that because most Jewish people, and especially the Pharisees, always cleanse their hands in a special way before they eat food. That is the teaching that they received from their ancestors.

4 Also, when they come home from the open areas in their towns, they always cleanse themselves before they eat food. They have many other similar teachings. For example, they cleanse many different kinds of dishes and containers. 5 So, the Pharisees and the teachers of the Jewish law told Jesus, "Your apprentices have unclean hands when they eat food. They are disobeying the teachings we received from our ancestors. They should not do that!"

6 Jesus replied, “Isaiah the prophet was right when God spoke through him about you. You say that you obey God, but you really do not! Here is what Isaiah wrote:

‘You people treat me respectfully when you talk,
but you do not really care about me.
7 When you worship me, it is useless.
That is because you use only what humans have commanded to instruct others.’

8 You carefully obey human teachings, but you ignore the laws that God gave us.”

9 Further, Jesus told them, “You easily stop obeying the laws that God gave us in order to obey the teachings that you received. You should not be good at doing that! 10 For example, Moses gave this law: ‘Treat your parents respectfully.’ He also gave this law: ‘Execute anyone who insults his or her parents.’ 11 However, you tell people that they can say to their parents, ‘I designated as Corban everything that I could have used to provide for you.’ (That means that they gave it to God.) 12 Then, you allow them to stop helping their parents. 13 In that way, you use what you learned and teach to ignore what God commanded. There are many things that you do that are like that.”

14 Then Jesus again told the large group of people to come to him. He told them, “You all should listen to what I am about to say and learn from it. 15 Whatever people eat cannot make them unclean. Rather, it is what people do and say that makes them unclean. 16 [You should think carefully about what you just heard me say!]”

17 Later, Jesus went into a house with his apprentices, away from the large group of people. Then, the apprentices asked him to explain the example he had given. 18 Jesus answered, “So, you too have not yet learned what I mean. You should know that whatever people eat cannot make them unclean. 19 In fact, what people eat does not become part of what they think. Rather, it simply goes into their stomachs. Eventually, their bodies expel what they ate into toilets.” So, Jesus was implying that no food is unclean.

20 Then Jesus told them, “It is what people do and say that makes them unclean. 21 In fact, it is because of what people think and care about that they think wrong things. They have improper sex, steal things, and kill others. 22 They are sexually unfaithful to their spouses, want more than they need, and do what is evil. They trick others, fail to restrain themselves, and are jealous. They say bad things about God or others, think too highly of themselves, and are foolish. 23 People do and say those wicked things, and that makes them unclean."

24 After that, Jesus and his apprentices left the region of Gennesaret. They traveled to the areas near the cities of Tyre and Sidon. Jesus tried to keep people from learning where he was staying. However, people soon found out where he was. 25 In fact, as soon as he arrived, a certain woman learned about him. A demon was controlling this woman's young daughter. So, she walked to where Jesus was and knelt before him. 26 It is important to know that this woman was not Jewish. Instead, her ancestors were people from the regions of Syria and Phoenicia. While she was kneeling before Jesus, she begged him to force the demon out of her daughter.

27 Jesus told her, "Suppose that someone takes food for children and gives it to dogs instead. That is not appropriate! So, the children should eat before the dogs do. That is why I am not helping you."

28 The woman replied, "My Lord, what you say is correct. However, dogs lying nearby do eat leftovers from the children's food. What I am asking you to do is like those leftovers."

29 Jesus replied, "Because of what you have said, I will do what you asked. You can go home. I have forced the demon to stop controlling your daughter."

30 So, the woman went home. She saw that her daughter was resting. The demon had stopped controlling her.

31 Then, Jesus and his apprentices left the areas near the city of Tyre. They walked through the areas near the city of Sidon and eventually arrived near the Sea of Galilee in the region of the Ten Towns. 32 Then, people led to Jesus a man who could not hear and who could not speak well. They urged Jesus to heal him by touching him. 33 So, Jesus brought the man to a place where no one from the large group of people was with them. He stuck one of his fingers into each of the man's ears. Then, he spit and touched the man's tongue. 34 Next, Jesus groaned as he prayed to God. Then he told the man, "Ephphatha!" That means, "Open up!" 35 After that, the man could hear. Also, Jesus had corrected what was wrong with his mouth, so he could speak properly.

36 After that, Jesus ordered the people who were nearby not to tell anyone about what he had done. However, every time he ordered them not to do so, they told even more people about what he had done. 37 When people learned what Jesus had done, it greatly impressed them. They declared, “Everything that he does is good! He enables people who could not hear to hear. He enables people who could not speak to speak.”

8 1 Sometime later, there was again a large group of people near Jesus, and they did not have any food to eat. So, Jesus told his apprentices to come to him. He told them, 2 “I pity the large group of people. They have already spent three days with me, and they do not have any food to eat. 3 Further, suppose that I tell them to go home while they are hungry. Some of them live far away from here. They would pass out while they are walking home.”

4 His apprentices replied, “In this place where no one lives, no one has enough food for these people to have enough to eat!”

5 Then Jesus asked them, “How many loaves of bread do you have with you?”

They replied, “We have with us seven loaves of bread.”

6 Then Jesus told the large group of people to sit down on the ground. He picked up the seven loaves of bread. Then he thanked God for the food. After that, he tore the bread into pieces and gave the pieces to his apprentices. That way, they could serve them to the large group of people, which they did. 7 The apprentices also had some little fish. So, Jesus thanked God for these fish and told the apprentices to serve them too to the large group of people. 8 The people ate the food, and they had enough to eat. Then the apprentices gathered the food that was left. They filled seven large containers! 9 About 4,000 people were there. Then Jesus told them to go home. 10 As soon as he told them that, Jesus and his apprentices climbed into a boat. They sailed to the region of Dalmanutha.

11 Some Pharisees came to Jesus and started to debate with him. They wanted to investigate him, so they asked him to perform a miracle that showed that God had sent him. 12 Jesus groaned to himself. Then he said, “You people who are alive right now should not ask me to perform a miracle that proves that God sent me. I will never do that kind of miracle for you people! What I have said is true.”

13 Then Jesus went away from the Pharisees. He and his apprentices again entered a boat and sailed to the other side of the Sea of Galilee. 14 Now the apprentices had not remembered to pack any food. In fact, the only food that they had in the boat was one loaf of bread. 15 While they were sailing, Jesus ordered the apprentices, "Make sure that you guard against the yeast that the Pharisees use and the yeast that Herod uses."

16 Then the apprentices told each other that they had very little food.

17 Jesus realized what they were saying to each other. He told them, "You should not be telling each other that you have very little food. You should already realize what I can do! However, you stubbornly refuse to understand it. 18 You look at things, but you do not really see them. You hear things, but you do not really listen. You should remember what I have done! 19 When I tore five loaves of bread into pieces and used them to feed 5,000 people, you gathered what was left of the food. How many large containers did you fill with the leftovers?"

The apprentices replied, "We filled 12 large containers."

20 Then Jesus asked, "Again, when I tore seven loaves of bread into pieces and used them to feed 4,000 people, you gathered the food that was left. How many large containers did you fill?"

The apprentices replied, "We filled seven large containers."

21 Then Jesus told his apprentices, "You should already realize what I can do!"

22 After that, Jesus and his apprentices arrived at the town of Bethsaida. The people there took a blind man to Jesus. They urged Jesus to heal the man by touching him. 23 So, Jesus took one of the blind man's hands. He brought the blind man outside the town. Then Jesus spat saliva onto the man's eyes, and Jesus touched him. After that, he asked the man, "Can you see anything?"

24 So, the man looked around. He said, "Yes, I can see people! They look like trees, but I can tell that they are walking around."

25 After that, Jesus again touched the blind man's eyes. When the man looked around carefully, he could see everything properly. Jesus had cured him! 26 Jesus commanded the man, "Do not go into the town of Bethsaida!" Then he told the man to go home.

27 After that, Jesus and his apprentices left the town of Bethsaida and walked toward the small towns near the city of Caesarea Philippi. While they were walking, Jesus asked his apprentices, "Who do people say that I really am?"

28 The apprentices replied, "People say that you are one of the prophets who has come back to life. More specifically, some people say that you are John the Baptizer. Other people say that you are the prophet Elijah."

29 Then Jesus asked them, "As for you, who do you say that I really am?"

Peter replied, "You are the Messiah!"

30 Then Jesus ordered the apprentices not to tell anyone who he really was.

31 After that, Jesus started to instruct his apprentices about what had to happen to him, the Son of Man. People would hurt him very much. The Jewish leaders, the ruling priests, and the teachers of the Jewish law would refuse to listen to him. Then, people would kill him. Three days after he died, he would live again. 32 Jesus told that to them clearly. Then Peter spoke to Jesus privately. He started to scold him.

33 Jesus turned around and looked at his other apprentices. Then he scolded Peter, "Do not try to stop me. You are behaving as Satan does! You are thinking about what humans care about instead of thinking about what God cares about."

34 Then Jesus told his apprentices and the large group of people to come to him. He told them, "People who want to come with me and be my apprentices must refuse to do what they want to do. They must be willing to suffer or die as if they were carrying their own crosses when they come with me as my apprentices. 35 That is because people who are willing to do anything to stay alive will not truly live. However, people who are willing to die because they are my apprentices and because they believe the good news will truly live. 36 Suppose that some people acquire everything they could possibly want. However, they can no longer truly live. That is not worth it! 37 In fact, people cannot acquire anything that is as valuable as truly living. 38 The men and women who are alive right now sin often and do not remain faithful.

As they live among those men and women, some people consider it shameful to say that they believe in me and what I say. Then I, the Son of Man, will consider it shameful to say that those people belong to me. That will happen when I return with the angels whom God has set apart. At that time, I will be as glorious as God my Father."

9 1 Then Jesus told his apprentices and the large group of people, "Some of you who are here with me will definitely see God powerfully establish his kingdom before you die. What I have said is true!"

2 Six days later, Jesus climbed up a tall mountain. He had Peter, James, and John go with him. No one else was with them. Then, the three apprentices saw Jesus change how he appeared. 3 His clothes became very bright white. They were whiter than anyone on earth could make them by bleaching them. 4 After that, Elijah and Moses, who were prophets from long ago, appeared to the three apprentices! These prophets were speaking to Jesus.

5 Peter responded by saying to Jesus, "Teacher, it is appropriate for all of us to be here. We should build three shelters. You, Moses, and Elijah can each use one." 6 Peter said that because he and the other two apprentices were extremely afraid. So, he did not know how to respond to what he saw.

7 Then a cloud covered all of them! God spoke from the cloud, "This man is my Son, the one whom I love dearly. Do what he says."

8 When the three apprentices looked around, suddenly, the only person whom they still saw with them was Jesus.

9 While they were walking down the mountain, Jesus told them that they should not tell anyone about what they had just seen until he, the Son of Man, had become alive again. 10 So they did not tell others about what had happened. However, they talked with each other about what it meant when Jesus said that he would become alive again.

12 Jesus replied, “Yes, the prophet Elijah must be here before the Messiah gets here. He will make everything as it should be. However, consider this: the prophets wrote in the Scriptures that people would reject me, the Son of Man, and hurt me very much. 13 That makes sense only because of what I am about to tell you. The prophet Elijah has already been here. Further, people treated him badly, just as the prophets wrote in the Scriptures about him.”

14 Then Jesus and those three apprentices arrived where the other apprentices were. They saw a large group of people around the other apprentices. Some teachers of the Jewish laws were debating with them. 15 As soon as Jesus arrived, the large group of people noticed him, and it surprised them very much. So, they hurried to him and said hello to him.

16 Then Jesus asked his apprentices, “What are you debating with the teachers of the Jewish law?”

17 A man in the large group of people replied, “Instructor, I came here to you with my son so that you would heal him. A demon controls him and keeps him from speaking. 18 Whenever the demon chooses, it makes my son fall down. Then, my son drools, grinds his teeth together, and becomes rigid. I asked your apprentices to force the demon out of him. However, they could not do it.”

19 Jesus replied to them, “You people who are alive right now do not believe! It is hard for me to live here with you. It is difficult for me to be patient with you.” Then he said to them, “Bring the man’s son to me!”

20 So, some people brought the man’s son to Jesus. As soon as the demon noticed Jesus, it shook the man’s son violently. He fell down and writhed around as he drooled.

21 Jesus asked the boy’s father, “How long has he been like this?”

The boy’s father replied, “He has been like this since he was a child. 22 The demon also frequently makes him fall into fires and bodies of water in order to kill him. So, if you can do so, please pity us and help us!”

23 Jesus replied, “You should not talk about whether I can help you. God can do anything for people who trust him!”

24 As soon as Jesus said that, the boy’s father shouted, “I do trust God. Please help me trust him more!”

25 Then Jesus noticed that a large group of people was quickly assembling. So, he commanded the demon who was controlling the man’s son to stop doing so. He said, “You demon who are keeping this boy from speaking and hearing, I tell you to stop controlling him! You may not control him again.”

26 The demon shouted and shook the boy violently. Then it stopped controlling him. After that, the boy lay so still that he looked like a corpse. In fact, many people said that he was dead. 27 However, Jesus took hold of the boy’s hand and helped him get up. The boy stood up!

28 Later, Jesus entered a house, and only his apprentices were with him. They asked him, “Why could we not force out that demon?”

29 Jesus replied, “You can only force this type of demon out by praying and by not eating in order to please God.”

30 After Jesus and his apprentices left that area, they traveled through the region of Galilee. Jesus did not want anyone else to know where he was. 31 Jesus did not want people to know where they were because he was instructing his apprentices. He told them, “Somebody will help my enemies arrest me, the Son of Man. They will have people kill me. Then, three days after I die, I will live again.” 32 However, the apprentices did not understand what Jesus was telling them, and they were afraid to ask him what he meant.

33 Then Jesus and his apprentices arrived at the town of Capernaum. When they were in the house where they were staying, Jesus asked them, “What were you arguing about while we were walking here?” 34 However, while the apprentices were walking, they had been arguing with each other about which one of them was the most important. So, they did not answer Jesus.

35 Then Jesus sat down. He called his 12 representatives to come close to him, and then he said to them, “If anyone wants God to consider him to be the most important person of all, he must consider himself to be the least important person of all, and he must serve everyone else.”

36 Then Jesus had a young child stand among them. He hugged the child, and he told his apprentices, 37 “When people, because they are my apprentices, welcome any young child such as this one here, it is the same as welcoming me. Further, when people welcome me, they are also welcoming God, who sent me here.”

38 John said to Jesus, “Instructor, we noticed someone who was forcing demons out of people. He claimed that he represented you as he did that. So, we told him to stop doing that, because he was not one of us apprentices.”

39 Jesus said, “People will not say bad things about me soon after doing something powerful while they claim to represent me. Because of that, do not tell that man to stop forcing demons out of people. 40 I say that because those who are not opposing us are supporting us. 41 As for those who offer you water to drink because they know that you are apprentices of me, the Messiah, God will most certainly reward them. What I have said is true.

42 On the other hand, suppose that an insignificant person who trusts me sinned because of certain people. God will punish those people so severely that they would prefer to have someone tie a heavy stone around their necks and cast them into the ocean. 43 Suppose that you sinned because you touched something. You should never do that again, even if you have to chop off your hands to make sure of it! You should respond that drastically because it is better for you to truly live without hands than to have both hands but end up in hell, which is like a fire that never goes out. 44 [In that place maggots feed on the people there forever, and the fires never go out.] 45 Suppose that you sinned because you went somewhere. You should never do that again, even if you have to chop off your feet to make sure of it! You should respond that drastically because it is better for you to truly live without feet than to have both feet but end up in hell. 46 [In that place maggots feed on the people there forever, and the fires never go out.]

47 Suppose that you sinned because you looked at something. You should never do that again, even if you have to remove your eyes to make sure of it! You should respond that drastically because it is better for you to participate in God’s kingdom with only one eye than to have both eyes but end up in hell. 48 In that place maggots feed on the people there forever, and the fires never go out.

49 Indeed, God will treat everyone like an offering that people season and burn.

50 Salt is very useful. However, if salt were to stop seasoning food well, you cannot make it season food well again. Be people who make this world better, just as salt makes food better.
Also, live peacefully with each other."

10 1 After that, Jesus and his apprentices left the town of Capernaum. They traveled to the region of Judea and to the east side of the Jordan River. Yet again, large groups of people assembled where Jesus was. Jesus instructed them, as he usually did.

2 Then some Pharisees came to Jesus and asked him, "Does our law allow a husband to divorce his wife?" They asked that in order to investigate him.

3 Jesus replied, "What did Moses include in our Law about this issue?"

4 They answered, "Moses allowed each husband to give his wife a document that states that he is divorcing her. Then, he could divorce her."

5 Jesus told them, "Moses knew that you were unwilling to obey. That is why he included in the Law what you just said. 6 However, when God first created everything, as you can read in the Scriptures, he created people to be male and female. 7 You can also read in the Scriptures that is why men, when they marry, no longer live with their parents, 8 and each husband and wife together become like one person. Consequently, each husband and wife are not like two different people any longer. Rather, they are like one person. 9 Since that is true, no one should divide people whom God has united."

10 Later, when they were in a house again, the apprentices asked Jesus about what he had said. 11 Jesus told them, "When a man divorces his wife and marries another woman, he sins against his first wife by disobeying what God commanded about being sexually faithful to one's spouse. 12 Also, when a woman divorces her husband and marries another man, she disobeys what God commanded about being sexually faithful to one's spouse."

13 Sometime later, some people took young children to Jesus. They wanted him to bless the children by touching them. However, the apprentices told them to stop. 14 When Jesus noticed what they were doing, he was very upset. He told his apprentices, “Allow the young children to come here. Do not stop them! I say that because they and people like them are part of God’s kingdom. 15 You must be like young children when you welcome God’s kingdom.
That is the only way to participate in God’s kingdom. What I have said is true.” 16 Then Jesus hugged the young children. He blessed them by touching them.

17 One day, Jesus was walking along with his disciples. A certain person ran to where he was and bowed down before him. He said, “Instructor, you are a good person! What is something that I can do so that I will live with God forever?”

18 Jesus replied, “You should not so quickly call me a good person! God is the only one who is good. 19 But to answer your question, you know what God commanded: Do not murder others. Do not be sexually unfaithful to your spouse. Do not steal things. Do not speak what is untrue. Do not cheat people. Treat your parents respectfully.”

20 The man replied, “Instructor, I have obeyed all those things that God commanded ever since I was young.”

21 Then, Jesus looked at the man and cared for him. He said to the man, “There is one thing that you have not yet done. Go home and sell what you own. Give that money to poor people. If you do that, God will reward you in heaven. Then, come with me as my apprentice.”

22 However, the man was rich and did not want to lose what he owned. So, he was upset by what Jesus said. He felt very sad and left. 23 Then Jesus looked at his apprentices. He told them, “It is very hard for rich people to participate in God’s kingdom!”

24 What Jesus said surprised the apprentices. Jesus responded by saying again, “My dear apprentices, it is very hard to participate in God’s kingdom. 25 Large animals like camels cannot fit into very small spaces. However, it is even harder for rich people to participate in God’s kingdom.”

26 That greatly surprised the apprentices. They told Jesus, “It must be that God does not actually rescue anyone!”

27 Jesus looked directly at his apprentices. He said, “God can do anything! So, people cannot rescue themselves, but God can rescue them.”

28 Peter started to tell Jesus, “We left behind everything we had and went with you as your apprentices!”

29 Jesus replied, “What I am about to say is true. Some people leave behind houses, siblings, parents, children, or fields. They do that because they are my apprentices and because they believe the good news. 30 God will give those people many times what they left behind right now before he renews everything that he has made. He will give them houses, siblings, mothers, children, and fields. Also, people will hurt them. Further, God will enable them to live with him forever after he renews everything that he has made. 31 At that time, many people who are important right now will become unimportant. Many people who are unimportant right now will become important.”

32 Sometime later, Jesus and his apprentices were walking toward the city of Jerusalem. Jesus was walking ahead of them, which impressed them. However, the rest of the people with them were afraid. Then Jesus again spoke to his 12 representatives privately. He started to tell them about what people were going to do to him. 33 He said, “We are walking toward the city of Jerusalem! There, somebody will help the ruling priests and the teachers of the Jewish law arrest me, the Son of Man. They will decide that I am guilty and that someone should kill me. They will bring me to the non-Jewish authorities. 34 Those people will make fun of me, spit on me to insult me, beat me, and execute me. Then, three days after I die, I will live again.”

35 After that, Zebedee’s sons, James and John, came to Jesus. They said, “Instructor, we want you to do for us what we are about to request.”

36 Jesus replied, “What do you want me to do for you?”

37 They answered, “Please promise us that, when you are very great, you will honor us by having one of us sit at your right side and the other one sit at your left side.”

38 Jesus replied, “You do not realize what you have actually requested. Are you willing to suffer as I will soon suffer? Are you willing for people to hurt you as they will soon hurt me?”

39 They told Jesus, “Yes, we are willing to do those things.”

Then Jesus told them, “You will certainly suffer as I will soon suffer. People will certainly hurt you as they will soon hurt me. 40 However, I am not the one who chooses whom to honor by having them sit at my right side or at my left side. Rather, God has already chosen who will sit in those places.”

41 When the ten other apprentices learned what James and John had requested, they started to be very upset with them. 42 So, Jesus told his apprentices to come to him. He said to them, “You understand that the people whom the non-Jews allow to govern them dominate them. Further, important people among them control everyone else. 43 You must not behave like that. Rather, when one of you wants to be important, that person must serve the others. 44 Likewise, when one of you wants to be most important, that person must work for all the others. 45 You should behave like that because I, the Son of Man, am here to serve other people. I am not here so that other people will serve me. Indeed, I am going to die in order to free many people from their sins.”

46 Then, Jesus and his apprentices arrived at the city of Jericho. When they were leaving the city of Jericho along with a very large group of people, a man who could not see and who often asked others for money was sitting down next to the path. His name was Bartimaeus, and his father’s name was Timaeus. 47 He learned that Jesus from the town of Nazareth was there. So he started to shout, “Jesus, you who are a descendant of King David, please help me!”

48 Many people were scolding him to keep him quiet. However, he shouted even more loudly, “You who are a descendant of King David, please help me!”

49 Then, Jesus stopped walking. He told people, “Tell him to come over here!”

Those people spoke to Bartimaeus, the man who could not see. They said, “Do not worry! Jesus wants you to come to him. So, stand up and go to him!” 50 So Bartimaeus took off his outer garment and jumped up. Then, he hurried to Jesus.

51 Jesus asked him, “How would you like me to help you?”

Bartimaeus, the man who could not see, replied, “Teacher, I want to be able to see again!”

52 Jesus told him, “You can go on your way. Because you believed that I could heal you, you are now well.” As soon as Jesus said that, Bartimaeus could see again. Then, he began to walk with Jesus.

11 1 After that, Jesus and his apprentices continued to walk toward the city of Jerusalem, and they were getting closer. They were near the Mount of Olives, just outside the villages of Bethphage and Bethany. Jesus told two of his apprentices to go ahead of them. 2 He instructed them, “Enter the village of Bethphage, which you see ahead of you. As soon as you enter it, you will see a young donkey that someone has tethered. It is an animal that no one has ever ridden.
Remove the tether from the young donkey and lead it to me here. 3 People might ask you, ‘What are you doing?’ In that case, tell them, ‘The Lord needs this young donkey. As soon as he finishes using it, he will return it here.’”

4 So the two apprentices left for the village. They saw the young donkey standing on the road. Someone had tethered it to the door of a house. They started to remove its tether.

5 Some people who were there asked the two apprentices, “Why are you removing the tether from the young donkey?”

6 The two apprentices told those people what Jesus had instructed them to say. Then, those people allowed the two apprentices to take the young donkey. 7 They led the young donkey to Jesus. Then they spread their coats on the young donkey, and Jesus rode on it. 8 Then, to honor Jesus, many people laid their coats down on the path in front of Jesus. Other people cut down leafy plants that were growing in nearby farms and laid them down on the path too. 9 People walked in front of Jesus and behind him. They were shouting, > “Praise God!

> May God bless him who is here to represent the Lord!
> 10 The kingdom that our ancestor King David ruled is now here again! May God > bless it!
> May everything in heaven praise God!”

11 Then Jesus went into the city of Jerusalem and he visited the temple area. He examined everything that was there. After that, because it was evening, he and his 12 representatives returned to the village of Bethany.

12 The following day, when Jesus and his apprentices were leaving the village of Bethany, Jesus became hungry. 13 He saw a fig tree further down the path. It had leaves, so he walked to it to pick some figs from it to eat. However, when he arrived at the fig tree, it had no figs but only leaves. That was because it was not yet the normal time of year when fig trees would produce ripe figs. 14 Jesus responded by saying to the fig tree, "No one will eat figs that they pick from you ever again." The apprentices listened to him say that.

15 Then Jesus and his apprentices arrived at the city of Jerusalem. Jesus again visited the temple area. Some people were selling and buying things there. He started to force them to leave. Other people were exchanging regular money for special temple money, and other people were selling small birds for people to sacrifice. Jesus flipped over their tables and chairs. 16 Also, he did not allow people to take items through the temple area. 17 Then Jesus instructed those people, "You know that the prophets wrote in the Scriptures, 'People should say that my temple is a place where all groups of people pray.' However, you have turned it into 'a hideout for thieves'!"

18 What Jesus taught impressed the large group of people. Because of that, when the ruling priests and the teachers of the Jewish law learned what Jesus had said and done, they became afraid of him. So, they planned how they might have someone execute Jesus. 19 That evening, Jesus and his apprentices left the city of Jerusalem and again spent the night in the village of Bethany.

20 The next morning, Jesus and his apprentices walked past the same fig tree that they had passed the previous morning. The apprentices noticed that it had completely died. 21 Then Peter remembered what Jesus had said to the fig tree. He told Jesus, "Teacher, look! The fig tree that you cursed has died!"

22 Jesus replied by telling his apprentices, "You should trust God! 23 Suppose that you trusted that God would do what you said, and you were not unsure that God would do it. Then, you could tell the hill we are near to leave this place and fall into the ocean, and it would happen. What I have said is true. 24 Because that is true, here is what I want to tell you. Trust that God will give you whatever you ask him for, and he will give it to you. 25 Further, suppose that when you are praying, you remember that someone has offended you. You should forgive them. That way, God your Father, who rules from heaven, will also forgive you when you sin against him. 26 [However, God your Father, who rules from heaven, will not forgive you when you sin against him as long as you do not forgive other people.]"

27 After that, Jesus and his apprentices again arrived at the city of Jerusalem. While Jesus was walking around in the temple area, some of the ruling priests, the teachers of the Jewish law, and the other Jewish leaders approached him. 28 They asked him, "In what way did someone authorize you to do what you have done? Who was it that authorized you to do those things?"

29 Jesus replied, "I, too, will ask you a question. When you answer it, I will answer your question about the way in which someone authorized me to do what I have done. 30 Did God authorize John the Baptizer from heaven to baptize people, or did people authorize him to do that? Answer that question!"

31 Then the ruling priests, the teachers of the Jewish law, and the other Jewish leaders told each other, "Suppose that we answer that God authorized John from heaven. Then, he will tell us that we should have listened to John. 32 On the other hand, we cannot answer that people authorized John." They said that because they knew that the large group of people believed that John had truly spoken for God, which made them afraid of how the large group of people would react.

Jesus responded, "Because you did not answer my question, I will not tell you the way in which someone authorized me to do what I have done."

12 1 Then Jesus started to tell a story to the ruling priests, the teachers of the Jewish law, and the other Jewish leaders. He said, "A certain man planted a vineyard. He built a fence around it in order to protect it. He made a stone tank to collect the grape juice that they would press out of the grapes. He also built a tower for someone to sit in to guard his vineyard. He rented the vineyard to some people who would take care of it, and he left to travel to a different country. 2 When it was time to harvest the grapes, the man told one of his servants to go to the people who were taking care of the vineyard. He wanted them to give him his share of the grapes that the vineyard had produced. 3 However, the people who were taking care of the vineyard grabbed the man's servant. They beat him up and told him to go away without giving him any of the grapes. 4 After that, the man told another servant to go to the people who were taking care of the vineyard. However, they beat this servant on the head and insulted him. 5 After that, the man told another servant to go to the people who were taking care of the vineyard. However, they killed this servant. After that, the man sent many other servants. However, they beat up some of them and killed the others.

6 Finally, the man still had only one other person with him, his son, whom he loved very much. So, the man told his son to go to them last of all. He thought that they would treat his son well and give him his share of the grapes. 7 However, when the people who were taking care of the vineyard saw the man's son arriving, they told each other, 'This man is the one who will inherit the vineyard. We should kill him, and then we can take the vineyard for ourselves.' 8 So, they grabbed the man's son and murdered him. Then, they dragged his corpse outside the vineyard.

9 I will tell you how the man who owned the vineyard will act. He will arrive at the vineyard, and he will kill the people who were taking care of the vineyard. Then, he will arrange for other people to take care of it. 10 What I have said fits with this scripture that you have read:

> 'The people who were constructing a building > refused to use a certain stone.
> However, that stone is now
> the most important one in the building.
> 11 The Lord God did that,
> and we think it is amazing.'"

12 Then the ruling priests, the teachers of the Jewish law, and the other Jewish leaders realized that Jesus was accusing them when he told that story. Because of that, they wanted to arrest him. However, they were afraid of how the large group of people would react. So, they left where he was without arresting him.

13 Then, the ruling priests, the teachers of the Jewish law, and the other Jewish leaders told some of the Pharisees and some people who supported King Herod to go to Jesus. They instructed them to try to cause him to make a mistake in what he said. 14 When they arrived where Jesus was, they said to him, "Instructor, we realize that you say what is true. You do not pay attention to how important or powerful people are. So, you do not care about what other people think. Further, you truthfully instruct people about what God wants them to do. So, we want to ask you this: Does our law allow us to pay taxes to the Roman government, or does it not allow that? Should we pay the taxes, or should we not pay them?"

15 However, Jesus realized that they were only pretending to respect him. He replied, "You are trying to make me say something wrong. Hand me a Roman coin so I can examine it."

16 So, someone handed him a Roman coin. Then Jesus asked, "Whose picture and name are on this coin?"

They replied, "It is the leader of the Roman government's picture and name."

17 Then Jesus told them, "So then, give to the Roman government what belongs to it and give to God what belongs to him."

What Jesus said impressed the Pharisees and the people who supported King Herod.

18 After that, some Sadducees approached Jesus. They are a Jewish group that does not believe that God will make people who have died alive again. They asked Jesus, 19 "Instructor, Moses wrote for us in the Scriptures about what should happen when a man with a wife, but no children, dies. When that happens, the dead man's brother should marry the dead man's wife. When they have a child, they should consider it to be the child of the dead man. 20 So, consider this situation: there were seven brothers. One brother married a woman, but then he died before he had children. 21 Then, the second brother obeyed this law and married the woman. However, he too died before he had children. The same thing happened to the third brother. 22 In this way, each of the seven brothers married the woman but died before they had children. Finally, the woman died too. 23 So, of those brothers, whose wife will she be when God makes people alive again? We ask because she got married to all seven brothers at different times."

24 Jesus replied, "You do not realize what the Scriptures mean or how powerful God is. Because of that, you believe what is wrong! 25 Here is what I mean: when God makes people alive again, they will not get married. Instead, they will be like angels who dwell in heaven and do not get married. 26 Now I will speak about whether God makes people who have died alive again. You have read in the section of the Scriptures that Moses wrote the story about how God appeared to Moses in a bush. In that story, God told Moses, 'I am the God whom Abraham worships, the God whom Isaac worships, and the God whom Jacob worships.'

27 It is living people who worship God, not dead people. So, Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, who all have died, must become alive again! So, you have believed many things that are wrong."

28 Then a man who taught the Jewish law approached Jesus. He heard Jesus and the Sadducees debating. He noticed that Jesus had given the Sadducees a good answer. So, he asked Jesus, "Which of the laws that God gave us is the most important?"

29 Jesus replied, "Here is the most important law:

'Listen, you people of Israel! The Lord God whom we worship is the only Lord. 30 You must love the Lord, the God whom we worship, with everything that you desire, everything that you do, everything that you think, and everything that you accomplish.'

31 Here is the next most important law: 'You must care for people you know as much as you care for yourselves.' No other laws are more important than these two laws!"

32 The teacher of the Jewish law replied, "That is a good answer, instructor. You are right when you say that God is the only God and that no other gods exist. 33 Further, we should love God with everything that we desire, everything that we think, and everything that we accomplish. Also, we should care for people we know as much as we care for ourselves. Doing those things is more important than burning or presenting any offering to God."

34 Jesus realized that the teacher of the Jewish law had responded in a wise way. So, Jesus told him, "You are close to participating in God's kingdom." After that, nobody was bold enough to ask him any more questions.

35 Then, while Jesus was instructing people in the temple area, he asked a question of his own. He said, “Does it make sense when the teachers of the Jewish law claim that the Messiah must be a descendant of King David? 36 I ask that because the Holy Spirit caused King David to write that the Lord God said to David’s Lord,

> ‘Rule with me
> while I defeat all of your enemies!’

37 So, King David called the Messiah ‘Lord.’ However, people do not describe their descendants as their lords. Therefore, how is it possible for the Messiah to be a descendant of King David?”

A very large group of people enjoyed listening to Jesus say these things.

38 While Jesus was instructing those people, he told them, “Make sure that you do not act like the teachers of the Jewish law. They like to put on long robes and walk around so they look important. They also like people to greet them respectfully in the open areas of towns. 39 They like to sit in the places for important people when they go to the Jewish meeting places or attend feasts. 40 They steal the property of women whose husbands have died. To make other people think that they are righteous, they pray for a long time. God will punish them very severely.”

41 Later, Jesus sat down in the temple area in front of the offering boxes that were there. He observed the large group of people drop coins into the boxes. Many wealthy people gave large amounts of money. 42 Then a woman whose husband had died and who did not have much money arrived. She dropped into one of the offering boxes two small copper coins. Those two coins together were worth only the least valuable Roman coin.

43-44 Then Jesus told his apprentices to come to him. He told them, “Most of these people have a lot of money, but they gave only a small part of it. However, this woman, who does not have very much money, has given all the money that she had to pay for the things she needs. So, she has given to God more than what everyone else gave! What I have said is true.”

13 1 After that, Jesus and his apprentices left the temple area. As they were walking, one of his apprentices said to him, “Instructor, pay attention to how marvelous these huge blocks of stone in the walls are and how beautiful these structures are!”

2 Jesus replied, “Look at these impressive structures! Enemies will completely destroy them. They will not leave anything standing.”

3 Later, Jesus and his apprentices sat down on top of the Mount of Olives in front of the temple. When no one else was with them, Peter, James, John, and Andrew asked Jesus,
4 “Please explain to us when what you have described will happen. Also, please explain to us how we can tell when everything that you have described is about to happen.”

5 Jesus started to reply, “Make sure that no one deceives you! 6 Many people will meet you and say that God has authorized them as he has authorized me. They will say that they are the Messiah. By doing that, they will deceive many people. 7 Whenever people tell you about wars that are happening and about wars that could happen, do not be afraid. Things like that have to happen. However, what I have said about the temple will not yet happen. 8 Further, groups of people will attack each other. Earthquakes will happen in many places. Many people will not have enough food to eat. Those events are like the first pains a pregnant woman feels when she is going to have a child. They are bad, but many more bad things will still happen after them.

9 Make sure that you are ready for what people will do to you. They will arrest you and accuse you in front of groups of important people. They will beat you in the Jewish meeting places. Because you are my apprentices, people will accuse you before local rulers and kings. That way, you will tell those rulers about me. 10 Indeed, my apprentices must preach the good news to all groups of people before what I have said about the temple will happen. 11 Whenever people arrest you and then accuse you, do not worry about how you will respond. In fact, you will not speak for yourselves. Instead, the Holy Spirit will speak through you. So, you should say whatever God reveals to you at that time. 12 During this time, men will have someone arrest their own brothers, and they will ask the judge to execute them. Fathers will do the same thing to their own children. Children will rebel against their parents and cause them to die.
13 Because you are my apprentices, many people will be hostile to you. However, if you persevere in being my apprentices while people harm you, God will rescue you.

14 At some point, you will realize that the detestable thing that destroys is where it does not belong.” (Anyone who is reading this should know what Jesus meant.) “When you realize that, those of you who are in the region of Judea should escape to the hilly areas nearby.

15 Those of you who are outside your homes should not go back into your homes to get anything. 16 Those of you who are working in fields should not go back home to get your coats. 17 When what I have described happens, how terrible it will be for pregnant women and for nursing mothers! 18-19 People will suffer very severely when what I have described happens. People have not suffered that severely since God created everything up to now, and no one will ever suffer that severely again. So, ask God to keep these things from occurring during the winter season, when it is difficult to travel. 20 Suppose that the Lord God were to allow what I have described to continue. In that case, nobody would survive. However, because of the people whom he has chosen to belong to him, God will not allow what I have described to continue. 21-22 While those things are happening, there will be people who lie when they claim to be the Messiah or to speak for God. They will do amazing miracles. They will try to deceive the people whom God has chosen to belong to him, and they will almost succeed in doing so. Therefore, when people tell you that the Messiah is here or there, do not trust what they say. 23 Make sure that you are ready for what will happen. I have warned you about this before it happens!

24 While what I have described is happening, once people suffer in the ways I have described, God will cause the sun to become dark. The moon will not shine. 25 Stars will drop down from the sky. God will disrupt the angels in heaven. 26 After that, people will see me, the Son of Man, arriving by means of clouds. I will be very powerful and great. 27 After that, I will tell the angels to collect the people whom I have chosen. They will collect them from every place that exists.

28 Listen to this story about how fig trees grow. Whenever they begin to produce new branches and leaves, you can tell that it is almost the summer season. 29 Similarly, whenever you realize that what I have described is happening, you can tell that I will act very soon.
30 Most of the people who are alive right now will still be alive when what I have described happens. What I have said is true. 31 Everything that God has created will eventually change or disappear. However, what I have said will never change or disappear. 32 However, as for when I will return to this world, no human being knows that. The angels who dwell in heaven do not know that. Even I, the Son, do not know that. Only God my Father knows that. 33 So, you do not know at what moment I will return to this world. Because of that, you need to make sure that you are ready. You need to focus and pray. 34 Here is a story that illustrates what I mean. A man decided to travel to a different country. Before he left home, he authorized each of his servants to do something specific to manage the household. Then, he told the man who guarded the house to be ready for him to return. 35 So then, I am like the man who owned that house. You cannot know at what moment I will return to this world. It might be at sunset or at midnight. It might be very early in the morning or after sunrise. Because of that, you need to be ready at all times. 36 Otherwise, when I return to this world when you do not expect me, I might discover that you are not ready for me. 37 I am telling you that you need to be ready at all times. In fact, I am telling that to all people!"

14 1 At that time, it was only two days until the Passover festival, which was the first day of the Celebration of Unleavened Bread. The ruling priests and the teachers of the Jewish law were planning a clever way to arrest Jesus and have people execute him. 2 They were planning something clever because they agreed that they would not act during the festival period. Otherwise, the people who were there in Jerusalem might riot.

3 Now Jesus was in the village of Bethany. He was in the home of Simon, who used to have a skin disease. While Jesus was feasting there, a woman arrived. She brought with her a stone jar that contained nard, a very valuable, fragrant ointment. She shattered the jar and poured the ointment on Jesus' head.

4 Some of the people there were very upset. They said to each other, "She wasted the fragrant ointment! 5 She could have sold this fragrant ointment for at least 300 coins! Then, she could have given that money to poor people." So, they rebuked her.

6 However, Jesus told those people, "Stop rebuking this woman. Do not bother her! What she did for me was right. 7 There will always be poor people with you, so you can help them whenever you want to. However, I will not always be with you. 8 This woman used what she possessed to do something for me. When she poured this ointment on me, she was preparing me ahead of time for when someone buries me. 9 In every place where my apprentices proclaim the good news, they will also tell what this woman just did. That way, people will remember her. What I have said is true."

10 Then Judas Iscariot visited the ruling priests to talk about helping them arrest Jesus. He was one of the 12 men whom Jesus had chosen to represent him. 11 When the ruling priests heard from Judas, they were very happy. They agreed to pay money to Judas to help them arrest Jesus. So, Judas tried to find a good time to help the ruling priests arrest Jesus.

12 Then it was the first day of the Celebration of Unleavened Bread, the time when people slaughter lambs for the Passover festival. Jesus' apprentices asked him, "Where should we go to set up the meal for the Passover celebration?"

13 So, Jesus told two of his apprentices to prepare everything. He instructed them, "Enter the city of Jerusalem. There you will encounter a certain man. He will be holding a jar with water in it. Go wherever he does. 14 When he goes into a house, tell the man who owns the house, 'Our instructor wants to eat the meal for the Passover celebration with us, his apprentices. He asks you to show us the room that is ready for him.' 15 He will take you to a large room that is upstairs. It will already have everything that we need for preparing and eating a meal. Then, set up the meal for us in that room."

16 So the two apprentices went away and entered the city of Jerusalem. Everything that Jesus had spoken about happened. Then they set up the meal for the Passover celebration.
17 When it was evening, Jesus arrived at that house with his 12 representatives.

18 Then, they began to feast. As they ate, Jesus told them, "One of you is going to help my enemies arrest me. This person is eating with me right now! What I have said is true."

19 The apprentices started to become sad. One after another they told Jesus, "I will not do that!"

20 Jesus responded, "One of you 12 men whom I have chosen to represent me will do that. It is one of you who is sharing food from this dish with me. 21 I say that because I, the Son of Man, will die. That is what you can read in the Scriptures about me. Nevertheless, how terrible it will be for the man who helps my enemies arrest me, the Son of Man. In fact, that man would be better off if he had never existed."

22 Then, as they ate, Jesus picked up a loaf of bread. He thanked God for the loaf of bread. He tore it into pieces and handed the pieces to the apprentices to eat. He said, "This bread is my body. Receive it."

23 Then Jesus picked up a cup of wine. He thanked God for the wine. Then, he handed the cup of wine to the apprentices. All of them drank wine from it.

24 Then Jesus told them, "This wine is my blood, which inaugurates the agreement God is making with you. My blood will flow from my body when my enemies kill me. That will help many people. 25 I will no longer drink any more wine until the time when I drink it again when we participate together in God's kingdom. What I have said is true." 26 After they sang a song praising God, Jesus and his apprentices walked to the Mount of Olives.

27 Then Jesus told them, "God had Zechariah write in the Scriptures,

> 'I will kill the one who is like a shepherd.
> Then, the people who are like sheep will flee.'

So, all of you will reject me! 28 However, once God has made me alive again, I will go ahead of you to the region of Galilee and meet you there."

29 Then Peter told Jesus, "Suppose that everyone else rejects you. Despite that, I will never do that!"

30 Jesus replied, "During this day, tonight, before a male chicken crows two times, you will say three times that you are not my apprentice! What I have said is true."

31 Peter replied strongly, "I will always say that I am your apprentice, even if I die with you because of that!" The rest of the apprentices said similar things.

32 After that, Jesus and his apprentices walked to a place that people call Gethsemane. He told the apprentices, "Stay here while I pray to God." 33 Jesus had Peter, James, and John go with him. Then, Jesus started to become very anxious and upset. 34 He told those three apprentices, "I am so sad that I feel like I am dying. Stay here and stay awake!"

35 After saying that, Jesus walked a little further. Then, he kneeled down to pray. He asked God to prevent him from experiencing what was about to happen, if there was any way to do so. 36 He prayed, “Abba (which means Father), you are able to do anything. Please prevent me from suffering terribly. However, please do what you want to do, not what I want you to do.”

37 Then he returned to the three apprentices. He discovered that they were asleep. He woke them up and told Peter, “Simon, it disappoints me that you were asleep. You could not stay awake for even a short time! 38 You men want to do what I say, but you are not strong enough. Stay awake and pray! That way, nothing can convince you to sin.”

39 Then Jesus walked a short distance away a second time. He prayed again what he had prayed previously. 40 Then he returned a second time to the three apprentices. He discovered that they, because they were so sleepy, had fallen asleep again. They did not know how to respond to him when he woke them up.

41 After Jesus walked away and prayed again, he returned a third time to the three apprentices. He woke them up and told them, “It disappoints me that you continue to sleep! You have slept enough. The time when I will suffer is beginning! Someone is about to help sinful people arrest me, the Son of Man. 42 Stand up! We are going to leave this place. The person who is helping my enemies arrest me has arrived!”

43 While Jesus was still talking to the three apprentices, Judas came. He was one of the 12 men whom Jesus had chosen to represent him. He brought with him a large group of people carrying swords and clubs. The ruling priests, the teachers of the Jewish law, and the other Jewish leaders had sent them to arrest Jesus.

44 Previously, Judas, who was helping Jesus’ enemies arrest him, told the group of people how they would know which man was Jesus. He instructed them, “The man you should arrest is the one whom I will greet affectionately. Guard him while you take him away.”

45 As soon as he arrived, Judas went to Jesus and said, “Teacher!” and he greeted Jesus affectionately. 46 Then the large group of people arrested Jesus.

47 One of the men who were there pulled his sword out of its sheath. He attacked a man who served the ruling priest, but he only cut off that man’s ear. 48 Jesus responded by saying to the group of people, “You did not need to treat me like a dangerous bandit by arming yourselves with swords and clubs to arrest me. 49 Each day I was instructing people in the temple area, and you were there. You did not arrest me then! However, as these things have happened, what you can read in the Scriptures has come true.” 50 Then all the apprentices deserted Jesus and ran away. 51 Now there was a young man there. He was wearing only one thin garment. He had been walking around with Jesus. The people who arrested Jesus tried to arrest him too. 52 However, he escaped by slipping out of his garment, and he ran away naked.

53 The people who had arrested Jesus took him to the house where the ruling priest lived. All the ruling priests, the other Jewish leaders, and the teachers of the Jewish law assembled there. 54 Peter followed Jesus, but he stayed a safe distance away. He went into the area just outside the house where the ruling priest lived. He sat there with the servants near a fire to keep from getting cold.

55 The ruling priests and all the rest of the Jewish council tried to find something for which they could accuse Jesus. That way, they could have the Roman authorities execute him. However, they did not find anything for which they could accuse him. 56 In fact, many people said what was untrue about Jesus. However, these people did not agree about what Jesus had done.

57 Then, some other people got up to say what was untrue about Jesus. They declared, 58 “We heard him tell people that he would tear down this temple, which humans have built. Then he said that within three days he would construct another temple that God, not humans, would build.” 59 However, even these people did not agree about exactly what Jesus had said.

60 Then the ruling priest got up in front of everyone. He asked Jesus, “Are you going to reply? How do you respond to what these people have said about you?” 61 Despite that, Jesus kept quiet. Then the ruling priest asked him another question. He asked, “Are you the Messiah, the Son of the God whom we praise?”

62 Jesus replied, “That is who I am. You will see me, the Son of Man, ruling powerfully with God. You will see me arriving by means of clouds.”

63 When he heard that, the ruling priest was so upset that he ripped his clothes. He said, "We certainly do not need anyone else to say anything about him. 64 You have heard him insult God! What do you think we should do?" The whole Jewish council agreed that he was guilty and that someone should execute him because of what he had said.

65 Then some of them started to spit on Jesus to insult him. They covered his eyes and then struck him with their fists. They demanded, "Speak for God!" When the servants led Jesus away, they slapped him.

66 Meanwhile, Peter was down in the area just outside the ruling priest's house. A female servant, one of the servants who served the ruling priest, was there. 67 She noticed Peter, who was near a fire to keep from getting cold. She stared at him and declared, "I can tell that you were an apprentice of Jesus, that man from the town of Nazareth."

68 However, he told her that he was not Jesus' apprentice. He said, "I do not at all understand what you are talking about!"

Then Peter left the area just outside the house and walked to the place where people entered that area. 69 The female servant noticed him again, and she started to tell the people who were there, "This man belongs to Jesus' group."

70 However, Peter again said that he was not Jesus' apprentice. A little later, some people who were there told Peter, "You are from Galilee, where Jesus is from. So, you really must belong to Jesus' group."

71 Then Peter started to ask God to punish him if he was lying. He solemnly promised, "I have never met the man about whom you are speaking!"

72 As soon as he said that, a male chicken crowed for a second time. Then Peter remembered what Jesus had told him. He had said, "Before a male chicken crows two times, you will say three times that you are not my apprentice." Then Peter became very upset. He cried.

15 1 As soon as it was morning, the entire Jewish council, including the ruling priests, the other Jewish leaders, and the teachers of the Jewish law, planned what to do with Jesus. They had their guards tie Jesus up and take him from there to Pilate, the Roman local ruler. They wanted Pilate to condemn him.

2 Pilate asked Jesus, “Do you claim to be king over the Jewish people?”

Jesus replied, “What you are calling me is right.”

3 Then the ruling priests claimed that Jesus had done many bad things. 4 After that, Pilate again spoke to Jesus. He said, “Listen to all the bad things they claim that you have done! Are you going to reply?”

5 However, Jesus did not respond anymore. How Jesus was acting greatly impressed Pilate.

6 It is important to know that during the festival period, Pilate usually set free one person who was in jail. He set free whomever the people who were in the city of Jerusalem chose. 7 It is also important to know that a man whose name was Barabbas was in jail with some other men who had rebelled against the Roman government. While they were rebelling, they had murdered some people. 8 The large group of people who were there approached Pilate. They started to ask him to set someone free, as he usually did for them.

9 Pilate replied, “Would you like for me to set free for you the man who claims to be king over you Jewish people?” 10 Pilate asked that question because he realized that the ruling priests had arrested Jesus and brought him to Pilate because they were jealous of Jesus.

11 However, the ruling priests convinced the large group of people to ask Pilate to free Barabbas rather than Jesus. 12 Then Pilate again replied, “So what do you want me to do with the person whom you claim is king over you Jewish people?”

13 The large group of people shouted, “Have your soldiers kill him by nailing him to a cross!”

14 Pilate replied, “But he has not done anything wrong!”

However, they shouted even louder, “Have your soldiers kill him by nailing him to a cross!”

15 Pilate decided to do what the large group of people wanted. So, he set Barabbas free. Then, he had his soldiers whip Jesus and take him away to kill him by nailing him to a cross.

16 After that, Pilate's soldiers took Jesus into the area just outside Pilate's palace. That place was their headquarters. They summoned the rest of the soldiers who were there. 17 They clothed Jesus with a purple robe, the kind that kings wear. Also, they took some branches with thorns and laced them together to make a crown. They put it on Jesus' head. 18 Then the soldiers started to mock him by saying hello to him. They said, "Greetings, you who claim to be king over the Jewish people!" 19 They kept hitting Jesus' head with a staff. They kept spitting on Jesus to insult him. They bowed down in front of him to pretend to honor him. 20 After the soldiers made fun of Jesus, they pulled the purple robe off of him. They put his own clothes back on him. Then, some of the soldiers took him from there to the place where they were going to kill him by nailing him to a cross.

21 Meanwhile, a man was walking nearby. He had left the farm areas and was entering the city of Jerusalem. He was from the city of Cyrene, and his name was Simon. His sons were Alexander and Rufus. The soldiers forced this man to carry the cross for Jesus. 22 The soldiers took Jesus to a place that people called Golgotha. That name means "Skull Place." 23 The soldiers offered Jesus wine into which they had mixed a resin that people called "myrrh." However, Jesus refused to drink it. 24 After nailing Jesus to the cross, the soldiers split up his clothes by gambling for them. They did that to determine which piece of clothing each soldier would get.

25 It was nine o'clock in the morning when they nailed Jesus to the cross. 26 The soldiers wrote on a sign why they were executing Jesus. Here is what they wrote: "The king over the Jewish people."

27 The soldiers also nailed two bandits to crosses near Jesus. They put one bandit on one side of Jesus and the other bandit on the other side of Jesus. 28 [When those things happened, what someone wrote in the Scriptures came true: "People considered him to be one of the people who do what is wrong."]

29 The people who walked past Jesus insulted him by shaking their heads at him. They said to him, “Ha! You said that you could tear down God’s temple and construct it again within three days. 30 So, rescue yourself by getting down from that cross!”

31 Similarly, the ruling priests and the teachers of the Jewish law made fun of Jesus among themselves. They declared, “He has rescued other people. However, he cannot rescue himself! 32 He claims to be the Messiah and the king over the people of Israel. So, he should get down now from that cross! That way, when we watch him do that, we will accept what he says.” The two men whom the soldiers had nailed to crosses near Jesus also insulted him.

33 When it was noon, it became dark in that whole area. It stayed dark until three o’clock in the afternoon. 34 At three o’clock in the afternoon, Jesus shouted, “Eloi, Eloi, lema sabachthani?” That means, “My God, my God, why did you abandon me?”

35 Some people who were there heard what Jesus said and misunderstood it. They declared, “Listen! He is speaking to the prophet Elijah!”

36 Then one man quickly went to soak a sponge in sour wine. He attached the sponge to the top of a staff. Then, he held it up to Jesus so that Jesus could suck the sour wine from it. Then the man said, “Do not do anything else for him! We should wait to find out whether Elijah appears to help him get down.” 37 After that, Jesus shouted loudly. Then he stopped breathing and he died. 38 And then the drape hanging in front of the Most Holy Place in the temple ripped in half; it tore from the top to the bottom.

39 There was a Roman officer standing there in front of Jesus. He observed how Jesus stopped breathing and died. He exclaimed, “This man really was God’s Son!” 40 While all that was happening, some women were there. They observed what was happening from farther away. These women included Salome, Mary from the town of Magdala, and Mary who was the mother of young James and Joses. 41 When Jesus was in the region of Galilee, these women had gone with him as his apprentices and had taken care of him. Additionally, many other women were there observing what was happening. They had walked to the city of Jerusalem with Jesus.

42-43 Now there was a man from the city of Arimathea whose name was Joseph. He was a member of the Jewish council, and people respected him. He too was eagerly expecting God's kingdom. When he arrived in the city of Jerusalem, it was Preparation Day, the day before the Jewish day of rest, and the evening had already begun. Because it was Preparation Day, this man went boldly to Pilate. He asked Pilate to allow him to take Jesus' body to bury it. 44 When Pilate heard that Jesus might already be dead, it surprised him. So, he summoned the Roman officer who was in charge of executing Jesus. Pilate asked the officer, "Is Jesus already dead?" 45 When the officer told Pilate that Jesus was certainly dead, Pilate had his soldiers give Jesus' body to Joseph. 46 So, Joseph purchased a fresh sheet of cloth. Then, he removed Jesus' body from the cross. He prepared to bury it by winding the fresh sheet of cloth around it. Then, Joseph put Jesus' body into a grave that Joseph's workers had made by digging into a rock cliff. After that, Joseph rolled a flat stone to block the entrance to the grave. 47 While that was happening, Mary from the town of Magdala and Mary who was the mother of Joses observed where Joseph had placed Jesus' body.

16 1 When the Jewish day of rest was over, Salome, Mary from the town of Magdala, and Mary, who was the mother of James, purchased fragrant ointments. They planned to visit Jesus' grave and pour the ointments on his body to finish burying him properly. 2 At dawn on Sunday morning, the three women visited Jesus' tomb. 3 As they were walking, they asked each other, "Who will help us by rolling the flat stone to open the entrance to the grave?"

4 When they arrived, they looked at the grave and noticed that someone had already rolled the flat stone to open the entrance to the grave. And that flat stone was huge! 5 Then, the three women walked into the grave, where they saw a young man. He was wearing a white robe and was sitting down to their right. What they saw startled them!

6 The young man told them, "Do not let what you see startle you! I know that you are looking for the body of Jesus from the town of Nazareth. He was the one whom soldiers killed by nailing him to a cross. God has made him alive again! He is no longer in this grave. Look at where people placed his body. 7 Now depart to his apprentices and tell them, especially Peter, that Jesus is going ahead of them to the region of Galilee. Tell them that Jesus will meet them there, which is what Jesus already told them."

8 The three women were shaking because what had happened amazed them. So they left the grave and ran away. Because they felt afraid, they did not speak to anyone about what had happened.

9 [When Jesus lived again early on Sunday morning, Mary from the town of Magdala was the first person to see him. Jesus had forced seven demons out of her. 10 She approached Jesus' apprentices, who were grieving very much. She told them what she had seen. 11 So, the apprentices learned that Jesus was alive and that Mary had seen him. However, they did not accept what she said.

12 Sometime later, two of Jesus' apprentices were traveling to farm areas. They saw Jesus, although he looked different. 13 Then, the two apprentices went back to Jerusalem. They told the other apprentices what had happened, but the others did not accept what the two apprentices said.

14 Sometime later, Jesus revealed himself to his 11 representatives while they were eating. Because they had not accepted it when people told them that they had seen Jesus after God made him alive again, Jesus scolded them. He told them that they should not have stubbornly refused to accept what those people said.

15 Then he told them, "Visit every place and proclaim the good news to every person! 16 God will rescue all people who trust in me and who have someone baptize them. However, God will punish all people who do not trust in me. 17 I will enable those who trust in me to perform miracles. Specifically, they will represent me by forcing demons out of people. They will talk in languages that they have not learned. 18 They will be able to hold snakes and drink poison without becoming sick or dying. When they touch sick people, it will cure them."

19 After the Lord Jesus said that to his apprentices, God brought him up into heaven. There, Jesus sat down to rule with God the Father. 20 As for the apprentices, they left Jerusalem and proclaimed the good news in every place. The Lord Jesus helped them and enabled them to perform miracles. That way, people could see that the good news was true. May it be so!]

Luke

1 1 Many people have already been writing about the things that happened among us.
2 They have been recording what the people who saw these things happen told us about them.
Those people were there from the time when everything first started happening, and they have been sharing the story ever since. 3 I myself have carefully investigated everything that happened from the very beginning. So I decided that I should also write an accurate account for you. Your Excellency, Theophilus, 4 I want you to know that what people have told you about Jesus is true.

5 When Herod was the ruler of Judea, there was a Jewish priest named Zechariah. He was a descendant of Abijah, and so he took his turn serving in the temple with other priests who were also descendants of Abijah. His wife was named Elizabeth. She was a descendant of Aaron, and so she was also from the priestly line. 6 God considered that both of them were righteous because they always obeyed everything that the Lord had commanded. 7 But they did not have any children, because Elizabeth had been unable to bear children. And now she and her husband were too old to have children.

8 The time came for Zechariah's group of priests to take its turn serving in Jerusalem. So Zechariah was there working as a priest for God. 9 The priests chose Zechariah to go into the Lord's temple and burn incense there. They chose him in their usual way, by casting lots to determine whom God wanted to perform a particular task. 10 When it was time to burn the incense, many people were praying in the courtyard outside the temple. 11 Just then, an angel of the Lord came to Zechariah. He stood at the right side of the altar where he was burning incense. 12 When Zechariah saw the angel, he became agitated and terrified. 13 But the angel said to him, "There is no reason to be afraid of me, Zechariah. You have been praying, and God is going to answer your prayer. Your wife Elizabeth will give birth to a son for you. Give him the name John. 14 You will be very happy, and many other people will also be happy when he is born. 15 You and they will be happy because your son will be very influential for God. He must never drink wine or any other alcoholic drink. The Holy Spirit will begin to influence him even before he is born. 16 Your son will persuade many of the Israelites to stop sinning and to start obeying the Lord their God again. 17 Your son will go in advance of the Lord and he will be powerful in his spirit like the prophet Elijah was. He will cause parents to love their children again. He will cause many people who do not obey God to want to obey him and to live wisely and righteously. He will do this so that the Lord's people will be ready for him when he comes."

18 Then Zechariah said to the angel, "How can I be sure that the things you have said will really happen? I am very old, and my wife is also very old, so it is difficult for me to believe that they will happen."

19 Then the angel replied to him, "I am Gabriel! I stand in God's presence! God sent me to tell you this good news about what will happen to you. 20 Now listen! What I have told you will certainly happen at the time that God has decided. But since you did not believe my message, God will keep you from talking. You will not be able to speak until the day that your son is born!"

21 While Zechariah and the angel were talking in the temple, the people in the courtyard were waiting for Zechariah to come out. They wondered why he was staying in the temple for such a long time. 22 Then he came out of the temple, but he was not able to speak to them. Because he could not talk, he made motions with his hands to try to explain what had happened. This made the people conclude that he had seen a vision from God while he was in the temple.

23 When Zechariah finished the time he needed to work as a priest in the temple, he left Jerusalem and went back to his home.

24 Some time after this, his wife, Elizabeth, became pregnant, and she did not go out in public for five months. She said to herself, 25 "The Lord has enabled me to become pregnant. In this way, he has shown compassion to me. Thanks to him, I no longer have to feel ashamed around other people."

26 When Elizabeth had been pregnant for six months, God sent the angel Gabriel to a town called Nazareth in the district of Galilee. 27 God sent him there to speak to a virgin whose name was Mary. Her parents had promised that she would marry a man named Joseph, who was a descendant of King David. 28 The angel came to where Mary was and said to her,

"Hello, blessed one! You are very special to the Lord!" 29 But when he said this, she was confused. She had to try to understand what this greeting could mean. 30 Then the angel said to her, "God desires to bless you, Mary, so do not be afraid! 31 Now listen. You will become pregnant, and you will give birth to a son. Give him the name Jesus. 32 He will be great, and he will be the Son of God Most High. God the Lord will make him king over his people, just as his ancestor David was. 33 He will always be the king over the people of Israel. He will rule over them forever!"

34 Then Mary said to the angel, "But I am a virgin. So how can this happen?" 35 The angel replied, "The Holy Spirit will come upon you. The power of God Most High will be like a shadow falling on you. So the baby you give birth to will be holy. He will be the Son of God.
36 Also listen to this. Your relative Elizabeth is also pregnant, and she is going to have a son.
Because she is very old, people thought that she could not bear children. But she has been pregnant now for almost six months. 37 So you see, God can do anything!" 38 Then Mary said, "All right. I am willing to obey the Lord. God can make the things you have described happen to me." Then the angel left her.

39 Very soon after that, Mary got ready and traveled as quickly as she could to the city where Zechariah lived, which was in the highlands of Judea. 40 She entered Zechariah's house and greeted Elizabeth, his wife. 41 As soon as Elizabeth heard Mary greet her, the baby inside Elizabeth suddenly moved. Immediately the Holy Spirit inspired Elizabeth to speak. 42 She exclaimed loudly to Mary, "God has blessed you more than he has blessed any other woman, and he has blessed the baby you will bear! 43 I am not worthy of this, that you, the mother of my Lord, should come to visit me! 44 I know all of this because as soon as I heard you greet me, the baby in my womb started moving around because he was so excited! 45 You are blessed because you believed that what the Lord told you would come true."

46 Then Mary praised God by saying:

"Oh, how I praise the Lord 47 and I feel very joyful about God, the one who saves me!

48 I am happy because he was gracious to me, even though I was not very important.

Just imagine this—from now on, people living at all times in the future will say that God has blessed me.

49 They will say this because God, the Powerful and Holy One, has done great things for me.

50 He acts mercifully throughout all time periods to the people who revere him.

51 He has shown people that he is very powerful.

He has routed those who think proudly within themselves.

52 He has made rulers stop ruling, but he has honored people who are lowly.

53 He has let people who were hungry eat good food until they were full, but he has sent rich people away without giving them anything.

54-55 He has helped Israel, the people who serve him.

Long ago he promised our ancestors that he would be merciful to them.

He has kept that promise and has always acted mercifully toward Abraham and all who descended from him."

56 Mary stayed with Elizabeth for about three months. After that, she went back home.

57 When it was time for Elizabeth to give birth to her child, she bore a son. 58 When her neighbors and relatives heard about how kind the Lord had been to her by giving her a son, they were very happy along with Elizabeth. 59 Eight days later, people gathered together for the ceremony to circumcise the baby to show that he belonged to God. This was also the time to give the baby a name. The people wanted to name the baby Zechariah because that was his father's name. 60 But his mother said, "No, his name will not be Zechariah. His name will be John!" 61 So they said to her, "But John is not the name of any of your relatives!" 62 Then they made motions with their hands to his father, asking him to indicate what name he wanted to give to his son. 63 So he signaled that they should give him a tablet to write on. When they gave him one, he wrote on it, "His name is John." This amazed all of the people who were there! 64 Immediately, Zechariah was able to speak again, and he began praising God.

65 When the people who lived nearby heard about these things, they felt a deep reverence for

God. They told many other people about what had happened, and this news spread to people throughout the highlands of Judea. 66 Everyone who heard about these things kept thinking about them. They thought, "Certainly this child will grow up to be someone very special!" They thought this because they could see that the Lord was present in his life in a powerful way.

67 After the child's father, Zechariah, could speak again, the Holy Spirit inspired Zechariah and he spoke these words from God:

68 "Praise the Lord, the God whom we people of Israel worship, because he has come to set us, his people, free.
69 He has sent someone who will powerfully save us, someone who is descended from David, whom he chose to be king.
70 (Long ago God inspired his prophets to say that he would do these things.)
71 God is sending this deliverer to save us from our enemies, and he will rescue us from the power of everyone who hates us.
72 God has done this because he is faithful to our ancestors and so he is keeping the holy promise that he made to them.
73 This is the promise that he solemnly swore to our ancestor Abraham about what he would do for us.
74 He promised that he would rescue us from the power of our enemies so that we could serve him without being afraid of them.
75 As a result, we could live in the right way, as people who completely belong to him, for as long as we live."

76 Then Zechariah said to his baby son,

"And as for you, my child, you will be a prophet of the Most High God.
You will begin your work before the Lord comes so that you can prepare the people to be ready for him.
77 You will tell God's people that he wants to save them by forgiving their sins.
78 God wants to save us because he is compassionate and merciful.
That is why he is sending this Savior from heaven to help us.

79 This Savior will show the truth to those who do not know it, even to those who do not know it at all. He will show us how to live in a way that pleases God."

80 Over time, Zechariah and Elizabeth's baby boy grew up and became spiritually strong. Then he went to live in a desolate region. He was still living there when he began to preach publicly to God's people, Israel.

2 1 Also during that time, Caesar Augustus, who ruled over the whole Roman Empire, commanded that every person living in his empire had to register his name in an official list of the people who lived there. 2 This was the first time that the Romans recorded the names of everyone living in their empire. They did this during the time when Quirinius was the governor of the province of Syria. 3 So everyone had to go to his family's hometown to register.
4-5 Joseph also traveled to his family's hometown, along with Mary, who was engaged to him and was pregnant. Because Joseph was a descendant of King David, they left the town of Nazareth in the region of Galilee and traveled to the region of Judea, to the town of Bethlehem, which is also known as the city of David. Joseph and Mary went there to be registered in the public record. 6-7 When they arrived in Bethlehem, there was no place for them to stay in a place where visitors usually stayed. So they had to stay in a place where animals slept overnight. While they were there the time came for Mary to give birth and she gave birth to her first child, a son. She wrapped him in wide strips of cloth and laid him down where the food was kept for the animals inside the barn.

8 There were some shepherds camping out in the open country near Bethlehem that night. They were there taking care of their sheep. 9 Suddenly they saw an angel from the Lord standing in front of them. A glorious light from the Lord shone all over them. They became very afraid. 10 But the angel said to them, "Do not be afraid! Listen carefully, because I have come to tell you very good news! This news is for all people, and should make everyone rejoice! 11 They will rejoice because today, in Bethlehem, King David's hometown, the person was born who will save you from your sins! He is the Messiah, the Lord! 12 And here is a sign for you. If you go to Bethlehem, you will find a baby there wrapped in strips of cloth and lying in a feeding place for animals."

13 Suddenly a large group of angels from heaven appeared with the other angel. They were all praising God by saying,

> 14 "In the highest heaven may all the angels praise God! And on the earth may all the people who please God be peaceful with God and each other!"

15 When the angels left them and returned to heaven, the shepherds said to each other, "We should go right now to Bethlehem and see this wonderful thing that has happened, which the Lord has told us about!" 16 So they went quickly, and when they had found the place where Mary and Joseph were staying, they saw the baby lying in a feeding place for animals. 17 After they had seen him, they told everyone what the Lord had revealed to them about this baby. 18 All the people who were listening thought that what the shepherds told them was amazing. 19 But Mary carefully remembered all of these things and thought about them continually. 20 The shepherds returned to the fields where their sheep were. They kept talking about how great God is and praising him for all of the things that they had heard and seen. Everything had been exactly as the angel had told them it would be.

21 On the eighth day after the baby was born, they circumcised him and gave him the name Jesus. This was the name that the angel had told them to give him even before Mary had become pregnant with him.

22 Mary and Joseph waited the number of days that the law of Moses required for her to become ceremonially clean again after having a baby. Then they brought him to Jerusalem so that they could dedicate him to the Lord in the temple. 23 They did this to obey the law of the Lord, which says, "You must set apart for the Lord every male offspring who is the first to be born." 24 There they offered the sacrifice that the law of the Lord told the parents of a newborn son to offer, "two turtledoves or two young pigeons."

25 At that time there was a man in Jerusalem whose name was Simeon. He did what was pleasing to God and obeyed God's laws. He was eagerly waiting for God to send the Messiah to encourage the people of Israel. The Holy Spirit was directing him. 26 The Holy Spirit had previously revealed to him that before he died, the Lord would send the Messiah and he would get to see him. 27 So the Holy Spirit led Simeon to go into the temple courtyard. He was there when Joseph and Mary brought in the baby Jesus so that they could perform the ceremony for him that God had commanded in the law. 28 When Simeon saw Jesus, he picked him up in his arms and thanked God, and then he said, > 29 "Lord, you have kept your promise to me, and now I am content for you to let me die.

>
> 30 Because I have seen the one whom you have sent to save people,
>
> 31 the one whom you have prepared for all people to see.
> 32 He will be like a light that will reveal your truth to the other nations. He will show how glorious your plan is for Israel, your people."

33 Jesus' father and mother marveled at what Simeon said about him. 34 Then Simeon blessed them, and said to Jesus' mother, Mary, "Note well what I say: God has determined that, because of this child, many people in Israel will reject God and many will submit themselves to God. He will be a sign from God that many people will oppose. 35 As for you, the cruel things that people will do to him will make you so sad that it will feel as if a sword is piercing through your very soul. But this is necessary so that he can reveal the secret thoughts of many people."

36 A prophetess named Anna was also there in the temple courtyard. She was very old. She was the daughter of Phanuel, who was from the tribe of Asher. As a young woman, she had been married for seven years, and then her husband had died. 37 After that, she had lived as a widow for 84 more years. It seemed as if she was always in the temple, worshiping God by fasting and praying, at all times of the night and day. 38 At that same time, Anna approached Joseph and Mary and the baby. Anna began thanking God for the baby. Afterwards, she kept speaking about Jesus to many other people who were also expecting God to send the Messiah who would set the people of Israel free.

39 After Joseph and Mary had finished doing everything that the law of the Lord required for parents of a first son, they returned to their own town, Nazareth, in the district of Galilee. 40 As the child grew up, he became strong and very wise, and God was present in his life.

41 Every year Jesus' parents traveled to Jerusalem to celebrate the Passover festival. 42 So when Jesus was 12 years old, they all traveled to Jerusalem together when it was time for the Passover festival. 43 When the days for celebrating the festival ended, Jesus' parents started to return home, but their son, Jesus, stayed behind in Jerusalem. His parents did not know that he was still there. 44 They thought that he was with the other people who were traveling with them. But after walking for one day, they started to look for him among their relatives and friends. 45 When they did not find him, they returned to Jerusalem to search for him. 46 Three days after Mary and Joseph had left Jerusalem, they found Jesus at the temple. He was sitting among the Jewish religious teachers. He was listening to them teach and he was asking them questions. 47 All the people who heard what he said were amazed at how much he understood and how well he answered the questions that the teachers asked. 48 When his parents saw him, they were very surprised. His mother said to him, "My son, you should not have done this to us. Listen to me! Your father and I have been very worried as we have been searching for you!" 49 He said to them, "I am surprised that you needed to search for me. I thought you would know that I needed to be at my Father's house, learning about him." 50 But they did not understand the meaning of what he said to them. 51 Then he returned with them to Nazareth, and he always obeyed them. His mother kept thinking deeply about all the things that had happened.

52 As the years passed, Jesus continued to become wiser, and he grew taller. God and people continued to approve of him more and more.

3 1 This next part of the history happened when Tiberius Caesar had been ruling the Roman Empire for about fifteen years. At that time, Pontius Pilate was the governor of the province of Judea, Herod Antipas was ruling the district of Galilee, his brother Philip was ruling the regions of Iturea and Trachonitis, and Lysanius was ruling the region of Abilene. 2 The high priests at the temple in Jerusalem were Annas and Caiaphas. During that time, God spoke to Zechariah's son John while he was living out in the desolate area. 3 John traveled all around the area near the Jordan River. He kept announcing to the people who came to hear him, "If you want God to forgive your sins, you must reject wrong ways of living. Then I will baptize you!" 4 When John preached like this, the words came true that the prophet Isaiah wrote on a scroll long ago:

> "In the desolate place, someone will be calling out to the people:
> 'Prepare yourselves to receive the Lord!
> Make yourselves ready for when he comes!'

5 When an important person is going to arrive by a certain road, people fill in all the ravines and level off all the steep places in it.
They make the road straight wherever it is crooked, and they smooth out all the bumps. In the same way, God will make sure that there will be people who are ready for the Messiah.
6 Then everyone will recognize God's way of saving people."

7 Large groups of people were coming out to the desolate place where John was so that he would baptize them. So John said to them, "You people are sneaky and dangerous like poisonous snakes! You think that if I baptize you, God will spare you when he punishes sinners. But I did not say that! 8 You need to do the things that show that you have truly rejected your previous sinful way of living! And do not even begin to say to yourselves, 'Certainly God will not punish us, because we are descendants of Abraham!' That does not impress God. Let me assure you, God could turn these stones into descendants of Abraham! 9 You are like fruit trees that do not produce good fruit. God is like a man who is positioning the head of his axe at the base of those trees, ready to chop them down and throw them into the fire. God is ready to punish you like that if you continue sinning." 10 Then several of the people in the crowd asked him, "What kinds of things, then, does God want us to do?" 11 He answered them, "If any of you has two shirts, you should give one of them to someone who does not have a shirt. If any of you has plenty of food, you should give some to those who do not have food." 12 Some tax collectors also came, wanting John to baptize them. They asked him, "Teacher, what does God want us to do?" 13 He said to them, "Do not collect more money from the people than the Roman government tells you to collect!" 14 There were also some men there who were soldiers. Even they asked him, "And what about us? What does God want us to do?" He said to them, "Do not force people to give you money by threatening to harm them or by falsely accusing them of doing something wrong. Be content with the amount of money that you earn as a soldier." 15 People had been waiting for a long time for the Messiah to come. But now they were getting very hopeful about John. They thought that he might be the Messiah. 16 But John said to all of them, "I am not the Messiah. He is coming, and he is far greater than I am. He is so great that I am not worthy even to be like the slave who would untie the straps of his sandals when he comes in the house! When I baptized you, I used only water. But when the Messiah comes, he will baptize you with the Holy Spirit, who will judge and purify you. 17 The Messiah is ready to do this, just like a farmer who has his winnowing fork ready to use. A farmer separates all the good grain from the useless chaff. He stores the grain safely in his barn, but he burns the chaff until it is all gone. That represents how the Messiah will gather up the people who are pleasing to God, and he will punish the people who are displeasing to God." 18 In many different ways like this, John urged the people to stop sinning and to submit themselves to God, as he kept telling them the good news from God. 19 John even rebuked King Herod for all of the many evil things that Herod had done. But when John rebuked Herod for marrying his brother's wife, Herodias, while his brother was still alive, 20 Herod did another evil thing. He had his soldiers put John in prison. 21 But before Herod did that, while John was still baptizing many people, John also baptized Jesus. Afterwards, while Jesus was praying, the sky opened. 22 Then the Holy Spirit, in the form of a dove, came down and landed on Jesus. Then God spoke to Jesus from heaven. He said, "You are my Son, the one whom I love dearly. I am very pleased with you!" 23 At that time Jesus began his work for God. He was about 30 years old. This is Jesus' lineage: People considered Jesus to be the son of Joseph. Joseph was the son of Heli. 24 Heli was the son of Matthat. Matthat was the son of Levi. Levi was the son of Melchi. Melchi was the son of Jannai. Jannai was the son of Joseph. 25 Joseph was the son of Mattathias. Mattathias was the son of Amos. Amos was the son of Nahum. Nahum was the son of Esli. Esli was the son of Naggai. 26 Naggai was the son of Maath. Maath was the son of Mattathias. Mattathias was the son of Semein. Semein was the son of Josech. Josech was the son of Joda. 27 Joda was the son of Joanan. Joanan was the son of Rhesa. Rhesa was the son of Zerubbabel. Zerubbabel was the son of Shealtiel. Shealtiel was the son of Neri. 28 Neri was the son of Melchi. Melchi was the son of Addi. Addi was the son of Cosam. Cosam was the son of Elmadam. Elmadam was the son of Er. 29 Er was the son of Joshua. Joshua was the son of Eliezer. Eliezer was the son of Jorim. Jorim was the son of Matthat. Matthat was the son of Levi. 30 Levi was the son of Simeon. Simeon was the son of Judah. Judah was the son of Joseph. Joseph was the son of Jonam. Jonam was the son of Eliakim. 31 Eliakim was the son of Melea. Melea was the son of Menna. Menna was the son of Mattatha. Mattatha was the son of Nathan. Nathan was the son of David. 32 David was the son of Jesse. Jesse was the son of Obed. Obed was the son of Boaz. Boaz was the son of Salmon. Salmon was the son of Nahshon. 33 Nahshon was the son of Amminadab. Amminadab was the son of Admin. Admin was the son of Arni. Arni was the son of Hezron. Hezron was the son of Perez. Perez was the son of Judah. 34 Judah was the son of Jacob. Jacob was the son of Isaac. Isaac was the son of Abraham. Abraham was the son of Terah. Terah was the son of Nahor. 35 Nahor was the son of Serug. Serug was the son of Reu. Reu was the son of Peleg. Peleg was the son of Eber. Eber was the son of Shelah. 36 Shelah was the son of Cainan. Cainan was the son of Arphaxad. Arphaxad was the son of Shem. Shem was the son of Noah. Noah was the son of Lamech. 37 Lamech was the son of Methuselah. Methuselah was the son of Enoch. Enoch was the son of Jared. Jared was the son of Mahalalel. Mahalalel was the son of Cainan. 38 Cainan was the son of Enos. Enos was the son of Seth. Seth was the son of Adam. Adam came from God.

4 1 After John baptized him, Jesus came back out of the Jordan River. The Holy Spirit was fully empowering him. Then the Holy Spirit led him into the wilderness. 2 Jesus was in the wilderness for 40 days. While he was there, the devil kept tempting him. During that entire time, Jesus did not eat anything. So when the 40 days were over, he was very hungry. 3 Then the devil said to Jesus, "If you really are the Son of God, command this stone to become a loaf of bread for you to eat!" 4 Jesus replied, "No, I will not do that, because the Scriptures say, 'People need more than just food in order to live.'" 5 Then the devil took Jesus up to the top of a high mountain and showed him all the nations of the world in an instant. 6 Then the devil said to Jesus, "I will make you the ruler over all of these nations and you will possess all of their wealth. I can do this because God has permitted me to control all of them, and so I can give them to whomever I wish. 7 All you have to do is bow down and worship me. Then I will let you rule them all!" 8 But Jesus replied, "No, I will not worship you, because the Scriptures say, 'You must only worship the Lord your God. He is the only one you may serve!'"

9 Then the devil took Jesus to Jerusalem. He set him on the highest part of the temple and said to him, "If you really are the Son of God, jump down from here. 10 You will not be hurt, because the Scriptures say,

> 11 'God will command his angels to protect you.' And the Scriptures also say,
> 'The angels will hold you up in their hands when you are falling, so that you will > 12 not get hurt.'" But Jesus replied, "No, I will not do that, because the Scriptures also say: 'Do not test the Lord your God'."

13 Then, after the devil had finished trying to tempt Jesus in all of these ways, the devil left Jesus to wait until another time when he could try to tempt Jesus again.

14 After this, Jesus left the desolate area and returned to the district of Galilee. The Holy Spirit was empowering him. Throughout that whole region, people heard about Jesus and told others about him. 15 He taught people in their Jewish meeting places. As a result, all of the people praised him.

16 Then Jesus went to Nazareth, the town where he had grown up. As he usually did on the Jewish day of rest, he went to the Jewish meeting place. At the appropriate time, he stood up to read something aloud from the Scriptures. 17 Jesus wanted to read some of the words that the prophet Isaiah had spoken long ago. So he asked for the scroll that contained these words, and a synagogue attendant handed it to him. Jesus unrolled the scroll and found the place from which he wanted to read. He read these words:

> 18 "The Spirit of the Lord is empowering me, > because he has specially appointed me to declare God's good news to people who are poor.
> He has sent me to declare to people who are in prison that they will go free, > and to tell those who are blind that they will see again.
> He has sent me to release people whom others are oppressing, > 19 and to announce that now is the time when the Lord will act favorably toward people."

20 Then he rolled up the scroll and gave it back to the attendant, and he sat down to teach the people. Everyone in the Jewish meeting place was looking intently at him. 21 He began to teach them by saying, "I have made this Scripture passage come true right now, as you heard me read it." 22 Everyone there approved of him and they were amazed at the wonderful things that he said. Many of them said to each other, "It is surprising that he can speak like this! This man is only Joseph's son!" 23 He said to them, "Surely some of you will quote to me the proverb that says, '"Doctor, heal yourself!" What you will mean by it is, People told us that you did miracles in the town of Capernaum. If you want us to believe that you are a prophet, then do the same kind of miracles here in your hometown!'" 24 Then he said, "It is certainly true that the people in a prophet's own hometown do not accept that he is a prophet. 25 Think about this: There were many widows in Israel during the time when the prophet Elijah lived. At that time there was no rain for three and a half years. This caused a great famine throughout the whole country. 26 And yet God did not send Elijah to help any of the widows in Israel. Instead, God sent him to the town of Zarephath near the city of Sidon, to help a non-Israelite widow there. 27 There were also many lepers in Israel during the time when the prophet Elisha lived. But Elisha did not heal any of them. Instead, he healed only Naaman, a non-Israelite man from the country of Syria." 28 When all the people in the Jewish meeting place heard him say those things, they became very angry. 29 So they stood up, grabbed Jesus, and dragged him out of the city. They took him to the edge of the cliff outside of their city in order to throw him off of the cliff and kill him. 30 But Jesus simply walked through the crowd and went away.

31 From there Jesus went down to Capernaum, a city in the district of Galilee. On each Jewish day of rest, he taught the people in the Jewish meeting place there. 32 The things that Jesus taught the people amazed them, because he spoke as someone who knew what he was talking about. 33 Now in that Jewish meeting place there was a man whom an evil spirit controlled. He shouted very loudly, 34 "Aah! Jesus, from Nazareth! What do you want with us? Have you come to destroy us? I know who you are! You are the Holy One from God!" 35 But Jesus spoke sternly to the evil spirit. He said, "Be quiet and come out of him!" The evil spirit threw the man down on the ground in the middle of the people. But then he came out of the man, without harming him. 36 All of the people in the Jewish meeting place were amazed. Many of them said to each other, "We have never seen anything like this! His words are so powerful! He commands the evil spirits as if they must obey him, and when he commands them, they come out of people!" 37 In every place throughout the surrounding region, people kept talking about what Jesus had done.

38 Then Jesus left the Jewish meeting place and went to the house of a man named Simon. His mother-in-law was there. She was sick and had a high fever. The people there asked Jesus to heal her. 39 So Jesus went over to where she was and stood next to her. He commanded the fever to leave her, and it did! She immediately got up and served them some food.

40 When the sun was setting, which ended the Jewish day of rest, many people whose friends or relatives were sick with various diseases brought them to Jesus. He put his hands on each one of them and healed them. 41 As Jesus put his hands on the sick people, evil spirits also came out from many of them. As the evil spirits came out, they shouted to Jesus, "You are the Son of God!" But he commanded those evil spirits not to tell people about him, because they knew that he was the Messiah.

42 Early the next morning, Jesus went out to an uninhabited place. Crowds of people went looking for him. When they came to where he was, they tried to keep him from leaving them. 43 But Jesus said to them, "I must also tell people in other cities the good news that they can have God rule their lives, because that is what God sent me here to do." 44 So he went on preaching in the Jewish meeting places throughout the province of Judea.

5 1 One day while many people were crowding around Jesus and listening to him teach God's message, he was standing next to Lake Gennesaret. 2 He saw two fishing boats there at the edge of the lake. The fishermen had left the boats and were washing their fishing nets. 3 Jesus stepped into one of the two boats, the one that belonged to Simon. Jesus asked him to move the boat out a short distance away from the shore. Then Jesus sat down in the boat and continued to teach the crowds from there. 4 After he finished teaching them, he said to Simon, "Take the boat out to deeper water and let your nets down into the water to catch some fish." 5 Simon replied, "Master, we worked hard through the whole night and yet we did not catch any fish. But I will let down the nets again because you told me to." 6 So Simon and his crew let down their nets and they caught such a large number of fish that their nets began to break. 7 They motioned to their fishing partners in the other boat to come and help them. So they came and filled both boats so full with fish that the boats began to sink. 8 Seeing this, Simon Peter bowed down before Jesus and said, "Please leave me, because I am a sinful man, Lord." 9 He said this because he marveled at the huge number of fish that they had caught. All the men who were with him also marveled. 10 James and John, the two sons of Zebedee, who were Simon's partners, were just as amazed. But Jesus said to Simon, "Do not be afraid! Until now you gathered in fish, but from now on you will gather in people to become my disciples." 11 So after the men brought the boats to the shore, they left their fishing business and everything else and went with Jesus.

12 Jesus went to one of the towns nearby. There was a man there who was covered with a skin disease. When he saw Jesus, he bowed down to the ground in front of him. He pleaded with him, “Lord, please heal me! I know that you are able to heal me if you are willing!” 13 Then Jesus reached out his hand and touched the man. He said, “I am willing to heal you, and I heal you now!” Immediately the man was healed. He no longer had leprosy! 14 Then Jesus told him, “Do not tell anyone that I healed you. First, go and show yourself to a priest so that he can examine you and see that you no longer have leprosy. Bring the sacrifice that Moses commanded you to offer to become ceremonially clean again.” 15 But instead even more people heard about how Jesus had healed the man. As a result, large crowds came to hear Jesus teach and to have him heal them from their sicknesses. 16 But he would often go away from them to isolated areas and pray.

17 One day when Jesus was teaching, some men from the Pharisee sect and some expert teachers of the Jewish law were sitting nearby. They had come from many villages in the district of Galilee and also from Jerusalem and other cities in the province of Judea. At that same time, the Lord was giving Jesus the power to heal people. 18 While Jesus was there, several men brought him a man who was paralyzed. They were carrying the man on a sleeping pad and trying to bring him into the house to lay him down in front of Jesus. 19 But because there was such a large crowd of people in the house, they were not able to bring him in. So they went up the outside steps onto the flat roof. They removed some of the tiles from the roof to make an opening. Then they lowered the man on his sleeping pad through the opening into the middle of the crowd. He came down right in front of Jesus. 20 When Jesus perceived that they believed that he could heal the man, he said to him, “Friend, I forgive your sins!” 21 The teachers of the law and the Pharisees began to think to themselves, “This man insults God by saying that! Nobody except God can forgive sins!” 22 Jesus knew what they were thinking. So he said to them, “You should not question what I said within yourselves! 23 Here is something I want you to think carefully about. Which is easier to say, ‘I forgive your sins,’ or, ‘Get up and walk’? You might think that saying ‘I forgive your sins’ is easier because it does not require any visible proof. 24 But I want you to know that God has given me, the Son of Man, authority to forgive people on earth their sins. To demonstrate that, I will also tell this man to get up.” Then he said to the man who was paralyzed, “To you I say, get up, pick up your sleeping pad, and go home!” 25 Immediately the man was healed! He got up in front of them all. He picked up the sleeping pad on which he had been lying, and he went home, praising God. 26 All the people there were astonished! They praised God and were completely amazed at what they had seen Jesus do. They kept saying, "We have seen wonderful things today!"

27 Then Jesus left that place and saw a man named Levi who collected taxes for the Roman government. He was sitting in the booth where the people came to pay him the taxes that the government required. Jesus said to him, "Come with me and be my disciple!" 28 So Levi left his work and went with Jesus.

29 Later on Levi prepared a big feast in his own house for Jesus and his disciples. There was a large group of tax collectors and others eating together with them. 30 Then some men who belonged to the Pharisee sect, including some of them who taught Jewish laws, complained to Jesus' disciples. They said, "You should not be having a banquet with tax collectors and other sinners." 31 Then Jesus said to them, "People who are well do not need a doctor. People who are sick need a doctor. 32 Similarly, I did not come from heaven to invite those who think they are righteous to come to me. On the contrary, I came to invite those who know that they are sinners to turn from their sinful behavior and come to me."

33 Those Jewish leaders responded to Jesus, "The disciples of John the Baptizer often abstain from food and pray. The disciples of the Pharisees do that too. But your disciples keep on eating and drinking! Why do they not fast like the others?" 34 Jesus answered, "No one tells the friends of the bridegroom to fast while the wedding celebration is still going on! 35 But some day the bridegroom will no longer be with his friends. Then, at that time, they will abstain from food."

36 Then Jesus gave other examples to explain what he meant. He said, "People never tear a piece of cloth from a new garment and attach it to an old garment to mend it. If they did that, they would ruin the new garment by tearing it, and the piece of cloth from the new garment would not match the old garment. 37 And no one puts newly squeezed wine into old skin bags to store it. If anyone did that, the skin bags would tear open because they would not stretch when the new wine fermented and expanded. Then the skin bags would become useless, and the wine would also become useless because it would spill out. 38 On the contrary, new wine must be put into new skin bags.

39 Those who have only drunk old wine do not want to try new wine, because they think,
‘The old wine is good enough!’”

6 1 One Sabbath day, as Jesus and his disciples were walking through some grain fields, the disciples picked some heads of grain. They rubbed them in their hands to separate the grain from the husks. Then they ate the grain. 2 Some Pharisees were watching this. They said to them, “You should not be doing work like that! Our law forbids us to do work on the Sabbath day!” 3 Jesus replied to the Pharisees, “Consider what the Scriptures say about what David did when he and the men who were with him were hungry. 4 As you know, David entered the tabernacle and asked for some food. The priest gave him the bread that had been on display before God. David ate some, and he also gave some to the men who were with him, even though the law said they could not do that. Only priests could eat that bread.” 5 Jesus also said to them, “I, the Son of Man, have the authority to determine what is right for people to do on the Sabbath!”

6 On another Sabbath day Jesus went to the synagogue and taught the people. A man was there who could not move his right hand. 7 Some teachers of the Jewish laws and some Pharisees were there. They were watching Jesus closely. They wanted to see whether he would heal the man. If he did, then they would accuse him of disobeying their laws about not working on the Sabbath. 8 But Jesus knew what they were thinking. So he said to the man with the withered hand, “Come and stand here in front of everyone!” So the man got up and stood there.
9 Then Jesus said to them, “I want to ask you a question. Do the laws that God gave Moses command people to do good on the Sabbath, or to do harm? Do they command people to save a life on the Sabbath, or to destroy it?” 10 No one answered him, so he looked around at them all and then said to the man, “Stretch out your withered hand!” The man did that, and his hand became completely well again! 11 But the religious leaders were very angry, and they discussed with one another about what they could do to get rid of Jesus.

12 Around that time, Jesus went up into the hills to pray. He prayed to God all night there.
13 The next day he called all his disciples to come to him. From among them he chose 12 men and made them his representatives. 14 These are their names: Simon, to whom Jesus gave the new name Peter; Andrew, Peter’s brother; James and his brother, John; Philip; Bartholomew;

15 Matthew, whose other name was Levi; Thomas; another man named James whose father was named Alphaeus; Simon the Zealot; 16 Judas, the son of a different man named James; and Judas Iscariot, who later betrayed Jesus.

17 Jesus came down from the hills with his disciples and stood on a level area. There was a great crowd of his disciples there. There was also a large group of people who had come from Jerusalem and from many other places in the region of Judea, and from the coastal areas near the cities of Tyre and Sidon. 18 They came to hear Jesus teach them and heal them from their diseases. He also healed those whom evil spirits had troubled. 19 Everyone in the crowd tried to touch him, because he was healing everyone by his power. 20 Then he looked at his disciples and said, "It is very good for you who are poor, because God is ruling you. 21 It is very good for you who are hungry now, because God will give you everything you need.

It is very good for you who are grieving now, because God will someday make you laugh with joy.

22 It is very good when other people hate you, when they reject you and insult you and say that you are bad because you follow me, the Son of Man. 23 When that happens, rejoice! Jump up and down because you are so happy! Keep in mind that God is going to give you a great reward in heaven! Do not forget that the ancestors of the people who are treating you this way did similar things to God's prophets long ago.

24 But how sad it is for you who are rich. You have already received all the comfort you are going to get from your riches. 25 How sad it is for you who can stuff yourselves with food now. Later you will go hungry.

Woe to the ones who are laughing now. Later you will be very unhappy. 26 How sad it is for you when everyone says good things about you. In the same way, their ancestors used to say good things about people who falsely claimed to be God's prophets.

27 But I say this to each of you who are listening to what I say: Love your enemies, not only your friends! Do good things for those who hate you! 28 Ask God to bless those who curse you! Pray for those who treat you badly! 29 If someone insults you by striking you on one of your cheeks, turn your face so that he can strike the other cheek also. If someone wants to take away your coat, let him also have your shirt. 30 Give something to everyone who asks you. If someone takes things that belong to you, do not make him return them. 31 In whatever way you want others to act toward you, that is the way that you should act toward them.

32 If you love only those who love you, do not expect God to reward you for doing that. Even sinners love those who love them. 33 Do not expect God to reward you because you do good things for people who do good things for you. After all, even sinners do that. 34 If you lend money or property only to those who will give it back to you, do not expect God to reward you for doing that. Even sinners lend to other sinners who will give everything back to them. 35 Instead, love your enemies! Do good things for them! Lend to them, and do not expect them to pay anything back! Then God will give you a great reward. And you will be children of God the Most High, since God is kind even to people who are unthankful and wicked. 36 So you should act mercifully toward other people, just as God, your Father, acts mercifully toward people.

37 Do not harshly criticize other people. Then God will not harshly criticize you. Do not condemn other people. Then God will not condemn you. Forgive others for the wrong things they have done to you. Then God will forgive you. 38 Give to others. Then God will give to you. It will be as if he is trying to give you as much grain as possible in a container you have. He will press the grain down. He will shake it together. He will keep filling the container until it overflows. So when you give to others, it should be as if you are using a big scoop, because God will use the same size scoop to give to you."

39 He also gave his disciples this example: "A blind person should not try to lead another blind person down the road. If he did, they both would fall into the ditch on the side of the road! 40 A disciple is not greater than his teacher. But once the teacher has finished training him, he will become like his teacher.

41 None of you should be concerned about the small faults of another person. You should be concerned about your own serious faults. Otherwise, that would be like noticing a speck in the eye of that person while not noticing a huge wooden plank in your own eye. 42 You should not tell another believer, 'Friend, let me help you correct your faults,' when you have not dealt with your own faults yet. If you do that, you are a hypocrite! You should first stop committing your own sins. That will be like removing a large plank from your own eye. Then, as a result, you will have the spiritual insight you need to help others get rid of the smaller faults that are like little specks in their eyes.

43 Everyone knows that healthy trees do not produce bad fruit and unhealthy trees do not produce good fruit. 44 You can tell what a person is like inside by the things that they do. Then you know what to expect from them. You would not look for kindness or good advice from someone who does bad things. That would be like looking for figs on a thornbush or looking for grapes on a bramble vine. 45 Good people do good things because they think good things. Evil people do evil things because they think evil things. This is because people speak and act based on what they are thinking about."

46 Jesus said to the people, "Why do you call me 'Lord' when you do not obey what I tell you to do? 47 Let me tell you what people are like who come to me, hear my teachings, and obey them. 48 Such people are like a person who dug deep into the ground to prepare to build his house. He made sure to build the foundation for the house on solid rock. Then there was a flood. A torrent of water was beating against that house. But it could not destroy it, because the person had built the house on a solid foundation. 49 But some people who hear my teachings do not obey them. They are like a person who built a house on top of the ground without digging a foundation first. When the floodwaters came, it collapsed immediately. The waters destroyed that house completely."

7 1 After Jesus finished saying all these things to the people who were listening, he went to the town of Capernaum. 2 In that town there was a centurion in the Roman army who had a slave who was dear to him. This slave was so sick that he was about to die. 3 When the centurion heard about Jesus, he sent some Jewish elders to Jesus to ask him to come and heal his slave. 4 When they came to Jesus, they earnestly asked him to help the centurion's slave. They said, "He deserves to have you do this for him, 5 because he loves our people and he built our synagogue for us." 6 So Jesus went with them to the officer's house. When he was almost there, the officer sent some friends to give this message to Jesus: "Lord, do not go to the trouble of coming here, since I am not worthy to have you come into my house. 7 That is why I did not feel that I was worthy to come to you in person. I knew that you could heal my dear slave just by speaking a command. 8 I know that you can do this because I myself am a man who must obey the orders of my superiors. I also have soldiers who must obey my orders. When I say to one of them, 'Go!' he goes. When I say to another one, 'Come!' he comes. When I say to my slave, 'Do this!' he does it." 9 When Jesus heard what the officer had said, he was amazed at him. Then he turned to the crowd that was with him and said, "Let me tell you, I have not met any Israelite who trusts me as much as this Gentile does!" 10 When the friends who had come from the centurion returned to his house, they found that the slave was in good health again.

11 Soon after that Jesus traveled to the town of Nain. His disciples and a large crowd went with him. 12 As Jesus came near to the town gate, he saw a large crowd coming out of the town. A man had just died, and they were carrying him out to bury him. His mother was in the crowd. She was a widow, and he had been her only son. He had taken care of her while he was alive. 13 When Jesus saw her, he had compassion for her and said to her, "Do not cry!" 14 Then he came close to them and touched the stretcher on which the body was lying. The men carrying it stood still. He said, "Young man, I say to you, get up!" 15 Then the man who had died sat up and began to talk! And Jesus led him back to his mother. 16 Everyone there was awestruck. They praised God and said to each other, "A great prophet has come among us!" and "God has come to care for his people!" 17 Then this news about what Jesus had done spread throughout the region of Judea and all the other areas nearby.

18-19 The disciples of John the Baptizer told him about all these things. So John called for two of his disciples and told them to go to the Lord and ask him: "Are you the one whom God promised would come, or should we be expecting someone else?" 20 When those two men came to Jesus, they told him, "John the Baptizer sent us to ask you, 'Are you the one whom God promised would come? Or should we wait for someone else?'" 21 At that same time Jesus was healing many people from sicknesses and serious diseases, and he was delivering them from evil spirits. He also gave many blind people the ability to see again. 22 So he answered those two men, "Go back and report to John what you have seen and heard. People who were blind are now seeing. People who were lame are now walking. People who had skin diseases no longer have them. People who were deaf can now hear. People who were dead have come back to life. I am proclaiming good news to poor people." 23 And also tell him, "God will bless anyone who sees what I do and hears what I teach and continues to believe in me."

24 When the men whom John had sent left, Jesus began to talk to the crowd of people about John. He said, “What did you go into the wilderness to see? A thin stalk of a plant shaken by the wind? 25 But what did you go out to see? A man wearing fancy clothing? Listen, those who wear splendid clothes and who have the best of everything live in kings’ palaces. 26 Then what did you go out there to see? A prophet? Yes, that is who John is! But I tell you that John is more significant than an ordinary prophet. 27 He is the one about whom the prophet wrote long ago: ‘See, I am sending my messenger ahead of you. He will prepare people for your coming.’

28 I tell you that of all the people who have ever lived, there is no one greater than John. Yet the most insignificant people whose lives God is ruling are greater than John.”

29 When all the people whom John had baptized heard what Jesus said—including the tax collectors—they agreed that God had done the right thing by sending John. 30 But the Pharisees and the experts in the Jewish law, whom John had not baptized, rejected God’s will for them.

31 Then Jesus also said, “I will tell you what you people living in this time period are like. 32 You are like children playing games in an open area. They call out to each other, saying, ‘We played happy music for you on the flute, but you did not dance! Then we sang sad funeral songs for you, but you did not cry!’ 33 Similarly, when John came to you and did not eat ordinary food or drink wine, you rejected him and said, ‘A demon is controlling him!’ 34 But when the Son of Man came to you and he ate ordinary food and drank wine as others do, then you rejected him and said, ‘Look! This man eats too much food and drinks too much wine, and he associates with tax collectors and other sinners!’ 35 But those who are wise themselves recognize that what John and I do is also wise.”

36 One day a certain Pharisee named Simon invited Jesus to eat a meal with him. So Jesus went to the man’s house and reclined at a table to eat. 37 There was also a woman in that city who had a bad reputation. When she heard that Jesus was eating in the Pharisee’s house, she went there, bringing a stone jar that contained perfume. 38 As Jesus was reclining to eat, the woman stood behind him at his feet. She was crying, and her tears fell on Jesus’ feet. She continually wiped his feet with her hair. She kept kissing them and anointing them with the perfume. 39 When the Pharisee who had invited Jesus saw what the woman was doing, he thought, "If this man really were a prophet, he would have known who this woman is who is touching him. He would have known what kind of person she is, that she is a sinner." 40 In response, Jesus said to him, "Simon, there is something I want to tell you." He replied, "Teacher, what is it?" 41 Jesus told him this story: "Two people owed money to a man who had a business lending money. One of these people owed him 500 silver coins. The other one owed him 50 silver coins. 42 Neither of them was able to pay back what he owed, so the man very kindly said that they both did not have to pay back anything. So, which of those two men will love that man more?" 43 Simon replied, "I assume that the one who had owed him the larger amount will love him more." Jesus said to him, "You are correct." 44 Then he turned toward the woman and said to Simon, "Think about what this woman has done! When I entered your house, you did not do what hosts usually do to welcome their guests. You did not give me any water to wash my feet. But this woman has washed my feet with her tears and wiped them with her hair! 45 You did not greet me with a kiss. But from the moment I came in, she has not stopped kissing my feet! 46 You did not anoint my head with olive oil, but she has anointed my feet with fragrant perfume. 47 So I tell you that God has forgiven her many sins, and that is why she loves me very much. But a person who thinks that God has only had to forgive him for a few sins will love me only a little bit." 48 Then Jesus said to the woman, "I have forgiven your sins." 49 Then those who were eating with him said among themselves, "Who is this man who says that he can even forgive sins?" 50 But Jesus said to the woman, "Because you have believed in me, God has saved you. May God give you peace as you go!"

8 1 After that, Jesus and his 12 representatives traveled around through various cities and villages. As they went, Jesus preached to people, telling them the good news that they could have God rule their lives. 2 Also traveling with them were several women whom he had delivered from evil spirits and healed from sicknesses. These included Mary from the village of Magdala. Jesus had forced seven evil spirits to leave her. 3 Another of these women was Joanna. She was the wife of Chuza, who was a manager for King Herod. These women also included Susanna and many others. They were using their own money to support Jesus and his disciples.

4 One day a very large crowd was gathering. People were traveling from many different towns to see Jesus. He told them this story: 5 "A farmer went out to plant some grain seeds. As he was scattering them over the soil, some of the seeds fell onto the hard pathway. People stepped on those seeds, and birds ate them all up. 6 Some of the seeds fell on shallow soil above a layer of rock. As soon as those seeds grew, the plants dried up because their roots could not get past the rock to reach to the moisture. 7 Some of the seeds fell on ground where thorn plants had left their own seeds. The new thorn plants grew up together with the young grain plants. The stronger thorns crowded out the grain plants, so that the grain did not grow well. 8 But some of the grain seeds fell on fertile soil. They grew so well that they produced a crop that had a hundred times as many seeds." After saying these things, Jesus called out to the crowd, "You should think carefully about what you just heard me say!"

9 Then Jesus' disciples asked him, "What does that story mean?" 10 And he said, "God has given you the privilege of knowing hidden things about how God will rule as king. But I speak to everyone else only in parables, so that,

> 'Although they see, they may not perceive, and although they hear, they may not understand.'

11 Now, this is what the story means: The seeds represent what God wants people to understand. 12 The seeds that fell on the pathway show what happens when people understand the message from God only superficially. This makes it easy for the devil to come and take that message away from their minds. As a result, they do not believe it, and so God does not save them. 13 The seeds that fell on the rocky ground show what happens when people hear the message from God and receive it joyfully, but they do not commit themselves seriously. They only believe for a short time. As soon as difficult things happen to them, they stop trusting in God. 14 The seeds that fell among the thorny plants show what happens to some other people who hear the message from God. As they go on in life, they allow the worries, riches, and pleasures of this life to occupy all their attention. As a result, they do not become spiritually mature. 15 But the seeds that fell on the fertile ground show what happens when people hear the message about God and accept it with great sincerity. They make a firm commitment, and because they keep this commitment, they become spiritually mature.

19 One day Jesus' mother and brothers came to see him, but they could not get near him because there was such a large crowd around him in the house where he was. 20 Then people told him, "Your mother and your brothers are standing outside, wanting to see you." 21 But he replied to them, "Those who hear the message from God and obey it are as dear to me as my mother and my brothers."

22 On another day Jesus got into a boat with his disciples. He said to them, "I would like us to go across to the other side of the lake." So they started to sail across the lake. 23 But as they were sailing, Jesus fell asleep. Then a powerful windstorm began on the lake. Soon the boat was filling with water, and they were in danger. 24 So Jesus' disciples came over to wake him up. They said to him, "Master! Master! We are all going to die!" He woke up and scolded the wind and the violent waves. The wind stopped blowing, the waves stopped hitting the boat, and everything became calm. 25 Then he said to them, "You acted as if you had no faith!" The disciples were alarmed and amazed because of what had just happened. They kept asking each other, "Who could Jesus be? He is able to command even the winds and the waves, and they obey him."

26 Jesus and his disciples continued sailing and came to the region where the Gerasene people lived. It was on the opposite side of the lake from the district of Galilee. 27 When Jesus came out of the boat onto the land, a certain man from the town in that area met him. This man had demons in him. For a long time this man had not worn clothes and had not lived in a house. Instead, he lived in the burial caves.

28 When the man saw Jesus, he cried out and lay facedown before him. He shouted, "What do you want with me, Jesus, Son of the Most High God? I beg you, do not torment me!"

29 The man said this because Jesus had just commanded the evil spirit to come out of him. In the past, people had bound him with chains and shackles and kept a close watch on him. Even so, many times the evil spirit would suddenly seize him by force. Then the man would break free, and the demon would make him go out into deserted places. 30 Then Jesus asked him, "What is your name?" The demon replied, "My name is Thousands." He said that because many demons had entered the man. 31 The demons kept begging Jesus not to command them to go into the deep pit where God punishes demons. 32 There was a large herd of pigs grazing on the hillside nearby. The demons begged Jesus to allow them to enter the pigs, and he allowed them. 33 So the demons left the man and entered the pigs, and the herd of pigs rushed down the steep bank into the lake and drowned.

34 When those who were taking care of the pigs saw what happened, they ran away! They reported what they had seen to all the people who lived around them. 35 Then the people went out to see what had happened. When they came to where Jesus was, they saw that the man from whom the demons had gone out was sitting at the feet of Jesus. They saw that he had clothes on and his mind was normal again. They realized how powerful Jesus must be, and they became afraid. 36 Those who had seen what had happened told the people who had just arrived how Jesus had rescued the man who had been controlled by demons. 37 Then many people from that place where the Gerasenes lived asked Jesus to leave their area, because they were very afraid. So Jesus and his disciples got into the boat to go back across the lake.
38 Before they left, the man from whom the demons had gone out begged Jesus, saying, "Please, let me go with you!" But instead, Jesus sent him away by saying to him, 39 "No, go back to your home and tell everyone how much God has done for you!" So the man went away and told people throughout the whole city how much Jesus had done for him.

40 And when Jesus and his disciples got back across the lake to Capernaum, a crowd of people welcomed them. They had all been waiting for him there. 41 Just then a man named Jairus, who was one of the leaders of the synagogue there, came near to Jesus, and he lay facedown before him. He pleaded with Jesus to come to his house. 42 He did this because he had an only daughter, who was about 12 years old, and she was dying. He wanted Jesus to heal her.

Now as Jesus went with him, many people were crowding around him. 43 Now in the crowd there was a woman who had been suffering for 12 years from a disease that caused continual bleeding. She had spent all her money[3] to pay doctors to help her, but none of them was able to heal her. 44 She came up behind Jesus and touched the edge of his robe. At once her bleeding stopped. 45 Jesus said, "Who touched me?" Everyone around Jesus said that they had not touched him. Peter said, "Master, there are many people crowding around you and pressing up against you. So any one of them might have touched you!" 46 But Jesus said, "I know that someone deliberately touched me, because power has gone out from me to heal that person." 47 Then the woman realized that she could not hide. She came trembling to Jesus and respectfully lay facedown on the ground before him. As the other people were listening, she explained why she had touched Jesus and how she gotten better immediately. 48 And Jesus said to her, "My dear woman, because you believed that I could heal you, you are now well. Now go on your way, and may God's peace be with you."

49 While Jesus was still speaking to the woman, a man from Jairus' house came and said to Jairus, "Your daughter has died. So do not take up any more of the teacher's time." 50 But when Jesus heard that, he said to Jairus, "Do not be afraid. Just believe in me, and she will live again." 51 When he arrived outside the house, Jesus did not allow anyone to go in the house with him except for Peter, John, and James, and the girl's father and mother. 52 And all the people there were loudly demonstrating how sad they were that the girl had died. But Jesus said to them, "Stop crying! She is not dead! She is only sleeping!" 53 And the people laughed at him because they knew that the girl was dead. 54 But Jesus took hold of her hand and called to her, saying, "Child, get up!" 55 And immediately she came back to life and she got up. Jesus told them to give her something to eat. 56 And her parents were amazed, but Jesus told them not to tell anyone else yet what had happened.

9 1 Then Jesus called together his 12 representatives and gave them the right and power to drive out all kinds of demons and to heal people's diseases. 2 He sent them out to announce the good news about how God would rule as king. He told them to heal people who were sick.
3 Before they left, he said to them, "Do not take anything with you for your journey. Do not take a walking stick or a traveler's bag or food or money. Do not bring an extra tunic.

4 Whatever house you enter, stay in that house until you leave that area. 5 If the people in any town do not welcome you, you should not stay there. Instead, leave that town and, as you go, shake its dust off your feet. That will be a warning to them for rejecting you." 6 Then Jesus' disciples left and traveled through many villages. Everywhere they went, they talked to people about the good news from God, and they healed sick people.

7 Herod, the ruler over the district of Galilee, heard about everything that was happening, and he was perplexed. Some people were saying that John the Baptizer had become alive again. 8 Other people were saying that the prophet Elijah had appeared again. Still others were saying that one of the other prophets from long ago had become alive again. 9 But Herod said, "It cannot be John, because I had his head cut off. So who is this man? I keep hearing such amazing things about him!" And he kept looking for a way to see Jesus.

10 When Jesus' representatives returned from their trip, they told Jesus everything that they had done. Then he took them aside to go by themselves with him to the town of Bethsaida. 11 But when the crowds learned where Jesus had gone, they followed him there. He welcomed them and spoke to them about how God was going to rule as king. He also healed those who were sick.

12 Now it was getting late in the day, so Jesus' 12 representatives came to him and said, "Please send this large crowd of people away so that they can go to the surrounding villages and farms to get some food and find places to stay, since we are out here in this isolated place." 13 But he said to them, "You must give them something to eat!" They replied, "All we have are five small loaves of bread and two small fish. We could never go buy enough food for all these people!" 14 They said this because there were about 5,000 men there. Then Jesus said to the disciples, "Have the people sit down in groups. Put about 50 people in each group." 15 So the disciples did that, and the people all sat down. 16 Then Jesus took the five loaves of bread and the two fish. He looked up toward heaven and praised God for them. Then he divided the bread and fish into pieces and gave them to the disciples for them to distribute to the people. 17 They all ate, and everyone had enough to eat. Then the disciples collected the leftover pieces of food, which filled 12 baskets!

18 One day while Jesus was praying in private, with his disciples nearby, he asked them,
"Who do the crowds say that I am?" 19 They replied, "Some people say that you are John the Baptizer, but others say that you are the prophet Elijah, and still others say that you are one of the other prophets from long ago who has come back to life again." 20 He asked them, "What about you? Who do you say that I am?" Peter replied, "You are the Messiah, who has come from God." 21 Then Jesus warned them strongly not to tell that to anyone yet. 22 Then he said, "I, the Son of Man, must suffer many things: The elders, chief priests, and teachers of the Jewish laws will reject me and kill me. Then, on the third day after that, I will come back to life again."

23 Then he said to them all, "If any one of you wants to be my disciple, you must not do only what you want to do. Rather, every day you must be willing to suffer, even to the point of giving up your life. That is how to be my disciple. 24 You must do that because those who try to save their own lives will lose them eternally, but those who give up their lives in order to become my disciples will save their lives eternally. 25 After all, how does it benefit you if you gain everything in this world but you then end up losing, or even destroying, your own self?
26 Suppose someone is afraid to say that they believe in me and that they follow my teaching.
Then, I, the Son of Man, will say that such a person does not belong to me. This will happen when I come back in my glory and in the glory of God the Father and of the holy angels.
27 But you can be sure of this: Some of you who are standing here now will not die until you see God ruling as king!"

28 About eight days after Jesus said those things, he took Peter, John, and James with him and went up onto a mountain to pray there. 29 While he was praying, the appearance of his face became very different, and his clothes began to shine brightly. 30 All at once, two prophets from long ago were there talking with Jesus. They were Moses and Elijah. 31 These men appeared surrounded in glory. They spoke with Jesus about how he was going to die. This was something that was going to happen soon in Jerusalem. 32 Peter and the other disciples who were with him were very sleepy. But when they woke up fully, they saw how brightly Jesus was shining. They also saw Moses and Elijah standing with him. 33 As Moses and Elijah were starting to leave Jesus, Peter said to him, "Master, it is good for us to be here! We should make three shelters, one for you, one for Moses, and one for Elijah!" But he really did not realize what he was saying. 34 As he was saying these things, a cloud formed and covered them. The disciples were afraid as the cloud surrounded them. 35 God's voice spoke to them from the cloud, saying, "This is my Son, whom I have chosen; listen to him!" 36 When the voice had finished speaking, the three disciples saw that only Jesus was there. They kept all this to themselves. For a long time they did not tell anyone what they had seen.

37 The next day, when they had come down from the mountain, a large crowd of people met Jesus. 38 Suddenly a man from the crowd called out, "Teacher, I plead with you, do something to help my son! He is my only child. 39 Here is what is happening. An evil spirit suddenly seizes him and causes him to scream. It shakes him violently and causes him to foam at the mouth. This spirit hardly ever leaves my child and, when it does, it injures him severely. 40 I pleaded with your disciples to command the evil spirit to come out of him, but they were not able to do it!" 41 In response, Jesus said, "This generation of people does not believe, and so its thinking is corrupt! How much longer must I be with you before you believe?" Then he said to the boy's father, "Bring your son here to me!" 42 While they were bringing the boy to him, the demon threw the boy down to the ground and shook him severely. But Jesus rebuked the evil spirit and healed the boy. Then he returned him to his father. 43 Then all the people there were completely amazed at the great power God had shown.

While they were all still marveling at all the miracles Jesus was doing, he said to his disciples, 44 "Listen carefully to what I am about to tell you, because someone will soon hand me, the Son of Man, over to my enemies." 45 But the disciples did not understand what he meant by this. God prevented them from understanding it so that they would not know yet what he meant, and they were afraid to ask him about what he had said.

46 Sometime later, the disciples began to argue among themselves about which one of them would be the most important. 47 But Jesus knew what they were thinking, so he brought a young child over and had the child stand beside him. 48 He said to them, "If someone welcomes a little child like this one because of me, it is the same as welcoming me. And if someone welcomes me, it is the same as welcoming God, who sent me. Remember that those among you who seem to be the least important are the ones whom God considers to be most important."

49 John replied to Jesus, “Master, we saw a man who was using your name to command demons to come out of people. But we told him to stop doing that, because he was not working closely with you the way we are.” 50 But Jesus told John, “Do not stop him from doing that! If someone is not doing something that is harmful to you, then what he is doing is helpful to you!”

51 When it was getting close to the time when God would take him back up to heaven, Jesus firmly resolved to go to Jerusalem. 52 He sent some messengers ahead of him. They traveled on and went into a village in the region of Samaria to try to arrange for him to stay there. 53 But the Samaritans would not let Jesus stay in their village, because he was on his way to Jerusalem. 54 Two of his disciples, James and John, got angry when they saw that the Samaritans were not going to welcome them. So they asked Jesus, “Lord, do you want us to command fire to come down from heaven and destroy these people?” 55 But Jesus turned to them and sternly told them they were wrong to say that. 56 So they went to a different village.

57 As Jesus and the disciples were walking along the road, someone said to him, “I will go with you wherever you go!” 58 Jesus replied, “Foxes have holes in the ground to live in, and birds have nests, but I, the Son of Man, do not have a home to sleep in!” 59 Jesus said to a different person, “Come with me!” But that person said, “Lord, let me first go home and bury my father.” 60 But Jesus said to him, “Let the dead bury their own dead. I want you to go and tell people everywhere that they can have God rule their lives.” 61 Someone else said, “Lord, I will come with you and be your disciple, but first let me go home to say goodbye to my family.” 62 Jesus said to him, “Anyone who is like a farmer who tries to plow his field while looking behind him is not able to serve God as his ruler.”

10 1 After that, Jesus appointed 72 other disciples to go and prepare people to hear him. He sent them out in pairs to go ahead of him to every town and village where he was intending to go himself. 2 He said to them, “Many people are ready to believe in me, but there are only a few of you whom I can send out to help them. So pray to God, who wants all of those people to believe, and plead with him for more disciples who can go and help them. 3 Go now, but remember that I am sending you out to tell my message to people who will be hostile to you.
4 Do not bring along any money. Do not bring a lot of things with you in a pack. Do not bring extra shoes. Do not stop and talk with people along the way. 5 Whenever you enter a house, first say to the people who live there, 'May God bless everyone in this house with peace!' 6 If the people who live there desire God's peace, then they will experience the peace you are offering them. But if they do not desire God's peace, then you will experience that peace yourselves. 7 Stay in that same house until you leave that village. Do not move around from one house to another. Eat and drink whatever they provide for you, because a worker deserves to receive payment for his work. 8 If you enter any town and the people there welcome you, eat whatever food they provide for you. 9 Heal the people in that city who are sick. Tell everyone, 'You are seeing close up what it will be like when God rules everywhere as king.'

10 But if you enter any town and the people there do not welcome you, go into its main streets and say, 11 'As a warning against you, we will wipe off even the dust that sticks to our feet as we are leaving your town. But you must realize that you have seen close up what it will be like when God rules everywhere as king!' 12 I want you to know that at the time when God judges everyone, God will punish the people of that town even more severely than the wicked people who lived long ago in the city of Sodom!

13 How terrible it will be for you people who live in the cities of Chorazin and Bethsaida! I say this because I did great miracles while I was in your cities. If I had performed those same miracles in the ancient cities of Tyre and Sidon, the wicked people who lived there would have been very sorry for their sins. They would have shown this by sitting on the ground wearing coarse clothing and putting ashes on their heads. 14 So when God judges everyone, he will punish you more severely than the wicked people who lived in Tyre and Sidon. 15 I also have something to say to you people who live in the town of Capernaum. You may think that God is going to give you great rewards. No, God is not going to reward you at all!"

16 Jesus also said to the disciples, "Whoever listens to your message is, in effect, listening to me. Whoever rejects your message is, in effect, rejecting me. And whoever rejects me is, in effect, rejecting God who sent me."

17 The 72 people whom Jesus appointed went and did what he told them to do. When they returned, they were very joyful. They said, "Lord, even the demons obeyed us when, by your authority, we commanded them to leave people!" 18 Jesus told them, "While you were away doing that, I saw Satan lose a position of advantage as suddenly and quickly as lightning comes down! 19 Listen! I have given you the power to defeat evil spirits. I have even given you enough power to defeat our enemy, Satan. Nothing will hurt you at all. 20 But do not only rejoice that the evil spirits must obey you. You should rejoice even more that God has written your names in heaven, because that means you will be with God forever."

21 Right then, the Holy Spirit gave Jesus great joy. He said, "God my Father, you are Lord over everything in heaven and on earth. I praise you that you have prevented people who think they are smart from understanding things. Instead, you have revealed them to people who accept your truth as readily as little children do. Yes, Father, you have done that because it pleased you to do so. 22 God, my Father, has given everything to me. Only my Father really knows me, his Son. And only I, his Son, really know my Father. But I do choose to show some people who he is."

23 Then Jesus said, just to his disciples, "God has given you a great gift by letting you see the things that I am doing! 24 I want you to know that many prophets and kings would have liked to see the things that you are seeing me do. But they did not get to see them, because they lived long ago. They would have liked to hear the things that you have been hearing me say. But they did not get to hear them, because they lived long ago."

25 A man who taught Jewish laws was there. He wanted to test Jesus by asking him a difficult question. So he stood up and asked, "Teacher, what do I have to do in order to live with God forever?" 26 Jesus said to him, "You have read what Moses wrote in the laws that God gave him. What do those laws say?" 27 The man replied, "Love the Lord your God with all your heart, with all your soul, with all your strength, and with all your mind. And love your neighbor as much as you love yourself." 28 Jesus told him, "You have answered correctly. If you do all that, you will live with God forever."

29 But the man wanted to show that God would approve of him. So he said to Jesus, "Which people are my neighbors whom I should love?" 30 Jesus replied, "One day, a Jewish man was traveling along the road from Jerusalem to Jericho. Some bandits attacked him. They took away most of the man's clothes and everything else that he had. They beat him until he was almost dead. Then they left him there. 31 It happened that a Jewish priest was going along that road. When he saw that man, instead of helping him, he passed by on the other side of the road. 32 Similarly, a Levite who worked in God's temple also came to that place and saw the man. But he too passed by on the other side of the road. 33 Then a man from the region of Samaria came along that road to where the man was lying. When he saw that man, he pitied him. 34 He went over to him and put some olive oil and wine on his wounds to help heal them. He wrapped strips of cloth around the wounds. Then he put the man on his own donkey and brought him to an inn and took care of him. 35 The next morning he gave two silver coins to the innkeeper and said, 'Take care of this man. If you need to spend more than this amount to care for him, I will pay you back when I return.'" 36 Then Jesus asked, "Three people found the man whom the bandits had attacked. Which one of them would you say was a true neighbor to that man?" 37 The teacher of the law replied, "The one who acted mercifully toward him." Jesus said to him, "That is correct. So you should go and act like that toward anyone who needs your help."

38 As Jesus and his disciples continued to travel, they entered a certain village. There a woman whose name was Martha invited them to come to her house. 39 Her sister, whose name was Mary, sat near Jesus' feet and listened to what he was teaching. 40 But Martha was worrying about preparing the meal for all of them. She went to Jesus and said, "Lord, my sister has left me to prepare everything by myself. You must know that is not fair. Please tell her to help me!" 41 But Jesus replied to her, "Martha, Martha, you are very worried about many things. 42 But the one thing that is really important is to listen to what I am teaching. Because Mary has chosen the best thing to do, I will not tell her to do something else."

11 1 One day Jesus was praying in a certain place. When he finished, one of his disciples said to him, "Lord, teach us how to pray. John the Baptist did that for his own disciples, and we would like you to do that for us." 2 He said to them, "When you pray, say things like this: 'Father, may all people honor your name as holy. May you soon rule all people everywhere. 3 Please give us the food we need each day. 4 Please forgive us for the wrong things that we have done. We ourselves will forgive people for the wrong things they have done to us. Help us to not sin when something tempts us.'"

5 Then he said to them, "Suppose that one of you goes to the house of a friend at midnight. You stand outside and call to him, 'My friend, please lend me three loaves of bread! 6 Another friend of mine who is traveling has just arrived at my house. But I do not have any food ready to serve him!' [7] And suppose that he responds from inside the house, 'Do not bother me! I have already locked the door, and my whole family is in bed. It would be too hard for me to get up and give you something!' [8] I tell you, he may not want to get up and give his friend any food just because he is his friend. But if he keeps on asking, the man inside will certainly get up and give him everything he needs. [9] So I tell you: Keep asking God for the things you need, and he will give them to you. Keep seeking those things from God, and you will receive them. Ask God to make things possible for you, and he will act on your behalf. [10] You should do this because anyone who keeps asking God for the things he needs will receive them. Anyone who seeks those things from God will receive them. If anyone asks God to make things possible for him, God will act on his behalf. [11] Suppose one of you fathers had a son who asked you for a fish to eat. You certainly would not give him a poisonous snake instead! [12] Suppose he asked you for an egg. You certainly would not give him a scorpion instead! [13] Even though you people are sinful, you still know how to give good gifts to your children. So it is even more certain that your Father in heaven will give the Holy Spirit to those who ask him."

[14] One day Jesus was forcing out a demon who was keeping a man from speaking. After Jesus forced the demon out, the man began to talk. This amazed the crowd of people that was there. [15] But some of them said, "It is Beelzebul, the ruler of the demons, who enables this man to force out demons!" [16] Other people there questioned his authority. They demanded that he perform a miracle to prove that God had sent him. [17] But he knew what they were thinking. So he said to them, "If the people in one nation fight against each other, they will destroy their nation. If the people in one household oppose each other, they will destroy their family. [18] Similarly, if Satan and his demons were fighting against each other, his rule over them would certainly not last! I say this because you are saying that I force out demons by the power of the ruler of demons! [19] If it is true that Beelzebul is enabling me to force out demons, it must also be true that he is enabling your disciples to force out demons. But you know that is not true. So your own disciples prove that you are wrong. [20] I must actually be forcing out demons by the power of God. This means that God has begun to rule over you."

[21] Jesus continued, "When a strong man who has many weapons guards his own house, no one can steal the things inside. [22] But when someone else who is stronger attacks that man and subdues him, he takes away the weapons that the man was depending on. Then he can steal anything he wants from that man's house. 23 Anyone who is not supporting me is opposing me. Anyone who is not bringing people to me is sending them away from me."

24 Then Jesus said, "An evil spirit might leave someone and wander around in desolate areas looking for someone else to live in. If it does not find anyone there, it may say, 'I am going to go back to the person I used to live in!' 25 So it goes back and finds that the person is like a house that someone has swept clean and put in order, but which has no one living in it. 26 Then this evil spirit goes and gets seven other spirits that are even more evil than it is. They all enter that person and begin living in him. That person's condition was bad before, and it becomes even worse."

27 When Jesus said that, a woman in the crowd who was listening called out to him loudly, "God is pleased with the woman who gave birth to you and who nursed you!" 28 Then he replied, "God is even more pleased with those who hear his message and obey it!"

29 More and more people were coming to join the crowd around Jesus. He said, "The people living at this time are evil people. They want me to do a miracle to prove that I have come from God. But the only proof they will see is a miracle like the one that happened to Jonah. 30 Long ago God did a miracle for Jonah to show the people living in the city of Nineveh that he had sent him. In the same way, God will do a similar miracle for me, the Son of Man, to show the people living now that he has sent me. 31 Long ago the Queen of Sheba traveled a great distance to hear the wise things that Solomon said. Now someone greater than Solomon is right here with you. But you have not really listened to what I am saying. Therefore, at the time when God judges all people, she will stand up and condemn the people who are living now. 32 The people who lived in the ancient city of Nineveh turned from their sinful ways when Jonah preached to them. And now I, who am greater than Jonah, have come and preached to you. But you have not turned from your sinful ways. Therefore, at the time when God judges all people, the people who lived in Nineveh will stand up and condemn the people who are living now.

33 People who light a lamp do not hide it or put it under a basket. Instead, they put it on a lampstand so that those who enter the room can see the light. 34 Your eye lets light into your body. If your eye is working right, then your whole body will be full of light. But if your eye is not working right, then your body will not get any light. 35 Therefore, be careful not to think that your eye is working right and letting in light if it is actually not working right and not letting in any light. 36 So if light is getting into every part of your body, so that no part of it is in the dark, then all of your body will be full of light. Bright light will shine all over you inside, just as the bright light of a lamp shines all over you outside."

37 After Jesus finished saying those things, a Pharisee invited him to eat a meal with him. So Jesus went into the Pharisee's house and reclined at the table to eat. 38 The Pharisee was surprised when he saw that Jesus did not ritually wash his hands first before eating. 39 Jesus said to him, "You Pharisees wash the outside of cups and dishes before you eat, but within yourselves you are very greedy and wicked. 40 You foolish people! Surely you know that God not only made the outside, but also made the inside! 41 Instead of worrying about dishes being ritually clean, be merciful and give whatever is inside the dishes to people in need. Then both the inside and outside of you will be acceptable to God.

42 But how terrible it will be for you Pharisees! You carefully give to God a tenth of all you have, including even the herbs that you grow in your gardens. But then you do not show God's love or fairness toward others. You should make sure that you do that, in addition to giving to God. 43 How terrible it will be for you Pharisees, because you like to sit in the most important seats in the synagogues, and you like people to greet you with special honor in the marketplaces. 44 How terrible it will be for you, because you are like unmarked graves that people walk over without realizing it and so become ceremonially unclean."

45 One of the teachers of the Jewish laws who were there complained to Jesus, "Teacher, when you say things like that, you are criticizing us too!" 46 But Jesus responded, "How terrible it will also be for you who are teachers of the Jewish laws! I say this because you tell people to follow so many rules, yet you will not do even the smallest thing to help them.
47 How terrible it will be for you, because you construct buildings to mark the graves of the prophets, but your ancestors are the ones who killed them! 48 So when you build these buildings, you are declaring that you approve of what your ancestors did when they killed the prophets. 49 So God, who is very wise, also said, 'I will send prophets and messengers to guide my people. But they will cause them to suffer greatly. They will even kill some of them.'
50 As a result, the people living at this time will be punished for the murder of all the prophets whom people have killed since the world was created. 51 They will be punished for every murder from that of Adam's son Abel, whose brother Cain killed him, right through to the murder of the prophet Zechariah, whom the king's agents killed in the temple between the altar and the holy place. 52 How terrible it will be for you teachers of the Jewish laws. You are keeping people from knowing about God! You do not know God yourselves, and you make things difficult for other people who want to know God better."

53 After Jesus finished saying those things, he left the Pharisee's house. Then the teachers of the Jewish laws and the Pharisees began to act in a very hostile way toward him. They questioned him intensely about many things. 54 They kept listening for him to say something wrong so that they could accuse him of false teaching.

12 1 Meanwhile, many thousands of people gathered around Jesus. There were so many that they were stepping on each other. The first thing he said to his disciples was, "Be careful that you do not become like the Pharisees, who act religious in public but do evil things in secret. 2 It is useless for people to try to keep their sins a secret. Someday God will let everyone know everything people are trying to hide. 3 Someday people will hear publicly everything you have said privately. Someday someone will shout for everyone to hear what you have whispered in your room.

4 My friends, listen carefully! Do not be afraid of people. They can kill you, but they cannot do anything more to you after that! 5 I will tell you whom you should truly be afraid of. You should be afraid of God. Not only does he have the right to cause people to die, he also has the right to throw them into hell afterward! Yes, I tell you, God is the one you should truly be afraid of! 6 Think about the sparrows. They have so little value that you can buy five of them for only two small coins. And yet God never forgets any of them! 7 God even knows how many hairs there are on your head. Do not be afraid, because you are more valuable to God than many sparrows.

8 I tell you also that if people tell others that they are my disciples, then I, the Son of Man, will say to God's angels that those people are my disciples. 9 But if they tell others that they are not my disciples, then I will say to God's angels that those people are not my disciples. 10 I also tell you that if people say bad things about me, the Son of Man, God will forgive them for that. But if people say bad things about the Holy Spirit, God will not forgive them for that.

11 So when people bring you into the synagogues to question you before the religious leaders there and to other people who have power in the country, do not worry about how you will answer them or about what you should say, 12 because the Holy Spirit will tell you at that very time what you should say."

13 Then one of the people in the crowd said to Jesus, "Teacher, tell my brother to divide our father's property with me!" 14 But Jesus replied to him, "Man, no one made me a judge to settle arguments that people have about property!" 15 Then he said to the whole crowd, "Be careful not to be greedy in any way! What matters about a person's life is not how many things he owns."

16 Then Jesus told the crowd this story: "The lands of a certain rich man produced abundant crops. 17 He thought to himself, 'I do not know what to do, because I do not have any place big enough to store all my crops!' 18 Then he thought to himself, 'I know what I will do! I will tear down my grain bins and build larger ones! Then I can store all my grain and other things in the big new bins. 19 Then I will say to myself, "Now I have stored up enough things to last many years. So I will take life easy. I will eat and drink and be happy"' 20 But God said to him, 'You foolish man! Tonight you will die! Then all the things you have saved up for yourself will belong to someone else, not to you!'"

21 Then Jesus ended this illustration by saying, "That is what will happen to those who store up things just for themselves and do not value the things that God considers valuable."

22 Then Jesus said to his disciples, "Here is something you should learn from the story. Do not worry about whether you will have enough food to eat to stay alive or enough clothes to wear to stay warm. 23 After all, your life is more important than the food you eat, and your body is more important than the clothes you put on it. 24 Think about the birds. They do not plant seeds, and they do not harvest crops. They do not have rooms or buildings in which to store crops, but God provides food for them. And you are certainly much more valuable than birds. 25 None of you can add even a minute to his life by worrying about it! 26 So since you cannot even do that small thing, you certainly should not worry about anything else. 27 Think about the way that flowers grow. They do not work to earn money, and they do not make their own clothes. But I tell you that King Solomon, who lived long ago and wore glorious clothes, never dressed as beautifully as a single flower. 28 God makes the plants beautiful, even though they grow for only a short time. Then people cut them down and throw them into the fire. But you are very precious to God. He will care for you even more than he cares for the plants. You should trust God more than you do. 29 As for you, do not wonder about what you will eat and drink, and do not keep worrying about those things. 30 While the people who do not know God all worry about such things, you can be confident that your Father in heaven knows that you need them. 31 Instead, concentrate on what you can do for the kingdom of God. When you do, you can trust God to provide everything you need.

32 So you should not be afraid, my friends. Your Father in heaven wants you to be part of his kingdom and receive all of its benefits. 33 So sell the things you own and give the money to people who need food or clothing or a place to live. Get yourselves wallets that do not wear out. I mean store up treasure in heaven where it will always be safe. There no thief can steal anything and no moths will destroy your clothing. 34 After all, whatever it is that you treasure, that is what you will think about and spend your time on.

35 Always be ready for doing God's work, like people who have put on their work clothes and are keeping the lights on all night. 36 Be ready for me to return, like servants who are waiting for their master to return after being at a wedding feast. They are waiting to open the door for him as soon as he arrives and knocks at the door. 37 It will be very good for those servants if they are awake when their master returns. Let me tell you this: He will reward them by dressing like a servant, telling them to sit down, and serving them a meal. 38 Even if he comes home late in the evening or in the middle of the night, if he finds that his servants are awake and ready for him, he will be very pleased with them. 39 And I want you to consider this: If the owner of a house knew that a thief was coming, and at what time, he would stay awake and not let the thief break into his house. 40 So be ready, because I, the Son of Man, will come again at a time when you do not expect me."

41 Peter asked, "Lord, are you giving this illustration only for us, your disciples? Or is it for the crowd too?" 42 Jesus replied, "I am saying it for everyone who is like a faithful and wise servant who is a manager in his master's house. His master puts him in charge of his other servants, to make sure they get their food at the proper time. 43 If his master comes home and sees that he is doing that work, he will reward that servant. 44 Let me tell you this: The master will put that servant in charge of all he owns. 45 But that servant who was put in charge might say to himself, 'My master is going to be away for a long time.' Then he might start to beat the other servants. He might also start to eat and drink a lot and get drunk. 46 If he does that, his master might return at a time when the servant does not expect him. Then his master will punish him severely and assign him a place with those who do not serve him faithfully. 47 The servant who knew what his master wanted but did not get ready and do it will be severely punished. 48 But every servant who did not know what his master wanted him to do, and then did something wrong, will only get a mild punishment. The master will expect much from all servants to whom he has given much. And the master will expect even more from servants whom he has entrusted with many responsibilities.

49 I came to stir up spiritual passions in people. I wish that they were already acting on them! 50 Soon I must go through terrible suffering. I will continue to be distressed until I finish my suffering. 51 You should know that I did not come so that people would live together peacefully. No, you must understand that instead, people will take sides for and against me. 52 Be prepared, because this is what is going to happen. In a family of five people, some will believe in me and some will not. Three family members will join together against the other two. 53 Family members will conflict. A father will oppose his son, or a son will oppose his father. A mother will oppose her daughter, or a daughter will oppose her mother. A mother-in-law will oppose her daughter-in-law, or a daughter-in-law will oppose her mother-in-law."

54 He also said to the crowds, "When you see a dark cloud forming in the west, you immediately say 'It is going to rain!' and that is what happens. 55 When the wind blows from the south, you say, 'It is going to be a very hot day!' and you are right. 56 You hypocrites! By observing the clouds and the wind, you are able to discern what is happening regarding the weather. You should be able to discern what God is doing at this present time!

57 Each of you ought to decide for yourselves what is right! 58 Here is one thing you should do. You should try to settle things with someone who has accused you while you are still on the way to the court. If he forces you to go to the judge, the judge could decide that you are guilty and turn you over to the court officer. Then that officer will put you in prison. 59 I tell you that if you go to prison, you will never get out of there until you are able to pay every bit of what the judge says you owe."

13 1 At that time, some people who were there in the crowd told Jesus about what had recently happened to some Galileans. Pilate, the Roman governor, had ordered soldiers to kill the Galileans while they were offering sacrifices in the temple in Jerusalem. 2 Jesus replied to them, "Do you think that this happened to those people from Galilee because they were more sinful than all the other Galileans? 3 I assure you, that was not the reason! Instead, God will similarly punish all of you if you do not turn from your sinful behavior. 4 Or what about those 18 people who died when the tower in the neighborhood of Siloam fell on them? Do you think that this happened to them because they were worse sinners than everyone else in Jerusalem? 5 I assure you, that was not the reason! But instead, you need to realize that God will similarly punish all of you if you do not turn from your sinful behavior!"

6 Then Jesus told them this story: "A man planted a fig tree in his garden. Each year he came to pick the figs, but there were always none on it. 7 Then he said to the gardener, 'Look at this tree! I have been looking for fruit on it every year for the past three years, but there have been no figs. Cut it down! It is just using up the nutrients in the soil for nothing!' 8 But the gardener replied, 'Sir, leave it here for another year. I will dig around it and fertilize it. 9 If it has figs on it next year, we can allow it to keep growing! But if it does not bear any fruit by then, you can cut it down.'"

10 On one Jewish day of rest, Jesus was teaching people in one of the synagogues. 11 There was a woman there whom an evil spirit had crippled for 18 years. She was always bent over. She could not stand up straight. 12 When Jesus saw her, he called her over to him. He said to her, "Woman, I have healed you of this illness!" 13 He put his hands on her. Immediately she stood up straight and began praising God! 14 But the leader of the synagogue was angry because Jesus had healed her on the Jewish rest day. So he said to the people, "There are six days each week on which our laws permit people to work. If you need healing, those are the days to come to the synagogue for someone to heal you. Do not come on our day of rest!" 15 Then Jesus replied to him, "You and your fellow religious leaders are hypocrites! Each of you also works on the day of rest sometimes! For example, you untie your ox or donkey to lead it from the stall to a place where it can drink water. 16 This woman is a Jew, descended from Abraham! But Satan has kept her crippled for 18 years, as though he had tied her up! Certainly you would agree that it is right that I free her from this disabling disease, even if I do it on a day of rest!" 17 After he said that, his enemies were ashamed of themselves. But all the other people were happy about all the wonderful things he was doing.

18 Then he said, "I want to explain what it is like when God rules as king. I will give you a picture to help you understand. 19 It is like a tiny mustard seed that a man planted in his field. It grew until it became big, like a tree. It was so big that birds built nests in its branches."

20 Then again he said, "I will tell you in another (way what) it is like when God rules. 21 It is like a little bit of yeast that a woman mixed with about 25 kilograms of flour. That small amount of yeast made the whole batch of dough swell up."

22 Jesus continued traveling toward Jerusalem. He stopped in all the towns and villages along the way and taught the people. 23 Someone asked him, "Lord, will God only save a few people?" Jesus replied so that everyone there could hear, 24 "You need to try hard to enter, because it is very difficult. I tell you that many people will try to get in, but they will not be able to. 25 After the owner of the house gets up and locks the door, you will stand outside and you will knock on the door. And you will beg the owner and say to him, 'Lord, open the door for us!' But he will reply, 'No, I will not open it, because I do not know you, and I do not know where you are from!' 26 Then you will say, 'You must have forgotten that we ate meals with you, and you taught us in the streets of our towns!' 27 But he will say, 'I tell you again, I do not know where you are from. You are all wicked people! Get away from here!'" 28 Then Jesus continued by saying, "You will see Abraham and Isaac and Jacob in the distance. All the prophets who lived long ago will also be there where God rules everything as king. But you will be outside, crying and grinding your teeth in sorrow! 29 But inside there will be people from every part of the world, including many non-Jewish people. They will all celebrate together where God rules everything as king. 30 Think about this: Some people who seem the least important now will be the most important then, and others who seem important now will be the least important then."

31 That same day, some Pharisees came and said to Jesus, “Leave this area, because the ruler Herod Antipas wants to kill you!” 32 He replied to them, “Go and tell that cunning man, who thinks he can hurt me but who really cannot, this message from me: ‘Listen! I am expelling demons and performing miracles now, and I will continue doing so for a short time. After that, I will finish my work.’ 33 But I must also continue my trip to Jerusalem during the coming days, since the Jewish leaders have always acted as if it is not appropriate to kill a prophet in a place other than Jerusalem.

34 Oh, people of Jerusalem! You killed the prophets who lived long ago. Then you killed others whom God sent to you. You killed them by throwing stones at them. Many times I have wanted to gather you together to protect you, as a hen gathers her young chicks under her wings. But you did not want me to do that. 35 Now look! God will no longer protect you, people of Jerusalem. I will also tell you this: I will enter your city only once more. After that, you will not see me until the time when I return, and then you will say about me, ‘May God bless this man who comes with God’s authority!’”

14 1 One day, which was a day of rest, Jesus went to eat at the house of one of the leaders of the Pharisees. This leader had invited other Pharisees to the same meal. They were all watching Jesus carefully to try to find grounds to accuse him. 2 Right there in front of Jesus was a man who had a disease that caused his arms and legs to be very swollen. 3 Jesus asked the experts in Jewish law and the Pharisees who were present, “Is it permitted in the law to heal people on the day of rest, or not?” 4 They did not reply. So Jesus put his hands on the man and healed him. Then he told him he could go. 5 And he said to the others there, “If one of you had a son or an ox that fell into a well on the day of rest, you would pull him out immediately.” 6 Again, they were not able to answer him.

7 Jesus noticed that the people who had been invited to the meal were choosing to sit in the places where important people usually sit. So he gave this advice to them. 8 “When someone invites one of you to a wedding feast, do not sit in a place where important people sit. It may be that he has invited a person who is more important than you to the feast. 9 When the host who invited both of you sees where you are each sitting, he will say to you, ‘Let this person have your seat!’ Then you will have to take the least important seat, and you will be ashamed.

10 Instead, when someone invites you to a feast, go and sit in the least important seat. Then when the host who invited everyone comes, he will say to you, ‘Friend, come sit in a better seat!’ Then all the people who are eating with you will see that he is honoring you. 11 For God will humble those who exalt themselves, and he will exalt those who humble themselves.”

12 Jesus also said to the Pharisee who had invited him to the meal, “When you invite people to a midday or evening meal, do not only invite your friends, relatives, or rich neighbors, since they will later repay you by inviting you for a meal. 13 Instead, when you give a feast, invite poor people, crippled people, lame people or blind people. 14 If you do that, God will reward you, because they will not be able to repay you. You can be sure that God will pay you back at the time when he causes righteous people to become alive again.”

15 One of those who were eating with him heard him say that. He said to Jesus, “God has truly blessed everyone who will get to celebrate where God rules everything as king!” 16 Jesus replied to him, “One time a man decided to prepare a large feast. He invited many people to come. 17 When it was time for the feast, he sent his servant to tell those whom he had invited, ‘Come now, because everything is ready!’ 18 But when the servant did that, all of the people whom he had invited began to say why they could not come. The first man to whom the servant went said, ‘I have just bought a field, and I must go there and see it. Please ask your master to forgive me for not coming!’ 19 Another person said, ‘I have just bought five pairs of oxen, and I must go to examine them. Please ask your master to forgive me for not coming!’ 20 Another person said, ‘I have just gotten married, so I cannot come.’ 21 So the servant returned to his master and reported what everyone had said. The owner of the house was angry and said to his servant, ‘Go out quickly to the streets and alleys of the city and find poor and crippled and blind and lame people, and bring them here into my house!’ 22 After the servant went out and did that, he came back and said, ‘Sir, I have done what you told me to do, but there is still room for more people.’ 23 So his master said to him, ‘Then go outside the city. Search for people along the highways. Search also along the narrow roads with hedges. Strongly urge the people in those places to come to my house. I want it to be full of people! 24 Moreover I tell you this, those men whom I invited first will not get to enjoy my feast, because they refused to come.’”

25 A large crowd of people was traveling with Jesus. He turned toward the people and said to them, 26 "If anyone comes to me who loves his father and mother and wife and children and brothers and sisters more than he loves me, he can not be my disciple. He must even love me more than he loves his own life! 27 Whoever does not carry his own cross and does not obey me cannot be my disciple. 28 After all, if one of you wanted to build a tower, you would first sit down and determine how much it would cost. That way you would know whether you had enough money to finish it. 29 Otherwise, if you laid the foundation and were not able to finish the rest of the tower, everyone who saw it would make fun of you. 30 They would say, 'This man started to build a tower, but he was not able to finish it!' 31 Or suppose a king had 10,000 soldiers in his army. And suppose another king who had 20,000 soldiers was coming to attack him. Before sending his army out to battle, that first king would certainly sit down with his advisors to determine whether he could defeat the other king's army. 32 Suppose he decided his army could not defeat the other army. Then he would send messengers to the other king while his army was still far away. He would tell the messengers to ask, 'What must I do to have peace with you?' 33 So, similarly, if any one of you does not first decide that you are willing to give up all that you have, you cannot be my disciple."

34 Jesus also said, "You are like salt, which is very useful. But if salt were to lose its saltiness, no one could ever make it taste salty again. 35 If salt does not taste salty anymore, it is no longer any good even for the soil or the manure heap. People just throw it away. You should think carefully about what you just heard me say!"

15 1 Now, many tax collectors and other people whom the religious leaders considered to be sinners kept coming to Jesus to listen to him teach. 2 When the Pharisees and teachers of the Jewish laws saw this, they began to grumble. They said, "This man welcomes sinners and even eats with them." They thought Jesus was defiling himself by doing that. 3 So Jesus told them this parable: 4 "Suppose that one of you had 100 sheep and you lost one of them.
Certainly you would leave the 99 other sheep in the wilderness and go search for the lost sheep until you had found it. 5 When you found it, you would joyfully put it on your shoulders to carry it home. 6 Then when you arrived home, you would call together your friends and neighbors and say to them: 'Be joyful with me, because I have found my sheep that was lost!'

7 You should know that, in a similar way, there is great joy among those in heaven when one sinner repents from his sins. That joy is greater than their joy over many people who are already right with God and do not need to repent.

8 Or suppose that a woman had ten valuable silver coins but lost one of them. Certainly she would light a lamp and sweep the floor and search carefully until she found it. 9 When she found it, she would call together her friends and neighbors and say to them, 'Be very happy with me, because I have found the coin that I lost!' 10 I tell you that, in a similar way, there is much joy among the angels of God when one sinner repents from his sins."

11 Then Jesus continued and said, "There once was a man who had two sons. 12 One day the younger son said to his father, 'Father, give me now the share of your property that I would otherwise have received when you died.' So the father divided his property between his two sons. 13 Only a few days later, the younger son gathered together all that he owned and traveled to a country far away. There in that country he spent all his money foolishly in wasteful, immoral living. 14 After he had spent all his money, there was a severe famine throughout that country. Soon he did not have anything left to live on. 15 So he went to a man who lived in that country and asked him to hire him. So the man sent him out to his fields to feed his pigs. 16 He became so hungry that he wished he could eat the bean pods that the pigs ate, yet no one gave him anything. 17 Finally he began to think clearly about how foolish he had been, and he said to himself: 'All of my father's hired servants have more than enough food to eat, but here I am dying because I do not have anything to eat! 18 So I will leave here and go back to my father. I will say to him, "Father, I have sinned against God and against you.
19 I do not deserve to have you consider me your son any more. Please let me work for you as one of your hired servants."' 20 So he left there and started traveling back to his father's house.
But while he was still a great distance from the house, his father saw him and felt deep compassion for him. He ran to his son and embraced him and kissed him on the cheek. 21 His son said to him, 'Father, I have sinned against God and against you. So I do not deserve to have you consider me your son any more.' 22 But his father said to his servants; 'Go quickly and bring my best robe and put it on my son. Also put a ring on his finger and shoes on his feet! 23 And bring the calf that we have fattened for a special occasion and kill it, so that we can eat it and celebrate! 24 We need to celebrate because this son of mine was like a dead man, but he is now alive again! He was like a lost person, but we have found him again!' So they all began to celebrate.

25 While all that was happening, the father's older son was out working in the fields. After he finished working, he headed home. As he was getting close to the house, he heard people playing music and dancing. 26 He called for one of the servants and asked what was happening. 27 The servant said to him, 'Your brother has come home. Your father told us to kill the fattened calf to celebrate because your brother returned safe and healthy.' 28 But the older brother was angry and did not want to join the celebration. So his father came out and pleaded with him to come in. 29 But he replied to his father, 'Listen! For all these years I have worked as hard as a slave for you. I have always obeyed everything you told me to do. But you have never given me so much as a young goat that I could use to host a feast for my friends. 30 But now that this son of yours has come back home, after wasting all your money on prostitutes, you have told your servants to kill the fattened calf for a celebration!' 31 But his father said to him, 'My son, you are always with me, and all that I own is yours. 32 But it is right for us to celebrate and rejoice, because it is as though your brother was dead and is alive again! It is as though he was lost and we have him found again!'"

16 1 Jesus also said to his disciples, "Once there was a rich man who had a household manager. One day someone informed the rich man that the manager was doing such a bad job that the rich man was losing lots of money. 2 So he called the manager to come to him and said to him, 'What I hear you have been doing is terrible! Give me a final written report of the things you have been managing, because you will no longer be my household manager!' 3 Then the manager said to himself, 'My master is going to dismiss me from being his manager, so I have to think of what to do. I am not strong enough to work by digging ditches, and I am ashamed to beg for money. 4 I know what I will do so that people will take me into their houses and provide for me after he dismisses me from my management work!' 5 So he asked everyone who owed his master money to come to him one by one. He asked the first one, 'How much do you owe my master?' 6 The man replied, '3,000 liters of olive oil.' The manager said to him, 'Take your bill, sit down, and quickly change it to 1,500 liters!' 7 He said to another man, 'How much do you owe?' The man replied, '1,000 baskets of wheat.' The manager said to him, 'Take your bill and change it to 800 baskets!' 8 When the master heard what his manager had done, he praised the dishonest manager for being so clever. The truth is, the people who belong to this world are more clever than the people who belong to God in how they relate to those around them. 9 I tell you, use the money you have in this world to make friends for yourselves. Then when that money is gone, those friends will welcome you into their homes, which will last forever. 10 People who faithfully manage small amounts of money will also be honest with much greater amounts. People who are dishonest in the way they manage small amounts of money will also be dishonest with much greater amounts. 11 So if you have not faithfully handled the money God has given you in this world, he will certainly not trust you with the true riches of heaven. 12 If you have not faithfully managed property that belongs to other people, you should not expect anyone to give you property of your own.

13 No servant is able to serve two different masters at the same time. If he tried to do that, he would hate one of them and love the other one, or he would be loyal to one of them and despise the other one. You cannot devote your life to serving God if you are also devoting your life to acquiring money and other material possessions."

14 When the Pharisees who were there heard what Jesus was teaching, they made fun of him because they loved to acquire money. 15 But Jesus said to them, "You try to make other people think that you are righteous, but God knows what you are really like. Keep in mind that God considers to be detestable many things that people praise as very important.

16 The laws that God gave Moses and the things that the prophets wrote were in effect until John the Baptizer came. Since then, I have been preaching the good news about how God will rule as king. Many people are accepting my message and are very eagerly trying to become part of the kingdom of God. 17 All of God's laws, even those that seem insignificant, are more permanent than heaven and earth.

18 Any man who divorces his wife and marries another woman is committing adultery, and any man who marries a woman whose husband has divorced her is also committing adultery."

19 Jesus also said, "Once there was a rich man who wore expensive purple and linen clothes. Every day he gave lavish feasts. 20 And every day people laid a poor man whose name was Lazarus at the gate of the rich man's house. Lazarus' body was covered with sores. 21 He was so hungry that he wanted to eat the scraps of food that fell from the table where the rich man ate. While he was lying there, dogs came and licked his sores. 22 Eventually the poor man died. Then the angels took him to be with his ancestor Abraham. The rich man also died, and people buried his body. 23 In the place of the dead, the rich man was suffering great pain. He looked up and saw Abraham far away and Lazarus sitting very close to Abraham. 24 So the rich man shouted, 'Father Abraham, I am suffering very much in this fire! So please pity me and send Lazarus here so that he can dip his finger in water and touch my tongue to cool it!' 25 But Abraham replied, 'Child, remember that while you were alive on earth you enjoyed many good things. But Lazarus was miserable. Now he is happy here, and you are suffering. 26 Besides that, God has placed a huge ravine between you and us. So those who want to go from here to you there are not able to. Furthermore, no one can cross from there to where we are, either.' 27 Then the rich man said, 'If that is so, Father Abraham, I ask you to send Lazarus to my family home. 28 I have five brothers who live there. Tell him to warn them so that they do not also come to this place where we suffer great pain!' 29 But Abraham replied, 'No, I will not do that because your brothers have what Moses and the prophets wrote long ago. They should obey what they wrote!' 30 But the rich man replied, 'No, Father Abraham, that will not be enough! But if someone from those who have died goes back to them and warns them, they will turn from their sinful behavior.' 31 Abraham said to him, 'So they would not obey what Moses and the prophets wrote. Then it would not help even if someone from among the people who have died went and warned them. They would still not believe that they should turn from their sinful behavior.'"

17 1 Jesus said to his disciples, "Things that tempt people to sin will certainly happen. But how terrible it will be for anyone who causes those things to happen! 2 It would be better for that person if someone fastened a huge stone around his neck and threw him into the sea than if he were to cause someone to sin whose faith was weak. 3 Be careful how you act. If another believer sins, you should rebuke him. If he says that he is sorry for having sinned and asks you to forgive him, then you should forgive him. 4 Even if he sins against you seven times in one day, if he comes to you each time and says, 'I am sorry for what I did,' you must continue forgiving him."

5 Then the representatives said to Jesus, "Give us more faith!" 6 Jesus replied, "Even if you had faith that was no bigger than this tiny mustard seed, you could say to this mulberry tree, ‘Pull yourself out of the ground, roots and all, and plant yourself in the sea,’ and it would obey you!”

7 Jesus also said, “Suppose that one of you had a servant who was plowing your fields or taking care of your sheep. After he came into the house from the field, you would not say, ‘Come immediately and sit down to eat!’ 8 Instead, you would say to him, ‘Prepare a meal for me! Then put on your serving clothes and serve it to me so that I can eat and drink! Afterwards you can eat and drink.’ 9 You would not thank your servant just for doing the work that he had been told to do! 10 Similarly, when you have done everything that God has told you to do, you should say, ‘We are only God’s servants. We do not deserve to have you thank us. We have only done the things that he told us to do.’”

11 As Jesus and his disciples were walking along the road to Jerusalem, they were going through the area between the regions of Samaria and Galilee. 12 As Jesus entered a village, ten lepers came toward him, but they stood at some distance away. 13 They called out, “Jesus, Master, please have pity on us!” 14 When Jesus saw them, he said to them, “Go and have the priests examine you.” So they went, and on the way, their leprosy disappeared. 15 Then one of them, when he saw that he no longer had leprosy, went back, praising God loudly. 16 He came to Jesus and he lay down on the ground with his face at Jesus’ feet, and he thanked him. This man was a Samaritan. 17 Then Jesus said, “I healed ten lepers! I would have expected the other nine to come back as well! 18 This foreign man was the only one who returned to thank God. None of the others came back!” 19 Then he said to the man, “Get up and go on your way. God has healed you because you trusted in me.”

20 One day some Pharisees asked Jesus, “When will God begin to rule everyone?” He replied, “That will not happen with signs that people can recognize if they watch for them. 21 People will not be able to say, ‘Look! God is ruling here!’ or ‘God is ruling there!’ Contrary to what you think, God has already begun to rule within you.”

22 Jesus said to his disciples, “There will be a time when you will want to see me, the Son of Man, ruling powerfully. But you will not see that. 23 People will say to you, ‘Look, the Messiah is over there!’ or they will say, ‘Look, he is here!’ When they say that, do not follow them. 24 For when the lightning flashes and lights up the sky from one side to the other, everyone can see it. Similarly, when I, the Son of Man, come back again, everyone will see me.

25 But before that happens, I must suffer in many ways, and people will reject me. 26 But when I, the Son of Man, come again, people will be doing things just like people were doing at the time when Noah lived. 27 At that time people ate and drank as usual, and they got married as usual, up until the day when Noah and his family entered the big boat. But then the flood came and destroyed all those who were not in the boat. 28 Similarly, when Lot lived in the city of Sodom, people there ate and drank as usual. They bought things and they sold things. They planted crops and they built houses as usual. 29 But on the day that Lot left Sodom, fire and burning sulfur came down from the sky and destroyed all those who had stayed in the city.
30 Similarly, when I, the Son of Man, return to earth, people will be unprepared. 31 On that day, those who are outside their houses, with all the things that they own inside the houses, must not take the time to go inside and get them. Similarly, those who are out working in a field must not come back home to get anything. They must flee quickly. 32 Remember what happened to Lot's wife! 33 Anyone who continues in his own way of living will die. But anyone who leaves his old way of living for my sake will live forever. 34 I tell you this: On the night when I return, there will be two people sleeping in one bed. God will take the one who believes in me and leave the other one behind. 35 Two women will be grinding grain together.
God will take one of them and leave the other one behind." 36 4 ["There will be two in the field; one will be taken and the other left."] 37 His disciples said to him, "Lord, where will this happen?" He replied to them, "Wherever there is a dead body, the vultures will gather to eat it."

18 1 Jesus told his disciples another story to teach them that they should pray continually and not become discouraged if God did not immediately answer their prayers. 2 He said, "In a certain city there was a judge who did not revere God and did not care about people. 3 There was a widow in that city who kept coming to that judge, saying, 'Please get justice for me against the man who is opposing me in court.' 4 For a long time the judge refused to help her.
But later, he said to himself, 'I do not revere God and I do not care about people. 5 But this widow keeps bothering me! So I will judge her case and make sure she is treated fairly. I am concerned that if I do not do that, she will exhaust me by continually coming to me!'" 6 Then Jesus said, "Think carefully about what the unjust judge said. 7 Even more certainly will God, who is just, bring about justice for his chosen people, who pray earnestly to him all day long! And he is always patient with them. 8 I tell you, God will quickly bring about justice for his chosen ones! Nevertheless when I, the Son of Man, come back to earth, there will still be many people who do not believe in me."

9 Then Jesus also told the following story to some people who thought they were righteous and who looked down on other people. 10 He said, "Two men went up to the temple in Jerusalem to pray. One of the men was a Pharisee. The other man was someone who collected taxes from the people for the Roman government. 11 The Pharisee stood and prayed about himself in this way, 'O God, I thank you that I am not like other people. Some steal money from others. Some treat others unjustly. Some commit adultery. I do not do any of those things. And I am certainly not like this sinful tax collector who cheats people! 12 I fast on two days during every week, and I give ten percent of all that I earn to the temple!' 13 But the tax collector stood far away from the other people in the temple courtyard. He would not even look up toward heaven. Instead, he beat on his chest and said, 'O God, please forgive me, because I am a terrible sinner!'" 14 Then Jesus said, "I tell you that as they left to go home, God had forgiven the tax collector, but God had not forgiven the Pharisee. This is because God will humble everyone who exalts himself, and God will exalt everyone who humbles himself."

15 One day people were bringing even their babies to Jesus so that he would put his hands on them and bless them. When the disciples saw this, they told them not to do that. 16 But Jesus called for the children to be brought to him. He said, "Let the little children come to me! Do not stop them, because it is humble and trusting people like these children who let God rule their lives. 17 Indeed, I say to you that whoever will not humbly and trustingly let God rule over his life will not accept God's rule at all."

18 Once a Jewish leader asked Jesus, "Good teacher, what must I do in order to have everlasting life?" 19 Jesus said to him, "Why do you call me good? God is the only one who is truly good!

20 In answer to your question, certainly you know the commandments that God gave to Moses for us to obey: 'Do not commit adultery. Do not murder anyone. Do not steal. Do not give a false report. Honor your father and mother.'" 21 The man said, "I have obeyed all those commandments ever since I was young.” 22 When Jesus heard him say that, he replied to him, “You still need to do one more thing. Sell all that you own. Then give the money to people who have very little to live on. The result will be that you will have spiritual riches in heaven. Then come and be my disciple!” 23 The man became very sad when he heard that, because he was extremely rich. 24 When Jesus looked at the man and said, “It is very difficult for those who are wealthy to let God rule over them. 25 In fact, it is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle than for rich people to let God rule their lives.” 26 Those who heard Jesus say that replied, “Then it seems that God will not consider that anyone should have eternal life!” 27 But Jesus said, “What is impossible for people is possible for God.” 28 Then Peter said, “What about us? We have left everything we had in order to become your disciples.” 29 Jesus said to them, “I can assure you that those who have left their homes, their wives, their brothers, their parents, or their children in order to let God rule over them 30 will receive in this life many times as much as they left behind and, in the coming age, they will receive everlasting life.”

31 Jesus took his 12 representatives to a place by themselves. He said to them, “Listen carefully! We are on our way to Jerusalem. While we are there, everything that the prophets wrote long ago about me, the Son of Man, will happen. 32 This will happen when my enemies turn me over to the authorities who are not Jews. They will mock me, treat me with disdain, and spit on me. 33 They will whip me and then they will kill me. But two days later I will become alive again.” 34 But the disciples did not understand any of those things that he said. God prevented them from recognizing their significance, so they did not know what Jesus meant by what he was telling them.

35 As Jesus and his disciples came near to the city of Jericho, a blind man was sitting beside the road. He was begging for money. 36 When he heard a crowd of people passing by, he kept asking those around him, “What is happening?” 37 They told him, “There is a crowd because Jesus, the man from the town of Nazareth, is coming down the street.” 38 He shouted, “Jesus, you who are descended from King David, have pity on me!” 39 Those who were walking at the front of the crowd scolded him and told him to be quiet. But he shouted even more loudly, “You who are descended from King David, have pity on me!” 40 Jesus stopped walking and commanded the people to bring the man to him. When the blind man came near,

Jesus asked him, [41] "What do you want me to do for you?" He replied, "Lord, I want you to enable me to see!" [42] Jesus said to him, "Then I now restore your sight! Because you have trusted in me, I have healed you!" [43] Immediately he was able to see. And he went with Jesus, praising God. And when all the people there saw this, they also praised God.

19 [1] Jesus entered Jericho and was going through the city. [2] There was a man there named Zacchaeus. He was in charge of collecting taxes, and he was very rich. [3] He wanted to see Jesus, but he could not see him over the crowd. He was a very short man and there were many people around Jesus. [4] So he ran farther down the road. He climbed a sycamore fig tree so he could see Jesus when he came by. [5] When Jesus got there, he looked up and said to him, "Zacchaeus, come down quickly, I have to stay at your house tonight!" [6] So he came down quickly. He was glad to welcome Jesus into his home. [7] But the people who saw Jesus go there grumbled, saying, "He has gone to be the guest of a real sinner!" [8] Then Zacchaeus stood up while they were eating and said to Jesus, "Lord, I want you to know that I am going to give half of what I own to poor people. And as for the people whom I have cheated, I will pay them back four times the amount I took from them." [9] Jesus said to him, "Today God has saved this household, because this man has shown that he is a true descendant of Abraham. [10] Remember this: I, the Son of Man, came to find and save people like you who have been disobeying God."

[11] The people were listening to everything Jesus said. He was getting close to Jerusalem, and he knew that the people had a wrong idea. They thought he would begin to rule as king over God's people as soon as he got to Jerusalem. So Jesus decided to tell them another story to correct that idea. [12] He said, "A prince was preparing to go to a distant country so that a higher king could give him the right to rule over the country where he lived. After he received it, he would come back to rule his people. [13] Before he left, he summoned ten of his servants. He gave each of them an equal amount of money. He said to them, 'Do business with this money until I return!' Then he left. [14] But many people of his country hated him. So they sent some messengers to follow him and say to the higher king, 'We do not want this man to be our king!' [15] But he was made king anyway. Later he returned as the new king. Then he called in the servants to whom he had given the money. He wanted to know how much they had gained by doing business with the money he had given them. [16] The first servant came to him and said,

‘Sir, with your money I have earned ten times as much!’ 17 He said to this man, ‘You are a good servant! You have done very well! Because you have faithfully taken care of a small amount of money, I will give you ten cities to rule over.’ 18 Then the second servant came and said, ‘Sir, the money you gave me is now worth five times as much!’ 19 He also said to that servant, ‘Well done! I will put you over five cities.’ 20 Then another servant came. He said, ‘Sir, here is your money. I wrapped it up in a cloth and hid it to keep it safe. 21 I was afraid that you would take everything I earned. I know you are a hard man who takes things from others that do not really belong to you. You are like a farmer who harvests grain that another farmer has planted.’ 22 He said to that servant, ‘You wicked servant! I will condemn you by the words you just said. You said I am a hard man. You said I take what does not belong to me. You said I am like a farmer who harvests what another farmer has planted. 23 So you should at least have given my money to money lenders! Then when I returned I could have collected that amount plus the interest it would have earned!’ 24 Then the king said to those who were standing near, ‘Take the money from him and give it to the servant who made ten times as much!’ 25 They protested, ‘But sir, he already has a lot of money!’ 26 But the king said, ‘I tell you this: To the people who use well what they have received, I will give even more. But from the people who do not use well what they have received, I will take away even what they already have. 27 Now, as for those enemies of mine who did not want me to rule over them, bring them here and execute them while I am watching!’”

28 After Jesus said those things, he traveled farther along on the road up to Jerusalem. 29 When they got close to the villages of Bethphage and Bethany, near the Mount of Olives, he sent two of his disciples on ahead. 30 He told them, “Go to the village just ahead of you. As you enter it, there you will see a young donkey tied up that no one has ever ridden. Untie it and bring it to me. 31 If anyone asks you, ‘Why are you untying the donkey?’ say to him, ‘Jesus needs it.’” 32 So the two disciples went to the village and found the donkey, just as Jesus had told them. 33 As they were untying it, its owners said to them, “Why are you untying our donkey?” 34 They replied, “Jesus needs it.” And the owners gave them permission to use it. 35 Then the disciples brought the donkey to Jesus. They threw their robes on the donkey’s back and helped Jesus get on it. 36 Then, as he rode along, others spread their robes on the road in front of him to honor him. 37 As Jesus approached the road that goes down from the Mount of Olives, the whole crowd of his disciples began to praise God with loud, joyful shouts for all the great miracles that they had seen him do. 38 They were saying things like, "May God bless our king who comes with God's authority! May there be peace between God in heaven and us his people, and may everyone praise God!" 39 Some of the Pharisees who were in the crowd said to him, "Teacher, tell your disciples to stop saying those things!" 40 He replied, "I tell you this: If these people were silent, the stones themselves would shout to praise me!"

41 When Jesus came near to Jerusalem and saw the city, he cried about its people. 42 He said, "I wish that today you people knew how to have God's peace. But now you are unable to know this. 43 I want you to know this: You are going to experience difficult times. Your enemies will come and set up a barricade around your city. They will surround the city and attack it on all sides. 44 They will break through the walls and destroy them and the rest of the city. They will kill all of you. They will completely demolish everything. All this will happen because you did not recognize the time when God came to save you!"

45 Jesus entered Jerusalem and went into the temple courtyard. He began to force the people who were selling things there to leave. 46 He told them, "The Scriptures say, 'God's temple should be a place where people pray.' But you have made it 'a hideout for thieves'!"

47 Each day during that week, Jesus was teaching people at the temple. The chief priests, the teachers of religious laws, and other Jewish leaders were trying to find a way to kill him. 48 But they did not find any way to do it, because very many people were eager to hear him.

20 1 One day during that week, Jesus was teaching the people at the temple and telling them God's good message. As he was doing that, the chief priests, the teachers of the Jewish laws, and some other elders came to him. 2 They said to him, "Tell us, what right do you have to do these things? And who gave you this right?" 3 He replied, "I will also ask you a question. Tell me 4 about John baptizing people: Did God command him to baptize or did humans command him?" 5 They discussed this among themselves. They said, "If we answer, 'God commanded him,' then he will say, 'So why did you not believe him?' 6 But if we say, 'It was only humans who told him to baptize,' the people will stone us to death, because most of them believe that John was a prophet whom God sent." [7] So they replied that they did not know who told John to baptize. [8] Then Jesus said to them, "Just as you will not tell me, I will not tell you who sent me to do those things."

[9] Then Jesus told the people this parable: "A man planted a vineyard. He rented the vineyard to some people who would take care of it. Then he went to another country and stayed there for a long time. [10] When it was time to harvest the grapes, this owner sent a servant to the people who were taking care of the vineyard. He wanted them to give him his share of the grapes that the vineyard had produced. But after the servant arrived, they beat that servant and sent him away without giving him any grapes. [11] Later, the owner sent another servant, but they also beat and shamed that servant. They sent him away without any grapes. [12] Still later, the owner sent yet another servant. The farmers wounded this servant too and forced him to leave the vineyard. [13] So the owner of the vineyard said to himself, 'What should I do now? I will send my son, whom I love very much. They will probably respect him.' [14] So he sent his son, but when the people who were caring for the vineyard saw him coming, they said to each other, 'Here comes the man who will some day inherit this vineyard! Let us kill him! Then the vineyard will be ours!' [15] So they dragged him outside the vineyard, and they killed him. I will tell you what the owner of the vineyard will do to them! [16] He will come and kill those people who were taking care of the vineyard. Then he will arrange for other people to take care of it." When the people listening to Jesus heard this, they said, "May a situation like this never happen!" [17] But Jesus looked directly at them and said, "You can say that, but think about the meaning of these words that are written in the Scriptures.

> 'The stone that the builders rejected has become the most important stone in the building.

[18] This stone will break to pieces everyone who falls on it, and it will crush anyone on whom it falls.'"

[19] The chief priests and the teachers of the Jewish laws realized that he was accusing them when he told the story about those wicked people. So they immediately tried to find a way to arrest him. But they did not arrest him, because they were afraid of what the people would do if they did so. [20] So they watched him carefully. They also sent spies to talk to Jesus who pretended to be sincere, but who really wanted to get Jesus to say something wrong. They wanted to be able to accuse him of encouraging resistance to the Roman government so that they could turn him over to the governor of the province. 21 One of them said to him, “Teacher, we know that you speak and teach what is right. You do that even if important people do not like it. You teach truthfully what God wants us to do. 22 So tell us what you think about this matter. Is it right for us to pay taxes to the Roman government, or not?” 23 But he knew that they were trying to trick him to get him into trouble either with the Jews, who hated to pay those taxes, or with the Roman government. So he said to them, 24 “Show me a Roman coin. Then tell me whose picture and name are on it.” So they showed him a coin and said, “It has the picture and name of Caesar.” 25 He said to them, “In that case, give to the government what belongs to it, and give to God what belongs to him.” 26 The spies could find nothing wrong with anything that Jesus said while the people were standing around him. The spies were so amazed at his answer that they did not say anything more.

27 After that, some Sadducees came to Jesus. Their group of Jews taught that no one would rise from the dead. They also intended to ask Jesus a challenging question. 28 One of them said to him, “Teacher, Moses taught us Jews what to do if a man dies who has a wife but no children. His brother should marry the widow so that she can have a child by him. People will then consider that child a descendant of the man who died. 29 Well, there were seven brothers in one family. The oldest one married a woman, but before she had any children, he died, leaving her as a widow. 30 The second brother followed this law and married the widow, but the same thing happened to him. 31 Then the third brother married her, but the same thing happened again. In the end, all seven brothers, one by one, married that woman but died without having any children. 32 Afterwards, the woman died, too. 33 Therefore, if it is true that there will be a time when people who have died will become alive again, whose wife do you think that woman will be then? Keep in mind that she was married to all seven brothers!” 34 Jesus replied to them, “In this world, men marry women, and parents give daughters in marriage to men. 35 But the people whom God will consider worthy of being in heaven when he brings them back to life after they have died will not marry. 36 They do not marry because they cannot die anymore. Rather, they are like the angels who live forever. They are God’s children, since God has made them alive again after they have died. 37 Now that I have answered your question about marriage, I will show from Scripture that God does make people alive again after they have died. Even Moses wrote about this. In the place where he describes meeting God at the burning bush, he records how the Lord called himself 'the God of Abraham and the God of Isaac and the God of Jacob.' God would not have said that if he had not made those men alive again and he were not still their God. 38 After all, he is not the God of people who are dead. He is the God of people who are alive, because to God, everyone remains alive even after they die."

39 Some of the teachers of the Jewish law who were there replied, "Teacher, you have answered very well!" 40 The scribes said this because the people who had been trying to trap Jesus had stopped asking him difficult questions. He had answered so well that they were afraid to ask him anything else.

41 So in return, Jesus asked them a difficult question of his own. He said, "Why do people say that the Messiah is only a descendant of King David? 42 Consider that David himself wrote in the Book of Psalms about the Messiah,

'God said to my Lord,
"Sit here next to me on my right side, in that position of great honor.
43 Sit here while I completely defeat your enemies."'

44 In this psalm, King David calls the Messiah 'my Lord.' That is a title of great respect. So how could the Messiah be David's descendant? It is the descendant who should show great respect to the ancestor."

45 Then, while all the other people were listening, Jesus said to his disciples, 46 "Make sure that you do not act like the men who teach our Jewish laws. They like to put on long robes and walk around to make people think that they are very important. They also like people to greet them respectfully in the marketplaces. They like to sit in the most important seats in the synagogues. At dinner parties they like to sit in the places for the most honored people.
47 They also steal all the property of widows. But to make other people think that they are righteous, they pray for a long time in public. God will condemn them strictly for what they have done."

21 1 Then Jesus looked up from where he was sitting and saw rich people putting their gifts of money into the offering boxes in the temple courtyard. 2 He also saw a poor widow put two small copper coins into one of the boxes. 3 And he said to his disciples, “The truth is that this poor widow has put more into the offering box than all of these rich people. 4 Let me tell you why that is true. All those rich people gave a lot of money, but it was extra money that they did not really need. But this widow, who is very poor, gave all the money that she had, even though she really did need it to live on.”

5 Some of Jesus’ disciples were talking about how the temple was adorned with beautiful stones and decorations that people had given. But Jesus said, 6 “Let me tell you what is going to happen to these things that you are admiring. Someday your enemies will demolish them entirely.”

7 Then they asked him, “Teacher, when will these things happen? And what will show that these things are about to take place?” 8 Jesus replied, “Do not let anyone mislead you. For many people will come and each will claim to be me. Each will say about himself, ‘I am the Messiah!’ They will also say, ‘The time is almost here when God will rule as king!’ Do not believe what they are saying! 9 Also, you will hear about wars and people fighting each other.
Things like that must happen before the end of the world comes. So when you hear about those things, do not be afraid.

10 Various people groups will attack each other, and the people of different kingdoms will fight each other. 11 And in various places there will be great earthquakes. There will also be famines and terrible diseases. Many things will happen that will cause people to be very afraid.
People will see strange things in the sky that will show that something very important is going to happen. 12 But before all these things happen, your enemies will seize you and treat you badly.
They will bring you to the synagogues, whose judges will put you on trial and put you in the prisons. Your enemies will also have kings and high government authorities put you on trial because you believe in me. 13 That will be a time for you to tell them the truth about me.
14 So resolve firmly not to worry ahead of time about what you will say to defend yourselves, 15 because I will give you the right words so that you will know what to say. As a result, none of the people accusing you will be able to say that you are wrong. 16 And even your parents and brothers and sisters and other relatives and friends will betray you, and they will kill some of you. 17 Most people will hate you because you believe in me. 18 But your entire being will be safe spiritually. 19 If you go through difficult times and prove that you trust God, after you die your souls will live on in God's presence.

20 When you see armies surround the city of Jerusalem, then you will know that they will soon destroy that city. 21 At that time those of you who are in other places in the province of Judea must escape to the mountains. And those of you who are in this city must leave. Those of you who are in the nearby countryside must not come into the city. 22 You should run away because God will punish the city of Jerusalem at this time. When he does that, what God has said in the Scriptures about this will come true. 23 When this happens, how terrible it will be for pregnant women and for those who are nursing their babies. There will be great suffering in the land. God will be angry with these people and punish them severely. 24 Many of them will die because soldiers will kill them with their weapons. Their enemies will take others as prisoners and send them to many places around the world. The Gentiles will control the city of Jerusalem for as long as God allows."

25 "At this time, strange things will happen to the sun, the moon, and the stars. And on earth, people groups will become very frightened. They will be as afraid as they would be in a roaring ocean with huge waves. 26 People will be so afraid that they will faint because they are waiting for what will happen next in the world. The stars in the sky will move out of their usual places. 27 Then all people will see me, the Son of Man, coming in the clouds powerfully and with brilliant light. 28 So when those terrible things begin to happen, assume a posture of confidence, because God will soon rescue you."

29 Then Jesus gave them an example. He said, "Think about the fig trees, and even all the trees. 30 When you see that their leaves are sprouting, you know that it is the beginning of summer. 31 In the same way, when you see these things that I have just described happening, you will know then that God will soon show himself as king. 32 I am telling you the truth. The people who see the first of the signs I have described will definitely live to see all these things happen. 33 You may think of the sky and the land as permanent. They are not, but my words are permanent.

34 Be very careful to control yourselves. If you get drunk, your minds will not be alert afterwards. And if you worry about day-to-day matters, you will become distracted. Then you will not be paying attention to the signs I have told you about, and I will surprise you when I return. 35 I will come so suddenly that it will be like when a trap springs closed on an animal. So you need to be watching for my return, because it will affect every person in the world. 36 So you must be always ready for my coming. Pray that you will be able to stay faithful to me as you experience these difficult things that I have been talking about. That way I, the Messiah, will declare you innocent when I come to judge the world."

37 Each day Jesus was teaching people at the temple. But every evening he went out of the city and stayed all night on the Mount of Olives. 38 And early every morning, great crowds of people came to the temple to listen to him as he taught.

22 1 It was now almost time for the Celebration of Unleavened Bread, which people also called the Passover. 2 The chief priests and the teachers of the Jewish laws were looking for a way to have Jesus killed without starting a riot among the many people who thought he was a great man.

3 Then Satan entered into Judas, whose other name was Iscariot. He was one of 12 men whom Jesus had chosen to represent him. 4 He went and talked with the chief priests and the officers of the temple guard about how he might help them capture Jesus. 5 They were very pleased when he offered to do that. They said they would pay him money if he did it. 6 So Judas agreed, and then he started looking for a way to help them capture Jesus where the crowd would not see it.

7 Then the Day of Unleavened Bread came. This was the day when Jewish people had to kill the lambs that they would eat for the Passover celebration. 8 So Jesus sent Peter and John out with these instructions: "Go and prepare the meal for the Passover celebration so that we can all eat it together." 9 They replied to him, "Where do you want us to prepare the meal?" 10 He answered, "Listen carefully. When you go into the city, a man carrying a large jar of water will meet you. Follow him into the house that he enters. 11 Say to the owner of the house, 'Our teacher says to show us the room where he can eat the Passover meal together with us, his disciples.' 12 He will show you a large room that is on the upper floor of the house. It will be all ready for entertaining guests. Prepare the meal for us there." 13 So the two disciples went into the city. They found everything to be just as Jesus had told them. So they prepared the meal for the Passover celebration there.

14 When it was time to eat the meal, Jesus came and sat down with his representatives.
15 He said to them, “I have wanted very much to eat this special Passover supper with you before I die. 16 I tell you, the next time I eat it will be when God gives it its deepest meaning when he rules everywhere as king.” 17 Then he took a cup of wine and thanked God for it. He told them, “Take this wine and share it among yourselves. 18 I want you to do this because, I tell you, I will not drink wine again until God rules everywhere as king.” 19 Then he took some bread and thanked God for it. He broke it into pieces and gave it to them to eat. As he did so, he said, “This bread is my body, which I am about to sacrifice for you. Do this again later to honor me.” 20 In the same way, after they had eaten the meal, he took the cup of wine and said, “This is the new covenant that I will make using my own blood, which will flow out of my wounds for you when I die. 21 But I want you all to know that the person who will hand me over to my enemies is here eating with me. 22 I say this because I, the Son of Man, will indeed die in the way that God has planned. But how terrible it will be for the man who hands me over to my enemies!” 23 Then they all began to ask each other which of them would actually be prepared to betray Jesus.

24 After that, they began to argue among themselves about which one of them they should think was the most important person. 25 Jesus responded to them, “The kings of the Gentile nations like to show people that they are powerful. Yet they give themselves the name ‘Ones Who Help the People.’ 26 But you should not be like those rulers! Instead, the most honored people among you should act as if they were the least honored ones. Anyone who leads must act like a servant. 27 For you know that the important person is the one who eats at the table, not the servant who brings the food. But I, your leader, have been setting an example for you by serving you while I have been among you

28 You are the people who have stayed with me during all the hard things I have suffered.
29 So now I am appointing you to important positions in which you will rule, just as my Father has appointed me to rule as a king. 30 You will sit and eat and drink with me when I become king. In fact, you will sit on thrones and judge the people of the 12 tribes of Israel.”

31 "Simon, Simon, pay attention! Satan has asked God to let him test all of you, the way someone shakes grain in a sieve, and God has permitted him to do that. 32 But I have prayed for you, Simon. I have asked God that you will not completely stop believing in me. So when you decide that you truly do believe in me, encourage the others to believe in me as well." 33 Peter replied to him, "Lord, I am ready to go with you to prison. I am even willing to die with you!" 34 Jesus replied, "Peter, I want you to know that this night, before the rooster crows, you will say three times that you do not know me!"

35 Then Jesus asked the disciples, "When I sent you out to the villages, and you went without any money, food, or sandals, was there anything you needed but could not get?" They replied, "No, there was nothing!" 36 Then Jesus said, "But, now, if anyone among you has some money, he should take it with him. Also, whoever has food should take it with him. And whoever does not have a sword should sell his coat and buy one! 37 I tell you this because what a prophet wrote about me in the Scriptures must take place: 'People treated him like a criminal.' Everything the Scriptures say about me is going to happen." 38 The disciples replied, "Lord, look! We have two swords!" He answered, "We will not need more than two."

39 Jesus left the city and went to the Mount of Olives, as he usually did. His disciples went with him. 40 When Jesus came with his disciples to the place where he often spent the night, he said to them, "Pray that God will help you not to sin when you are tempted." 41 Then he went about 30 meters from them, knelt down, and prayed. 42 He said, "Father, if you are willing, please allow me not to experience the terrible things that are about to happen. But do not do what I want. Do what you want." 43 5 [Then an angel from heaven came to him and gave him courage. 44 6 He was suffering greatly. So he prayed very intensely. His sweat was falling to the ground like large drops of blood.] 45 When Jesus got up from praying, he returned to his disciples. He discovered that they were sleeping. They were very sad and this had made them tired. 46 He woke them up and said to them, "This is no time for you to be sleeping! Get up! Pray that God will help you so that nothing tempts you to sin."

47 While Jesus was still speaking, a crowd of people came to him. Judas, one of Jesus' 12 representatives, was guiding them. He came up to Jesus to greet him with a kiss on the cheek. 48 But Jesus said to him, "Judas, how dare you use a kiss to hand me, the Son of Man, over to my enemies!” 49 When the disciples realized what was happening, they said, “Lord, should we use our weapons to keep them from arresting you?” 50 One of them drew his sword and struck the servant of the high priest, but only cut off his right ear. 51 But Jesus said, “Do not do any more of that!” Then he touched the servant where he had been wounded and healed him.

52-53 Then Jesus said to the chief priests, the officers of the temple guards, and the Jewish elders who had come to arrest him, “It is surprising that you have come here with swords and clubs to arrest me, as if I were a robber. For many days I was with you in the temple, but you did not try to arrest me at all! But this is the time you are doing what you want. It is also the time when Satan is doing the evil things as he wants to do.”

54 The Jewish leaders and soldiers seized Jesus and led him away. They brought him to the high priest’s house. Peter followed them from a safe distance far behind. 55 Some people lit a fire in the middle of the courtyard and sat down together. Peter came and sat among them.
56 A female servant saw Peter sitting there as the fire shone upon him. She looked at him carefully and said, “This man was also with the one they have arrested!” 57 But he denied it, saying, “Young lady, I do not know him!” 58 A little later someone else saw Peter and said, “You also are one of those who were with the man they arrested!” But Peter said, “No, mister, I am not one of them!” 59 About an hour later someone else said loudly, “The way that this man speaks shows that he is from the region of Galilee. So he must certainly have come here with the man they arrested!” 60 But Peter said, “Mister, that is not true!” Immediately a rooster crowed, while Peter was still speaking. 61 Jesus turned around and looked right at Peter. Then Peter remembered what Jesus had said to him: “This night, before the rooster crows, you will deny three times that you know me.” 62 And he went out of the courtyard and cried with great sorrow.

63 The men who were guarding Jesus made fun of him and beat him. 64 They put a blindfold on him so he could not see and then took turns hitting him. They said to him, “Show us that you are a prophet! Tell us who just hit you!” 65 They said many other cruel things about him, mocking him.

66 At dawn the next morning, many of the Jewish leaders gathered together. In this group were the chief priests and the men who taught the Jewish laws. They had the soldiers bring Jesus into the Jewish council chamber. 67 There they said to him, “If you are the Messiah, tell us!” But he replied, “If I say that I am the Messiah, you will not believe me. 68 But if I ask you whether you think I am the Messiah, you will not answer me. 69 But from now on, I, the Messiah, will be sitting next to almighty God and ruling!” 70 Then they all asked, “If that is so, are you saying that you are the Son of God?” He answered, “Yes, what you are saying is true.” 71 Then they said to each other, “We ourselves have heard him say that he is equal to God! And so we certainly do not need any more people to testify against him on a charge of blasphemy!”

23 1 Then the whole group got up and took Jesus to Pilate, the Roman governor. 2 They accused him in front of Pilate. They said, “We have seen this man causing trouble by misleading our people. He has been telling them to not pay the taxes that Caesar, the Roman emperor, has imposed. Also, he has been saying that he is the Messiah, a king!” 3 Pilate then asked him, “Are you the King of the Jews?” Jesus replied, “Yes, it is just as you have asked me.” 4 Then Pilate said to the chief priests and to the crowd, “This man is not guilty of any crime.” 5 But the group from the Jewish ruling council kept accusing Jesus. They said, “He is trying to get the people to riot! He has been teaching his ideas throughout all of the region of Judea. He started doing that in the region of Galilee, and now he is doing it here as well!”

6 When Pilate heard what they said, he asked, “Does this man come from the region of Galilee?” 7 When Pilate found out that Jesus was from Galilee, where Herod Antipas ruled, he sent Jesus to him. Herod was also in Jerusalem at that time. 8 When Herod saw Jesus, he was very glad, because he had wanted to see Jesus for a long time. This was because Herod had heard many things about Jesus, and he wanted to see him perform a miracle. 9 So he asked Jesus many questions, but Jesus did not reply to any of them. 10 And the chief priests and some experts in the Jewish laws stood near Jesus, accusing him very strongly of committing many crimes. 11 Then Herod and his soldiers insulted Jesus and made fun of him. They put expensive clothes on him to pretend that he was a king. Then Herod sent him back to Pilate.
12 Until that time the two men had been very hostile to each other, but on that day Herod and Pilate became friends.

13 Pilate then gathered together the chief priests and other Jewish leaders and the crowd that was still there. 14 He said to them, “You brought this man to me, saying that he has been leading the people to revolt. But I want you to know that after examining him while you were listening, I conclude that he is not guilty of doing any of the things you said he did. 15 Also, Herod sent him back to us without punishing him. That means that he too concluded that he was not guilty. So it is clear that this man has not done anything for which he deserves to die. 16 So I will tell my soldiers to whip him and then set him free." 17 7 [Pilate said this because he had to set one prisoner free at every Passover celebration.] 18 But the whole crowd shouted together, "Put this man to death! Set Barabbas free for us instead!" 19 Now Barabbas was a man who had led some people in the city of Jerusalem to rebel against the Roman government. He was also a murderer. He was in prison because of these crimes. 20 But Pilate wanted very much to set Jesus free, so he tried to speak to the crowd again. 21 But they kept on shouting, "Crucify him! Crucify him!" 22 Pilate then spoke to the crowd a third time. "No! He has not committed any crime! He has not done anything for which he deserves to die. So I will have my soldiers whip him, and then I will set him free." 23 But the people in the crowd kept shouting to insist that Pilate execute Jesus on a cross. Finally, because they continued to shout so loudly, they persuaded Pilate. 24 So Pilate declared that he would do what they wanted. 25 Then Pilate set free the man whom the crowd was asking him to release. That man was in prison because he had fought against the government and murdered people! Pilate then commanded the soldiers to take Jesus and do what the crowd wanted.

26 Now there was a man named Simon, who was from the city of Cyrene in Africa. He was coming into Jerusalem from the countryside. As the soldiers were leading Jesus away, they grabbed hold of Simon. They took from Jesus the cross that they had made him carry, and they put it on Simon's shoulders. They told him to carry it and follow behind Jesus. 27 Now a large crowd was walking behind Jesus. In the crowd were many women who were beating on their chests to show their grief and wailing sorrowfully for him. 28 But instead of accepting their sympathy, Jesus turned to these women and said, "You women of Jerusalem, do not weep for me! Instead, weep over the terrible things that are going to happen to you and your children! 29 For I want you to know that there will soon be a time when people will say, 'How fortunate are the women who have never given birth to children or nursed babies!' 30 Then the people in this city will say, 'We wish that the mountains would fall on top of us and that the hills would cover us up!' 31 Right now it is difficult for people to do bad things to others, just as it is difficult to set fire to fresh wood. But later, people will easily be able to do terrible things to others, just as it is easy to set fire to dry wood."

32 Two other men, who were criminals, were also walking with Jesus to the place where the Romans would execute them. 33 When they got to the place whose name was The Skull, there the soldiers crucified Jesus, nailing him to a cross. They did the same thing to the two criminals. They put one of them at the right side of Jesus and the other at his left side. 34 8 [But Jesus said, "Father, please forgive these people. They do not realize what they are doing."] Then the soldiers divided his clothes and gambled with something like dice to determine which piece of clothing each one would get. 35 Many people stood nearby, watching. They were making fun of Jesus. The Jewish leaders did the same thing. They said, "He saved other people! If God has really chosen him to be the Messiah, he should save himself!" 36 The soldiers also mocked him. They came up to him and offered him some sour wine. 37 They said to him, "If you are the King of the Jews, save yourself!" 38 On the cross above his head, the soldiers also fastened a sign that stated, "This is the King of the Jews."

39 One of the criminals who was hanging on a cross next to Jesus also insulted him. He said, "If you really were the Messiah, you would save yourself, and you would save us too!" 40 But the other criminal scolded him for saying that. He told him, "You should be afraid of God punishing you! You are also dying on a cross, and soon God will judge you. 41 The two of us deserve to die. They are punishing us as we deserve for the evil things that we did. But the man you are insulting did nothing wrong!" 42 Then he said to Jesus, "Jesus, please think about me and treat me well when you begin to rule as king!" 43 Jesus replied, "I want you to know that today you will be with me in paradise!"

44 By then it was about noontime. But it became dark throughout that whole area until three o'clock in the afternoon. 45 There was no light from the sun. And the thick curtain that closed off the Most Holy Place in the temple split into two pieces. 46 When that happened, Jesus shouted loudly, "Father, I put my spirit into your care!" After he said that, he stopped breathing and died.

47 When the centurion who was commanding the soldiers saw what happened, he said, "Indeed, this man did nothing wrong!" What he said honored God. 48 When the crowd of people who had gathered to see these men die saw what had actually happened, they went back to their homes, hitting their chests to show that they were sorrowful. 49 But when the rest of the crowd left, all of Jesus' acquaintances, including the women who had come with him from the region of Galilee, kept watching what happened from where they were standing, some distance away.

50 There was a man named Joseph who lived in Jerusalem. He was a good and righteous man who was a member of the Jewish Council. 51 But he had not agreed with the other Council members when they decided to kill Jesus and when they planned how to do it. He was from the town of Arimathea in Judea. He was waiting expectantly for the time when God would send his king to begin to rule. 52 Joseph went to Pilate and asked Pilate to permit him to take Jesus' body and bury it. Pilate gave him permission, 53 So Joseph took Jesus' body down from the cross. He wrapped it in a linen cloth. Then he put Jesus' body in a burial chamber that someone had cut into a rock cliff. No one had ever put a body in that chamber before. 54 This happened on the day when the Jewish people got ready for their day of rest. It was soon going to be sunset, the start of the Sabbath. 55 The women who had come with Jesus from the district of Galilee followed Joseph and the men who were with him. They saw the burial chamber, and they saw how the men laid Jesus' body inside it. 56 Then the women went back to where they were staying in order to prepare spices and ointments to put on Jesus' body. However, they stopped working when the Sabbath began, just as the Jewish law required.

24 1 Very early in the morning on Sunday, those women went to the burial chamber. They brought with them the spices that they had prepared to put on the body of Jesus. 2 When they arrived, they discovered that somebody had rolled away the stone that had been closing off the entrance to the burial chamber. 3 They went into the burial chamber, but the body of Jesus was not there! 4 They did not know what to think about that. Then suddenly two men stood by them wearing bright, shining clothes! 5 This made the women very frightened. They bowed down low to the ground. The two men said to them, "You should not be looking for someone who is alive in a place where they bury the bodies of dead people! 6 He is not here. No, he has come back to life! Recall that while he was still with you in Galilee, he said to you, 7 'They will have to hand me, the Son of Man, over to sinful men. Those men will kill me by nailing me to a cross. But two days later, I will become alive again.'" 8 The women recalled what Jesus had told them. [9] So they left the burial chamber and went to Jesus' 11 representatives and the other disciples of Jesus and told them what happened. [10] The women who told these things to them were Mary from Magdala village, Joanna, Mary the mother of James, and the other women who were with them. [11] But they thought this report was foolishness, so they did not believe the women. [12] However, Peter decided to see whether the story was true. He ran to the burial chamber. He stooped down and looked inside. He saw the linen cloths in which Jesus' body had been wrapped, but Jesus was not there. So he left the tomb, puzzling over what had happened.

[13] That same day two of Jesus' disciples were walking to an outlying village named Emmaus. It was about ten kilometers from Jerusalem. [14] They were talking with each other about all the things that had happened to Jesus. [15] While they were talking and discussing those things, Jesus himself approached them and started walking with them. [16] But God prevented them from realizing that it was Jesus. [17] Jesus said to them, "What have you two been talking about while you were walking?" They stopped, and they had very sad expressions on their faces. [18] But then one of them, whose name was Cleopas, replied, "You must be the only person who is visiting Jerusalem who does not know about the events that have happened there in recent days!" [19] He said to them, "What events?" They replied, "The things that happened to Jesus, the man from Nazareth, who was a prophet. God enabled him to perform great miracles and to teach wonderful messages. Most people thought he was wonderful. [20] But our chief priests and leaders handed him over to the Roman authorities. They sentenced him to die, and they killed him by nailing him to a cross. [21] We were hoping that he was the one who would free us Israelites from our enemies! But this does not seem possible now, since three days have passed since the Romans executed him. [22] In spite of this, some women from our group amazed us. Early this morning they went to the chamber where Jesus was buried, [23] but the body of Jesus was not there! They came back and told us they had seen some angels in a vision. The angels said that Jesus was alive! [24] Then some of those who were with us when the women came and said this went to the burial chamber. They saw that things were exactly as the women had reported. But they did not see Jesus." [25] Then Jesus said to them, "You two foolish men! You are so slow to believe all that the prophets have written about the Messiah! [26] You should certainly have known that it was necessary for the Messiah to suffer all those things and die, and then receive great honor from God!" 27 Then Jesus explained to them all the things that the Scriptures said about himself. He started with what Moses wrote, and then he explained what all the prophets had written.

28 When they had nearly reached the village where the two men were going, it appeared that Jesus was going to keep walking down the road. 29 But they pleaded with him not to do that. They said, "Stay with us tonight, because it is late in the afternoon and it will soon be dark." So he went in to the house to stay with them. 30 When they all sat down to eat, Jesus took some bread and thanked God for it. Then he broke it in pieces and began to give some to the two men. 31 And then God enabled them to recognize him. But immediately he disappeared! 32 They said to each other, "While we were walking along the road and he was talking with us and enabling us to understand the Scriptures, we got so excited inside! It all made sense that the Messiah would have to suffer but then receive great honor." 33 So they left immediately and returned to Jerusalem. There they found Jesus' 11 representatives and some others who had gathered together with them. 34 They told those two men, "It is true that Jesus has become alive again. He has appeared to Simon!" 35 Then those two men told the others what had happened as they were walking along the road. They also told them how they both recognized Jesus as he broke some bread for them.

36 As they were saying that, Jesus himself suddenly appeared among them. He said to them, "May God give you peace!" 37 But they were not peaceful. They were startled and afraid because they thought that they were seeing a ghost! 38 He said to them, "You should not be alarmed! And you should not doubt that I am alive. 39 Look at the wounds in my hands and my feet! That way you can be sure that it is really I myself. Ghosts do not have bodies, as you see that I have, and you can touch me to prove that my body is real." 40 After he said that, he showed them the wounds in his hands and his feet. 41 They were so glad that they could still hardly believe that he was really alive. So he said to them, "Do you have something here that I could eat?" 42 So they gave him a piece of roasted fish. 43 While they were watching, he took it and ate it.

44 Then he said to them, "I will repeat what I told you while I was with you before. God was going to make happen everything that he said about me, the Messiah, throughout all of the Scriptures.” 45 Then he enabled them to understand the things that the Scriptures said about him. He said to them, 46 “This is what you can read in the Scriptures: that the Messiah would suffer and die, but on the third day after that, he would become alive again. 47 The Scriptures also say that those who believe in the Messiah would go and announce on his behalf that God will forgive people who stop sinning. I want you to do this, starting here in Jerusalem and going to every people group in the world. 48 You must tell people that you saw everything happen to me that the Scriptures said would happen to the Messiah. 49 And I am going to send the Holy Spirit to you, as my Father promised. But you must stay in this city until God gives you the power of the Holy Spirit.”

50 Then Jesus led them outside the city until they came near the village of Bethany. There he lifted up his hands and blessed them. 51 As he was doing that, he left them and went up to heaven. 52 After they worshiped him, they returned to Jerusalem very joyfully. 53 Each day they went to the temple and spent time worshiping God there.

John

1 [1] The Word existed before the universe existed. The Word was with God. The Word also was God. [2] He, the Word, was with God before the universe existed. [3] God made everything through him. God made every single thing in the universe with him. [4] The Word gives eternal life, and that eternal life is God's good and true light that he revealed to humans. [5] God revealed his good and true light to the evil world, and that evil world did not vanquish it.

[6] God sent a man named John who was known as John the Baptizer. [7] He came in order to declare to people about Jesus, who is the light. He declared this so that everyone might trust in the light by means of his testimony. [8] John himself was not that light, but he came in order to tell people about the light. [9] That true light was Jesus, who revealed God's truth and goodness to everyone. He was that light that was coming into the world.

[10] The Word was in the world, and he created the universe. Nevertheless, the people of the world did not recognize him. [11] The Word came to his own people, the Jews, but they rejected him. [12] But to everyone who accepted him and trusted in him he gave the right to become God's children. [13] These children of God were not spiritually born by means of normal human birth, nor by human desire, nor by the desire of their fathers. Rather, they were spiritually born by God.

[14] The Word became a real human being and temporarily lived here where we live. We have seen him display his glorious nature. That is the glorious nature of the Unique Son who came from the Father. He fully possesses God's kind acts and true teachings.

[15] John the Baptizer was telling people about the Word. And he shouted to those around him, "I told you that someone would come after me and that he is much more important than I am because he existed long before me." [16] We know the Word fully possesses God's kind acts and true teachings because all of us have benefited from what he fully possesses, having benefited from one kind act after another. [17] This is because God gave his laws to the Israelites by Moses. But God's kind acts and true message came into full existence by Jesus the Messiah.

18 No one has ever seen God. But Jesus, the Unique One, is God. He is close to God the Father, and he himself has revealed the Father.

19 This is what John the Baptizer testified when the Jewish leaders sent some priests and Levites from the city of Jerusalem in order to ask him, "Who are you?" 20 At that time John emphatically confessed, "I am not the Messiah!" 21 Then they asked him, "If that is so, then who are you? Are you Elijah?" He said, "No." They asked again, "Are you the Prophet whom God said would come?" John answered, "No." 22 So these priests and Levites asked John once more, "Who are you? Tell us so that we can report what you say to those leaders who sent us.
Who do you claim to be?" 23 John told them, "I am the person shouting in the desolate area to prepare yourselves to receive the Lord when he comes. I am whom the prophet Isaiah foretold."

24 These priests and Levites whom the leaders in Jerusalem sent to John were Pharisees.
25 They asked him, "If you are not the Messiah nor Elijah nor the Prophet, then why are you baptizing people?" 26 John replied, "I am baptizing people with water, but there is someone now among you whom you do not know. 27 He follows after me, but I am not important enough even to untie his sandals."

28 These events occurred at the village of Bethany over on the east side of the Jordan River.
That is the place where John was baptizing people.

29 The day after that happened, John saw Jesus coming toward him. Then he said to the people, "Look! He is the Lamb of God! He will sacrifice himself to forgive the sins of the people in this world. 30 This man is the one about whom I said, 'Someone will come after me who is more important than I am, because he existed long before me.' 31 I did not know who he was at first. Nevertheless, I have been baptizing people with water for the very purpose of revealing him to the people of Israel."

32 And John declared, "I saw God's Spirit coming down from heaven appearing like a dove. Then the Spirit remained on Jesus. 33 I did not know who he was at first, but God sent me to baptize people with water and told me, 'The man on whom you see my Spirit come down and remain is the man who will baptize with the Holy Spirit.' 34 I have seen this, and I declare to you that this man, Jesus, is the Son of God."

35 The day after that happened, John the Baptizer was again with two of his students. 36 When he saw Jesus passing by, he said, "Look! He is the Lamb of God!" 37 Then John's two disciples heard what he said and followed Jesus. 38 When Jesus turned around and saw them coming behind him, he asked them, "What are you looking for?" They said to him, "Rabbi (which means 'teacher' in Jewish Aramaic), where are you lodging?" 39 He replied, "Come with me, and you will see!" So they came and saw where Jesus was lodging. They stayed with him that day because it was getting late. (It was about 4:00 PM)

40 One of those two disciples who had heard what John had said and followed Jesus was Andrew. He was Simon Peter's brother. 41 Andrew first went and found his brother Simon. When he came to him, he said, "We have found the Messiah!" (Messiah is "Christ" in the Greek language.) 42 Andrew took Simon to Jesus. When Jesus looked at Peter, he said, "You are Simon. Your father's name is John. From now on your name will also be Cephas" (which means "rock" in Aramaic and is "Peter" in Greek).

43 The day after that happened Jesus decided to leave that area. He went to the region of Galilee and found a man named Philip. Jesus said to him, "Come be my disciple." 44 Philip was from the city of Bethsaida in Galilee. This is also the city that Andrew and Peter were from. 45 Then Philip went and found Nathaniel. When he came to him, he said, "We have found the Messiah whom Moses wrote about in the law God gave the Israelites and whom the prophets said would come. The Messiah is Jesus. His father's name is Joseph. He is from the town of Nazareth." 46 Nathaniel replied, "From Nazareth? Certainly nothing good can come out of that town!" Philip replied, "Come and see for yourself!" 47 When Jesus saw Nathaniel approaching him, he said to him, "Look! Here is an honest Israelite! He never deceives anyone!" 48 Nathaniel asked him, "How do you know what kind of man I am?" Jesus replied, "I saw you before Philip called you, when you were sitting by yourself under the fig tree." 49 Then Nathaniel declared, "Teacher, you must be the Son of God! You are the King of Israel whom we have been waiting for!" 50 Jesus replied, "Do you trust in me just because I told you that I saw you under the fig tree? You will see me do things that are much greater than that!" 51 Then Jesus said to him, "I am telling you the truth: Just like the vision your ancestor Jacob long ago saw, you will see heaven opened up, and you will see God's angels going up and coming down on me, the Son of Man."

2 1 Two days later, there was a wedding in Cana, which is a town in the region of Galilee, and Jesus' mother was there. 2 And someone also invited Jesus and his disciples to the wedding. 3 The hosts served wine to those attending the wedding and they drank all the wine they had. So Jesus' mother said to him, "They are out of wine. Please do something about it." 4 Then Jesus said to her, "Madam, what does that have to do with me or you? The chosen time for me to begin my work has not arrived yet." 5 Jesus' mother told the servants, "Do whatever he tells you to do." 6 (There were six empty stone jars placed there. They held water so that the people could wash themselves according to Jewish religious cleansing laws. Each jar could hold 80 to 120 liters of water.) 7 Jesus told the servants, "Fill the jars with water." So they filled the jars completely to the top. 8 Then he told them, "Now, take some water out of a jar and bring it to the director of the wedding feast." So the servants did that. 9 Then the director of the feast tasted the water, which had now become wine. (He did not know where the wine had come from, although the servants who had taken out the water knew.) And he called the bridegroom to himself. 10 Then he told the bridegroom, "Everyone serves the best wine first and serves the cheap wine later, when the guests have drunk a lot and can not tell the difference. However, you have saved the best wine until now." 11 That was the first of the miraculous signs that Jesus did. He did it in the town of Cana, which is in the region of Galilee. There he showed how great he is. So his disciples trusted in him.

12 Some time after doing this miracle, Jesus and his mother and brothers, along with his disciples, went down to the town of Capernaum. And they stayed there for a few days.

13 Now it was almost time for the Jewish Passover celebration, so Jesus went up to the city of Jerusalem. 14 There in the temple courtyard he saw men selling cattle, sheep, and pigeons for those making sacrifices there. He also saw men sitting at tables, exchanging money for temple money. 15 So Jesus made a whip from some braided leather strips, and he used it to drive all those people out from the temple along with the sheep and the cattle. He also scattered the coins of the moneychangers on the ground and flipped their tables over. 16 He told those who were selling pigeons, "Take these pigeons out of here! Do not turn my Father's house into a marketplace!” 17 This event reminded his disciples about what someone had written in the scriptures long before, “I love your temple so much, O God, that I would die for it.”

18 The Jewish leaders then responded by asking Jesus, “What miracle can you do for us to prove that you have authority from God to do these things that you are doing?” 19 Jesus replied to them, “If you destroy this temple, then in three days I will rebuild it.” 20 So the Jewish leaders said, “It took 46 years to build this temple. Are you saying that you are going to rebuild this entire temple in just three days?” 21 However, the temple Jesus was speaking about was his own body, not the temple building. 22 As a result of this statement, his disciples remembered these things that he had said after God had raised Jesus from the dead. Then they believed both what the scriptures said and what Jesus himself had said.

23 At a later time, when Jesus was in Jerusalem at the Passover celebration, during the days of the celebration, many people trusted in him because they saw the miracles he kept on doing. 24 Nevertheless, because Jesus knew what all people were like, he did not trust them. 25 Jesus also did not trust them because he did not need anyone to tell him about mankind. This is because he knew what people think and want.

3 1 Now there was a man named Nicodemus. He was a member of a strict Jewish religious group called the Pharisees. He was a member of the highest Jewish governing council. 2 He visited Jesus at night. He said to Jesus, “Teacher, we know that you are a teacher who has come from God. We know this because no one can do these miracles you are doing unless God is helping him.” 3 Jesus replied to Nicodemus and said, “I am telling you the truth: No one can enter where God rules without being born a second time.” 4 Then Nicodemus said to him, “How can a person be born again when he is old? No one can enter his mother’s womb and be born a second time!” 5 Jesus answered, “I am telling you the truth: no one can enter where God rules unless he is born again by water and the Spirit. 6 If a human being gives birth to a person, that person is a human being. But those who are born again by the work of God’s Spirit have a new spiritual nature that God makes within them. 7 Do not be astonished because I told you that you must be born again. 8 The Holy Spirit is like the wind that blows wherever it wants to blow. Although you can hear the sound of the wind, you do not know where the wind came from or where it is going. Just as you do not understand these things, so also you do not understand everyone who is born again by the work of God's Spirit." [9] Nicodemus answered him, "How is this possible?" [10] Jesus answered him, "You are an important religious teacher among the people of Israel, so you should understand what I am saying! [11] I am telling you the truth: my disciples and I say the things that we know are true, and we are telling you the things that we have witnessed. Yet you people to whom we say these things reject what we are saying. [12] Since you people do not trust what I say when I tell you about things that happen on this earth, you certainly will not trust what I say when I tell you about things that happen in heaven! [13] I, the Son of Man, am the only one who has gone up to heaven, and I am the only one who has come down to earth from heaven. [14] Long ago, when the Israelites were wandering in the wilderness, Moses lifted up a bronze model of a poisonous snake on a pole, and all who looked up at it were saved from the snakes. In the same way, people must lift me, the Son of Man, up on a cross. [15] They will lift me up so that whoever looks up and trusts in me will live forever with me in heaven.

[16] This is because God loved the world's people in this way, so that he gave his Unique Son in order that anyone who trusts in his Son would not die but would live forever. [17] This is true because God did not send me, his Son, into the world in order to declare the world's people guilty. Rather, God sent me in order to save the world's people by me. [18] God does not declare guilty anyone who trusts in his Son. But God has already declared guilty everyone who does not trust in his Son, because they did not trust in the name of the Unique Son of God. [19] Now God's judicial ruling is as follows: the one who is the light entered the world, but people loved evil instead of him, because they do evil deeds. [20] They love the darkness because every person who continually does evil deeds hates the one who is the light and will never come to him. They avoid the light so that the light might not reveal what they do. [21] But the person who continually does true deeds comes to the one who is the light so that the light might show everyone what he does and so that everyone might know that God was helping him do these deeds."

[22] After those things happened, Jesus and his disciples entered the region of Judea. He stayed there for a while with his disciples and baptized many people.

[23] John the Baptizer was also baptizing people near the town of Aenon, which is near the town of Salim in the region of Samaria. He was baptizing people there because there was much water in that place, and people kept coming to John to be baptized. 24 John could do this because John's enemies had not yet put him in prison. 25 Then some of John's disciples started arguing with a Jewish man about Jewish religious cleansing laws. 26 Those who were arguing came to John and said, "Teacher, there was a man who was with you when you were baptizing people on the other side of the Jordan River. You had testified about who he was. Look! Now he is baptizing people, and many people are going out to him!" 27 John answered, "Nobody can receive anything unless God gives it to him. 28 You are surely witnesses to me saying that I am not the Messiah, but I am the one whom God has sent before the Messiah. 29 The bride belongs to the bridegroom. I am like the friend of the bridegroom. I stand and listen to him and am very happy because I hear the bridegroom's voice. Therefore, because the bride is going to the bridegroom, I am extremely joyful. 30 Jesus, the bridegroom, must become more influential, and I, the bridegroom's friend, must become less influential.

31 Jesus comes from heaven, and he is greater than everyone and everything. Those like myself who are from the earth can only speak with the limited perspective of someone from the earth. The one who comes from heaven is greater than everyone and everything on the earth. 32 Jesus tells people about the things he has seen and heard in heaven, but very few people accept what he says. 33 However, whoever believes what Jesus says has verified that God is truthful. 34 This is because this Jesus whom God has sent says God's words. We know he says God's words because God surely gives his Spirit to him without limit. 35 God the Father loves the Son and has given him authority over everything. 36 Whoever trusts in God's Son will live forever with him in heaven. Whoever does not obey the Son of God will never have eternal life. Rather, God will continually be furious with him."

4 1 Later, the religious group called the Pharisees heard that Jesus was gaining more disciples than John the Baptizer and that he was baptizing more people than John was baptizing. Jesus also found out that the Pharisees had heard this. 2 (Jesus did not actually baptize anyone, but his disciples were baptizing people.) 3 When he found out that the Pharisees were aware of him, Jesus left the region of Judea and returned once more to the region of Galilee. 4 Now to get to the region of Galilee he had to go through the region of Samaria. 5 Next, they arrived at a city named Sychar in the region of Samaria. Sychar was near the plot of ground that Jacob had given to his son Joseph a long time ago. 6 (Jacob's well was in that area.) After arriving at Sychar Jesus was very tired because of his long journey, so he sat down to rest next to Jacob's well. It was about noon. 7 A Samaritan woman came out to the well to lower a bucket on a rope to pull up some water. Jesus said to her, "Please give me some water to drink." 8 He said this because his disciples had left him by himself and had gone into the city in order to buy food. 9 And the Samaritan woman said to Jesus, "I am surprised that you, a Jew, are asking me, a woman from Samaria, for a drink." (She said this because Jews usually would not have anything to do with Samaritans.) 10 Jesus replied to her, "If you had known the gift that God wants to give you, and if you had known who I am who is requesting a drink from you, you would have asked me for a drink, and I would have given you living water." 11 The woman replied, "Sir, you do not have a bucket with which to draw the water up out of the well, and this well is deep. Since you can not get the water out of this well, where did you get this living water from? 12 You are surely not greater than our father Jacob. He dug this well and gave it to us. He, his sons, and his livestock drank water from it as well." 13 Jesus replied to her, "Everyone who drinks water from this well will become thirsty again. 14 But anyone who drinks the water that I will give him will never become thirsty again. Rather, the water that I will give him will become a spring of water inside him that fills him up and causes him to live forever in heaven." 15 The woman said to Jesus, "Sir, please give me some of this water in order that I may never become thirsty again or have to come to this well to draw water again."

16 Jesus told her, "Go get your husband and bring him here." 17 The woman answered him, "I have no husband." Jesus told her, "You are right in saying that you have no husband, 18 because you have had not one, but five, husbands, and the man you are currently living with is not your husband. What you have said about not having a husband is true."

19 The woman said to Jesus, "Sir, I perceive that you are a prophet. 20 Our ancestors worshiped God right here on this mountain, but you Jews say that we must worship God at your temple in Jerusalem." 21 Jesus told her, "Madam, believe me when I say that a time is coming when neither here on this mountain nor in Jerusalem will you worship the Father. 22 You people here in Samaria worship the God whom you do not know. We Jews worship the God whom we know. This is true because the way to be saved from your sins comes from among the Jews. 23 Nevertheless, the time is coming and has now arrived when those who truly worship God will worship the Father spiritually and truthfully. This is because the Father indeed searches for such people to worship him. 24 God is a spiritual being, and those who worship him must worship him spiritually and truthfully." 25 The woman said to Jesus, "I know that the Messiah will come. (He is the one called 'Christ' in Greek.) When he comes, he will tell us everything that we need to know." 26 Jesus told her, "I, who am speaking to you now, I am the Messiah!"

27 Just at that moment, his disciples came back from the city. They were astonished because Jesus was talking alone with a woman whom he did not know. However, no one dared to ask him, "What do you want from her?" or "Why are you talking with her at all?"

28 At that time the woman left her water jar there and returned to the city. She said to the men of the city, 29 "Come and meet this man who told me so many things that I have done! He could not be the Messiah, could he?" 30 Those men left the city and came to Jesus.

31 While the woman was gone, Jesus' disciples, who had just returned with the food, pleaded with him to eat. They said, "Teacher, please eat something!" 32 Jesus told them, "I have sustenance that you know nothing about!" 33 So they were saying to one another, "Surely no one else could have brought him something to eat, could they?" 34 Jesus told them, "This is what sustains me: It is to do what my Father—who sent me—wants and to complete my Father's work. 35 At this time of the year you usually say, 'There are four months left, and then we will harvest the crops.' Listen to what I am telling you. Look and see that these people are like fields that are now ready for harvest! 36 The one who harvests these crops receives payment and collects fruit, which is people receiving life forever in heaven. The result is that those who sow the seed and those who reap the harvest will be glad together. 37 What I am going to say is true: One person sows the seeds, and another person harvests the crops. 38 I sent you disciples of mine to gather the harvest from a crop that you did not plant. Others have worked very hard to plant the crop, but you are now joining them in their work."

39 Now many Samaritans who lived in the city of Sychar trusted in Jesus because of what the woman had told them. She said, "He told me so many things that I have done." 40 When the Samaritans came to Jesus, they asked him to remain with them. So he stayed there with them for two more days. 41 Many more of them trusted in Jesus because of what he proclaimed to them. 42 The townspeople told the woman, “We believe in Jesus now, but not just because of what you told us about him. We believe because we have heard his message for ourselves. Now we know that this man truly is the one who saves the believers in the world from their sins.”

43 After he stayed for two days with the Samaritans, Jesus left the city of Sychar and entered the region of Galilee. 44 (Jesus wanted to go to Galilee because he himself confirmed that a prophet does not receive honor in the place where he grew up and he did not want publicity.) 45 Since this is true, when he arrived in the region of Galilee many of the people there merely welcomed him because they had seen all the amazing things he had done in Jerusalem during the recent Passover celebration, which they also had gone to. 46 Next, Jesus went back again to the town of Cana in the region of Galilee. That was where he had turned water into wine. There was an official of the king who lived nearby in the city of Capernaum and had a son who was very sick. 47 When that official heard that Jesus had come back to Galilee from Judea, he went to Jesus in Cana and asked him to come down to Capernaum and heal his son, because his son would die soon. 48 Jesus then told him, “You people will only trust in me as the Messiah if you see me perform wonderful miracles!” 49 The official of the king said to him, “Sir, please come down to my home in Capernaum before my son dies!” 50 Jesus told him, “Go home. Your son will live.” The man trusted what Jesus told him, and he started to go back home. 51 As the official was traveling down to his home in the city of Capernaum, his servants met him along the road. They told him, “Your child is going to live.” 52 He asked his servants, “At what time did my son start getting better?” They answered him, “At 1:00 PM yesterday his fever went away.” 53 And the boy’s father recognized that his son had recovered at the exact time that Jesus had told him that his son would live. So this same man, along with everyone who lived in his house, trusted in Jesus.

54 That was the second great miracle that Jesus did. He did it during the time that he came to the region of Galilee after leaving the region of Judea.

5 1 After those things happened, the time came for another Jewish festival, and Jesus walked up to the city of Jerusalem to celebrate the festival. 2 There is a place called the Sheep Gate in Jerusalem, which is one of the gates going into the city. There is a pool beside that gate which people called Bethesda in the language used by the Jews. Next to the pool are five porches with roofs. 3 Many people were lying on these porches. They were people who were ill, unable to see, unable to walk, or unable to move. 4 9 [They were lying there because an angel from the Lord would occasionally come down and aggravate the water. Whoever was the first person to step into the water after the angel aggravated it was healed from whatever illness or infirmity that was afflicting him.] 5 There was a man lying near this pool called Bethesda who had been sick for 38 years. 6 Jesus saw this man lying near the pool, and he knew that he had been lying there for a long time. He asked the man, "Do you want your health to get better?" 7 The ill man answered him, "Sir, I do not have anyone who can put me into the pool when an angel stirs the water. By the time I can put myself into the pool, someone else has already gone down into the pool and been healed before me, so that I cannot be healed." 8 Jesus told him, "Stand up! Pick up the mat that you have been lying on and walk!" 9 Then Jesus healed the man at once, and the man picked up the mat that he had been lying on and walked.

(Now this happened on the Jewish day for rest known as the Sabbath.) 10 Because it was the Jewish day for rest, the Jewish leaders said to the man whom Jesus had healed, "Today is a day for rest. You are not allowed to carry your mat on this day, because it is work." 11 The man whom Jesus had healed answered them, "The man who healed me told me to pick up the mat that I had been lying on and walk." 12 The Jewish leaders asked him, "Who told you to pick up your mat and walk?" 13 However, the man whom Jesus had healed did not know who had healed him, because Jesus had left the man without being noticed, since that area was crowded.

14 Later, Jesus found the man whom he had healed in the temple and told him, "Look, you are well now! Do not sin anymore, so that nothing worse than your previous illness might happen to you." 15 That man went away and told the Jewish leaders that the man who had healed him was Jesus. 16 So the Jewish leaders started persecuting Jesus because he was miraculously healing people on the Jewish day for rest. 17 Jesus gave this answer to them,
"God, my Father, is working today, so I am also working." 18 As a consequence of him saying this, the Jewish leaders were trying to kill Jesus even more than they had tried before. They wanted to kill him because he was not only disobeying their rules for the day for rest but also because he was claiming that he was equal with God by saying that God was his own Father.

19 Because of these accusations Jesus replied to the Jewish leaders, “I am telling you people the truth: I, the Son, can do nothing on my own authority. I can only do what I perceive that God, the Father, is doing. Whatever the Father does, I, the Son, also do. 20 This is true because the Father loves me, the Son, and makes known to me everything that he is doing. The Father will also make known to me miraculous deeds that will be even greater than the miracles that I have already done in order that you might be astonished by them. 21 This will happen because I, the Son, give eternal life to anyone I want in the same way that the Father resurrects those who have died and gives them life again. 22 This is true because the Father does not judge anyone. Rather, he has given all authority to judge people to me, the Son. 23 The Father did this in order that everyone would honor me, the Son, in the same way that they honor the Father. Whoever does not honor me cannot honor my Father, who sent me. 24 I am telling you people the truth: Anyone who accepts and obeys my teachings and trusts God who sent me lives forever with me in heaven, and God does not judge him as guilty. Instead, that person has gone from being spiritually dead to being spiritually alive.

25 I am telling you people the truth: A time is coming and, in fact, is here already when those who have died will hear my voice, the voice of the Son of God, and those who hear me will live. 26 This is true because as the Father is able to make people alive, in the same way he has also given me, the Son, the ability to make people alive. 27 The Father has authorized me to judge all mankind, because I am the Son of Man. 28 Do not be surprised that the Father has done this, because there will be a time when everyone who has died will hear my voice.
29 Then they will come out of their graves. God will raise up those who have done good to give them eternal life. But God will raise up those who have done evil to condemn and punish them forever. 30 I can do nothing on my own. I judge according to what I hear from the Father, and I judge in a just manner. I judge justly because I do not try to do what I want. Rather, I do what my Father, who has sent me, wants.

31 If I alone were the only one to be a witness about myself, according to the law of Moses my witness would not be trustworthy. 32 Nevertheless, there is someone else who testifies about me, and I know that what he testifies about me is trustworthy. 33 You Jewish leaders sent messengers to John the Baptizer, and he told you the truth about me. 34 However, I do not need anyone to be a witness for me. Nevertheless, I am saying this about John the Baptizer in order that God might save you. 35 John the Baptizer proclaimed God's truth to you like a burning and shining lamp. You were willing to rejoice for a while in the light that was the truth that he proclaimed. 36 However, the witness that I give about myself is even greater than the witness John gave about me. This is because this witness is the miraculous works that God the Father has allowed me to do. These very works that I am doing are proof that the Father has sent me. 37 Furthermore, my Father who sent me is the very one who has given testimony about me. None of you have ever heard him speak or seen what he looks like. 38 You also do not obey the Father's teachings. I know this is true because you do not trust me, the very person he has sent! 39 You carefully study the Scriptures because you believe that by studying them you will be able to live forever in heaven. It is those very Scriptures that declare who I am. 40 Yet still you refuse to be my disciples in order that you might live forever in heaven.

41 I do not accept honor from anyone. 42 However, I know that you do not love God at all. 43 I have come with my Father's authority, but still you do not accept me. If someone else were to come with his own authority, you would accept him. 44 You cannot possibly trust in me when you are honoring each other instead of desiring the one and only God to honor you!

45 Do not think that I am the one who will accuse you before my Father. Moses, the very person you have hoped would defend you, is actually the person who will accuse you. 46 He will accuse you because if you had trusted Moses, but you do not, then you would trust me, because Moses explained about me in the law. 47 Since you do not even trust what Moses wrote, you cannot possibly trust what I have said to you!"

6 1 After those things happened, Jesus crossed over to the opposite side of the Sea of Galilee, which some people also call the Sea of Tiberias. 2 A large crowd followed him because they had seen the miraculous signs he was performing, that is, healing people who were very ill. 3 Jesus walked up on a steep hillside and sat down there with his disciples. 4 (Now at that time the Jewish Passover celebration was about to take place.) 5 Jesus then looked up and saw a very large crowd of people walking toward him. He asked Philip, "Where will we buy bread in order to feed all these people?" 6 (He asked Philip this question in order to test his faith, because Jesus already knew what he was going to do about the problem.) 7 Philip replied to him, "If we had the money that a man can earn in 200 days of work, it would not be enough money to buy bread to give each person in this crowd even a little piece to eat." 8 Another disciple of his, Simon Peter's brother Andrew, told Jesus, 9 "There is a boy here who has five little loaves of barley bread and two small fish. Yet, these few loves and fish are certainly not enough to feed all these people!" 10 Jesus told his disciples to make the people sit down. Thus about 5,000 men sat down. (There was a lot of grass in that place for them to sit down on.) 11 Jesus then took the little loaves of barley bread, and he thanked God for the food. Then he and his disciples gave the loaves to the people who were sitting on the grass in order to eat. He did the same with the two fish. The people ate all the fish and bread that they wanted to eat. 12 When everyone had eaten until they were full, Jesus told his disciples to collect all the leftover, uneaten pieces of barley bread in order that none of it would be wasted. 13 Thus his disciples collected the pieces, and they filled 12 large baskets with the broken pieces that the people had left over from the five little loaves of barley bread.

14 Because of this, when the people saw this miraculous sign that Jesus had performed in front of them, they said, "Surely he is the Prophet whom God promised to send into the world!" 15 When Jesus knew that the people were planning to grab him in order to force him to be their king, he left them again and went up the hillside to be completely alone.

16 When it was evening, Jesus' disciples walked down the hillside to the Sea of Galilee. 17 They got into a boat and started to sail across the sea to the town of Capernaum. (It had already become dark, and Jesus had still not joined them.) 18 Because the wind was blowing strongly, it was causing the sea to be very turbulent. 19 After Jesus' disciples had rowed the boat around four-and-a-half or five-and-a-half kilometers out into the sea, they saw Jesus walking on the water and approaching the boat. They were terrified! 20 Jesus told them, "It is I, Jesus! Stop being afraid!" 21 They were very glad to take him into the boat. As soon as he was with them in the boat, their boat arrived at the place where they were going.

22 The day after Jesus had fed the crowd, the crowd of people that had stayed on the other side of the sea realized that there had been only one boat there the day before. They also knew that Jesus had not gone in the boat with his disciples. 23 (People came from the city of Tiberias in other boats. They put their boats near the place where the crowd had eaten the bread after the Lord Jesus had thanked God for it.) 24 So when the crowd realized that neither Jesus nor his disciples were there, they got into those boats and sailed to the city of Capernaum to look for Jesus.

25 The crowd found Jesus in Capernaum on the side of the Sea of Galilee that is opposite from where he had fed them. They asked him, "Teacher, we know you did not come in a boat, so when did you arrive here at Capernaum?" 26 Jesus replied, "I am telling you the truth: You are not looking for me because you saw the miraculous signs that I performed. Rather, you are looking for me only because you ate until you were full of the loaves of bread that I gave you. 27 Stop working for food that will soon spoil! Instead, work for the food that will bring you life forever in heaven! That food is the bread that I, the Son of Man, will give you. I alone can give it to you because God my Father approves of me."

28 Then the crowd asked Jesus, "What works should we do in order to please God?" 29 Jesus answered them, "The work that God wants you to do is this: Trust in me, the one whom he has sent." 30 The crowd asked him, "Then what miracle will you do in order for us to see it and trust in you? What will you do for us? 31 Our ancestors ate manna when they wandered in the wilderness with Moses, just as the prophets wrote: 'God gave them bread out of heaven to eat.'"

32 Jesus answered them, "I am telling you the truth: It was not Moses who gave your ancestors that bread from heaven. No, it was my Father, who is now giving you the true bread out of heaven. 33 This is true because the true bread from God has come down from heaven and gives eternal life to the people in the world."

34 The crowd did not understand what he meant, so they said to Jesus, "Sir, please give this bread to us all the time." 35 Jesus told the crowd, "Like food sustains physical life, I am the bread that gives eternal life. Unlike with food or drink, anyone who trusts in me will surely be satisfied forever. 36 Nevertheless, I have already told you that even though you see me, you still do not trust me. 37 All the people my Father gives to me will come and be my disciples, and I will surely never drive away any of them. 38 I will never do that because I have not come down from heaven in order to do what I want. Rather, I have come down in order to do what my Father, who sent me, wants me to do. 39 This is what my Father, who sent me, wants: He wants me to keep all of those whom he has given to me. He also wants me to make these ones alive again on the last day when I judge everyone. 40 This is true because this is also what my Father wants: He wants everyone who recognizes who I, the Son, am, and trusts in me to live forever with me in heaven. I will make these ones alive again on the last day when I judge everyone."

41 The Jewish leaders then started to grumble about Jesus, because he had said that he was the true bread that had come down out of heaven. 42 They said, "This is just Jesus, Joseph's son! We know who his parents are. He cannot possibly have come down out of heaven as he claims!" 43 Jesus answered them, "Stop grumbling among yourselves about what I just said. 44 Only those whom my Father, who sent me, causes to come and be my disciples are able to do so. I myself will make those people who come to me alive again on the last day when I judge everyone. 45 The prophets wrote that God will teach everyone. Everyone who listens to and learns from my Father will come and be my disciples. 46 No one has seen God my Father other than me. I am the one who came from God. I alone have seen him. 47 I am telling you the truth: Whoever trusts in me will live forever with me in heaven. 48 I am the true bread that gives eternal life. 49 Your ancestors ate manna when they wandered in the wilderness with Moses, but they still died. 50 But this bread that I am talking about came down out of heaven in order that someone would eat it and that person's spirit would never die. 51 I truly am this bread that gives eternal life and came down out of heaven. Anyone who eats this bread will live forever with me in heaven. My body is also this bread. I will give up my body for the sake of the eternal life of everyone in the world."

52 The Jewish leaders then started arguing with each other. They said, "This man surely cannot give his body to us in order for us to eat it!" 53 So Jesus told them: "I am telling you the truth: You must eat the flesh of me, the Son of Man, and drink my blood. If you do not do these things, then you will never have eternal life. 54 Anyone who eats my flesh and drinks my blood will live forever with me in heaven. I will also make that person alive again on the last day when I judge everyone. 55 This is so because my flesh is true spiritual food, and my blood is true spiritual drink. 56 Those who eat my flesh and drink my blood will be united with me, and I will be united with them. 57 My Father makes everyone alive. He has sent me here, and I can make people alive because he has enabled me to do so. In the same way, those who feed on me will live forever because of what I will do for them. 58 I am this bread that has come down out of heaven. This bread is not like the bread that the Israelite ancestors ate in the wilderness but still eventually died. Anyone who eats me—this bread—will live forever with me in heaven.”

59 Jesus said these statements to the Jewish leaders in a synagogue while he was teaching in the city of Capernaum.

60 After they heard what he had said, many of Jesus’ disciples said, “What he is teaching is difficult to accept. Indeed, no one can accept it!” 61 Although no one told him, Jesus knew that his disciples were grumbling about what he had said. So he asked them, “Did my teaching offend you? 62 If this teaching has offended you, then would you also be offended if you saw me, the Son of Man, ascending to heaven where I was formerly? 63 The Holy Spirit is the only one who can give anyone eternal life. Human nature is useless in this matter. What I have taught you comes from the Holy Spirit and gives eternal life. 64 Nevertheless, some of you do not believe what I have said.” (Jesus said this because he knew since he began his work who would not believe him and who would eventually betray him.)

65 Then Jesus said, “Because some of you do not believe me, I told you earlier that only those to whom God the Father has given the ability to come and be my disciple will be able to do so.”

66 After Jesus said these things, a lot of his disciples went back to doing what they had been doing before they met him and stopped being his disciples. 67 Because so many left him, Jesus asked his 12 representatives, “Surely you do not also want to leave me, do you?” 68 Simon Peter replied, “Lord, if we were to leave you, there is no one else we could go to! Only you teach the message that allows us to live forever in heaven! 69 We trust in you, and we know for certain that you are the Holy One who has come from God!” 70 Jesus answered them, “I surely chose all you 12 men to represent me, but one of you is under the control of Satan!” 71 (When Jesus said this he was talking about Judas, Simon Iscariot’s son, because he was the one among Jesus’ 12 representatives who would later betray Jesus.)

7 1 After those things happened, Jesus walked around in the region of Galilee because he did not want to walk around in the region of Judea. He avoided Judea because the Jewish leaders there were trying to find a way to kill him. 2 (Now at that time the Jewish Shelters celebration was about to take place.) 3 Jesus’ brothers told him, “Leave here and go to the region of Judea in order that your disciples can also observe you doing miraculous works. 4 Do your miraculous works in Judea because no one who wants to be famous does anything secretly. Since you are doing all these miracles, reveal who you claim to be to everyone by doing miraculous works!" 5 Jesus' brothers said this because not even they believed he was the Messiah. 6 Because they did not believe in him, Jesus told them, "This is not the right time for me to go to Jerusalem, but you can go there whenever you want. 7 No one in the world can hate you. However, everyone hates me because I declare that they do evil deeds. 8 You go to Jerusalem for the celebration. I am not going to the celebration yet, because now is not the right time for me to go." 9 After saying that to his brothers, Jesus stayed a little longer in the region of Galilee.

10 However, a few days after his brothers left for the festival, he also went, but he did so secretly. 11 Because the Jewish leaders expected Jesus to be at the celebration, they tried to find him. They asked people, "Where is that man?" 12 The crowds were quietly speaking a lot about Jesus. Some people said, "He is a good man!" But others said, "No! He deceives the crowd!" 13 Nevertheless, the people were afraid of the Jewish leaders, so they did not speak about Jesus in public.

14 About halfway through the Shelters celebration, Jesus entered the temple courtyard and started teaching the people there. 15 The Jewish leaders were shocked at his teaching. They said, "This man has not received religious training. He cannot possibly know the scriptures so well!" 16 Jesus replied to them, "What I teach does not come from myself. On the contrary, it comes from God, who sent me. 17 If anyone wants to do what God wants, then that person will know that what I am teaching has come from God and not only by my own authority. 18 Anyone who speaks on his own authority only wants to glorify himself. However, anyone who wants to glorify the person who sent him speaks the truth and acts righteously. 19 Moses did indeed give you laws from God. None of you completely obeys those laws. Since that is true, why are you trying to kill me for supposedly disobeying those same laws that you do not obey?"

20 Some people in the crowd replied, "A demon is controlling you! No one is trying to kill you!" 21 Jesus replied to the crowd, "Because I did one miraculous healing on the day for rest, all of you are shocked. 22 Because some works like healing would occur on the day for rest, Moses gave you a law about circumcision. That law states that you must circumcise your sons exactly seven days after they are born. (Circumcision did not actually begin with Moses, but this rite began with your forefathers, Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob.) Because of that law, sometimes you must work on the day for rest by circumcising your male babies. 23 Since you sometimes circumcise someone on the day for rest in order to avoid disobeying the law of Moses, you should not be angry with me for doing a good work like healing someone on that day! 24 Stop judging me according to what you have seen! Rather, judge me according to what God says is right."

25 Some of the people in the crowd who dwelled in Jerusalem then said, "This is the man that our leaders are trying to kill! 26 Look! He is saying these things publicly, but our leaders are not saying anything to oppose him. Can it be that our leaders really know that he is the Messiah? 27 But this man cannot be the Messiah! We know where this man came from, but when the Messiah comes, no one will know where he is from."

28 Jesus then spoke loudly while he was teaching in the temple courtyard. He said, "Yes, you know me, and you know where I have come from. But I have not come here on my own authority. Rather, the one who sent me is the real God, and you do not know him. 29 I know him because I have come from him. He is the one who sent me."

30 Because Jesus said these things, the Jewish leaders wanted to arrest him, but no one could seize him, because it was not yet the right time for him to die. 31 In contrast to the Jewish leaders, many in the crowd of people trusted in Jesus. They kept saying, "When the Messiah comes, he surely will not be able to do more miraculous signs than this man!" 32 Some of the Pharisees overheard them quietly speaking these things about Jesus. Then they and the ruling priests sent temple guards to arrest him.

33 Because they did this, Jesus said, "I will only be with you for a little while longer. Soon I will go back to God, who sent me. 34 You will search for me, but you will not find me. You will not be able to come to the place where I will be." 35 So the Jewish leaders said to each other, "Where can this man go where we cannot find him? Will he actually go to those Jews who are spread throughout the world outside of Israel? Will he even teach the people there who are not Jews? 36 What did he mean when he said that we will search for him, but we will not find him, and we will not be able to come to the place where he will be?"

37 Now on the final and most important day of the Shelters celebration, Jesus stood up in the temple courtyard and spoke loudly. He said, "Anyone who is thirsty should come to me and drink what I will give them! 38 This is what the prophets wrote in the scripture about anyone who trusts in me: 'Water that gives eternal life will abundantly flow from that person's innermost being.'" 39 (Now Jesus said this about the Holy Spirit, whom God was going to give to those who trusted in Jesus. He said this because at that time God had not yet sent the Holy Spirit to dwell within those who trusted in him, because Jesus had not yet received honor by his death, resurrection, and return to heaven.)

40 After some people among the crowd heard what Jesus had said, they said, "He is truly the Prophet whom God had said would come!" 41 Some other people in the crowd said, "He is the Messiah!" However, others who mistakenly thought that Jesus was born in Galilee, said, "But the Messiah cannot possibly come from the region of Galilee. 42 The prophets wrote in the scriptures that the Messiah must come from the descendants of King David and that he must come from the village of Bethlehem, where David came from!" 43 Thus the people in the crowd divided into opposing groups on account of Jesus. 44 (Some of the people in the crowd wanted to arrest him. However, no one seized him.)

45 The temple guards then returned to the ruling priests and Pharisees, who asked them, "Why did you not arrest him and bring him here?" 46 The temple guards replied, "No one has ever spoken like this man has!" 47 Because the guards said that, the Pharisees replied by asking, "Can it be that he has deceived you as well? 48 Surely, none of the members of our highest governing council or us Pharisees have trusted in him! 49 However, this crowd of people does not know God's laws, and God has cursed them!"

50 Then Nicodemus spoke. (He was the man who had come to Jesus at night to speak with him in the past. He had done this even though he was one of the Pharisees, which was a group that usually opposed Jesus.) He told the Jewish religious leaders, 51 "Our Jewish laws surely do not allow us to condemn someone without first listening to him and learning about what he has done." 52 They replied to him insultingly, "Surely, you are not from the region of Galilee as well! Are you? Read through the scriptures carefully! If you do that, you will see that no prophet comes from Galilee."

53 [10][Then they all left and went to their own homes.

8 1 [11]Jesus went to the Mount of Olives and stayed near there that night. 2 At dawn the next morning, Jesus returned to the temple courtyard and many people came to him. 3 Some of the teachers of the law and the Pharisees brought a woman to him. They had apprehended her while she was committing adultery. They made her stand up in the midst of this group. 4 The priests wanted to test Jesus in order to be able to accuse him of breaking the law of Moses before the highest Jewish governing council. So they said to him, "Teacher, we apprehended this woman while she was committing adultery, the very act itself! 5 Now Moses commanded us in the law that we must kill such women with stones. Nevertheless, what do you say we should do?" 6 However, Jesus bent down and wrote something on the ground with his finger. 7 While they continued to question him, he got up and told them, "Let the one among you who has never sinned throw the first stone at her and lead the rest to kill her!" 8 Then Jesus stooped down again and wrote something on the ground with his finger. 9 After he did this, those Jewish leaders who were questioning him started walking away, one by one. The older ones left first and then the younger ones. Then only Jesus was there with the woman in the midst of the people. 10 Jesus stood up and asked her, "Where are the men who were accusing you? Has no one condemned you to be punished?" 11 The woman replied, "There is no one, sir." Then Jesus said, "I do not condemn you to be punished either. Leave, and from now on do not sin like this anymore!"]

12 Jesus spoke to the people again. He said, "I am the one who gives God's good and true light to the people in the world. Anyone who becomes my disciple will never walk in sinful darkness again. Rather, that person will have God's good and true light that gives eternal life." 13 The Pharisees then told him, "You are the only witness for yourself! Since the law of Moses requires at least two witnesses, what you say cannot be true!" 14 Jesus replied, "Even if I were the only witness for myself, what I say is still true because I know where I came from and I know where I am going. Nevertheless, you do not know where I came from and you do not know where I am going. 15 You judge people according to human standards. However, I have not come to judge anyone in that manner. 16 Even when I do judge people, I will judge them according to the true standard, because I do not judge people on my own. Rather, I and my Father who sent me, will judge people together. 17 Moses even wrote in your law that when at least two witnesses say the same thing, then what they say is true. 18 I am my own witness, but my Father who sent me is also a witness for me. Therefore, what I say is true."

19 Because Jesus said his father was a witness for him, the Pharisees asked him, "Where is your father?" Jesus replied, "You do not know me, and you do not know my Father. If you knew me, you would also know my Father, but you do not." 20 He said these things about himself while he was teaching in the temple courtyard. He said them at the place in the temple courtyard where people brought money offerings. Nobody apprehended him, because it was not yet the right time for him to die.

21 Jesus then told the people again, "I am going away, and you will search for me, but since you sinfully reject me, you will die without God forgiving you. You will not be able to come to the place where I am going." 22 The Jewish leaders then said among themselves, "Perhaps he plans to kill himself, and that is what he means when he says that we will not be able to come to the place where he is going." 23 Jesus told them, "You are from this earth below, but I am from heaven above. You belong to this sinful world. I do not belong to this world. 24 Because of this I told you that you will die without God forgiving you for all the sins that you have committed. This will certainly happen unless you trust that I am God, as I say I am."

25 Because he said that, they asked him, "Who are you?" Jesus replied, "That is what I have been telling you ever since the beginning! 26 I could say many things about you and judge you, but I will not do those things at this time. Rather, I will tell the people in the world only what I have heard from the one who sent me. He always says the truth."

27 (They did not understand that Jesus was telling them about his Father in heaven.) 28 So Jesus told them, "When you have lifted me up to kill me, the Son of Man, you will know that I am God, and you will know that I do not do anything on my own authority. Rather, I only say what my Father has taught me to say. 29 My Father, who sent me, is always with me. He has never abandoned me, because I always do only the things that delight him." 30 While Jesus was saying these things, many more people believed that he was the Messiah.

31 Jesus then told the Jews who now believed that he was the Messiah, “If you obey what I teach you, then you are my genuine disciples. 32 Furthermore, you will know God’s truth, and believing that truth will free you from what has enslaved you.” 33 They answered him, “We are the descendants of Abraham. We have never been anyone’s slaves! Why do you say that we need to be free?” 34 Jesus replied, “I am telling you the truth: Anyone who sins is controlled by his sinful desires like a slave is controlled by his master. 35 Slaves do not remain as members of their master’s family forever, but may be freed or sold. However, a son is a member of the family forever. 36 So if the Son frees you from being slaves to sin, you will absolutely be able to refrain from sinning. 37 I know that you are Abraham’s physical descendants. However, you are trying to kill me because you refuse to trust what I say. 38 I am telling you about the things that my Father has shown me. Therefore, I say that you do what your father has told you to do.”

39 They replied to him, “Abraham is our ancestor.” Jesus said to them, “If you were Abraham’s descendants, you would be doing the same things he did. 40 I have been telling you the true things that God told me, but you are trying to kill me. Abraham did not do something like that. 41 You are doing the same things that your real father did.” They told him, “We are not illegitimate children, like you are! We have only one Father, and that is God.” 42 Jesus told them, “If God were your Father, which he is not, you would love me because I came from him and have come to this world. This is true because I did not come on my own authority. Rather, I came because God sent me. 43 Do you know why you do not understand what I say? It is because you do not accept and obey what I have told you! 44 You belong to your father, the devil, and you desire to do what he desires. He has been murdering people since the time people first sinned. He has rejected what is true, because he never speaks those true things.
Whenever he lies, he is doing what is natural for him to do, because he is a liar. He is even the origin of lying. 45 Yet you do not believe me, because I tell you what is true! 46 Since I have never sinned, none of you can prove that I have. Since I tell you what is true, there is no good reason for you to not believe what I say! 47 Those who belong to God accept and obey what he has said. Since this is true, you do not accept and obey what God has said, because you do not belong to God.”

48 The Jews opposing Jesus replied to him, “We are certainly correct when we say that you are one of the Samaritans, whom we hate, and that a demon is controlling you!” 49 Jesus replied, “A demon is not controlling me! On the contrary, I honor my Father in heaven, and you dishonor me! 50 I do not desire to persuade people to praise me. There is someone else who desires to do that and judges whether you or I am telling the truth. 51 I am telling you the truth:
Anyone who obeys my teaching will surely never die!”

52 The Jews opposing Jesus said to him, “Now we are sure that a demon is controlling you! Abraham and the prophets died long ago! Yet you say that anyone who obeys your teaching will surely never die! 53 You are surely not greater than our ancestor Abraham! He died and all the prophets also died. So who do you think you are?” 54 Jesus replied, “If I persuade people to praise me, that praise would be worthless. My Father is the one who praises me. He is the one whom you say is your God. 55 Although you do not know God, I do know him. If I said that I did not know him, I would be a liar like each of you. In contrast to you, I know him, and I always obey what he says. 56 Your ancestor Abraham was overjoyed to think that he could see me come to the world. God allowed him to see me come, and he was happy.”

57 Because Jesus said this, the Jews opposing him told him, “Abraham died a long time ago, and you are not even fifty years old! How can you have seen Abraham?” 58 Jesus told them, “I am telling you the truth: I was God before Abraham was born!” 59 Because he was claiming to be God, the Jews opposing Jesus picked up rocks to throw at him to kill him. But Jesus hid in the crowd and left the temple courtyard.

9 1 While Jesus was walking along the path, he saw a man who had been blind since the day he was born. 2 His disciples asked him, “Teacher, whose sin caused this man to be blind when he was born? Did this man or his parents sin?” 3 Jesus replied, “It was neither the sin of this man nor the sin of his parents that caused him to be blind when he was born. Rather, he was blind when he was born so that I might show people the miraculous works God will do in him.
4 While I am still with you, we must do the miraculous works that my Father who sent me wants us to do. Just like day is followed by night, when people cannot work, a time will come when it is too late for us to do what God wants us to do. 5 While I am still living in this world,
I am the one who gives God’s good and true light to the people in the world.”

6 When he said this, he spat on the dirt and made mud by mixing his saliva with the dirt.
Then he spread that mud on the blind man's eyes. 7 Then Jesus said to the blind man, "Go and wash the mud off in the pool of Siloam!" ("Siloam" means "sent" in Aramaic). So the man left and washed the mud off in that pool. Then he went home when he was able to see. 8 The man's neighbors and others who had seen him in the past and knew that he was a beggar said, "This is surely the man who used to sit here and beg!" 9 Some people said, "Yes, he is that man."
Other people said, "No, but he just looks like that man." However, the man himself said, "Yes, I am the man who was blind!" 10 So they asked him, "How is it that you can see now?" 11 He replied, "The man people call Jesus made mud with dirt and his saliva and spread it on my eyes.
Then he told me to go to the pool of Siloam and wash the mud off. So I went there and washed the mud off. Then I was able to see for the first time." 12 They asked him, "Where is that man?" He replied, "I do not know where he is."

13 Some of the people there took the man who used to be blind to some of the Pharisees.
14 (Now the day when Jesus made the mud with his saliva and enabled the man to see was the Jewish day for rest.) 15 Then the Pharisees questioned the man for a second time. This time as well, they asked him about how he was now able to see. He told them, "The man placed mud on my eyes, and I washed it off, and now I am able to see for the first time." 16 Some of the Pharisees then said, "We know that this man has not come from God, because he does not follow the rules for the Jewish day for rest." Some other Pharisees said, "Surely a sinful man could not do the kinds of miraculous signs that this man does!" So the Pharisees disagreed with each other regarding who Jesus was. 17 So the Pharisees asked the blind man again, "What do you say about this man, since you say that he is the one who enabled you to see?" The man said, "He must be a prophet."

18 Because the man believed that Jesus was a prophet, the Jewish leaders did not believe that the man had been blind and then became able to see until after they summoned the man's parents in order to question them. 19 They asked his parents, "Is this man your son? Do you say that he was blind when he was born? If that is so, then how is he able to see at this time?" 20 His parents replied, "We are certain that this man is our son. We are also certain that he was blind when he was born. 21 Nevertheless, we do not know how he is able to see at this time.
We also do not know who enabled him to see. Ask him. He is old enough to speak on his own behalf.” 22 (The Jewish leaders had previously agreed among themselves that they would ban anyone who declared that Jesus was the Messiah from entering the Jewish meeting place. Because of this, the man’s parents were afraid of them and told them those things.) 23 That is also why they said to the Jewish leaders, “Ask him. He is old enough.”

24 So the Jewish leaders summoned for a second time the man who had been blind. They told him, “Glorify God by speaking only the truth! We ourselves are certain that this man who you say healed you is sinful.” 25 The man whom Jesus healed replied, “I do not know if he is sinful or not. One thing I do know is that I used to be blind, but now I can see.” 26 They then asked him, “What did he do to you in order to heal you? How did he enable you to see?” 27 He replied, “I have already told you the answers to those questions, but you did not listen to what I said. Why do you want me to tell you again? Could it be that you also desire to become his disciples?” 28 Then they spoke insultingly to him: “You are that man’s disciple! As for us, we are Moses’s disciples! 29 We are certain that God spoke to Moses long ago. As for this man, we do not even know where he came from!” 30 The man replied, “I am amazed! You do not even know where he came from, but he is the one who enabled me to see! 31 We are certain that God does not respond to the prayers of sinful people. Rather, he responds to the prayers of people who worship him and who do what he wants them to do. 32 Never before has anyone ever heard that someone enabled a man to see who was blind when he was born! 33 If this man had not come from God, he could not have done even one miracle like that!” 34 The Jewish leaders replied to him, “You were born blind entirely as a result of your parents’ sins! How dare you teach us!” Then they banned him from the Jewish meeting place.

35 Jesus heard that the Jewish leaders had banned the man he had healed from the Jewish meeting place. When he searched for him and found him, he asked him, “Do you trust the Son of Man?” 36 The man answered, “Sir, who is he? Please tell me, so that I may trust him.” 37 Jesus told him, “You have already seen him. I am that very person who is talking to you now.” 38 The man said, “Lord, I trust that you are the Son of Man.” Then he went down on his knees and worshiped Jesus.

39 Jesus said, “I have come into this world in order to judge its people. The result will be that the people who realize they do not perceive God’s truth may perceive it, like a blind person becoming able to see. Another result will be that the people who think they perceive God's truth will not perceive it, like a person who sees and becomes blind." 40 When some of the Pharisees who were near Jesus heard him say this, they asked him, "Do you think that we also cannot perceive God's truth, like blind people?" 41 Jesus replied, "If you recognized that you are spiritually blind, you would not be guilty of sin. However, because you claim to perceive God's truth, like someone who sees, you are still guilty of your sin."

10 1 "I am telling you the truth: Anyone who enters into the sheep pen by any way other than the pen's gate is a thief or bandit who has come to steal the sheep. 2 The man who enters the sheep pen through the gate is the shepherd who takes care of the sheep. 3 The man who guards the gate when the shepherd is away opens the gate for the shepherd when he comes. The sheep hear the sound of the shepherd's voice. He summons by name each of the sheep that belong to him and leads them out of the pen. 4 After the shepherd has brought out of the pen all of the sheep that belong to him, he walks in front of them. His sheep follow him from behind because they recognize the sound of his voice. 5 His sheep will never follow someone whom they do not know. Rather, they will run away from him because they do not recognize the voices of people they do not know."

6 Jesus told this illustration from the work that shepherds do to the Pharisees. Nevertheless, they did not understand what the illustration meant. 7 So Jesus spoke to them again, "I am telling you the truth: I am the gate through which the sheep enter into the sheep pen. 8 All the leaders who came before me without God's authority were thieves and bandits. However, the true sheep did not obey them. 9 I myself am the gate to heaven. God will save from eternal punishment anyone who comes to him by trusting in me. Whoever trusts in me will be like a sheep who walks around safely and finds food. 10 Your leaders are like thieves who come only to steal, kill, and destroy the sheep. I have come to give the sheep eternal life, which will be full of blessings.

11 I myself am like a good shepherd. The good shepherd is willing to die in order to protect and to save his sheep, and so am I willing to die for my disciples. 12 Suppose that someone hires a man who is not a shepherd to protect sheep that do not belong to that man. When he sees a wolf coming to kill the sheep, he leaves the sheep and runs away, so the wolf snatches some of them and causes some others to scatter. 13 The hired man runs away because he was only protecting the sheep in order to receive money. He does not care about what happens to the sheep. 14 I myself am like a good shepherd. Just like a good shepherd knows his sheep and his sheep know him, I know those who belong to me, and they know me. 15 We know each other in the same way that my Father and I know each other. I am willing to die for the benefit of those sheep who belong to me. 16 There are also sheep that belong to me and are from a different sheep pen. They are people who are not Jews. I must also bring them to myself. They will respond to what I say, and all those who belong to me will be united as one flock, and I will be their one shepherd. 17 My Father loves me because I will willingly die in order that I may make myself alive again. 18 Nobody is forcing me to die. Rather, I myself choose to die. I have authority to willfully die and I have authority to make myself alive again. That is the work my Father has commanded me to do."

19 The Jewish leaders divided into opposing groups again on account of what Jesus had said. 20 Many of the Jewish leaders said, "A demon is controlling him, and he is crazy! Do not listen to him!" 21 Some other people said, "What he is saying is not something a man controlled by a demon would ever say. Surely a demon cannot possibly enable a blind person to see!"

22 Then the feast to celebrate the temple dedication in Jerusalem took place. 23 Jesus was walking in the temple courtyard in the place called Solomon's Porch. 24 The Jewish leaders gathered around Jesus and said, "How long will you keep us wondering about who you are? If you are the Messiah, then tell us plainly so that we can know." 25 Jesus answered them, "I have told you, but you still do not believe me. The miraculous deeds I do by my Father's authority tell you what you need to know about me. 26 However, you people still do not believe in me, because you do not belong to me. You are like sheep that are not part of my flock. 27 Just like sheep obey the voice of their shepherd, my people respond to what I say. I know them, and they are my disciples. 28 I enable them to live forever with God in heaven. No one can ever destroy them, and no one can ever take them away from me. 29 My Father gave them to me. He is greater than anyone, and no one is able to take them away from him. 30 My father and I are one God."

31 The Jewish leaders again picked up stones in order to throw them at him and kill him.
32 Jesus said to them, “You have seen me do many miraculous good deeds that my Father told me to do. For which one of them are you going to kill me with stones?” 33 The Jewish leaders replied, “We do not want to kill you with stones because you did a good deed. Rather, we want to kill you because you blaspheme God by claiming to be God even though you are just a man!” 34 Jesus replied to them, “In the Old Testament a prophet wrote that God said, ‘I have said that you are gods.’ 35 Since God called those to whom he spoke ‘gods’ and no one can prove that the Scripture is false, 36 why do you say that I am blaspheming God because I said that I am the Son of God? I am the one whom my Father specially selected to belong to him and sent into this world. 37 If I am not doing the miraculous works that my Father wants me to do, then you should not trust me. 38 However, because I am doing these miraculous deeds, you should trust what these deeds reveal about me even though you do not trust me. You should do that in order to learn and comprehend that my Father and I are completely united.”

39 Because he said these things, the Jewish leaders tried again to arrest Jesus, but he got away from them.

40 Then Jesus went back over on the east side of the Jordan River. He went to the place where John the Baptizer had baptized people at the beginning of his ministry. Jesus stayed there for a while. 41 Many people came to Jesus there. They said, “John the Baptizer never performed a miraculous sign, but everything that John said about this man is true!” 42 Many people trusted in him in that place.

11 1 A man named Lazarus became very ill. He lived in the village of Bethany where his sisters Mary and Martha also lived. 2 This is the same Mary who later would pour perfume on the Lord and would wipe the oil off of his feet with her hair. It was her brother Lazarus who was ill. 3 So the two sisters sent someone to tell Jesus about Lazarus. They said, “Lord, the one whom you love is very ill. Please come!” 4 When Jesus heard about Lazarus’ illness, he said, “This illness will not end in Lazarus’ death. Rather, the purpose of this illness is to reveal how great God is. Lazarus became ill in order that the illness may reveal how great I, the Son of God, am.” 5 (Jesus loved Martha, her sister Mary, and Lazarus.) 6 So when Jesus heard that Lazarus was ill, he deliberately remained where he was for two more days.

7 Then after those two days Jesus said to his disciples, “Let us go back to the region of Judea.” 8 His disciples said, “Teacher, the Jewish leaders in Judea currently want to kill you with stones! You surely should not return there again!” 9 Jesus replied, “You know that there are 12 hours of daylight. The person who walks during the daytime will walk safely because the light allows him to see where he is going. 10 However, when a person walks during the night, he will stumble because there is no light to allow him to see where he is going.”

11 After saying these things, he told them, “Our friend Lazarus is sleeping, but I will go there to wake him up.” 12 So his disciples told him, “Lord, if he is sleeping, then he will get well.” 13 (Jesus was actually speaking about Lazarus’ death, but his disciples thought that he was talking about actual sleep.) 14 So Jesus told them clearly, “Lazarus is dead. 15 And I rejoice that I was not there when he died. I let this happen so that you may trust in me. This is for your benefit. Rather than staying here, let us go to where he is.” 16 So Thomas, whom they called “The Twin,” said to the rest of the disciples, “Let us also go with the Teacher in order that we may die with him.”

17 So when Jesus arrived in the village of Bethany, he learned that people had already put Lazarus’ dead body in a tomb four days before then. 18 (Jerusalem was only about three kilometers away from the village of Bethany.) 19 Many Jewish people came to Martha and Mary in Bethany in order to console both of them concerning their brother Lazarus’ death.
20 When Martha heard someone say that Jesus was coming, she went out to meet him. Mary did not go with her but stayed in the house. 21 When Martha met Jesus, she said to him, “Lord, if you had only been here sooner, my brother would not be dead! 22 However, even now that he is dead I am certain that God will do for you whatever you ask him to do.” 23 Jesus told her, “Your brother will live again.” 24 Martha told him, “I am certain that my brother will live again when God raises all dead people on the last day when he judges everyone.” 25 Jesus told her, “I am the one who causes dead people to live again. I am the one who gives people eternal life. Whoever trusts in me will live forever, even if his body dies. 26 All those who receive eternal life and trust in me will surely live forever. Do you believe that this is true?” 27 Martha told him, “Yes, I do, Lord! I do indeed believe that you are the Messiah, the Son of God. You are the one whom God promised would come into this world.”

28 After she said that, she returned to the house and secretly summoned her sister Mary.
She told Mary, “The Teacher has arrived, and he is summoning you.” 29 When Mary heard what her sister said, she rose quickly and went out to meet Jesus. 30 (At that time Jesus had not yet entered the village of Bethany. Rather, he was still at the place where Martha had met him.) 31 The Jewish people who were comforting Mary in her house saw her rise quickly and go outside, so they followed her. They thought that she was going to the tomb where they had buried Lazarus in order to grieve there.

32 When Mary arrived at the place where Jesus had spoken to Martha and saw him, she threw herself down on the ground in front of his feet. She told him, “Lord, if you had only been here sooner, my brother would not be dead!” 33 When Jesus saw her grieving, and the Jewish people with her also grieving, he became extremely agitated. 34 He asked, “Where have you buried his body?” They told him, “Lord, come and see where he is.” 35 Jesus started crying. 36 So the Jewish people who were with Mary said among themselves, “See how much he loved Lazarus!” 37 However, others among them said, “He could enable the blind man to see. But maybe he did not have enough power to prevent this man from dying!”

38 Jesus then was emotionally agitated again when he came to the tomb. (It was a cave, and a large rock was covering its entrance.) 39 Jesus said, “Remove the rock from the cave’s entrance.” However, Lazarus’ sister Martha told him, “Lord, by this time his body will smell bad because he died four days ago.” 40 Jesus told her, “I surely told you that if you trusted me, you would see how great God is!”

41 So some people removed the rock from the cave’s entrance. Jesus looked up toward heaven and said, “Father, I thank you for listening to me. 42 I know that you always listen to me. Nevertheless, I said that for the sake of the people standing here. I said this in order that they might be confident that you sent me.” 43 After he said that prayer, he shouted loudly, “Lazarus, come out of the tomb!” 44 The man who had died came out of the tomb! The people who prepared him for burial had wrapped his feet and hands with strips of cloth and had wrapped a cloth around his face. So Jesus told the people standing there, “Take off the strips of cloth that bind him. Allow him to go.”

45 As a result, many of the Jewish people who had come to comfort Mary and who had witnessed what Jesus had done trusted him. 46 Nevertheless, some of the people there went to the Pharisees and reported to them what Jesus had done. 47 So the ruling priests and the Pharisees gathered together the members of the highest Jewish ruling council. They were saying to each other, “What are we going to do about this man? He is performing many miraculous signs. 48 If we allow him to keep doing these miracles, everyone will trust in him and make him their king. Then the Roman army will come and destroy both our temple and our people!”

49 One member of this council was Caiaphas. He was the high priest during that year. He told them, “You people know nothing! 50 You do not realize that it would be much better for you to have one man die on behalf of the people than let the Romans kill all of the Jewish people.” 51 (Caiaphas did not say this because he thought of it himself. Rather, since he was the high priest that year, he was prophesying that Jesus would die on behalf of the Jewish people. 52 He was also prophesying that Jesus would die, not only for the Jewish people, but also in order to gather into one people all the children of God whom God has dispersed throughout the world.) 53 So in the days following the day that Caiaphas prophesied, the Jewish council made plans to kill Jesus.

54 Because of that, Jesus no longer traveled around publicly among his Jewish opponents.
Instead, he left Jerusalem and went to a town called Ephraim that is in the region near the desolate area. He remained there with his disciples for a while.

55 At that time the Jewish Passover celebration was about to take place. Many people went up to Jerusalem from the region. They came before the Passover celebration began in order to clean themselves according to the Jewish rules for attending the celebration. 56 The people who came to Jerusalem for the Passover celebration were searching for Jesus. While they were standing in the temple courtyard, they asked each other, “What do you think? He will surely not come to the Passover celebration!” 57 Some time earlier the Jewish ruling priests and the Pharisees had made a command that anyone who found out where Jesus was must report his location to them so that they could arrest him.

12 [1] Jesus arrived in the village of Bethany six days before the Jewish Passover celebration began. Bethany was the village where Lazarus dwelled. He was the man whom Jesus made alive again after he had died. [2] There in Bethany, some of Jesus' friends gave a dinner to honor Jesus. Martha served the food to the guests, and Lazarus was among those who were sitting together and eating with Jesus. [3] Mary then took a bottle that contained about half a liter of very expensive perfume, which was pure oil from nard plants, and she poured it out on Jesus' feet and then wiped his feet with her hair. The pleasant scent of the perfume filled the entire house.

[4] However, Judas Iscariot objected. (He was the one among Jesus' disciples who would soon help the Jewish leaders arrest Jesus.) He said, [5] "We should have sold this perfume for the money that a man can earn in 300 days of work. Then we could have given that money to poor people!" [6] (Judas did not say this because he cared about poor people. Rather, he said this because he was a thief. He kept charge of the bag that held their money, but he would steal the money that people gave him to put in the bag.) [7] So Jesus said, "Leave her alone! She saved the perfume in order to keep it to prepare me for the time when I die and am buried. [8] She did the right thing because poor people will always be among you whom you can help, but I will not be with you much longer."

[9] A large crowd of Jews heard that Jesus was in Bethany, so they went there. They came not only because Jesus was there, but also because they wanted to see Lazarus. He was the man whom Jesus made alive again after he had died. [10] By contrast, the ruling priests made plans to kill Lazarus as well as Jesus. [11] The ruling priests wanted to kill Lazarus because he was the reason why many of the Jews were no longer believing what they were teaching and were trusting in Jesus instead.

[12] The next day the large crowd of people that had come to Jerusalem to celebrate the Passover celebration found out that Jesus was on his way there. [13] So they cut branches off of palm trees and went out to the road to welcome him as he came into the city. They were shouting, "Please, save us! May God bless the one who comes with his authority. That one is the King of Israel!" [14] When Jesus came near to Jerusalem, he found a young donkey and sat on it in order to ride it into the city. By doing this, he fulfilled what some prophets had written in Scripture:

> 15 "Do not be afraid, you who live in Jerusalem.
> Look! Your King is coming.
> He is riding on a donkey's colt!"

16 When these events happened, his disciples did not understand that they were a fulfillment of what those prophets had written. However, after God glorified Jesus by bringing him back to life, they remembered what the prophets had written about him and that people had done those things to him.

17 The crowd of people that was following along with Jesus kept telling others that they had seen Jesus summon Lazarus to come out of the tomb and had seen Jesus make him alive again after he had died. 18 A different crowd of people went out of the city gate to meet Jesus. They did so because they heard that he had done the miraculous sign of making Lazarus alive again. 19 So the Pharisees said to each other, "See! We are failing to stop him. Look! Everyone is becoming his disciples!"

20 Some people who were not Jews were among the people who went up to Jerusalem in order to worship God during the Passover celebration. 21 They came to Philip, who was from the city of Bethsaida, which is in the region of Galilee. They asked him, "Sir, would you introduce us to Jesus?" 22 Then Philip reported this to Andrew, and they both went and told Jesus about the Greeks. 23 Jesus answered Philip and Andrew, "It is now the time for God to show everyone how great I, the Son of Man, am. 24 I am telling you the truth: My life is like a seed. Unless a seed of wheat is planted in the ground and dies, it will only be one seed. But if it dies in the ground, then it will grow and produce much wheat. 25 Anyone who wants to keep on living more than be my disciple will die, but anyone who wants to be my disciple more than to keep on living in this sinful world will keep his life forever. 26 Anyone who wants to serve me must be my disciple. My servant will be with me in heaven. My Father will honor anyone who serves me.

27 At this moment I feel greatly distressed. I should surely not say, 'Father, prevent me from experiencing this time when I will suffer and die!' No, I will not do that, because this is the very reason I have lived up to this time when I will suffer and die. 28 Father, show how great you are!"

Then God spoke from heaven, "I have already shown how great I am; I will do it again!" 29 The crowd of people that was standing there heard the voice of God as well. Some of them said it was just the sound of thunder. Some other people said that an angel had spoken to Jesus. 30 Jesus replied to them, "The voice that you heard was God's voice. He did not speak for my benefit, but for yours! 31 Now is the time for God to judge the people in this world. Now is the time when he will throw out Satan, who is the one who rules this world. 32 As for me, when people raise me high on a cross, I will cause all peoples to come to me." 33 (He said this to let the people know the way he would soon die.)

34 The crowd of people then replied to him, "We have learned from Scripture that the Messiah will live forever. So why do you say that the Son of Man will be lifted up to die on a cross? Who is this 'Son of Man' you are speaking about?" 35 Jesus told them, "I am the light that reveals God's truth and goodness. I will be with you only a little longer. Live according to my example while I am still here in order to prevent the darkness that is sin and evil from controlling you. Those who live sinfully are like people who wander around in darkness, not knowing where they are going! 36 Trust in me, the light that reveals God's truth and goodness, while I am still with you. Do this in order to be God's people, those who know his truth and goodness."

After he said those things, Jesus left them and hid himself from the people. 37 Even though Jesus had done many miraculous signs in front of the people, most of them did not trust in him. 38 Their unbelief happened in order to make come true what Isaiah the prophet had written long ago:

> "Lord, no one has believed what we said!
>
> It seems like no one has seen the power that the Lord has revealed!" 39 They could not trust in Jesus for this reason: Isaiah had also written, 40 "The Lord has made them unable to perceive what they see,
>
> and he has made them stubborn.
>
> He has done this in order that they would not perceive what they see,

and would not truly understand, and would not turn away from sin to God, and I would not forgive them."

41 Isaiah wrote that long ago, because he saw how great Jesus is and spoke concerning him.

42 Although this was true, many members of the highest Jewish governing council trusted in Jesus. Nevertheless, they did not tell others that they trusted in Jesus, because they feared that the Pharisees would ban them from entering the Jewish meeting place. 43 They feared this because they preferred that other people honor them rather than that God would honor them.

44 Jesus spoke loudly to a crowd of people, "Those who trust me are not only trusting me but also are trusting my Father, who sent me. 45 Those who see me are also seeing my Father, who sent me. 46 I came into this world as the light that reveals God's truth and goodness to everyone in the world in order that anyone who trusts in me will not stay in the darkness that is sin and evil.

47 I do not condemn anyone who listens to my teachings but refuses to obey them, because I did not come into this world in order to condemn the people in the world. Rather, I came into this world in order to save them from being punished for their sins. 48 Anyone who rejects me and does not accept and obey my teachings will be condemned according to the very teachings I have spoken. On the last day when God judges everyone, God will judge that person on the basis of my teachings. 49 This will happen because I did not speak on my own authority. Rather, my Father himself, who sent me, commanded me regarding what I should say and how I should say it. 50 I am certain that what my Father has commanded me to say is what people must believe in order to live forever in heaven. So I say exactly what my Father has told me to say."

13 1 On the day before the Passover celebration would begin, Jesus knew that it was the time for him to leave this world and to return to his Father. He always loved his disciples who were with him in this world, and he loved them to the uttermost. 2 When Jesus and his disciples were having their evening meal, the devil had already caused Judas, Simon Iscariot's son, to think that he should help the Jewish leaders arrest Jesus. 3 Jesus knew that his Father had given him complete power and authority over everything, and he also knew that he came from God and would soon return to God. 4 Because he knew those things, Jesus got up from the table where they were eating the evening meal, took off his outer clothing, and wrapped a towel around his waist. 5 He poured some water into a large bowl and started washing his disciples' feet and wiping them dry with the towel that he had wrapped around his waist.

6 When he came to Simon Peter to wash his feet, Peter told him, "Lord, you should not wash my feet!" 7 Jesus replied to him, "Right now you do not understand what I am doing, but later you will understand." 8 Peter said, "You will surely never wash my feet!" Jesus replied to him, "If I do not wash you, then you will not inherit God's blessings with me." 9 Simon Peter told him, "Lord, do not wash my feet only! Wash my hands and my head also!" 10 Jesus told him, "Anyone whom someone has washed only needs to wash his feet. The rest of his body is clean. You disciples are clean, but not all of you are clean." 11 (Jesus said this about being spiritually clean, because he knew who was going to help the Jewish leaders arrest him. That is the reason he said, "Not all of you are clean.")

12 After he finished washing their feet, he put his outer clothing on again. Then he sat down at the table again and told them, "You must understand what I have just done for you! 13 You rightly call me 'Teacher' and 'Lord,' because that is what I am. 14 Since I, your teacher and Lord, have humbly served you by washing your feet, you also should humbly serve each other by washing each other's feet. 15 By washing your feet I have given you an example to follow in order that you should humbly serve each other as I have humbly served you. 16 I am telling you the truth: Just as a servant is not more important than his master, nor is a messenger more important than the person who has sent him, you are not more important than me. 17 Since you now know that you should humbly serve each other, God will bless you if you do so.

18 I am not saying that all of you will be blessed. I know well the people whom I have chosen to be my disciples. However, what is about to happen must take place in order that what a prophet wrote in scripture can come true: 'The one who shared a meal with me as a friend has opposed me.'

19 From now on I am telling you what will happen before it happens in order that, when it does happen, you may trust that I am God. 20 I am telling you the truth: Whoever accepts the one I send out also accepts me; and whoever accepts me also accepts my Father who sent me."

21 After Jesus said this, he felt disturbed. He solemnly declared, "I am telling you the truth: One of you is going to give me up to my opponents." 22 His disciples kept looking at one another and wondering who among them he was talking about. 23 One of his disciples, John whom Jesus loved, was sitting at the table beside Jesus. 24 Simon Peter made a gesture to him to indicate that he should ask Jesus which disciple he was talking about. 25 So John leaned back against Jesus and quietly asked him, "Lord, who is the one who will betray you?"
26 Jesus replied, "It is the man to whom I will give this piece of bread after I dip it in the bowl." Then he dipped the bread in the bowl and gave it to Judas, Simon Iscariot's son. 27 As soon as Judas took the piece of bread from Jesus, Satan took control of him. Jesus then told him, "Do quickly what you have planned to do." 28 (No one else among those sitting at the table knew why Jesus had said that to Judas. 29 Some of them thought that Jesus was telling him to go and buy some things that they needed for the Passover celebration or to give some money to the poor. They thought this because Judas had the bag that held their money.) 30 So after Judas took the bread from Jesus, he immediately went out. (It was night.)

31 So after Judas left, Jesus said, "Now God has shown people how great I, the Son of Man, am. I have also shown people how great God is. 32 God himself will show people how great I, the Son of Man, am, and he will do this right away.

33 You whom I love as though you were my children, I will be with you only a little while longer. Then you will look for me, but it will be just like I told the Jewish leaders and am telling you now: You will not be able to come to the place where I am going. 34 I now give you this new command in order that you might love each other: You must love each other in the same way that I have loved you. 35 If you love each other, everyone who sees that love will know that you are my disciples."

36 Simon Peter said to him, "Lord, where are you going?" Jesus replied, "You cannot go with me now to the place where I am going, but you will go there later." 37 Peter told him,

“Lord, why can I not go with you now? I am willing to die for you!” 38 Jesus replied, “You are not really willing to die for me! I am telling you the truth: You will surely say three times that you do not know me before the rooster crows in the morning!”

14 1 “Do not be distressed. Trust God. Trust me as well. 2 There are many places for people to dwell where my Father dwells. If that were not true, I would have told you so, because I will go there to prepare a place for you to dwell. 3 And after I go there to prepare a place for you to dwell, I will return and take you to be with me, in order for you also to be with me where I am. 4 You know how to go to the place where I am going.”

5 Thomas said to him, “Lord, we have no idea where you are going! We cannot possibly know how to go there!” 6 Jesus told him, “I am how people can go there. I am the one who reveals what is true about God, and the one who gives eternal life to people. The only way people can come to my Father is by trusting me. 7 Since you know who I am, you know my Father also. From this time forward, you know him, and it is as though you have seen him.”

8 Philip said to Jesus, “Lord, let us see the Father and that will satisfy us!” 9 Jesus said to him, “I have been with you all for such a long time. Surely you know me, Philip! Those who have seen me are like those who have seen my Father. So you have no reason to say ‘Let us see the Father’! 10 You surely must believe that I and my Father are completely united! I did not speak all that I have spoken to you on my own. Rather, my Father who is united with me is working his own miraculous works through me. 11 Trust me when I say that I and my Father are completely united! Otherwise, if you are not going to trust what I say, at least trust me on account of all the miraculous works that you have seen me do. 12 I am telling you the truth: Whoever trusts in me will also do the miraculous works that I do. He will do even greater works than those I do, because I am going to my Father. 13 I will do anything that you request as my representative. I will do this in order that I, his Son, might show how great my Father is. 14 I will do anything that you request from me as my representative.

15 If you really love me, you will obey everything that I have commanded you. 16 Then I will request from my Father, and he will answer me by giving you another one to help you in order for him to be with you forever. 17 He is the Holy Spirit who declares what is true about God. The unbelieving people in the world cannot accept him, because they do not see him or know him. You disciples know this Spirit because he dwells with you, and he will later dwell in you. 18 I will not leave you without anyone to take care of you. I will soon return to you. 19 In a little while the unbelievers in the world will not see me anymore, but you yourselves will see me again. Because I will soon live again, you too will live again. 20 When you see me again, you will know that I am united with my Father and that you and I are completely united. 21 Whoever knows and obeys what I command truly loves me. And my Father loves whoever loves me. I will love that person too, and I will reveal myself to that person."

22 Judas (not Judas Iscariot, but a different disciple with the same name) spoke to Jesus. He said, "Lord, what has changed to cause you to reveal yourself just to us and not to all the people in the world?" 23 Jesus replied to him, "Whoever loves me obeys my teaching. My Father will love that person. He and I will come to that person and dwell inside that person. 24 Whoever does not love me does not obey my teachings. What you have just heard me say I did not say on my own. Rather, what I have said has come from my Father, who has sent me. 25 I have said these things to you while I am still with you. 26 But my Father will send the Holy Spirit in my place. He is the one who will help you. He will teach you all of God's truth that you need to know. He will also cause you to remember all the things that I have told you. 27 As I leave you I give you a peaceful feeling. It is my peaceful feeling that I am giving to you. I give to you a peaceful feeling in a different manner than the people in the world give it. Do not be distressed or afraid.

28 You heard me tell you that I am going away and will later return to you. If you really loved me, you would rejoice that I am returning to my Father in heaven, because he is superior to me. 29 I have told you these things now before they happen so that you will continue to trust me when they do happen. 30 I will not be able to talk with you much longer, because Satan, the one who rules this world, is coming. But he has no control over me. 31 However, this will happen in order for the people in the world to know that I love my Father and I will do exactly what my Father has commanded me to do. Rise, let us leave this place."

15 1 "I am like a genuine vine that grows fruit. My Father is like a gardener who takes care of it. 2 My Father cuts off and removes every branch that seems to be part of me but does not produce fruit. As for every branch that produces fruit, he cleans it by pruning it so that it may produce even more fruit. 3 You are like branches that have already been cleaned by pruning because of the teaching that I have told you before. 4 Stay united with me, and I will stay united with you. As the branch cannot produce any fruit unless it stays attached to the vine, so you cannot produce spiritual fruit unless you stay united with me.

5 I am like the vine; you are like the branches. If you stay united with me and I stay united with you, you will produce a lot of fruit. This is true because you cannot do anything without my help. 6 As for anyone who does not stay united with me, that person is like a branch that the gardener cuts off and throws away. After such branches dry up, the gardener's workers pick them up and throw them into a fire and burn them up. 7 If you stay united with me and obey what I have taught you, you can request anything from God that you want, and he will grant your request. 8 You show people how great my Father is by producing a lot of fruit and being my disciples.

9 I have loved you in the same way that my Father has loved me. Now keep living in a way that is appropriate for those whom I love. 10 If you obey what I have commanded you, you will be acting in a way that is appropriate for those whom I love, just like I have obeyed what my Father has commanded me, and I act in a way that is appropriate for someone whom he loves. 11 I told you these things in order that you may be as joyful as I am and in order that you may be joyful to the greatest degree. 12 This is what I am commanding you to do: Love each other in the way that I have loved you. 13 No one has greater love than a person who is willing to die for his friends. 14 You are really my friends if you keep doing what I have commanded you to do. 15 I am not going to call you my servants any longer, because a servant does not understand what his master is doing. I now call you friends, because I have made you understand everything that my Father has told me. 16 You did not choose to be my disciples. Rather, I chose you to be my disciples and assigned you to this role in order that you would go out and produce spiritual fruit and in order that the fruit you produce should last forever. I also chose you in order that my Father would give you everything that you request from him as my representatives. 17 I command you to do these things in order that you would love one another.

18 Since the people who oppose God in the world detest you, you must realize that they detested me first. 19 If you were part of the people who oppose God in the world, those unbelievers would love you as they love their own. However, I chose you to come out from among them. The people who oppose God in the world detest you because you are not part of them. 20 Remember that I told you that a servant is not more important than his master. Since they have caused me to suffer, they will certainly cause you to suffer as well. If any of them have obeyed my teaching, they will also obey what you teach. 21 Yet the unbelievers in this world will do all these hateful things to you because you represent me and because they do not know my Father who has sent me here. 22 If I had not come and taught them God's truth, they would not have been guilty of rejecting me and my message. However, since I have come and taught them, now they do not have any excuse for their sin. 23 Whoever detests me also detests my Father. 24 If I had not performed miraculous works among them that no one else has ever done, they would not be guilty of sin. Yet, as it is, they have seen these works and detest me. They also detest my Father. 25 However, this has happened in order that these words that a prophet wrote in their scriptures would come true: 'They hated me for no reason.'

26 When I send to you from my Father the one who will help you, he will tell people who I am. He is the Holy Spirit, who declares what is true about God and goes forth from my Father. 27 You also must tell everyone about me, because you have been with me since the very first days when I began my work."

16 1 I told you about these things that will happen so that you would continue trusting in me when they do happen. 2 The Jews who oppose me will ban you from entering the Jewish meeting places. Yet something even worse will happen. The time is coming when all the people who will kill you will think that they are pleasing God by doing so. 3 They will do such things because they have never known who I really am, nor who my Father is. 4 I have told you about these things that will happen in order that when they happen, you will remember that I told you they would happen. I did not tell you about them in the very first days when I began my work, because I was with you then.

5 "Now I am going back to my Father who sent me. Yet now none of you is asking me where I am going! 6 You are very sad because I have told you these things. 7 Nevertheless, I now tell you true information: It is better for you that I leave than that I stay. This is true because if I do not leave, then the one who will help you will not come to you. However, If I go away, then I will send him to you. 8 When that one who will help comes, he will convict people in the world of the sins they have committed. He will convict them of not being righteous, and he will convict them that God will judge them. 9 He will convict people of their sin, because they have sinned by not trusting in me. 10 He will convict people of not being righteous, because I am going back to my Father, and you will no longer see me as the example of how to be righteous. 11 He will convict people that God will judge them, because he has condemned Satan, who is the one who rules this world.

12 I want to tell you many more things. However, if I tell you now, you will not be able to accept them. 13 When the Holy Spirit, who declares what is true about God, comes, he will enable you to understand all the truth you need to know. He can do so because he will not speak from his own authority. Rather, he will say whatever he hears from God, and he will tell you ahead of time about things that will happen. 14 The Holy Spirit will show how great I am by telling you what he has heard from me. 15 Everything my Father has belongs to me. That is why I said that the Holy Spirit will tell you what he has heard from me.

16 After a short time you will not see me, and after a short time, you will see me again."
17 Some of his disciples then asked one another, "What does Jesus mean when he says to us, 'After a short time you will not see me, and after a short time, you will see me again'? And what does he mean when he says, 'Because I am going back to my Father'?" 18 So they kept asking, "What does 'after a short time' mean? We do not understand what he is saying."

19 Jesus recognized that his disciples wanted to ask him more questions. So he said to them, "You are asking each other what I meant when I said, 'After a short time you will not see me, and after a short time, you will see me again.' 20 I am telling you the truth: You will cry and mourn, but the people who oppose God in the world will rejoice. You will be very sad, but you will change from being sad to being joyful. 21 A woman experiences pain when she gives birth to a child, because it is the time for her to give birth. Yet she forgets that she suffered after she has given birth to the child, because she is joyful about the fact that she has brought a human being into the world. 22 In the same way, although you are sad at this time, I will see you again, and you will rejoice, and no one will stop you from rejoicing. 23 When you see me again, you will not ask me anything. I am telling you the truth: My Father will give you whatever you request from him as my representatives. 24 Up to now you have not requested anything from my Father as my representatives. Request anything from my Father and you will receive whatever you request. God will give it to you in order that you may be joyful to the greatest degree.

25 I have told you these things using figurative language, but there will soon be a time when I will not use that kind of language to speak with you anymore. Rather, I will tell you about my Father using language that you can easily understand. 26 When you see me again, you will request anything from God as my representatives, and I will not have to ask my Father on your behalf, 27 because my Father himself loves you because you love me and trust that I came here from God. 28 I came from my Father and entered this world. Again I tell you that I will leave this world and go back to my Father."

29 His disciples responded, "Finally! Now you are using language that we can easily understand and not using figurative language. 30 Now we understand that you know everything. There is no need for anyone to ask you questions because you already know what that person will ask. This is why we trust that you came here from God."

31 Jesus replied to them, "Now you finally trust me! 32 Look! There will soon be a time, and that time will be very soon, when others will scatter you everywhere. Each of you will go to his own home, and you will leave me by myself. However, I will not be by myself, because my Father is always with me. 33 I have told you all these things that will happen in order that you may feel peaceful because you are united with me. In this world you will be afflicted, but be brave! I have defeated the people who oppose God in the world!"

17 1 After Jesus told his disciples about these things that would happen, he looked up toward heaven and said, "Father, it is now time for me to suffer and die. Show everyone how great I, your Son, am in order that I may show everyone how great you are. 2 Please do this because you gave me authority over all people in order that I might enable all those whom you chose to come to me to live forever with me in heaven. 3 This is what it means to live forever: to know you, who are the only real God, and to know me, Jesus the Messiah, the one whom you have sent into the world. 4 I have shown everyone how great you are while I have been on the earth. I did this by finishing the work that you assigned me to do. 5 Father, at this time show how great I am in your presence with the same greatness that I had in your presence before the time we created the world.

6 I have shown who you really are to the men whom you have given me from among the people in the world. They belonged to you and you have given them to me. They have obeyed your teaching. 7 At this time they know that everything you have given me has come from you. 8 They know this because I have told them the teachings that you told me. They themselves accepted those teachings, and they are certain that I came from you, and they believe that you sent me here. 9 I am praying for them. I am not praying for the people who oppose you in the world. Rather, I am praying for those people whom you gave me, because they belong to you. 10 All the disciples that are mine belong to you, and all the disciples that belong to you are mine. They show everyone how great I am. 11 I will not stay in this sinful world any longer. However, my disciples are staying in it. I will soon return to you. My Father, who is set apart, keep them safe by your same power that you gave to me, in order that they may be united in the same way that we are united. 12 During the time that I have been with them, I have kept them safe by your same power that you gave to me. I have guarded them, and only one of them will be eternally ruined. He is the one whom you had destined to be eternally ruined in order that the scriptures would come true.

13 At this time I am about to return to you. I have said these things while I am in this sinful world in order that I may give them my complete joy. 14 I have told them your teaching. Thus the people who oppose you in the world have detested them because, like me, they do not belong to those who oppose you. 15 I am not requesting that you take my disciples out of this sinful world. Rather, I am requesting that you keep them safe from being harmed by Satan, the evil one. 16 Like me, they do not belong to the people who oppose you in the world. 17 Set my disciples apart to serve you by enabling them to know and live according to what is true. Your teaching is what is true. 18 I am sending them among the people in the world in the same way that you sent me among them. 19 I set myself apart as a sacrifice on their behalf in order that they also may set themselves apart to serve you by knowing and living according to what is true."

20 Now I am praying not only for these disciples here, but I am praying also for those people who will trust in me by means of what my disciples say. 21 I pray that they may all be united in the same way that you, my Father, and I are completely united. I pray that they may also be united to us in order that the people in the world might know that you sent me here.

22 In order that they may be united in the same way that we are united, I have honored the people who trust in me just like you honored me. 23 This means that I am united with them, and you are united with me. I have done this in order that they may be completely united together in order that the people in the world may know that you sent me here and that you love the people who trust in me in the same way that you love me.

24 "My Father, I want these people whom you have given to me to be with me where I will be in heaven in order that they can see how glorious I am. You made me glorious because you have loved me from before the time when we created the universe.

25 My Father, who always does what is right, the people who oppose you in the world do not know who you are, but I know who you are. These people who trust me know that you have sent me here. 26 I have made them know who you are. I will continue to do so in order that they may love others like you love me and in order that I may be united with them."

18 1 After Jesus finished praying, he left with his disciples and crossed the Kidron Valley. On the other side of the valley they entered into a grove of olive trees.

2 Judas is the one who was about to help Jesus' opponents arrest him. He knew the place where Jesus was because Jesus often went there with his disciples. 3 So Judas brought to that grove a group of Roman soldiers and some temple guards who had been sent by the ruling priests and Pharisees. They were carrying torches, lamps, and weapons. 4 Because Jesus knew what was going to happen to him, he went forward and asked the soldiers and temple guards, "Who are you looking for?" 5 They replied to him, "Jesus from Nazareth." Jesus told them, "I am that person." (Judas was standing with them. He was the one who was helping Jesus' opponents arrest him.) 6 When Jesus told them, "I am that person," they stepped back and involuntarily fell down to the ground. 7 Jesus then asked them again, "Who are you looking for?" They answered, "Jesus from Nazareth." 8 Jesus replied, "I told you that I am that person. Since I am the one whom you are looking for, let these other men go." 9 (This happened in order that these words that he had said to his Father would come true: "I did not lose even one of those whom you gave me.")

10 Simon Peter had a short sword. He took it out of its sheath and struck the high priest's servant with it, cutting off his right ear. Malchus was that servant's name. 11 Jesus then told Peter, "Put your short sword back into its sheath! I must surely suffer in the way that my Father has planned for me to suffer!"

12 The group of Roman soldiers, along with their leader and some of the temple guards from the Jewish leaders, seized Jesus and tied his hands. 13 Then they took him to Annas first, because he was Caiaphas's father-in-law, and Caiaphas was the high priest that year. 14 (It was Caiaphas who had advised the other Jewish leaders that it would be much better to have one man die on behalf of the people than to let the Romans kill them.)

15 Simon Peter followed Jesus, and so did one other disciple. Annas the high priest knew the other disciple, so he was allowed to enter the high priest's courtyard when the soldiers and guards took Jesus there. 16 However, Peter had to stay outside at the door. Therefore, that disciple who knew the high priest went out again and spoke to the servant girl who was watching the door. Then he was allowed to bring Peter into the courtyard. 17 That servant girl who was watching the door then told Peter, "You are surely one of the disciples of the man whom they have arrested!" He replied, "No, I am not!" 18 (It was cold, so the high priest's servants and the temple guards made a fire and were standing and warming themselves around it. Peter was also standing and warming himself there with them.)

19 The high priest then questioned Jesus about his disciples and what he had been teaching them. 20 Jesus replied to him, "I have spoken in public to everyone who would listen. I have always taught in the Jewish meeting places and in the temple. I have taught in the places where many Jews gather. I have never said anything secretly. 21 You should not ask me! Ask the people who heard what I taught them. They certainly know what I said." 22 After Jesus said this, one of the temple guards who was standing near him slapped him. He said, "You should not answer the high priest like that!" 23 Jesus replied to him, "If what I said was wrong, tell me what it was. However, if what I said was right, you should not slap me." 24 Then Annas sent Jesus to Caiaphas, the other high priest, while his hands were still tied.

25 Meanwhile, Simon Peter was still standing and warming himself in the courtyard, when someone said to him, "You are surely also one of the disciples of this man whom they have arrested!" Peter denied this and said, "No, I am not!" 26 One of the high priest's servants was a relative of the man whose ear Peter had cut off. He said to Peter, "Surely I saw you in the olive tree grove with the man whom they have arrested!" 27 Peter then again denied that he had been with Jesus. A rooster crowed immediately after he did that.

28 The Jewish leaders then brought Jesus from Caiaphas' house to the headquarters of Pilate, the Roman governor. (It was early morning. The Jewish leaders did not enter Pilate's headquarters because Pilate was not a Jew. If they entered a non-Jew's home, they thought they would defile themselves and be unable to eat the Passover celebration meal.) 29 So Pilate came out to talk to them. He asked them, "What are you accusing this man of doing?" 30 The Jewish leaders replied, "If this man were not a criminal, we would not have brought him to you!" 31 So Pilate told them, "You yourselves take him and judge him by your own law." The Jewish leaders replied, "We want to execute him, but your Roman law prevents us from doing that." 32 (This happened in order that what Jesus had said about how he would soon die would come true.)

33 Pilate then went back inside his headquarters. He commanded soldiers to bring Jesus to him, and he asked him, "Are you the King of the Jews?" 34 Jesus replied, "Are you asking me this question because you thought of it yourself, or did others tell you this concerning me?" 35 Pilate replied, "I am not a Jew! Your own countrymen and the ruling priests brought you to me. What wrong have you done?" 36 Jesus replied, "The kingdom that I rule over does not belong to this sinful world. If it did, my servants would have fought in order to prevent the Jewish leaders from arresting me. But, as it is, the kingdom that I rule over does not belong to this sinful world." 37 Then Pilate asked him, "So you are a king?" Jesus replied, "You yourself say so. This is why I was born into this world: I came in order to tell people what is true about God. Everyone who believes what is true about God accepts and obeys what I say." 38 Pilate said to him, "Nobody knows what is really true!"

After Pilate said that, he went outside and talked to the Jewish leaders again. He told them, "I have found no evidence that this man has broken a law. 39 However, you Jews have a custom: Every year during the Passover celebration you ask me, and I release to you someone who is in prison. So do you want me to release your king to you?" 40 The Jewish leaders then shouted again, “No, do not release this man, but release Barabbas!” (Barabbas was a revolutionary.)

19 1 So at that time Pilate ordered his soldiers to take Jesus and beat him with whips.

2 The soldiers also took some branches with thorns on them and wound them together to make something like a crown. Then they put it on Jesus’ head and put a purple robe on him in order to mock him. 3 They kept approaching him and jeering at him, saying, “We salute you, King of the Jews!” and kept slapping his face.

4 Pilate came outside again and said to the Jewish leaders, “Look, I am about to bring him out to you in order that you can know that I have found no evidence that this man has broken a law.” 5 So Jesus came out. He was wearing the crown made of branches with thorns and the purple robe. Pilate said to the Jewish leaders, “Look, here is the man!” 6 When the ruling priests and temple guards saw Jesus, they shouted, “Crucify him! Crucify him!” Pilate told them, “You yourselves take him and crucify him! As for me, I have found no evidence that this man has broken a law.” 7 The Jewish leaders replied to Pilate, “We have a certain law that says he ought to die, because he claimed to be the Son of God.” 8 When Pilate heard that, he was more afraid than before of what would happen to himself if he condemned Jesus to die. 9 He entered his headquarters once more and commanded the soldiers to bring Jesus back inside. Then he asked Jesus, “Where did you come from?” However, Jesus did not answer his question. 10 So Pilate said to him, “You should answer me! You surely know that I have the power to release you, and I also have the power to crucify you!” 11 Jesus replied to him, “The only power you have over me is the power that God has given you. So the man who brought me to you has committed a worse sin than you are committing.”

12 From that moment on, Pilate kept trying to release Jesus. However, the Jewish leaders cried out, “If you release this man, you are not loyal to Caesar! Anyone who claims to be a king opposes Caesar.” 13 So when Pilate heard that, he ordered his soldiers to bring Jesus out. Then Pilate sat down to pronounce a verdict on the seat where he usually pronounced verdicts. This was at a place people called “The Stone Pavement,” which was “Gabbatha” in the language spoken by the Jews. 14 (It was the day before the Passover celebration, which was the day when the Jewish people prepared for the celebration. It was almost noon.) Pilate said to the Jewish leaders, “Look, here is your king!” 15 They shouted, “Kill him! Kill him! Crucify him!” Pilate mocked them by saying, “Should I order my soldiers to crucify your king?” The ruling priests replied, “Caesar is our only king!” 16 Then, because of what they said, Pilate ordered his soldiers to crucify Jesus. Then the soldiers took Jesus away in order to crucify him.

17 Jesus went out, carrying his cross by himself to the place that people called “The Place of a Skull,” which was “Golgotha” in the language spoken by the Jews. 18 The soldiers crucified him at that place. They also crucified two other men with him. One man was on either side of Jesus, so that Jesus was between them.

19 Pilate also ordered someone to write a notice on a board and fasten it to Jesus’ cross. That person wrote on it, “Jesus from Nazareth, the King of the Jews.” 20 Many Jewish people read this notice because the place where the soldiers crucified Jesus was close to the city of Jerusalem and because someone wrote the notice in three languages, which were the languages spoken by Jews, Romans, and Greeks. 21 The ruling Jewish priests returned to Pilate and said, “You should not have written on that notice, ‘The King of the Jews.’ Rather, you should have written, ‘This man said that he is the King of the Jews’.” 22 Pilate replied, “What I ordered my soldiers to write on the notice is what they have written. I will not change it.” 23 After the soldiers had put Jesus on the cross, they took his clothes and divided them into four equal parts, one part was for each soldier. However, they kept his tunic separate. The weaver had woven this tunic from top to bottom from one piece of cloth that did not have any seams. 24 So the soldiers said to each other, “Let us not tear this tunic. Instead, let us decide who will keep it by gambling and giving it to the winner.” That occurred in order to make this scripture come true:

> “They divided my clothes among them.
> They gambled for my clothing.”

That is why the soldiers did those things.

25 Jesus’ mother, his mother’s sister, Mary the wife of Clopas, and Mary Magdalene were all standing near the cross that he was hanging on. 26 When Jesus saw his mother standing there and the disciple John whom Jesus loved standing near her, he told his mother, “Madam, here is the one who will take care of you like a son would.” 27 Next, he said to John, “Here is the one whom you will take care of like you would your own mother!" From that moment, John took her to live in his own home.

28 A little while later, because Jesus knew that he had already done everything that God had sent him to do, and in order to make another prophecy in scripture come true, he said, "I am thirsty!" 29 Someone had put a jar containing cheap wine there and Jesus was thirsty. So the soldiers took a reed from a hyssop plant and put a sponge on it. Then they dipped the sponge in the cheap wine and held it up to Jesus' mouth. 30 So Jesus drank the cheap wine and then said, "I have completed everything that I came here to do!" And he bowed his head and voluntarily died.

31 The Jewish leaders then asked Pilate to order his soldiers to break the legs of the three men on crosses so that the men would die more quickly and take away their bodies in order that the bodies would not remain on the crosses during the Jewish day for rest. They asked this because it was the day when the Jewish people prepared for the Passover celebration and the day for rest, and leaving dead bodies on crosses during those days violated Jewish law. (Since the next day was also the day for rest, it was a very important day.) 32 So the soldiers came and broke the legs of the first man, who had been crucified at the same time as Jesus. Then they broke the legs of the other man. 33 However, when they came to Jesus, they saw that he was dead already. So they did not break his legs. 34 Instead, one of the soldiers stabbed Jesus' side with a spear, and right away blood and water poured out of the wound. 35 (I, John, am the one who saw this happen and have testified about it and what I have testified is true. I am certain that I am saying what is true; I say it in order that you may trust in Jesus as well.) 36 These things happened to Jesus' body in order to make this prophecy in scripture come true: "No one will break any of his bones."

37 They also made another prophecy in scripture come true. It states: "They will look at the man whom they have stabbed."

38 After these things happened, Joseph, who was a man originally from the city of Arimathea, asked Pilate to allow him to take away Jesus' body. He did this because he was one of Jesus' disciples. However, he did not tell anyone that, because he was afraid of the other Jewish leaders. Pilate allowed Joseph to take away Jesus' body, so Joseph went and did so. 39 Nicodemus also came. He was the man who had once come and spoken with Jesus at night.

He brought a mixture of myrrh and aloe spices to prepare Jesus' body for burial. Those spices weighed about 33 kilograms. 40 They took Jesus' body and wrapped strips of linen cloth around it and put the myrrh and aloe spices under the strips of cloth. They did this according to the Jewish customs about burying bodies. 41 (There was a garden near the place where the soldiers had crucified Jesus. In the garden was a newly made burial cave. No one had yet buried anyone in that cave.) 42 So they put Jesus' body in that tomb because it was nearby and because it was the day when the Jewish people prepared for the Passover celebration so they had to bury the body before sundown.

20 1 Early on Sunday morning, while it was still dark, Mary Magdalene came to the tomb where they had buried Jesus. She saw that someone had moved the stone away from the entrance to the tomb. 2 So she ran to where Simon Peter and the other disciple, John, whom Jesus loved, were staying. She told them, "Some people have removed the Lord Jesus' body from the tomb, and we do not know where they have put it!" 3 When they heard this, Peter and John left where they were staying and went to the tomb. 4 They were both running, but John ran faster than Peter and reached the tomb before him. 5 When John bent down and looked into the tomb, he saw the strips of linen cloth that they had wrapped around Jesus' body lying where his body had lain, but he did not go into the tomb. 6 Simon Peter was running behind John. He arrived there as well and went inside the tomb. He also saw the strips of linen cloth lying where Jesus' body had lain. 7 Peter also saw the cloth that someone had wrapped around Jesus' head. It was not lying with the strips of linen cloth. Rather, someone had folded it and set it apart from them. 8 Then John, that other disciple who had reached the tomb before Peter, went inside as well. He saw these things and believed that Jesus had become alive again. 9 (At that time they did not understand what the prophets had written in those scriptures which said that Jesus had to die and become alive again.)

10 The disciples then returned to the places where they were staying in Jerusalem. 11 Mary Magdalene remained standing and crying outside of the tomb. While she was crying, she bent down and looked inside the tomb. 12 She saw two angels wearing white clothing. They were sitting on the place where people had laid Jesus' body. One angel was sitting on the place where Jesus' head had been. The other angel was sitting on the place where Jesus' feet had been. 13 They asked her, "Madam, why are you crying?" She told them, "I am crying because some people have removed my Lord Jesus' body from this tomb, and I do not know where they have put it!" 14 After she said that, she turned around and saw someone standing there. It was Jesus, but she did not recognize him. 15 He asked her, "Madam, why are you crying? Who are you looking for?" She thought that the man speaking to her was the gardener, so she told him, "Sir, if you have carried Jesus' body away, tell me where you have put it. I will take it and bury it again." 16 Jesus called her by name, saying, "Mary!" She turned toward him again and said to him, "Rabboni!" (which means "Teacher" in the language spoken by the Jews). 17 Jesus told her, "Stop clinging to me, because I have not yet returned to heaven to be with my Father. Go to the disciples, my brothers, and tell them that I am about to return to heaven to be with my God and Father, who is also your God and Father." 18 Mary Magdalene went to Jesus' disciples and told them, "I have seen the Lord Jesus!" She also told them what Jesus had told her.

19 On the evening of that same Sunday, the disciples had locked the doors of the place where they were staying, because they were afraid of the Jewish leaders. Jesus suddenly arrived and stood among them. He told them, "May God give you peace!" 20 After he said this, he showed his disciples the wounds that were in his hands and side. They were very happy when they saw the Lord Jesus! 21 Jesus then told them a second time, "May God give you peace! I am sending you into the world just like my Father sent me." 22 After he said this, Jesus blew on them and said, "Accept the Holy Spirit. 23 If you forgive anyone's sins, God will forgive that person for those sins. If you do not forgive someone's sins, God will not forgive that person for those sins."

24 Thomas, one of Jesus' 12 representatives, whom they called "The Twin," was not there among his other disciples while Jesus was there among them. 25 The other disciples told Thomas, "We have seen the Lord Jesus!" However, he told them, "I will only believe you if I see the holes in his hands that were caused by nails and put my fingers in them and if I put my hand into the wound on his side that was made by a spear."

26 Eight days later, Jesus' disciples were again inside a house, and this time Thomas was with them. Although they had locked the doors, Jesus came and stood among them. He said to them, "May God give you peace!" 27 Then he said to Thomas, "Put your finger into the holes here, and see the holes in my hands, and put out your hand, and place it in the wound in my side! Stop doubting that I became alive again. Rather, believe that it is true!" 28 Thomas replied, “You are my Lord and my God!” 29 Jesus told him, “Now you believe that I have become alive again because you see me. God surely blesses those who have not seen me but yet believe that I have become alive again.”

30 Now Jesus also did many other miraculous signs while his disciples were with him, but I did not write about them in this book. 31 Nevertheless, I have written about the signs in this book in order that you may trust that Jesus is the Messiah, the Son of God. I also wrote about these things in order that, by trusting that Jesus is the Messiah, you may have eternal life through him.

1 After those things happened, Jesus appeared again to his disciples by the Sea of Tiberias, which is also known as the Sea of Galilee. This is how he appeared to them: 2 Simon Peter, Thomas (whom they called “The Twin”), Nathaniel (who was from Cana, which is a town in the region of Galilee), the sons of Zebedee (James and John), and two of Jesus’ other disciples were together. 3 Simon Peter told the other disciples with him, “I am going to catch some fish.” They told him, “We will go with you.” They went out and got into the boat and fished, but they did not catch any fish that night. 4 At dawn the next morning Jesus stood on the shore of the sea, but the disciples who were fishing did not know that it was him. 5 Jesus then called to them, “Dear friends, you do not have any fish, do you?” They replied, “We do not.” 6 He told them, “Throw your net off the right side of the boat and you will catch some fish.” So they did so, and they caught so many fish that they were not able to pull the net into the boat. 7 I, the disciple whom Jesus loved, then told Peter, “It is the Lord Jesus!” So when Simon Peter heard this, he put on his coat (he had taken it off to work) and jumped into the water to swim to the shore. 8 The rest of the disciples who had been fishing came to the shore in the boat, while pulling the net full of fish behind the boat. (They were not far from the shore, only 90 meters away.) 9 When they reached the shore, they saw a fire that Jesus had prepared and a fish he was cooking on it. There was also a loaf of bread. 10 Jesus told them, “Bring over here some of those fish that you have just caught!” 11 So Simon Peter went back to the boat and dragged the net to the shore. It was full of 153 large fish. Even though there were so many fish, the net did not tear. 12 Jesus told them, “Come here and eat breakfast!” None of the disciples were bold enough to ask him who he was. They knew it was the Lord Jesus. 13 Jesus came and took the bread and gave it to them. He did the same with the fish. 14 (This was the third time that Jesus appeared to the disciples after God had caused him to become alive again.)

15 When they finished eating breakfast, Jesus asked Simon Peter, "Simon, son of John, do you love me more than these others love me?" Peter replied to him, "Yes, Lord, you know that I love you." Jesus told him, "Take care of those who trust in me." 16 Jesus asked him a second time, "Simon, son of John, do you love me?" He replied to him, "Yes, Lord, you know that I love you." Jesus told him, "Take care of those who trust in me." 17 Jesus asked him a third time, "Simon, son of John, do you love me?" Peter was sad because Jesus asked him three times if he loved him. Peter replied to him, "Lord, you know everything. You know that I love you." Jesus told him, "Take care of those who trust in me. 18 I am telling you the truth: When you were young, you put your own clothes on, and you walked wherever you wanted to go. However, when you are old, you will extend your hands away from your body, and someone else will put clothes on you and take you where you do not want to go." 19 (Jesus said this to indicate how Peter would die in order to show people how great God is). Then Jesus told him, "Come be my disciple!"

20 When Peter turned around, he saw John, the disciple whom Jesus loved, walking behind them. John was the one who had leaned close to Jesus during the dinner before Jesus died and asked, "Lord, who is going to betray you?" 21 So when Peter saw John, he asked Jesus, "Lord, what is going to happen to this man?" 22 Jesus said to him, "If I want him to continue living until I return, that is not your concern! As for you, continue to be my disciple!" 23 Because Jesus said this, the rumor that the disciple John was not going to die was repeated among the believers. However, Jesus did not tell Peter that John would not die. Rather, he said, "If I want him to continue living until I return, that is not your concern!"

24 I, John, am the disciple who is testifying about all these things, and I have written them down in this book. We know that what I have testified is true.

25 Jesus also did so many other things that if people wrote down every one of them, I suppose that the whole world would not even be big enough to contain the books that those people would write about them.

Acts

1 Dear Theophilus,

In the first book that I wrote for you, I told about many of Jesus' actions and teachings. 2 I told you about those things up to the moment when God took Jesus up to heaven. Before Jesus went to heaven, he gave instructions to his chosen Representatives as the Holy Spirit guided him. 3 Even though the Romans executed Jesus on a cross, God made him alive again. Jesus then went to his Representatives and other disciples and proved to them in many convincing ways that he truly was alive again. He met with them at different times over a period of 40 days. He talked with them about how God would rule the lives of people everywhere.

4 One time while Jesus was with his disciples, he told them, "I want you to stay here in the city of Jerusalem and wait until God our Father sends his Spirit to you. As I told you, he promised that he would do that. 5 John baptized people in water, but within a few days God is going to baptize you in the Holy Spirit."

6 One day when the Representatives were meeting together with Jesus, they asked him, "Lord, will you now become our king so that we Israelite people will have our own king once again?" 7 He replied to them, "You do not need to know when that will happen. God my Father alone has decided when he will make me king." 8 But when the Holy Spirit comes to you, he will enable you to tell people about me powerfully. You will do this here in the city of Jerusalem. You will do it in the nearby regions of Judea and Samaria. But you will also do it all over the world. 9 After he said that, he started to rise up into heaven while they watched. But then a cloud blocked their view so that they could no longer see him.

10 While they were still staring toward the sky as Jesus was going up, suddenly two angels in human form stood beside them. Their clothes shone brightly. 11 One of the angels said, "You men who come from Galilee, you do not need to look up at the sky any longer! Someday this same Jesus, whom God took from you up into heaven, will come back to earth. He will return in the same way that you just now saw him go up to heaven."

12 Then after the two angels left, the Representatives returned to Jerusalem from the Mount of Olives, which is a short distance from Jerusalem. 13 After they entered the city, they went into the upstairs room in the house where they were staying. Those who were there included Peter, John, James, Andrew, Philip, Thomas, Bartholomew, and Matthew. They also included another man named James, who was the son of Alphaeus; Simon the Zealot; and Judas, who was the son of yet another man named James. 14 All these men prayed together regularly and frequently. Others who prayed with them included the women who had traveled with Jesus; Mary, who was Jesus' mother; and his younger brothers.

15 Now about 120 people were meeting together at that place. At one of the meetings, Peter stood up among his fellow believers because he was going to say something important. He said, 16 "You who believe as I do, there are words that King David wrote in the Scriptures long ago that had to happen as he said they would. The Holy Spirit, who knew that Judas would show Jesus' enemies where to find him and arrest him, inspired David to write those words. 17 But Jesus had chosen Judas, along with the rest of us, to represent him. So we need to find someone else to take his place."

18 This is how Judas died. The Jewish leaders gave Judas money for betraying Jesus. He used that money to buy a field and he went to that field to kill himself because he felt so badly about what he had done to Jesus. As he killed himself, his body landed with such force on that field that his abdomen burst open and all his intestines spilled out. 19 The news about this spread widely among the people of Jerusalem. When they heard about it, they gave that field a new name. In their Aramaic language it was Akeldama, which means "Field of Blood." They gave it that name because it was where someone had died.

20 Peter also said, "What happened to Judas is like what we read in the book of Psalms: 'May his home become empty, with no one living in it.' These other words in the Psalms also refer to him: 'Let someone else take over his work as a leader.'"

21 "So we need to identify all the men who were with us during the whole time when the Lord Jesus was with us. 22 They need to have been with us from the time when John the Baptizer began his work until the day when Jesus left us and rose up to heaven. One such man must replace Judas and join us in telling people about Jesus and how God caused him to live again after he died."

23 So the people who were meeting together suggested two men who could replace Judas. One man was Joseph the son of Sabbas, who also had the name Justus. The other man was Matthias. 24-25 Then they prayed: "Lord Jesus, Judas stopped representing you as he should have. He has now gone to the place where he deserves to be. You know what every person thinks privately. So please show us which of these two men you have chosen to take the place of Judas as your Representative." 26 Then they cast lots to choose between the two of them. The lot indicated that Matthias was the one to replace Judas. So he became a Representative along with the 11 others.

2 1 On the day when the Jews were celebrating the Pentecost festival, the believers were all together in one place in the city of Jerusalem. 2 Suddenly, they heard a noise coming from the sky that sounded like a wind blowing loudly. Everyone in the entire house where they were sitting heard the noise. 3 Then they saw what looked like burning flames. These flames separated from one another and came to rest on each of the believers. 4 Then the Holy Spirit empowered all of the believers. They began to speak in languages they had never learned. The Spirit was making it possible for them to do that fluently.

5 At that time many Jews were staying in Jerusalem to celebrate the Pentecost festival. They were Jewish people who sincerely worshiped God. They had come from many different countries around the world. 6 When they heard this loud noise, a large crowd of these Jews gathered at the place where the believers were. The people in the crowd were amazed because they were each hearing the believers speak in their own languages. 7 They were all completely amazed, and they said to each other, "Listen, all these people who are speaking have come from Galilee. So they cannot possibly know our languages! 8 But all of us hear them speaking our own native languages! 9 Some of us are people from the regions of Parthia and Media and Elam. Others of us are from the regions of Mesopotamia, Judea, Cappadocia, Pontus, and Asia. 10 There are some people here from the regions of Phrygia and Pamphylia, from the country of Egypt, and from the regions in Libya that are near the city of Cyrene. There are others of us who are here visiting Jerusalem from Rome. 11 They include native Jews as well as non-Jews who have chosen to believe and practice what Jews believe. And others of us are from the island of Crete and from the region of Arabia. And yet we can hear these people speaking in all our different languages about the mighty works that God has done!" 12 The people wondered about what was happening and did not know what to think about it. So they asked one another, "What is happening here?" 13 But some of them made fun of what they saw. They said, "These people are talking like this because they have drunk too much wine!"

14 In response, Peter stood up with all the other Representatives and spoke loudly to the crowd of people. He said, "You Jewish people and all of you others who live here in Jerusalem, listen to me and I will explain to you what is happening! 15 Some of you think that we are drunk, but we are not drunk. It is only nine o'clock in the morning, and people here never get drunk at this time of the day! 16 Instead, what has happened to us is the miraculous thing that the prophet Joel wrote about long ago. He wrote:

17 'During the last days,' God says, 'I will give my Holy Spirit to all kinds of people. Your sons and daughters will tell people my messages. I will give visions to the young men, and I will give inspired dreams to the old men. 18 During those days I will give my Holy Spirit to my servants, both men and women, so they can tell people my messages. 19 I will cause things to happen in the sky that will make people marvel. I will cause things to happen on the earth that will show that great events are going to take place. Here on the earth there will be blood, fire, and smoke everywhere. 20 In the sky the sun will appear dark to people and the moon will appear red to them. Those things will happen before the momentous time when I, the Lord God, come to judge everyone. 21 But even though I am coming to judge and punish sin, I will save all those who repent and ask me to forgive their sins.'"

22 Peter continued speaking. He said, "You Israelites, listen to me! When Jesus from Nazareth lived among you, God proved to you that he had sent him by enabling him to do many amazing miracles. These showed that he was from God. You yourselves know that this is true. 23 Even though you knew that, you urged people who do not obey God's law to take action to kill Jesus. They did that by nailing him to a cross. However, God had already planned for that to happen, and he knew what the results would be, so he allowed it. 24 Jesus died, but God caused him to become alive again and no longer dead, because it was not possible for him to stay dead.

25 Long ago King David wrote what the Messiah said:

‘I knew that you, Lord God, would always be there to protect me. You are right beside me, so I will not be afraid of those who want to harm me. 26 Because of that, I am happy, and I joyfully praise you, O God. And I am completely confident that you will cause me to become alive again after I die. 27 I am confident because I know that you will not make me remain in the place where the dead are. You will not even let my body waste away, because you have chosen me for a special purpose. 28 You have shown me how to live again. You will make me very happy because you will be with me forever.’”

29 Peter continued, “You who are Jews like me, I can tell you confidently that our ancient ruler, King David, died and that his subjects buried him. In fact, his body is still here now at the place where they buried him. 30 So we know that King David was not talking about himself in this psalm. Instead, he was a prophet, and he knew that God promised to him that one of his descendants would become king after him. 31 A long time ago, David knew what God would do. He said that God would cause Jesus the Messiah to live again after he died.
God would not allow him to remain in a grave. God would not even let him be dead long enough for his body to begin to decompose.

32 After this man Jesus had died, God made him alive again. All of us who are standing here before you can testify to this. We all saw him alive after he had died. 33 So we are not babbling drunkenly. Instead, this is what has happened. God has greatly honored Jesus by causing Jesus to rule where God himself is, in heaven. Jesus has received the Holy Spirit from God his Father, just as God promised. And now Jesus has generously given us the Holy Spirit, and God has confirmed that gift by doing this miracle that you are witnessing. 34 We know that David was not speaking about himself, because David did not go up into heaven as Jesus did. Besides that, David himself said this about the Messiah:

> ‘The Lord God said to my Lord the Messiah, “I will honor you by giving you a > 35 position next to me while I completely defeat your enemies.”””

36 Peter ended by saying, “So I want every Israelite to know definitely that God has made Jesus both Lord and Messiah, this same Jesus whom you had nailed to a cross and killed.”

37 When the people heard what Peter said, they knew they had done wrong. The people asked him and the other Representatives, “Can you men tell us what God wants us to do?”

38 Peter answered them, “Each of you should turn away from your sinful behavior. If you now believe in what Jesus, the Messiah, has done for you, we will baptize you, showing that God has forgiven your sins, and he will give you his Holy Spirit. 39 You will receive the Holy Spirit because God has promised to give him to you and to your children and to all others whom the God we worship leads to have faith in Jesus. That includes all those who live far away from here.” 40 Peter said many more things and spoke strongly to them. He told them, “Ask God to save you so that he will not punish you when he punishes these evil people who have rejected Jesus!”

41 So the people who believed Peter’s message received baptism. There were about 3,000 of them who joined the group of believers that day. 42 They continually obeyed what the Representatives taught. They met many times together with the other believers, and they ate a meal and prayed together every day.

43 Throughout Jerusalem people came to have a great awe for God, because the Representatives were doing many kinds of miraculous deeds. 44 All of those who believed in Jesus met regularly together. They also kept sharing what they had with one another. 45 From time to time some of them sold some of their land and some of the other things that they owned. They did this so that they could give some of the money they made to other believers.
They gave those believers as much as they needed. 46 Every day they kept gathering to worship together in the temple courtyard, and then they would have meals together in their homes. They ate together happily and with genuine affection. 47 As they did so, they kept praising God, and the other people who lived in Jerusalem greatly respected them. As those things were happening, every day the Lord Jesus saved more people and those people joined with the other believers.

3 1 One day Peter and John were going to the temple to pray. It was three o’clock in the afternoon, the time when people prayed there. 2 There was a man there who had not been able to walk from the time he was born. He was sitting by the Beautiful Gate at the entrance to the temple area. People carried him there every day so that he could ask those who were going into the temple area to give him some money.

3 As Peter and John were approaching that gate, he saw them and asked them to give him some money. 4 When they heard the man speak to them, Peter and John looked directly at him, and Peter said to him, “Look at us!” 5 So he looked directly at them, expecting to get some money from them. 6 Then Peter said to him, “I do not have any money, but I will do what I can do for you. I heal you by the power of Jesus the Messiah, that man who came from the city of Nazareth. So get up and walk!” 7 Then Peter grasped the man’s right hand and helped him to stand up. The man realized immediately that his feet and ankles were going to be strong enough to support him. 8 So the man jumped the rest of the way up by himself and started walking! He went into the temple area with Peter and John, leaping for joy and praising God as he walked!

9 All the people who were there saw him walking and heard him praising God. 10 They recognized that he was the man who used to sit at the Beautiful Gate that led into the temple area and ask people for money! So all the people there were greatly amazed that he could now walk. 11 The man would not let go of Peter and John. The three of them were in Solomon’s Porch, a covered walkway within the temple area. As the amazing news of the man’s healing spread through the crowd, more and more people came running over to see them.

12 When Peter saw that a crowd was gathering around them, he said to the people, “You Israelites, it should not surprise you that this man can now walk. But you should not be looking at us as if we were so godly that we made him walk by our own power! 13 Let me tell you what has really happened. God made a covenant with Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob. We Israelites are descendants of those men, so the covenant includes us. God honored that covenant by sending Jesus to be the Messiah. We told this man that the power of Jesus could heal him, and God has now glorified Jesus by doing this miracle. But when Jesus was living among us, you turned him over to the Romans for trial. Pilate, the Roman governor, knew that Jesus was innocent and wanted to set him free. But you gathered in front of Pilate and shouted that he should not release him. 14 Rather than have Pilate release Jesus to you, even though Jesus was the Messiah, you rejected him and asked Pilate to set free a killer instead! 15 So you are responsible for the death of Jesus, the one who gives people life. But God brought him back to life after he died. We can testify that we saw Jesus many times after he became alive again.
16 You recognize this man whom you see standing here. He is the man who used to beg for alms at the Beautiful Gate. He is now strong enough to stand on his own because he believed in what Jesus could do. Yes, it is because he trusted in Jesus that he is now completely healthy. All of you saw this happen.

17 Now, my countrymen, I know that you and your leaders killed Jesus because you did not know that he was the Messiah. 18 God said through the prophets ahead of time that the Messiah he would send would suffer and die. And now, by what has happened, he has fulfilled what the prophets said. 19 So stop living sinful lives and ask God to help you do what pleases him. Then God will completely forgive you for sinning against him. 20 If you do that, there will be times when you will know that the Lord God is helping you. And some day he will send back to earth the Messiah whom he has given to you. That person is Jesus. 21 Jesus will certainly stay in heaven until the time when God causes all that he created to become new. Long ago God promised to do that, and he chose holy prophets to tell that to people. 22 For example, the prophet Moses said this about the Messiah: 'The Lord our God will make one of you Israelites a prophet like me. You must do everything he tells you to do. 23 Those who do not do what that prophet tells them will no longer belong to God's people. God will destroy them.'" 24 Peter continued, "In fact, all the prophets have told about what would happen during the times we are now living in. Those prophets include Samuel and the ones who lived after him, who all spoke about these events before they happened. 25 What the prophets said long ago applies to you today. And the solemn agreement that God made to bless our ancestors also extends to you, their descendants. He said to Abraham about the Messiah, 'I will bless all the people groups on the earth as a result of what your descendant will do.' 26 So when God sent Jesus to the earth as the Messiah, he had him come to you Israelites first. God intended for the Messiah to bless you by getting you to stop doing things that were wrong."

4 1 While Peter and John were still speaking to the people, several men walked up and confronted them. They included priests who served in the temple, the officer in charge of the temple guard, and some members of the Sadducee group. 2 These men were very angry because these two men were teaching the people. They were telling the people that what God did for Jesus shows that God causes people to live again after they die. 3 So these men arrested Peter and John and put them in jail. They did this because it was already evening, and the Jewish council would have to wait until the next day to question them. 4 However, many people who had heard Peter speak put their faith in Jesus. The number of men who believed in Jesus increased to about 5,000.

5 The next day the high priest called the other chief priests, the teachers of the Jewish laws, and the other members of the Jewish council. They all assembled in one place in Jerusalem. 6 Annas, the former high priest, was there. Caiaphas, the new high priest, was also there. And so were John and Alexander and other men who were related to the high priest. 7 They commanded guards to bring Peter and John into the room, and then they asked Peter and John, "Who gave you the right or the ability to do this?"

8 As the Holy Spirit gave him power, Peter said to them in response, "You fellow Israelites who rule us and all of you elders, listen to me! 9 Today you are questioning us about a good deed we did for a man who could not walk. You want to know how he became able to walk. 10 So we want this whole council and all the other Israelites to know what has happened. This man is able to stand before you because Jesus from Nazareth, the Messiah, healed him. You were responsible for the Romans executing Jesus by nailing him to a cross. But God brought Jesus back to life after they executed him.

11 Jesus the Messiah of Nazareth is the one of whom the Scriptures say,

> 'The stone that the builders threw away has become the most important stone in the building.'
> And you are those builders, because you rejected Jesus. 12 So you should no longer reject him, because only Jesus can save us. For God has given us no other person in the world who can save us from the guilt of our sins!"

13 The Jewish leaders recognized that Peter and John were not afraid of them. They also realized that these two men were ordinary people who had not studied in schools. So the leaders were amazed. They knew that these men had spent time with Jesus. 14 They also saw the man who had become able to walk again standing there with Peter and John. So they were not able to say anything to contradict them.

15 The Jewish leaders told guards to take Peter, John, and this man outside of the room where they were meeting. After they did so, the leaders talked with each other about Peter and John. 16 They said, “There is nothing that we can do to punish these two men! The news of the amazing miracle that they have done has spread widely in Jerusalem. So we cannot tell people that it did not happen! 17 However, we must not allow any more people to hear what they have been teaching about this Jesus. So we must tell these men that we will punish them if they continue to tell other people about the one who they say gave them the power to heal this man.” 18 So the Jewish leaders told the guards to bring them into the room again. After the guards had done so, they told them both that they were completely forbidden to speak or teach about Jesus.

19 But Peter and John told them in response, “In order to obey your command, we would have to disobey God, who commanded us to tell everyone about Jesus. We will let you decide whether you think God would want us to obey you instead of him. 20 But as for us, we cannot obey you. We will not stop telling people about what we saw Jesus do and what we heard him teach.”

21 Then the Jewish leaders again told Peter and John not to disobey them. But then they let them go without punishing them. The leaders knew that throughout Jerusalem people were praising God for what had happened to the man who could not walk, and they did not want to upset the people. 22 The people were praising God because this was a remarkable miracle. The man whom Peter and John had healed by doing this miracle was over forty years old, and he had never before walked in his life.

23 After Peter and John left the council, they met with the others who believed in Jesus and told them everything that the people on the ruling council had said to them. 24 When the others who believed in Jesus heard this, they prayed together aloud to God, “O Lord! You made the sky, the earth, the oceans, and everything in them. 25 Your Holy Spirit caused our ancestor, King David, who served you, to write these words:

‘Why did the people groups of the world become angry and why did they plan uselessly against God?
26 The kings in the world prepared to fight, and the rulers joined with them to oppose the Lord God and the one whom he had chosen to be the Messiah.’

27 What David said is true! Both Herod and Pontius Pilate, along with people who were Israelites and people who were not, joined together in this city of Jerusalem to oppose Jesus. They opposed him even though he had done nothing wrong and even though you, God, had sent him as the Messiah. 28 But when they opposed Jesus, they did no more than you allowed because it was what you had decided long ago would happen. 29 So now, Lord, listen to what they are saying about how they will punish us! Help us who serve you to speak about Jesus without being afraid at all! 30 Use your power to do great healings and many other miraculous deeds that will show the authority you have given to Jesus, your chosen Messiah!"

31 When the believers had finished praying, the place where they were meeting started to shake. The Holy Spirit gave them all power to tell people about Jesus as God had commanded, and they did that with great courage.

32 Those in the group of people who believed in Jesus were in complete agreement about what they believed and what they wanted. Not one of them said that he was the sole owner of anything. Instead, they shared what they had with one another. 33 The Representatives continued to preach powerfully that God had caused the Lord Jesus to live again after he died. And God was helping all the believers very much. 34 Here is one way God was helping them. No one among the believers was lacking anything. This was because other believers who owned fields or houses would sell some of their property to help them. They would bring the proceeds from the sale 35 and they would give it to the Representatives, who would then give out the money to the believers who needed it.

36 Now there was a man named Joseph who belonged to the tribe of Levi and who came from the island of Cyprus. The Representatives called him Barnabas. In the language of the Jews, that name means a person who always encourages others. 37 Barnabas sold a field that belonged to him, and he brought the money to the Representatives for them to give to other believers.

5 1 Now there was one of the believers whose name was Ananias. He was married, and his wife's name was Sapphira. They also sold some land. 2 He kept for himself some of the money he had received for the land. His wife knew that he had done that. Then he brought the rest of the money and gave it to the Representatives.

3 Then Peter said, “Ananias, you have allowed Satan to control you so completely that you tried to deceive the Holy Spirit. You kept for yourself some of the money you received for selling the land. You did not give us all of it. 4 Before you sold that land, you truly owned it.
And after you sold it, the money was still yours. So you should never have thought about doing such a wicked thing. You were not just trying to deceive people! No, you were trying to deceive God himself!” 5 When Ananias heard the things Peter told him, he immediately fell down dead. And everyone who learned about Ananias’ death felt a great awe for God. 6 When Ananias died, some young men came forward, wrapped his body in a sheet, and carried it out and buried it.

7 About three hours later, his wife came in. But she did not know that Peter confronted her husband about the lie they had told and that her husband had died as a result. 8 Then Peter showed her the money that Ananias had brought and asked her, “Tell me, is this the amount of money you two received for the land you sold?” She said, “Yes, that is what we received.” 9 So Peter said to her, “You both did a terrible thing when you agreed to try to deceive the Holy Spirit! This is what will happen to you as a result. God struck your husband dead as a punishment and some young men are just coming back from burying him. God is also going to strike you dead, and they will take your body out and bury it as well.” 10 Immediately Sapphira fell down dead right in front of Peter. Just then the young men came back in. When they saw that she had also died, they carried her body out and buried it next to her husband’s body.

11 All the believers in Jerusalem felt a great awe for God because of what had happened to Ananias and Sapphira. Everyone else who heard about these things also felt great awe for God.

12 God was enabling the Representatives to do many amazing miracles that showed the truth of what they were preaching among the people. All the believers were meeting together regularly in the temple courtyard at the place called Solomon’s Porch. 13 All of the other people who had not believed in Jesus were afraid to meet with the believers. However, those people continued to speak very highly of them. 14 Many more men and women started believing in the Lord Jesus, and they joined the group of believers. 15 Because the people were seeing such amazing miracles, they started bringing those who had various diseases right into the streets and placing them on stretchers and mattresses there. They were hoping that when

Peter walked by his shadow might touch some of them, because if even that happened, God would heal them. 16 Large crowds of people were also coming from the towns near Jerusalem. They were bringing those who had various diseases and those whom evil spirits were tormenting, and God healed all of them.

17 However, the high priest became very resentful that such large crowds were coming to the Representatives. Many priests who were members of the Sadducee group were also very resentful of them. They joined together with the high priest to work against them. 18 So they commanded the temple guards to arrest them and to put them in the public jail. 19 The high priest and his allies kept them in jail overnight so that they could question them in the morning. But that night an angel from the Lord God opened the jail doors and led all the Representatives outside. Then the angel told them, 20 "Go to the temple courtyard, stand there, and tell the people about the eternal life that Jesus can give them. Do not leave anything out, even though the Sanhedrin has commanded you not to say certain things." 21 So when the Representatives heard what the angel said, they went to the temple courtyard and began to teach the people once more about Jesus. By then it was about dawn. Around that same time, the high priest and the other priests who were working with him gathered together in the Jewish council chamber. From there they summoned the other council members. Together they were all the leaders of Israel. Once the whole council was present, they sent guards to the jail to get the Representatives. 22 But when the guards arrived at the jail, they discovered that they were not there. So they returned to the council and told the members, 23 "We saw that the jail doors were very safely locked and that the guards were keeping watch in front of the doors. But when we opened the doors and went in to get those men, none of them were inside the jail." 24 When the chief priests and the officer in charge of the temple guards heard that, they were greatly confused. They wondered what the consequences would be.

25 Then someone came and reported to them, "Listen to this! The men you put in jail have somehow gotten into the temple courtyard. And they are telling the people there about Jesus!" 26 So the officer in charge of the temple guards went to the temple courtyard with the officers. They brought the Representatives back to the council room. But they did not treat them roughly. They were afraid that if they did that, the people would try to kill them by throwing stones at them.

27 After the captain and his officers had brought the Representatives to the council room, they commanded them to stand in front of the council members. Then the high priest questioned them intensely. 28 He said to them, “We ordered you very clearly not to teach people about that man Jesus! But you have disobeyed us, and you have taught people all over Jerusalem about him! Furthermore, you are trying to make it seem that we are the ones who are guilty of that man’s death!” 29 But Peter, speaking for himself and the other Representatives, replied, “We have to obey what God commands us to do, not what you people tell us to do! 30 You are the ones who killed Jesus by nailing him to a cross! But God, whom our ancestors worshiped, caused Jesus to live again after he died. 31 God has honored Jesus more than he has honored anyone else. He has made him the one to save us and rule over us. He has enabled us Israelites to stop sinning and he has forgiven us for the sins we committed. 32 We tell people about these things that we saw happen to Jesus. The Holy Spirit, whom God has sent to us who obey him, is also confirming that these things are true.” 33 When the members of the Sanhedrin heard this, they became so angry with the Representatives that they wanted to kill them.

34 But there was a council member named Gamaliel. He was a member of the Pharisee group. He taught the Jewish laws, and the Jewish people respected him highly. He stood up in the council and told the guards to take the Representatives out of the room for a short time. 35 After the guards had taken them out, Gamaliel said to the other council members, “You leaders of the people of Israel, you must think carefully about what you are going to do to these men. 36 Some years ago a man named Theudas led a revolt against the government. He claimed that he was a great man, and about 400 men joined him. But the Romans captured and executed him, and all those who had joined him went back to where they came from. So this revolt did not succeed. 37 After that, during the time when the Romans were recording the names of people in order to tax them, a man named Judas from the region of Galilee rebelled. He convinced some people to rebel with him. But he too died, and all those who had joined him went off in different directions. 38 Based on these examples, let me offer some advice. Do not kill these men! Set them free! I say this because if the things that are happening now are just something that humans have planned, someone will stop them. They will fail. 39 But if God has commanded them to do these things, you will not be able to stop them. You may even discover that you are working against God!” The other members of the council accepted what Gamaliel said. 40 They told the temple guards to bring in the Representatives and beat them. So the guards brought them into the council room and beat them. Then the council members commanded them not to speak to people about Jesus any more, and they let them go.

41 So they left the council chamber. As they did, they even rejoiced that God had honored them by allowing people to treat them badly because they were testifying to Jesus. 42 Every day after that, they went to the temple area and to various people's houses, and they continued teaching people and telling them that Jesus is the Messiah.

6 1 During that time, many more people were becoming believers. The Greek-speaking Jews began to complain about the Aramaic-speaking Jews because the widows among them were not receiving their fair share of food every day.

2 So after Jesus' 12 representatives had heard what they were saying, they summoned all the other believers in Jerusalem to meet together. Then they said to them, "We would not be doing the right thing if we stopped telling people the message God told us to share about Jesus in order to distribute food to people! 3 So, fellow believers, carefully choose seven men from among you, men whom you know the Spirit of God directs and who are very wise. Then we will instruct them to do this work. 4 As for us, we will keep on using our time to pray and to proclaim the news about Jesus."

5 All of the disciples liked their suggestion. So they chose Stephen, a man who strongly believed in God and whom the Holy Spirit controlled completely. They also chose Philip, Procorus, Nicanor, Timon, Parmenas, and Nicolas, who was from the city of Antioch. Nicolas was a former Gentile who had converted to the Jewish religion. 6 The believers brought these seven men to the Representatives, who prayed for those men. As they prayed, they placed their hands on the men's heads to show that they approved of them to do that work.

7 More and more people were hearing the news about Jesus. The number of people in Jerusalem who believed in Jesus was increasing greatly. Among them were very many Jewish priests. They put their trust in Jesus as the Messiah and so they began to live in the way he said they should.

8 God was giving Stephen power to do many amazing miracles among the people that showed that the message about Jesus was true. 9 However, some people opposed Stephen. They were Jews who attended a synagogue that had the name Freedmen's Synagogue. Some other Jews also opposed Stephen. They were from the synagogues that people attended who were from the cities of Cyrene and Alexandria and from the provinces of Cilicia and Asia. They all began to argue with Stephen. 10 But they were not able to prove that what he said was wrong, because God's Spirit enabled him to speak very wisely.

11 So they secretly persuaded some men to accuse Stephen falsely. Those men said, "We heard him say bad things about Moses and God." 12 They also made the other Jewish people angry at Stephen, including the elders and the teachers of the Jewish laws. They came up to Stephen, grabbed him, and took him to the Jewish council. 13 They also brought in some people who told lies about Stephen. They said, "This man keeps saying bad things about this holy temple and about the laws that Moses received from God. 14 What we mean is that we have heard him say that this Jesus from the town of Nazareth will destroy the temple here in Jerusalem and will tell us to obey different customs from the ones that Moses taught our ancestors."

15 All the people in the council room stared at Stephen and saw that his face resembled the face of an angel.

7 1 Then the high priest asked Stephen, "Are the things that these people are saying about you true?" 2 Stephen replied, "Fellow Jews and respected leaders, please listen to me! The glorious God whom we worship appeared to our forefather Abraham while he was still living in the region of Mesopotamia, before he moved to the city of Haran. 3 God said to him, 'Leave this land where you and your relatives are living and go into the land to which I will direct you.' 4 So Abraham left that land, which was also called Chaldea, and he arrived in Haran and lived there. After his father died, God told him to move to this land where our people are now living.

5 At that time God did not give Abraham any land to own here, not even a small plot of this land. But God promised that later he would give this land to him and his descendants, and that it would always belong to them. However, at that time Abraham did not have any children who would inherit it.

6 Later God told Abraham, 'Your descendants will go and live in a foreign country. They will live there for four hundred years. During that time, the rulers will mistreat your descendants and force them to work as slaves. 7 But I will punish the people who make them work as slaves,' said God. 'After that, your descendants will leave that land, and they will come and worship me in this land.'

8 Then God commanded that every male in Abraham's household and all of his male descendants should be circumcised to show that they all belonged to God. Later Abraham's son, Isaac, was born, and when Isaac was eight days old, Abraham circumcised him. Later Isaac had a son named Jacob. Jacob was the father of the 12 men whom we Jews call the patriarchs, our forefathers.

9 You know that Jacob's older sons became jealous because their father favored their younger brother Joseph. So they sold him to merchants who took him to Egypt, where he became a slave. But God took care of Joseph. 10 God protected him whenever people caused him to suffer. He enabled Joseph to be wise, and he caused Pharaoh, the king of Egypt, to think well of Joseph. So Pharaoh appointed him to rule over Egypt and to look after all of Pharaoh's property.

11 While Joseph was doing that work, there was a time when there was very little food anywhere in Egypt and also in Canaan. People were suffering badly. At that time Jacob and his sons in Canaan could not find enough food to eat. 12 When Jacob heard a report that there was grain in Egypt that people could buy, he sent Joseph's older brothers there to buy grain. They went and bought grain from Joseph, but they did not recognize him. Then they returned home.
13 When Joseph's brothers went to Egypt again, they bought grain from Joseph once more. But this time he told them who he was. And so Pharaoh found out that these men who had come from Canaan were Joseph's brothers. 14 Joseph sent his brothers back home to tell their father Jacob that Joseph wanted him and his entire family to come to Egypt. At that time Jacob's family consisted of 75 people. 15 So when Jacob heard that, he and all his family went to live in Egypt. Later on, Jacob died there, and our other ancestors, his sons, also died there.

16 Their descendants brought their bodies back to our land and buried them in the tomb that Abraham bought from Hamor's sons in the city of Shechem.

17 Our ancestors had become very numerous by the time God was about to rescue them from Egypt. That is what God had promised Abraham he would do. 18 Another king had begun to rule in Egypt. He did not know that Joseph had greatly helped the people of Egypt long before his own time. 19 That king tried to get rid of our ancestors in cruel ways. He oppressed them and caused them to suffer greatly. He even commanded them to abandon their newborn babies outside their homes so that the babies would die.

20 During that time Moses was born, and God saw that he was a very beautiful child. His parents secretly cared for him in their house for three months. 21 Then they had to abandon him outside the house. But Pharaoh's daughter found him and cared for him as her own son. 22 The Egyptians taught Moses the many things that they had learned. When he grew up, he spoke and did things powerfully.

23 One day when Moses was about forty years old, he decided to see how his relatives, the people of Israel, were doing. 24 He saw an Egyptian mistreating one of the Israelites. So he went over to help the Israelite man. He avenged him by killing the Egyptian. 25 Moses expected that his fellow Israelites would understand that God had sent him to free them from being slaves. But they did not understand. 26 The next day, Moses saw two of his fellow Israelites fighting each other. He tried to make them stop by saying to them, 'Now you two are both Israelites! You must stop hurting each other!' 27 But the man who was injuring the other man pushed Moses away. He said to him, 'You have no authority over us! 28 You probably want to kill me as you killed the Egyptian yesterday!' 29 When Moses heard that, he fled from Egypt to the land of Midian. He lived there for some years. He got married, and he and his wife had two sons.

30 One day forty years later, the Lord God came to Moses in the form of an angel. This was in the desert near Mount Sinai. He appeared in the flames of a bush that was on fire. 31 When Moses saw it, he was amazed because the bush was not burning up. As he went over to look more closely, he heard the Lord God say to him, 32 'I am the God whom your ancestors worshiped. I am the God whom Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob worship.' Moses was so afraid that he began to shake. He was afraid to look at the bush any longer. 33 Then the Lord God said to him, 'Take your sandals off to show that you honor me. Because I am here, the place where you are standing is especially mine. 34 I have seen clearly how the people of Egypt are continually causing my people to suffer. I have heard my people when they groan because of it. So I am taking action to rescue them from Egypt. Now get ready, because I am going to send you back to Egypt.'

35 This Moses is the one who had tried to help our Israelite people. But they rejected him by saying, 'You have no authority over us!' Moses is the one whom God himself sent to rule them and to free them from being slaves. He did that with the help of the angel who spoke to him from the bush. 36 Moses is the one who led our ancestors out from Egypt. He did many kinds of miracles in Egypt, at the Sea of Reeds, and during the forty years that the Israelite people lived in the wilderness. 37 This Moses is the one who said to the Israelite people, 'God will cause another man from among your own people to be a prophet like me for you.' 38 It was this man Moses who was among the Israelites who were together in the wilderness. God spoke through the angel on Mount Sinai to give Moses our laws. Moses was the one who told our ancestors what the angel had said. He was the one to whom God gave commandments and who passed them on to us. Those commandments are still powerful today.

39 However, our ancestors did not want to obey Moses. Instead, they rejected him as their leader and wanted to return to Egypt. 40 So they told his older brother Aaron, 'Make idols for us who will be our gods to lead us. As for that fellow Moses who led us out of Egypt, we do not know what has happened to him!' 41 When the Israelites rejected Moses, they made an image that looked like a calf. Then they offered sacrifices to honor that idol. They sang and danced to worship something that they themselves had made. 42 So God stopped correcting them. He left them to worship the stars in the sky. This agrees with what one of the prophets wrote:

> God said, 'You Israelite people repeatedly killed animals and offered them to me with grain as sacrifices during those forty years that you were in the wilderness. But you certainly were not truly offering them to me!
> 43 On the contrary, you carried with you the tent that contained the idol representing the god Molech that you worshiped. You also carried with you the image of the star called Rephan. Those were idols that you had made, and you worshiped them instead of me. So I will cause you to be taken away far from your homes to regions even farther than the country of Babylon.'

44 While our ancestors were in the desert, they worshiped God at the sacred tent that showed that he was there with them. They had made the tent exactly like God had commanded Moses to make it. It was exactly like the model that Moses had seen when he was up on the mountain. 45 Later on, other ancestors of ours carried that tent with them when Joshua led them into this land. That was during the time when they took this land for themselves, when God forced the people who previously lived here to leave. So the Israelites were able to possess this land. The tent remained in this land and was still here when King David ruled. 46 David pleased God, and he asked God to let him build a temple where he and all of our Israelite people could worship God. 47 But instead, God told David's son Solomon to build a temple where people could worship him.

48 However, we know that God, who is greater than everything, does not live in temples that people build. It is as the prophet Isaiah wrote:

49-50 God said, 'I created everything in heaven and on earth. My presence fills all of creation. So you human beings cannot make a place good enough for me to live in!'

51 You people are disobedient to God, as if you did not even know God! You are exactly like your ancestors! You always resist the Holy Spirit, just as they did! 52 Your ancestors caused every prophet to suffer. They even killed those who long ago announced that the Messiah would come, the one who always did what pleased God. And the Messiah has come! He is the one whom you recently turned over to his enemies and insisted that they kill him! 53 You are the people who have received God's laws. Those were laws that God caused angels to give to our ancestors. However, you have not obeyed them!"

54 When the Jewish council members and others there heard all that Stephen said, they became very angry. They were grinding their teeth together because they were so angry at him!

55 But the Holy Spirit completely controlled Stephen. He looked up into heaven and saw a dazzling light from God, and he saw Jesus standing at God's right side. 56 "Look," he said, "I see right into heaven, and I see the Son of Man in human form standing where God rules!"

57 When the Jewish council members and others heard that, they shouted loudly. They put their hands over their ears so that they would not hear him. All together they ran up to Stephen and grabbed him. 58 They dragged him outside the city of Jerusalem and started to throw stones at him to kill him. The people who were accusing him took off their outer garments in order to throw stones more easily. They put these garments on the ground next to a young man whose name was Saul so that he could guard them. 59 While they continued to throw stones at Stephen, Stephen prayed out loud, "Lord Jesus, welcome me when I die!"

60 Then Stephen knelt down and cried out loud, "Lord, do not punish them for this sin!"
After he had said this, he died.

8 1-2 Then some men who honored God buried Stephen's body in a tomb, and they mourned loudly for him.

But Saul thought the Sanhedrin had done the right thing by stoning Stephen. On that same day, people Saul was leading started severely persecuting the believers who were living in Jerusalem. So most of the believers fled to other places throughout the provinces of Judea and Samaria. But the apostles remained in Jerusalem. 3 Saul began trying to destroy the group of believers. He entered their houses one by one. He dragged away men and women who believed in Jesus, and he put them in prison.

4 The believers who had left Jerusalem went to different places, where they continued preaching the message about Jesus. 5 One of those believers, whose name was Philip, went from Jerusalem to a city in the district of Samaria. There he was telling the people that Jesus is the Messiah. 6 Many people there heard Philip speak and saw the miraculous things that he was doing. So they all paid close attention to what he was saying. 7 For example, Philip commanded evil spirits to come out of many people, and they came out screaming. Also, many people who could not move their muscles and many others who were lame were healed. 8 So many people in that city were very happy.

9 There was a man in that city whose name was Simon. He had been practicing sorcery for a long time, and he amazed the people in the district of Samaria with his magic. He claimed he was "Simon the Great One!" 10 The people there, both ordinary and important people, listened to him. They were saying, “Simon is the Great Power of God.” 11 They continued to listen to him carefully because for a long time he had astonished them by practicing sorcery. 12 But then they believed Philip’s message of the good news about how God would rule the lives of people everywhere and about Jesus the Messiah. Philip baptized the men and the women who believed in Jesus. 13 Though the people had been worshiping him, Simon too believed Philip’s message and received baptism. He began to accompany Philip constantly. He was continually amazed by the great miracles he saw Philip doing. These things showed that Philip was speaking the truth.

14 When the apostles in Jerusalem heard that many people throughout Samaria district had believed God’s message, they sent Peter and John there. 15 When Peter and John arrived in Samaria, they prayed for those new believers to receive the Holy Spirit. 16 For the Holy Spirit had not yet openly empowered any of them. They had only received baptism in the name of the Lord Jesus. 17 Then Peter and John placed their hands on them, and they received the Holy Spirit.

18 Simon saw that people received the Holy Spirit as a result of the apostles placing their hands on them. So he offered to give money to the apostles. 19 He said, “Enable me also to do what you are doing, so that if I place my hands on someone, he will receive the Holy Spirit.” 20 But Peter said to him, “May you and your money be destroyed, because you tried to get God’s gift with money! 21 You cannot work with us in what we are doing, because you do not have the right attitude toward God! 22 So stop thinking wickedly like that! Plead with the Lord to forgive you for what you wanted to do, since he will forgive you if you ask sincerely. 23 You are in spiritual danger! I perceive that you are extremely jealous of us and that a continual desire to do evil is controlling you.” 24 Then Simon answered, “Pray to the Lord that he will not do to me what you just said!”

25 Peter and John then told the people there what they knew personally about the Lord Jesus. They shared the message of the Lord with them. Then they both returned to Jerusalem. Along the way, they declared the good news about Jesus to people living in many towns in the district of Samaria.

26 While Peter and John were returning to Jerusalem, the Lord sent an angel to Philip.
Even though so many Samaritans were becoming believers in Jesus, that angel told him, "Get ready and go south along the road that goes from Jerusalem to the city of Gaza." That road is in a desert area. 27 So Philip got ready and went along that road. On the road he met a man from the land of Ethiopia. The man was an important official of the queen of Ethiopia. In his language people called their queen the Kandake. He took care of all of her funds. This man had gone to Jerusalem to worship God, 28 and he was returning home and was seated, riding in his carriage. As he was riding, he was reading aloud from what the prophet Isaiah had written.

29 God's Spirit told Philip, "Go near to that carriage and keep walking close to it!" 30 So Philip ran over to the carriage. He heard the official reading what the prophet Isaiah had written. He asked the man, "Do you understand what you are reading?" 31 He answered Philip, "No, I cannot possibly understand it if there is no one to explain it to me." Then the man said to Philip, "Please come up and sit beside me." So Philip got into the carriage. 32 The part of the Scriptures that the official was reading was this: "People will lead him away to kill him as they lead a sheep to the place where they are going to kill it. He will be silent, as a lamb stands silently while someone cuts off its wool.

> 33 People will humiliate him and condemn him unjustly. He will have no > descendants because people will kill him before he can have children."

34 The official asked Philip about what he was reading, "Tell me, who was the prophet writing about? Was he writing about himself, or about someone else?" 35 So Philip replied to him. He began with that Scripture passage, and he told him the good news about Jesus.

36 While they were traveling along the road, they came to a place where there was some water. Then the official said to Philip, "Look, there is some water! I would like you to baptize me." 37 [12] [Philip said, "If you believe in Jesus with complete sincerity, God will save you, and you may be baptized." The Ethiopian answered, "I believe that Jesus Christ is the Son of God."] 38 So the official told the driver to stop the carriage. Then both Philip and the official went down into the water, and Philip baptized him. 39 When they came up out of the water, suddenly the Spirit of the Lord took Philip away. The official never saw Philip again. Even so, the official continued going very happily along the road.

40 Philip then realized that the Spirit had miraculously taken him to the town of Azotus.
While he traveled around in that region, he continued proclaiming the good news about Jesus in all the towns between the cities of Azotus and Caesarea. He was still proclaiming it when he finally arrived in Caesarea.

9 1 Meanwhile, Saul continued angrily threatening to kill those who believed in the Lord Jesus. He went to the high priest in Jerusalem 2 and requested him to write letters introducing Saul to the leaders of the Jewish synagogues in the city of Damascus. The letters would ask them to give Saul the authority to seize any man or woman who followed the teachings of Jesus and take them as prisoners to Jerusalem. There the Jewish leaders could judge and punish them. The high priest gave Saul the letters he asked for.

3 While Saul and those with him were traveling, they were approaching Damascus.
Suddenly a brilliant light from heaven shone around Saul. 4 Immediately he fell onto the ground. Then he heard the voice of someone say to him, "Saul, Saul, stop trying to hurt me!"
5 Saul asked him, "Lord, who are you?" He replied, "I am Jesus, whom you are hurting.
6 Now stand up and go into the city of Damascus! Someone there will tell you what I want you to do." 7 The men who were traveling with Saul were so astonished that they could not say anything. They just stood there. This was because they heard someone speaking, but they did not see anyone. 8 Saul got up from the ground, but when he opened his eyes, he could not see anything. So the men with him took him by the hand and led him into Damascus. 9 For the next three days Saul could not see anything, and he did not eat or drink anything.

10 In Damascus there was a man who believed in Jesus named Ananias. Jesus made him see a vision and in it he called to him, "Ananias!" Ananias replied, "Lord, I am listening." 11 Jesus told him, "Go to Straight Street, to the house that belongs to Judas. Ask someone there if you can talk to a man named Saul who is from the city of Tarsus. Saul is praying to me at this moment. 12 Saul has seen a vision in which a man named Ananias entered the house where he was staying and put his hands on him to restore his sight." 13 Ananias answered, "But Lord, many people have told me about this man! He has done many bad things to the people in Jerusalem who believe in you! 14 The chief priests have given him permission to come here to Damascus and take prisoner all those who believe in you!" 15 But Jesus told Ananias, “Go visit Saul! Do what I say, because I have chosen him to serve me. I want him to speak about me to non-Jewish people and their leaders and to the Israelite people. 16 I myself will tell him that he must often suffer in order to tell people about me.” 17 So Ananias went, and after he found the house where Saul was, he entered it. Then, as soon as he met Saul, he put his hands on him, and he said, “Saul, you are already like a brother to me. Jesus himself commanded me to come to you. Jesus is the one who appeared to you while you were traveling along the road to Damascus. He sent me to you to restore your sight, and he wants the Holy Spirit to lead and empower you.” 18 Instantly, what seemed like flakes fell from Saul’s eyes, and he was able to see again. Then he got up and was baptized. 19 After Saul ate some food, he became strong again. Saul stayed with the other believers in Damascus for several days.

20 Right away he began to preach about Jesus in the Jewish synagogues. He told the people there that Jesus is the Son of God. 21 The people who heard him preach were amazed. Some of them were saying, “We can hardly believe that this is the same man who persecuted the believers in Jerusalem! And he came here to take them as prisoners to the chief priests in Jerusalem!” 22 But God enabled Saul to preach to many people even more convincingly. He was proving from the Scriptures that Jesus is the Messiah. The Jewish leaders in Damascus became angry because they could not disprove what he said.

23 Some time later, the Jewish leaders there plotted to kill him. 24 Those Jewish leaders were continually watching the people passing through the city gates so that if they saw Saul there, they could kill him. However, someone told Saul what they planned to do. 25 So some of those whom he had led to believe in Jesus took him one night to the high stone wall that surrounded the city. They used ropes to lower him in a large basket through an opening in the wall. In this way he escaped from Damascus.

26 When Saul arrived in Jerusalem, he tried to meet with the other believers there. However, almost all of them continued to be afraid of him. They were not convinced that he had become a believer. 27 But Barnabas took him and brought him to the apostles. He explained to the apostles how, while Saul was traveling along the road to Damascus, he had seen Jesus, who had spoken to him there. He also told them how Saul had preached boldly about Jesus to people in Damascus. 28 So Saul began to meet with the apostles and other believers throughout Jerusalem. He spoke boldly to the people there about Jesus.

29 Saul was also speaking about Jesus with Jews who spoke Greek, and he was debating with them. They could not answer his arguments, so they were continually trying to think of a way to kill him. 30 But the other believers found out that the Jews who spoke Greek were planning to kill Saul. So some of them took him to the city of Caesarea. There they put him on a ship that was going to Tarsus, his hometown.

31 Since no one was persecuting them anymore, the believers throughout the entire regions of Judea, Galilee, and Samaria were able to live peacefully. The Holy Spirit was strengthening them and encouraging them. They were honoring the Lord Jesus, and the Holy Spirit was leading many other people to become believers.

32 Those peaceful conditions allowed Peter to travel throughout those regions. Once he went to the coastal plain to visit the believers who lived in the town of Lydda. 33 There he met a man whose name was Aeneas. Aeneas was not able to walk or stand, and so he had not been able to get up from his bed for eight years. 34 Peter said to him, "Aeneas, Jesus the Messiah heals you! Get up and roll up your own mat!" Right away Aeneas stood up. 35 Most of the people who lived in Lydda and on the Plain of Sharon saw Aeneas after the Lord had healed him, so they believed in the Lord Jesus.

36 In the town of Joppa there was a believer whose name was Tabitha. Her name in the Greek language was Dorcas. She was always doing good deeds for poor people by giving them things that they needed. 37 During the time that Peter was in Lydda, she became sick and died. Some women there washed her body according to the Jewish custom. Then they covered her body with cloth and placed it in an upstairs room in her house.

38 Lydda was near the city of Joppa, so when the disciples heard that Peter was still in Lydda, they sent two men to go to Peter. When they arrived where Peter was, they urged him, "Please come immediately with us to Joppa!" 39 Peter got ready right away and went with them. When he arrived at the house in Joppa, they took him to the upstairs room where the body of Dorcas was lying. All the widows there stood around him. They were crying and showing him the tunics and other garments that Dorcas had made for people while she was still alive. 40 But Peter sent them all out of the room so that he could pray. Then he got down on his knees and prayed. Then, turning toward her body, he said, "Tabitha, stand up!" Immediately she opened her eyes and, when she saw Peter, she sat up. 41 He grasped one of her hands and helped her to stand up. After he had summoned the believers and especially the widows among them to come back in, he showed them that she was alive again. 42 Soon people everywhere in Joppa knew about that miracle and, as a result, many people believed in Jesus. 43 Peter stayed in Joppa many days with a man named Simon, who made leather from animal skins.

10 1 There was a man whose name was Cornelius who lived in the city of Caesarea. He was an officer who commanded 100 men in a large group of Roman soldiers from Italy. 2 He continually tried to do what would please God. He and his entire household were non-Jews who worshiped God. He often gave money to help poor Jewish people. He prayed to God regularly.

3 One day at about three o'clock in the afternoon, Cornelius saw a vision. He clearly saw an angel whom God had sent. He saw the angel coming into his room and saying to him, "Cornelius!" 4 Cornelius stared at the angel and became terrified. Then he asked fearfully, "Sir, what do you want?" The angel answered him, "You have been praying regularly to God. You often give money to help poor people. Those things have been like an offering to God, and he has noticed them. 5 So now command some men to go to Joppa. Tell them to bring back a man named Simon whose other name is Peter. 6 He is staying with a man, also named Simon, who makes leather. His house is near the ocean." 7 When the angel who was speaking with Cornelius had gone, he summoned two of his household servants and a soldier who served him, one who also worshiped God. 8 He explained to them everything that the angel had said. Then he told them to go to the city of Joppa and ask Peter to come to Caesarea.

9 About noon the next day, those three men were traveling along the road. As they were approaching Joppa, Peter went up on the flat housetop to pray. 10 Peter became hungry and wanted something to eat. While some people were preparing the food, he saw a vision. 11 He saw an opening in the sky through which something like a large, square piece of cloth was coming down. Someone seemed to be lowering it by its four corners to the ground. 12 Inside the sheet were many different kinds of creatures. Some had four feet, others crawled on the ground, and others were wild birds. These included animals and birds that the Mosaic laws forbade Jews to eat. 13 Then he heard God say to him, "Go ahead, Peter, kill some of these and eat them." 14 But Peter replied, "Lord, surely not! I have never eaten anything that our Jewish law says is unacceptable to you or that we must not eat!” 15 Then Peter heard God talk to him a second time. He said, “I am God, so if I have made something acceptable to eat, do not say that it is not acceptable to eat!” 16 This happened three times. Right after that, the sheet with the animals and birds went back up into the sky.

17 This left Peter trying to understand what that vision meant. Meanwhile, the men Cornelius had sent arrived in Joppa. They asked people how to get to Simon’s house. When people told them, they found the house and stood outside the gate. 18 They called from the gate and asked if a man whose name was Simon, whose other name was Peter, was staying there. 19 While Peter was still trying to understand what the vision meant, the Holy Spirit said to him, “Listen! Three men are here who want you to go with them. 20 So do not be reluctant. Go downstairs and go with them! Do not think that you should not go with them, because I have sent them here!” 21 So Peter went down to the men and said to them, “Greetings! I am the man you are looking for. Why have you come?” 22 They replied, “Cornelius, who is a Roman army officer, sent us here. He is a good man who worships God. All of the Jewish people who know about him speak well of him. An angel from God told Cornelius, ‘Have some men to go to Joppa and get Simon Peter. Bring him to your house and listen to what he has to say.’” 23 So Peter invited them into the house and told them that they should stay there that night.

The next day Peter got ready and went with the men. Several of the believers from Joppa also went with him. 24 The day after that, they arrived in the city of Caesarea. Cornelius was waiting for them. He had also invited his relatives and close friends to come, so they were there in his house too. 25 When Peter entered the house, Cornelius met him and bowed low in front of him to worship him. 26 But Peter grasped Cornelius by the hand and lifted him to his feet. He said, “Stand up! Do not bow down and worship me! I myself am only human, like you!”

27 While he was talking to Cornelius, Peter and the others entered the house. They saw that Cornelius had invited many people to come and hear Peter. 28 Then Peter said to them, “You all know that we Jews think we are disobeying our laws if we associate with people who are not Jews or visit them in their homes. However, God has shown me in a vision that I should not say that God only accepts people who are Jews. 29 So when you sent some men to ask me to come here, I came right away without objection. So, please tell me, why have you asked me to come here?"

30 Cornelius replied, "About this time three days ago, I was praying to God in my house, as I regularly do at three o'clock in the afternoon. Suddenly a man whose clothes shone brightly stood in front of me 31 and said, 'Cornelius, God has heard your prayer. He has also noticed that you have often given money to help poor people, and he is pleased with that. 32 So now, send messengers to go to the city of Joppa in order to ask Simon, whose other name is Peter, to come here. He is staying near the ocean in a house that belongs to another man named Simon, who makes leather.' 33 So I sent some men right away to ask you to come here. I certainly thank you for coming. Now we all are gathered here, knowing that God is with us. We want to hear all the things that the Lord God has commanded you to say. So please speak to us."

34 So Peter began to speak to them. He said, "Now I understand that it is true that God does not favor only certain groups of people. 35 Instead, from every people group he accepts everyone who honors him and who does what pleases him. 36 You know what God told us Israelites. He proclaimed to us the good news that people could live peacefully with him because of what Jesus the Messiah has done. This Jesus is not Lord only over us Israelites. He is also the Lord who rules over all people. 37 You know what Jesus did throughout the land of Judea, beginning in Galilee. He started to do those things after John proclaimed to people that they should stop their sinful behavior. If they did, John baptized them. 38 You know that God gave his Holy Spirit to Jesus, the man from the town of Nazareth, and gave him the power to do miracles. You also know how Jesus went to many places, doing good deeds. Whenever he met people whom the devil was causing to suffer, he healed them. It was God who enabled Jesus to do those things."

39 "We all saw the things Jesus did in Jerusalem and around every part of the land of Israel where he lived. His enemies killed him by nailing him to a wooden cross. 40 Jesus died on a Friday, but God brought him back to life that Sunday. God made sure that many people would see that he was certainly alive again. 41 At that time God did not let everyone see him. God had previously chosen some people to be witnesses that Jesus was alive. I am one of the people who saw him and even ate meals together with him just after God brought him back to life.

42 Jesus commanded us to preach to the people and tell them that God has chosen him to judge everyone one day. He will judge those who are still alive and those who have died before that day. 43 All the prophets who wrote about him long ago told the people about him. They wrote that if anyone believed in him, God would forgive whatever sins they had done, because of what this man, Jesus, would do for them."

44 While Peter was still speaking about Jesus, suddenly the Holy Spirit came to all those people from other nations who were listening to the message. 45 The Jewish believers who had come with Peter from Joppa were amazed that God had so kindly given the Holy Spirit to people from all different nations too. 46 The Jewish believers knew that God had done that because they were hearing those people speak in other languages to tell how great God is. Then Peter said, 47 to the other Jewish believers who were there, "God has given them the Holy Spirit just as he gave him to us Jewish believers. Surely all of you would agree that we should baptize these people!" 48 Then Peter told Cornelius and his guests that they should receive baptism as believers in Jesus the Messiah. Peter and the believers who had come with him from Joppa baptized all of them. After they had received baptism, Cornelius invited Peter to stay with them for several days. So he and the other Jewish believers did that.

11 1 The apostles and other believers who lived in various towns in the province of Judea heard that some non-Jewish people had also believed the message of God about Jesus. 2 But there were some Jewish believers in Jerusalem who followed the teaching of the Pharisees and believed that Jews should not associate with non-Jews. When Peter came back from Caesarea to Jerusalem, they met with him and criticized him. 3 They said to him, "Not only was it wrong for you to go into the home of someone who was not Jewish, you even ate there!"

4 So Peter told them exactly what had happened. 5 He said, "I was praying by myself in the city of Joppa, and in a trance I saw a vision. I saw something like a large sheet coming down from heaven, suspended by its four corners. It came down to where I was. 6 As I was gazing at it, I looked closely and I saw some tame animals and also some wild animals, reptiles, and wild birds. 7 Then I heard a voice commanding me, 'Go ahead, Peter, kill some and eat them!'
8 But I replied, 'Lord, surely not! I have never eaten anything that our laws say we must not eat!' 9 The voice spoke to me from heaven a second time: 'I am God, so if I have made something acceptable to eat, do not say it is unacceptable.' [10] This same thing happened two more times. Then the sheet with all those animals and birds went back up into heaven.

[11] At that exact moment, three men arrived at the house where I was staying. Their master had sent them to bring me to Caesarea. [12] God's Spirit told me that I should not hesitate to go with them even though they were not Jews. Six Jewish believers went with me to Caesarea. We went into the house of the man who had sent for me. [13] He told us that he had seen an angel standing in his house. The angel told him, 'Tell some men to go to Joppa and bring back Simon whose other name is Peter. [14] He will tell you how God will save you and everyone else in your house.' [15] While I was speaking to them, the Holy Spirit suddenly came to them just as he came to us during the Pentecost festival. [16] Then I remembered what Jesus had said: 'John baptized you with water, but God will baptize you with the Holy Spirit.' [17] God gave us the Holy Spirit when we believed in the Lord Jesus as the Messiah. God gave those non-Jews the same Holy Spirit. So I had to cooperate with what God was doing and baptize them."

[18] After those Jewish believers heard what Peter said, they stopped criticizing him. Instead, they praised God. They said, "It is clear that God has accepted non-Jews so they too can have everlasting life if they turn from their sinful behavior."

[19] After Stephen died, people started persecuting the other believers in Jerusalem. So many of them left and went to other places. Some of them went to the land of Phoenicia. Some went to the island of Cyprus. Others went to the city of Antioch in Syria. In those places. They told people the good news about Jesus. But most of them told only other Jewish people. [20] But some of the believers were men from the island of Cyprus and from the city of Cyrene in north Africa. They went to Antioch and also spoke with non-Jewish people, telling them that Jesus is the Messiah. [21] The Lord God was powerfully enabling those believers to preach effectively. As a result, very many non-Jewish people believed their message and trusted in Jesus.

[22] The group of believers in Jerusalem learned that many people in Antioch were believing in Jesus. So they sent Barnabas to Antioch to teach and encourage the new believers. [23] When Barnabas got to Antioch, he recognized that God had acted kindly toward the people there. This made him very happy. He encouraged all of the new believers to continue to trust in the Lord Jesus completely. [24] Barnabas was a good man whom the Holy Spirit completely controlled. He trusted God completely. Because of what Barnabas did, many more people in Antioch believed in Jesus.

25 Then Barnabas left Antioch and went to the city of Tarsus in the province of Cilicia to look for Saul. 26 After Barnabas found Saul, he brought him back to Antioch to help teach the believers there. Barnabas and Saul met regularly with the church there for a whole year. They taught large numbers of people about Jesus. The people of Antioch were the first people who called the disciples of Jesus "Christians."

27 During the time that Barnabas and Saul were in Antioch, some believers who were prophets came there from Jerusalem. 28 One of them whose name was Agabus stood up in order to speak. God's Spirit enabled him to prophesy that there would soon be a severe shortage of food in many countries. (This shortage happened when Claudius was the Roman emperor.) 29 When the believers there heard what Agabus said, they decided that they would send money to help the believers who lived in Judea. Each of them decided to give as much money as he was able to give. 30 They sent the money with Barnabas and Saul to the leaders of the believers in Jerusalem.

12 1 About this same time, King Herod Agrippa sent soldiers to arrest some of the leaders of the group of believers in Jerusalem. The soldiers put them in prison. The king did that because he wanted to hurt the believers and their community. 2 He commanded a soldier to cut off the head of the apostle James, the older brother of the apostle John. So the soldier did that. 3 When Herod realized that he had pleased the leaders of the Jewish people, he commanded soldiers to arrest Peter too. This happened during the festival when the Jewish people ate bread without yeast. 4 After the soldiers arrested Peter, they put him in prison. Herod assigned four groups of soldiers to guard Peter. Each group had four soldiers. Herod wanted to bring Peter out of prison and judge him in front of the Jewish people after the Passover Festival was finished. He then planned to execute Peter.

5 So for several days Peter stayed in prison. But the other believers in their group in Jerusalem were urgently praying to God, asking him to help Peter. 6 It was the night before Herod planned to bring Peter out of prison and have him executed publicly. Peter was sleeping in the prison between two soldiers. A soldier on one side of him had locked a chain onto

Peter's wrist and his own wrist. A soldier on the other side of Peter had done the same thing. Two more soldiers were guarding the prison doors. 7 Suddenly, an angel from the Lord God stood beside Peter. A bright light shone in his cell. But Peter was still sleeping so soundly that the angel poked him in the side to wake him up. The angel told him, "Get up quickly!" While Peter was getting up, the chains fell off from his wrists. However, the soldiers were not aware of what was happening. 8 Then the angel said to him, "Fasten your belt around you and tie your sandals onto your feet!" And Peter did what the angel told him to do. Then the angel told him, "Wrap your cloak around you and follow me!" 9 So Peter put on his cloak and sandals and followed the angel out of the prison cell. He had no idea that all this was really happening. He thought that he was dreaming. 10 Peter and the angel walked by the soldiers who were guarding the two doors, but the soldiers did not see them. Then they came to the iron gate that led into the city. The gate swung open for them, and Peter and the angel walked out of the prison. After they had walked some distance along one street, the angel suddenly disappeared. 11 Then Peter finally realized that this was not a vision, it was really happening. So he thought, "Now I know that the Lord God truly sent an angel to help me. He rescued me from what Herod planned to do to me and from all the things that the Jewish leaders expected would happen."

12 When Peter realized that God had rescued him, he went to Mary's house. She was the mother of John, whose other name was Mark. Many believers had assembled there, and they were praying that God would help Peter somehow. 13 When Peter knocked at the outer entrance, a servant girl whose name was Rhoda came to find out who was outside the door. 14 When Peter responded, she recognized his voice, but she was so happy and excited that she forgot to open the door! Instead, she ran back into the house. She told the other believers that Peter was standing outside the door. 15 But they said to her, "You must be crazy!" But she continued to say that it was really true. They kept responding, "No, it cannot be Peter. It is probably his angel." 16 But Peter kept knocking the whole time those inside were talking. So when some of them finally opened the door, they saw that it was Peter, and they could hardly believe it! 17 Peter waved his hand to get them to be quiet. Then he told them exactly how the Lord God had let him out of the prison. He also said, "Tell James, the leader of our group, and our other fellow believers what has happened." Then Peter left and went away somewhere else.

18 The next morning the soldiers who had been guarding Peter saw that he was gone. They wondered what had happened to him, and they became terribly upset. 19 Then Herod heard about it. So he commanded soldiers to search for Peter, but they did not find him. Then Herod questioned the soldiers who had been guarding Peter. But the soldiers had no good explanation for what had happened. So Herod commanded them to be executed, which was how the Romans punished guards whose prisoners escaped. Afterwards, Herod went from the province of Judea to the city of Caesarea, where he stayed for some time.

20 King Herod became very upset with the people who lived in the cities of Tyre and Sidon. He stopped them from trading with the people he ruled. But the people of Tyre and Sidon needed to buy food from those regions. So they sent representatives together to the city of Caesarea to meet with Herod. They persuaded Blastus, who was one of Herod's important officials, to tell Herod that they wanted to live peacefully with him. 21 On the day that Herod had planned to meet with the representatives of Tyre and Sidon, he did some things to impress them. He put on very expensive clothes and he sat on his royal throne. Then he formally addressed all the people who had gathered there. 22 Those who were listening to him shouted repeatedly, "King Herod speaks so well that he must be a god, not a man!" 23 Herod accepted the praise of the people instead of telling them they should praise God. So while the people were still praising Herod, the Lord God sent an angel to punish him. That angel punished him severely: Worms ate him and he died.

24 The believers continued telling God's message to people in many places, and the number of people who believed in Jesus was continually increasing.

25 Barnabas and Saul finished delivering the money to help the Jewish believers in the province of Judea. They returned to the city of Jerusalem. They brought John, whose other name was Mark, with them.

13 1 At that time in the group of believers in the city of Antioch there were prophets and teachers. They were: Barnabas; Simeon, whose other name was Niger; Lucius, who was from the city of Cyrene; Manaen, who had grown up with Herod Antipas when he was the ruler of Galilee; and Saul. 2 While the believers in Antioch were worshiping the Lord and fasting, the Holy Spirit spoke to them. He said, "I want you to let Barnabas and Saul serve me in a particular way. I want you to send them on a special mission that I have chosen them to do." 3 So the believers fasted and prayed some more. Then they put their hands on Barnabas and Saul to show that they approved of them going on this special mission. Then they sent them off to do what the Holy Spirit had commanded.

4 The Holy Spirit gave Barnabas and Saul instructions about where to go. So they went from Antioch to the city of Seleucia, which is by the sea. From there they went by ship to the city of Salamis on the island of Cyprus. 5 While they were in Salamis, they went to the Jewish meeting places. There they proclaimed the message God had told them to share about Jesus. John Mark went with them and was helping them.

6 The three of them crossed from one side of the island to the other and shared the gospel message in each town they passed through. Eventually they came to the city of Paphos. There they met a sorcerer whose name was Bar Jesus. He was a Jew who falsely claimed to be a prophet. 7 He was often in the company of the governor of the island, Sergius Paulus, who was a sensible man. The governor sent someone to ask Barnabas and Saul to come to him because he wanted to hear what God had told them to say. 8 However, Bar Jesus, who also called himself Elymas, contradicted what Barnabas and Paul were saying. (The name Elymas means "the Sorcerer.") He kept trying to persuade the governor not to believe in Jesus. 9 Saul was using his Roman name, Paul, because he was visiting a Roman official. The Holy Spirit gave Paul boldness and insight. He looked steadily at the sorcerer. 10 Paul said, "You are constantly lying to people and doing things to deceive them! You are serving the devil! You try to stop everything that is good! You must stop trying to keep people from living in the way that God wants! 11 Right now the Lord God is going to punish you! You will become blind and you will not even be able to see the sun until God decides to let you see again." At once Elymas could no longer see clearly. Then he could not see at all. He wandered around, searching for someone to take him by the hand and lead him. 12 When Sergius Paulus saw what had happened to Elymas, he believed in Jesus. The truth and power of what Paul and Barnabas were teaching about Jesus amazed him.

13 After that, Paul and the people with him traveled by sailboat from Paphos to the city of Perga in the province of Pamphylia. At Perga, John Mark left them and returned to his home in Jerusalem. 14 Then Paul and Barnabas traveled by land from Perga and arrived in the city of Antioch in the district of Pisidia in the province of Galatia. On the Sabbath, they entered the Jewish meeting place and sat down as rabbis did. 15 Someone read aloud from what Moses had written in the books of the Law. Next someone read from what the prophets had written.

Then the leaders of the Jewish meeting place sent a message to Paul and Barnabas. They said, "Fellow Jews, if one of you wants to speak to the people here to encourage them, please speak to us now."

16 So Paul stood up and motioned with his hand so that the people would listen to him. Then he said, "Fellow Israelites and you non-Jewish people who also worship God, please listen to me! 17 God, whom we Israelites worship, chose our ancestors to be his people. He caused them to become very numerous while they were foreigners living in Egypt. Then God did powerful things to lead them out of slavery there. 18 He put up with their disobedience for about forty years while they were in the wilderness. 19 He enabled the Israelites to conquer seven people groups who were then living in the region of Canaan. He gave their land to the Israelites to live in. 20 The Israelites spent about 450 years in Egypt and in the wilderness."

"After that, God chose people to serve as judges and as leaders to rule the Israelite people. The prophet Samuel was the last of these judges to rule them. 21 Then, while Samuel was still their leader, the people demanded that he choose a king to rule them. So God chose Saul, the son of Kish from the tribe of Benjamin, to be their king. He ruled them for 40 years. 22 After God had rejected Saul from being king, he chose David to be their king. God said about him, 'I have seen that David, son of Jesse, is exactly the kind of man who desires what I desire. He will do everything that I want him to do.'"

23 "God brought one of David's descendants, Jesus, to us Israelite people to save us. This is what he had promised David and our other ancestors that he would do. 24 Before Jesus began his work, John the Baptizer preached to all of our Israelite people who came to him. He told them that they should turn away from their sinful behavior and ask God to forgive them. Then he would baptize them. 25 When John was about to finish the work that God gave him to do, he told the crowds, 'Do not think that I am the Messiah whom God promised to send, because I am not. But listen! The Messiah will soon come. He is so much greater than I am that I do not even deserve to be his slave and take the sandals off his feet.'"

26 "My fellow Israelites who are descendants of Abraham and you non-Jewish people who also worship God, please listen! God has told all of us how he saves people. 27 The people living in Jerusalem and their rulers did not recognize Jesus. They heard someone read from the writings of the prophets in their synagogues on every Sabbath day. But they did not understand what the prophets were saying. And so what the prophets predicted long ago came true when they condemned Jesus to death. 28 Many people accused Jesus of doing wicked things. They could not prove that he had done anything for which he deserved to die. But they still demanded that Pilate, the governor, condemn him to death. 29 They did to Jesus all the things that the prophets had written long ago that people would do to him. They killed Jesus by nailing him to a cross. Then they took his body down from the cross and placed it in a tomb.

30 However, God brought him back to life after he was dead. 31 For many days he repeatedly appeared to his disciples who had come along with him from Galilee to Jerusalem. Those who saw him are telling the people about him now."

32 "Right now we are proclaiming this good news to you. God made a promise to our Jewish ancestors. 33 God has kept that promise for us who are their descendants, and also for you who are not Jews, by making Jesus alive again. It is just like what David wrote in the second Psalm, when God was speaking about sending his Son:

> 'You are my Son;
> today I have become your Father.'

34 God has made the Messiah alive after he was dead, and God will never let him die again. God promised that to the Messiah when he said in the Scriptures,

> 35 'I will certainly help you, as I promised David that I would do.' That is why, in another psalm, David also says:
> 36 'You, God, will not allow the body of your Messiah to decay.' While David was living, he did what God wanted him to do. Then when he died his body was buried where his ancestors' bodies had been buried. Then David's body decayed. So he could not have been speaking about himself in this psalm. 37 But God made Jesus alive again after he died, and his body did not decay."

38 "So, fellow Israelites and other friends, we want you to know that God is promising to forgive your sins as a result of what Jesus has done. You could not become right with God by obeying the laws that Moses wrote because there were many laws that you were not able to obey. 39 But now God declares that all people who believe in Jesus are no longer guilty of any of the things that they have done that have displeased him. 40 So then be careful that God does not judge you, as the prophets said that God would do! 41 God said through the prophet Habakkuk,

> ‘You who ridicule me, observe carefully what I am doing. You will certainly be amazed. Then you will die. You will be amazed because I plan to do something terrible while you are living. You would not believe that I would do that even if someone told you!’”

42 After Paul finished speaking, and as he and Barnabas were going away, many of the people there asked them to return on the next Sabbath and speak to them about these things again. 43 When the meeting was over, many people became disciples of Jesus, as Paul and Barnabas had encouraged them to do. These people were both Jews and non-Jews who worshiped God. Paul and Barnabas continued talking to them. They urged them to continue to trust that God kindly forgives people’s sins because of what Jesus did.

44 On the next Sabbath day, most of the people in Antioch came to the Jewish meeting place to hear Paul and Barnabas speak about Jesus. 45 The leaders of the Jews saw the large crowds of people that were coming to hear Paul and Barnabas. This made them extremely jealous. So they began to contradict the things that Paul was saying. They also insulted him. 46 Then, speaking very boldly, Paul and Barnabas said to those Jewish leaders, “We had to speak the message from God about Jesus to you Jews first before we proclaim it to non-Jews, because God commanded us to do that. But you are rejecting God’s message. By doing that, you have shown that you are not worthy of everlasting life. Therefore, we are leaving you, and now we will go to the non-Jewish people to tell them the message from God. 47 We are doing this because the Lord God has commanded us to do it. He said in the Scriptures, ‘I have chosen you to reveal things about me to non-Jewish people that will be like a light to them. I have chosen you to tell people everywhere in the world the message that I want to save them.’”

48 When the non-Jewish people heard those words, they rejoiced. They praised God for the message about Jesus. All of the non-Jewish people whom God had chosen for everlasting life put their trust in Jesus. 49 At that time, many of the believers traveled around throughout that region, spreading the message about the Lord Jesus everywhere they went.

50 However, some leaders of the Jews talked to some important women who worshiped with them. They also talked to the most important men in the city. The Jewish leaders persuaded the non-Jewish city leaders to try to stop Paul and Barnabas. So those non-Jewish people led many citizens against Paul and Barnabas, and they made them leave their region.

51 As the two apostles were leaving, they shook the dust off their feet. This was to show those leaders that God had rejected them and would punish them. Then they left the city of Antioch and went to the city of Iconium. 52 Meanwhile, the people in Antioch who had believed in Jesus were very happy and the Holy Spirit was helping them greatly.

14 1 At Iconium, Paul and Barnabas went as usual into the Jewish meeting place. There they spoke very powerfully about the Lord Jesus. As a result, very many Jews and non-Jews believed in Jesus. 2 But some of the Jews refused to believe that message. They made some of the non-Jews angry and bitter toward the people who had put their trust in Jesus. 3 But Paul and Barnabas spent a long time there speaking boldly about Jesus. Jesus enabled them to do many miracles. In this way, he showed people the truth of the message that God saves us even though we do not deserve it.

4 The people who lived in Iconium had two different opinions. Some agreed with the Jews. Others agreed with Paul and Barnabas. 5 Then the non-Jewish people and the Jews who opposed Paul and Barnabas talked among themselves about how they could mistreat Paul and Barnabas. Some of the important men in that city agreed to help them. Together, they decided that they would kill Paul and Barnabas by throwing stones at them. 6 But Paul and Barnabas heard about their plan. They quickly went away to the district of Lycaonia. They went to the cities of Lystra and Derbe in that district and to the surrounding area. 7 While they were in that area, they continually told the people the good news about Jesus.

8 In Lystra, they saw a man who was sitting down because he was crippled in his legs. When his mother gave birth to him, he had crippled legs, so he had never been able to walk.
9 He listened as Paul was speaking about Jesus. Paul looked directly at him and could see in the man's face that he believed that Jesus could make him well. 10 So Paul shouted out to him, "Stand up straight!" When the man heard that, his legs became strong. He immediately jumped up and began to walk around.

11 When the crowd saw Paul heal the crippled man, this made them think that Paul and Barnabas were the gods that they worshiped. So they shouted excitedly in their own Lycaonian language, “Look! The gods have made themselves look like people and they have come down from the sky to help us!” 12 They began to say that Barnabas was probably the chief god, whose name was Zeus. And they began to say that Paul was Hermes, the messenger for the other gods. They believed this because Paul was the one who had been speaking. 13 People worshiped Zeus at a temple just outside the gates of the city. The priest who was there heard what Paul and Barnabas had done, so he came to the city gate, where many people had already gathered. He brought bulls with wreaths of flowers around their necks. The priest and the crowd of people wanted to kill the bulls as part of a ceremony to worship Paul and Barnabas. 14 But when the apostles Barnabas and Paul heard about that, they were very upset. They tore their own clothes to show that they did not want the people to sacrifice to them. They rushed among the people, shouting, 15 “People of Lystra, you must not kill those bulls to worship us! We are not gods! We are human beings who are just the same as you! We have come to tell you some good news about the one true God. You can stop worshiping other so-called gods, because they cannot help you. This true God made the sky, the land, the oceans, and everything that lives in them. 16 In the past, God allowed the non-Jewish people groups to worship whatever gods they wanted to worship. 17 Even so, God showed you non-Jewish people that he is a good God. He sent rain to make your crops grow. He gave you plenty of food so that you could enjoy your lives.” 18 Paul and Barnabas said all these things to the people. Even so, it was very difficult for them to keep the people from sacrificing those bulls to worship them.

19 Then some Jews came from Antioch and Iconium and convinced many of the people of Lystra that Paul had not been telling them the truth. The people who believed what those Jews said became angry with Paul. They let those Jews throw stones at him until he fell to the ground. They all thought that he was dead, so they dragged him outside the city and left him lying there. 20 But some of the believers in Lystra came and stood around Paul, where he was lying on the ground. Suddenly Paul stood up! He went back into the city with the believers.

The next day, Paul and Barnabas left the city of Lystra and traveled to the city of Derbe. 21 In the city of Derbe they spent several days telling the people about Jesus. Many people there became believers. After that, Paul and Barnabas started on their way back home. They went again to Lystra. Then they went from there to Iconium. Then they went to the city of Antioch in the province of Pisidia. 22 In each place, they urged the believers to keep trusting Jesus. They told the believers, “We suffer many hardships in this world when we are allowing God to rule over us.” 23 Paul and Barnabas chose leaders for each congregation. Before they left each place, they gathered the believers together and spent some time praying and fasting. Then they entrusted the leaders and other believers to Jesus, in whom they had believed, in order that he would care for them.

24 After Paul and Barnabas had traveled through the district of Pisidia, they went south to the district of Pamphylia. 25 In that district, they arrived at the town of Perga. They preached God’s message about Jesus to the people there. Then they went down to the seacoast at the town of Attalia. 26 There they got on a ship and went back to the city of Antioch in the province of Syria. The people there had chosen Paul and Barnabas to go to other places and preach. That was where the believers had asked God to help Paul and Barnabas do the work that they had now completed. 27 When they arrived in the city of Antioch, they called the believers together. Then Paul and Barnabas told them all that God had helped them to do. Specifically, they told them how God had enabled many non-Jewish people to believe in Jesus. 28 Then Paul and Barnabas stayed in Antioch with the other believers for a long time.

15 1 But then some Jewish believers from the province of Judea arrived in Antioch. They started telling the non-Jewish believers there, “You must receive circumcision to show that you belong to God, as Moses commanded in the laws that he received from God. If you do not do that, God will not save you.” 2 Paul and Barnabas had a big argument with those Jews. They could not settle their disagreement, so the believers at Antioch sent Paul and Barnabas and some of the other believers to Jerusalem. That way they could discuss this issue with the apostles and other leaders there.

3 After the believers in Antioch had sent Paul, Barnabas, and the others on their way, they traveled through the provinces of Phoenicia and Samaria. When they stopped at different places along the way, they told the believers in those places that many non-Jews were putting their trust in Jesus. When the believers heard this, they rejoiced greatly. 4 When Paul, Barnabas, and the others arrived in Jerusalem, the apostles, elders, and other believers there welcomed them. Then Paul and Barnabas reported the things that God had enabled them to do among non-Jewish people.

5 But some of the Jewish believers who were Pharisees stood up to get the attention of the other believers. They said to them, "The non-Jews who have believed in Jesus must receive circumcision. We must also tell them to obey the laws that God gave to Moses."

6 Then the apostles and the elders met together in order to talk about this issue. 7 After they had discussed it for a long time, Peter stood up to get everyone's attention. He said to them, "Fellow believers, you all know that a long time ago God chose me from among you other apostles for an important task. He wanted me to tell the non-Jewish people the good news about Jesus. God wanted them to believe in him. 8 God knows what every person is truly like. He showed me and others that he had accepted the non-Jews as his people. He did that by giving the Holy Spirit to them just as he gave the Holy Spirit to us. 9 God treated them in the same way that he treated us. He forgave their sins because they trusted in Jesus. 10 Listen carefully! God has shown what he wants, so you should not be trying to promote something else. You should not be trying to force non-Jewish believers to obey our Jewish laws! That would be like putting a heavy burden on them. Our ancestors were not able to obey those laws. We Jews today have not been able to obey them either. 11 We are confident that God saves us Jews from our sins because of what the Lord Jesus did for us. And we are confident that God will save in the same way those non-Jews who believe in Jesus."

12 After Peter had spoken, Barnabas and Paul told about the many great miracles that God had enabled them to do among the non-Jewish people. The miracles showed that God had accepted these non-Jews. The people who heard Barnabas and Paul tell about these miracles were so fascinated that all they did was listen. None of them said anything.

13 When Barnabas and Paul had finished speaking, James, the leader of the group of believers in Jerusalem, spoke to everyone. He said, "Fellow believers, listen to me. 14 Simon Peter has told you how God previously showed that he cared about the non-Jews. God did that by choosing from among them a group of people who would belong to him. 15 What God said long ago, as we can read in the writings of one of the prophets, agrees with that:

> 16 Later on, I will help the Israelites again. I will restore the kingdom of David that has been conquered and destroyed. I will do that by making one of the descendants of David the king of Israel again. It will be as if I was rebuilding a house after it had been torn down.

17 I will do this so that the rest of the people in the world will want me to be their Lord. This will include even the non-Jewish people whom I have chosen to belong to me. You can be certain that this will happen because I, the Lord God, have said that I will do it.
18 I told my people long ago that I would do this."

19 James continued to speak. He said, "Therefore I think that we should not tell the non-Jewish people who are becoming disciples of Jesus that they have to obey all of our Jewish laws and rituals. 20 Instead, we should write a letter to them about only a few things. They should not eat meat that people have offered to idols. They should not have sexual relations with someone to whom they are not married. They should not eat meat from animals that people have strangled to kill them for butchering. They should not eat or drink any blood. 21 We should tell the Gentiles not to do these things because they would be very offensive to Jews. The laws that Moses wrote forbid these things. Jews would expect Gentiles to know that God would not want them to do these things because people read those laws aloud in the Jewish meeting places on every Sabbath day. They have done this in cities in many different places for a very long time."

22 The apostles and the elders, along with all the other believers in Jerusalem, agreed with what James said. So they decided that they should choose men from the church in Jerusalem and send them to Antioch with Paul and Barnabas. Those men would let the believers there know what the leaders at Jerusalem had decided. So they chose Judas the son of Sabbas and Silas. These were both leaders of the believers at Jerusalem. 23 They wrote the following letter, which they asked Judas and Silas to take to the believers at Antioch:

"We apostles and elders who are your fellow believers send our greetings to you.
We are writing this to you non-Jewish believers who live in the city of Antioch and other places in the provinces of Syria and Cilicia.
24 We have heard that some men from our church came to you and taught you things that were different from what you learned when you first believed in Jesus. We have heard that what they told you made you upset. We want you to know that we did not send these men to you.
25 We met together and we all agreed that it would be good to choose some men and ask them to go to you. We are sending them along with Barnabas and Paul, whom we love very much.

26 Those two have put their lives in danger because they serve our Lord Jesus the Messiah.

27 We have also sent Judas and Silas to you. They will tell you the same things that we are writing.

28 We believe that the Holy Spirit has shown us that we should not require you to obey all of the Jewish laws. That would be difficult and unnecessary. Instead, we only require you to obey the following instructions:

29 You should not eat food that people have sacrificed to idols.

You should not eat or drink any blood.

You should not eat meat from animals that people have killed by strangling them.

You should not have sexual relations with someone to whom you are not married.

If you avoid doing these things, you will be doing what is right. We wish you well."

30 Then the apostles and elders sent Barnabas, Paul, Judas, and Silas on their way. They traveled from the city of Jerusalem to the city of Antioch. They assembled the believers there and read the letter to them. 31 When the believers there read the letter, they were glad, because its message encouraged them. 32 Judas and Silas were prophets. They said many things to encourage the Gentile believers. They helped them to trust in Jesus even more.

33 Judas and Silas stayed in Antioch for a long time. Then, when they were ready to return to Jerusalem, the believers at Antioch wished them well and they left. 34 13 [But Silas thought it would be best for them to stay there. So Judas went back to Jerusalem alone.] 35 However, Paul and Barnabas remained in Antioch. There they and many others taught the believers and shared the good news about Jesus.

36 After a while Paul said to Barnabas, "Let us go back and visit the believers in every city where we previously proclaimed the good news about Jesus. That way we can find out how well they are continuing to believe in and obey Jesus." 37 Barnabas agreed that it would be good to go back and visit these believers. But Barnabas said that he wanted to take John, whose other name was Mark, along with them again. 38 However, Paul told Barnabas that he thought it was a bad idea to take Mark with them. Paul said this because Mark had left them when they were previously in the region of Pamphylia. Mark had not continued to work with them.

39 Paul and Barnabas strongly disagreed with each other about whether they should bring John Mark with them. So they separated from each other. Barnabas went on a journey of his own and took Mark with him. They sailed on a ship to the island of Cyprus. 40 Paul decided to travel with Silas. The believers in Antioch asked God graciously to help them. Then Paul and Silas departed from Antioch. 41 Paul traveled with Silas through the provinces of Syria and Cilicia. In those places, they helped the groups of believers to trust in Jesus even more.

16 1 Paul and Silas went to the cities of Derbe and Lystra and visited the believers there. Now a believer whose name was Timothy lived in Lystra. His mother was a Jewish woman who believed in Jesus. His father, however, was a Greek man. Because this man was not Jewish, he did not observe the law of Moses. 2 The believers in Lystra and Iconium said good things about Timothy. 3 Paul wanted to take Timothy with him when he went to other places, so he arranged for someone to circumcise Timothy. Paul did that so that the Jews who lived in those other places would accept Timothy. Those Jews knew that Timothy's non-Jewish father would not have circumcised him.

4 So Timothy went with Paul and Silas, and they traveled to many other towns. In each town they encouraged the believers to do what the apostles and elders in Jerusalem had told them to do.

5 They helped the believers in those towns to trust Jesus even more. More people became believers every day.

6 Paul and his companions wanted to share the good news about Jesus in the province of Asia. But the Holy Spirit showed them that he did not want them to do that. So they went instead through the regions of Phrygia and Galatia, trying to discover where the Holy Spirit wanted them to share the good news. 7 They arrived at the border of the province of Mysia. From there they wanted to go north into the province of Bithynia. But once again the Holy Spirit showed them that he did not want them to share the good news there. 8 So they went through the province of Mysia and arrived at Troas, a city by the sea. 9 That night God gave Paul a vision in which he saw a man from the province of Macedonia. That man was begging Paul, "Come across the sea to Macedonia and help us!" 10 I, Luke, joined Paul and his companions in Troas. After Paul saw that vision, we made arrangements right away to travel to Macedonia. We were certain that God had called us to share the good news about Jesus with the people there.

11 We got on a boat and sailed from Troas right to the island of Samothrace. The next day we sailed to the city of Neapolis. 12 Then we left Neapolis and went to Philippi. It was a very important city in the province of Macedonia. Many Roman citizens lived there. We decided to stay in Philippi for a while.

13 On the Sabbath day we went outside the city gate and walked down to the river. Since there was no synagogue in the city, we knew that Jewish people would gather to pray at a place like that. When we arrived, we saw some women who had gathered to pray. So we sat down and began to tell them about Jesus. 14 A woman whose name was Lydia was one of the women who was listening to Paul. She was from the city of Thyatira, She was a merchant who sold luxurious purple cloth. She believed in the God of Israel and worshiped him. The Lord God enabled her to understand what Paul was saying, and she trusted in Jesus. 15 Paul baptized Lydia and the others who lived in her house. Then she said to us, "If you recognize that I believe sincerely in Jesus, please come to my house and stay there." So we accepted her invitation and stayed at her house.

16 Another day, as we were going to the place where people gathered to pray, we met a young woman who was a slave. An evil spirit was giving her the power to tell what would happen to people in the future. People paid a lot of money to the men who were her owners so that she would tell them what was going to happen to them. 17 This young woman followed Paul and the rest of us everywhere we went. She was continually shouting, "These men serve the God who is the greatest of all gods! They are telling you how God can save you!" 18 She continued to do this for many days. Finally, Paul became so upset that he turned toward the young woman and spoke to the evil spirit that was in her. He said, "In the name of Jesus the Messiah, I command you to come out of her!" Immediately the evil spirit left her. 19 Then her owners realized that she could no longer predict what would happen to people. That meant she could no longer earn money for them. That made them very angry. They grabbed Paul and Silas and took them to the open area of the city where its rulers were so that the rulers could judge them. 20 The owners of the young woman brought them to the city rulers. They told them, "These men are Jews, and they are greatly troubling the people in our city. 21 They are teaching that we should do things that our Roman laws do not allow us to do!" 22 Many people in the crowd joined those who were accusing Paul and Silas. This convinced the Roman rulers that they must be bad men. So the rulers told soldiers to tear the shirts off Paul and Silas and beat them with wooden rods. 23 So the soldiers beat Paul and Silas badly with rods. After that, they took them and put them into the prison. They told the jailer to make sure they did not get out. 24 Because the officials had told him to do that, the jailer put Paul and Silas into the room that was farthest inside the prison. There he made them sit down on the floor and stretch out their legs. Then he fastened their ankles in holes between two large pieces of wood so that Paul and Silas could not move their legs.

25 About midnight, Paul and Silas were praying and praising God by singing songs. The other prisoners were listening to them. 26 Suddenly there was a very strong earthquake that shook the whole jail. As soon as the earthquake struck, it caused all of the doors of the jail to open and all of the chains that fastened the prisoners to fall off. 27 The jailer woke up and saw that the earthquake had opened the doors of the jail. He thought that the prisoners had left the jail. So he pulled out his sword to kill himself, because he knew that the city rulers would kill him if the prisoners had escaped. 28 Paul saw the jailer and shouted to him, "Do not kill yourself! We prisoners are all here!" 29 The jailer shouted to someone to bring torches. It was midnight and dark, and he wanted to be sure that all the prisoners were still in the prison. He hurried in to the inner cell where he had put Paul and Silas. The jailer was shaking with fear, because the rulers had told him to guard them carefully. When he saw that Paul and Silas were still there, he knelt down in front of them to honor them for sparing his life by not escaping. 30 Then he brought Paul and Silas out of the jail. He asked them, "Sirs, I want God to save me. What do I need to do?" 31 They answered, "If you put your trust in Jesus as your Lord, God will save you. God will also save everyone in your family if they trust in Jesus."

32 Then Paul and Silas spoke about Jesus to him and everyone in his family. 33 The jailer washed their wounds, even though it was the middle of the night. Then right away Paul and Silas baptized him and everyone in his family. 34 Then the jailer brought Paul and Silas into his house and gave them some food to eat. He and his whole family were all very happy because they had believed in God.

35 The next morning, the city rulers told some officers to go to the prison and tell the jailer, "Let those two prisoners go now!" 36 When the jailer heard this, he went and told Paul, "The city rulers have told me to let you go. So you two can leave the prison now. Do not worry, no one will arrest you again." 37 But Paul said to the jailer, with the officers listening, "The city rulers had their soldiers beat us in front of a crowd. Without convicting us of any crime, they put us in prison. They did those things to us even though we are Roman citizens. And now they want to send us away without telling anyone! We will not accept that! Those city rulers must come themselves and free us from prison." 38 So the officers went and told the city rulers that Paul and Silas were refusing to leave the prison unless the rulers came and released them personally. When the city rulers learned that they were Roman citizens, they became very afraid. They knew that they had done the wrong thing by beating Roman citizens and putting them in prison without a trial. 39 So the city rulers came to Paul and Silas and told them that they were sorry for what they had done to them. The city rulers brought them out of the prison and asked them to leave the city. 40 After Paul and Silas left the prison, they went to Lydia's house. There they met with her and the other believers. They encouraged the believers to continue trusting in the Lord Jesus. Then Paul, Silas, and Timothy left the city of Philippi. I, Luke, remained there for some time.

17 1 Paul, Silas, and Timothy traveled through the cities of Amphipolis and Apollonia. Then they came to the city of Thessalonica. There was a Jewish meeting place there. 2 On the Sabbath day, Paul went to the meeting place as he usually did. For three weeks he went there on each Sabbath day. He proved to the people from the Scriptures that Jesus was the Messiah. 3 Paul showed very clearly that in the Scriptures the prophets wrote that the Messiah would have to die but then become alive again. He said, "I am telling you about Jesus. This man is the Messiah." 4 Some of the Jews in the synagogue believed what Paul said about Jesus. They began to meet with Paul and Silas. Many non-Jewish people who worshiped God and many influential women also believed the message about Jesus. They too began to meet with Paul and Silas.

5 But some leaders of the Jews became jealous because so many people were believing what Paul taught. So they went to the open area of the city and found some bad men to help them. They used those men to gather a crowd and cause a great disturbance in the city. The crowd ran to the house of a man named Jason, where they thought Paul and Silas were staying. They wanted to bring Paul and Silas outside to where the crowd of people was. 6 They discovered that Paul and Silas were not at the house. However, they found Jason and dragged him and some of the other believers who were with him to where the city rulers were. They told the rulers, “These men who have been disturbing the way that people live have now come here also, 7 and this man Jason has invited them to stay at his house. These other men whom we have brought to you are also friendly with them. They are all disloyal to Caesar our king. They say that another person, whose name is Jesus, is the real king!” 8 When the city rulers and the crowd of people that had gathered heard that, they became very upset. 9 The city rulers made Jason and the other believers pay a fine. But they told them that they would give the money back to them if Paul and Silas did not cause any more trouble. Then the city rulers let Jason and the other believers go.

10 So that same night, the believers sent Paul and Silas out of Thessalonica to the town of Berea. When Paul and Silas arrived there, they went to the Jewish meeting place. 11 Most of the Jews in Thessalonica had not been willing to listen to God’s message. But the Jews who lived in Berea were very willing to listen. They listened carefully to the message about Jesus. Every day they read the Scriptures for themselves to find out whether what Paul said about Jesus was true. 12 Because of Paul’s teaching, many of the Jewish people believed in Jesus, and also some of the important non-Jewish women and many non-Jewish men believed in him.

13 But then the Jews in Thessalonica heard that Paul was in Berea preaching the message from God about Jesus. So they went to Berea and said things to the people there that made them very angry with Paul. 14 So right away some of the believers in Berea took Paul to the seacoast to go to another city. But Silas and Timothy stayed in Berea. 15 When Paul and the men who were taking him arrived at the coast, they got on a boat and went to the city of Athens. Then Paul said to the men who had come with him, “Tell Silas and Timothy to come to me here in Athens as soon as they can.” Then those men left Athens and returned to Berea.

16 In Athens, Paul waited for Silas and Timothy to come. In the meantime, he walked around in the city. He became very distressed because there were many idols in the city. 17 So Paul went to the Jewish meeting place and talked about Jesus with the Jews there. He also spoke with the Greeks who had accepted what Jews believe. He also went every day to the open area of the city and had conversations with the people he met there.

18 Paul met some teachers who liked to talk about what people believe. Some of them called themselves Epicureans, and others called themselves Stoics. They told Paul what they believed, and they asked him what he believed. Then some of them said to one another, “He really does not know what he is talking about.” But others said, “He seems to be teaching a philosophy about some gods that we have never heard of.” Those others said that because Paul was telling them that Jesus had died and then had become alive again, and they thought that Resurrection was the name of a god.

19 So they invited Paul to come with them to the place where the philosophers in the city met. They told Paul, “Please come with us, because we would like to know what this new message is that you are teaching people. 20 You are teaching us some things that we do not understand. We want to know what they mean.” 21 The people of Athens and the people from other regions who had come to live there greatly enjoyed talking about new ideas.

22 The philosophers asked Paul to stand in the middle of their group. He did, and then he said, “People of Athens, I have seen many of the things you do, and I can tell how religious you are. 23 I say that because, while I was walking through your city, I saw the things that you worship, I even saw an altar on which someone had carved these words: THIS HONORS A GOD WHOM WE DO NOT KNOW. So now let me tell you about that God whom you worship but whom you do not know.

24 He is the God who made the world and everything in it. He rules over all beings in heaven and on earth. He does not live in temples that people have built. 25 He does not need to have people do anything for him. He is the one who makes people alive. He gives them everything they need.

26 In the beginning, God created one couple, and from them God produced all the people groups that now live everywhere on the earth. God determined where and when each people group would live. 27 He wanted people to realize that they need him. Then maybe they would look for him and find him. People will find God if they sincerely look for him, because he is very close to each one of us. 28 It is because of God that we live, move, and exist, as one of you has said, ‘Because we are his children.’

29 Therefore, because we are God’s children, we should not think that God is like an idol that a person would design and make out of gold, silver, or stone. 30 In the past, people did not know what God wanted them to do. So God did not punish them for what they did. But now

God commands all people everywhere to stop doing wrong things. 31 God tells us that on a day that he has chosen, he is going to judge all of us justly. God will have Jesus, the man he has chosen, do the judging. God has made sure that we understand this by making Jesus alive again after he died."

32 When the philosophers heard Paul say that a man had become alive again after he had died, some of them laughed at him. But others asked him to come back and tell them about it another day. 33 After they said that, Paul walked away. 34 However, some of the people went with Paul and believed the message about Jesus. Among those who believed in Jesus was a man named Dionysius who was a member of the council. Also, there were a woman named Damaris and some other people with them who believed.

18 1 After that, Paul left the city of Athens and went to the city of Corinth. 2 In Corinth Paul met a Jew whose name was Aquila. He was from the region of Pontus. Aquila and his wife Priscilla had recently come from the city of Rome in Italy. They left Rome because Claudius, the Roman emperor, had ordered all the Jews to leave Rome. Paul introduced himself to Aquila and Priscilla. 3 Aquila and Priscilla made tents to earn money. Paul also made tents. So he stayed with them and they worked together. 4 Every Sabbath, Paul went to the Jewish meeting place. There he conversed with both Jews and non-Jews. He helped many of them to believe in Jesus.

5 When Silas and Timothy arrived from the region of Macedonia, Paul felt strongly that he should devote all of his time to proclaiming the good news. So he kept telling the Jews sincerely that Jesus was the Messiah. 6 But the Jews argued with Paul and said bad things about him. So he shook the dust off his clothes to show that he wanted to have nothing to do with them any more. He said to them, "If God punishes you, it is your responsibility! I have done everything I could to show you the truth! From now on I will talk to people who are not Jewish!" 7 So Paul left the Jewish meeting place and went into a house that was next to it, and he preached there. Titius Justus, the owner of the house, was a non-Jewish man who worshiped God. 8 After that, the ruler of the Jewish meeting place, whose name was Crispus, and all of his family believed in Jesus. Many other people in Corinth heard about Crispus and his family. They also believed in Jesus and Paul baptized them.

9 One night Paul had a vision in which Jesus spoke to him. He said, “Do not be afraid of the people who are against you. Keep telling people about me. 10 You can keep speaking confidently because I will help you. No one will be able to attack you and hurt you, because there are many people in this city who love me and will defend you.” 11 So Paul stayed in Corinth for a year and a half. He shared the good news about Jesus with the people there.

12 Then a man named Gallio became the Roman governor of the province of Achaia. The Jewish leaders thought he would take their side so they got together and seized Paul. They brought him to the governor and made accusations against him. 13 They said, “This man is teaching people to worship God in ways that Roman law does not permit.” 14 Paul was about to say something to defend himself. But Gallio said to the Jewish leaders, “If this man had done something terribly wrong that broke our Roman laws, naturally I would listen to what you Jews want to tell me. 15 However, you are only complaining about things that Paul has been saying. You are arguing about who deserves what name. These are disputes about your own Jewish laws. So you must settle this yourselves. These are not the kind of things that deserve my attention!” 16 After Gallio said that, he told some soldiers to make the Jewish leaders leave the court. 17 But instead of leaving right away, the Jewish leaders grabbed the man who was in charge of their synagogue. His name was Sosthenes. They beat him right there in front of the judge’s seat because they thought Paul had persuaded him to believe in Jesus. Gallio did nothing to stop them.

18 Paul stayed with the believers in Corinth for many more days. Then he got on a ship with Priscilla and Aquila and sailed for the province of Syria. Paul left Silas and Timothy in Corinth. He got his hair cut off in Cenchrea because of a vow that he had made. 19 They arrived at the city of Ephesus, and Priscilla and Aquila stayed there.

Paul himself entered the Jewish meeting place and had conversations with the Jews there about Jesus. 20 They asked him to stay longer, but he told them that he could not stay. 21 But as Paul left, he told the Jews in Ephesus, “I promise that I will come back if God wants me to.” Then Paul got on a ship and sailed away from Ephesus.

22 When the ship came to the city of Caesarea, Paul got off. He went from there to Jerusalem and visited with the believers there. Then he returned to the city of Antioch, where he had begun his trip.

23 Paul remained for some time with the believers in Antioch. Then he left and traveled to many cities in the regions of Galatia and Phrygia. He helped the believers in each city to believe more steadfastly in Jesus.

24 While Paul was going through Galatia and Phrygia, a Jewish man named Apollos came to Ephesus. He was from the city of Alexandria, and he spoke very well. He had carefully studied the Scriptures. 25 Other believers had taught Apollos how Jesus wanted people to live. He enthusiastically taught those things correctly to the people in Ephesus. However, he was not teaching everything about Jesus. He only knew that John the Baptizer had said to repent and receive baptism to get ready for Jesus the Messiah. 26 Apollos went to the Jewish meeting place and told the people there the things he had learned about Jesus. When Priscilla and Aquila heard what he taught, they asked him to come to their home. There they taught him more about Jesus.

27 When Apollos decided that he would like to go to the region of Achaia, the believers in Ephesus told him that it would be good for him to do that. So they wrote a letter to the believers in Achaia saying that they should welcome Apollos. After he got there, he did much to help those whom God had kindly enabled to believe in Jesus. 28 The leaders of the Jews were denying that Jesus was the Messiah. But as many other people listened, Apollos showed convincingly that they were wrong. He did that by proving from the Scriptures that Jesus was the Messiah.

19 1 While Apollos was still in the city of Corinth, Paul finished visiting the churches in Phrygia and Galatia. Then he traveled through the province of Asia and came to the city of Ephesus. There he met some people who said that they were believers. 2 He asked them, "Did you receive the Holy Spirit when you believed God's message?" They answered, "No, we did not. We have not even heard that there is a Holy Spirit." 3 So Paul asked, "So when someone baptized you, what did you know?" They replied, "We believed what John the Baptizer taught." 4 Paul said, "John's baptism was a sign that people were giving up their evil thoughts and deeds and wanting to obey God. But John also told people that the Messiah would soon appear and that they should believe in him. He was talking about Jesus." 5 When those men heard that, they believed in Jesus as the Messiah. Paul then baptized them because they believed. 6 After that, Paul placed his hands on their heads one by one, and each of them received the Holy Spirit. The Holy Spirit gave them power to speak in languages that they had not learned. They also spoke messages that the Holy Spirit gave them. 7 There were about 12 men whom Paul baptized and who received the Holy Spirit.

8 For three months after that, Paul went to the Jewish meeting place in Ephesus on each Sabbath and preached there. He taught the people convincingly about how God should rule their lives. 9 But some of the Jews would not believe the message and did not want to hear it any more. In front of everyone in the synagogue, they said bad things about believing in Jesus. So Paul left them and took the believers with him to meet every day in a large room where a man whose name was Tyrannus usually taught people. 10 For two years Paul taught people there. In this way, most of the Jews and non-Jews who lived in the region of Asia heard the message about Jesus.

11 God also gave Paul the power to do great miracles. 12 If those who were sick could not come to Paul, people would take pieces of cloth that Paul had touched and place them on the sick people. When they did this, the sick people would become well and the evil spirits would leave them.

13 There were some Jews who traveled from place to place, commanding the evil spirits in those places to depart from people. Some of them tried to make evil spirits come out of people by commanding them to leave by the authority of Jesus. When those Jews were with a person who had an evil spirit, one of them would say, "I command you to come out by the authority of the man named Jesus whom Paul teaches about!" 14 Specifically, there were seven men who were doing this. They were the sons of a Jewish man named Sceva, who was a chief priest.
15 One day two of the sons of Sceva were in the house of a man who had an evil spirit. They tried to make the spirit come out. But it did not come out. Instead, the evil spirit said to them, "I know Jesus, and I know Paul, but no one has given you authority to make me leave this man!"
16 After the evil spirit said that, suddenly it made the man jump on them. He knocked down these two sons of Sceva and hurt them. He tore off their clothes and wounded them. They ran out of the house to save their lives. 17 Soon people throughout Ephesus, both Jews and non-Jews, heard what had happened. They realized that they should regard Jesus with great awe, and they spoke of him very respectfully.

18 At that time, many people in the group of believers came to their leaders. While other believers were listening, they told about the evil things that they had been doing. 19 Now many of the believers had been sorcerers. They took their scrolls that told about spells and curses and burned them in a place where everyone could see them. The believers added up how much the scrolls were worth. They were worth 50,000 silver coins.

20 In this powerful way, many people heard the message about Jesus and believed in him.

21 And after all of this happened, the Holy Spirit led Paul to decide to go to Jerusalem. Paul planned to visit the believers in the regions of Macedonia and Achaia first. He said, "After I have been to Jerusalem, I must also go to Rome." 22 So Paul sent two of his helpers, Timothy and Erastus, to the province of Macedonia. But he stayed for a while in the city of Ephesus in the province of Asia.

23 But soon after that, people in Ephesus began to make a great amount of trouble because of Jesus and the teaching about him. 24 This happened because of a man in Ephesus whose name was Demetrius. He was a craftsman who worked with silver metal. He made statues of the goddess Artemis out of silver. Demetrius paid a lot of money to the workers who made these idols.

25 Demetrius called together the craftsmen and the workers who made the idols. He said to them, "You all know that we make a lot of money doing our work. 26 But you know very well that Paul has led many people in Ephesus not to buy the statues that we make. In fact, the people from many other towns in our province no longer want to buy what we make. Paul tells people that the gods that we make are not gods and that we should not worship them. 27 If people keep listening to Paul, there is a risk that we will go out of business. Even worse, people will no longer come to the temple of our great goddess Artemis. They will not believe that she is worthy to worship. They will believe that she is not a goddess at all. Yet people throughout the province of Asia and even the whole world worship her!" 28 Then all the people there became very angry at Paul when they heard what Demetrius said. They began to shout, "The goddess Artemis of the Ephesians is great!" 29 This shouting made the people in the city very confused. They ran as a crowd to the city stadium to try to find out what was happening. Gaius and Aristarchus, two men from Macedonia who traveled with Paul, were out in the city. Some people took hold of them and dragged them to the stadium. 30 Now Paul wanted to go into the stadium to talk to the people. However, the other believers would not let him go there. 31 Also, some city rulers who were friends of Paul heard what was happening. They sent someone to warn Paul not to go into the theater.

32 In the stadium, the people were very confused. Because they were confused, some were shouting one thing while others were shouting something else. But most of them did not even know why they were all in the stadium! 33 Then some of the Jews in the stadium pushed a man whose name was Alexander to the front of the crowd so that he could speak to the people. Some of the others there told him how he could do that. So Alexander put his hands up to get the crowd to stop shouting. He wanted to tell them that the Jews had not caused the trouble. 34 But many of the non-Jewish people knew that Alexander was a Jew. They knew that the Jews did not worship the goddess Artemis. So for two hours the non-Jews shouted together, "Great is the goddess Artemis of the Ephesians!"

35 Then one of the city rulers made the crowd stop shouting. He said to them, "My fellow citizens, you do not need to be concerned about the worship of Artemis. People throughout the world know that our city of Ephesus is a special place where the goddess Artemis has her temple. Indeed, the sacred image of her fell down to us from heaven! 36 These are established facts. So you should be quiet now. Do not do anything foolish. 37 You should not have brought these two men here. They work together with Paul, but they have not done anything evil. They have not gone into our temples and taken things from there, and they have not spoken evil of our goddess. 38 If Demetrius and his fellow workmen want to accuse anyone of doing anything bad, they should do it in the right way. The courts are in session. There are judges present whom the government has appointed. They can present their case before the judges in court. 39 And if you are concerned about anything else, you should ask your rulers about it when those rulers meet together. 40 You should really not have rushed here shouting, because the Roman government may accuse us of having a riot today. If the rulers ask me what you were all shouting about, I will not know how to answer them. There was no good reason for it." 41 That is what the city ruler said to the crowd. Then he told them all to go home, and they did go to their homes.

20 1 Then, after the people at Ephesus had stopped rioting, Paul called the believers together. He urged them to continue to trust in the Lord Jesus. Soon after that, he told them goodbye and left to go to the region of Macedonia. 2 Then Paul traveled through Macedonia and said many things to encourage the believers there. Then he continued on to Greece. 3 Paul then stayed in Greece for three months. He planned to return to Syria by ship. But he heard that some of the Jews there were planning to kill him as he traveled. So he decided to travel by land. Once again he went through Macedonia. 4 Now the men who were going to travel with him to Jerusalem were Sopater, the son of Pyrrhus, from the town of Berea; Aristarchus and Secundus, who were from the city of Thessalonica; Gaius, who was from the city of Derbe; Timothy, who was from the region of Galatia; and Tychicus and Trophimus, who were from the province of Asia. 5 I, Luke, joined Paul when he came back through the city of Philippi. Now the other seven men sailed to the city of Troas before we did, so they waited there for the two of us. 6 But Paul and I stayed in the city of Philippi until the end of the festival when Jewish people eat bread without yeast. Then we got on a ship that was going to the city of Troas. After five days we arrived there and met the other men who had traveled ahead of us. We all stayed in Troas for seven days.

7 While we were in Troas, we gathered together on the first day of the week to share a meal with the other believers. We met on that day because it was the day when Jesus became alive again after he died. Paul was planning to leave Troas the next day, so when he spoke to the believers, he spoke for a long time. He kept speaking until midnight. 8 We had gathered in an upstairs room. Many oil lamps were burning there. 9 Now a young man whose name was Eutychus was in the room. He was seated on the sill of an open window. As Paul continued talking for a long time, Eutychus became sleepier and sleepier. Finally, he was sound asleep. He slipped out of the window and fell three stories down to the ground. Some of the believers went down immediately and picked him up. But he was dead. 10 Paul also went down. He lay down and stretched out on top of the young man. He also put his arms around him. Then he said to the people who were standing around, “Do not worry, because he is alive again!” 11 Then Paul went back up to the room where he was meeting with the believers. They shared a meal together. Afterwards he talked at length with the believers, until the sun came up. Then he left. 12 Before Paul left, the believers brought the young man who had fallen out the window back to the meeting. Everyone there was extremely encouraged to see that he was alive again.

13 We then went to the ship. But Paul did not get on the ship with us in Troas, because he wanted to walk by himself to the town of Assos. So the rest of us got on the ship and sailed for Assos. We planned to bring Paul on board there. 14 And when we met Paul in Assos, he got on the ship with us and we sailed to the city of Mitylene. 15 The day after we reached Mitylene, we sailed from there and arrived at a place near the island of Chios. The day after that, we sailed to the island of Samos. The next day we left Samos and sailed to the city of Miletus. 16 Paul did not want to have a delay in Asia. So he had decided we should go to Miletus, south of Ephesus and past its harbor. He was trying to travel quickly because he wanted to arrive in Jerusalem, if possible, by the time of the Pentecost festival, and it was almost time for that festival.

17 So when the ship arrived at Miletus, Paul sent a messenger to Ephesus to ask the elders of the group of believers there to come to talk with him.

18 When the elders came to him, Paul said to them, "You know very well how I acted among you the entire time that I was with you, from the first day when I arrived here in the province of Asia until the day I left. 19 You know how I kept serving Jesus very humbly and how I sometimes wept. You also know how I suffered because the Jews who were not believers often tried to harm me. 20 You also know that, when I preached God's message to you, I never left out anything that would help you. You know that I taught you God's message when many people were present, and I also went to your homes and taught you there. 21 I preached both to Jews and to non-Jews. I told them all that they must stop their sinful behavior and start obeying God. They must believe in our Lord Jesus."

22 "And now, I want you to know, I am going to Jerusalem. I am going because the Holy Spirit has clearly shown me that I must go there, and I must obey him. I do not know exactly what will happen to me there. 23 But I do know that in each city I have visited, the Holy Spirit has told me that in Jerusalem people will put me in prison and will cause me to suffer. 24 But I do not care even if people kill me, so long as I am first able to finish the work that the Lord Jesus has told me to do. He told me to tell people the good news that God saves us by doing for us what we do not deserve. 25 I have preached to you the message that God is reigning as king. But now, I must tell you, I know that today is the last time that you fellow believers will ever see me. 26 So I want you all to understand right now that if anyone who has heard me preach dies without trusting in Jesus, it is not my fault, [27] After all, I have told you everything that God has revealed about how he saves us. [28] You leaders must continue to believe and obey God's message, and you must also help all the other believers to do the same. The Holy Spirit has given you the responsibility of caring for them. Jesus died on the cross to make those who believe in him his own special people. [29] I know very well that after I leave, people who teach lies will come among you and will do great harm to the believers [30] Even some leaders from your own group will start teaching believers the wrong things. They will teach those wrong things to try to get disciples of their own. [31] So be careful that all of you keep believing the true message about Jesus! Remember that throughout the three years I was with you, I warned each one of you consistently and very sincerely that you should stay faithful to Jesus."

[32] "And now as I leave you, I ask God to protect you and help you to keep believing the message that he saves us by doing for us what we do not deserve. If you continue believing that message, it will make you strong, and God will give you the good things that he has promised to all of those who belong to him.

[33] As for me, I never tried to get money or fine clothing from anyone. [34] You certainly know that I worked with my hands to earn the money that my helpers and I needed. [35] In everything that I did, I showed you that we should work hard in order to have enough money to give some to those who are needy. We should remember that our Lord Jesus himself said, 'A person is happier when he gives to others than when he receives from them.'"

[36] When Paul had finished speaking, he knelt down with all of the elders and prayed. [37] They all cried a lot, and they hugged Paul and kissed him. [38] They were very sad because he had said that they would never see him again. Then they all went with him to the ship.

21 [1] Then, after we said goodbye to the elders from Ephesus, we got back onto the ship and sailed directly to the island of Cos. There the ship stopped for the night. The next day we sailed in the ship from Cos to the island of Rhodes. There the ship stopped again. The day after that, we went to the town of Patara. The ship was going no farther than that. [2] At Patara we left that ship, but we learned that there was another ship that would be leaving soon and going to the region of Phoenicia. So we got on that ship, and it left. [3] Now as we traveled across the sea, we saw the island of Cyprus. We sailed to the south of that island. We continued sailing until we arrived at the city of Tyre in the province of Syria. The ship had to stay there for several days because its workers needed to unload the cargo.

4 But we learned where the believers in Tyre lived, so we went and stayed with them for seven days. God's Spirit revealed to some of the believers that Paul would suffer if he went to Jerusalem. So they encouraged Paul not to go there. 5 But when it was time for the ship to leave again, we prepared to continue on our way to Jerusalem. When we left Tyre, all the men and their wives and children went with us to the edge of the sea. We all knelt down there on the sand and prayed. 6 Then we all said goodbye to each other. We who were traveling with Paul got onto the ship with him, and the other believers returned to where they lived in Tyre.

7 After we left Tyre, we continued on that ship to the city of Ptolemais. There were believers there, and we greeted them and stayed with them that night. 8 Then, on the next day, we left Ptolemais and sailed to the city of Caesarea. There we went to visit Philip. He had a reputation for telling others how to become disciples of Jesus. He was one of the seven men whom the believers in Jerusalem had chosen to take care of the widows. He invited us to stay in his home. 9 Now he had four daughters who were not married. Each of them frequently spoke messages that the Holy Spirit gave them.

10 And after we had been in Philip's house for several days, a believer whose name was Agabus arrived in Caesarea from the district of Judea. He frequently spoke messages that the Holy Spirit gave him. 11 Coming over to where we were, he removed the belt from Paul's waist. He tied his own feet and hands with it. Then he said, "The Holy Spirit says, 'The Jewish leaders in Jerusalem will tie up the hands and feet of the owner of this belt like this. Then they will ask the non-Jewish people to arrest him as a criminal.'" 12 When the rest of us heard that, we and the other believers there pled with Paul, "Please do not go up to Jerusalem!" 13 But Paul replied, "Please stop crying and trying to discourage me from going! You should not cry, because I am willing to go to prison and also to die in Jerusalem because I serve the Lord Jesus." 14 Then we realized that Paul was determined to go to Jerusalem. So we did not try any longer to stop him. We said, "May the Lord's will be done!"

15 Then, after those days in Caesarea, we prepared our possessions and left to go by land to Jerusalem. 16 Now some of the believers from Caesarea also went with us. They took us to stay in the house of a man whose name was Mnason. He was from the island of Cyprus. He had believed in Jesus when people were first beginning to hear the message about him.

17 And when we arrived in Jerusalem, a group of the believers greeted us happily.
18 Then, the next day, Paul and the rest of us went to speak with James. He was the main leader of the group of believers in Jerusalem. All of the other leaders were also there. 19 So Paul greeted them, and then he told them all of the things that God had enabled him to do among the non-Jewish people. 20 And when they heard what God had done, James and the other elders thanked God. Then one of them said to Paul, "Brother, you know that there are very many thousands of us Jewish people who have believed in the Lord Jesus. You also know that we continue very carefully to obey the laws that Moses gave us. 21 But people have told our fellow Jewish believers that when you are with non-Jews, you tell the Jewish believers who live among them that they should stop obeying the laws of Moses. People say that you tell those Jewish believers not to circumcise their sons and not to practice our other customs. We do not believe that they are telling the truth about you. 22 But our fellow Jewish believers will surely learn that you have come here to Jerusalem. They will be angry with you because of what they have heard about you. So you need to do something to show them that what they have heard about you is not true. 23 So please do what we suggest to you. There are four men among us who have made a vow to God. 24 Go with these men to the temple courts and do the ceremonies that are necessary for you and for them to be able to worship in the temple. Then, when it is time for them to offer the sacrifices that they need to offer because they have made these vows, pay for what they offer. After that, they can shave their heads to show that they have done what they promised God they would do. When people see you in the courts of the temple with those men, they will know that what people have told them about you is not true. Instead, they will know that you obey all our Jewish laws. 25 Now as for the non-Jewish believers, we elders here in Jerusalem talked about which of our laws they should obey. We wrote them a letter telling them what we decided. We wrote that they should not eat meat that people have offered as a sacrifice to any idol. They should not eat any blood. They should not eat meat from animals that people have killed by strangling them. We also told them that they should not have sexual relations with someone to whom they are not married." 26 Paul agreed to do what James and the other leaders asked him to do. The next day he took the four men and together they did the ceremonies that were necessary for them to worship in the temple. After that, Paul went to the temple courts and told the priests that these men had done everything they had promised God they would do. He told the priests that they just needed to offer the sacrifices that the law required. Paul kept going to the temple courts with the men until each one of them had offered the necessary sacrifices.

27 Now it took seven days for the ceremonies that allowed the men to return to their regular lives after their vows. Near the end of that time, some Jews from the province of Asia saw Paul in the temple courtyard. They were very upset with him, and they made many other Jews who were there upset with Paul as well. The Jews from Asia grabbed on to Paul. 28 They shouted, "Fellow Israelites, come and help us to punish this man! This is the one who is teaching people wherever he goes that the Jewish people are not special. He teaches people that they should no longer obey the laws of Moses and that they do not need to respect this temple. He has even brought non-Jews here into the court of our temple, causing this holy place to become polluted!" 29 They said these things because they had seen Paul walking around in Jerusalem with Trophimus. He was a non-Jew from Ephesus. The Jews did not permit non-Jews to be in certain parts of the temple courtyard. These Jews from the province of Asia thought that Paul had brought Trophimus into the temple courtyard that day. 30 People all over the city heard that there was trouble at the temple courtyard and they came running there. The crowd seized Paul and dragged him outside of the temple area. The temple guards quickly shut the gates to the temple courtyard so that the people could not do anything violent inside the temple area.

31 While they were trying to kill Paul, someone ran to the fortress near the temple and told the Roman commander that many people in Jerusalem were rioting at the temple. 32 The commander quickly gathered some officers and a large group of soldiers. They ran down the fortress steps to the temple area where the crowd was. When the crowd of people who were yelling at Paul and beating him saw the commander and the soldiers coming, they stopped beating him.

33 Then the commander came to where Paul was and took hold of him. He commanded soldiers to fasten a chain to each of Paul's arms. Then he asked the people in the crowd, "Who is this man, and what has he done?" 34 But some of the many people there were shouting one thing and some were shouting something else. And because the situation was so confused, the commander could not find out who Paul was. So he commanded that Paul be taken into the fortress that was connected with the temple court so that he could question him there. 35 The soldiers led Paul to the steps of the fortress. But many people followed them, still trying to kill Paul. So the commander told the soldiers to carry Paul up the steps into the fortress. 36 The commander knew that Paul was in danger because the crowd that was following the soldiers kept shouting, “Kill him! Kill him!”

37 And as the soldiers were about to bring Paul into the fortress, he said in Greek to the commander, “May I speak with you?” And the commander said, “I am surprised that you can speak Greek! 38 That must mean that you are that man from Egypt who rebelled against the Roman government not long ago. He took 4,000 violent men with him out into the desert so that we could not catch him.” 39 Paul said in reply, “I am a Jew. I was born in Tarsus, which is an important city in the province of Cilicia. I request that you let me speak to the people.” 40 Then the commander permitted Paul to speak. So Paul stood on the steps that led up to the fortress. He motioned with his hand for the crowd to be quiet. And after the people in the crowd became very quiet, Paul spoke to them in their own Hebrew language.

22 1 Paul said, “Jewish elders and my fellow Jews, please listen to me now while I answer your accusations.” 2 When the crowd of people heard Paul speaking to them in their own Hebrew language, they became even quieter and listened. Then Paul said to them, 3 “I am a Jew, as are all of you. I come from the city of Tarsus in the province of Cilicia, but I grew up here in Jerusalem. When I was young, I learned the laws that Moses gave to our ancestors. Gamaliel was my teacher, and he taught me very accurately. I have obeyed those laws because I have wanted to obey God. I am sure that all of you here also obey those laws. 4 That is why I tried to arrest those who believed the message of God about Jesus. I even looked for ways to kill them. Whenever I found men or women who believed the message, I arrested them and had the authorities put them in jail. 5 The high priest knows this, and so do the other men who belong to our Jewish council. They gave me letters to take to their fellow Jews in the city of Damascus. Those letters gave me the power to go there and arrest people in that city who believed in Jesus. I could then take them as prisoners to Jerusalem so that the Jewish authorities could punish them.

6 So I went to Damascus. About noon, as I got near to Damascus, suddenly a bright light from the sky flashed all around me. 7 The light was so bright that I fell to the ground. Then I heard the voice of someone speaking to me from up in the sky. It said, ‘Saul! Saul! Stop doing things to hurt me!' [8] And I answered, 'Who are you, Lord?' He replied, 'I am Jesus of Nazareth, the one you are hurting.' [9] Now the men who were traveling with me saw the bright light, but they did not understand what the voice was saying to me. [10] Then I asked, 'Lord, what do you want me to do?' And the Lord told me, 'Get up and go into Damascus. A man there will tell you all that I have planned for you to do.' [11] After that, I could not see, because that bright light had caused me to become blind. So the men who were with me took me by the hand and led me to Damascus. [12] Then a man whose name was Ananias came to see me. He was a man who honored God and obeyed the Jewish laws. The Jews living in Damascus said very good things about him. [13] He came and stood beside me. He said to me, 'Saul, my friend, see again!' Instantly I could see and I saw him standing beside me. [14] Then he said: 'The God whom we worship and whom our ancestors worshiped has chosen you for a special purpose. He will show you what he wants you to do. He has allowed you to see Jesus the Messiah, gloriously alive again. You have heard him speak to you himself. [15] He wants you to tell people everywhere what you have seen and heard from him. [16] So please do not delay! Let me baptize you right now. Pray to the Lord Jesus and ask God to forgive you for your sins!'"

[17] "Then later I returned to Jerusalem. One day I went to the temple courtyard and while I was praying there, I saw a vision. [18] In my vision I saw Jesus as he said to me, 'Leave Jerusalem quickly, because the people here will not believe what you tell them about me!' [19] But I said to him, 'Lord, they know that I went from one synagogue to another looking for people who believed in you. I was putting them in jail, and I was even beating them. [20] They remember that when people killed Stephen because he said you were the Messiah, I stood there watching and approving of what they were doing. I even guarded the outer clothes that those who were murdering him had thrown aside!' [21] But Jesus said to me, 'Leave Jerusalem, because I am going to send you far away from here to tell non-Jews about me!'"

[22] The people listened to what Paul was saying until he talked about Jesus sending him to non-Jews. Then they began shouting, "Kill him! A man like him does not deserve to live any longer!" [23] And while they were shouting, they took off their robes and threw dirt into the air. [24] So the commander told his soldiers to take Paul into the fortress. He told them to whip Paul to make him admit what he had done that had made the Jews so angry with him. [25] Then they stretched his arms out and tied them so that they could whip him on his back. But Paul said to the officer near him, “You will be acting unlawfully if you whip me. I am a Roman citizen, and no one has declared me guilty of anything!” 26 When the officer heard that, he went to the commander and reported it to him. He said to the commander, “This man is a Roman citizen! Surely you would not command us to whip him!” 27 The commander was surprised when he heard that. He went into the prison and said to Paul, “Tell me, are you really a Roman citizen?” Paul answered, “Yes, I am.” 28 Then the commander said, “I too am a Roman citizen. I paid a lot of money to become a Roman citizen.” But Paul said, “I have been a Roman citizen for my whole life.” 29 The soldiers were about to whip Paul and to ask him questions about what he had done. But when they heard what Paul said, they immediately backed away from him. The commander also became afraid. He knew that Paul was a Roman citizen and that he had broken the law when he commanded the soldiers to tie up Paul’s hands.

30 The commander still wanted to know for sure why the Jews were accusing Paul. So the next day he told the soldiers to take the chains off Paul. He also called the chief priests and the other council members to meet. Then he brought Paul down the stairway to the temple courts. He took him to where the council was meeting and told him to stand in front of them.

23 1 So Paul looked at the Jewish council members and said, “My fellow Jews, throughout my life I have lived respecting our God. I do not know of anything that I have done that I knew was wrong.” 2 When Ananias the high priest heard what Paul said, he told the men who were standing near Paul to hit him on the mouth. 3 Then Paul said to Ananias, “God will punish you for that, you hypocrite! You sit there and judge me, using the laws that God gave Moses. But you yourself disobey those laws! You commanded those men to strike me without proving that I have done anything wrong!” 4 But the men who were standing near Paul said to him, “You should not speak badly to God’s high priest!” 5 Paul replied, “My fellow Jews, I am sorry that I said that. I did not know that the man who told one of you to hit me was the high priest. If I had known that, I would not have talked badly about him. I know that we can read in the Law of Moses, ‘Do not speak badly about any of your leaders.’”

6 Now Paul knew that some of the council members were Sadducees and others were Pharisees. So he called out in the council hall, “My fellow Jews, I am a Pharisee. My ancestors have been Pharisees as well. You have put me on trial here because I am sure that one day God will cause those who have died to live again.” 7 And when he said that, the Pharisees and Sadducees started to argue with one another about whether people who have died will become alive again. The two groups strongly disagreed with each other. 8 They disagreed so strongly because Sadducees do not believe that after people die, they will become alive again. They also do not believe that there are angels or other kinds of spirits. But Pharisees do believe those things. 9 Then both groups started shouting at one another as they argued. Some of the teachers of the law who were Pharisees stood up. One of them insisted, "We think that this man has done nothing wrong. We believe that an angel or some other spirit spoke to him. So we must all agree that he is innocent!" 10 Then the Pharisees and Sadducees became very violent with one another. The commander became concerned that they would hurt Paul badly. So he told soldiers to come down from the fortress into the temple courtyard. He told them to take Paul away from the council members and bring him up into the barracks.

11 That night, Paul saw Jesus come and stand near him. Jesus said to him, "Be brave! You have told people here in Jerusalem about me. I will protect you so that you can tell people in Rome about me too."

12 The next morning some of the Jews who hated Paul met and talked about how to kill him. To make sure that they killed him, they all promised that they would not eat or drink anything before they had killed Paul. They asked God to kill them if they did not do what they promised. 13 Now there were more than 40 men who agreed to kill Paul. 14 They went to the chief priests and Jewish elders and told them, "God has heard us promise that we will not eat or drink anything before we have killed Paul. 15 So to help us, we request that you go to the commander and ask him, on behalf of the whole Jewish council, to bring Paul down from the fortress to meet with you again. Tell the commander that you want to talk to Paul some more. We will be waiting to kill Paul while he is on the way here."

16 But the son of Paul's sister heard what they were planning to do, so he went into the fortress and told Paul. 17 When Paul heard about the plan to kill him, he called one of the officers and said to him, "Please take this young man to the commander. He needs to tell him something." 18 So the officer took Paul's nephew to the commander. The officer told the commander, "Paul, whom we are guarding here, asked to speak with me. He said, 'Please take this young man to the commander, because he needs to tell him something important.'" 19 So the commander took Paul's nephew by the hand and led him off by himself. Then he asked him, "What do you have to tell me?" 20 Then Paul's nephew replied, "There are some Jews who are going to ask you tomorrow to bring Paul down from the fortress to meet with their council again. They will say that they want to ask him some more questions. But that is not true. 21 So do not do what they ask you to do. There are actually more than 40 Jewish men who will be hiding and waiting to kill Paul when he passes by on his way to the council. They have even promised God that they will not eat or drink anything until they have killed Paul. They are ready to do it. They are just waiting for you to agree to do what they are asking."

22 The commander warned Paul's nephew, "Do not tell anyone that you have told me about their plan." Then he sent him away.

23 Then the commander called two of his officers and told them, "Get a group of 200 soldiers ready to travel. Take along 70 soldiers riding horses and 200 other soldiers carrying spears. All of you must be ready to leave at nine o'clock tonight and go to the city of Caesarea.
24 Take along horses for Paul to ride, and escort him to the palace of Governor Felix."
25 Then the commander wrote a letter to send to the governor. This is what he wrote: 26 "Your Excellency, Governor Felix, this is Claudius Lysias writing to you. I send you my greetings.
27 I am sending you a man whose name is Paul. Certain Jews had seized him and were about to kill him. But I learned that he was a Roman citizen, so I and my soldiers went and rescued him. 28 I wanted to know what those Jews were saying that he had done wrong, so I took him to their Jewish council. 29 I listened while they asked this man questions and he answered them. The accusations they made against him had to do with their Jewish laws. But Paul has not disobeyed any of our Roman laws. So our officials should not execute him or even put him in prison. 30 Then someone told me that some Jews were planning to kill this man. So I sent him to you right away so that you could give him a fair trial there. I have also commanded the Jews who have accused him to go there to Caesarea and tell you why they are accusing him. Goodbye."

31 So the soldiers did what the commander told them. They got Paul and took him with them during the night to the city of Antipatris. 32 The next day, the foot soldiers returned to Jerusalem and the soldiers who rode horses continued traveling to Caesarea with Paul.
33 When the soldiers who rode horses arrived in the city of Caesarea, they gave the letter to the governor and they brought Paul to him. 34 So the governor read the letter. Then he asked Paul, "What province are you from?" Paul answered, "I am from Cilicia." 35 Then the governor said, "When the people who have accused you arrive, I will listen to what each of you says and then I will judge your case." Then he commanded his soldiers to guard Paul in the palace that King Herod the Great had built.

24 1 Then, five days after the Roman soldiers brought Paul to Caesarea, the Jewish high priest Ananias traveled there from Jerusalem. He brought some other Jewish elders with him. They also brought a man who spoke well and knew the Roman laws well. His name was Tertullus. The Jewish leaders wanted him to persuade the governor that he should punish Paul. 2 So the governor commanded his soldiers to bring Paul in. When Paul arrived, Tertullus started arguing that Felix should punish him. He said to the governor, "During the time that you have ruled us, we have lived well. By planning wisely, you have made many things better for our Jewish people. 3 Therefore, Honorable Governor Felix, we continually thank you for everything that you have done for us, wherever you have done those things. 4 But so that I do not use too much of your time, I will speak briefly. Please listen to what I have to say. I know you will make the right decision about this case. 5 Now we can assure you that this man causes trouble wherever he goes. He encourages all the Jews to rebel against you Romans. He leads a radical group within Judaism. The members of that group call themselves the Nazarenes. 6 He even tried to make our temple in Jerusalem no longer holy. And that is why we arrested him.[14] [And we wanted to judge him according to our law. 7 [15] But Lysias, the commander of the Roman fortress, came with his soldiers and took him away from us, 8 [16] sending us to you.] If you question him yourself about all these matters, you will be able to learn that everything I am saying about him is true." 9 Then the Jewish leaders who had come to Caesarea accused Paul too. They insisted that what Tertullus said about him was true.

10 Then the governor signaled with his hand that he wanted Paul to speak. So Paul spoke to defend himself. He said, "Governor Felix, I know that you have governed this Jewish province for many years. Therefore I am eager to defend myself to you because I know that you will listen to me and will judge me fairly. 11 You can easily confirm that I went to Jerusalem to worship God just 12 days ago. 12 No one can say truthfully that they saw me arguing with anyone in the temple courts, because I did not do that. No one can say truthfully that they saw me causing people to riot in any Jewish synagogue or causing trouble anywhere else in Jerusalem, because I did not do that. 13 So they cannot prove to you the things of which they are now accusing me. 14 But I admit to you that this is true: I live as Jesus taught us to live.

They claim that makes me different from other Jews, but that is how I obey the God whom our Jewish ancestors worshiped. I also believe everything that Moses wrote in the laws that God gave him and everything that the prophets wrote in their books. 15 I believe, just as these men also believe, that some day God will cause everyone who has died to live again. God will do this both for those who were good and for those who were wicked. 16 Because I believe that day will come, I always try to do what pleases God and what other people think is right. 17 Let me tell you why I was in Jerusalem. After I had been in other places for several years, I returned there to bring some money to help my fellow Jews who were poor. While I was there, I also offered sacrifices in the temple courtyard. 18 Some Jews from Asia saw me offering those sacrifices in the temple courtyard. I had completed the ritual that allowed me to worship God there. There was no crowd with me. I was not causing anyone to riot. 19 No, it was those Jews from the province of Asia who caused the people to riot! And they should really be here in your court to accuse me if they think that I have done anything wrong. 20 But if they do not want to do that, these Jewish men who are here should tell you what they think I did that was wrong when I defended myself in their council. 21 They might say that I did this one thing wrong: When I was in their council, I shouted, 'You are judging me today because I believe that God will cause all the people who have died to live again.'"

22 Now Felix already knew much about the group people called the Way, and so he stopped the trial. He said to the Jewish leaders, "Later, when Commander Lysias comes here, I will decide this case." 23 Then Governor Felix told the officer who was guarding Paul to take Paul back to the prison. But he told him to allow Paul to do things freely in the prison. He also said that if Paul's friends came to visit him, the officer should allow them to help Paul in any way that they wanted to.

24 But several days later Felix came back with his wife Drusilla. She was a Jew. Felix called for Paul to speak with him. He and Drusilla listened to what Paul said about trusting in Jesus the Messiah. 25 Paul talked about what God wants people to do in order to please him. Paul also explained how people should control how they act. Paul said that there would be a time when God would judge all people. Felix became afraid after hearing those things. So he said to Paul, "That is all I want to hear now. But when I have time, I will ask you to come to me again." 26 Felix was also hoping that Paul would give him some money. So he sent for

Paul to come to him many times. Paul talked with Felix every time, but he did not give him any money, so Felix did not tell his soldiers to release Paul from prison.

27 This went on for about two years. Then a man named Porcius Festus replaced Felix as the governor. And since Felix wanted to please the Jewish leaders, he left Paul in prison.

25 1 Then Festus began to rule as the governor of the province of Judea. Three days later, he left the city of Caesarea and traveled to Jerusalem. 2 In Jerusalem, the chief priests and some important Jewish leaders insisted urgently to Festus that Paul had done things that were very wrong. 3 They asked Festus to help them pursue their case against Paul. They asked him to order his soldiers to bring Paul to trial in Jerusalem. But they were really planning to attack him on the road and kill him. 4 But Festus replied, "Paul is in prison in Caesarea. Now I myself plan to travel back to Caesarea very soon." 5 "So," he said, "those of you who are able should travel there with me. If you want to accuse Paul of doing anything wrong, you can accuse him there."

6 Festus remained in Jerusalem with the Jewish leaders for about another week. Then he returned to the city of Caesarea. The next day, Festus commanded his soldiers to bring Paul to the hall where he was sitting in the judge's seat. 7 So the soldiers brought Paul to Festus. The Jewish leaders who had come from Jerusalem gathered around him. They accused him of doing many bad things. But they were not able to prove any of them. 8 Then Paul spoke for himself. He said, "I have not broken any of the Jewish laws. I have not broken any of the rules about who can enter the temple. I have not broken any of the Roman laws." 9 Festus, however, wanted to please the Jewish leaders. So he asked Paul, "Are you willing to travel to Jerusalem so that I can judge your case there?" 10 But Paul replied, "No, right now you are judging me, and you represent the Emperor. This is the right place for my trial. I have done nothing wrong to the Jewish people. You know that is the truth. 11 If I deserved to die for something I had done wrong, I would accept dying as my punishment. They are accusing me of many things, but I do not deserve to die for anything I have done. So no one can condemn me just to satisfy them. I claim my right to have Caesar himself judge me." 12 Festus conferred with the officials who advised him. Then he told Paul, "You have asked Caesar to try your case, and so I will send you to Caesar."

13 Then, after several days, King Herod Agrippa arrived at Caesarea. His sister Bernice came with him. They were making a formal visit to welcome Festus as the new governor.
14 Since King Agrippa and Bernice stayed in Caesarea for several days, they had time to speak with Festus about many things. At one point Festus told Agrippa about Paul. He said, "There is a man here whom Felix kept in prison. 15 When I went to Jerusalem, the chief priests and the Jewish elders accused him of many things. They asked me to condemn him to death. 16 But I told them that when people accuse someone of a serious crime, we Romans do not condemn that person just to satisfy the accusers. Instead, we allow him to meet in person with his accusers and defend himself against what they say about him. 17 So when those Jews came here to Caesarea, I did not delay the trial at all. The day after they arrived, I convened the court and ordered the guards to bring in the prisoner. 18 I thought that the Jewish leaders would accuse Paul of doing many wrong things. But when they made their accusations against him, none of the accusations were serious. 19 Instead, they argued with him about what Jews should believe. They also argued about a man whose name was Jesus. He had died, but Paul said he was alive. 20 I did not know how I could investigate this case from Caesarea. So I asked Paul,
'Are you willing to go to Jerusalem so that I can judge you there about these things?' 21 But Paul asked to stay in Caesarea until the emperor himself could judge his case. So I ordered my soldiers to keep him under guard until I could send him to Caesar." 22 Then Agrippa said to Festus, "Personally I would like to hear what this man has to say." Festus answered, "I will arrange for you to hear him tomorrow."

23 So the next day Agrippa and Bernice entered the hall of judgment. The people there showed them much honor. Some Roman commanders and some of the important people of Caesarea came with them. Then Festus commanded the guards to bring Paul in. 24 After Paul entered, Festus said, "King Agrippa and all the rest of you who are here with us, you see this man! Many leaders of the Jews, both in Jerusalem and here, have protested to me about him.
They have demanded that I put him to death immediately. 25 But I found that he had done nothing to deserve being killed. Even so, he has asked Caesar to judge his case. So I have decided to send him to Rome. 26 But I do not know exactly what to write to the emperor about him. That is why I have brought him here to speak to all of you, and especially to you, King Agrippa. You can question him. Then I will know what to write to the emperor. 27 After all, it makes sense that when I send a prisoner to the emperor in Rome, I should say exactly what wrong things people say he has done."

26 1 Then Agrippa said to Paul, "You may now speak on your own behalf." Then Paul held out his hand to show that he was about to speak. He defended himself by saying, 2 "King Agrippa, I consider myself fortunate that I can explain myself to you today. I will tell you why the Jewish leaders are wrong when they say that I have done bad things. 3 I am especially fortunate because you know so much about the customs of us Jews and the questions that we argue about. So please listen to me as I tell my whole story.

4 My fellow Jews know how I have lived my life since the time I was a child. They know that I have always lived among Jews and that I received my education in Jerusalem. 5 They have known me since I was young. They could tell you, if they were willing, that as a Pharisee, I obeyed the most rigid customs of our religion very carefully. 6 Today I am on trial because I am confidently expecting that God will do what he promised to our ancestors. 7 Our 12 Jewish tribes are also waiting confidently for God to do what he promised. That is why they continue to honor him and worship him so diligently. And yet, Honored King, these Jewish leaders are saying that I have done wrong because I too am waiting confidently. 8 None of you should find it hard to believe that God would cause people who had died to live again.

9 But I will admit that I too once found it hard to believe. I was sure that I should do everything that I could to stop people from believing in Jesus from the town of Nazareth. 10 So that is what I did when I lived in Jerusalem. I put many of the believers in prison. The chief priests there had given me the power to do that. And when the Sanhedrin was deciding whether to kill believers, I voted in favor of that. 11 I continually punished believers in Jesus in every synagogue where I could find them. I tried to force them to say that they did not believe in Jesus. I was so angry with them that I even went to foreign cities to find them.

12 Because I told them I wanted to arrest believers in Damascus, the chief priests gave me the power to do that. So I traveled to Damascus. 13 While I was on my way there, O King, I saw a bright light in the sky. Even though it was around noon, this light was even brighter than the sun! It shone all around me and also around those who were traveling with me. 14 We all fell to the ground. Then I heard the voice of someone speaking to me in the Hebrew language.

He said, ‘Saul, Saul, you should not be fighting against me. You are harming yourself, like an animal that is kicking against a sharp prod.’ 15 Then I said, ‘Please tell me who you are.’ And the person who was speaking to me said, ‘I am Jesus! I am the one you are fighting against. 16 But get up off the ground now. I have appeared to you in order to make you my servant. I want you to tell other people who I am, now that you have seen me. I will show you more about myself later, and I want you to tell others about that too. 17 I am sending you both to Jewish people and to non-Jewish people. I will protect you from them. 18 I want you to help them recognize who I really am. I want you to help them to live in a way that pleases God. I want them to know that God can make them free from the devil’s influence. I want them to know that God will forgive their sins. I want them to receive the good things that people whom God saves because they believe in me will have forever.’

19 So, King Agrippa, I did what God told me to do when he gave me that vision. 20 First, I spoke to the Jews in Damascus. Then I spoke to the Jews in Jerusalem and in the countryside of Judea. I also spoke to the non-Jews there. I told them that they should stop sinning and ask God to help them live in the right way. I told them they should do things that showed they had stopped sinning.

21 It is because I preached this message that some Jews seized me when I was in the temple courtyard and tried to kill me. 22 Because God has been helping me, I have been able to keep proclaiming these things to this very day. I have continued to tell people, regardless of their status, exactly what the prophets and Moses said would happen. 23 They said that the Messiah would suffer and die. They said that he would be the first person to live again after he had died. They also said that he would tell people how God was able to save them. He would tell this, both to his own Jewish people and to non-Jewish people.”

24 Before Paul could say anything further to defend himself, Festus shouted out loudly, “Paul, you are crazy! You have studied too much, and that has made you crazy!” 25 But Paul answered, “Your Excellency, Governor Festus, I am not insane! On the contrary, what I am saying is true and quite sane! 26 I can assure you that I am not crazy, because King Agrippa is familiar with the things I have been talking about so enthusiastically to him. I am very sure that he is aware of all of these things. They all happened very publicly. 27 King Agrippa, do you believe what the prophets wrote? I know that you believe those things.” 28 Then Agrippa answered Paul, “I would need to hear much more than this to decide to become a Christian!” 29 Paul replied, “Perhaps you need to hear more, or perhaps you could decide now. But either way, I pray to God that you and all of the others who are listening to me today will become like me, except for these chains!” 30 Then King Agrippa stood up. The governor, Bernice, and all the other important people who had come in with them also got up 31 and left the room. After they left, they said to each other, “We should not execute this man or keep him in prison. He has done nothing to deserve that.” 32 Then Agrippa said to Festus, “If this man had not appealed to Caesar, you could have released him.”

27 1 Soon the governor decided it was time to send Paul by ship to Italy. I, Luke, traveled with him. He put Paul and some other prisoners under the control of a military officer whose name was Julius. This man was part of a group of soldiers who reported directly to the emperor. 2 So Julius put us aboard a ship from the city of Adramyttium in the province of Asia. This ship was about to sail to various places along the coast of Asia. In this way we began our journey by sea. Aristarchus, a man from the city of Thessalonica in the province of Macedonia, went with us. 3 The next day we arrived at the city of Sidon. There Julius treated Paul generously. He gave him permission to go see his friends in Sidon so they could help him with whatever he needed. 4 Then the ship sailed away from Sidon. We went along the coast of Cyprus, which was sheltered from the wind, because the wind was against us. 5 After that, we crossed over the sea close to the coasts of Cilicia and Pamphylia. The ship arrived at the city of Myra in the province of Lycia. We got off the ship there. 6 In Myra, Julius found a ship that had come from the city of Alexandria. It would soon sail to Italy. So he arranged for us to go aboard that ship and we left. 7 The winds were still against us, so we sailed slowly for many days. It was difficult, but we finally reached the city of Cnidus. From there the wind was so strong that the ship could not sail straight westward. So we sailed along the coast of the island of Crete instead, where the wind was not blowing strongly. We sailed past Cape Salmone, an area of land sticking out into the water. 8 The wind was still strong, and it prevented the ship from moving ahead fast. So we moved slowly along the coast of Crete. We eventually arrived at a port whose name was Fair Havens. It was near the city of Lasea.

9 Because the wind was blowing from the west, the journey from Caesarea to Fair Havens had taken much more time than the captain and centurion had planned. It had become dangerous to sail because it was late in the year and the stormy season was approaching. So Paul said to the men on the ship, 10 and said to them, “Friends, God has shown me that if we continue sailing, we will suffer harm and lose many things. A great storm will destroy the ship and its cargo and kill all of us.” 11 But the Roman officer did not believe what Paul said. Instead, he believed the pilot and the captain when they told him the ship would be safe.

12 The harbor of Fair Havens did not protect the ships in it very well from winter storms. So most of the sailors recommended leaving Fair Havens. They hoped that they could reach Phoenix and spend the winter there. Phoenix is a city on the island of Crete with a good harbor. The harbor protects ships well from winds that blow from the southwest and northwest.
13 Because only a gentle wind was blowing from the south, the ship’s crew thought that they could reach Phoenix safely. So they lifted the ship’s anchor up out of the sea and sailed the ship close to the coastline of the island of Crete. 14 After a little while, however, a stormy wind blew down from the island. It was the kind of wind that the sailors called the Northeast Wind.
15 This stormy wind blew so strongly against the front of the ship that we could not sail into it. So the sailors decided to sail in the direction that the wind was blowing. It pushed us across the sea very quickly. 16 However, the sailors were able to sail the ship on the side of a small island that was sheltered from the wind. The name of the island was Cauda. It was very difficult, but the sailors were finally able to gain control of the lifeboat. 17 The sailors hoisted the lifeboat up onto the ship. Then they wound its ropes around the hull of the ship. They became concerned that they would get stuck in the soggy sand at Syrtis. So they took down the sails to go more slowly. This meant they could not steer the ship, and it went wherever the wind blew it.
18 But the wind and the waves continued to toss the ship about roughly. So on the next day, the sailors began to throw overboard the things that the ship was carrying. 19 Then, on the third day of the storm, the sailors threw overboard most of the ship’s sails, ropes, and poles. They did this deliberately in order to make the ship lighter. 20 But the wind continued to blow very strongly against the ship. The sky was always full of dark clouds so that the sailors could not see the sun or the stars to navigate. After all this we lost hope that we would even survive.

21 None of us on the ship had eaten for many days. Then one day, Paul stood up in front of us and said, “Friends, you should have listened to me when I said that we should not set sail from Crete. Then, we would not have suffered all this damage. 22 But now please do not be afraid, because none of us will die. The storm will destroy the ship but it will not destroy us.

23 I know this because last night an angel came and stood by me. The God who protects me and who told me to tell others about him sent this angel. 24 The angel said to me, ‘Paul, do not be afraid. You will reach Rome safely and have the opportunity to testify to the emperor. I want you to know that God is being kind to you. He will make sure that everyone who is traveling with you will also survive.’ 25 So cheer up, my friends, because I believe that God will make this happen exactly as the angel told me. 26 However, the ship will crash on some island, and we will go ashore there.”

27 Now on the fourteenth night after the storm began, the storm was still blowing the ship across the open sea. At about midnight, the sailors thought that the ship was getting close to land. 28 So the sailors lowered a rope with a weight on the end to measure how deep the water was. When they pulled the rope up again, they measured it and saw that the water was 40 meters deep. A little later, they measured again and found that the water was 30 meters deep. 29 Because the water was getting shallower, the sailors were afraid that the ship might crash onto some rocks. So they threw four anchors into the water from the end of the ship. Then they prayed that it would soon become light so that they could see where the ship was going. 30 Some of the sailors were planning to escape from the ship. They did not want anyone to know what they planned to do. So they pretended that they needed to put the lifeboat in the water so they could use it to lower some anchors from the ship’s front. 31 But Paul said to the Roman officer and the soldiers, “If the sailors do not stay in the ship, you will not survive.” 32 So the soldiers cut the ropes and the lifeboat dropped into the sea.

33 Just before dawn, Paul encouraged everyone on the ship to eat something. He said, “For the past 14 days you have been waiting and watching and not eating anything. 34 So now I urge you to eat some food, because you must do this to live. The storm will not kill any of you, but if you do not eat, you will die.” 35 Then after Paul said that, while everyone was watching, he took some bread and thanked God for it. Then he broke the bread into pieces and began to eat some of it. 36 Then they all cheered up and ate some food. 37 Altogether there were 276 of us on the ship. 38 When everyone had eaten enough, the sailors made the ship lighter by throwing the rest of the wheat into the water.

39 At dawn we could see land, but the sailors did not know what it was. However, they could see a bay that had a beach. They decided to try to run the ship up onto this wide area of sand at the water's edge. 40 So they cut the ropes that attached the anchors to the ship and let the anchors fall loose into the water. They also untied the ropes that held the rudders to the ship. They raised a sail to the top of the mast so that the wind would blow into it. Then they steered the ship toward the shore. 41 But the ship sailed into turbulent waters and ran onto a sandbank that was just under the waves. The front of the ship stuck there and could not move. Big waves beat against the back of the ship and it began to break apart.

42 The soldiers wanted to kill all the prisoners so that none of them could swim away and escape. 43 But the Roman officer wanted to save Paul. So he stopped the soldiers from killing the prisoners. Instead, he commanded everyone who could swim to jump off the ship first into the water and swim to shore. 44 Then he told the ones who could not swim to hold onto something that would float and drift toward the shore. Some held onto wooden boards that the waves had broken loose from the ship. Some held onto articles from the ship that would float. We did what he said, and in that way all of us made it safely to the shore.

28 1 After we had arrived safely on the shore, we learned that we were on an island whose name was Malta. 2 The people who lived there took care of us very generously. It was cold and it was starting to rain. So they lit a fire and invited all of us to come and warm ourselves. 3 Now Paul was helping by collecting a bundle of pieces of wood to burn. When he put them on the fire, a poisonous snake came out from the bundle to escape from the heat of the fire. It bit Paul on his hand and clung to it. 4 Now the people from the island saw the snake dangling from Paul's hand. They said to each other, "This man has probably murdered someone. He has escaped from drowning in the sea. But the goddess Justice is punishing him anyway. He will die from this snake bite." 5 But Paul shook his hand hard so that the snake would fall off his hand and back into the fire. The snake fell off and Paul was not hurt at all. 6 Still, some of the people of the island expected that Paul's body would soon swell up because of the snake bite. Others thought he would suddenly fall down and die. But they waited a long time and did not see either of those things happen to him. So the people decided they had been wrong about who Paul was. They said to one another, "This man is not a murderer. He must be a god, because that snake bite would have killed any human being!"

7 Now the people of the island had built the fire near some fields that belonged to a man whose name was Publius. He was the chief official on the island. He invited us to come and stay in his home. He took very good care of us for three days. 8 At that time Publius' father had fever and a stomach illness. He was lying sick in bed. So Paul visited him and prayed for him. Then Paul placed his hands on him and healed him. 9 After Paul healed Publius' father, the rest of the people on the island who were sick came to him and he healed them too. 10 The island people also brought us gifts and showed in other ways that they greatly respected us. Later on, when we were ready to leave, they brought us food and other things that we would need on the ship.

11 We stayed on Malta for a total of three months. Then we left on a ship that had spent the winter there. The ship was from Alexandria and was going to Italy. On the front of the ship there were carved images of the twin gods whose names were Castor and Pollux. 12 When we arrived at the city of Syracuse, we stayed there three days. 13 Then we sailed away from Syracuse and arrived at the city of Rhegium in Italy. The next day, the wind began to blow from the south. So in only two more days, we reached the town of Puteoli. There we got off the ship and went the rest of the way to Rome by land. 14 In Puteoli we met some fellow believers who asked us to stay with them for seven days. After that, we continued on to Rome.

15 Some fellow believers in Rome had heard that we were coming and they came to meet us. Some of them met us at the place on the Appian Road whose name was the Market. Others met us at the place whose name was the Three Inns. When Paul saw those believers, he thanked God and felt brave. 16 After we arrived in Rome, the authorities there permitted Paul to live in a home rather than in prison. But a soldier was always there to guard him.

17 Now after Paul had been in Rome for three days, he sent a message to the Jewish leaders to come and talk with him. And when they arrived, Paul said to them, "My dear kinsmen, I have not opposed our people or spoken against the customs of our ancestors. But some Jews in Jerusalem seized me and tried to kill me. A Roman commander rescued me and later sent me as a prisoner to the city of Caesarea so that the Roman authorities could put me on trial. 18 The Roman authorities questioned me and wanted to release me because I had not done any bad thing for which I should be executed. 19 But the Jewish leaders argued that the Romans should not set me free, So I had to request that the emperor judge me here in Rome. But I did not do that because I wanted to accuse our leaders of doing anything wrong. 20 So I asked you to come here so that I could tell you why I am a prisoner. It is because I believe in what we Jews confidently expect that God will do for us." 21 Then the Jewish leaders replied, "We have not received any letters from our fellow Jews in Judea about you. And none of our fellow Jews who have come here from Judea have said anything bad about you. 22 But we would appreciate you telling us what you think about this group that you belong to. Please tell us, because we are aware that in many places people are speaking against it."

23 So they decided that they would come back on another day. On that day, even more people than before came to where Paul was staying to hear Paul speak. Paul explained many things to them. He talked about how God would rule everyone. He also talked about how various places in the Scriptures foretold that Jesus would come. Paul talked for that entire day with the people who had come to his house. 24 Paul was able to persuade some of those Jews that the things he said about Jesus were true. But some others would not believe that they were true. 25 The two groups argued with each other. When they were about to leave, Paul told them one more thing. He said, "The Holy Spirit spoke the truth to your ancestors when he said something through Isaiah the prophet.

26 He said, 'Go to the people of Israel and say to them:
"You seem to be listening but you never really understand what God is saying.
You seem to be looking but you never really recognize the things that God is 27 doing." These people do not understand because they have become stubborn.
It is as if they have become deaf.
It is as if they have closed their eyes.
It is as if they have done this because they do not want to see well, and they do not want to hear well,
and they do not want to understand well.
If they did pay attention to me and understand what I am telling them, they would stop sinning and live in the right way again.
If they did that, I would restore them.'

28 Therefore, you should know that God is offering to save the non-Jews, and many of them will accept his offer." 29 17 [When he had said these things, the Jews went away. They were having a great dispute among themselves.]

30 After that, Paul stayed in Rome for two whole years in a house that he rented. Many people came to see him. He received each of them gladly and spoke with them. 31 He preached about how God would rule over everyone. He also taught people about the Lord Jesus the Messiah. He spoke about these things very openly. No one tried to stop him.

Romans

1 1 I, Paul, am writing this letter. I serve the Messiah Jesus. He called me to represent him and specially chose me to proclaim God's good news. 2 God previously promised this good news by means of his spokesmen who prophesied about it and wrote it down in the sacred writings. 3 This good news is about God's Son. He was born a natural descendant of David. 4 In accordance with the Holy Spirit, God powerfully demonstrated that Jesus is his Son by causing him to live again after he had died. God's Son is Jesus the Messiah, who is our Lord. 5 Jesus favored us who represent him and authorized us to represent him on his behalf in order that all the nations would obey God by trusting in Jesus the Messiah. 6 Jesus the Messiah has also called you who are living among the nations. 7 I am writing this letter to all of you believers who dwell in the city of Rome. God loves you and has called you to be people who belong to him. May God our Father and the Lord Jesus the Messiah continue to be kind to you and make you peaceful.

8 Now, the first thing I want to tell you, is that I am constantly thanking my God through Jesus the Messiah for all of you believers in the Messiah. I thank him because people throughout the known world are proclaiming how you trust in Jesus. 9 I can say this truthfully because God testifies for me that I frequently pray for you. I serve him devotedly by proclaiming the good news about his Son, Jesus. 10 When I pray, I very often request that I might finally succeed in coming to visit you because God wants me to. 11 I pray for this because I deeply desire to see you in person in order to share some kind of gracious gift with you from the Holy Spirit in order to help you become spiritually stronger. 12 In other words, I want to share some gracious gift with you in order that we may mutually encourage one other. Both you and I can help each other by sharing how we mutually trust in God. 13 My fellow believers, I certainly want you to know that I planned to visit you many times. But God has prevented me from visiting you until the present time. I planned to visit you in order to lead some people to believe in Christ among you as well, just like how I have also done so among the other nations. 14 I am obligated to proclaim the good news to all non-Jewish people, whether or not they are culturally Greek and whether or not they are educated. 15 So then, if it were my choice, I would gladly proclaim the good news to you who dwell in Rome.

16 I would gladly do this because I am deeply honored to proclaim the good news because it is the powerful way that God uses to save anyone who believes it. This is true for both the Jews who first heard the good news and then everyone else. 17 This is true because whenever people proclaim the good news, they reveal how God makes people righteous, which is entirely through trusting in the Messiah. This is what the prophet Habakkuk meant when he wrote in the Scriptures, "But the person whom God makes righteous will live forever by trusting in God."

18 This is true because from where God dwells he is revealing how he is furious toward and will judge every person who does ungodly and unrighteous things. These people suppress the things that God says are true by living in an unrighteous manner.

19 God will judge them because what anyone can know about God is obvious to these people since God has made it obvious to them. 20 This is true because people can clearly perceive those things about God that they cannot see with their eyes. These things are how powerful God is and the fact that he is God. People could perceive these things since the time God created the universe. The things that God has made have understood these things. For this reason, people cannot excuse themselves from acknowledging that God exists. 21 People cannot excuse themselves because they do not honor him as God, even though they know that he exists. They also refuse to thank him. In contrast, they think about worthless things, and they are unable to understand spiritual things. 22 Although they assert that they are wise, they are actually fools. 23 They stop glorifying the God who is immortal, and instead they glorify idols that resemble mortal people, birds, four-legged animals, and animals that crawl on the ground.

24 Consequently, God lets these people do the lustful things that they desire to do, so that they become spiritually impure and they disgrace their bodies with one another by doing sexually immoral acts. 25 These people stop believing what is true about God and instead believe what is false about idols. They reverently worship things that God has created, instead of worshiping the God who created those things. He is the one whom people should bless forever! May it be so!

26 Because these people do that, God lets them do the dishonorable things they strongly desire to do. For example, their women stop doing natural sexual acts with men and instead do unnatural sexual acts with women. 27 Similarly, the men also stopped doing natural sexual acts with women and lusted intensely after other men. These men do shameless sexual acts with each other. They experience God penalizing them in their own bodies. God must penalize them because they pervert God's natural sexual acts.

28 As these people thought that acknowledging God was worthless, God let their minds become worthless. As a result, they do inappropriate things. 29 These people are completely controlled by all kinds of unrighteous, wicked, covetous, and malicious thoughts. They are completely willing to be jealous, take another's life, argue, deceive, and commit evil deeds against others. They reveal secrets about others. 30 They speak badly of other people. They hate God. They act violently. They think too highly of themselves. They boast about themselves. They think of new kinds of evil things to do. They do not obey their parents. 31 These people are morally foolish. They do not do what they promise to do. They do not care about other people. They do not show mercy to others. 32 These people fully understand that God has righteously declared that people who keep doing such inappropriate things deserve to die spiritually. Nevertheless, they not only keep on doing those inappropriate things, but they even happily approve of people who do such things!

2 1 Consequently, any one of you who judges another person cannot excuse yourself at all when God condemns you. This is because you are actually condemning yourself when you judge someone else, since you who judge someone else do the exact same things that they do!
2 Certainly, we acknowledge that God will correctly judge those people who continue doing such inappropriate things. 3 You who judge the people who continue to do such inappropriate things while you do the exact same things yourself should certainly not think that you can escape when God judges you! 4 You who despise how abundantly kind, tolerant, and patient God is must certainly know that God's kind acts are meant to cause you to repent. 5 Instead, because you are stubborn and refuse to repent, you are causing God to punish you even more severely. This will happen when God punishes sinners and reveals how justly he judges.

6 God will justly reward or punish everyone for whatever they do. 7 Living eternally is how God repays those people who keep striving for God to glorify, honor, and preserve them forever. They do this by persisting in doing what is good. 8 By contrast, God will fiercely punish those people who refuse to do what he says is true and right because they are selfishly ambitious. 9 God will cause every human being who does what is evil to become distressed and troubled. This will happen especially to the Jew who does what is evil and also to everyone else who does so. 10 By contrast, God will glorify, honor, and reconcile every person who does what is good. This will happen especially to the Jew who does what is good and also to everyone else who does so. 11 These things are true because God is impartial.

12 We know this about God, because he will punish forever all people who sin without knowing the laws that God gave the Jews even though they do not know those laws. At the same time, God will judge according to his laws whoever sins while knowing those laws. 13 God will judge everyone who sins because God does not make righteous those people who only hear his laws. Rather, God will make righteous those people who obey his laws. 14 God will judge everyone who sins because whenever nations which do not know the laws that God gave the Jews naturally obey rules from those laws, they prove that they know laws within their minds even though they do not know God's laws. 15 By naturally following some laws that God gave through Moses, these people demonstrate that God has made each person aware of how to obey his laws. What they think shows that this is true, in that what each of them thinks will either accuse or even defend their actions. 16 This will happen at the time when God finally judges the hidden thoughts that people think. God's good news that I proclaim teaches that he will judge mankind through the Messiah Jesus.

17 Now, I am addressing you who identify yourselves as Jews: You depend on the laws God gave you to avoid God's judgment. You brag that you know God. 18 You know what God wants. Also, since some people have taught you God's law, you approve of what is superior. 19 You have even convinced yourselves that you Jews are the only ones who can teach those non-Jewish people who do not know about God. You are convinced that only you can enable ignorant people to understand who God is. 20 You have convinced yourself that you should instruct people who are foolish. You have convinced yourself that you should teach people who are as ignorant as infants. You think this way because you know the laws God gave the Jews, which fully contain what we can know and what is true. 21 So even though you Jews have convinced yourself that these things are true, you should teach yourselves to do what you teach others to do because you do not do those things! You keep telling others that they should not steal, but you steal! 22 You keep telling people not to have sexual relations with people whom they did not marry, but you do so! You supposedly detest idols, but you ransack temples that contain idols! 23 You brag about how well you understand the laws God gave you, but you disgrace God by disobeying those laws! 24 These things are true because it is what the prophet Isaiah meant when he wrote in the Scriptures, "The nations say bad things about God because of how wickedly you Jews act."

25 You Jews who have sinned will be judged because, being circumcised only benefits you if you obey the laws God gave you. However, if you disobey those laws, being circumcised does not benefit you at all. 26 So then, if uncircumcised people obey what God requires in the laws he gave the Jews, God will regard those uncircumcised people as being circumcised. 27 And people who are physically uncircumcised yet fully obey the laws from God will judge you Jews! Although you know the written rules God gave the Jews and you are circumcised, you have disobeyed those laws! 28 This is true because a true Jew is not someone who does Jewish rituals that people can see. Similarly, people cannot see true circumcision on a person's body. 29 Rather, a true Jew is one by means of something that people cannot see. True circumcision happens in a person's mind and the Holy Spirit does it. Obeying the written rules God gave the Jews cannot do it. God commends a true Jew, but other people do not.

3 1 You Jews might say, "If what you have said is true, then surely being a Jew is not advantageous! Surely being circumcised is not beneficial at all!" 2 Then I would say, "Being a Jew benefits a person in many ways!" This is certainly true because, first of all, God trusted the Jews with preserving what he had said in the Scriptures. 3 So you might say, "Some of these Jews were certainly unfaithful to God! How unfaithful those people are certainly cannot invalidate how faithful God is!" 4 Then I would say, "Of course not!" On the contrary, God is always truthful, but everyone else is not. This is what David meant when he wrote in the Scriptures, "The result of my sin is that people will acknowledge that you, God, are right when you speak and victorious when people try to judge you."

5 But you might say, "Suppose this is true and how unrighteous we Jews are actually confirms how righteous God is. That could not possibly mean that God is unrighteous because he punishes us!" (When I talk like this, I am expressing how human beings think.) 6 Then I would say, "Of course not! If God were unrighteous when he punishes us, then he could not possibly judge anyone in the world!" 7 But then you might say, "Suppose this is true, and my lying further glorifies God and how truthful he is. If that is so, then surely God should not still judge me as if I were sinning! 8 And if this is true, then you should just tell us to act wickedly in order that good things can happen!" (This is exactly what some people say falsely about me and claim that I say. It is right for God to condemn people who speak and act this way!)

9 You Jews might then say, "If what you have said is true, then we are surely not superior to non-Jewish people!" And I would say that indeed we are not. I say this because I have previously charged that all Jews and non-Jewish people cannot stop being sinful. 10 This is what the prophets meant when they wrote in the Scriptures, "No one is righteous, no one at all!"

11 "No one thinks wisely. No one is even trying to know God!

12 Everyone has refused to obey God. As a whole, they are worthless for doing what God wants. No one is kind, no one at all!"

13 "What people say is morally corrupt like the smell of rotten corpses in a grave!
They constantly deceive people by what they say!" "What they say hurts people, like the venom of venomous snakes!" 14 "They constantly curse others and speak harshly against them." 15 "They rush eagerly to murder people.
16 Wherever they go, they destroy lives and make people suffer. 17 They do not understand how to live peacefully with others." 18 "They do not fear God at all!"

19 Certainly, we Jews know all that God says in his laws applies to the Jews, to whom God gave his laws. This is in order that no one can excuse themselves from being judged by God. This is also in order that God can justly punish everyone in the world as guilty. 20 This is true because God will not make anyone righteous with himself simply because they obey the laws he gave the Jews. This is so because those laws only make people aware of how sinful they are.

21 But now God has revealed how he makes people righteous. Becoming righteous is not related to obeying the laws God gave the Jews. Yet, in what they wrote in the Scriptures Moses and the prophets testify about how God makes people righteous. 22 How God makes people righteous is by trusting in Jesus the Messiah. God will make all types of people righteous if they trust in Jesus. This is because God does not distinguish between different types of people. 23 This is because all types of people sin and fail to acquire the glorious status from God. 24 God makes these sinful people righteous as a gift because he is so kind. People receive this gift from God when God unites them to Jesus the Messiah, who redeemed them from being punished for being sinful. 25 God offered Jesus as the one who atones for everyone's sins. People are rescued from being punished for being sinful by trusting in his sacrificial death. God did this in order to show how God makes people righteous. This happened because God disregarded people's sinful acts that they had previously done. 26 God did this because he is so tolerant. God also did this in order to show how he makes people righteous during our time. This is for the purpose of showing that God is righteous and that he makes people righteous if they trust in Jesus.

27 You Jews might say, "If what you have said is true, then surely no one can boast!" Then I would say, "Indeed, no one can!" Then you might say, "Surely we can become righteous by obeying the laws God gave the Jews! Surely doing those things will make us righteous!" Then I would say, "Absolutely not! On the contrary, people become righteous by trusting in Jesus the Messiah. 28 Indeed, we Jewish Christians consider people to become righteous by trusting in Jesus the Messiah. Being righteous is not related to doing those things that God commanded in the laws he gave the Jews." 29 Or you might say, "Surely God is not only the God of the Jews. Surely he is the God of all the nations too!" So I would say, "Absolutely! He is the God of all the nations too. 30 This is true because there is certainly only one God for all people. He will make righteous both the Jews who trust in Jesus and the non-Jewish people who trust in Jesus." 31 You Jews might say, "Then surely we make the laws God gave us invalid by trusting in Jesus!" So I would say, "Of course not! On the contrary, we confirm that what God said in those laws is valid."

4 1 You Jews might say, "If what you have said is true, then surely our physical ancestor Abraham found out about it. 2 This must be true because if Abraham became righteous based on doing the things that God commanded in his laws, then he could brag about it." On the contrary, I would say that Abraham could not possibly boast about it to God! 3 I say this because, Moses surely tells us in the Scriptures, "Abraham trusted in God, and God considered Abraham to be righteous because he trusted in him." 4 Indeed, when a person works, he does not consider the wage he earns to be a gracious gift. On the contrary, that person considers the wage he earns to be what his employer owes him. 5 By contrast, when a person does not obey the laws God gave the Jews, but trusts in the God who can make unrighteous people righteous, God considers him to be righteous because he trusted in him. 6 This is also the same thing that David wrote in the Scriptures about how blessed people are when God considers them to be righteous, even though they do not do those things that God commanded. David wrote:

> 7 "People are so happy when God forgives their lawless acts! People are so happy > when God no longer acknowledges their sinful acts! 8 Any person whom the > Lord never again considers to be sinful is so happy!"

9 Therefore, these happy people are not only circumcised Jews but even uncircumcised people who are not Jews! This must be true because we Jews quote the scripture that states, "God considers Abraham to be righteous because he trusted in him." 10 So then, you surely know when Abraham trusted in God and God considered him to be righteous! You surely know whether this happened before he was circumcised or afterward! Indeed, it was not while Abraham was circumcised, but while he was still uncircumcised that God considered him to be righteous. 11 Abraham was circumcised as a mark in his body to prove that God had made him righteous because Abraham trusted in him before he was circumcised. This happened in order for him to become the spiritual ancestor for every non-Jewish person who trusts in God in order that God would consider them to be righteous because they trust in him. 12 This also happened in order for Abraham to become the spiritual ancestor of those people who are circumcised, that is, those circumcised Jews who are not only circumcised in their bodies, but who also trust in God the same way that our ancestor Abraham did even before he was circumcised.

13 This is true because when God promised Abraham and those who descend from him that the whole world would belong to him, God did not promise this because Abraham obeyed the laws God gave the Jews. Rather, God promised this because God had made Abraham righteous because Abraham trusted in him. 14 This is true because, if people could inherit what God promised Abraham by obeying the laws he gave the Jews, then trusting in God would become useless! What God promised would also become invalid. 15 This is because the laws God gave the Jews are intended to punish those who disobey them. However, where God's laws do not exist, no one can disobey them. 16 This is why what God promised comes by trusting in him in order to show how kind he is. God was so kind in order that he could secure what he promised to everyone who has spiritually descended from Abraham. Those who have spiritually descended from Abraham are not only those Jews who obey the laws God gave them, but also those who trust in God as Abraham did. Abraham is the spiritual ancestor of all of us who trust in God.

17 (This is exactly what God said in the Scriptures about Abraham: "I have chosen you to be a spiritual ancestor for numerous people groups.") God considers Abraham to be our spiritual ancestor. Abraham trusted God. God is the one who causes dead people to become alive again. He also commands things that do not exist to exist, then they exist. 18 Abraham trusted in God by hoping in God despite what seemed hopeless. As a result, he became the spiritual ancestor for numerous people groups. This happened just as God had promised him in the Scriptures: "The people who descend from you will become as numerous as the stars in the sky."
19 Abraham thought that his body was too old to produce children. (He was almost 100 years old!) He also thought that his wife Sarah was unable to become pregnant because she never had been able to do so before. Nevertheless, Abraham kept on trusting God. 20 Indeed, Abraham did not faithlessly doubt what God had promised. On the contrary, God empowered Abraham to continue trusting in him while Abraham was glorifying God. 21 God also totally assured Abraham that he is able to do what he had promised to do. 22 And this is why, "God considered Abraham to be righteous because he trusted in him."

23 Yet, when Moses wrote in the Scriptures, "God considered how Abraham trusted him," these words not only refer to Abraham. 24 On the contrary, these words also refer to us who trust in Jesus. God is going to consider how we believers trust him. We are the people who trust him. He is the one who caused our Lord Jesus to become alive again after he had died. 25 God allowed people to kill Jesus because we sinned against God. God also caused Jesus to become alive again in order to make us righteous.

5 1 Consequently, we should live peacefully with God by means of what our Lord Jesus the Messiah did for us because we have become righteous by trusting in Jesus. 2 Our Lord Jesus the Messiah also allows us to continually experience how kind God is by trusting in Jesus. We can confidently boast that we will share in God's glorious status. 3 This is not the only thing about which we can confidently boast. Rather, we can also confidently boast about the painful things that we have experienced. We can do this because we know that a painful thing that we experience causes us to endure hardships better than before. 4 And being able to endure hardships results in God approving us. And when God approves us, we become more confident. 5 And when we become confident, we will not be disappointed. This is because the Holy Spirit has enabled us to deeply understand how much God loves us. God has given us this Holy Spirit.

6 In fact, while we were still helpless, Jesus the Messiah died for the sake of us impious people. God caused this to happen at just the right time. 7 Indeed, someone would rarely consider dying for the sake of a person who is righteous, although someone might possibly even bravely consider dying for the sake of a good person. 8 However, God shows his own love towards we believers by this fact: while we were still sinful, Jesus the Messiah died for our benefit! 9 Consequently, since the Messiah's sacrificial death has already made us righteous, it is even more certain that he will rescue us when God finally punishes sinners! 10 Indeed, God's Son Jesus died to reconcile us to God while we were still his enemies. Therefore, since Jesus has already reconciled us to God, it is even more certain that he will rescue us when God punishes sinners because he is alive again! 11 Now these are not the only things God does for us. Rather, we also boast about God by means of what our Lord Jesus the Messiah has done for us. Jesus has already reconciled us with God!

12 So then, sin started existing in the world because one man sinned, and living things started to die because he sinned. In the same way, everyone started dying as well, because everyone sins. 13 Indeed, people throughout the world sinned before God gave his laws to the Jews. However, God did not legally regard what they did as sinning, since those laws did not yet exist to identify what it means to sin. 14 However, everyone died from the time of the first man Adam until the time of Moses. Even those people died who did not sin by violating the same command God gave to Adam. Adam is like the person who would come later. 15 But what God has kindly given us is not the same as how Adam rejected God's command. In fact, it is true that many people died because the one man Adam rejected God's command. But how kind God is and that which God kindly gives through the one man Jesus the Messiah extend to many people and are much greater! 16 Yet, what God gives is not like what happened because the one man Adam sinned. This is true because, in fact, God judged everyone after the sinful thing that Adam did, which resulted in God condemning everyone. By contrast, what God kindly gave people after they rejected his commands many times resulted in God making them righteous. 17 Indeed, since everyone died because the one man Adam rejected God's command, it is even more certain that those people who accept how abundantly kind God is and are those people whom he makes righteous will live in control of themselves. This will happen because of what Jesus the Messiah has done.

18 Therefore, in the way that God condemned everyone because Adam rejected God's command, in the same way, God makes everyone righteous, which results in them living eternally, because of the righteous act that Jesus did. 19 Indeed, in the same way that people became sinful because the one man Adam disobeyed God, in the same way many people will become righteous because the one man Jesus obeyed God. 20 Yet God added his laws in order that people might reject his commands even more. Nevertheless, whenever people began to sin even more, then even more God showed how kind he is! 21 This happened so that God could be gracious to people by making them righteous. Just as being sinful controlled people by making them die, in the same way, when God makes people righteous, they live forever. This is because of what our Lord Jesus the Messiah has done.

6 1 Someone might say, "If what you have said is true, then surely we believers should keep on sinning in order that, even more, God might show how kind he is even more!" 2 Then I would say, "Of course not!" We who are no longer controlled by sinning surely must not continue living sinfully! 3 You surely know that God unites to the Messiah Jesus whomever someone baptizes, and it is as if that baptized person also died with the Messiah! 4 So, by being baptized as if we died with the Messiah, it is like God buried us in the tomb with Jesus. This is so in order that, just as God the Father's glorious power caused the Messiah to become alive again after he had died, in the same way, we too can live a new way of living. 5 Indeed, since we share in what resembles Jesus dying, we will surely also share in God making us alive again. 6 We know that God also did away with our former sinful way of living when people crucified Jesus. He did this in order to totally remove the way sin controls us, so that we no longer have to live sinfully. 7 This is because, when people who live sinfully share in Jesus' death, God frees them from having to live sinfully. 8 Now since it is as if we died with the Messiah, we trust that we will also live with him eternally. 9 We know that the Messiah can never die again, because God caused him to become alive again after he had died. Nothing can ever cause the Messiah to die again! 10 This is because when Jesus died, he only had to die that one time only in order to remove the way sin controls people. Now that he is alive again, he lives in order to glorify God. 11 Similarly, you too regard yourselves as no longer controlled by sinning. Indeed, regard yourselves as alive in order to glorify God because God has united you to the Messiah Jesus. 12 Since this is true, do not allow your sinful desires to control you. This would result in you doing the sinful things that you want to do. 13 Do not use your body parts in order to do unrighteous things or to sin. Instead, live in order to do what God wants you to do, like people whom God caused to live again after they had died. Also, use your body parts in order to do righteous things to glorify God. 14 Indeed, do not allow your desire to sin to control you because the laws God gave the Jews do not control you. Instead, how kind God is controls you.

15 Someone might say, "If what you have said is true, then surely we believers should keep on sinning because the laws God gave the Jews do not control us. Instead, how kind God is controls us!" Then I would say, "Of course not!" 16 You surely know that if you submit yourselves to be controlled by a thing or person, you become like slaves to that thing or person you submit to! This is true whether you submit yourselves to living sinfully, which will kill you eternally, or you submit yourselves to God, which will make you righteous. 17 Although you used to submit yourselves to living sinfully, now you are sincerely submissive to the type of teaching to which God has submitted you. Thank God! 18 Indeed, since God liberated you from living sinfully, you are now serving God righteously. 19 (I Paul am speaking in human terms, because you are spiritually immature.) Indeed, just as you previously used your body parts to live impurely and to increasingly break God's laws, in the same way, now use your body parts to live righteously. This will cause you to live like God's people should live. 20 This is because when you used to submit yourselves to living sinfully, you were not living righteously. 21 So, formerly you did not benefit from those sinful things you did that now embarrass you. This is because those things will eventually kill you eternally. 22 But now that you trust in Jesus, God has freed you from living sinfully and has caused you to serve him the way slaves would serve him. Therefore, you receive what is beneficial, which results in you living like God's people should live. Indeed, living in that way will eventually result in you living eternally. 23 I say this because living sinfully causes those who do so to die eternally, but God graciously causes those who are united to our Lord, the Messiah Jesus, to live eternally.

7 1 My fellow Jewish believers, you are well-aware that the laws God gave the Jews must be obeyed by Jewish people throughout their whole lives. (I know that you are well-aware of this fact, because I am speaking to people who are familiar with the laws God gave the Jews.) 2 For instance, according to the laws God gave the Jews, a married woman must remain married to her husband as long as he lives. However, if her husband dies, God's law no longer requires her to remain married to him. 3 Therefore, if she marries another man while her husband is alive, according to God's law she will be an adulterous woman. However, if her husband dies, she no longer has to obey what God's law requires of those who are married. As a result, she would not be an adulterous woman if she married another man. 4 So, my fellow Jewish believers, by means of the Messiah dying on the cross the laws God gave the Jews no longer control you. God did this in order to unite you to the Messiah, as if you were marrying a new husband. He is the person whom God made alive again after he had died. God did this in order that we may do things that please him. 5 Indeed, when living sinfully used to control us, the laws God gave us caused us to want to sin even more. Our living sinfully controlled what we did with our body parts. As a result, we would eventually die eternally. 6 But now that we trust in Jesus, God cancels what his laws require us to do. The laws God gave the Jews no longer control us as if we were prisoners. As a result, we now serve God in the new way that comes from the Holy Spirit. We no longer serve God in the old way that the written rules God gave the Jews require.

7 Someone might say, "If what you have said is true, then surely the laws God gave the Jews are sinful!" Then I would say, "Of course not!" On the contrary, without the laws God gave the Jews, I would never have become aware of what it means to sin. For instance, if God did not say in his laws, "You must not covet," I would never have become aware of what it means to covet. 8 However, since I am sinful, I wanted to covet in many ways because I knew that God commanded us not to covet. This is because if the laws God gave the Jews did not exist, living sinfully would cease. 9 There was a time when I was living without being aware of the laws God gave the Jews. But, when I became aware of those commandments, I wanted to sin even more. 10 I became spiritually dead. God's command was supposed to result in me living eternally. But God's command actually will result in me dying eternally. 11 This is so because I wanted to sin even more because I knew what God had commanded. When I sinned, I tricked myself. Then disobeying what God had commanded killed me spiritually. 12 So the laws God gave the Jews are worthy of God and what God has commanded is worthy of God, just, and good.

13 So, God's laws, which are good, surely did not cause me to die spiritually! Of course not! Rather, living sinfully did so. This happened so that God's good laws would reveal how sinful it is to live sinfully. This also happened so that what God commands would reveal that living sinfully is utterly sinful.

14 This is true because we are all aware that the laws God gave the Jews are from God's Spirit. But as for me, I am spiritually weak. It is as if I must serve as a slave to living sinfully. 15 This is true because I do not comprehend what I do! Indeed, I keep on doing what I do not want to do. But I do what I hate that I do. 16 Now because I do what I do not want to do, this proves that I agree with the laws God gave the Jews. I also testify that they are good laws. 17 This means that now I am no longer the one who causes me to do these sinful things. Rather, my wanting to live sinfully causes me to do them. 18 Indeed, I am aware that I am not good at all. In other words, my sinful self is not good at all. This is true because, even though I really want to do what is good, I am unable to do so. 19 Indeed, I do not do the good things I want to do. Rather, I keep on doing evil things that I do not want to do. 20 Now because I do what I do not want to do, I am no longer the one who causes me to do these sinful things. Rather, my wanting to live sinfully causes me to do them. 21 Consequently, I realized that a principle exists: I keep on doing evil things, even though I really want to do good things. 22 This is true because the laws God gave the Jews make my mind rejoice. 23 Yet, I notice another principle that controls what I do with my body parts. This principle conflicts with the other principle that my mind accepts. It also controls me, making me its prisoner by means of the principle that I tend to live sinfully. Living sinfully controls what I do with my body parts. 24 I am truly a wretched person! I feel as though there is no one who could possibly rescue me from this body that kills me! 25 I thank God who rescued me by means of our Lord Jesus the Messiah! Therefore, I actually do obey with my mind the laws God gave the Jews. Yet at the same time with my sinful self I obey the principle that I tend to live sinfully.

8 1 So now, God absolutely does not condemn anyone whom he has united with the Messiah Jesus. 2 This is true because the principle that pertains to the life-giving Holy Spirit has caused you believers to no longer be controlled by the principle that causes people to sin and die eternally. It did this by uniting you with the Messiah Jesus. 3 Indeed, God accomplished what the laws he gave the Jews could not accomplish, because they could not prevent people from living sinfully. Through the crucifying of his Son's body, God removed how sinning controls people. He did this by sending his own Son Jesus to the world in a human body that was like the bodies of sinful people. God sent his Son in order to remove that which causes man to sin. 4 God did these things so that we believers could do the righteous acts that the laws he gave the Jews required. We can live as people whom living sinfully does not control. Rather, we can live as people whom the Holy Spirit controls. 5 This is true because those people whom living sinfully controls think about those things that are related to living sinfully. However, those people whom the Holy Spirit controls think about those things that are related to the Holy Spirit. 6 Indeed, focusing on living sinfully will cause a person to die eternally. However, focusing on the Holy Spirit will cause a person to live eternally and peacefully. 7 This is true because people who focus on living sinfully are God's enemies. This is because they do not voluntarily obey the laws God gave the Jews; they are incapable of doing so. 8 But those whom living sinfully controls are incapable of pleasing God. 9 By contrast, you believers are not those whom living sinfully controls. Rather, you are those whom the Holy Spirit controls because God's Spirit really does reside within you. But if some person does not possess Jesus the Messiah's Spirit, this person does not belong to the Messiah. 10 Now, since the Messiah resides within you believers, the Holy Spirit gives you eternal life because he has made you righteous. This is true even though your bodies will die because you sin. 11 The Holy Spirit does indeed reside within you. He came from God, who caused Jesus to become alive again after he had died. Since this is true, God, who caused the Messiah Jesus to become alive again after he had died, will also cause your physical bodies to become alive again by his Spirit. This Spirit resides within you.

12 Therefore, my fellow believers, we are obligated. But we are not obligated to live sinfully, which means to live like those whom living sinfully controls. 13 Indeed, if you live like those whom living sinfully controls, you will die eternally. However, if the Holy Spirit enables you to stop doing what is sinful with your bodies, you will live eternally.

14 This is because those people whom God's Spirit guides are God's spiritual children. 15 Indeed, God has not given you believers an enslaved mind to terrify you, such as you had before. Rather, God has given you the Holy Spirit to spiritually adopt you as his children. It is the Holy Spirit who enables us to cry out, “Abba, my Father!” 16 The Holy Spirit personally testifies, along with our own minds, that we are God’s spiritual children. 17 Since we are God’s spiritual children, we are also those who will inherit blessings from God. We inherit blessings from God himself and also together with the Messiah Jesus. This is true only if we keep suffering together with the Messiah in order for God to also glorify us together with the Messiah.

18 Indeed, I regard what we believers in the Messiah suffer at this time as being incomparable to what glorious things God will reveal to us in the future. 19 Indeed, what God created is very eagerly waiting for the time when God reveals whom his spiritual children are. 20 This is because God subjugated what he created so that it became useless. What God created did not want this to happen. Rather, God subjugated what he created because he wanted to do so. He did this to keep the creation confidently expecting 21 that God would also enable what he created to stop decaying and let it freely experience the same glorious status that belongs to his spiritual children. 22 Indeed, we are aware that, even at the present time, everything God has created keeps groaning and suffering together like a mother experiencing pain before bearing a child. 23 It is not only what God created that groans! On the contrary, even we ourselves who possess the Holy Spirit as the first portion from God feel suffering. We feel this way while we eagerly wait for God to spiritually adopt us, which will be when God redeems our bodies. 24 This is so because God rescued us while we confidently expect this. If we already had what we have been confidently expecting, then we would have nothing to confidently expect. This is because surely nobody confidently expects something that he already has. 25 Yet, if we keep on confidently expecting what we do not yet have, then we will keep on eagerly waiting for it while persevering.

26 The Holy Spirit similarly also assists us because we are weak. This is because we are not aware for what we should pray. However, the Holy Spirit personally pleads on our behalf by groaning without speaking words. 27 Now God is the one who investigates what we think and feel. He is aware of what the Holy Spirit intends, because the Spirit pleads for the sake of God’s people according to what God wants.

28 We are certain that God makes all things that happen to benefit those who love him. They are the people whom God called because he previously planned to do so. 29 This is because those whom God chose in advance, he also decided in advance to make resemble his Son Jesus. God did these things in order for his Son Jesus to have first place among many spiritual siblings. 30 Certainly, the people whom God chose in advance to become his people, he also summoned to become his people. And those people whom God summoned to become his people, he also made righteous. And those people whom God made righteous, he will also make glorious.

31 Since these things are true, then we should say this about them: since God supports us, surely no one is powerful enough to oppose us! 32 God did not even spare his own Son, Jesus. On the contrary, God handed him over to die for the sake of us all. So God surely will also graciously give us, along with Jesus, every blessing! 33 Surely no one can rightly accuse those whom God chose to become his people! This is because God is the one who makes people righteous. 34 Surely no one can condemn God's people! This is because the Messiah Jesus is the one who died. Furthermore, he is the one whom God made alive again. He is also at the place of highest honor next to God, and he even pleads for our sake. 35 Surely no one can make Jesus stop loving us! If people trouble us or distress us or persecute us, or if we are hungry or naked or in danger, or if people kill us with swords, surely none of those things can make Jesus stop loving us! 36 This is what God meant when he said in the Scriptures, "They constantly kill us because of you, God. They consider us to be like sheep for them to slaughter." 37 However, he who loved us enables us to completely overcome all of these things that might happen to us. 38 In fact, God has persuaded me that none of these things—whether being dead, or what happens while we are alive, or angels, or demons who rule, or things that are happening to us, or things that will happen to us, or powerful demons, 39 or what is above us, or what is below us, or anything else that God created—can stop God from loving us! God loves us because we are united to the Messiah Jesus, our Lord!

9 1 I speak what is true as one whom God has united with the Messiah. I do not speak what is false. The Holy Spirit confirms what my conscience testifies within myself when I say 2 that I grieve very greatly and constantly! 3 I do so because I truly wish that God would curse me and completely alienate me from Jesus the Messiah for my fellow kinsmen to be saved! They are physically related to me. 4 These kinsmen of mine are the Israelites. They are those whom God spiritually adopted. God allowed them to experience how glorious he is. God made covenants with them. God gave them his laws. God gave them the way to worship him. God also made promises to them. 5 Our Jewish forefathers Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob were Israelites. The Messiah is also one of them, as someone physically related to them. The Messiah rules over everything. He is the blessed God forever. May it be so!

6 Yet God has not failed to do what he promised to the Israelites. This is true because not all people who have physically descended from Israel are true Israelites. 7 It is also not true that all those who physically descended from Abraham are Abraham's true offspring. Rather, as God says to Abraham in the Scriptures, "I will identify your true offspring through those who descend from Isaac." 8 In other words, the people who only physically descended from Abraham are not God's spiritual children. Rather, those who became God's spiritual children as a result of what God promised are regarded as Abraham's true spiritual offspring. 9 Indeed, this is what God promised would happen when he said in the Scriptures, "At a set time, I will come. As a result, Sarah will give birth to a son." 10 This is not the only promise God made. But God made a promise also when Rebekah became pregnant by this same man, Isaac. He is the ancestor of us Israelites. 11 Indeed, God chose only one of her two sons even though she had not yet born them and they had not yet done anything right or wrong. God did this in order that what he had previously planned with regard to choosing people would happen. 12 God did not choose only one of her sons because of what he did. Rather, it was because God summons those whom he chooses. This is why God told Rebekah in the Scriptures, "Your older son will become a slave to your younger son." 13 This is what God meant when he said in the Scriptures, "I love the younger son Jacob, but I emphatically reject the older son Esau."

14 Someone might say, "If what you have said is true, then surely God must be unrighteous!" Then I would say, "Of course not!" 15 We know that God is truly righteous because God told Moses in the Scriptures, "I will be merciful to whomever I want to be merciful. I will be compassionate to whomever I want to be compassionate." 16 Therefore, who receives God's mercy does not depend on how much someone desires to receive it. Who receives God's mercy also does not depend on how much effort someone exerts. Rather, it depends on what God wants. He is the one who is merciful. 17 Indeed, this is what God told Pharaoh in the Scriptures, "I allowed you to become king in Egypt for this exact reason: in order that I could use you to exhibit how powerful I am. I also allowed you to become king in order that I will be famous all over the world." 18 Therefore, God is merciful to whomever he wants to be merciful. But he makes stubborn whomever he wants to become stubborn.

19 As a result of what I have said, one of you may tell me, "If what you have said is true, then surely God should not blame people for doing what they do! God should not do that because no one can ever stop him from doing whatever he wants to do!" 20 Then I would say, "You mere human! You who argue with God are truly not worthy to do so! Who God has made surely must not say to God who made him, 'You should not have made me to be like this!'" 21 God can surely do whatever he wants to do with what he has made. In the same way, someone who makes containers can do whatever he wants to do with his materials. From the same material he can make both containers for special use and containers for ordinary use. 22 Now, you should surely not argue with God because he very patiently endured those people whom he would punish and had prepared to destroy eternally. He endured them because he wanted to show how angry he is and to reveal how powerful he is. 23 God also endures those whom he will punish in order to reveal how abundantly glorious he is to those people to whom he will be merciful. God has previously arranged to glorify these people eternally. 24 We are also among those people to whom God is merciful and whom God has summoned. God summons people from among Jewish people and even from among non-Jewish people. 25 In the same way, God also told Hosea in the Scriptures, "I will give the name 'My people' to people who were not my people. I will also give the name 'Loved one' to the person whom I did not love."

26 God also told Hosea, "Then it will happen, in the exact same location where I previously told them, 'You are not my people,' I will give them the name, 'Children of God who lives.'"

27 Indeed, elsewhere in the Scriptures Isaiah shouts out about the people of Israel, "Even though there were as many Israelites as there are grains of sand along the seashore, God will refrain from punishing only a few of them. 28 This is because the Lord will fully and swiftly accomplish what he promised to do on the earth."

29 It is also just like Isaiah previously said in the Scriptures, "Unless the Lord, who rules over angel armies, had preserved offspring for us Israelites, he would have utterly destroyed us like he destroyed the cities of Sodom and Gomorrah."

30 Since these things are true, we should surely say that although the nations are not trying to be righteous, they became righteous. However, they became righteous by trusting God. 31 By contrast, the people of Israel tried to obey the laws God gave them in order to become righteous. But they could not become righteous by obeying those laws. 32 The reason why the people of Israel could not become righteous is that they did not try to become righteous by trusting God. Instead, they tried to become righteous by working for it. Because of this the Messiah offended them when he came. It is as if the Messiah is a stone that causes them to trip. 33 This is what God meant when he had Isaiah write in the Scriptures, "Pay attention! I am placing in Jerusalem someone who is like a stone that trips people and a rock that offends people. But God will not humiliate anyone who trusts in that person."

10 1 My fellow believers, I strongly desire that God will save the Israelites. I also pray for him to save them! 2 This is because I personally confirm that they are zealous about God. However, they are not zealous based on fully knowing God. 3 This is because they are not aware of how God makes people righteous, and they try to make themselves righteous. This is why they refuse to subject themselves to the way God makes people righteous. 4 They were wrong to try to make themselves righteous, because Jesus the Messiah has ended the laws that God gave the Jews. Christ did this in order for God to make righteous anyone who trusts in Jesus.

5 Indeed, this is what Moses wrote in the Scriptures about being righteous by obeying the laws God gave the Jews: "The person who obeys all God's laws perfectly will live eternally by doing so." 6 However, this is what Moses said in the Scriptures about people becoming righteous by trusting in God, "Do not say to yourselves, 'Surely no one can go up to heaven!'" (This refers to trying to make the Messiah come down to the earth.) 7 Moses also said not to say, "Surely no one can go down into the bottomless pit!" (This refers to trying to make the Messiah become alive again after he had died.) 8 However, Moses also said this in the Scriptures about people becoming righteous by trusting in God, "You can easily know what God said. You can proclaim it and know it personally." This refers to what God said about trusting in him. This is what we believers in the Messiah keep announcing. 9 What we keep announcing is that God will save any of you who verbally acknowledges that Jesus is the Lord over all things and personally trusts that God made Jesus become alive again after he had died. 10 This is true because God makes righteous anyone who personally trusts in Jesus, and he saves anyone who verbally acknowledges that Jesus is the Lord. 11 Indeed, this is what God said in the Scriptures, "God will not humiliate anyone who trusts in that person." 12 Indeed, the Lord Jesus does not discriminate between Jewish people and non-Jewish people. This is because Jesus is the same Lord who rules over everyone. He generously blesses all people who call out to him to save them. 13 Indeed, Joel wrote in the Scriptures, "God will save all people who call out to the Lord to save them."

14 So, people certainly will not call out for the Lord Jesus to save them if they do not trust in him. And people certainly will not trust in Jesus if they have not heard about him. And people certainly will not hear about Jesus if someone does not proclaim to them who he is. 15 And certainly people would not proclaim to other people who Jesus is unless someone sends them out! This is what Isaiah meant when he wrote in the Scriptures, "It is a beautiful thing when people go and declare to other people the good news about good things!" 16 However, not all Jews accepted the good news about Jesus. Indeed, this is what Isaiah meant when he said in the Scriptures, "Lord, no one trusts what we say!" 17 So then, a person can only trust in Jesus by hearing about him. And a person can only hear about Jesus through hearing the message that is about the Messiah. 18 However, this is what I say, "The Jews most definitely heard the message!" It is a fact. As David wrote in the Scriptures, "The heavenly bodies are like witnesses and everyone throughout the entire world could hear what they said."

19 This is also what I say, "The people of Israel most definitely understood the message!" God first said through Moses in the Scriptures, "I will personally make you envious and angry by using a nation that does not belong to me and does not even know me." 20 Moreover, God quite boldly declared through Isaiah in the Scriptures, "I revealed myself to those non-Jewish people who were not interested in knowing me and did not even ask about me."

21 However, God told the people of Israel in the Scriptures, "I am always inviting you to know me, but you constantly disobey and oppose me!"

11 1 Since these things are true, this is what I say, "God certainly has not rejected his people, the Israelites!" Of course not! I know this is true because I too am one of the Israelites. I descended from Abraham. More specifically, I descended from the tribe that descended from Benjamin. 2 God did not discard his people. They are the people whom he chose in advance.

You certainly are aware of what the Prophet Elijah said in the Scriptures when he appealed to God against the people of Israel! 3 Elijah said, "Lord, the people of Israel murdered all of your prophets except for me! They demolished all of your altars! I am the very last prophet who is still alive! Now, they are trying to kill me too!" 4 However, this is how God replied to Elijah,
"I have kept alive 7,000 men for my purposes. These men have not worshipped the false god Baal." 5 So, similarly, at this time some faithful Israelites also remain. This is because God has graciously chosen them to remain. 6 Yet because God chooses his people based on how gracious he is, God does not choose his people based on what they do. If God chose people based on what they do, then how gracious he is would not really be gracious.

7 So this is what we should conclude: Although the people of Israel keep trying to make themselves righteous, they cannot do so. Instead, those whom God graciously chose from them became righteous. But God made stubborn those people of Israel whom he did not graciously choose. 8 This is exactly what God meant when he wrote in the Scriptures, "God caused the people of Israel to not think properly. Until this present day, God has made them completely unable to understand how to become righteous." 9 David also stated in the Scriptures, "O God, make the luxurious way they live punish them completely like a hunter catches an animal in a net or trap! Make the luxurious way they live cause them to sin and pay them back for sinning!

10 Make them unable to understand! Make them suffer like slaves forever!"

11 Since these things are true, this is what I say, "The Jewish people were certainly not offended in order that God would completely reject them!" Of course not! Rather, God saves non-Jewish people because the Jewish people disobeyed him. This happened in order for God to make the Jewish people envious of non-Jewish people who know him. 12 Indeed, God used how the Jewish people disobeyed him and failed to make themselves righteous to abundantly bless people from all the nations in the whole world. So, when the complete amount of faithful Jewish people become righteous, there will be even greater blessings!

13 But now I am speaking to you non-Jewish people who trust in Jesus. God indeed made me his representative to non-Jewish people. Therefore, I show how glorious is what I do to minister to non-Jewish people. 14 If possible, I want to make those who I am physically related to, the Jews, envious of the non-Jewish people who know God, so that God will save some of them. 15 Indeed, God is reconciling with people in the world as a result of him rejecting the Jewish people. So, when God accepts the Jewish people, it will result in God making alive those who are dead. 16 Indeed, because the ancestors of the Jewish people belong to God, just like the first portion of a lump of dough belongs to God, all the Jewish people belong to God, just like that whole lump of dough belongs to God. Also, because the ancestors of the Jewish people belonged to God, just like the root of an olive tree belongs to God, all the Jewish people belong to God, just like the branches of that same tree belong to God.

17 Indeed, God has removed some of the Jewish people from his people, as a farmer breaks unfruitful branches off of an olive tree. But, God has made you non-Jewish people who trust in Jesus part of his people, as a farmer grafts wild olive branches into a cultivated tree. You also share together in benefitting from being part of God's people, as grafted branches share in the nutrition in the olive tree root. 18 Therefore, you non-Jewish people who trust in Jesus must not boast against the Jewish people whom God removed, even though they are like broken off branches! If you do boast, you must realize that you indeed do not sustain the Jewish people. Rather, they sustain you, as the root sustains the branches! 19 So then, you might say, "God removed some of the Jewish people from his people, as a farmer breaks unfruitful branches off of a tree. God did this in order that he could join me to his people, as a farmer grafts a branch into a tree." 20 I would reply by saying that what you said is correct. God removed some of the Jewish people from being his people, as a farmer breaks off unfruitful branches because they were unfaithful. However, you non-Jewish people who trust in Jesus remain part of God's people by trusting in him. Do not arrogantly think that you are better than unbelieving Jewish people! Rather, fear God! 21 You should fear God because he did not show pity to the faithless Jewish people, who are like natural branches. So, he will not show pity to you non-Jewish people if you stop trusting in Jesus!

22 Since this is true, pay attention to how kind and severe God can be! God acts severely toward those who stop trusting in him. However, God will act kindly toward you non-Jewish people who trust in Jesus if you continue accepting how kind he is. But, if you do not do this, God will reject you, like a farmer cuts an unfruitful branch off of a tree! 23 However, if those faithless Jewish people believe in Jesus, God will allow them to rejoin his people, just as a farmer grafts branches into a tree. This is because God is powerful enough to rejoin the Jewish people to his people. 24 Indeed, God removed you non-Jewish people who trust in Jesus from the nations and joined you to his people, as a farmer cuts off a branch from a naturally wild olive tree and grafts it into a cultivated olive tree, even though doing so is not natural. Since this is true, God will certainly join Israelites back into his people, just as a farmer grafts a naturally cultivated olive branch back into its own tree.

25 I say this because I really want you, my non-Jewish fellow believers, to know what God had previously hidden from people, so that you do not become arrogant. God had previously hidden from people the fact that some of the people of Israel will stubbornly oppose him until all the non-Jewish people God has chosen have joined his people. 26 Then, in the same way, God will save all of the people of Israel. This is what Isaiah meant when he wrote in the Scriptures, "God will send from Jerusalem someone to rescue his people. That man will make the descendants of Jacob stop being ungodly."

27 God says, "This is the agreement that I will make with the descendants of Jacob, when I forgive them for the sinful things that they have done."

28 With regard to Jewish people rejecting the good news, they are enemies of God for your benefit. However, with regard to God choosing Jewish people, God loves them for the sake of what he promised their ancestors. 29 This is true because God does not revoke the things he graciously gives. He also does not revoke the people whom he summons to be his people.
30 Indeed, it is just as you non-Jewish people who trust in Jesus used to disobey God, but now God has been merciful to you because the Jewish people disobeyed him. 31 In the same way, the Jewish people also are now disobeying God because God has been merciful to you non-Jewish people. This happened in order for God to now also be merciful to them. 32 Indeed, God allowed everyone to disobey him in order to be merciful to them.

33 God is so very wealthy, wise, and knowledgeable! No one can fully understand what he does! 34 Indeed, as Isaiah wrote, "No one could ever comprehend what the Lord thinks or advise him!" 35 Furthermore, "No one could ever give God anything that would cause God to owe him something!"

36 No one can do these things, because everything came from God, exists by God, and exists for God. I pray that everyone will glorify him forever. May this truly be so!

12 1 So then, considering everything that I have told you, I exhort you fellow believers, based on how compassionate God is: Devote yourselves to God, as if you were living animals someone offers to God. Be holy and please God. Doing so is the reasonable way for you to serve God. 2 Do not change yourselves to be like the sinful people who live at the current time.
Rather, let God change the way you behave by changing the way you think in order that you can test and prove what God wants you to do. God wants you to do what is good, pleasing, and flawless.

3 Indeed, based on how God has kindly authorized me to represent him, I am telling every one of you to not think you are better than you really are. Rather, think properly about yourselves, according to the amount of trusting in God that God has apportioned to each one of you. 4 You must think properly about yourselves because, in the same way that a human body has many parts that all function for different purposes, 5 so also, we many believers in the Messiah are united to the Messiah as one group. Each one of us is united to each other like the individual parts of a human body are united. 6 Yet we believers in the Messiah have received different spiritual abilities in accordance with what God has kindly given to us. If God has enabled you to prophesy, then prophesy in accordance with the amount of trusting in God that God has apportioned to you. 7 If God has enabled you to serve, then you should serve others. If God has enabled you to teach others, then you should teach others. 8 If God has enabled you to encourage others, then you should encourage others. If God has enabled you to give what you have to others, then you should generously give what you have to others. If God has enabled you to lead others, then you should lead others diligently. If God has enabled you to be merciful, then you should cheerfully be merciful.

9 Love each other genuinely. Detest what is wicked. Fervently retain what is good. 10 Be affectionate toward each other in regard to loving fellow believers. Be the first to honor other fellow believers. 11 Do not be lazy, but be diligent. Be sincerely enthusiastic. Serve the Lord.
12 Rejoice because you are confident in the Lord. Be patient when you suffer. Pray persistently. 13 Share what you have to provide what God's people need. Find opportunities to welcome others into your home. 14 Ask God to bless the people who mistreat you. Ask God to bless them rather than curse them. 15 Rejoice along with those people who are rejoicing. Cry along with those who are crying. 16 Be as concerned for each other as you are for yourselves.

Do not think arrogantly about yourselves. Rather, associate with humble people. Do not be arrogant. 17 Do not do something evil to someone who has done something evil to you. Think carefully about doing things that everyone considers to be good. 18 Live peacefully with everyone whenever it is possible for you to do so. 19 Fellow believers whom I love, do not retaliate when people do something evil against you. Rather, let God punish them. I say this because Moses wrote in the Scriptures, "The Lord says, 'I will retaliate when people do something evil against you. I will punish them according to what they have done.'" 20 Rather than permitting us to retaliate, God instructed us in the Scriptures, "Feed your enemy if that person is hungry. Give your enemy something to drink if that person is thirsty. Do this because when you do so, your enemy will feel ashamed, as if you were piling up burning coals on top of that person's head." 21 In other words, do not let what is evil defeat you by causing you to do what is evil. Rather, defeat what is evil by doing what is good.

13 1 Every one of you must submit yourselves to those whom God has authorized to govern you. This is because no one can govern unless God authorizes them to do so. God has instituted the existing governments. 2 So people who resist those whom God has authorized to govern are opposing what God has commanded. God will punish those people who oppose those whom he has authorized to govern. 3 Indeed, the people who rule are not supposed to terrify those people who do what is good. Rather, they are supposed to terrify those people who do what is evil. If you do not want to fear those whom God authorizes to rule, then do what is good and those who rule will commend you for doing so. 4 This is because the people whom God authorizes to rule serve God for your benefit. But if you do what is evil, you should be afraid, because God has authorized those people who rule to punish people for a good reason. Indeed, those people who rule serve God by avenging what is evil in order to punish anyone who practices what is evil. 5 Consequently, you must submit yourselves to those people whom God authorizes to rule. You must do this not only because they can punish you, but also because you know that to disobey them is to disobey God! 6 Indeed, you also pay taxes because of these things. You also pay taxes because those people whom God authorizes to rule serve God. They devote themselves to serving by governing. 7 Give to everyone what you owe them: Pay taxes to whom you owe taxes. Pay fees to whom you owe fees. Fear those people whom you should fear. Honor those people whom you should honor.

8 Do not owe anything to anyone. Rather, continue to love other people who believe in the Messiah as if you owe it to them. Do this because someone who loves another person accomplishes what God required in the laws he gave the Jews. 9 This is true because God commanded these things in his laws when he said, “Do not have sexual relations with someone whom you did not marry. Do not murder. Do not rob people. Do not lust for what belongs to other people.” You could summarize anything else that God commands in the laws he gave the Jews with this other thing God commanded: “Love other people in the same way you love yourself.” 10 When you love other people, you do not do evil things to them. This is why loving other people accomplishes what God required in the laws he gave the Jews.

11 Do these things because you know what time it is. It is already the time for you to be spiritually alert because the time when Jesus will return to finally save us is now closer than when we began trusting in him. 12 In the same way that the night ends just before the day begins, the time of this sinful world is almost over, and Jesus will return soon. So, we must stop doing what is evil, which is like what people do when it is dark. Instead, we must oppose what is evil by doing what is good, which is like a soldier puts on his armor to fight the enemy during the day. 13 We must behave appropriately, as if it were daytime and people could see what we do. We must not celebrate drunkenly or get drunk at all. We must not do any unrestrained sexually immoral acts at all. We must not quarrel with others or be jealous of others. 14 Rather than doing those things, act like the Lord Jesus the Messiah would act. Do not concern yourselves with anything that is related to what your sinful self wants to do.

14 1 Welcome any fellow believer in the Messiah who is immature in how they believe. Do not welcome them in order to argue with them about matters of opinion. 2 There are some people who are convinced that they can eat any kind of food. But the immature believer in the Messiah thinks that they can only eat vegetables. 3 The believer in the Messiah who eats every kind of food must not scorn his fellow believer who does not eat every kind of food. The believer in the Messiah who does not eat every kind of food also must not judge his fellow believer who eats every kind of food. This is because God has welcomed both of them. 4 You should not judge your fellow believer, who is like a slave belonging to another master. He either pleases or does not please his master, according to how the master judges. Yet God will make him pleasing to himself because the Lord can do so.

5 Some people consider certain days to be special, while other people consider all days to be the same. Each person must be completely certain that what they do honors God. 6 The person who thinks certain days are special does so in order to honor the Lord. The person who eats every kind of food does so in order to honor the Lord. This is because that person is thankful to God. The person who refuses to eat certain foods does so in order to honor the Lord. That person is thankful to God as well. 7 This is true because not one of us believers in the Messiah lives only to please himself, and not one of us dies only to please himself. 8 Indeed, while we believers in the Messiah live, we live to please the Lord. When we die, we die to please the Lord. So then, whether we live or die, we belong to the Lord. 9 Indeed, this is why the Messiah Jesus died and became alive again: in order to become Lord over those who are dead and those who are alive.

10 As for you, those of you who judge your fellow believers must not do so! You also must not scorn your fellow believers! Do not do these things because one day God will judge all of us who believe in the Messiah. 11 Indeed, Isaiah wrote in the Scriptures, "The Lord says this oath, 'As certainly as I am alive, it is just as certain that everyone will worship me. And everyone will acknowledge to me that I am God.'"

12 Therefore, each one of us who believes in the Messiah will certainly answer to God for whatever we do while we are alive.

13 So we must stop judging other believers. Instead, we must resolve not to do anything that could tempt our fellow believers to sin. 14 I am absolutely convinced by the Lord Jesus that no food is inherently sinful for believers in the Messiah to eat. If someone regards some food as sinful to eat, then it is only sinful for that person to eat it. 15 Do not tempt fellow believers to sin because, if you grieve your fellow believer by eating what that person considers to be sinful to eat, you are not acting in a loving manner anymore. Do not cause a fellow believer to stop trusting in God and become ruined eternally because of what you want to eat! The Messiah died to save that person! 16 So then, do not do anything that will cause anyone to slander the good things that God has given you. 17 Do not do this, because eating and drinking do not characterize God's kingdom. Rather, being righteous, peaceful, and joyful through the Holy Spirit characterizes God's kingdom. 18 Indeed, any believer who serves the Messiah by doing these things greatly pleases God, and other people will also approve of that person.

19 Therefore, we must eagerly try to live peacefully with other believers and help each other become spiritually mature. 20 Do not ruin what God has done because you want to eat certain foods! God permits us to eat all kinds of food. However, it is sinful for someone to eat certain foods if doing so tempts your fellow believer to sin. 21 It is better not to eat any meat, or drink any wine, or do anything that could tempt your fellow believer to sin, [or that could offend that person or cause that person to remain spiritually immature]. 22 Keep what you believe that God permits you to do between you and God. The person who does not feel guilty concerning what he believes to be right is blessed. 23 By contrast, God judges someone who considers eating certain foods to be sinful and eats those foods. This is because that person did not act according to what that person believes is right. A person who does anything that is not according to what that person believes is right is sinning.

15 1 Indeed, we spiritually mature believers in the Messiah must support our fellow believers in the Messiah who are spiritually immature. We must not only do what pleases us. 2 Each one of us believers in the Messiah must do what pleases his fellow believers in order to do what is good for them, and in order to help them become spiritually mature. 3 For instance, not even the Messiah Jesus pleased himself! Rather, he lived to please others. This is what David meant when he wrote in the Scriptures about the Messiah saying to God, "When people insult you, they also insult me!" 4 Indeed, the prophets previously wrote everything in the Scriptures in order to teach us. They also wrote the Scriptures in order to make us confident through what the Scriptures say that helps us endure and encourages us.

5 I pray that our patient and encouraging God will allow you to live harmoniously with each other the way the Messiah Jesus did. 6 I pray that you will live harmoniously with each other in order that you might be united when you glorify God. He is the Father of our Lord Jesus the Messiah.

7 Consequently, welcome your fellow believers in the Messiah in the same way that the Messiah Jesus also welcomed you in order to glorify God! 8 Indeed, I, Paul, am telling you that the Messiah Jesus serves the circumcised Jews because of how trustworthy God is. He did this in order to secure what God had promised to the Jewish forefathers Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob. 9 Jesus also did this in order for the nations to glorify God because he is so merciful. This is what David meant when he wrote in the Scriptures, “So I will proclaim who you are when I am among the nations, and I will praise you by singing songs.” 10 Again, Moses said in the Scriptures, “All you nations, celebrate along with God’s people!” 11 And also in the Scriptures someone said, “All you nations, praise the Lord! All you people groups, commend him!” 12 The Prophet Isaiah also said in the Scriptures, “The one who descends from David’s father Jesse will come. He will begin to rule over the nations. The nations will become confident because of him.”

13 I pray that the God who makes people confident will cause you to feel exceedingly joyful and peaceful by trusting in him! I pray that God will do this in order for you to be exceedingly confident by the Holy Spirit enabling you.

14 My fellow believers, God has also persuaded me personally that each of you are exceedingly good, exceedingly knowledgeable of many things, and even able to teach other people. 15 In this letter I have written to you believers in the Messiah in a bold manner about some things in order to remind you of them. I have done this because God has kindly authorized me to do so. 16 God did this in order for me to serve the Messiah Jesus among non-Jewish people by preaching the good news from God as if I were a priest. I do this in order for the non-Jewish people who trust in Jesus to be like something offered to God that pleases him, and that the Holy Spirit has set apart for him.

17 So, as someone who is united with the Messiah Jesus, I have good reasons to boast about what God is doing through me! 18 Indeed, I will only be so bold as to speak about what the Messiah has done through me that has led to the nations obediently trusting in God’s good news! The Messiah did this through what I said and did. 19 The Messiah also did this through powerful and wonderful miracles as God’s Holy Spirit powerfully enabled me! As a result, I have completed proclaiming the good news about the Messiah all the way around from Jerusalem to the province of Illyricum. 20 And so, I aspire to preach the good news where people have never heard about the Messiah Jesus. I desire this in order to not interfere with someone else’s work, as if I were building something where another person had already laid the foundation. 21 Rather, I preach the good news to those who have never heard it. This is what Isaiah meant when he wrote in the Scriptures, “Those people whom no one told about him will perceive who he is. Those people who have not heard about him will comprehend who he is.”

22 That also hindered me over and over again from visiting all of you at Rome. 23 Yet at the present time I have nowhere left to go in these areas to proclaim the good news. I also have deeply desired to visit you for many years. 24 So whenever I go to the province of Spain, I truly expect to visit you while passing through Rome. I also expect you to help me continue my journey to Spain after I first enjoy being with you for some time. 25 Yet, at the present time I am going to Jerusalem in order to serve God's people there. 26 I am doing this because the believers in the provinces of Macedonia and Achaia were glad to give money to help the poor people of God who live in Jerusalem. 27 In fact, those believers were glad, and they should help the poor believers in Jerusalem. This is because the non-Jewish believers have spiritually benefited from the Jewish believers. So, the non-Jewish believers should also serve the Jewish believers by providing what they physically need. 28 So then, after I finish this task and safely deliver this money to the poor believers in Jerusalem, I will pass through your city on my way to Spain. 29 I am certain that the Messiah will fully bless us when I visit you!

30 Fellow believers, I appeal to you based on our Lord Jesus the Messiah and how the Holy Spirit has enabled us to love each other: Fervently pray to God with me and for me! 31 Pray that God will rescue me from the Jews in the province of Judea who do not believe in Jesus.
Pray also that God's people in Jerusalem will accept the money that I give them for the poor believers there. 32 Pray also that I can joyfully visit you as God wants, and we may refresh each other. 33 Finally, I pray that the God who makes us peaceful will be with all of you. May it be so!

16 1 I, Paul, recommend to you our fellow believer whose name is Phoebe. She also serves the group of believers that meets in the city of Cenchrea. 2 I recommend Phoebe to you in order for you to accept her as a fellow believer in the Lord Jesus. Accept her in a way that is appropriate for God's people. I also recommend her to you in order for you to help her in whatever way and with anything she might need from you. Do this because she has helped many people, including me personally.

3 Say hello to Priscilla and her husband Aquila. They have worked with me to tell people about the Messiah Jesus. 4 They risked the Romans executing them in order to save my life.
Both I and all the groups of believers among the nations are thankful for them. 5 Also, say hello to the group of believers that meets in the home of Priscilla and Aquila. Say hello to Epaenetus, whom I love. He is the first person from the province of Asia Minor to believe in the Messiah Jesus. 6 Say hello to Mary. She has labored a lot for your sake. 7 Say hello to Andronicus and Junia. They are my fellow Jews, and we were in prison together. Those whom Jesus sent to represent him know them very well. God united them to the Messiah before he did so to me. 8 Say hello to Ampliatus. I love him as a fellow believer in the Lord Jesus. 9 Say hello to Urbanus. He works with us to tell people about the Messiah Jesus. Also say hello to Stachys, whom I love. 10 Say hello to Apelles. The Messiah Jesus has approved him. Say hello to those believers who live in the household of Aristobulus. 11 Say hello to my fellow Jew Herodion. Say hello to those whom God united to the Lord Jesus who live in the household of Narcissus. 12 Say hello to Tryphaena and Tryphosa. These ladies labor to tell people about the Lord Jesus. Say hello to Persis, whom I love. She has labored a lot to tell people about the Lord Jesus. 13 Say hello to Rufus. The Lord Jesus chose him. Also say hello to his mother. She has been like a mother to me as well. 14 Say hello to Asyncritus, Phlegon, Hermes, Patrobas, Hermas, and our fellow believers who meet together with them. 15 Say hello to Philologus and Julia, Nereus and his sister, and Olympas. Also say hello to all God's people who meet together with them. 16 Say hello to each other in a loving way. All of the groups of believers who belong to the Messiah in this area say hello to you!

17 My fellow believers, I exhort you to look out for the people who are causing believers to argue with each other and tempting them to sin, which contradicts what we have taught you. Stay away from them! 18 Indeed, people like this are not serving our Lord Jesus the Messiah! Rather, they only serve their own appetites. By speaking so eloquently and flatteringly, they trick the minds of people who do not suspect them of teaching what is false. 19 I tell you these things because believers in many places have heard about how you obey God. As a result, I am overjoyed because of you! But I also desire that you act wisely with regard to what is good and remain innocent with regard to what is bad. 20 The God who makes us peaceful will quickly make you victorious over Satan, as if you were tramplinghim under your feet! I pray that our Lord Jesus the Messiah will be gracious to you!

21 Timothy, who works with me to tell people about Jesus, says hello to you. My fellow Jews, Lucius, Jason, and Sosipater, also say hello to you. 22 I am Tertius, and I am writing this letter as Paul dictates it to me. I say hello to you as a fellow believer in the Lord Jesus. 23 Gaius says hello to you. He hosts me and the whole group of believers who meet here. Erastus controls the money for this city. He and Quartus, our fellow believer, say hello to you. 24 18 [I pray that our Lord Jesus the Messiah will be gracious to all of you! May it be so!]

25 I pray that everyone will glorify God. He is the one who can strengthen you spiritually based on the good news that I proclaim about Jesus the Messiah. What I proclaim is based on the mysterious plan that God revealed but previously concealed from people for a very long time. 26 However, now God has revealed that mysterious plan. He has made it known through his prophets who wrote about it in the Scriptures. They did this according to what the God who lives forever commanded in order that all the nations would obey God by trusting in Jesus the Messiah. 27 God alone is wise. I pray that everyone will glorify him through Jesus the Messiah forever! May it be so!

1 Corinthians

1 1 I, Paul, write this letter to you, and Sosthenes our fellow believer is with me. God chose to send me to represent the Messiah Jesus, because that is what God wanted. 2 I send this letter to you who are part of the groups of believers belonging to God, which are in the city of Corinth. God has set you apart for himself by uniting you to the Messiah Jesus, and he has chosen you to be his own people. You are part of the group of believers who worship our Lord Jesus the Messiah in many countries and cities. Jesus the Messiah is their Lord and our Lord. 3 May God, who is our Father, and the Lord Jesus the Messiah continue to be kind to you and make you peaceful.

4 I often thank my God about you. I do this because I know how God is acting kindly towards you by uniting you to the Messiah Jesus. 5 When I say that God has acted kindly towards you, I mean that he has abundantly blessed you by uniting you to the Messiah in every area of your lives, including whatever you say and whatever you know. 6 God has blessed you because he has proved to you that what we told you about the Messiah was true. 7 God has done these things for you so that you are completely equipped spiritually during this time when you confidently expect our Lord Jesus the Messiah to return. 8 Just as he proved our message to be true, God will also prove your trust in the Messiah true until your earthly lives end. Because of this, he will judge you not guilty when our Lord Jesus the Messiah returns to earth. 9 God always does what he promises, and he is the one who has specially chosen you to share everything with his Son, Jesus the Messiah, our Lord.

10 My fellow believers, as one whom our Lord Jesus the Messiah has authorized, I appeal to you, asking that all of you agree with one another. I ask that you do not split up into rival groups but that you reconcile with each other by agreeing in what you think and by agreeing in what you decide to do. 11 I appeal to you because some members of Chloe's household have talked to me about you, my fellow believers. They said that you quarrel among yourselves. 12 What I am talking about is how many of you are claiming that you belong to Paul's group, for example, or that you belong to Apollos' group, or that you belong to Cephas' group, or that you belong to the Messiah's group. 13 No one has split the Messiah into pieces, so you also should not split into pieces. No one crucified Paul in your behalf, and no one baptized you so that you belong to Paul. 14 I give thanks to God that I baptized no people who belong to your group except for two individuals: Crispus and Gaius. 15 Because I baptized so few of you, no person is able to claim that I baptized you, so that you belong to my group. 16 Oh yes, I remember that I also baptized those who live in the house of Stephanas. Other than that, I do not think that I baptized any other people in your group. 17 The reason I baptized so few of you is that the Messiah did not commission me to baptize people. Rather, he commissioned me to proclaim the good news. I do this without using words that are wise by human standards. That way, I do not destroy the power of the message about the Messiah dying on the cross.

18 I do not use wise words, because the message that I proclaim about the death of the Messiah on the cross sounds foolish to people who are bringing destruction on themselves. However, God works powerfully in this message for us whom he is rescuing. 19 You can tell that this is true, because the prophet Isaiah wrote,

> "I will render useless the wise things that wise people think, > and I will make the intelligent things that intelligent people think worthless."

20 So then, wise people are not really wise, and experts are not really experts, and people who are good at arguing are not really good at it, as they all belong to the current world system. In fact, God has shown that what seems to be wise in this current world is not wise at all. 21 Here is how God has done this. Just as God wisely chose, unbelievers did not get to know God by means of their wise thinking. So, God decided to rescue those who have faith in the Messiah by means of the foolish message that believers proclaim. 22 On the one hand, many Jewish people want to see powerful deeds. On the other hand, many Greek people search for wise thinking. 23 We, however, proclaim that the Messiah died on a cross. Many Jewish people find this message offensive, and many non-Jewish people think that this message is foolish. 24 We, however, whom God has chosen, whether we are Jewish people or Greek people, have learned that God works powerfully and wisely through this message about the Messiah. 25 This is because what God does that seems foolish is wiser than anything that humans do, and what God does that seems weak is stronger than anything that humans do.

26 For proof that this is so, think about the fact that God chose you the way you are, fellow believers. From a human perspective, most of you did not think wisely, do powerful deeds, or belong to important families. 27 Rather, God decided to use what seems foolish to humans to humble those who think wisely. God decided to use what seems weak to humans to humble those people and things that act powerfully. 28 God decided to use what seems unimportant to people and what people look down on. It is as if these things do not even exist, but God decided to use them to make the things that everyone knows about insignificant. 29 God did these things with the goal that no humans would say great things about themselves in God's sight. 30 It is God who has united you to the Messiah Jesus. By working through the Messiah, God has made us wise. He has declared us innocent, chosen us to be his own people, and delivered us from evil powers. 31 So, because God is the one who does all these things, we should do what the prophet Jeremiah wrote:

> "If people want to say great things about something, they should say those great things about the Lord."

2 1 My fellow believers, I also acted according to this pattern when I visited you and told you about what God has now revealed to us. I did not speak in more powerful ways than others do. I did not argue in wiser ways than others do. 2 I did this because I chose to speak and act as if the only things I understood while I was with you were Jesus the Messiah and how he died on the cross. 3 I also lived according to this pattern when I was staying with you. I was sick, I was afraid, and I frequently shivered and shook. 4 I did not speak wisely and persuasively according to human standards when I talked to you and shared my message with you. Instead, I proved that God's Spirit works powerfully through me when I shared my message. 5 I shared my message in this way in order that you might trust in God because he acts powerfully, not because humans spoke wise words to you.

6 Despite what I have said, we who proclaim the good news do speak wisely when we are with spiritually mature people. However, people who think only in human ways and people who rule right now do not think that we speak wisely. Soon, these people will no longer rule. 7 No, we speak wisely because we proclaim the things that God has revealed to us. God concealed these things until now, although he had already decided to do them before he created anything. He has done all of this so that he might honor us. 8 The people who rule right now did not know about these wise things. You can tell that they did not know, because they killed our glorious Lord on the cross. 9 Rather, how they acted fits with what the prophet Isaiah wrote:

> "God has ready for the people who love him > things that no one witnessed before > and things that no one heard about before > and things that no human even imagined before."

10 God has made these things known to us by the power of God's Spirit. God works by the power of his Spirit because God's Spirit explores all people and things. He even explores things about God that are very difficult to understand. 11 You can tell that God's Spirit explores everything about God, because everyone knows that only each human being understands everything about himself or herself. In the same way, only God's Spirit understands everything about God. 12 We did indeed receive the Spirit who comes from God. We did not receive a spirit that belongs to the current world. We received God's Spirit in order that we might understand everything that God has done for us. 13 These are the very things that we also talk about. We do not use words that humans wisely teach. Instead, we use words that the Spirit teaches, so that we explain spiritual truths with spiritual words. 14 Now, people who do not have God's Spirit reject the things that God's Spirit gives and teaches. They reject these things, because they think that they are foolish. They cannot know about the things that God's Spirit gives and teaches, because only people who have God's Spirit can judge rightly about them. 15 On the other hand, people who have God's Spirit can judge rightly about everything. However, no other person can judge rightly about them. 16 This fits with what the scripture says:

> "No human knows what the Lord is thinking.
> No human can teach him about anything."

We, however, can think the same things that the Messiah is thinking.

3 1 My fellow believers, when I visited you, I was unable to teach you in the way I would teach people who have God's Spirit. Rather, I had to teach you in the way I would teach people who think only in human ways. I had to do this because you believed in the Messiah in an immature way. 2 I taught you about things that are simple. I did not teach about things that are complex. I did this because you were not ready for complex teachings. In fact, you are still not ready for complex teachings. 3 I know that you are not ready for complex teachings, because you are still people who think only in human ways. Some of you are jealous of each other, and some of you are fighting with each other. When you do these things, it proves that you are people who think only in human ways and who act only in human ways. 4 Further, some of you are claiming that you belong to Paul's group, for example, or that you belong to Apollos's group. When you make claims like these, it proves that you are thinking and acting only in human ways.

5 You need to realize that Apollos and I, Paul, are just people who serve the Messiah. Each of us does what the Lord has assigned us to do. When we told you about the Messiah, you trusted in him, not in us. 6 God assigned me to proclaim the good news to you first. I was like someone who plants seeds. God assigned Apollos to proclaim even more about the good news to you. He was like someone who waters the seeds so that they grow. However, God himself enabled you to believe in and understand the good news. In the same way, he is the one who makes the plants grow. 7 You can see that the person who first proclaims the good news to people is not important. The person who proclaims even more about the good news to people is not important. These people are like those who plant the seeds and those who water the plants, since they too are not important. Instead, it is God who is important, because he enables people to believe in and understand the good news. In the same way, he is important because he causes the plants to grow. 8 In fact, the person who first proclaims the good news to people and the person who proclaims more about the good news to people have the same goal. They are like the person who plants the seeds and the person who waters the plants, who also have the same goal. God will reward people who do either task. He will reward them in a way that is appropriate for what they did. 9 We who proclaim the good news all work for God, but you belong to God. It is as if you were farmland that God owns, in which we planted and watered seeds. Indeed, it is as if you were a house that God owns.

10 God gave me the skills to wisely proclaim the good news to you first. I am like the construction boss who puts a foundation in the ground before building a house. Others, such as Apollos, proclaim more about the good news to you. They are like other builders who construct a house on top of that foundation. In the end, all the people who proclaim more about the good news should make sure that they proclaim it correctly. They should be like builders who construct a house the right way on top of a foundation. 11 No one can put a foundation in the ground if another person has already put it in the ground. So also, no one else can first proclaim the good news to you, because I already did that. What I proclaimed to you is what Jesus the Messiah accomplished. This message about Jesus is like the foundation of a house. 12 Builders can use many different building materials when they construct a house on its foundation. They can use more durable materials like gold, silver, and jewels, and less durable materials like lumber, grass, and straw. In the same way, some of those who proclaim more about the good news teach things that are more pleasing to God. Others teach things that are less pleasing to God. 13 On the day when the Messiah returns to judge everyone, he will reveal what kind of work each person has done. The quality of the materials that builders use to construct a building becomes clear when the building catches on fire. In a similar way, a judgment like fire will occur on the day when the Messiah returns. This judgment will show the quality of what those who proclaim more about the gospel have taught. 14 Any builders who constructed a building that survives a fire gain honor and money. In the same way, God will honor and reward all those who teach more about the good news in a way that God accepts when he judges everyone. 15 Any builders who constructed a building that fire consumes lose respect and money. However, the builders do not die in the fire, but they escape from the flames. In the same way, when he judges everyone, God will not honor or reward all those who teach more about the good news in a way that God does not accept. However, God will still accept these teachers despite the wrong things that they have taught.

16 You need to remember that you are like God's temple in Jerusalem because God is present among you like he was present in the temple. You need to remember that you are like a house in which God's Spirit lives because he is always present with you. 17 God will act against any person who acts against his temple. This is because God's temple belongs to him alone. Since you are like God's temple, God will act against any person who acts against you.

18 Do not believe what is not true about yourselves. You who consider yourselves to be wise according to human standards should become foolish according to human standards. In this way, you will really become wise people. 19 I speak these words because the things that humans consider to be wise are things that God considers to be foolish. You know that this is true because the author of the book of Job wrote,

> “God is the one who disrupts the clever schemes that wise people plan.”

20 Further, the author of a psalm wrote,

> “The Lord is aware of everything that wise people plan, and he knows that these plans will not succeed.”

21 Therefore, none of you should boast about how you follow other humans. I say this because you have everything, so boasting about following other humans is foolish. 22 You have leaders such as Paul, Apollos, and Peter. You have everything that God made, you do not fear when you live, and you can find comfort when you die. You have everything that exists now and everything that will exist in the future. Indeed, you have everything. 23 Further, the Messiah has you, and God has the Messiah.

4 1 I want people to think of us who proclaim the good news as those who serve the Messiah and who are in charge of proclaiming what God has now revealed to us. 2 Whenever a leader puts another person in charge, the leader requires that person to do his or her tasks faithfully. In the same way, God requires that we who proclaim the good news do our task faithfully. 3 I do not worry about what you or any other human authority decides about whether I have acted faithfully or not. In fact, I do not even worry about what I myself decide about whether I have acted faithfully or not. 4 In fact, I do not know about anything I have done wrong. However, what I know about myself does not prove that I have acted faithfully. Rather, it is the Lord who will decide whether I have acted faithfully or not. 5 So then, you should not finally decide about anything until the Lord comes back to judge everyone and everything. He will make clear what is now hidden, and he will show everyone what each person desires and plans. At that time, God will praise each person who has acted faithfully.

6 My fellow believers, I have talked in this way about myself and Apollos for your benefit. I want you to learn from our example that you should act only in ways that fit with what the authors of the Scriptures wrote. Then, nobody will speak great things about one leader and bad things about another leader. 7 Nobody has set you apart from every other believer. In fact, God has given to you every good thing that you have. Since these things are gifts from God, you should not say proudly that you yourself earned them.

8 You are acting as if you currently have everything that you need spiritually. You are acting as if you currently have more spiritual blessings than you need. You are acting as if you have currently begun to rule with Christ, even though we who proclaim the good news are not ruling with Christ now. Indeed, I wish that you really were ruling with him, in order that we who proclaim the good news could be ruling with you. 9 Rather than thinking that we rule with Christ now, I consider us apostles to be those whom God has appointed to suffer humiliation and to die. We suffer humiliation and die publicly, and everything that God has created, including spiritual beings and humans, can see us. 10 We seem to be foolish people because we serve the Messiah, but you think that you are wise people because God unites you to the Messiah. We seem to be people who do not have power or influence, but you think that you do have these things. You think that people praise you, but those people shame us. 11 Even now as I write this letter to you, we whom Christ has sent have often not had enough food or drink. We wear ragged clothing, and others repeatedly strike us. We constantly travel and do not return to a home. 12 We do manual labor to earn a living. When people speak badly to us, we say good things about them. When people hurt us because we serve the Messiah, we patiently live through it. 13 When people say bad things about us, we say encouraging words to them. From a human perspective, we are worthless, like filthy garbage that someone should throw away. All these things are true about us even now as I write this letter to you.

14 I do not include in my letter what I have just finished saying because I want to make you ashamed. Rather, I include these things because I want to admonish you, since you are like my own children, whom I love. 15 When I first preached the good news to you, and God united you to Jesus the Messiah, I became your spiritual father. So, even if you had a million teachers who helped you to live in union with the Messiah, I would still be the only spiritual father you have. 16 Because I am your spiritual father, I plead with you to imitate how I live. 17 Because I want you to imitate me, I had Timothy visit you. He is like my own child, and I love him. He faithfully serves the Messiah as one whom God has united to the Lord. He will teach you again about how I behave as one whom God has united to the Messiah Jesus. I instruct every church in every place that I visit to behave in these ways.

18 Some of you are saying great things about yourselves. These people act as if I were not about to visit you. 19 However, I will visit you very soon, as long as the Lord wants me to do so. I already know what these people who say great things about themselves claim. When I visit you, I will learn whether they are actually powerful or not. 20 I will do this because God's kingdom functions by God working powerfully through people, not by people saying great things. 21 When you choose how you will respond to what I am saying, you are also choosing how I will act when I visit. When I visit you, I can either harshly discipline you because you did not listen, or I can act gently and lovingly because you did listen.

5 1 I have learned that you are in fact allowing people from your group to have improper sex. Even those who do not worship God do not allow some of the things that you allow. The worst thing that I have learned is that a man from your group is having sex with his stepmother. 2 Despite this, you still say great things about yourselves instead of lamenting that sin. You should have lamented with the goal of expelling the man who committed this sexual sin. 3 You should expel him because I have already declared the man who did this evil thing to be guilty. Although I am not with you physically, I think about you and care about you. Therefore, when I declare this man to be guilty, it is as valid as if I were with you. 4 When you gather together, and I am thinking of you, we represent our Lord Jesus the Messiah. When you gather in this way, you should punish this man as our Lord Jesus authorizes you to do. 5 You should expel this man so that Satan rules over him. That will destroy his sinful parts, and then God will save him when the Lord returns.

6 Saying great things about yourselves is not the right thing to do. Surely you realize that one person doing evil things is like fermented dough. Even a little fermented dough makes a whole lump of dough fermented, and even one person doing evil things makes the whole church guilty. 7 Just as Jews remove the yeast from their houses during the Passover festival, so you should remove anyone who does evil things from your group. Then, you will be free of sin, just like fresh, unleavened dough is free of yeast. In fact, you live in a time that is like the festival of Passover. This is because the Messiah has died for you, just like the lamb that Jews sacrifice during the Passover festival represents how God delivered them. 8 Since the Messiah has died for us, let us act as if we were participating in the festival of Passover and remove the old leaven. We should get rid of the leaven, which stands for doing what is evil and wicked. Instead, we should eat unfermented bread, which stands for doing what is honest and trustworthy.

9 In the letter that I sent to you before this one, I told you not to keep company with people who act in sexually improper ways. 10 I did not mean that you should entirely disassociate with unbelieving people who act in sexually immoral ways, or with people who want more than they need or who cheat others, or with people who worship false gods. To avoid these kinds of people, you would need to get away from the entire world. That is not what I have commanded you to do. 11 Now, in this letter, I am telling you not to keep company with any person whom you call a fellow believer who is acting sinfully. This includes having improper sex, wanting more than one needs, worshiping other gods, abusing others with words, getting drunk, and cheating others. Do not have meals with a person who does any of these things. 12 I want you to act in this way only with fellow believers, because you and I do not need to decide whether someone who is not part of our group is guilty or innocent. Rather, you need to focus on deciding whether people who are part of your group are guilty or innocent. 13 Do not worry about people who are not part of your group because God is the one who decides whether they are guilty or innocent. You should focus on people who are part of your group because the scripture says,

"You must get rid of any evil person who is part of your group!"

6 1 When someone from your group quarrels with another person from your group, you should never settle the quarrel in a public court in front of people who do not believe. Rather, you should settle the quarrel in private among the people whom God has set apart for himself.
2 Surely you know that the people whom God has set apart for himself will decide whether all things and people that God has created are guilty or innocent. Since you will decide whether all these things and people are guilty or innocent, you can surely decide about small quarrels within your group. 3 You need to realize that we will decide whether angels are innocent or guilty. Since we will do that, we are certainly able to decide about disputes related to our current lives. 4 Therefore, whenever you quarrel with one another concerning your current lives, you should not choose people who are not part of your group of believers to decide who is guilty or innocent. 5 I include what I have just said in order to make you feel ashamed. Surely there are people in your group who are wise enough to be able to decide about disputes among fellow believers. 6 But instead, some believers among you accuse other believers in a legal court, and people who do not believe settle the dispute.

7 Because you have disputes with each other, you have already completely failed to follow Jesus. Rather than failing in this way, you should instead forgive fellow believers when they harm or defraud you. 8 Rather than forgiving others, however, you have harmed and defrauded other people. In fact, you have done these things to fellow believers!

9 I am shocked that you do these things even though you realize that people who harm others will not participate in God's kingdom. Do not believe anyone who tells you something else. Anyone who has improper sex or who worships other gods or who has sex with a married person or who participates in sexual acts with a person of the same gender or who initiates sexual acts with a person of the same gender 10 or who steals from others or who wants more than he or she needs or who gets drunk or who abuses others with words or who cheats others will not participate in God's kingdom. 11 Some of you used to behave in these ways. However, now God has cleansed you, he has made you holy, and he has declared you to be innocent. You experience these things because the Lord Jesus the Messiah and the Holy Spirit work powerfully to give them to you.

12 Some of you say, "I can do anything and not become guilty." However, I say that some things are not helpful to anybody. Again, some of you say, "I can do anything and not become guilty." However, I say that I will not serve anything that will make me its slave. 13 Some of you say, "Food exists for a person's stomach to digest it, and a person's stomach exists to digest food." Indeed, I also say that God will make food and stomachs unimportant. While it is true that food exists for a person's stomach, the human body does not exist for a person to have improper sex with it. Instead, the human body exists to serve the Lord, and the Lord has worked to save the human body. 14 In fact, God made the Lord alive again, and he will work powerfully to make us also alive again.

15 Surely you know that your bodies belong to the Messiah, just as if you were his body parts. Because of that, you should not take your body back and then give it to a prostitute, so that your body belongs to her, just as if you were her body parts. Never do that! 16 Surely you know that a man who has sex with a prostitute unites himself to her as closely as if they shared the same body. You should know this because the scripture says, "The man and the woman, although two people, will become like one person." 17 In a similar way, any people who unite themselves to the Lord become spiritually one with the Lord.

18 Intentionally avoid having improper sex. When people sin, they usually do so without directly hurting their bodies. However, when people have improper sex, they do hurt their own bodies. 19 Surely you know that God has given the Holy Spirit to you. Therefore, your bodies are like temples for the Holy Spirit, since he unites himself to you like how a god unites himself to his temple. Because of that, you do not belong to yourselves. 20 Rather, you belong to God, since the Messiah died for you. When he died for you, it was as if God paid money to buy you. Because you belong to God, you must honor him whenever you do anything with your body.

7 1 Moving on to what you asked me about, in your letter you said that it is appropriate for people not to have sex with each other. 2 On the other hand, people often desire to have sex, even improper sex. Because of that, a husband should stay married to his own wife, and a wife should stay married to her own husband. 3 Husbands should regularly have sex with their wives. Similarly, wives should regularly have sex with their husbands. 4 Wives' bodies belong to their husbands, not to themselves. Similarly, husbands' bodies belong to their wives, not to themselves. 5 You should only stop having sex regularly when both of you agree to do so for a brief time. You should only do this when you want to focus on praying to God, and you should soon resume having sex regularly. If you do not do this quickly, Satan will use how you desire to have sex to entice you to do what is wrong.

6 I do not command you to stop having sex regularly in order to focus on praying. Rather, I am only allowing you to do so. 7 If it were up to me, all people would be like me and remain unmarried. However, God gives each person his or her own way to live. Some people live in one way, while other people live in another way.

8 Here I am speaking to people who have not married and to women whose husbands have died. The best thing for these people is to stay unmarried like I do. 9 However, some people will struggle to control how they desire to have sex. These people should get married, because that is a better choice than constantly desiring to have sex.

10 Here I am speaking what the Lord himself said to people who have gotten married. I require the wives to stay with their husbands. 11 Now whenever they do not stay with their husbands, they should not marry again, or they should go back to their husbands. Further, husbands should stay with their wives.

12 Now to the rest of you who have a spouse who is not a believer, the Lord did not speak about this, so I am speaking what I myself command. Some fellow believers have unbelieving wives, and the wives may wish to stay with their believing husbands. In this situation, the husbands should stay with their wives. 13 Similarly, some fellow believers have unbelieving husbands, and the husbands may wish to stay with their believing wives. In this situation, the wives should stay with their husbands. 14 You should remain with an unbelieving husband or wife, because God considers the unbelieving husband to be an acceptable spouse for the believing wife. Similarly, God considers the unbelieving wife to be an acceptable spouse for the believing husband. Because of this, God treats the children in this situation just like he treats the children of two believing parents. If what I have said were not true, God would treat the children in this situation just like he treats the children of two unbelieving parents.

15 On the other hand, some unbelieving husbands or wives may want to leave their believing spouses. In this situation, the believing spouses should allow them to leave. The believing spouses do not have to stay with their unbelieving husbands or wives. In any situation like this, remember that God requires us to be peaceful people. 16 You should allow an unbelieving spouse to leave because each wife does not know whether she can help her husband to believe in Jesus. Each husband also does not know whether he can help his wife to believe in Jesus.

17 In general, all people need to behave in ways that fit with what the Lord has appointed them to do and with how God requires them to act. I require people to follow this teaching in every group of believers that I visit. 18 There are some people whom others circumcised before they believed in Jesus. These people should not try to become uncircumcised again. There are other people whom others did not circumcise before they believed in Jesus. These people should not try to become circumcised. 19 Whether a person has had someone circumcise them or not does not matter to us or to God. On the other hand, doing what God requires of us does matter to us and to God. 20 All people should serve God faithfully while doing the normal things they were already doing when God changed them. 21 Some people were slaves when they believed in Jesus. These people should not worry about being slaves. On the other hand, they should make use of any chance they have to become free. 22 Do not worry about your social position, because the Lord considers all people who were slaves when they believed in him to be free people now. Similarly, the Messiah considers all people who were free people when they believed in him to be his slaves now. 23 When Jesus died for you, it was as if God paid money to buy you. Because of that, you should not serve other humans, but only God.

24 My fellow believers, all people should serve God faithfully while doing the normal things they were already doing when God changed them.

25 I am now moving on to speak about those who have not gotten married. On this issue, I do not have anything that the Lord said to tell you. However, I will tell you what I think is best. I do this because God has acted kindly towards me by making me a trustworthy teacher.
26 What I suggest is that people should not change how they are living. I say this because I know that dangerous things are going to happen soon. 27 Some people have gotten engaged. They should not separate. Other people have never gotten engaged. They should not try to become engaged. 28 However, a single man or woman who gets married does not sin. I only advise you against getting married because people who get married will experience troubles while they live.

29 My fellow believers, what I am about to tell you is important. The end times are not far away. Therefore, until then, each man who has a wife should live like a man who does not have a wife. 30 Each person who cries should live like a person who does not cry. Each person who is glad should live like a person who is not glad. Each person who acquires anything should live like a person who does not own anything. 31 Each person who utilizes worldly things should live like a person who does not utilize these things. You should act in these ways because God will soon abolish the worldly way of doing things.

32 I want you to care about few things. Single men care about what they can do to serve the Lord. 33 On the other hand, married men care about worldly things, particularly how they can serve their wives. Because of this, they care about two different things: serving their wives and serving the Lord. Single women and women who have never gotten married 34 care about what they can do to serve the Lord. Their goal is to be completely holy. On the other hand, married women care about worldly things, particularly how they can serve their husbands. 35 I have said these things because I think they are helpful for you. I do not want to force you into acting in only one way. Rather, I want you to be able to act honorably and serve the Lord well and attentively.

36 In some cases, an engaged man may consider that he might act in sexually improper ways with his fiancée. Further, his fiancée may be fully mature and ready to have sex. In these cases, here is what to do: the man should marry his fiancé. He does not sin when he does this, and the two of them should get married. 37 In other cases, an engaged man may have made up his mind, and no person or thing has forced him not to marry. He can control what he desires, and he has decided for himself not to marry. In this case, he can rightly choose not to marry his fiancée. 38 In the end, any man who gets married to his fiancée does a good thing. Further, any man who does not get married to his fiancée does a better thing.

39 Wives must stay married to their husbands unless their husbands die. Then, they may marry any believing man whom they want to marry. 40 However, I think that any woman whose husband has died will be more blessed if she does not marry again. While that is my opinion, I think that God's Spirit speaks through me.

8 1 I am now moving on to speak about meat that someone has offered to another god. All of us who believe do know what is true about other gods. However, knowing what is true often makes people proud. It is loving others that really helps other believers. 2 All people who reckon that they understand something do not yet understand it in the way that they should understand it. 3 However, God understands and cares for all people who love him.

4 Now I will go back to speaking about whether to eat meat that someone has offered to another god. We who believe in God understand that other gods do not really exist. In fact, we understand that the only god is the one God. 5 It is true that there are many things that are in heaven or on earth that people call "gods." In this way, many "gods" and "lords" exist.
6 However, we who believe acknowledge one God, who is the Father. He created everything, and we exist to honor him. We also acknowledge one Lord, who is Jesus the Messiah. He created everything with the Father, and we exist by means of what he does for us.

7 However, some people do not fully understand what I have said. They used to worship other gods in the past, and they incompletely understand what is right and wrong. When they eat meat that someone has offered to another god, they feel guilty. 8 Now food does not connect us with God. Those who do not eat certain foods do not miss out on anything from God. Also, those who do eat certain foods do not receive something extra from God. 9 However, you need to be careful about how you live if you know that food is not significant. How you live should not cause someone who incompletely understands what is right and wrong to struggle to follow Jesus. 10 You need to be careful because fellow believers might observe a believer who knows what is true about other gods sitting down to eat meat in another god's temple. Those fellow believers, who incompletely understand what is right and wrong, will become confident that they also can eat meat that someone has offered to another god. 11 As a result, by acting based on what you know is true about other gods, you harm others who incompletely understand what is right and wrong. These are fellow believers, and the Messiah died for them. 12 When you act in these ways, you sin against fellow believers by leading them, who incompletely understand what is right and wrong, to do what they think is wrong. When do you this, you sin against the Messiah too. 13 Consequently, in cases where what I eat would lead a fellow believer to sin, I will never ever eat meat again, whether someone has offered it to another god or not. This way, I do not lead any of my fellow believers to sin.

9 1 I am not bound to eat only certain foods. Our Lord Jesus sent me to represent him, and I have seen him with my own eyes. God has united us to the Lord, and I have worked hard for you because of that. 2 Other people may not think that the Messiah sent me to represent him, but you do know that. You know that because you proved that the Messiah sent me when God united you to the Lord.

3 I will now defend myself against anyone who wants to question whether the Messiah sent me to represent him or not. 4 Barnabas and I certainly can require you to send us food and drink. 5 We certainly can travel around with a wife who believes in the Messiah. This is what the others whom the Messiah has sent to represent him do, including Peter and the Lord's brothers. 6 It is not true that Barnabas and I are the only ones who represent the Messiah who must work to support ourselves. 7 No soldiers ever pay with their own money to serve in the army. No farmers plant vines and then do not eat what the vines produce. No shepherds take care of sheep and then do not drink the milk that they produce.

8 What I am arguing does not depend on merely human thinking. Rather, you can read what I am arguing in the law of Moses. 9 Here is what Moses wrote in the law of Moses: "You should not keep an ox from eating the grain when it is helping you separate grain from chaff."

God is not primarily interested in oxen, however. 10 Rather, God speaks mostly about us in this law. God had Moses write this command for us because any person who plows a field should expect to receive some of the crop. Any person who separates the grain from the wheat stalks should also expect to receive some of the crop. 11 We proclaimed the good news to you as if we were planting spiritual seeds. Because of that, it would be normal for us to receive financial help from you as if we were receiving some of the crop that grew from the seed that we planted. 12 Other people have received financial support from you. Barnabas and I deserve even more to receive it from you.

However, we have not asked for any support from you. Rather, we choose to go without things so that we will not keep the good news about the Messiah from spreading. 13 Surely you know that the people who perform their duties in the temple eat some of the food that people offer in the temple. More specifically, the priests who offer sacrifices on the altar receive part of what people bring to them to offer on the altar. 14 Similarly, the Lord instructed that anyone who preaches the good news should make their living from preaching the good news.

15 However, I have not asked for any of this support from you. Further, I am not now writing to you to ask for support for myself. I would prefer to die rather than to have someone take away what I can boast about. 16 Now I cannot boast about preaching the good news, because God requires me to preach it. Indeed, were I to stop preaching the good news, God would discipline me. 17 God would reward me if I preached the good news because I myself chose to. However, I have not chosen to do so, for God himself has told me what I need to do. 18 God still rewards me, however. He does so when I preach the good news without requiring people to pay me. I tell people about the good news in this way so that I do not misuse what I am able to require because I preach the good news.

19 Since I preach the good news for free, I do not need to serve any humans. However, I choose to serve all humans so that I can help more of them believe in the Messiah. 20 When I am with Jewish people, I act like a Jewish person. That way, I can help Jewish people believe in the Messiah. When I am with people who think they need to obey Moses' law, I act like someone who thinks that he needs to obey Moses' law. While I myself know that I do not need to obey Moses' law, I act this way so that I can help the people who think they need to obey Moses' law believe in the Messiah. 21 When I am with people who do not obey Moses' law, I act like someone who does not obey Moses' law. I act this way so that I can help the people who do not obey Moses' law to believe in the Messiah. Of course, I do obey God's law, since I do what the Messiah commanded. 22 When I am with people who incompletely understand what is right and wrong, I act like someone who incompletely understands what is right and wrong. I act this way so that I can help the people who incompletely understand what is right and wrong to believe in the Messiah. As you can see, when I am with any people, I act like they do so that God might work through all the things I do in order to save some of them. 23 As you can see, I act in all these ways because I want people to believe in the good news. Further, I do these things in order that I too will receive what God has promised in the good news.

24 Surely you know that all the runners participate in a race, but in the end only one runner wins the race and takes the reward for winning. When you serve God, it is much like this kind of race. You need to work hard to gain what God has promised to you, just like the runner runs hard to win the race. 25 All athletes carefully control everything that they do so that they can win. They compete for a crown made of leaves that will fall apart. We, however, control ourselves so that we can receive what God has promised to give us, which will last forever.
26 Because of this, I am like a runner who runs straight toward the finish line. I am like a boxer who strikes an opponent without missing. 27 I totally control my body and make it serve me. I do that because I do not want to proclaim the good news to other people but then find that God does not approve of me.

10 1 Now I want to remind you, fellow believers, that our Jewish ancestors all followed God when he appeared to them in a cloud. They all walked through the Red Sea when God made a dry path for them through the water. 2 It was as if someone baptized all of them so that they belonged to Moses. This happened when they followed the cloud and walked through the Red Sea. 3 All of them together ate the special food that God gave them. 4 All of them together drank the special water that God gave them. This happened when they drank the water that came out of the special rock that God provided and that followed them. That water was something that the Messiah gave. 5 However, most of our Jewish ancestors did not please God. You can tell that this is true because they died while they traveled through the desert places.

6 The things that happened to them illustrate how we should act. Through what happened to them, God warns us to avoid doing what is evil, such as the evil things that they did. 7 You should not worship idols, which is what some of our Jewish ancestors did. You can tell that they worshiped idols, because Moses wrote, "The Israelites started eating and drinking and then worshiped other gods in sexually immoral ways." 8 We should not have improper sex, which is what some of our Jewish ancestors did. Because they did this, 23,000 of them died during one day. 9 We should not challenge the Lord, which is what some of our Jewish ancestors did. Because they did this, snakes killed them. 10 You should not complain, which is what some of our Jewish ancestors did. Because they did this, a dangerous spiritual being whom God sent killed them.

11 Those things that our ancestors experienced illustrate how we should act. In fact, someone wrote down what happened to them so that we can learn from them, since we are the ones who are experiencing the last days. 12 As those stories illustrate, any people who think that they firmly believe in the Messiah should make sure that they do not fail to follow the Messiah. 13 Other people have experienced the things that tempt you. Further, God will act faithfully. He will not let you experience anything that tempts you if you cannot resist it. Rather, when something tempts you, he will give you what you need to faithfully resist it.

14 Because of that I have said, fellow believers whom I love, intentionally avoid worshiping other gods. 15 I am talking this way because I think that you are reasonable people. You should decide for yourselves whether what I am about to say is right or wrong. 16 When we drink the wine that we bless in the Lord's Supper, we together connect ourselves with the Messiah's blood. When we eat the bread, we together connect ourselves with the Messiah's body. 17 We use one loaf of bread in the Lord's Supper, and we all together eat pieces of that one loaf. Because we do this, we join ourselves together like we all make up one body.

18 Take the people of Israel as an example. The people who offered something would eat some of what they offered. This means that they connected themselves with the altar, where the priest would present the rest of what they offered to God. 19 I am arguing, therefore, that meat that someone has offered to another god and other gods themselves are not powerful or important. 20 However, you should know that when those who do not worship God offer sacrifices, they are offering them to evil spiritual beings, not to God. I want you to avoid connecting yourselves with evil spiritual beings. 21 You cannot drink wine that belongs to the Lord and also wine that belongs to evil spiritual beings. You cannot eat food that belongs to the Lord and also food that belongs to evil spiritual beings. 22 Those who do both of those things should expect the Lord to act jealously against them. Further, we are certainly less powerful than he is.

23 Some of you say, "I can do anything and not become guilty." However, I say that some things are not helpful to anybody. Again, some of you say, "I can do anything and not become guilty." However, I say that some things do not help you grow. 24 Do not work hard to gain what is best for yourselves. Rather, you should work hard to gain what is best for other people. 25 You can eat any food that you buy in the public marketplace. You do not need to find out where it came from so that you know whether it is right or wrong to eat it. 26 You can do this because David wrote, "The earth and everything connected with it belongs to the Lord." 27 At some point, people who do not believe may ask you to eat with them, and you may decide to do so. When this happens, you can eat all the food that they serve you. You do not need to find out where it came from so that you know whether it is right or wrong to eat it. 28 (However, someone might tell you that a person offered the food to a god. In this situation, you should not eat the food. You should act in this way to benefit the person who told you about the food and because of knowing what is right and wrong. 29 By "knowing what is right and wrong," I mean what the other person knows, not what you know.) In general, what another person thinks is right or wrong should not keep me from doing what I am able to do. 30 As long as I am grateful to God when I eat any food, no one should speak badly about me because of something for which I thanked God.

31 To summarize, whenever you eat or drink anything, and indeed whenever you do anything, you should always behave so that you and others honor God. 32 Do not behave in ways that discourage Jewish people, non-Jewish people, or fellow believers from trusting the Messiah. 33 I illustrate how to do this with how I live. I always act in ways that everyone around me accepts. I do not work hard to gain what is best for myself. Rather, I work hard to gain what is best for other people. I do this in order that God will save them.

11 1 Do what I do, just like I do what Christ did.

2 I commend you because you always think of what I teach and do and because you carefully believe and do what I taught you to believe and do. 3 I am telling you that each man comes from the Messiah. A wife comes from her husband. Finally, the Messiah comes from God. 4 Men might cover their heads when they pray or proclaim what God says. Those who do this shame the person they come from: the Messiah. 5 Now women might bare their heads when they pray or proclaim what God says. Those who do this shame the people they come from: their husbands. You can tell that this is true, because a woman who bares her head is like a woman whose hair someone has shaved off. 6 In fact, someone should cut short the hair of any woman who bares her head. Since people shame a woman who has short hair, women should not bare their heads. 7 Further, on the one hand, men should not cover their heads, because they represent and honor God. On the other hand, wives honor their husbands. 8 You can tell that this is true because God did not make the man Adam from the woman Eve. Rather, he made the woman Eve from the man Adam. 9 Another way that you can tell that this is true is because God did not make the man Adam for the sake of the woman Eve. Rather, he made the woman Eve for the sake of the man Adam. 10 Because wives honor their husbands, women should control what they wear on their heads. They should do this also because of the powerful spiritual beings.

11 Despite all that, when God unites people to the Messiah, women cannot exist without men, and men cannot exist without women. 12 In fact, while the woman Eve did come from the man Adam, men only exist because women give birth to them. However, everything that exists, including men and women, comes from God. 13 You yourselves should decide whether women who pray to God without covering their heads act appropriately or not. 14 You can learn from observing the way things are that it is dishonorable for men to have long hair.
15 However, you can also learn from observing the way things are that it is honorable for women to have long hair. This is because God has given women their long hair, which functions to cover their heads. 16 Now if any people consider arguing about what I have said, neither we nor God's churches allow women to uncover their heads when they pray or prophesy.

17 I am now going to instruct you about another topic, and I cannot commend you in this area. I cannot commend you, because you harm fellow believers instead of helping them when you gather as fellow believers. 18 Here is the first thing I will speak about: some people have told me that you split up into rival groups when you gather as fellow believers to worship God. I believe that this is partly true. 19 I believe it because there need to be disagreements in your group. That way, it may become clear to everyone whom in your group God considers to be acceptable to him. 20 Because of these divisions, you are not actually eating the Lord's Supper when you gather as fellow believers together to eat. 21 During your meals, some people are eating their own food before others receive some. In this way, some people do not have enough to eat, while other people are getting drunk. 22 You act in these ways despite the fact that you can eat food and drink wine in your own houses. Instead, though, you think contemptuously about God's church. In particular, you shame people who have less than you do. You should already know what I will say to you. I am not going to commend you for doing these things. I will definitely not do that!

23 I have already told you what I learned from the Lord about the night when Judas handed the Lord Jesus over to the authorities, who executed him. During that night, Jesus picked up a loaf of bread. 24 He thanked God for the loaf of bread, and then he tore it into pieces so that the disciples could eat it. Then he said, "This bread is my body, which I am offering for your sake. Repeat what I have done so that you remember how I am offering myself for you." 25 Just as he picked up the loaf of bread, he also picked up the cup of wine after they had eaten. He said, "This cup of wine is the new covenant that I am inaugurating with my blood. Repeat what I have done whenever you drink from this cup of wine so that you remember how I am offering myself for you." 26 This means that, until the Lord comes back, whenever you participate in the Lord's Supper by eating this bread and drinking wine from this cup, you announce that the Lord has died.

27 So then, some people, while participating in the Lord's Supper, might eat the bread or drink wine from the cup in a way that dishonors the Messiah. God will hold them responsible for how they have acted against the Lord's body and blood. 28 To avoid that, believers should carefully consider how they are behaving. Then, they can eat the bread and drink wine from the cup. 29 You should carefully consider how you are behaving, because some people eat and drink during the Lord's Supper but do not recognize that God has united fellow believers to the Lord as closely as if they were the Lord's body. How those people eat and drink during the Lord's Supper will result in God punishing them. 30 Because people in your group have acted in that improper way, many of them have gotten sick and some of them have died. 31 So, we believers really should carefully consider how we are acting before we participate in the Lord's Supper. Then, God will not punish us. 32 However, when the Lord does punish us, he does it to train us. That way, God does not include us when he declares everyone who does not believe in the Messiah to be guilty.

33 In conclusion, my fellow believers, when you gather together to eat the Lord's Supper, you should not start eating until everyone has received food and drink. 34 Any people who are so hungry that they start eating before everyone has received food and drink should eat at their own houses. That way, when you gather together as fellow believers, God will not punish you.

I have not said everything that I need to say. So, I will instruct you about those things whenever I visit you.

12 1 I am now moving on to speak about how God's Spirit specially empowers believers. I want to inform you, my fellow believers, about these things. 2 You remember what you did when you were not believers. You worshiped other gods. These other gods cannot even speak, but you did whatever wrong things people told you to do to worship these other gods. 3 So then, I am informing you that a person who curses Jesus does not speak with the power of God's Spirit. On the other hand, a person who says that Jesus is Lord must be speaking with the power of the Holy Spirit.

4 The Spirit empowers people in many different ways, but there is only one Spirit.
5 People serve the Lord in many different ways, but there is only one Lord. 6 People work for God in many different ways, but there is only one God. He is the one who empowers all people to function in all these ways.

7 Each believer receives from God specific ways in which God's Spirit works through them to help fellow believers. 8 For example, God's Spirit empowers some believers to speak wisely. Other believers can speak knowledgeably, and the same Spirit empowers them to do this. 9 The same Spirit empowers some believers to trust God in special ways. The same Spirit empowers other believers to heal others. 10 Other believers can do powerful things. Other believers can speak messages from God. Other believers can decide whether something comes from God's Spirit or not. Some believers can speak unknown languages. Other believers can interpret those unknown languages. 11 The same Spirit works to empower believers to do all these things. There is just one Holy Spirit, and he decides how to work specifically through each believer.

12 We consider a person's body to be a unity, but the body has many body parts. So, all those body parts, no matter how many there are, together make up one body. We can think about the Messiah in a similar way. 13 Now, God has united us together as closely as if we made up one body. This happened when people baptized us, with the result that we have the one Spirit. We make up this one body even though some of us are Jewish people and others are non-Jewish people, and even though some of us are slaves and others are free people. Further, we all shared in this one Spirit just like we all shared a drink from one cup.

14 As you know, one body part does not make up a body. Rather, it takes many body parts to make up a body. 15 Imagine that your foot could talk to you, and it said that, since it was not a hand, it could not belong to your body. That reason does not keep it from belonging to your body. 16 Again, imagine that your ear could talk to you, and it said that, since it was not an eye, it could not belong to your body. That reason does not keep it from belonging to your body. 17 Imagine that only eyes made up your body. You would not be able to hear anything! Imagine that only ears made up your body. You would not be able to smell anything! 18 But here is what is true about the body: God decided how each body part should function, and he connected each body part to the body for a specific reason. 19 Imagine that all your body parts were the same kind of body part. You would not really have a body at all! 20 But here is what is true about the body: many different body parts exist. However, together they make up one body. 21 Imagine again that your body parts could talk. An eye would never tell a hand, "I do not need you." Similarly, a head would never tell feet, "I do not need you." 22 Rather, what is true is that the body parts that we consider to be the delicate ones are actually necessary. 23 Further, we more highly value the body parts that we think of as less valuable. We treat our indecent body parts more decently, 24 but we do not treat our decent body parts in any special way. In the end, God is the one who put all the body parts together into one body, and he makes the less valuable parts more valuable. 25 God did this in order that the body would not split up into different parts. Instead, the body parts work together and do not privilege one body part over other body parts. 26 So, all the body parts hurt when one body part is hurting. All the body parts celebrate when somebody praises one body part.

27 I say all this because you all are like the Messiah's body. Each of you is like a body part in that body. 28 In line with that, God has specially empowered the people who worship him. First, some people are those whom God has sent to represent the Messiah. Second, some people proclaim what God says. Third, some people teach other believers. Further, some people do powerful things. Others can heal others, help other believers, guide the group of believers, or speak unknown languages. 29 Only some believers are those whom God has sent to represent the Messiah. Only some proclaim what God says. Only some teach other believers. Only some do powerful things. 30 Only some heal others. Only some speak unknown languages. Only some interpret those unknown languages. 31 Now I want you to eagerly seek the most beneficial gifts. Next, I will tell you about the very best thing you can do.

13 1 Imagine that I could speak many human and angelic languages, but I did not love others. I would be able to make much noise, like a loud metal instrument, but I would not be helping anyone. 2 Again, imagine that I could proclaim what God says, that I could comprehend and know everything, and that I believed so much that I could make mountains change places. But imagine further that I did not love others. Because of that, nothing else matters. 3 Yet again, imagine that I gifted everything I owned to people who needed food, and that I did not protect my own body, with the result that people would honor me. But imagine further that I did not love others. Because I did not love others, none of those things that I did help me at all.

4 Those who love others wait patiently and act graciously. They do not wish that others would lose the good things that they have. They do not say great things about themselves or act like they are great. 5 They do not do shameful things. They do not care only about themselves. They do not quickly become angry. They do not keep track of what others have done wrong.
6 They do not celebrate when people do bad things. Instead, they celebrate what is true.
7 They always put up with others. They always believe that God will do what is best, and they are always confident that God will do what he has promised. They always persevere when bad things happen.

8 Those who love others never cease doing so. However, someday people will no longer proclaim what God says. Someday, people will stop speaking unknown languages. Someday, people will no longer know special things. 9 These things will no longer happen, because we know special things incompletely, and we proclaim what God says incompletely. 10 So, when we experience what is complete when Jesus comes back, what is incomplete will no longer matter. 11 Here is an analogy: when we were young, we talked as children talk. We thought as children think. We made decisions as children make decisions. But when we grew up, we stopped acting as children do. 12 Right now, we see God indirectly, as if we saw a reflection in a mirror. When Jesus comes back, however, we will see God in person. Right now, we know God incompletely. When Jesus comes back, however, we will know God just as much as he knows us. 13 In the end, there are three things that we will always keep doing. We will believe in the Messiah, confidently expect God to do what he has promised, and love God and other people. However, loving God and others is the most important out of these three things.

14 1 You should seek to love others always. Also, you should eagerly seek that the Holy Spirit specially empowers you, particularly that you might be able to proclaim what God says. 2 You should desire this because people who talk in unknown languages are talking with God, not with other people. This is because no one knows what they are saying. Rather, they say secret things as the Holy Spirit empowers them. 3 On the other hand, those who proclaim what God says do talk to other people. They help other believers become stronger, urge other believers to act in proper ways, and comfort other believers. 4 People who talk in unknown languages help themselves become stronger. On the other hand, people who proclaim what God says help the group of believers become stronger.

5 I want all of you to talk in unknown languages. What I want even more, however, is that you might proclaim what God says. Proclaiming what God says is more important and helpful than talking in unknown languages. Of course, if someone explains the unknown language, then it too can help believers become stronger.

6 Here is what I am trying to say, my fellow believers: imagine that I, for example, visited you, and I talked in unknown languages. I would not be helping you at all. To actually help you, I would need to reveal things to you, help you know things, proclaim what God says to you, or teach you. 7 Even things that are not alive but that we use to make sounds illustrate what I am saying. When someone plays a flute or a harp, the instrument must make various distinct sounds. Otherwise, no one would understand what a person plays on the flute or the harp, since all the sounds would be the same. 8 Further, suppose that a trumpet did not make clear sounds when a person used it to warn others. No one would know that they needed to get ready to fight the enemy. 9 Whenever you do not use words that other people recognize when you talk, you are like an instrument that does not make a clear sound. No one will comprehend what you are saying, and you will be like a person who talks to nobody. 10 It seems to be true that a great many varieties of languages exist. Every one of them communicates clearly. 11 So, when I, for example, do not understand how a language communicates, I am a stranger to everyone who speaks that language, and they are strangers to me. 12 So, here is what you must do: because you desire that the Holy Spirit specially empowers you, you should strive more and more to use what the Holy Spirit empowers you to do to help the group of believers become stronger.

13 Therefore, those who talk in unknown languages should ask God to enable them to explain what they are saying. 14 When I, for example, pray to God in an unknown language, only part of me is praying since I am not thinking about what I am saying. 15 Therefore, here is what you and I should do. We should pray to God not only with just some parts of us but also by thinking about what we are saying. We should sing to God not only with just some parts of us but also by thinking about what we are singing. 16 Imagine that people who do not understand unknown languages hear you praising God when you are using just some parts of you, and you are not thinking about what you are saying. Those people will not be able to participate when you praise God because they do not understand the unknown language that you are speaking. 17 In this situation, you praise God appropriately. However, you do not help other people become stronger. 18 I give thanks to God that I talk in unknown languages more than you all do. 19 However, when I gather together with fellow believers to worship God, I want to speak only a few words that I think about. In this way, I can teach other believers and not just myself. It is better for me to do that than to say a million words in an unknown language.

20 My fellow believers, I do not want you to be foolish about these things, like little children are. Rather, you should know much about these things, like a fully grown adult does. You should only be like little children by not doing what is wrong. 21 The prophet Isaiah wrote in the Scriptures what the Lord says,

"I will talk to my people Israel
by means of people who speak foreign languages.
However, they will not listen to me in this way."

22 Therefore, talking in unknown languages signifies that God judges people who do not believe in the Messiah, not people who do believe in the Messiah. On the other hand, proclaiming what God says signifies that God acts kindly toward people who believe in the Messiah, not toward people who do not believe in the Messiah. 23 So, imagine that the whole group of believers gathered together to worship God, and all of you talked in unknown languages. Imagine further that people who do not understand unknown languages or who do not believe in the Messiah visit your group. They will tell others that you are crazy. 24 On the other hand, imagine that all of you proclaimed what God says. Imagine further that any people who do not believe in the Messiah or who do not understand unknown languages visit your group. Everything that you say will show them and confront them with what they have done wrong. 25 In this way, everyone will know the things that these visitors hide from others. In response, they will kneel down and worship God. They will proclaim to others that God truly is with you.

26 My fellow believers, here is what I mean. Whenever you gather together to worship God, each believer has something to do. Some sing songs, others teach, others reveal things, others speak in an unknown language, others interpret an unknown language. Believers should do all these things to help other believers become stronger. 27 When believers are talking in unknown languages, only two or three at most should speak. They should talk one after the other, and someone needs to explain what they are saying. 28 On the other hand, when believers gather to worship God and a person who can explain the unknown language is not there, everyone who can talk in unknown languages should keep quiet. Instead of talking out loud, they should talk in unknown languages privately to God.

29 Similarly, around two or three people who proclaim what God says should speak. Everyone else should decide whether what they say is correct or incorrect. 30 Now, whenever God reveals something to a person who is listening to someone else proclaim what God says when believers gather together, the person who is speaking should stop speaking. 31 You should do that so that everyone has a chance to proclaim what God says, one after the other. In that way, everyone learns something, and everyone becomes stronger. 32 Those who proclaim what God says control how and when they proclaim it. 33 That is true because what is peaceful and orderly, not what is disorderly, characterizes God.

I want you to act like all the other people whom God has set apart for himself act when they gather together to worship God. 34 Wives should keep quiet when believers gather together and their husbands are speaking. They should not talk but rather honor and obey their husbands. They should do this because that is what we find in God's law. 35 Now, when wives want to learn more about what their husbands are saying, they should ask their husbands questions in their own houses. They should do this because wives who talk when believers gather together and their husbands are speaking shame themselves and their families. 36 If you dislike what I have said, remember that you are not the source of what God has said, and you are not the only ones who have heard and believed what God has said. 37 All people who consider themselves to be those who proclaim what God says or those whom the Holy Spirit has specially empowered must recognize that the Lord himself requires what I am writing to you. 38 On the other hand, you should not recognize as authoritative any people who do not recognize that the Lord requires what I have said.

39 In the end, my fellow believers, eagerly seek to proclaim what God says. Further, do not prohibit people from speaking unknown languages. 40 Finally, when you gather together to worship God, you should always act in honorable and orderly ways.

15 1 Next, I am informing you, fellow believers, about the good news that I told you about. You learned this good news from me, and you firmly believe it. 2 When you continue to firmly believe the message that I preached to you, God saves you by means of that message. Otherwise, you believed the message for nothing.

3 Here is one of the first things that I told you, which I learned from the Lord: the Messiah died on the cross to take away our sins, just as the authors of the holy books wrote. 4 People buried him, but during the third day after that, God made him alive again, just as the authors of the holy books wrote. 5 He appeared to Peter and then to the rest of Jesus' 12 closest followers. 6 After that, he appeared at one time to greater than 500 fellow believers. Although some of these people have died, almost all of them are still alive. 7 After that, he appeared to James and then to everyone whom he sent to represent him. 8 Finally, after he appeared to all of them, he appeared to me also. So, because I became one whom Jesus sent to represent him after everyone else, I am like a baby that was born in an unusual way. 9 In fact, I am less significant and honorable than every other person whom the Messiah sent to represent him. Indeed, since I tried to destroy those who believe in the Messiah, I do not deserve it when others call me one whom the Messiah sent to represent him. 10 However, God graciously made me one whom the Messiah sent to represent him. Further, what he has given me has resulted in great things. In fact, I worked harder than all the other ones whom the Messiah sent to represent him. Of course, it was not really I who worked so hard. Instead, it was God graciously working through me who did so much. 11 In the end, both I and the other apostles proclaim the good news that I have described, and you trusted this good news.

12 Because all believers say that God made the Messiah alive again, no one in your group should be claiming that people who have died will not live again. 13 Suppose that it were true that people who have died will not live again. In that case, God did not make the Messiah alive again. 14 Suppose that it is true that God did not make the Messiah alive again. In that case, it was for no reason that we proclaimed the good news and you believed it. 15 Further, we would be people who tell lies about God, because we declared before God that he made the Messiah alive again when he really did not. This would all be true were God not to make those who have died alive again. 16 You can tell that this is true when you suppose that God does not make people who have died alive again. In that case, God did not make even the Messiah alive again. 17 Suppose that it is true that God did not make the Messiah alive again. In that case, you believed the good news for no reason, and sin continues to control you. 18 In that case again, the believers who have died will never live again. 19 Suppose that we can confidently expect the Messiah to help us only before we die. In that case, all people should feel sorry for us more than they feel sorry for anyone else.

20 But here is what is true: God has made the Messiah alive again, and he is the first of those who have died whom God will make alive again. 21 You can tell that this is true, because people die through what the one man Adam did. So also people who have died will live again through what the one man Jesus did. 22 What I mean is that, just as all people end up dying because God united them to Adam, in the same way all believers will live again because God unites them to the Messiah. 23 Now, all people who will live again do so in turn: first the Messiah and then those who belong to the Messiah when he comes back again. 24 After that, what everything that God has created is waiting for will happen. At that time, the Messiah will get rid of everyone and everything that rules and governs and controls. Then, he will present God, who is our Father, with the kingdom so that God rules over everything. 25 Here is how that works: God has decided that the Messiah will rule until whenever he has conquered all those who oppose him. 26 The last thing that opposes Christ that he will get rid of is that people die. 27 Now, David wrote, "he made him conquer everything that opposes him." Of course, "everything" does not include God, who is the one who "made him conquer everything." 28 So, after he has conquered everything, then God the Son will submit to the one who made him conquer everything. In this way, God will conquer and rule all things.

29 Now, consider people who baptize others to help those who are dead. Further, suppose again that God never makes people who have died alive again. In that case, there is no reason for people to baptize others to help those who have died. 30 Even more, in that case, there is no reason for we who proclaim the good news to constantly endanger ourselves as we do. 31 Indeed, I risk dying very frequently. I swear that this is true by how I boast about you, fellow believers, which I do because God has united all of us to the Messiah, who is Jesus our Lord. 32 Suppose that I was thinking about merely human things while I struggled against those who opposed me when I visited the city of Ephesus. In that case, struggling against them does not benefit me at all. Suppose again that God does not make people who have died alive again. In that case, we should do what many people say to do: eat food, and drink wine, because we will die very soon. 33 You should not believe what is wrong. This popular saying is true: "Evil friends lead astray a person who normally does what is proper." 34 I want you to start acting alertly and properly. You should not keep doing what is wrong. I command these things because some people in your group do not know God. I say that in order to make you feel ashamed

35 Now a person may ask about the way in which the people who have died live again and about what form they will take. 36 If you do not know the answers to those questions, you are not thinking clearly! Just think about this: a seed that you put in the ground must die before it can grow. 37 Speaking about a seed that you put in the ground, you know that it is not in the form of the plant. Rather, it is just the seed. This is true whether we are speaking about wheat or some other crop. 38 Indeed, God makes seeds grow into the forms that he chooses, and each kind of seed has a specific form into which it grows. 39 The physical parts of different living beings vary. For example, humans, mammals, birds, and fish all have different kinds of physical parts. 40 Some things exist in heaven, and other things exist on earth. The forms of things in heaven are glorious in one way, while the forms of things on earth are glorious in another way. 41 Further, the sun, moon, and stars are glorious in different ways. In fact, each star is glorious in its own specific way.

42 Here is the way all that applies to how people who have died live again. People put a decaying body into the ground, but God makes it alive again so that it can never die. 43 People put a body that receives no respect into the ground, but God makes it alive again so that everyone respects it. People put a frail body into the ground, but God makes it alive again so that it is strong. 44 People put a body that belongs to this world into the ground, but God makes it alive again so that it belongs to the world that God will renew. Just as some bodies belong to this world, so some bodies belong to the world that God will renew.

45 You can tell that this is true because Moses wrote, "God made the first human, Adam, as a living being who belonged to this world." On the other hand, Jesus, who is like another Adam, now belongs to the world that God will renew and gives life to others. 46 Now the first Adam's body that belongs to this world existed first, and only after that does the last Adam's body exist that belongs to the world that God will renew. 47 Adam, who represents the first kind of human, belonged on the earth. In fact, God made him from dust. On the other hand, Jesus, who represents the second kind of human, belongs in heaven. 48 All people who belong on the earth are like Adam. All those who belong in heaven are like Jesus. 49 Our bodies currently are like Adam's body that belongs to this world. In the same way, we should live in such a way that our bodies will eventually be like Jesus' body, which belongs to the world that God will renew.

50 Listen to this, my fellow believers: human bodies as they currently exist cannot participate in God's kingdom that lasts forever, since they fall apart and die. 51 Pay attention! I am going to tell you something that God has now revealed. Not all of us will die, but God will transform all of us. 52 He will transform us in one moment, as fast as a person blinks an eye. This will happen when an angel blows the trumpet that signals that this world is ending. When an angel blows that trumpet, God will make those who have died live again so that they can never die, and he will transform everyone who still lives. 53 So, bodies that fall apart and die need to transform into bodies that last forever and can never die. 54 When our bodies that fall apart and die transform into bodies that last forever and can never die, at that time what the prophets wrote about will finally happen:

"God has made it so that people no longer die."

55 Further,

"When people die, this does not destroy or hurt them."

56 People die because sin causes them to die, and that happens because the law specifies dying as the penalty for sin. 57 However, I praise God because he has enabled us to conquer how we sin and die. He has done this by means of what our Lord, Jesus the Messiah, has done.

58 So then, fellow believers whom I love, firmly believe what you know is true. Consistently serve the Lord more and more. You should do these things because you know that what you do to serve the Lord will result in great things, since God has united you to the Lord.

16 1 I am now moving on to speak about the money that I am collecting for God's people who are Jewish. I want you to do what I instructed the groups of believers who live in the region of Galatia to do. 2 During each Sunday, every one of you should take some money out of whatever you have earned and save it. That way, I will not need to collect money when I visit you. 3 Choose some trustworthy people from your group. When I visit you, I will have them take the money that you have collected to the city of Jerusalem. Also, I will give them letters that say that I have authorized them. 4 You and I may decide that I should go to Jerusalem as well. In that case, the people whom you choose will travel with me.

5 I am going to visit you after I travel through the region of Macedonia, which is the way I will be traveling. 6 In fact, I may spend some time with you, maybe the whole winter. That way, you can assist me in traveling to wherever I decide to go next. 7 I am making these plans because I would rather wait to be with you for a long time than visit you right now for just a short time. I confidently expect to do this as long as it is what the Lord wants me to do. 8 For now, I plan on remaining here in the city of Ephesus until the Pentecost festival. 9 I am remaining here because God has allowed me to effectively and freely proclaim the good news. Further, I need to resist the large number of people who are working against me.

10 Whenever Timothy arrives in your city, make sure that he feels safe when he is with you. You should do this because he serves the Lord by proclaiming the good news, just like I do. 11 So, do not treat him disrespectfully. Rather, act in a friendly way by assisting him in traveling back to me. You should do this because I anticipate that he will come back to me with the other believers who are traveling to visit me.

12 I am now moving on to speak about our fellow believer, Apollos. I firmly urged him to visit you with the other believers who were traveling to visit you. However, he firmly decided that it was not the right time to visit you. Instead, he will visit you when he thinks that it is the right time.

13 Watch out for what is wrong! Firmly believe the good news! Be courageous! Be determined! 14 You should focus on loving others whenever you think or do anything.

15 You know that those who live in the house of Stephanas were the first people to believe the good news in the region of Achaia. Further, they have chosen to serve God's people. I ask you, my fellow believers, 16 to honor and obey them and other people like them. In fact, you should honor and obey every person who works hard to proclaim the good news with us. 17 I am happy that Stephanas, Fortunatus, and Achaicus arrived here. That is because they have allowed me to connect with you all even when you are not with me. 18 They encouraged and energized both me and you. Therefore, you should honor them and other people like them.

19 The groups of believers here in the region of Asia say hello to you. Aquila and Priscilla, as those whom God has also united to the Lord, say hello to you affectionately. The believers that gather in their house also say hello to you. 20 All the fellow believers who are with me say hello to you. Welcome each other in a loving way.

21 I, Paul, say hello to you. I am writing these last words myself instead of having my scribe write them. 22 May God curse everyone who fails to love the Lord. I pray that the Lord returns soon. 23 I pray that the Lord Jesus will be gracious to you. 24 I continue to love all of you, since God has united us together with Jesus the Messiah. May it be so!

2 Corinthians

1 1 I, Paul, write this letter to you, and Timothy, our fellow believer, is with me. God chose to send me to represent the Messiah Jesus, because that is what God wanted. I send this letter to you who are part of the group of believers belonging to God, which is in the city of Corinth. I also send this letter to all the believers who live throughout the region of Achaia. 2 May God, who is our Father, and the Lord Jesus the Messiah continue to be kind to you and make you peaceful.

3 May we always praise the God and Father of our Lord Jesus the Messiah—he is our merciful Father and our God who always comforts us. 4 God comforts us whenever we suffer. He does that so that we can comfort others who are suffering in any way. God enables us to comfort them in the very same way as he comforts us. 5 You see, the Messiah suffered a lot for us, and now we continue to suffer as the Messiah did because we belong to him. But now the Messiah also comforts us in the same abundant amount. 6 So whenever people cause us to suffer, it is so that God may comfort you and protect you spiritually. Whenever God comforts us, it is so that he may also comfort you. God does this as you patiently endure when people cause you to suffer just as people cause us to suffer. 7 We know that God will also comfort you as you suffer like we suffer. Therefore, we are very confident that you will continue trusting in Jesus.

8 For example, fellow believers, we want you to know about the bad things that happened to us in the province of Asia. They were so difficult that we felt that we could not endure them. We felt certain that we were going to die. 9 We felt like a person feels when he has heard a judge say, “I condemn you to die.” But God allowed us to feel that way so that we would learn to not rely on ourselves but, instead, to rely on God. He causes people who have died to live again. 10 Even though it seemed to us that we would certainly die, God rescued us from the people who wanted to kill us, and he will continue to rescue us from similar people. We confidently expect that he will rescue us again 11 as you help us by praying for us. Please do pray for us so that many people will thank God for what he will graciously do for us because many people prayed for us.

12 We are proud that we can honestly say that we have behaved toward all people in a holy and sincere way, as God has enabled us to do. We do not behave in the way that unbelievers think is wise. Instead, God graciously guides us, especially as we interact with you. 13 To see this, look at my letters. In all of my letters to you I have written only what you can easily read and understand. I hope that soon you will understand us completely 14 just as you partially understand us already. Then when our Lord Jesus returns, you will be just as proud of us as we will be proud of you.

15-16 Because I was confident that you were proud of me, I planned to visit you once on my way to the province of Macedonia, and then to visit you again as I returned from there. In that way, you would benefit twice from having me with you. Also, you could help supply what I would need to go from your city to the province of Judea. 17 I intended to visit you those two times, but then I did not come the second time. That does not mean that I changed my plan lightly. I do not make or change my plans according to what I might desire at the time. I do not say, "Yes, I will do that" and then quickly say, "No, I will not do it." 18 Just as God is faithful, we are completely sincere in everything that we say to you. We would never say, "Yes" when we really think, "No." 19 I and Silvanus and Timothy taught you about the Son of God, Jesus the Messiah. You know that he would never say, "Yes" if what he meant was, "No." Because of who he is, our message about him has also remained consistent and dependable. 20 Because of Jesus, we can rely on all of the promises of God. Jesus fulfills them all. Therefore, Jesus is also the one who enables us to say, "Yes, it is true" when we praise God. 21 It is God who causes us, along with you, to keep on believing strongly in the Messiah. God is also the one who has given us his Spirit so that we can serve him. 22 God gave us the Holy Spirit to live within us. That shows both that we belong to him and that he will also do for us everything else that he has promised to do for us.

23 So now I will tell you why I changed my mind and did not visit you again as I intended to do. May God strike me dead if I am lying, but he knows that what I am telling you is true. The reason that I did not return to Corinth was so that I might not grieve you by having to speak to you severely about the wrong things that you have done. 24 When I say that, I do not mean that we are your masters who give you orders about what to believe and do. Instead, everything that we tell you about living for God is so that you will be joyful. We do not need to command you, because God himself tells you what to believe and do.

2 1 I have not visited you because I have chosen to avoid visiting you if it hurts you and me like it did last time I visited you. 2 I chose not to visit you again because, when I hurt you, I have hurt the only people who can make me glad. 3 I already wrote in my previous letter what I am now saying to you. I wrote those things so that, when I next visited you, you would not hurt me, and I would be glad about you as I should. I wrote those things because I was sure about all of you that you would be glad when I was glad. 4 I suffered greatly and hurt inside when I wrote that previous letter to you. In fact, I wept while I wrote it. I sent it to you so that you would realize how much I care for you. I did not intend to hurt you.

5 However, the person who has hurt others did not really hurt me. Rather, that person hurt some of you. I use the word "some" so that I do not include all of you as those whom that person hurt. 6 Most of you together have disciplined that person. You do not need to do anything more. 7 So then, instead of disciplining that person, you should now forgive and encourage that person. Otherwise, the person will become very sad and give up.

8 Therefore, I encourage you to show publicly that you care for that person. 9 Another reason for which I wrote that previous letter was in order that I could find out for sure if you would do everything that I asked you to do. 10 In the end, when you forgive any person for anything, I too forgive that person. In fact, I have forgiven that person for what that person did, even though it was basically nothing. I did that to help you, as the Messiah desires. 11 We should forgive others so that Satan will not control us. Indeed, we know all about his plans to control us.

12 To return to how I traveled, when I arrived in the city of Troas, the Lord Jesus made it possible for me to proclaim the good news about the Messiah effectively. 13 However, since my fellow believer Titus was not in the city of Troas, I continued to be anxious about what happened when he visited you. Therefore, I said goodbye to the believers there and left to travel to the region of Macedonia.

14 Now we praise God! He is the one who, because he has united us to the Messiah, continually includes us as he conquers his enemies. Further, he uses us to reveal to people in many places what God is like. 15 In fact, we are like a pleasant smell that comes from Christ and that pleases God. We are like this smell when we are with people whom God is rescuing and when we are with people who are passing away. 16 Those who are passing away think that we are like a smell that comes from a dead body and that causes people to die. On the other hand, those whom God is rescuing think that we are like a smell that comes from a living thing and that causes people to live. No one can perfectly proclaim the good news in that way! 17 You can tell that we do not do so perfectly because we do not sell the message that God has given us for money, like many other people do. Rather, we only want to serve God, not to gain something. Indeed, we proclaim the good news because that is what God sent us to do. So, as those whom God has united to the Messiah, we proclaim the good news to please God, not people.

3 1 We are not going to prove to you a second time that we are trustworthy. As you know, you do not need to write or receive a note that proves that we are trustworthy, even though you might need to do those things for other people. 2 It is you all who function like a note that proves that we are trustworthy. When we care for each other, all people realize that we are trustworthy, just as if they read a note from you. 3 Everyone knows that you are like a note that the Messiah wrote and that we delivered. The Messiah did not write this note on stone slabs using dye. Rather, it is as if he wrote it inside you by working through the Holy Spirit, who is the only real God.

4 I say those things because we are sure about what God thinks of us. We are sure because the Messiah makes us sure. 5 Of course, we cannot proclaim the good news well on our own, and we do not think that anything we do well is because of us. Rather, God enables us to proclaim the good news well. 6 He has also enabled us to act on behalf of the new agreement.
The Holy Spirit gives this new agreement, so it is not just words that someone wrote down. This is important because people who rely on the Holy Spirit will live, but people who rely on words that someone wrote down will die.

7 Further, when Moses acted on behalf of the old agreement that condemned people to die, God carved the words of the agreement onto stone slabs. What Moses did was glorious enough that the Israelites could not gaze at his face afterwards because it reflected how glorious God is, although that would eventually go away. 8 So then, when people act on behalf of the new agreement that gives the Holy Spirit, that is even more glorious. 9 Indeed, when Moses acted on behalf of the old agreement that led to God condemning people, it was glorious. So then, when people act on behalf of the new agreement that leads to people becoming righteous, it is even more glorious! 10 In fact, the glorious old agreement does not look glorious at all because of how glorious the new agreement is. 11 Indeed, the old agreement that is going away was glorious. So then, the new agreement that will last forever is even more glorious!

12 So then, since we confidently expect to receive these glorious things, we behave very boldly. 13 We are not like Moses, who wore a cloth that hid his face. That way, the Israelites could not gaze at how his face stopped reflecting how glorious God is. 14 In fact, the Israelites did not understand what God revealed. Indeed, even now, when someone reads the Scriptures that contain the old agreement, it is as if the cloth that Moses wore keeps people from understanding it. That is because no one can understand these Scriptures until God unites them to the Messiah. 15 Indeed, even now, when someone reads the Law of Moses, it is as if that cloth keeps people from understanding it. 16 However, when people begin to trust the Lord God, God enables them to understand the Law of Moses, just as if he removed that cloth.
17 When I speak of the Lord God, I mean the Holy Spirit. It is the Holy Spirit who enables people to understand the Scriptures. 18 So, all of us who believe show how glorious the Lord God is, and we do so without a cloth covering our faces. God is changing us so that we are like the Messiah. In this way, the glorious Lord, who is the Holy Spirit, makes us glorious.

4 1 Because of those things, and because God mercifully enabled us to act on behalf of the new agreement, we do not give up. 2 Rather, we refuse to do anything that we would hide because it is disgraceful. We do not try to deceive others, and we do not change the message from God. Instead, we proclaim the true message, and we prove to everyone that God considers us trustworthy. 3 In fact, the only people who do not understood the good news that we proclaim are people who are passing away. 4 Satan, who rules the world right now, has kept these people who do not believe from understanding. That way, the good news about the glorious Messiah, who shows what God is like, does not change them. 5 I say that the good news is about the Messiah because we do not tell other people about ourselves. Rather, we tell them about Jesus the Messiah, the Lord, and about how we serve you because of him. 6 We do that because it is God who spoke these words: “What is dark will become bright.” He has enabled us to understand what is true about how glorious he is, just as if he had shined a light on us. God has revealed this in Jesus the Messiah.

7 We experience and proclaim these wonderful things, but we ourselves are weak and worthless. That way, it is clear that God causes these things to be so powerful, not we. 8 We experience many difficult things. People persecute us, but they do not overcome us. We are not sure what to do, but we do not give up. 9 People try to hurt us, but God does not abandon us. People act against us, but they do not defeat us. 10 We continually suffer physically, like Jesus did. That way, God will make us live again, just like he made Jesus live again. 11 Indeed, while we are living, God allows us to suffer continually because of Jesus. That way, even though we will die, God will make us live again, just like he made Jesus live again. 12 As you can see, God allows us to suffer, but he will make you live.

13 Now we are those who trust God, just like the person who wrote in the psalm, “I trusted God, so I spoke.” We too trust God, so we too speak. 14 We do that because we realize that God made Jesus alive again, so he will also make us alive again. Then we will be with Jesus and with you before God. 15 We do each of those things to help you. That way, God will act graciously to more people. Then, people will thank God more, which honors God.

16 Therefore, we do not give up. Instead, even though the part of us that people can see is perishing, every day God is strengthening the part of us that people cannot see. 17 We do not give up, because when we suffer in temporary and unimportant ways, that will cause us to become glorious forever and in important ways, ways that we cannot even imagine. 18 So, we pay attention to what we do not see rather than to what we see. That is because what we do not see will last forever, but what we see will pass away.

5 1 Indeed, we realize that the bodies we have on this earth will die. They are like tents that people destroy. However, God will give us new bodies that will live forever. They will be like buildings that God creates in the heavenly places. 2 In fact, we mourn how we live in these bodies. We want God to give us new bodies, just as if he was putting new clothes on us. These new bodies will be like buildings that God gives us from heaven. 3 Whenever we receive our new bodies, they will be like clothes that keep us from being naked.

4 Even further, while we have these bodies that are like tents, we mourn, and these bodies make living difficult. Because of that, it is not that we want to be without bodies, which would be like having no clothes. Rather, we want to receive new bodies, which will be like putting on new clothes. That way, we will live forever instead of expecting to die. 5 God is the one who makes us ready for these new bodies. He gave the Holy Spirit to us, which shows that he will also give us everything else that he has promised.

6 So then, we are confident at all times about what God will give us. Also, we realize that while we have these bodies, we are not with the Lord Jesus. 7 Indeed, we act as we do because we trust the Lord Jesus, not because we see him. 8 As I said, we are confident about what God will give us. Also, we would choose instead to be without our bodies and with the Lord Jesus. 9 So then, we strive to please the Lord Jesus whether we are with him or not. 10 We do that because all of us will have to appear before the Messiah and he will decide whether each one of us has done what is right or what is wrong. Then, he will give us what we deserve in proportion to what we did while we had these bodies.

11 So then, because we experience what it means to fear the Lord Jesus, we convince others to fear him also. God knows that we are trustworthy, and I want you also to know that we are trustworthy. 12 We are not proving to you a second time that we are trustworthy. Rather, we are enabling you to say great things about us. That way, you can respond to anybody who says great things about how people appear on the outside and not about who those people really are on the inside. 13 So, when we seem crazy, we are serving God. When we seem to think normally, we are serving you. 14 Those things are true because the Messiah loves us, and that directs us to act in certain ways. Here is how we think about it: one person, the Messiah, died to rescue all people. Because of that, it is as if all people died. 15 Further, this is why he died to rescue all people: that way, those who live spiritually will not do whatever they want anymore. Instead, they will do what the Messiah wants, since he died to rescue them and God made him alive again.

16 Because of all that, we do not think about anyone in merely human ways any longer. Indeed, although at one time we thought about the Messiah in merely human ways, we do not think about him in those ways any longer. 17 So then, whenever God unites people to the Messiah, he makes them new people. What they used to be has disappeared. Look, what they are now is something new! 18 God is the one who gives us every one of these things. By working through the Messiah, he has enabled us to be with him. Further, God empowers us to act so that others can also be with him. 19 Here is how that works: God works through Christ to enable every person to be with him. In doing so, he forgives people for what they have done wrong. Further, he commissions us to tell others about how they can be with God.

20 Because God has commissioned us, we represent the Messiah. So, God encourages others through us. We speak for the Messiah when we ask you to believe the good news so that you can be with God. 21 Jesus did not sin. Despite that, for our sake God treated him as if he had sinned. As a result, God makes us righteous by uniting us to Jesus.

6 1 As those who serve with God, we encourage you to accept fully what God has graciously done for you, so that it changes how you live. 2 You should do that because God says in the scripture:

> "When I considered it to be the right time, I heard you and acted.
> Indeed, when I was rescuing people, I assisted you."

Right now is when God considers it to be the best time! Indeed, right now is when God is rescuing people!

3 We avoid doing anything that might offend others. That way, no one can criticize how we serve God. 4 Rather, we prove that we are trustworthy in every way while we serve God. We always persevere when people hurt and persecute us. 5 We persevere when people strike us, put us in jail, and stir up crowds against us. We persevere when we work hard, do not sleep much, and go hungry. 6 We are free from evil things, we know what is true, and we do not easily become angry. We care for others, we have the Holy Spirit, and we love people sincerely. 7 We proclaim what is true, and God enables us to act powerfully. We are righteous, which is like having a sword in one hand and a shield in the other. 8 Some people honor us, and others shame us. Some people say bad things about us, and others say good things about us. Some people think that we tell lies, but really we speak what is true. 9 Some people think that nobody acknowledges us, but really, God acknowledges us. Some people think that we are dying, but really, we are alive! Some people think that God is punishing us, but really, he has not decided that we should die. 10 Some people think that we mourn, but really, we continually rejoice. Some people think that we are needy, but really, we help many people gain what is truly valuable. Some people think that we do not have anything, but really, we have everything.

11 Fellow believers in the city of Corinth, we have told you what is true, and we care for you greatly. 12 We are not the ones who have stopped caring for you. Rather, it is you who have stopped caring for us. 13 Now I will speak to you as if you thought in simple ways like children do: since we care for you, it would only be right if you cared for us in return.

14 Do not join in with people who do not trust the Messiah. I say that because what is right and what is wrong have nothing in common. Further, what is good shares nothing with what is evil. 15 The Messiah does not agree about anything with the devil Beliar. Further, people who trust the Messiah do not belong with people who do not trust the Messiah. 16 God's temple does not go together with other gods. In fact, it is as if we who believe were the only real God's temple. You can tell that we are God's temple because God spoke these words in the Scriptures:

> "I will be with my people.
> Indeed, I will not leave them.
> They will consider me to be their God > and I will consider them to be my people."

17 So then, we should do what the Lord God says in the Scriptures:

> "Get away from people who do not serve me.
> Make sure that you are different than them.
> Stay away from anything that defiles you."
> He says, "Then, I will gladly receive you."

18 Further, the Lord God, who rules all things, says,

> "I will be your father.
> You will be my sons and daughters."

7 1 So then, fellow believers whom I love, because God has promised these things to us, we should get rid of everything that defiles us on the outside and on the inside. We should become completely holy as we fear God.

2 We ask you to care for us! We have not hurt, cheated, or destroyed anyone. 3 I am not saying these things to blame you. In fact, as I have already written in this letter, we care for you greatly, no matter what happens. 4 I am very confident that you will do what is right. In fact, I often say great things about you. You encourage me greatly, and I rejoice very much about you even while we are suffering.

5 Now to return to how I traveled, when we arrived in Macedonia, things did not get easier for us. Instead, we suffered in many ways. Other people quarreled with us, and we ourselves were often afraid. 6 However, God encourages people who feel discouraged. He encouraged us by having Titus join us. 7 God encouraged us partly by having Titus join us, but even more by how what you did encourages Titus. He has told us that you want to see me, that you are sorry for what you did, and that you strive to honor me. Because of those things, I rejoiced more than I did before.

8 I am not sorry that I wrote the previous letter, even though I hurt you with what I wrote. In fact, the only reason I would be sorry that I wrote it is that I know that the letter hurt you, although only for a little while. 9 However, now that Titus has told us about you, I am very happy. I am happy not because I hurt you. Rather, I am happy because when I hurt you, you became sorry for what you did and stopped doing it. In fact, you felt hurt in a way that honors God. So, we have not deprived you of anything good. 10 That is because, when people feel hurt in a way that honors God, it causes them to be sorry for what they did and stop doing it. They are not sorry that they felt hurt, because God uses how they feel to rescue them. However, when people feel hurt in the way that most people do, how they feel eventually causes them to die. 11 As for you, when you felt hurt in this way that honors God, it certainly caused you to be very eager to do what is right. You argued that you were not guilty. You were upset about what had happened. You feared what might happen. You wanted to see us. You strove to honor us. You punished the person who had done what was wrong. By doing all those things, you have shown that you have done what is right in response to what happened. 12 So then, when I sent the previous letter to you, I was not primarily dealing with the person who did what was wrong.

Also, I was not primarily dealing with the person whom he hurt. Rather, I intended to show you how eager you are to act rightly toward us and that God approves of this. 13 Since you responded in these ways, you have encouraged us.

In fact, although you did encourage us, we are even more happy about how you made Titus happy. You did that when you all comforted and strengthened him. 14 We were this happy because you did not disgrace me after I had said great things about you to Titus. Instead, Titus found out that the great things we said about you were actually true. This is just like how everything we told you was also true. 15 Titus recalls how you all obeyed us, particularly how you feared him when he arrived. Because of that, he cares about you even more now. 16 I am happy that I am completely sure that you are doing what is right.

8 1 My fellow believers, we want to tell you about what God has graciously enabled the groups of believers here in Macedonia province to do. 2 Even though they suffered very much, which tested how they would respond, they were extremely generous. They were very joyful as they did this, even though they had very little. 3 In fact, I can tell you that they offered as much as they could afford, and even more than they could afford. They were the ones who chose to do this. 4 They were very insistent when they urged us to accept what they were giving. They wanted to share in serving God's people. 5 Further, they did even more than what we had expected. They dedicated themselves primarily to serving the Lord Jesus and then also to serving us. That is just what God wants. 6 Because of that, we encouraged Titus to finish accepting what you are giving, especially since he had already started doing so. 7 As for you, you are already doing well in so many ways. This includes how you trust God, what you say, how much you know, how you are always eager to do what is right, and how much we love you. So, you should also do well in giving money for fellow believers.

8 I am not ordering you to give money. Rather, I want to show that you really care for fellow believers by comparing what you do with how other people are always eager to give money. 9 You should be eager to give money because you realize that our Lord, Jesus the Messiah, kindly gave up everything he had to help you. He did that even though he had very many things. He wanted to give you many things by himself giving up what he had.

10 I am telling you what I think about giving money, because hearing what I think helps you. Last year, you both wanted to and did start giving money. 11 Right now, you should finish what you started. That way, what you finish doing matches what you eagerly wanted to do, which is to give some of what you have. 12 Now God approves of what people give based on what they have, not based on what they do not have. This is true as long as they are eager to give.

13 So, it is not that I want you to suffer while other believers do well. Rather, I want believers to share what they have equally. 14 Right now, how much you have can help people who do not have much. Then, when those people have much and you have little, they can help you. That way, believers share what they have equally. 15 We want it to be like what someone wrote when God powerfully gave food to the Israelites:

> "The people who had much did not have more than they needed.
> The people who had little did not have less than they needed."

16 We thank God for causing Titus to be eager to care for you, just like we are. 17 Indeed, he is visiting you partly because he listened to us urging him to do so. Mostly, however, he is visiting you because he is so eager to care for you that he himself chose to visit you. 18 We have chosen a fellow believer to go with Titus. Many groups of believers commend him because of what he does for the sake of the good news. 19 More than that, the groups of believers selected him to travel with me. He is helping us as we work to accept money for the believers in Jerusalem. Accepting this money honors the Lord God and demonstrates how eager we are to care for fellow believers.

20 So, we are doing what we can to keep others from criticizing us for what we do with this money that people have generously given. 21 As you can see, before we started to collect this money, we planned how to do it well. We considered what the Lord God thinks, but we also considered what other people think.

22 We have chosen another fellow believer to go with Titus and the other man I have been speaking about. We have tested him and know for sure that he is eager to serve God. In fact, because he is very confident that you will do what is right, right now he is particularly eager to serve with you. 23 I recommend these men. Titus joins me in what I do and works with me to help you. The groups of believers send the other two fellow believers, and they honor the Messiah. 24 So then, show these three men and also the groups of believers that you really do care for fellow believers and that the great things we say about you really are true.

9 1 Really, though, I do not need to say anything to you about how we are serving God's people in Jerusalem. 2 That is because I recognize how eager you are to give. In fact, I say great things about you to the believers in Macedonia province. I tell them that you believers in Achaia province were already preparing to give last year. How eager you were to give has encouraged most of them to give also. 3 However, although we know that you are eager, we have chosen these three fellow believers to visit you to make sure that the great things we say about how you are eager to give prove true. They are visiting you so that you can finish preparing to give and in this way match what I have told the Macedonians about you. 4 On the other hand, think about what would happen were some believers from Macedonia province to visit you with me and discover that you had not finished preparing to give. How you had acted would shame even us, and it would most definitely shame you. 5 Because of that, I decided that I needed to ask these three fellow believers to visit you before I do and help you with what you said you would give. That way, you will have already prepared what you are giving, and you will offer it because you want to and not because we are making you do it.

6 Here is an example that illustrates how you should give. When farmers plant only a few seeds, they harvest only a little food. When farmers plant many seeds, they harvest much food. Much like that, when you help other people, someone will help you in return. 7 Each of you should choose for yourself how much to give. Do not choose how much to give because you feel hurt or because you have to. I say that because God cares for people who give gladly. 8 God can graciously give you more than you need. That way, because you always have everything you need in every situation, you can always do everything that is right. 9 You can tell that is true because someone wrote about this kind of person in the Scriptures,

> "They give to many people.
> Yes, they help those who have very little.
> They will do what is right forever."

10 God provides the seeds for the one who plants them, and he provides food for people to eat. So, he will also provide what you need and give you more of it. Further, when you do what is right, he will use that to accomplish good things. 11 God consistently gives you more than you need so that you can always generously give to others. When you give generously and we send your gifts to fellow believers, they thank God.

12 In fact, when you serve God's people in Jerusalem by giving to them, it provides what they need. Even more, though, it causes them to thank God very much. 13 You prove yourselves by serving God's people in Jerusalem. So then, they will honor God because you actually do what the good news about the Messiah requires, which is the same good news that you say you believe. They will honor God also because you generously share what you have with them and with all believers. 14 Further, they will want to see you as they pray for you, since you give very graciously as God enables you to. 15 We thank God for giving us these things that are more wonderful than we can say!

10 1 Now I will speak about myself, Paul. I am humbly and reasonably urging you to do what is right, just like the Messiah was humble and reasonable. Some people say that when I was with you in person, I was gentle with you, but now, when I am away, I am forceful with you.
2 I do intend to be forceful when I boldly act against these people who think that I and those who serve with me act in merely human ways. So, I ask you to do what is right so that I will not need to be forceful with you too when I visit you. 3 In fact, although we act as humans, we do not defend ourselves in merely human ways. 4 In fact, what we use to defend ourselves is not what humans normally use. Rather, God empowers what we use to defend ourselves so that we can defeat what other people powerfully argue. 5 We also defeat anything that people claim is greater than knowing God. Further, we work to influence everything that people think so that they obey the Messiah. 6 At the time when you fully obey the Messiah, we will be ready to punish anyone who disobeys him.

7 Think about what is obvious. Suppose that people are sure that they represent the Messiah. Those people need to remember that we too represent the Messiah, just like they do.
8 Indeed, I do not disgrace myself when I say many great things about how the Lord Jesus has empowered us to represent him. He did that so that we could encourage and help you to trust

God more, not so that we could discourage you from trusting God. 9 So, you can tell that I am not trying to scare you when I send forceful letters to you. 10 I write that because some people say about me, "He sends severe and powerful letters to us, but he is feeble and speaks very poorly when he is with us." 11 People who say those things need to realize that what we write in our letters to you when we are not with you is also how we act when we are with you.

12 We are too humble to say that we are as good as people you know who say that they are trustworthy. Those people are foolish. When they say that they are great, they are looking only at themselves. 13 In contrast, we do not say great things about ourselves beyond what we actually do. Rather, we say great things about ourselves that match with what God has given us to do. That includes what we do whenever we are with you. 14 In fact, only if we had not actually visited you would what God has given us to do not include you. Of course, we really have already visited you and told you the good news about the Messiah.

15 We do not say great things about ourselves because of what others do but because of what we actually do. In fact, we confidently expect that God will give us even more to do with you. That will happen when you trust God more. 16 That way, we can tell the good news to people who live even further away from us than you do. That is what we plan to do instead of saying great things about ourselves because of how other people have done what God has given them to do. 17 Everyone should do what the prophet Jeremiah wrote,

"Anyone who says great things should say them about the Lord God."

18 Everyone should do that because the Lord Jesus recommends those whom he says are trustworthy, not those who say that about themselves.

11 1 Next, I hope that you will be patient with me as I say a few things that I consider foolish. I know that you are patient with me! 2 I will say foolish things because I am protective of you as God is protective of you. In fact, when I told you the good news, I was like a father who promised to give you to a man as his wife. Just like this father wants his daughter to be with only this one man, so I want you to trust only in the Messiah. 3 However, I fear that someone will trick you, just as Satan cleverly tricked Eve, the first woman. I fear that such a person will ruin how you think in ways that are completely loyal to the Messiah. 4 I fear for you because I know that people visit you and tell you about Jesus, but it is not the same Jesus we told you about. Others offer you a spirit, but it is not the Holy Spirit that we offered to you. Others proclaim good news to you, but it is not the same good news that you first believed. Despite that, you are very patient when people tell you about these things.

5 I want you to believe what we first told you because I think that the Messiah acts through me as much as through those who say that they represent him the best. 6 Although I have not learned how to speak very well, despite that, I have learned to know what is true. I show you that this is true whenever I say or do anything.

7 You know that I did not sin against you when I did not ask you to pay me for proclaiming to you the good news from God. By doing that, I made myself less important to make you more important. 8 In fact, I received money from other groups of believers. I accepted their money so that I could serve you. 9 Further, when I was with you, I did not have everything that I needed. However, I did not bother any of you by asking for money. I could do that because our fellow believers who traveled with me from Macedonia province gave me everything that I needed. Indeed, in every situation, I did not and never will bother you by asking for money for myself. 10 No one who lives in any part of Achaia province will be able to keep me from saying great things about how I did not bother you. What I am saying is as true as if the Messiah were saying it. 11 My reason for not bothering you is not that I do not care for you. God can testify that I do care for you.

12 Rather, here is my reason for why I will continue not to bother you. That way, I can prevent anyone from being able to say such great things about themselves as we say about ourselves. I know that some people want to do this. 13 Those people are not really those whom the Messiah sent to represent him. They deceive people with what they do, and they can only pretend to represent the Messiah. 14 That should not surprise us. The devil also pretends to be a glorious spiritual being. 15 So then, we should expect those who serve him also to pretend to help people become righteous. God will eventually give them what they deserve in proportion to what they have done.

16 I repeat what I said earlier: I do not want anyone to think that I am foolish. However, if you do think that I am foolish, you should at least allow me to act in foolish ways. That way, I too can say a few great things about myself. 17 What I am about to say is not how I speak when I am representing the Lord Jesus. Rather, I am about to speak foolishly as I prove that I can say great things about myself. 18 Many other people say great things about themselves in merely human ways. So, I too will say great things about myself. 19 I know that you will listen to me, because you consider yourselves to be wise people, so you are happy to be patient with other people who act foolishly. 20 In fact, you are patient when people treat you badly. They may force you to obey them. They may use up what you have. They may cheat you. They may say they are better than you. They may insult you. However, you are still patient with them. 21 If that is the right way for powerful people to treat you, then I admit that how we acted when we were with you shames us and proves that we are weak. On the other hand, whatever other people dare to do, I too can dare to do. Of course, I say these things only because I am acting foolishly. 22 Those people say they are Jews who speak Hebrew, but I also am a Jew and speak Hebrew. They say they are Israelites, but I also am an Israelite. They say they are descendants of Abraham, but I also am a descendant of Abraham. 23 They say they serve the Messiah, but I serve the Messiah even more. Of course, I am talking like a crazy person. However, I have worked harder than they have. People have put me in jail more than them. People have struck me very many times. I have almost died many times. 24 Five different times Jewish leaders had someone strike me the maximum number of times: 39. 25 Three different times leaders had someone repeatedly hit me with a stick. One time people threw stones at me to kill me. Three different times the ship I was sailing in sank. I have survived for 24 hours in the middle of the ocean. 26 I travel frequently. I go through dangerous places, including rivers, towns, deserts, and oceans. There are always people who could hurt me, including thieves, Jewish people, non-Jewish people, and people who pretend to be fellow believers. 27 I work very hard. I frequently do not sleep much. I do not have enough to eat or drink. I frequently go hungry. I sometimes freeze and do not have enough clothing. 28 Besides everything else that I could mention, I anxiously think daily about all the groups of believers. 29 When a fellow believer is feeble, I am feeble. When someone causes a fellow believer to sin, I become very angry.

30 Since I need to say great things about myself, I intend to say great things about how feeble I am. 31 We all will forever honor the God and Father of the Lord Jesus. He can testify that what I am saying is true.

32 When I was in Damascus city, the local ruler who served King Aretas had soldiers looking for me in the city to capture me. 33 However, fellow believers helped me get away from the local ruler. They put me in a large basket, attached it to a rope, and let it down through an opening in the city wall.

12 1 I need to say great things about myself. So, although it is not helpful, I am moving on to speak about how the Lord Jesus specially shows things to specific people. 2 Fourteen years ago, God took a certain Christian to the third level of heaven. I am not sure whether God took him there physically or in a dream or spiritually. Only God can be sure how it happened. 3 Now I will tell you more about that specific Christian. Again, I am not sure whether God took him to the third level of heaven physically or in a dream or spiritually. Only God can be sure how it happened. 4 God took that person into Paradise, the place in heaven where dead believers are. There, he heard amazing things that he cannot repeat to anyone. 5 I could say great things about that, since the person I have been talking about is me. However, I will only say great things about how feeble I am. 6 In fact, suppose that I did want to say great things about myself. Since I am speaking truthfully, I would still not be acting foolishly. However, I decide not to say great things about myself. That way, people can only characterize me by what they observe me saying and doing. 7 So then, in order that I might not become proud because God revealed such great things to me, he allowed me to suffer. Specifically, a spiritual being whom Satan sent made me suffer. That way, I might not become proud. 8 I asked the Lord Jesus three different times to make me stop suffering in that way. 9 He responded by saying to me, "When I act kindly to you, that is all you need. In fact, I make people fully powerful when they are feeble." Therefore, I will most happily say more great things about how feeble I am. That way, the Messiah will always enable me to act powerfully. 10 So then, I am happy when bad things happen to me because I serve the Messiah. This includes when I am feeble, when people say bad things about me, when people hurt me, when people persecute me, and when I struggle. I am happy because God empowers me when I am feeble.

11 I have been speaking foolishly, which is what you forced me to do. You forced me because you should be saying that I am trustworthy, but you are not saying that. You should be saying that because I am just as great as any people who say that they represent the Messiah the best. That is true even though I am not great at all. 12 I persevered in acting in the ways that prove to you that I really am one whom the Messiah sent to represent him. I did powerful and amazing things. 13 Further, I did not treat you like you were less important than any other group of believers. The only way I acted differently with you was that I did not bother you by asking you for money. If that was actually wrong, please forgive me for doing it!

14 Pay attention! I am about to visit you for the third time. Yet again, I will not bother you by asking for money. That is because I want you to trust me and the Messiah. I do not want the things that you have. In fact, since I am like your parent, I should be saving money for you. Further, since you are like my children, you should not be saving money for me. 15 I will most happily do and experience anything to help you. When I love you more than I did before, you should not love me less than you did before.

16 You can agree, then, that I personally did not bother you by asking for money. However, perhaps I am a clever person. Maybe I somehow tricked you into giving me money.
17 However, I have not had anyone visit you who has acted for me by cheating you. 18 For example, I asked Titus to visit you, and I had a fellow believer go with him. You know that Titus did not cheat you. He and I live the same way and do the same things.

19 You should know that the reason why we have said these things is not to explain to you that I and those who serve with me are trustworthy. Rather, as those whom God has united to the Messiah, we have been saying what pleases God. Of course, fellow believers whom we love, we intend everything we say and do to help you grow. 20 I have said these things because I am concerned about what will happen when I visit. I am concerned that I will discover that you are not acting as I want you to act and that you will discover that I am not acting as you want me to act. I am concerned that you may be fighting with each other, being jealous of each other, being angry with each other, trying to control each other, saying bad things about each other, telling false stories about others, saying great things about yourselves, or stirring up crowds against each other. 21 I am concerned about what will happen when I visit you this third time. God may make me ashamed about you. Further, I may feel very sad about many people who have previously done what is wrong and have not stopped having improper sex.

13 1 The scripture says: “At least two or three witnesses must say the same thing about someone before we can believe that it is true.” Be aware that the next time that I visit you will be the third time that I will be a witness to what you are doing. 2 When I visited you the second time, I warned all of you that I was going to punish everyone among you who had been sinning. And now I am warning you again while I am still away from you. When I visit you this third time, I will punish everyone who has been sinning. 3 I tell you this because you have demanded that I prove to you that the Messiah is speaking to you when I speak to you. You will know this when he disciplines you. He will not be weak with you; instead, he will work powerfully among you. 4 You see, as a man, the Messiah allowed himself to be weak when people nailed him to a cross. But God is powerful, and he has made him alive again. We, too, are weak human beings, as he was. But God also works powerfully in us to make us live as the Messiah does, so we will work powerfully among you.

5 Each of you should ask yourself: "Do I trust the Messiah and live as he directs me?" Each of you should test yourself in this way. Then you will know that you truly live as one with Jesus the Messiah. That is true unless, of course, you fail this test. 6 As for us, I am certain that you will understand that we have passed the test. 7 We pray to God that you may not be doing any bad things. We pray for this, not because we want people to consider that we have been successful in disciplining you, but so that you would be doing good things. We want this for you even if it means that people consider that we have failed because you did not need us. 8 We want you to do good things even if then we cannot discipline you and appear to be powerful because we must obey God's true message. We cannot do anything that contradicts God's true message. 9 We are happy when people think that we are weak, because you are strong in obeying God without needing discipline from us. This is the very thing that we pray for, that you may decide to trust and obey God completely. 10 It is because I want you to trust and obey God completely that I am writing to you about these things while I am apart from you. Then when I come to you, I will not have to discipline you severely. The Lord has empowered me to represent him, but he did that so that I could encourage and help you to trust God more, not so that I could discourage you from trusting God.

11 Here are the last things that I want to say to you, my fellow believers. Be joyful! Live in the way that God wants you to live. Let the things that I have said to you encourage you to trust God more. Agree with each other about the important things. Live peacefully with each other. If you do these things, God will be with you. He is the one who enables you to love and to be peaceful with others. 12 Greet each other affectionately in a way that is appropriate for those who are members of God's family. All of God's people here send greetings to you.

13 May the Lord Jesus the Messiah act kindly toward you, may God love you, and may the Holy Spirit be with you and join you all together.

Galatians

1 1 I, Paul, write this letter to you. I remind you that God sent me to represent him. That is not because a group of people appointed me, nor because a human being sent me to be an apostle. Instead, I am an apostle because Jesus the Messiah and God the Father have appointed and sent me to be an apostle—yes, God the Father, who made the Messiah alive again after he died! 2 All the fellow believers who are here with me approve of this message that I am writing. I am sending this letter to the congregations that are in the province of Galatia. 3 May God our Father and our Lord Jesus the Messiah continue to be kind to you and make you peaceful. 4 The Messiah offered himself as a sacrifice in order that he might remove the guilt for the sinful things we have done. He did that in order that he might enable us to not do the evil things that people who do not know him do. He did this because God, who is our Father, wanted it.
5 Because that is true, let us praise God forever and ever. May it be so!

6 I am very disappointed that so soon after you trusted in the Messiah you are turning away from God. God chose you to be in a relationship that is based on the kindness of the Messiah. I am also disappointed that so soon you are believing a different message which some say is "good news." 7 Their message is not a true message. What is happening is that certain persons are confusing your minds. They are desiring to change the good news about the Messiah and are creating another message. 8 But even if we apostles or an angel from heaven would tell you a message that is different from the good news that we told you before, I appeal to God that he would punish such a person forever. 9 As we told you previously, so now I tell you this once more: Someone is telling you what he says is good news, but it is a message that is different from the good news that I gave you. So I appeal to God that he eternally condemn that person. 10 I said that because I do not desire that people approve me, contrary to what some people have said about me. It is God whom I desire to approve me. Specifically, I do not say and do things just to please people. If it were still people whom I was trying to please, then I would not be one who willingly and completely serves the Messiah.

11 My fellow believers, I want you to know that the message about the Messiah that I proclaim to people is not one that some person created. 12 I was not given this good news by a human being, and no human being taught it to me. Instead, it was God who revealed Jesus the Messiah to me.

13 People have told you how I used to behave when I practiced the Jewish religion. They told you that I continually did very harmful things to the groups of believers belonging to God, and they told you that I tried to get rid of those people. 14 I was practicing the Jewish religion more thoroughly than many other Jews who were my age were practicing it. I was also trying much more enthusiastically to get others to obey the traditions that my ancestors kept.
15 Nevertheless, before I was born God selected me for a special task and he kindly chose me. When God thought that it was good, 16 he showed me who his Son really is. He did this so that I would tell others the good news about his Son in regions where the non-Jews live. But I did not immediately go to any human beings in order to gain an understanding of that message.
17 I also did not immediately leave Damascus and go to Jerusalem for that purpose to those who were representatives of Jesus before I was. Rather, I went away into the region of Arabia, a desert area. Later I returned once more to the city of Damascus. 18 Then three years after God revealed this good news to me, I went up to the city of Jerusalem in order that I might meet Peter. But I remained with him for only fifteen days. 19 I also saw James, the brother and representative of our Lord Jesus, but I did not see any other representatives of Jesus. 20 God knows that what I am writing to you is completely true! 21 After I left Jerusalem, I went into the regions of Syria and Cilicia. 22 At that time people in the Christian congregations who were in the province of Judea still had not met me personally 23 They only heard others say about me repeatedly, “Paul, the one who in the past was doing harmful things to us, is now telling the same message which we believe and which formerly he was trying to cause people to stop believing!” 24 So they kept praising God because he had caused me to believe in Jesus and because I was now telling people the good news about him.

2 1 After fourteen years passed, I went up again to Jerusalem with Barnabas. I also took Titus. 2 I went up there because of what God revealed to me. It was not because someone asked me to come. I told people the content of the good news that I preach to non-Jews. But I spoke privately to those whom your new teachers highly respect so that what I was doing and what I had done might not become useless. That could have happened if people rejected my message because they thought that I was teaching falsely, which could have happened if the leaders in Jerusalem would have disagreed with my message. 3 But those leaders did not even require Titus, who was with me and was an uncircumcised Gentile, to be circumcised. 4 But this problem occurred because some people demanded that Titus be circumcised after they had successfully pretended that they were fellow believers and associated with the true believers. They associated with the true believers in order that they might observe closely what we do because we are free from having to obey all the Jewish laws and rituals because of our close relationship with the Messiah Jesus. Those people wanted to make us like slaves of those rituals by convincing us that we cannot trust the Messiah solely but that we must also obey all the Jewish laws and rituals. 5 But not even briefly did we do what they wanted regarding circumcision. We resisted them in order that you might continue to have, and benefit from, the true, correct, and unmodified good news. 6 The leaders in Jerusalem, whom your new teachers respect, did not add anything to what I proclaim. And I would add that what status those leaders had did not influence me, because God does not favor important and powerful persons more than others. 7 Instead of those leaders adding to the content of the message that I tell people, they understood that God had given me the good news so that I might proclaim it to the non-Jews, just like God had given the good news to Peter so that he might tell it to those who are Jews. 8 That is, just like God had authorized and empowered Peter in order that he might be a representative of Jesus to take God's message to the Jews, he also had authorized and empowered me in order that I might be a representative of Jesus to take God's message to the non-Jews. 9 Those leaders knew that God had kindly given to me this special mission. So James, Peter, and John, the ones whom your new teachers respect because they are leaders of the believers, shook hands with us to show that they agreed that Barnabas and I are serving the Lord just like they are, and that we are preaching the same message that they are preaching. They also agreed that we are the ones whom God was sending to tell his message to non-Jews, but that God is sending them to tell his message to Jews. 10 They only urged us to still remember to help the poor among the fellow believers who live in Jerusalem. That is exactly what I have been eager to do.

11 But later, Peter became guilty of doing wrong things. This happened while he was visiting us in the city of Antioch. So I confronted him directly about those things. 12 This is what happened: Peter had been eating with the non-Jewish believers there. But then some men came who were from the group of Jewish believers in Jerusalem that James was leading. These men said that believers should keep the Jewish laws. Peter was afraid of what people who want Jewish believers to keep the Jewish laws might do, and so he began to withdraw from the non-Jews and eat with only the Jewish believers. 13 Also, the other Jewish believers who were in Antioch acted in a way that they knew was not right, along with Peter, when they separated themselves from the non-Jewish believers. The result was that they convinced even Barnabas to stop associating with the non-Jewish believers! 14 I had realized that they were not acting forthrightly and in a manner that was consistent with the correct facts and teachings of the good news about the Messiah. So when all the fellow believers had come together, I told Peter the following: "Although you are a Jew, you often conduct yourself like non-Jews do by disregarding Jewish laws about food. When you are among non-Jews, you do not customarily conduct yourself at all like Jews do. So, now it is wrong that you are causing non-Jews to think that they must obey all the Jewish rituals and customs! 15 We were born as Jews. We were not born as non-Jews. We Jews have always considered non-Jews to be 'sinners' because they do not obey the Jewish rituals and laws. 16 But we Jewish believers now know that it is not because some person obeys those things that God commanded in the laws he gave the Jews that God makes a person righteous. God makes a person righteous only if that person trusts in the Messiah Jesus. So even we Jews have trusted the Messiah Jesus. We did that so God would declare us good in his sight, because we trust the Messiah, and not because we try to obey the laws that God gave to Moses. We did that because God has said that he will not declare anyone good in his sight just because they obey those laws. 17 Furthermore, because we Jewish believers desired that God would make us righteous because of our relationship with the Messiah, it means that we ourselves, like non-Jews whom we called sinners, also disobeyed the laws and rituals that God gave Moses. But we certainly cannot conclude that it is the Messiah who causes us to sin. No, the Messiah certainly does not cause anyone to sin.

18 If I again believed that God would make me righteous because of my obeying the laws that he gave to Moses, I would be like a man who rebuilds an old building that he had torn down. If I did that I would show that I was guilty of acting wrongly. 19 I realized that God would not regard me as righteous because I tried to obey the laws that he gave to Moses. So I have decided not to respond to what those laws demand, just like a dead person does not respond to anything. I decided to do this so that I may now live to serve God. It is as though I was with the Messiah when he died on the cross. 20 My old way of living ended since I began believing in the Messiah. No longer am I directing the way I behave as I did before I believed in the Messiah. Now the Messiah is directing how I behave. And whatever I do now while I live in my earthly body, I do it by trusting in God's Son. He is the one who loved me and offered himself as a sacrifice for me. 21 I am not rejecting as useless what God kindly did for me, as my opponents are doing. If God considers people to be righteous because they obey the laws that he gave to Moses, then the Messiah died needlessly!"

3 1 You fellow believers who live in Galatia are acting mindlessly! Someone must have put an evil spell on you! I clearly explained to you what Jesus the Messiah accomplished when he died on the cross. 2 So, I want to tell you this one thing: God did not give you his Holy Spirit because you obeyed the laws that he gave Moses. Surely you must know that the reason he gave you his Holy Spirit is because when you heard the good news about the Messiah you believed it. 3 You are acting very foolishly! You first became Christians because God's Spirit enabled you. So, you should not now think that it is because of what you do by obeying the laws God gave Moses that you will continue to grow spiritually. 4 Keep in mind that if what God has done for you was because of your obeying the laws that God gave to Moses and not because of trusting in the Messiah then you suffered many things needlessly! I certainly hope that you did not suffer like that needlessly. 5 So then, when God now generously gives to you his Spirit and performs mighty deeds among you, it is not because you obey the laws that God gave to Moses? Surely you know it is because when you heard the good news about the Messiah you believed it!

6 What you have experienced is just as Moses had written in the scriptures about Abraham. He wrote that Abraham trusted God, and as a result, God considered Abraham as being righteous. 7 You must realize, therefore, that it is those who trust in what the Messiah has done who are like Abraham's descendants because they trust in God as Abraham did. 8 Furthermore, God planned beforehand that it was when non-Jews trusted him that he would consider them righteous. Moses wrote in the Scriptures this good message that God told Abraham: "Through you, I will bless people in all nations." 9 So, we can conclude that it is those who trust in what the Messiah has done whom God blesses along with Abraham, the one who trusted him long ago. 10 That is, God will eternally punish all those who mistakenly think that God will consider them righteous as a result of their trying to obey the laws that God gave to Moses. What Moses wrote in the Scriptures is that God will eternally punish everyone who does not continuously and completely obey all the laws that God instructed him to write in the Book of the Law. 11 God does not regard any person as righteous as a result of their trying to obey the laws that he gave to Moses. This is evident since the Scriptures say, "Every righteous person lives spiritually as a result of their trusting God." 12 But when God gave his laws to the Jews, he did not make them dependent upon a person believing in him. Instead God said that it is those who obey all God's laws, continuously and completely, who will live through obeying them.

13 Even though we humans have not continuously and completely obeyed God's laws, the Messiah rescued us from God punishing us eternally. The Messiah rescued us by his being the one God condemned instead of God condemning us. What Moses wrote in the Scriptures shows that this is true. He wrote, "God has cursed anyone whom people have executed for his crimes by hanging his body on a tree." 14 The Messiah rescued us in order that as a result of what he has done, God might bless the non-Jews, in a way similar to the way God blessed Abraham. The reason for this is that as a result of our trusting in the Messiah, we all might receive the Holy Spirit whom God promised to give to us.

15 My fellow believers, I will now illustrate by referring to human relationships. After two people have signed an agreement, no one can reject it or add to it. 16 God declared to Abraham and his descendant that he was promising to give blessings to Abraham. The words that God spoke were not "and your descendants." He was not referring to many persons. Instead, he was referring to one person, who is the Messiah, because the words that God spoke were, "and your descendant." 17 This is what I am saying: God established an agreement with Abraham that the laws which he gave to the Jews 430 years later could not cancel. 18 I want you to know that if it is because we obey the laws God gave to the Jews that he gives to us what he has promised to give to us, then he would not be giving it because he had promised to do so. However, God kindly gave to Abraham what he had promised to give to him, just because God had promised that he would give it to him. Similarly, it is not because we obey God's laws that God kindly gives to us what he has promised to give to us.

19 So, if someone should ask, "Why did God later give his laws to Moses?" I would reply that it was in order that people might realize how sinful they were. Those laws were valid until Jesus came. He was the descendant that God was referring to when he made the promises to Abraham. God gave his laws to Moses by God's causing angels to speak to him. Moses was the mediator, the one who told the laws to the people. 20 Now, when a mediator functions, one person is not speaking with another directly; but God himself made his promises directly to Abraham.

21 If someone should ask, “When God gave his laws to Moses long after he told Abraham what he was promising to give to him, was he changing his mind?” I would reply that God certainly did not change his mind when he did that! If God had given a law that could enable people to live eternally and spiritually, then it certainly would be because of people obeying that law that God would consider people righteous. 22 But, in fact, it is impossible for the law to enable people to live eternally or spiritually. Instead, the law given in the Scriptures caused all people to be unable to escape being punished for their sins, just like people in prison are unable to escape. God did that in order that he might give what he promised to those who trust Jesus Christ, just because they trust him. 23 Before God revealed the good news about trusting in the Messiah, the laws that God gave to Moses were confining us, as a prisoner in jail is confined. This happened until the time we might believe the good news concerning the Messiah, the good news that God was about to reveal and now has. 24 Like a father supervises his immature child by appointing a servant to take care of that child, God was supervising us by his laws until the Messiah came. He did this in order that he might now declare us righteous in his sight only because we trust in the Messiah. 25 But now that God has revealed the message about trusting in the Messiah, the laws that God gave to Moses no longer supervise us.

26 Now all of you Jews and non-Jews are as though you are God’s children because you trust in the Messiah Jesus. You are now in close spiritual union with the Messiah Jesus because you believe in Him. 27 That is, you who began a relationship with the Messiah when you were baptized identified yourselves with Christ. 28 If you believe in the Messiah, it does not matter to God if you are Jews or non-Jews; slaves or ones who are not slaves; males or females, because all of you are as one sort of person because of your relationship with the Messiah Jesus. 29 Furthermore, since you belong to the Messiah, you are like Abraham’s descendants because you trust God as Abraham did, and you will possess what God promised Abraham.

4 1 Now, I will further discuss children and heirs. An heir is a person who will later possess and control all that his father has. But as long as that heir is a child, others control him, with the result that he is just like a slave. 2 Until the day that his father has previously determined, other persons supervise the child and manage his property. 3 Likewise, when we were spiritually immature because we did not yet believe in the Messiah, we submitted to the rules that everyone in this world lives by. Those rules controlled us like masters control their slaves.

4 But exactly at the time that God had previously determined, he sent Jesus his Son, into the world. Jesus was born to a human mother, and he had to obey the laws that God gave to Moses.
5 God sent Jesus to rescue us who had to obey God's laws he gave to Moses from being condemned for not obeying these laws. God did this so that we might all receive from him the status of being his children. 6 Furthermore, God sent the Spirit to live in our inner beings because we are now in such a close relationship with God it is as though we are his children. It is his Spirit who enables us to fervently call out to God, "Father, Father!" 7 So, because of what God has done, no longer is each of you like a slave. Instead, each of you is like a child of God. Furthermore, since each of you is now like God's child, God has also made each of you his heir, one to whom he will give all that he has promised.

8 When you did not have a relationship with God, you served gods that really did not exist. You were like slaves at that time, because you were in spiritual bondage. 9 But now you have come to intimately know God. Perhaps it would be better to say that now God intimately knows each of you. So now you are acting foolishly! You are again believing that by obeying rules and rites you will benefit spiritually! Those rules are ineffective and inadequate! You are wanting to obey them again like slaves obey their masters. 10 You non-Jews are carefully practicing Jewish rules and rituals regarding what you should do on Jewish special days and at special times in certain months, seasons, and years. 11 I am concerned about your mistaken ideas! I do not want to have so strenuously served you in vain. 12 My fellow believers, I strongly urge you that you do as I do. Stop thinking that you have to obey the Jewish rules and ceremonial laws prescribed by the law of Moses. When I was with you, I did not obey all the Jewish rules and ceremonial laws, just like you did not obey them. At that time you treated me entirely as you should have.

13 You remember that I originally told you the good news because I was physically weak and was recovering. Because of the opportunity which that sickness provided I was able to tell you the good news. 14 Although you might have treated me contemptuously because of my physical malady, you did not treat me contemptuously or reject me. Instead, you welcomed me like you would welcome an angel that came from God. You welcomed me like you would welcome the Messiah Jesus himself! 15 I am disappointed that you have forgotten that then you declared that you were pleased with me. I know for certain that you would have done anything to help me. 16 So I am very disappointed that you now act as though I have become hostile to you because I have kept speaking the true message about the Messiah to you.

17 Those who are insisting on obeying the Jewish laws are eagerly showing interest in you, but they are not doing this because they have good motives. They are doing this because they want you not to associate with me and others who teach what is true about the Messiah. They desire that instead of you associating with us, you will eagerly show interest in them, not in us.
18 But, it is an honorable thing to eagerly desire to do the right things at all times. I would like you to eagerly desire to do the right things, both when I am with you and when I am absent.
19 You who are like my children, once again I am very concerned about you, and I will continue to be concerned about you until you become like the Messiah in your thinking and in your conduct. 20 But I do wish that I could be with you now and that I might talk more gently with you, because right now I do not know what to do about you.

21 Some of you desire to obey all the laws that God gave Moses. I say that you should consider the implications of what Moses wrote in the Scriptures. 22 He wrote that Abraham became the father of two sons. His female slave, Hagar, bore one son, and his wife Sarah, who was not a slave, bore the other. 23 Also, the sons differed. Ishmael, the son born by Hagar, the female slave, was conceived naturally. But Isaac, the son born by Sarah, his wife who was not a slave, was conceived miraculously because God intervened in order to fulfill what he had promised Abraham. 24 I am telling you this as an illustration. These two women symbolize two agreements. God made the first agreement, which involved obeying the laws that God gave to Moses at Mount Sinai. Because that agreement forces those who accept it to keep obeying all its rules, it is like a slave mother who gives birth to slaves. So Hagar, the female slave, symbolizes this agreement. 25 Also Hagar symbolizes the agreement, with its laws and rituals, that God gave to Moses on Mount Sinai, in the land of Arabia. Hagar also symbolizes the Jewish religion. The Jewish religion is like a slave mother, and those who practice the Jewish religion are like slave children because they all must obey the laws that God gave to Moses. 26 But there is a heavenly Jerusalem, and because we belong to the heavenly Jerusalem, it is like a mother to all of us who believe in the Messiah. Those who belong to the heavenly Jerusalem are free from having to obey the laws of Moses and free from being condemned for failing to obey those laws. 27 Our new city will have more people than those who live in Jerusalem now. It will be just like Isaiah foretold about the people whom he expected would come back to Jerusalem from exile. He expected that they would be more numerous than those who were taken into exile. He wrote: You who live in Jerusalem, you will rejoice! Now you have no children, like a barren woman who does not give birth to children! But some day you will shout joyfully, as loudly as you can, even though now you are few in number, like a woman who cannot give birth to children, and you feel deserted. You will be very happy because you will have many children who will come to you. Those children will be more than the children any woman with a husband could have borne. 28 Now, my fellow believers, you have become children of God because God has fulfilled what he promised to Abraham. You are like Isaac, who was born because God fulfilled what he promised to give Abraham. 29 Also, long ago Abraham's son Ishmael, the one who was conceived naturally, caused trouble for Abraham's son Isaac, who was conceived supernaturally. Similarly, now those who think that we must obey the laws that God gave to Moses in order that God will save us are causing trouble for those who are trusting Abraham's descendant, the Messiah. 30 But Moses wrote these words in a scripture passage in Genesis: "The son of the woman who was not a slave will inherit what his father owns. The female slave's son will certainly not inherit those things. So send away from this place the female slave and her son!" 31 My fellow believers, Hagar symbolizes the laws that God gave to Moses. But we are not those who must obey all the laws that God gave to Moses. So we are not the female slave Hagar's spiritual descendants. But Sarah's descendants are those who were born as a result of God fulfilling what he promised to Abraham. So we are the spiritual descendants of Sarah, the woman who was not a slave.

5 1 The Messiah freed us believers from having to obey the laws God gave the Jews in order that we would not have to obey them. So continue to be steadfastly committed to the Lord. Do not let anyone force you to obey those laws again as if you were slaves to those laws. 2 I am Paul. Pay attention to what I am telling you! If you let anyone circumcise you, what the Messiah has done for you will not help you at all! 3 Once again I solemnly declare to every man who has someone circumcise him, that he must obey all of the laws God gave the Jews in order to be righteous. 4 You who are trying to make yourselves righteous by obeying the laws God gave the Jews have separated yourselves from the Messiah. God will no longer act kindly toward you. 5 This is so because we believers are confidently expecting by trusting in Jesus that God will make us righteous. The Holy Spirit enables us to do this. 6 This is so because when God has united us with the Messiah Jesus, whether people are circumcised or not is not important. Rather, only whether we trust in the Messiah is important. We show we trust in the Messiah by loving others.

7 You were spiritually progressing so well! You should never have let someone stop you from progressing, so that what is true does not convince you! 8 God is the one who calls you. He is not the one who is persuading you to think like this! 9 This false teaching might deceive all of you, just like a little yeast in some dough makes all of it swell up. 10 Because God has united us with the Lord Jesus, I am certain that you will believe only what I have told you. By contrast, God will certainly punish everyone who is confusing you about these things, whoever they are. 11 Fellow believers, as for me, were I to still declare that men must have someone circumcise them in order to be righteous, surely no one would still be persecuting me! This is because declaring that would abolish how offensive Jesus dying on the cross is. 12 O that those who are upsetting you would just castrate themselves!

13 Fellow believers, God has called you to free you from having to obey the laws God gave the Jews. But he did not free you from those laws so you could sin. Instead of sinning, serve each other by loving each other! 14 Do this because one command summarizes all the laws God gave the Jews. That command is, "Love each person as much as you love yourself." 15 Now if you keep attacking and harming each other like wild animals, beware that you might completely destroy each other.

16 I am telling you to let the Holy Spirit lead you. If you do that, you will definitely not do what your sinful selves want to do. 17 This is because your sinful selves want to do what is contrary to what the Holy Spirit wants to do. Also, what the Holy Spirit wants to do is contrary to what your sinful selves want to do. This is because they are always against each other. The result is that you do not always do the good things that you truly want to do. 18 However, if the Holy Spirit leads you, the laws God gave the Jews do not control you.

19 You clearly know what people do because of their sinful selves. They do sexually immoral acts, impure acts, and unrestrained immoral acts. 20 They also worship false gods, do witchcraft, repeatedly act in hostile ways, quarrel with people, act jealously, behave angrily, act ambitiously, act divisively within a group of people, and make divisive groups of people. 21 They also envy others, get drunk, celebrate drunkenly, and do other sinful things like these. I warn you now about doing these sinful things, just like I warned you previously: anyone who regularly does these sinful things will not participate in God's kingdom. 22 Yet the Holy Spirit enables us believers in the Messiah to love others and be joyful, peaceful, patient, kind, good, faithful, 23 gentle, and to control ourselves. There is no law that prohibits people from doing these good things. 24 We who belong to the Messiah Jesus have stopped doing what our sinful selves feel and want to do.

25 Since the Holy Spirit has made us spiritually alive, we must let the Holy Spirit lead us.
26 Do not boast. Do not make each other angry. Do not envy each other.

6 1 Fellow believers, if you discover that another believer does something wrong, those of you who are spiritually mature should gently correct that person. While doing so, you should be very careful so that you do not sin as well. 2 Help each other overcome the problems you have. By doing that, you will obey what the Messiah commands. 3 I say this because people who wrongly think that they are better than others trick themselves into believing what is not true.
4 Instead, each of you should constantly evaluate what you do. Only then might you be able to rightly boast about what you have done on your own instead of wrongly boasting about what someone else has done. 5 I say this because each one of you must do what God has given you to do.

6 If fellow believers teach you what God has said, then you must share what you have with them. 7 Do not trick yourselves: No one can scorn God! This is because, just like a farmer will harvest exactly the kind of crop that he plants, people will experience the results of what they have done. 8 Those who do what their sinful selves want to do will experience the result of doing so. God will punish them forever. But those who please the Holy Spirit will experience the result of doing so. The Holy Spirit will enable them to live forever with God. 9 Let us not tire of doing what is good, because at the right time we will experience the good result of what we do. This will happen if we do not stop doing these good things. 10 Therefore, let us do what is good to everyone whenever we can. Let us especially do what is good to all our fellow believers in Jesus.

11 I am writing this to you in my own handwriting. Notice how large the letters are!
12 Everyone who wants to impress the Jews with how they appear outwardly is trying to force you to have someone circumcise you. They only do this in order to prevent the Jews from persecuting them for believing that the Messiah Jesus died on the cross to save us. 13 I say this because not even those people whom someone has circumcised obey the laws God gave the Jews. Rather, they want to circumcise you in order to boast because of how you appear outwardly. 14 As for me, I will ever only boast about our Lord Jesus the Messiah dying on the cross to save us! Because Jesus died on the cross, the sinful world has become like a dead person to me, and I have become like a dead person to the sinful world. 15 I may boast about Jesus dying on the cross because whether people are circumcised or not is not important. Rather, the Holy Spirit making them new people is important. 16 I pray that God will make peaceful everyone who behaves in this way and will act kindly to them. I also pray these things for those Israelites who trust in Jesus and belong to God!

17 I have scars on my body because I declared the truth about Jesus. So do not let anyone bother me about these matters again!

18 Fellow believers, I pray that our Lord Jesus the Messiah will be gracious to all of you!
May it be so!

Ephesians

1 1 I am Paul. The Messiah Jesus sent me to represent him because that is what God wanted. I write this letter to the people whom God has set apart for himself who are living [in the city of Ephesus][19] and who are loyal to the Messiah Jesus. 2 May God our Father and our Lord Jesus the Messiah continue to be kind to you and make you peaceful.

3 Praise God, the Father of our Lord Jesus the Messiah! He has blessed us with every kind of spiritual blessing that comes from heaven because we belong to the Messiah. 4 In fact, even before God created the world, he chose us to belong to the Messiah, so that the Messiah could make us completely holy for him. Because God loves us, 5 he decided long ago to adopt us as his own children by means of Jesus the Messiah. It pleased him to do this, so he did what he wanted to do. 6 Because of this, we now praise God for being so amazingly kind to us, far beyond what we could deserve, as he blessed us by means of his Son whom he loves.

7 When Jesus died in our place, he paid the price for our sin. That is, when he died for us, God forgave us our sins because that is how abundantly and generously kind he is. 8 God knew that we would need him to be extremely kind to us in this way because God knows everything and is completely wise. 9 In this way, God has now revealed to us his plan that he had not revealed to anyone before—a plan that he was pleased to accomplish through the work of the Messiah. 10 In this plan, when the time was just right, the Messiah would unite all things under himself so that all things in heaven and all things on earth would belong to the Messiah. 11 Because of what the Messiah has done, God has also claimed us as his own. He planned to do this long ago, and he always does exactly what he wishes to do. 12 In God's plan, we Jews, who were the first to trust in the Messiah, would live to praise God because he is so great. 13 Then you non-Jews also heard the true message, the good news of how God saves you, and you believed in the Messiah. When you did that, God marked you as belonging to the Messiah by giving you the Holy Spirit, as he had promised to do. 14 The Holy Spirit is like a down payment that proves that God will also give to us everything else that he has promised to give to us at that time when he will release everything that he has for us. Praise God because he is so great!

15 Because God has done all of this for you, and because people have told me how you trust in the Lord Jesus and how much you love all the believers, 16 I thank God for you constantly as I talk to God about you when I pray to him. 17 I pray that the God of our Lord Jesus the Messiah, the glorious Father, will give you his Spirit to make you wise and to reveal God to you so that you can continually know him better. 18 I pray that God may enable you to see things as they truly are so that you may know the wonderful plan that God has for us because he has called us to be his people. I pray that you may know how wonderful and abundant are the things he promises to give to us and to all the believers. 19 And I pray that you will know how exceedingly powerfully God acts for us who believe in the Messiah. He is just as powerfully strong for us 20 as he was for the Messiah when he caused the Messiah to become alive again after he died, and raised him to the place of highest honor in heaven. 21 The Messiah rules as supreme there over every ruler and powerful spirit on every level of authority and over every being that people revere. He rules over them not only now, but forever. 22 God has made everything to be subject to the Messiah and has appointed the Messiah as the ruler over everything among all believers everywhere. 23 We believers relate to the Messiah as the parts of a person's body relate to its head. He supplies what is lacking for all believers just as he completes everything everywhere.

2 1 Before you trusted the Messiah, you were spiritually dead—you were unable to stop sinning. 2 You used to live in a sinful way, guided by the spirit of this world. You were guided by the ruler of the evil spirits, who controls the authorities of this world. This ruler is Satan, who now works through the people who disobey God. 3 All of us used to live in the same way as these people who disobey God; we did the evil things that we desired, things that would bring pleasure to our bodies and our minds. We deserved that God should be very angry with us, just as he is with the other people.

4 But God is very merciful to us because he loves us very much. 5 God loved us so much that even when we were spiritually dead and constantly sinning, he made us alive by joining us to the Messiah. Remember, when God saved you from being spiritually dead, he was being very kind to you in a way that you did not deserve. 6 God saved us from being spiritually dead just as he raised Jesus from being physically dead and he made us spiritually alive with him. Then he gave us seats of honor to rule with the Messiah Jesus in heaven. 7 He did that to show to everyone in all future times how exceedingly gracious he is in being kind to us by joining us to the Messiah Jesus.

8 So God was very kind to you in a way that you did not deserve when he saved you from being spiritually dead. He did this because you trust in Jesus. You have not saved yourselves; this is a gift from God— 9 a gift that no one can earn, so no one can boast and say that he has saved himself. 10 So God is making us what he wants us to be; through the Messiah Jesus he has created us as new people to do good things—things that God had previously arranged for us to do.

11 So remember that previously you non-Jewish people according to who your ancestors were did not belong to God's people. The Jews insulted you by calling you "the uncircumcised." They call themselves "the circumcised." By this they mean that they, not you, are God's people, although circumcision is something that humans do that only changes the body, not something that God does that changes the spirit. 12 Remember that, at that time, you were separated from the Messiah. You were foreigners to the people of Israel. You did not share in the things that God promised in his agreements with them. You did not confidently expect that God would save you. No, you were living in this world completely without God. 13 But now, because you have trusted in Jesus the Messiah, God has brought you into his family, even though before that you did not know him. This was possible because the Messiah died on the cross for you.

14 It is the Messiah who has made it possible for Jews and non-Jews to live peacefully with each other. He made the two separate groups into one group. The two groups hated each other, but he took away every reason for hating each other when he died for all of us. 15 He made it no longer necessary for us to obey the commandments and requirements of the Jewish law for him to accept us. He did this in order to make the Jews and the non-Jews into one new people who would live peacefully together because of their relationship to him. 16 He did this in order to reconcile both groups to God as one group by dying on the cross for all of them. By dying for them, Jesus made it possible for them to stop being enemies to each other and to God. 17 Jesus came and announced the good news that we can be at peace with God; he announced this to you non-Jews, who did not know about God, and to us Jews, who did know about God. 18 Because of what Jesus did for us, both Jews and non-Jews now can come to God the Father with the help of God's Spirit.

19 Therefore now you non-Jews are no longer left out of God's people, but instead you are fellow members with those whom God has set apart for himself, and you belong to God's family. 20 You are like stones that God has put together into a building, and the apostles and prophets are like the foundation stones of that building. You depend on what they have taught, just as building stones depend on the foundation stones below them to form a wall that is upright and strong. The Messiah Jesus himself is like the cornerstone, which is the most important stone of the building. 21 Jesus determines where each person belongs, just as the cornerstone determines where each stone fits in the building. Just as a builder joins stones together to make a holy temple, Jesus is assembling his family of believers to be one holy group which serves the Lord. 22 Because you belong to Jesus, he is building you up together, both Jews and non-Jews, into one family that is like a building in which God lives by means of his Spirit.

3 1 Because God is working out this plan for you non-Jews, I, Paul, pray to the Father for you, even as I am in prison because I serve the Messiah Jesus for your sake. 2 I assume that people have told you about me, that God has given me the task of communicating to you non-Jews his plan to be extremely kind to you. 3 God told me this message that people did not understand before by revealing it to me directly, just as I wrote to you before briefly. 4 As you read that, you can perceive that I clearly understand things that God had not previously revealed about the Messiah. 5 Formerly, God did not fully reveal this message to people, but now his Spirit has revealed it to his holy apostles and prophets. 6 The message is this: the non-Jews now share together with Jews the spiritual riches of God and belong to the same group of God's people and will share all the things God has promised to his people because they are joined to the Messiah Jesus as a result of believing the good news. 7 I now serve God by telling people this good news. God was very kind to me and gave me this work to do even though I am not worthy of it, and he enables me to do it by powerfully working in me.

8 Although I am the least worthy of all of God's people, God kindly gave me this gift: he appointed me to proclaim to the non-Jews the good news about the unending spiritual blessings that the Messiah has for us [9] and to enable everyone to understand what God's plan is. This plan is something that God, who created everything, has kept hidden from long ago. [10] God hid this plan so that as he reveals it now by making it happen in those who believe, he also reveals to the spiritual authorities at the highest levels how profoundly wise he is. [11] This is the plan that God has always had, and it is what he accomplished through the work of the Messiah Jesus, our Lord. [12] So now, because of what Jesus has done, we can come to God freely and confidently because, when we trust in Jesus, he joins us to himself. [13] So please do not be discouraged by the things that I am suffering here in prison on your behalf, because they produce a glorious result for you.

[14] Because God has done all this for you, I kneel and pray to God our Father. [15] He is the original father, who gave the pattern for every family in heaven and on the earth to follow. [16] I pray that God will give you his Spirit to strengthen your spirit in proportion to how abundantly great he is. [17] I pray that the Messiah may stay as close to you as your own hearts because you trust in him, and that everything that you do and say will be a result of God's love for you and your love for him and others [18] so that you may be fully able to understand, along with all of God's people, how very much the Messiah loves us. [19] I pray that you will come to know how much the Messiah loves us, even though he loves us so much that we cannot understand it. I pray that God will give you a full measure of everything that he is.

[20] Praise God, who is able to do much more than anything that we ask him to do, or even that we think that he can do, because of how powerfully he works within us! [21] May all believers praise him for how great he is and for the awesome work that he has done through the Messiah Jesus! May they praise him throughout all generations forever! May it be so.

4 [1] Because of all this, as someone who is in prison because I serve the Lord Jesus, I appeal to you to live in a way that honors Jesus, who called you to live for him. [2] Always be humble and gentle. Be patient with each other, enduring the bothersome things that others do because you love each other. [3] Since God's Spirit has united you, do everything that you can to remain united with one another. Bind yourselves together by acting peacefully toward each other.
[4] God only has one family of believers and one Holy Spirit, just as he also called all of you to receive the one and only thing that people can hope for, that belongs to you whom God has called. 5 There is only one Lord, Jesus the Messiah, only one way to believe in him, and they baptized us to show that we belong to him alone. 6 There is one God, who is the Father of all of us, whether Jew or non-Jew. He rules over all of us, works through all of us, and is in all of us.

7 To each one of us God has given spiritual gifts in just the way that the Messiah has decided that we should have them. 8 That is why the scripture says,

> As he went up to the high place,
> he brought with him many people whom he had captured, > and gave gifts to his people.

9 The words "he went up" certainly make us know that the Messiah had also previously gone down to the lower parts of the earth. 10 The Messiah, who came down to earth from heaven, is also the one who returned upward to the most exalted position in heaven in order that he might fill the universe. 11 As gifts to his people, he appointed some of them to be apostles, some to be prophets, some to seek out people to tell them the good news about Jesus, and some to care for and to teach the groups of believers. 12 God appointed all of them to prepare God's people to do the work of serving others so that all the people who belong to the Messiah might become spiritually strong. 13 This work will continue until all of us together become what God wants us to be: united as we together fully trust in the Son of God and experience his working in us, and completely mature as a group of believers—as fully mature in trusting and knowing God as the Messiah himself. 14 Then we will no longer be spiritually immature, as little children are immature. We will no longer follow every new teaching, always changing what we believe like a boat that goes one way and then the other as the wind and waves change direction. We will not allow clever people who teach what is false to deceive us with their lies. 15 Rather than that, as we lovingly speak to each other what is true, let us become more and more like the Messiah in every way as he directs us, just like a person's head directs the person's body. 16 He is the one who joins us all together and keeps us connected to each other. He teaches us how to support each other and to work in a coordinated way as he gives the ability that is appropriate to each one of us, just as a person's head does that for the parts of his body. In this way, as we love each other, we will grow together and make each other stronger.

17 For that reason, and with the authority of the Lord Jesus, I tell you this: from now on you must not live in the same way as the other non-Jews live. The way that they live comes from an empty way of thinking. 18 They are unable to think clearly about what is right or wrong because they try to live completely separated from God. They do this because they do not know what they are missing and because they stubbornly refuse to obey God. 19 They have become unable to sense if something is good or bad, and so they have devoted themselves to doing whatever shameful things their bodies desire. They commit all kinds of immoral acts and want to do them more and more.

20 But that is not how you learned to live when you learned about the Messiah, 21 to the extent that you have heard and understood the message about Jesus and have learned from him, since his way is the true way to live. 22 Your teachers taught you to stop living the way that you used to live. Because you desired to do evil things, you deceived yourselves into thinking that those things were good. Living like that was destroying you spiritually. 23 So you must let God give you a new spirit and a new way of thinking, 24 and you must start living like the new person that God created you in his own image to be. He created you to live in the right way with each other and with himself, in the true way of Jesus.

25 So stop lying to one another. Speak truthfully to each other because we belong to each other as members of God's family. 26 Be angry about sinful behavior, but do not sin because you are angry. Before the end of each day, take care of whatever has made you angry 27 so that you will not allow the devil to do evil things among you. 28 Those who have been stealing must not steal anymore. Instead, they must work hard, doing good work by their own efforts so that they may have something to give to those who are needy. 29 Do not say harmful things. Instead, say good things that will encourage people when they need help so that God can work through your words to benefit those who hear. 30 God has marked you as his own by giving you the Holy Spirit, who will be with you until the day that the Messiah will rescue you from this world. So do not make the Holy Spirit of God sad by how you live. 31 Do your best to completely stop behaving in these ways: Do not be resentful or furious toward others or even become angry with others. Do not shout abusively at others or slander others. Never act maliciously in any way. 32 Rather than behave like that, be kind to one another. Act mercifully toward each other. Forgive each other in the same way that God also forgave you through what the Messiah has done for you.

5 1 Because of what God has done for you, imitate him just as children imitate the father who loves them dearly. 2 Do everything in a way that shows that you love others. Be like the Messiah, who loved us so much that he willingly died for us on the cross as the offering and sacrifice to God in our place. This sacrifice pleased God very much. 3 But there should be no reason for anyone to even suggest that any of you are involved in sexual sin or any kind of immoral or obsessive sexual behavior. Such sins do not belong among God's people. 4 When you speak to each other, do not tell obscene stories or say foolish things or joke about committing sins. Such things are not what people who belong to God talk about. Instead, express the things that you are thankful for. 5 It is quite true that these people will be excluded from the kingdom of the Messiah who is God: everyone who is sexually immoral or indecent, or who is obsessed with sex, which is the same as worshiping an idol. 6 Do not let anyone deceive you by telling you that God will not punish people who do these things. It is because of these very things that God will punish the people who disobey him.

7 So do not join with those people in doing these kinds of sins. 8 Remember that before you believed in the Lord Jesus, you did not know what was true, just as people who are in a dark place do not know what is around them. But now it is as though you have come out into the light, because the Lord has shown to you what is true. So live in the way that the Lord has shown to you. 9 Because just as people who have light will walk in the right way, as a result of knowing Jesus you can always live in a way that is good, right, and true. 10 As you live this way, keep learning what pleases the Lord. 11 So do not participate together with those who are doing the worthless deeds that they do in spiritual darkness. Instead, expose to everyone how worthless those deeds are. 12 Of course it is shameful for God's people to even talk about the evil things that those people do in secret, 13 but it is necessary for us to expose them so that people can know and understand that these deeds are evil. This is like when we bring something into the light in order to reveal to everyone what it truly is. Then people can examine and judge that thing that light has exposed. 14 Before you knew God you were like someone asleep or dead in a dark place. This is what believers are talking about when they say,

> "You who are asleep, wake up!
> You who are dead, come out of the darkness and live!
> The Messiah will show you what is true, just as a light that shines shows people what was in the darkness."

15 So be very careful how you live. Do not behave as foolish people do. Instead, behave as wise people do. 16 Do the most good that you can with the time that you have, because people are doing more and more evil things every day. 17 So be wise, understand well what it is that the Lord Jesus wants you to do, and do it!

18 Do not become drunk by drinking alcoholic drinks, because people cannot control themselves when they are drunk. Instead, let God's Spirit control what you do at all times. 19 Sing to each other Psalms and songs about the Messiah and songs that God's Spirit gives you. Let this music come from deep within you as sincere praise to the Lord. 20 At all times thank God the Father for everything because of what our Lord Jesus the Messiah has done for you. 21 Humbly submit yourselves to each other because you deeply respect the Messiah.

22-23 Wives should submit to their own husband's leadership as they do to the Lord Jesus because the husband is the leader of the wife as also the Messiah is the leader of the worldwide assembly of believers. He is the Savior who has saved all believers from being condemned for their sins. 24 As for wives, just as all believers submit themselves to the authority of the Messiah, in the same way wives must also submit themselves completely to the authority of their husbands.

25 Each of you husbands, love your wife as much as the Messiah loved all who would believe in him. He even gave up his own life for us on the cross 26 so that he might set us apart for himself. He purified us by telling us his plan to forgive us and by removing our sins as though washing them away in water. 27 He did this so that he could present the group of all believers to himself as a glorious group that does not have any sin or moral imperfection, but instead is holy and perfect, like a glorious bride ready to meet her groom. 28 In that same way, each man should love his own wife as much as he loves his own body. A man who loves his wife is also, by doing that, loving himself 29-30 because no one ever hated his own body. Instead, he feeds his own body and cares for it, just like the Messiah also cares for all us believers in his worldwide assembly. We have become one group of believers that belongs to him. 31 The scriptures say this about people who marry:

"Therefore a man will leave his father and his mother and will join himself to his wife, and the two of them will become as though they were one person."

32 There is very much about this that we cannot understand, but I am telling you that this example of a husband and wife also helps us to understand the relationship between the Messiah and the group of people who belong to him. 33 However, as for you, each man must love his wife just as he loves himself, and each woman must deeply respect her husband.

6 1 As for you who are children, obey your parents as a way of serving the Lord Jesus because it is right for you to do that. 2 God commanded in the scriptures,

"Greatly respect your father and mother." That is the first law that God commanded in which he also promised something. He promised,

3 "If you do that, you will prosper, and you will live a long time on the earth."

4 As for you who are fathers, do not treat your children in a way that makes them become angry. Instead, bring them up well by instructing them and by disciplining them in the manner that the Lord Jesus wants you to do.

5 As for you who are slaves, very respectfully and sincerely obey those who are your masters here on the earth, just as you obey the Messiah. 6 Obey them not only when they are watching you, as people do who only care about appearing to work hard. Instead, work as though you were slaves of the Messiah, doing enthusiastically what God wants you to do. 7 Serve your masters willingly, as though you are serving the Lord Jesus rather than people. 8 Do this because you know that the Lord Jesus will reward each person for whatever good deeds that person has done. It makes no difference whether that person was a slave or a free person.

9 As for you who are masters, just like your slaves should serve you well, in the same way you must treat them well. Stop threatening them. Do not forget that the one who is both their Lord and your Lord is in heaven and he judges all people equally whether their position is high or low.

10 Finally, rely completely on the Lord Jesus to strengthen you spiritually because he is immeasurably strong. 11 Just as a soldier puts on all of his armor to be ready to fight his enemy, you should use every spiritual resource that God provides for you so that you may successfully resist the devil when he cleverly schemes against you. 12 Remember that we are not fighting against other human beings. Instead, we are fighting against the demons who have authority to rule over the people doing evil things in this evil time, that is, against the evil spirits who live in the air. 13 That is why you must use well all of the spiritual resources that God has given you, like a soldier who puts on all of his armor. If you do that, you will be able to resist the evil spirits when they attack you. You will also be ready for when they attack you again and able to continue to live well for God.

14 You must be ready to resist the devil and his evil spirits just as soldiers must always be ready to resist the enemy. To do that, keep thinking about the true things that God has shown you. Also, continue to act righteously. This will protect you like a soldier's armor protects his chest. 15 Just like a soldier who keeps his boots on, be ready to go anywhere you are needed for the sake of the good news that tells people how to be at peace with God. 16 Just as a soldier holds up a shield to stop the flaming arrows that his enemy shoots at him, you must keep trusting firmly in the Lord at all times. That will protect you from all of the things that your enemy, Satan, the evil one, will try to do to harm you spiritually. 17 Also, as a soldier relies on a helmet to protect his head, rely on the fact that God has saved you. And just as a soldier uses a sword to defeat his enemies, use the weapon that God's Spirit gives you, which is the message that comes from God. 18 Whenever you pray to God and request things from him, always let God's Spirit direct you in how you pray and what you pray for. To be most effective, keep watching to see what God is doing, and be persistent as you continue to pray for all of God's people. 19 Pray for me, also, that God would tell me what I should say whenever I speak, in order that I may boldly tell others the good news about the Messiah that people did not know before. 20 It is because I have been telling people about the Messiah that I am now representing him here in prison. Pray that as I continue to tell others about the Messiah, I may speak boldly because that is how I ought to speak.

21 Now in order that you may know about what is happening with me and what I am doing, Tychicus will tell you everything that is happening here. He is a fellow believer whom we all love very much, and he serves the Lord Jesus faithfully. 22 That is the reason that I am sending him to you with this letter; I want you to know how we are, and I want him to comfort and encourage you.

23 I pray that God our Father and the Lord Jesus the Messiah may give to all of you fellow believers a peaceful spirit and enable you to love each other and to continue to trust in God.
24 I pray that God will continue to act graciously among all people who steadfastly love our Lord Jesus the Messiah.

Philippians

1 1 I, Paul, am writing this letter to all of God's people who are joined to the Messiah Jesus in the city of Philippi. Timothy is with me. We are servants of the Messiah Jesus. We especially write this letter for the leaders of the believers and for those who assist them. 2 May God our Father and our Lord Jesus the Messiah continue to be kind to you and make you peaceful.

3 Every time I think about you, I thank my God whom I worship because of you. 4 I always pray joyfully each time I pray for all of you. 5 The reason I pray joyfully is because you have partnered with me in telling people the good news from the time you first believed it and you continue to partner with me now. 6 God started his good work within you when you first believed in him, and I am confident that he will continue that work until Jesus the Messiah returns. 7 I love you all greatly, so it is right for me to think about you in this way. God has kindly blessed us to share together in this work, both as I endure being a prisoner and also as I explain to people why the good news about Jesus is true. 8 I desire very much to be with you all, and I love you all in the same way as Jesus the Messiah loves you. God knows that this is true.

9 I pray that God will enable you to love God and others in a way that continues to increase. As you increasingly love others, I pray that God will also help you to know him better and to understand how to love others in all situations. 10 The reason I pray this is so that you will test and choose what is most pleasing to God so that then you will be completely free of doing anything wrong when the Messiah returns. 11 Instead of doing wrong things, you will be busy doing the truly good things that Jesus the Messiah enables us to do. These things will cause people to honor and praise God.

12 My fellow believers, I want you to know that the things that have happened to me have not hindered people from hearing the good news. Instead, even more people have been able to hear the good news because I am in prison. 13 In fact, all the military guards here and many other people now know that I am in prison because I proclaim the good news about the Messiah. 14 Also, because the believers here have seen what the Lord has done through me in prison, most of them now proclaim the good news about Jesus more courageously and fearlessly than they did before.

15-17 Some people are proclaiming the good news about the Messiah because they want to obey God and because they love me and others. They understand that God has appointed me to explain to people why the good news about Jesus is true. But some are not honest about why they are proclaiming the good news about the Messiah. They do it only because they want to promote themselves. They are envious of me and want to cause trouble for me. They think that I will suffer even more in prison as they become famous for proclaiming the good news.
18 But what they want to do to me is not important! The important thing is that people are proclaiming the good news about the Messiah, either for good reasons or for bad reasons. So I am rejoicing that people are spreading the message about the Messiah! And I will continue to rejoice in that!

19 I will rejoice because I know how this situation will turn out: that God will deliver me from prison. He will do this because you are praying for me and because the Spirit of Jesus the Messiah is helping me. 20 I know that this will happen, because I very confidently expect that I will continue to faithfully honor the Messiah. I expect and desire that I will boldly honor the Messiah by my actions now and always, whether by the way I live or by the way I die.

21 As for me, I live to honor the Messiah, and if I die, it will be even better for me. 22 But if I continue to live here in my body, I will be able to productively serve the Messiah. So I do not know which I prefer, to live or to die. 23 It is difficult for me to choose which I prefer, living or dying. I long to leave this world and go to be with the Messiah, because to be with the Messiah is very much better than being here, 24 but I need to remain alive here on earth in order to continue to help you. 25 Since I am convinced of this, I know that I will remain alive with you all in order to help you to be even more joyful as you continue to trust in Jesus. 26 I will do this so that you will praise Jesus the Messiah even more because of me, because I will come and visit you again.

27 The important thing is that you act in a way that honors the good news about the Messiah. Do this so that people will tell me that you are working hard together in a unified way as you resist those who oppose the message about the Messiah and as you help people to live according to the good news. You must act in this way whether or not I visit you again. 28 Do not let the people who are against you make you afraid by anything that they do or say. When they see that you are not afraid of them, they will know that God will destroy them, but he will save you. All of this is from God. 29 God does this for you because he has given you the gift of suffering for the Messiah, along with the gift of believing in him. 30 You saw how I had to resist the people who opposed me when I was there in Philippi. Now you have to resist the people who are opposing you in the same way. As people tell you even now, I am still struggling to resist such people.

2 1 Since the Messiah encourages us, since he comforts us with his love, since the Spirit has produced fellowship among you, since God gives you affection and compassion toward one another, 2 make me completely happy by doing the following things: Agree with one another, love one another, be closely united with one another, be united in your thinking. 3 Never try to selfishly make yourselves more important than others, and do not think of yourselves as better than others. Instead, be humble, and treat others as more important than yourselves. 4 Each one of you should not only be concerned about your needs. Instead, you should also be concerned about other people and their needs.

5 Think the same way as the Messiah Jesus thought:

6 Although he was in every way the same as God, he did not insist on keeping all the privileges of being equal with God.
7 Rather, he gave up divine privileges and became a servant to others and became a human being. When he had become a human being, 8 he humbled himself further. Specifically, he humbled himself by obeying God so far as to be willing to die. He was even willing to die by being crucified on a cross.
9 Because the Messiah humbly obeyed God, God also honored him very much;
he honored him more than any other person or being, 10 so that before Jesus,
every being will bow down and honor him, beings who are in heaven and beings on earth and beings under the earth; 11 and every mouth will say, that Jesus the Messiah is Lord,

so that God the Father is honored.

12 As a result of these things, my dearly loved fellow believers, as you have always obeyed God when I was with you, now that I am apart from you, you also must obey him even more. Every one of you, work with God in his saving work within you, and do this humbly reverencing God. 13 For God is doing something within you so that you will want to do—and then actually do—the good things that please him.

14 Do everything without grumbling or quarreling. 15 Behave like that in order that you may be completely faultless, children of God, who keep yourselves from evil as you live among the wicked people of this world. Then, as you live among them, you will stand out brightly against the darkness of sin. 16 Tell others the message about how to have eternal life. Do all these things so that at the time when the Messiah returns, I will be able to rejoice that I did not work hard among you uselessly.

17 And I am joyful and I will rejoice with you all, despite suffering daily or going through times when those who oppose the gospel try to kill me. I will gladly suffer along with you, adding to your service which you offer because you believe in him. 18 In the same way also, each of you should rejoice regarding these things; you should rejoice together with me!

19 I am hoping that the Lord Jesus will soon allow me to be able to send Timothy to visit you. I want this visit to happen because I hope he can encourage me when he returns with news of you. 20 I have no one else like Timothy who genuinely cares for you. 21 All the others whom I might send to you are concerned only about their own matters. They are not concerned enough about what Jesus the Messiah considers important. 22 But you know that Timothy has proved that he serves the Lord and others faithfully. You know that he has served the Lord closely together with me in proclaiming the good news to people. 23 I am hoping to send Timothy to you as soon as I know what will happen to me. 24 And I am confident that the Lord will allow me to be released soon, so that I myself will also come to you.

25 I have concluded that I should send Epaphroditus back to you. He is a fellow believer and my fellow worker, and he endures difficulties together with me just like soldiers endure difficulties together. He is your messenger and servant, whom you sent to help me when I was needy. 26 Epaphroditus eagerly desires to be there with you at Philippi, and he is concerned for you that you would be worried about him since you learned of his illness. 27 Indeed, he was so sick that he almost died. But God pitied him, and he also pitied me, and as a result, he healed him. God pitied me so that I would not grieve even more. 28 So I am sending him back to you as quickly as possible. I will do this in order that you may rejoice when you see him again, and so that I might grieve less. 29 Receive Epaphroditus joyfully as a fellow believer, and honor other believers who are like him. 30 Do this because, as Epaphroditus was working for the Messiah, he almost died. He knew that he might die as a result of helping me, and he nearly did die. He helped me in order to supply the things that I needed, something you could not do because you are far away from me.

3 1 Finally, my fellow believers, rejoice in who God is, and rejoice about what he has done and is doing. Though I will now write to you about the same things that I mentioned to you before, this is not tiresome for me, and it will protect you from being led astray by those who teach things that are not true.

2 Guard yourselves against the ones who are like dirty dogs. Guard yourselves against the ones who teach what is false. Guard yourselves against the ones who cut their bodies. 3 But as for us—we ourselves are what it truly means to be circumcised. The Spirit of God enables us to truly worship God, and we glory in the Messiah Jesus rather than trusting in religious acts such as circumcision. 4 However, if anyone thinks they could trust in religious acts, I could;
and I even more than others. I will tell you why.

5 I was circumcised eight days after I was born. I am from the people of Israel and am a descendant of the tribe of Benjamin. I am a Hebrew who has retained the Hebrew language and way of living. As regards obeying the laws of Moses, I was a Pharisee, and therefore I strictly obeyed all the laws of Moses and teachings of the scribes. 6 With regard to being passionate about what I believed, I was so extremely passionate about what I believed that I caused those who followed Jesus to suffer. With regard to doing what God required in the law of Moses and doing what the scribes required concerning it, I was without fault.

7 But all the things that I formerly trusted in, these same things I now consider to be worthless because of the Messiah. 8 Instead, even more, I now regard all things as worthless compared to how great it is to know the Messiah, Jesus my Lord. For his sake I have willingly given up all things and I think of them as feces to throw away in order that I might have the Messiah. 9 I have willingly given up the things I formerly trusted in so that I might be fully united with the Messiah by believing in him, and not by obeying the laws that God gave to Moses. I do this because I know that the only way to please God is by believing in the Messiah. 10 I want to know the Messiah better and better. I want to continually experience him working powerfully in my life, just like God worked powerfully when he caused the Messiah to become alive after he had died. I also want to be continually willing to suffer in order that I may obey God, just like the Messiah suffered in order that he might obey God. I want to become like him in his death. 11 I want all of this because I somehow want God to cause me to live again after I have died.

12 I do not claim that I have already attained this. Nor do I say that God has already finished working in me to make me like Jesus. But I earnestly try to become more and more like Jesus, because this is why Jesus the Messiah took hold of me. 13 My fellow believers, I certainly do not think that I have already become completely like Jesus. Nor have fully known him. Rather, I have determined to forget about the things that are in the past and to work hard for the things that are in front of me. 14 Instead, I concentrate only on continuing to become more and more like Jesus until I die. As a result, because of my relationship with Jesus the Messiah, God will reward me in heaven. 15 So then, all of us who are mature believers should think this same way. But if you think differently about anything I have just written, God also will show this to you. 16 However, regarding the true things that God has already revealed to us, let us all conduct our lives according to these things.

17 My fellow believers, join together in imitating me, and observe closely those people who live as we do. 18 There are many people who act in a way that shows that they oppose the message about the Messiah dying on the cross. I have told you about these people many times before, and now I am sad, even crying, as I tell you about them again. 19 God will severely punish these people. These people serve their physical desires rather than God, and they are proud of the very things of which they should be ashamed. These people only think about earthly things instead of heavenly things. 20 As for us, we are citizens of heaven, and it is from heaven that we eagerly wait for our Lord Jesus the Messiah to return and rescue us. 21 God will change the weak and humble bodies that we have now to be bodies like the glorious resurrected body of Jesus. He will do this by his power, by which he is able to control all things.

4 1 My fellow believers, I love you, and I greatly desire to see you. I rejoice because of you; you are the reason God will reward me. In the way that I have just described to you in this letter, continue to be steadfastly committed to the Lord, my fellow believers whom I love.

2 I urge you, Euodia, and I urge you, Syntyche, to again have a peaceful relationship with each other, because you are both joined to the Lord. 3 And I also urge you, my faithful partner, to please help these women. Please help them because they have helped me spread the good news, as have Clement and the rest of my fellow laborers, whose names God has written in his book of those who will live with him forever.

4 Always rejoice in who God is and what he has done and is doing! I say again, rejoice! 5 Act in such a way that all people see that you are gentle. Do this because the Lord will return soon. 6 Do not worry about anything. Instead, in every situation pray to God, and tell him exactly what you need, and ask him to help you. And thank God for all he does for you. 7 As a result God will enable you not to worry about anything, and he will protect how you think and feel, as you are joined to the Messiah Jesus.

8 Finally, my fellow believers, think about whatever is true, whatever is worth honoring, whatever is right, whatever is faultless, whatever is pleasing, whatever is worth admiring, whatever is good, whatever is worth praising: These are the things that you should always be thinking about. 9 Continually do the things that I have taught you and the things you have heard me say and the things you have seen me do. If you do these things, the God who causes us to be at peace will be with you.

10 I rejoice greatly and thank the Lord, because now, after some time, by sending money to me you have once again shown that you are concerned about me. Indeed, you were concerned about me all the time, but you had no opportunity to show it. 11 Do not think that I am saying this because I am concerned about lacking something I need. Rather, I have learned how to be happy no matter what situation I am in. 12 I have learned how to be happy when I do not have what I need and how to be happy when I have more than I need. I have learned how to be happy when I am hungry and when I have plenty of food to eat. I have learned how to be happy in all circumstances and at all times. 13 Because the Messiah strengthens me, I am able to respond well to every situation. 14 Nevertheless, you did the right thing to help me in my difficult situation.

15 You yourselves, my friends there at Philippi, know that during the time I first proclaimed the good news to you, when I left there to go out from the province of Macedonia, no assembly of believers except you sent me funds or helped me in any way! 16 Even when I was in the city of Thessalonica, more than once you sent me money to supply what I needed. 17 I do not say this because I desire that you give me money. Instead, I desire that God will abundantly reward you as a result of your helping me.

18 You have given me a very generous gift, and, as a result, I have all I require and more. I have an abundant supply of what I need, because you sent Epaphroditus to me with your gift. God considers that your gift is very acceptable, and he is very pleased with it. 19 God, whom I serve, will supply everything you need, because you belong to Jesus the Messiah and because he owns all things. 20 Now, may our God and Father be praised and honored forever! Amen!

21 Greet for me all God's people there. They all belong to Jesus the Messiah. The believers with me greet you also. 22 All of God's people here send their greetings to you. The fellow believers who work in the palace of Caesar, the emperor, especially send their greetings to you.

23 I desire and pray that our Lord Jesus the Messiah will continue to act kindly toward you all. Amen.

Colossians

1 1 I, Paul, write this letter to you, and Timothy our fellow believer is with me. God sent me to represent the Messiah Jesus, because that is what God chose to do. 2 I send this letter to you who are God's people and faithful fellow believers united to the Messiah, who live in the city of Colossae. May God our Father and the Lord Jesus the Messiah continue to be kind to you and make you peaceful.

3 We pray for you very often. When we do, we thank God, the Father of our Lord Jesus the Messiah, 4 because have learned that you trust in the Messiah Jesus and that you love all God's people. 5 You do these things because you are confidently waiting for everything that God is keeping for you in heaven. You first learned about all that God has for you when you heard the true message, which is the good news about the Messiah. 6 Just as you heard and believed this good news in Colossae, increasing numbers of people in many places are also hearing and believing it. These people are living in a different way now, just as you have been living in a different way since you first learned about it and truly experienced how God acts kindly toward us. 7 This is what Epaphras told you would happen. He works with us for the Messiah, and we love him. He faithfully serves the Messiah as our representative. 8 He told us that you love all God's people, just as God's Spirit has empowered you to do.

9 Because of everything that Epaphras told us, since the time when he first told us about you, we have joined him in consistently praying for you. When we pray for you, we ask God to show you everything that he wants you to do and to make you able to understand everything that God's Spirit is teaching you. 10 We have been praying that you know what God wants so that you can live in a way that honors the Lord and pleases him in every way. When you live this way, you will be doing every sort of good thing and continually knowing God better. 11 As you live this way, God will greatly strengthen you to be able to patiently endure in all situations, and to do so joyfully. God can strengthen you greatly because he is gloriously powerful. 12 Then you will continually thank God our Father, because he has made you worthy to take part in everything that he has to give to his people when they are with him.

13 God our Father has delivered us from the evil one, who used to control us, and he has given us to his Son, whom he loves, so that now we can obey his Son. 14 Because we are united to his Son, God has set us free; that is, he has forgiven our sins. 15 God's Son perfectly reveals who God is, even though no one can see God. The Son existed before God created anything, and he has first place over everything that God has created. 16 You can know that the Son existed before anything else existed and has first place over everything because the Father and the Son together created everything that exists. This includes everything in heaven and everything on earth, and everything that we can see and everything that we cannot see, including the spiritual beings such as thrones, dominions, rulers, and authorities. The Father and the Son together created everything, and everything exists to honor the Son. 17 The Son existed before any of creation existed, and he sustains and connects all of it. 18 In regard to the church, that is, all believers, he rules over it as people's heads rule over their bodies. He made it possible for the church to begin when he was the first person to live again after dying, never to die again. Because of these things about him, he is greater and more important than anything and anybody else. 19 The Son rules over everything because the Son is fully God, just as the Father gladly willed him to be. 20 God the Father also gladly chose to work through the Son to reconcile to himself everything and every person that he created in the whole universe. God did this through his Son when his Son died on the cross, which made everything peaceful between God and his creation.

21 Before you believed in the Messiah, you did not want to be close to God, and you were hostile to him because everything you thought and did was evil. 22 But that has all changed now that you believe in Jesus! God the Father has repaired the relationship between himself and you by working through his Son when his Son became human and died. God the Father repaired the relationship so that you can dwell with him as people who are completely free from sin. 23 This is all true about you as long as you continue confidently to believe in the Messiah, and as long as you do not give up confidently hoping for God to do what he has promised in the good news that you heard and that people all over the world have heard. I, Paul, serve God by proclaiming to people this same good news.

24 At the present time I suffer cheerfully because it is for your benefit. I am suffering physically to complete my part of the suffering that the Messiah began on behalf of his people, the church, which is like the Messiah's own body. 25 God called me to serve his church, and he appointed me specifically to carry out his plan that concerns you. My part of this plan is to proclaim to you non-Jews the full message from God. 26 God kept this message a secret, concealing it from people for a long time. But now he has made the message known to his people. 27 God has been wanting to tell his people this very glorious message that was secret, which applies to non-Jews as well as to Jews. The secret is that the Messiah is united to you non-Jews, which means that you can confidently expect to become glorious beings like the Messiah. 28 This is the Messiah whom we announce to everyone. When we talk about him, we warn and teach each person as wisely as we can. We do these things so that each of these people may become spiritually mature in each person's union with the Messiah. 29 I work hard in all that I do in order to accomplish that goal. I can do this because the Messiah is powerfully enabling me to do it.

2 1 I write these things because I want to inform you about how hard I am working. I work hard for you, for the fellow-believers who live in the city of Laodicea, and for all fellow-believers who have not met me in person. 2 I work this hard in order to encourage all of you who have not met me so that you unite yourselves together with love for each other. I want you to completely and confidently understand the secret that God had previously kept hidden. This secret is about the Messiah. 3 The Messiah is the one who knows all of God's wonderful, wise plan. 4 I am telling you about this secret in order that no person who argues persuasively will be able to convince you to believe what is not true. 5 You can know that those who argue persuasively are wrong because I care about you and think about you, even though I am not with you in person. I am very happy to see that you are behaving properly and that you firmly believe in the Messiah.

6 Now that I have told you the truth about the good news, I want you to behave in a way that fits with how God has united you to the Messiah. You should keep behaving as you did when you accepted the Messiah Jesus the Lord. 7 Behaving in this way includes staying firmly united to him, just as a plant's roots hold it firmly in place. It also includes depending completely on him, just as a house stands on its foundation. It also includes confidently trusting the Messiah, just as Epaphras taught you, and giving thanks more and more.

8 Be on the alert so that no one who tries to lead you away from the truth will succeed. Anyone who tries to lead you away will use human thinking that is meaningless and deceptive.

Such a false message comes from what older generations teach younger generations and from what humans normally think about the world, not from the Messiah. 9 I mention the Messiah because he, a human, is fully God. 10 In addition, you have everything you need since God has united you to the Messiah, who rules over the spiritual beings, including every ruler and every authority. 11 When God united you to the Messiah, it was as if God the Father had circumcised you. I do not mean that a human physically cut flesh off you. Rather, instead of cutting off flesh, God removed your weak and sinful parts. God circumcised you in this way through what the Messiah accomplished. 12 Here is another way to understand what God has done for you: when they baptized you, it was as if you died and people buried you because God the Father included you when the Messiah died and people buried him. And it was as if God the Father brought you back to life because he included you when he brought the Messiah back to life. This happened because you believed that God the Father works powerfully, particularly when he brought the Messiah back to life. 13 You used to be spiritually dead, because you often sinned against God and because you were non-Jews and not part of God's people. But God the Father brought you back to life spiritually because he included you when he brought the Messiah back to life. This means that he has forgiven us for all the wrong things we have done against him. 14 It was as if God had an official list of the debts we owe, which are our sins. When he forgave us, he wiped out that list of sins that counted against us, and he prevented it from coming between us and him. God accomplished this when the Messiah died on the cross, as surely as if he had nailed the list to the cross. 15 Moreover, God defeated the spiritual beings that rule the world, and he publicly showed that he defeated them, just as if he had paraded them around as prisoners. God did this when the Messiah died on the cross.

16 Because of these things that God has done for you, do not worry about what other people say you should do. They may have opinions about what to eat and what to drink. They may have opinions about what special days to observe, including days for worshipping God, days for celebrating when there is a new moon, or days for resting. 17 God used these things to point to what he had planned for the future, which is the coming of the Messiah himself. 18 You will meet some people who enjoy pretending to be humble and worshipping angels and who love to talk about amazing things that they have seen. They act like they are great—although without good reason, because they think only in human ways. Do not listen to these people who are trying to take away what God has ready to give to you. 19 These people are not remaining loyal to the Messiah. It is he who leads the church, just like people's heads lead their bodies. The head directs how the whole body, each and every part, receives what it needs and how it works together. In this way the body grows. Just like that, the Messiah directs the church so that it grows as God wants it to grow.

20 It is as if you have died, because God included you when the Messiah died. This frees you from the spiritual beings that rule this world. So, you should not obey the rules that these people have given to you. Doing so would mean that you were really still part of this world.
21 These rules include commands like these: "Do not feel certain things!" "Do not try certain foods!" "Do not take hold of certain things!" 22 All such rules concern things that perish when people make use of them. Further, people, not God, teach and require these rules. 23 Following these rules may seem to be a wise thing to do for people who worship God the way they want to, who pretend to be humble, and who treat their bodies badly as part of their religion. However, following these rules will not help you stop sinning.

3 1 To return to what I said before, it is as if God brought you back to life because he included you when he brought the Messiah back to life. Because of this, I want you to stay focused on what is in heaven, since the Messiah is there. He sits next to God the Father on the throne and rules everything. 2 I want you to desire what God has ready for you in heaven, not what you could have here on earth. 3 You should think this way because it is as if you have died. You are spiritually alive only because God has united you to the Messiah in close relationship with himself, and this cannot be seen on earth right now. 4 You are alive because God has united you to the Messiah. Therefore, when he returns again to earth and everyone sees him, at that time you will be with him. Then, everyone will see that you too have become glorious beings like him.

5 Because this is your destiny, think of the desires you have to do evil things in this world as enemies that you must kill. The evil things that you might desire include having improper sex, doing impure things, enjoying wrong emotions, desiring evil things, and wanting more than you need, which is the same as worshiping another god. 6 Because people have these desires, God is angry with them and will punish them. 7 You, just like them, used to have these desires to do evil things. That was when you acted out these desires. 8 But now that you have believed, you must stop behaving in all evil ways. These evil ways include acting in angry ways, being angry with others, desiring to hurt others, talking bad about others, and speaking shameful words. [9] You must not tell lies to one another. You are not the person you used to be, a person who normally behaved in these evil ways. [10] You are a new person now, a person in whom God is working to make you know him more. You are now a person who is like God, who turned you into this new person. [11] Since you are all new people, it is not important whether anyone is a non-Jew or a Jew, or whether anyone is circumcised or not, or whether anyone is a foreigner or an uncivilized person, or whether anyone is a slave or not. Instead, it is the Messiah who is most important, and God has united him to all of you.

[12] God has chosen you, he has set you apart as his own people, and he loves you. Because of these things and because you are new people, you must always behave properly towards others. This includes caring about them, being kind to them, not being proud, not behaving harshly, and taking a long time to become angry. [13] You must not easily become irritated with one another. When you blame other people for the things they have done, you must forgive them. You should imitate how the Lord forgave you by forgiving one another. [14] Finally, what is more important than everything I have said so far is that you love one another. By doing this you will unite yourselves together, just as God has called you to do.

[15] You must make the peace which the Messiah has given you a primary factor when you choose what to do. You must do this because God has chosen you to have peace as he unites you closely together, as closely as if you were one person's body. Also, you must give thanks to God. [16] You must focus completely on the message about the Messiah as you think and act. You must teach and instruct one another very wisely using songs from the Scriptures, songs about Jesus, and songs that the Holy Spirit has given to you. You must thankfully and sincerely sing to God.

[17] Whenever you say or do anything, you should behave in every situation as people who represent the Lord Jesus. Also, you should thank God, who is our Father. You can do this only because of the work of the Messiah.

[18] Wives must treat their husbands as the leaders in their families, since this is appropriate behavior for those whom God has united to the Lord. [19] Husbands must love their wives and not treat them harshly.

20 Children must obey their parents in every circumstance. This pleases God and is appropriate for those whom God has united to the Lord. 21 Fathers must not make their children angry. Otherwise, the children may feel like giving up.

22 Slaves must obey those who are their masters in this world in every circumstance. They should obey not just when their masters are watching, which is how those who want to please only humans behave. Instead, they should obey their masters sincerely because they treat the Lord with reverence. 23 You must do whatever work you have to do diligently, as if you were working for the Lord instead of for merely human masters. 24 You must obey and serve in this way because you know that the Lord will justly repay you by giving you what he has kept for you. Remember that the Lord Messiah is the real master for whom you are working. 25 You must remember who the real master is because God will punish anyone who does wrong in proportion to those wrong actions. This is because God does not judge people based on how they look or who they are but on what they have done.

4 1 Masters must treat their slaves justly and fairly. You who are masters must do this because you know that you too serve a Master, one who is in heaven.

2 Pray to God persistently. Pay attention when you pray, and give thanks to God. 3 When you are praying, pray for us too. Pray that God will make it possible for us to freely proclaim our message, which is the secret about the Messiah that we now share with others. Because we proclaimed this message, I am now in prison. 4 Pray that I am able to explain the good news clearly, since this is what God has called me to do.

5 Behave wisely around those who do not believe in the Messiah. Take advantage of every opportunity you have to do this. 6 When you talk with them, you must always speak in a pleasant and interesting way. When you do this, you will know the best way to respond to each person.

7 Tychicus will tell you everything that has been happening to me. He is a fellow believer whom I love, who helps me faithfully, and who serves together with me as a man whom God has united to the Lord. 8 I am sending Tychicus to you with this letter because I want you to know how we are doing and because Tychicus will help you live confidently. 9 I am sending him to you with Onesimus, who is a faithful fellow believer whom I love. He is from your group. Tychicus and Onesimus will tell you about everything that has been happening here.

10 Aristarchus, who is in prison with me, and Mark, who is Barnabas' cousin, send their regards to you. You already know that you should welcome Mark if he visits you. 11 Jesus, whom you may know by the name Justus, also sends his regards. These men—Aristarchus, Mark, and Justus—are the only Jewish believers who are working with me for the sake of God's kingdom. They have encouraged me in this work. 12 Epaphras, who is from your group and who serves the Messiah Jesus, sends his regards to you. He prays earnestly for you very often. He prays that God will make you able to be what God has called you to be and to be sure of everything that God wants you to do. 13 You know that he prays this way for you because I can personally affirm this about him. I tell you that he works very hard for you, for the people who live in the city of Laodicea, and for the people who live in the city of Hierapolis. 14 Luke the doctor, whom I love, and Demas send their regards to you.

15 Give our regards to the fellow believers who live in Laodicea, to Nympha, and to the group of believers that meets in Nympha's home. 16 After the person who reads this letter to you finishes it, send it to Laodicea so that someone can read it to the group of believers there, too. Also, ask for the letter I sent to the believers in Laodicea so that you too can read it.
17 You must tell Archippus to make sure that he completes the task that God gave him to do when God united him to the Messiah.

18 I, Paul, send my regards to you. I am writing these last words myself instead of having my scribe write them. You must not forget that I am in prison. I pray that God will be gracious to you.

1 Thessalonians

1 1 I, Paul, write this letter to you, and Silas and Timothy are with me. I send this letter to you, the group of believers in the city of Thessalonica. God the Father has united you to himself and to the Lord Jesus the Messiah. May God continue to be kind to you and make you peaceful.

2 We pray for you persistently. When we do, we consistently thank God for all of you. 3 We thank our God and Father for what you do because you trust in him. We thank him for the way that you help people because you love them. We thank him for the way that you patiently endure because you confidently expect our Lord Jesus the Messiah to come again. 4 We thank God because we know that he chose you, fellow believers whom God loves. 5 We know that God chose you, because when we told you the good news, we did not just say words. Rather, the Holy Spirit also powerfully worked through us, and we were sure that the good news was true. In the same way, you remember how we acted to help you when we were with you. 6 As for you, you acted as we do and as the Lord Jesus did. Specifically, when you believed the good news, you suffered greatly, but the Holy Spirit caused you to rejoice. 7 Because you acted in those ways, all the believers in the provinces of Macedonia and Achaia want to act as you do. 8 In fact, many people who live in the provinces of Macedonia and Achaia have heard the message about the Lord Jesus because of you. Even more, people in very many places have heard about how you trust in God. As a result, we do not need to tell people anything about what God has done for you. 9 Indeed, those same people tell others about how well it went when we visited you. They say that you stopped caring about other gods and began to focus on God so that you could worship and obey him, the only real God. 10 Further, they say that you focused on God so that you could eagerly anticipate when God's Son will come back from where he is in heaven. God made Jesus alive again, and Jesus is the one who will save us who believe in him at the time when God will punish people for their sins.

2 1 Fellow believers, you surely remember that when we visited you, it was very productive. 2 As you remember, when we were in the city of Philippi, people hurt us and abused us. However, our God made us confident when we told you the good news from God, despite how hard it was to do. 3 When we encouraged you to believe the good news, we did not convince you to believe an incorrect message. We did not say or do unclean things. We did not deceive you. 4 Rather, we speak as people whom God has tested and approved to proclaim the good news. We are not trying to please people. Instead, we are trying to please God. He is the one who tests what we think and desire. 5 In fact, when we visited you, we did not flatter you or pretend not to want money. You remember that this is true, and God testifies that it is true. 6 We did not desire that people would honor us. We did not desire this from you or from anyone else. 7 Since the Messiah sent us to represent him, we could have required you to obey us and give us whatever we wanted. However, when we were with you, we acted as gentle as babies. We were like mothers who lovingly take care of their children. 8 Since we care for you in those ways, we delighted to share the good news from God with you. Even more, we delighted to share our own lives with you. That is because we started to love you very much. 9 Fellow believers, I know that you recall how hard we labored. We worked all day long so that we would not have to bother any of you by asking for money. That was how we acted when we told you the good news from God. 10 Both you and God can testify that we did what was good and right when we were with you who trust in God. 11 You remember that we behaved toward every one of you as a father behaves toward his own children. 12 That means that we were teaching you and urging you so that you would live the way that God wants his people to live. He is the one who invites you to participate in his kingdom and in how great he is.

13 Further, we consistently thank God that you accepted what you heard about God in our message. You did not consider it to be a merely human message. Rather, you considered it to be a message from God, which is what it really is. This message is changing you who trust in God. 14-15 Now unbelieving Jews not only killed the prophets long ago, but they also recently killed the Lord Jesus and forced us to leave your city. These unbelieving Jews also persecuted the believers who live in the region of Judea. In fact, fellow believers, you have become like these groups of believers in Judea whom God has united to Jesus the Messiah. That is because people from your own country persecute you, just as the unbelieving Jews persecuted the believers in Judea. These unbelieving Jews do not please God, and they act against most people.

16 They try to stop us from telling the good news to non-Jews, which we do so that God saves non-Jews. So, these unbelieving Jews consistently continue to sin. However, God will completely punish them!

17 In contrast, fellow believers, we very eagerly desired to be with you in person, even though we had to leave you for a little while. Although we were physically absent, we always thought and cared about you. 18 Indeed, we wanted to visit you. Specifically, I myself, Paul, tried to visit several times. However, each time, Satan stopped us from visiting. 19 We wanted to visit you because it is you who enable us to hope and to rejoice and to say great things about you, who honor us. We know that this will be true when our Lord Jesus examines everyone after he returns to this world. 20 Indeed, you honor us and make us rejoice!

3 1 So then, because we felt like we could not possibly wait any longer, we decided that just Silas and I should stay behind in the city of Athens. 2 Then, Silas and I had Timothy visit you. He is our fellow believer and serves God by proclaiming the good news about the Messiah. We had him visit you so that he could support and encourage you as you trust in God. 3 That way, when people hurt you, you do not become unsure as you trust in God. In fact, you are well aware that God already decided that people would hurt us believers. 4 You are well aware of that because, while we apostles were visiting you, we warned you ahead of time that others were about to hurt us believers. You are well aware that this is exactly what occurred. 5 Because others have hurt us believers, and because I felt like I could not possibly wait any longer, I had Timothy visit you. I wanted to learn if you were still trusting in God. I was concerned that the devil might have succeeded in tempting you to stop trusting in God. If that were true, how hard we had worked among you would have accomplished nothing!

6 However, Timothy recently returned to Silas and me after visiting you. He gave us good news about how much you trust God and love each other. He told us that whenever you think about us, it makes you happy. He also told us that you desire to be with us, just as we desire to be with you. 7 Fellow believers, because of what Timothy told us, although people were persecuting and hurting us often, God used how you continue to trust in him to encourage us that you are doing well. 8 Indeed, since you continue to trust in the Lord Jesus, we feel much better now! 9 In fact, we cannot thank God enough for you! We are extremely happy about you whenever we pray to our God. 10 All day long we urgently ask God to allow us to visit you and help you increase how much you trust in God.

11 We pray that God our Father and our Lord Jesus will enable us to visit you again! 12 We pray that the Lord Jesus will cause you always to love each other and all people more and more. That is how we love you! 13 We pray those things so that God will make you spiritually strong. That way, God our Father will consider you to be faultlessly pure. He will do that when our Lord Jesus returns to this world, bringing with him everyone who belongs to him. May it be so!

4 1 So then, fellow believers, here is the rest of what I want to write to you. When we visited you, we taught you how you should behave in a way that honors God, and that is how you are behaving! Now we urge you, because God has united you to the Lord Jesus, to continue to behave in this way more and more. 2 You remember what we commanded you to do as we spoke for the Lord Jesus.

3 For example, God desires that you act in pure ways. That means that you should not have improper sex. 4 That also means that you all should learn to control how you desire to have sex. That way, you will be acting purely and honoring God. 5 You should not have any improper sex that you greatly desire. That is what non-Jews who do not trust in God do. 6 You should do what God desires concerning having sex so that you will not sin by mistreating a fellow believer. You should avoid sinning in that way because the Lord Jesus will punish all people who have any kind of improper sex. We already declared that to you when we were with you. 7 Indeed, God chose us so that we would belong to him. He did not choose us so that we would do impure things. 8 So then, anyone who disobeys what we have commanded you is not simply disobeying a human. Rather, that person is disobeying God. He is the one who sends the Holy Spirit to you.

9 We do not have to tell you anything about how to care for fellow believers. That is because God instructed you so that you care for each other. 10 That is also because you already care for all the fellow believers throughout Macedonia province. Fellow believers, we exhort you to care for fellow believers even more. 11 We also exhort you to try very earnestly to live peacefully, to focus on your own tasks, and to earn what you need to live. In fact, that is what we told you to do when we were with you. 12 We urge you to do these things, so that you can set a good example toward those who do not believe in the Messiah by how modestly you live. Then you would not have to depend on others to provide what you need to live.

13 Also, our fellow believers in the Messiah, we want you to be aware about what will happen to believers in the Messiah who are dead. You should not be like the rest of humanity, which does not believe in the Messiah. They are deeply sad because they do not confidently expect that people will resurrect after death. 14 Certainly, we apostles are convinced that Jesus died and resurrected. This is why we also are convinced that God will resurrect the dead people who are united to Jesus. Then God will send them back with Jesus when he returns to earth again. 15 In fact, what we apostles are now telling you is a message from the Lord Jesus himself. When the Lord Jesus comes again, all believers in the Messiah will greet him. First, those believers in the Messiah who have already died will certainly greet him, and then we believers in the Messiah who are still alive. 16 This is how the Lord Jesus will come down from heaven: the Lord Jesus himself will personally give the command for all to resurrect. The chief angel will shout. God's trumpet will blast. Then all the dead who are united to the Messiah will be the first to resurrect from the earth. 17 After that, God will snatch up all of us believers in the Messiah who are still alive on earth so that we can meet the Lord Jesus in the air. Both groups of believers in the Messiah will meet together on the clouds. This is how we will remain together with the Lord Jesus forever! 18 As a result, you must encourage each other with this message!

5 1 Now I want you to be aware of the timing of our Lord's return to earth Our fellow believers in the Messiah, we do not really need to write anything to you about the specific time of our Lord's return. 2 This is because you yourselves already know accurately about the time when the Lord Jesus will come back. You also know that he will come unexpectedly, like when a robber comes at night. 3 The Lord Jesus will come at a time when people are saying, "We are safe and secure!" Then, suddenly, God will overwhelm and destroy them! It will be similar to when a pregnant woman cannot escape being overwhelmed by labor pains. In the same way, those people can never escape when God destroys! 4 However, our fellow believers in the Messiah, you are not people who are unaware of what will happen, like when people are in the darkness. This is why, when the Lord Jesus returns to earth to punish the people who do not belong to him, he will not surprise you as if he were a thief. 5 Since you are all God's children, you should live ready for Jesus to return to earth, like people who are in the light or awake during day are aware of what is happening. We are not Satan's children, who live unaware of what will happen, like people at night or in the darkness who cannot perceive as well. 6 So, this is why, as God's children, we must live ready for what will happen. We must not live unaware of what will happen like the rest of humanity, who are just like people who are sleeping. Instead, we must stay alert and remain attentive, expecting Jesus to return to earth. 7 It is well known that when people are unaware of what will happen, it is usually at night, when they are sleeping. And when people get drunk, they are not ready for what will happen. They usually get drunk at night, when they cannot perceive things as well. 8 But we who are ready for the Lord Jesus to return to earth do not live unaware of what will happen like these people. Since we are ready, we must remain attentive. We must fully arm ourselves like soldiers. Faithful love towards God should cover our chests like a breastplate. Being confident that God will save us should fully protect our heads like a helmet.

9 Since we are his people, God did not destine that he would punish us for our sins. Instead, he destined that our Lord, Jesus the Messiah, would preserve and save us. 10 Jesus died in our place so that we would live forever with him. This is true, whether we are alive or dead when he returns to earth. 11 Since this is true, continue to habitually encourage and support each and every one of your fellow believers in the Messiah!

12 Finally, our fellow believers in the Messiah, we request that you give recognition to your spiritual leaders who work hard among you, in the same way you would give recognition to the Lord Jesus. You should also give them recognition because they continually warn and instruct you about living like believers in the Messiah should. 13 Because of how hard they work for you, we also request that you abundantly love your spiritual leaders by being considerate of them. We also urge that you keep living peacefully with each other.

14 Our fellow believers in the Messiah, we now urge that you warn and instruct those who live inappropriately. We also urge that you cheer up those who are discouraged. We also urge that you support those who are weak. We also urge that you live patiently with every one of your fellow believers in the Messiah. 15 If someone treats you badly, make sure that you do not treat them badly in return. Instead, whenever you can, actively look for ways to kindly treat every fellow believer in the Messiah.

16 Be joyful all the time! 17 Constantly pray! 18 Keep giving thanks to God in every situation! Indeed, God desires for all of you who are united to Jesus the Messiah to do all these things.

19 Do not try to stop the Holy Spirit from working among you. That would be like someone trying to extinguish a fire! 20 In other words, do not scorn prophecies that the Holy Spirit gives to other believers in the Messiah! 21 Instead, keep evaluating all of the prophecies and retain only those that prove to be excellent. 22 Refrain from any thing that appears to be wicked!

23 In summary, we pray that God will personally make you live like people who completely belong to him. God is the one who gives his people peace. We also pray that God will preserve you completely innocent for the time when our Lord Jesus the Messiah arrives on earth again. 24 The faithful God continually summons all of you to live like those who completely belong to him. So, you can be certain that he will also do whatever is necessary for you to be able to live like those who completely belong to him.

25 Our fellow believers in the Messiah, we also ask that you keep praying for me, for Silas, and for Timothy! 26 When you meet together for worship, affectionately greet each of your fellow believers in the Messiah in a way that is appropriate for those who belong to God. 27 I want you to swear an oath to the Lord Jesus, that you will read this letter to all the believers in the Messiah among you! 28 May our Lord Jesus the Messiah continue to act kindly toward all of you!

2 Thessalonians

1 1 I, Paul, am writing this letter. Silas and Timothy are with me. We are sending this letter to you, the group of believers in the city of Thessalonica, who belong to God our Father and to our Lord Jesus the Messiah. 2 May God our Father and our Lord Jesus the Messiah continue to be kind to you and make you peaceful.

3 Our fellow believers, we should thank God very frequently for you, and we certainly do! It is very appropriate that we should do this, because you are trusting in the Lord Jesus more and more, and because every one of you is loving each of the others more and more. 4 As a result, we keep proudly talking about you to the other groups of believers belonging to God. We tell them how you patiently endure suffering and how you continue trusting in the Lord Jesus, even though other people continually cause you to suffer.

5 We can clearly see that God has made you able to stay faithful to Jesus while people make you suffer. From that we know that God judges justly, because it means that he considers you to be worthy of being part of his people forever. That is what you are suffering for. 6 Since God judges justly, he will certainly also cause suffering for those people who are making you suffer. 7 He will also cause the people who are afflicting you to stop doing it. He will also do that for us. This will happen when our Lord Jesus shows himself to everyone as he returns from heaven with his powerful angels. 8 Then with blazing fire he will punish those people who have rejected God, those who refuse to accept the good news about our Lord Jesus. 9 These people will experience the direct result of rejecting God. They will be apart from the Lord Jesus forever, where they will never know how wonderfully powerful he is, and where they will be always dying. 10 This will happen when the Lord Jesus comes back from heaven at the time that God has decided. As a result, all we who are his people will praise him and marvel at him. You will be there, too, because you believed us when we told you the things about Jesus that we knew to be true.

11 We frequently ask God to strengthen you spiritually so that you might praise Jesus like this. We pray that the God whom we worship will make you worthy to be the new people that he has invited you to be. We pray that he will empower you to accomplish every good thing that you want to do because God has inspired you to do it. 12 We pray this because we want you to praise our Lord Jesus, and we want him to honor you. This will happen because the God whom we worship and our Lord Jesus the Messiah are exceedingly kind to you.

2 1 Now I want to write to you about the time when our Lord Jesus the Messiah will return and will gather us to himself. My fellow believers, I urge you 2 to think calmly about any message that may have come to you that says that the Lord Jesus has already returned to earth. Do not let this kind of message upset you. It does not matter if the message comes from a spirit or if it comes from a person or if it is in a letter that someone claims that I wrote. 3 Do not allow anyone to persuade you to believe any such message.

It is not true, because other things that have not yet happened must happen before the Lord returns. Before the Lord returns, a large number of people will rebel against God. They will accept and obey a certain man who will oppose everything that God has said. (After some time, God will destroy him.) 4 This man will say that he is greater than everything that people consider to be God and everything that people worship. He will oppose both. As a result, he will even sit in God's place in God's temple to proclaim that he himself is God! 5 I am sure that you remember that I told you all about these things while I was still with you there in Thessalonica.

6 You also know what is preventing this man from showing himself to everybody now. He will not be able to show himself until the time that God has set for him. 7 Clearly, people are already opposing what God has said, for reasons that only believers can understand. But someone is preventing this man from revealing himself now, and he will continue to prevent this man until God tells him to stop preventing this man. 8 It is then that God will allow this man who completely rejects God's instructions to show himself to everyone. (In the end, Jesus will return. When this man sees Jesus, this man will become completely powerless. Then the Lord Jesus will speak a command that will destroy this man.)

9 But before Jesus destroys this man, Satan will work very powerfully through this man. Satan will empower this man to do all kinds of supernatural deeds that look like the miracles that God does. 10 This man will be very wicked and will deceive very many people. These people will perish because they did not accept the true message about Jesus as highly valuable, so God will not save them. 11 Because these people reject the true message about Jesus, God enables them to think falsely so that they will believe this man's lies. 12 God does that so that he may justly condemn all those who refused to believe the true message about Jesus, people who instead preferred to do things that are wicked.

13 But we should always thank God for you, our fellow believers, you whom our Lord Jesus loves. We should do this because God chose you to be among the first people to believe the true message about Jesus. God chose you to be among the first people that he would save and set apart for himself by means of his Spirit. 14 God invited you to belong to him as we proclaimed to you the good news about Jesus so that God might honor you in some of the same ways that he honors our Lord Jesus the Messiah.

15 So, our fellow believers, continue to strongly believe in the Messiah. Continue believing the true teachings that we have passed on to you when we spoke to you and wrote a letter to you.

16-17 God our Father loves us. Because he is extremely kind to us, he will continue to encourage us forever, and we can expect to receive good things from him. We pray that he and our Lord Jesus the Messiah himself will encourage you and make you able to continually do and say every kind of good thing.

3 1 This is the last part of what I want to say. Our fellow believers, pray for us that many more people will soon hear the message about our Lord Jesus and honor it, just as you have done. 2 Pray also for us that God will keep the many evil people from harming us. As you know, most people are not faithful to the Lord.

3 Nevertheless, the Lord Jesus is faithful to you! He will make you strong spiritually and he will protect you from Satan, the evil one. 4 Because you are joined to our Lord Jesus, we are also confident that you are now obeying what we have commanded you, and that you will obey what we are commanding you in this letter. 5 We pray that our Lord Jesus would continue to help you to experience how much God loves you as well as to experience the endurance that the Messiah will give you.

6 Our fellow believers, accept what we say now as if our Lord Jesus the Messiah himself were saying this: we command you to stop associating with every fellow believer who is lazy and refuses to work. These people are not living in the way that Jesus taught us and that we in turn have taught you. 7 We tell you this because you yourselves know that you should behave just as we behaved. We did not just sit there without working while we were living among you. 8 That is to say, we did not eat anyone's food if we did not pay for it. Instead, we worked very hard all the time to support ourselves. We did that so that we would not have to depend on any of you for what we needed. 9 God has certainly authorized us to receive what we need from his people. But instead of demanding things from you, we worked hard so that you could see how God wants his people to live, and then you could live in just the same way. 10 Remember that when we were there with you, we kept commanding you that if any fellow believer refuses to work, you should not give him food to eat. 11 Now we tell you this again, because people have told us that some of you are lazy and not working at all. Not only that, but some of you are interfering with what other people are doing.

12 Accept what we say now as if the Lord Jesus the Messiah himself were saying this: We command and urge those fellow believers who are not working to mind their own business and to work so that they have what they need to live.

13 As for you fellow believers who are working hard, do not ever get tired of doing what is right!

14 If any fellow believer does not obey what we have written in this letter, publicly identify that person. Then do not associate with him, in order that he may become ashamed that he is not working. 15 Do not think of him as though he were your enemy; instead, warn him as you would warn your other fellow believers.

16 I pray that our Lord, who is the only one who can truly make anyone peaceful, will make you peaceful in every way and in all situations.

I pray that our Lord Jesus will continue to help you all. 17 Now I have taken the pen from my scribe, and I, Paul, am sending this greeting to you as I write this myself. I do this in all my letters in order that you may know that it is truly I who have sent this letter. This is how I always end my letters. 18 I pray that our Lord Jesus the Messiah will continue to act kindly to you all.

1 Timothy

1 1 I, Paul, write this letter to you. God is the one who rescues us, and the Lord Jesus, the Messiah, is the one whom we confidently expect. The two of them ordered me to represent Jesus the Messiah.

2 I send this letter to you, Timothy.

You have become like my own son because we both trust in Jesus. May God the Father and Jesus the Messiah, our Lord, continue to be kind and merciful to you and make you peaceful.

3 As I asked you when I was traveling to the province of Macedonia, I ask you again to stay in the city of Ephesus. That way, you can prohibit certain people there from teaching things that are different from what is true. 4 I want you to tell them to stop focusing on legends and very long lists of ancestors. Those things cause people to argue with each other. They do not help to accomplish God's plan. That happens when we trust in Jesus. 5 I want you to require those things so that people will love each other. They will do that while they desire only what is good, while they know that they are doing what is right, and while they genuinely trust in Jesus. 6 However, some people have failed to do those things. Instead, they speak about things that do not matter. 7 Those people desire to be people who teach the Jewish law. However, they do not understand what they talk about or what they confidently affirm.

8 We believers understand that the Jewish law is excellent as long as people use it properly. 9 Indeed, we believers realize that God did not establish the Jewish law for people who do what is right. Rather, he established the Jewish law for people who do what is wrong and do not obey anyone. They do not honor God, and they sin. They do things that defile themselves, and they do not set themselves apart for God. They murder their parents. They murder other people. 10 They act in sexually improper ways. They have sex with people of the same gender. They sell other people as slaves. They lie even when they solemnly promise to say what is true. When people teach them what is right, they always do the opposite. 11 When people teach what is right, it fits with the good news, which shows how great is the God whom we praise. That is the good news that God has told me to proclaim to people.

12 I thank Jesus the Messiah, our Lord, who has enabled me to proclaim the good news. I thank him because he decided that he could trust me, so he appointed me to serve him. 13 Jesus did that even though I used to insult him, harm his people, and act violently. However, I did not understand what I was doing when I did not trust in Jesus. So, Jesus acted mercifully to me. 14 Our Lord Jesus acted extremely kindly to me. By uniting me to himself, Jesus the Messiah, he enabled me to believe in him and to love people.

15 Everyone should trust and rely on this statement: "Jesus the Messiah was here on earth to rescue sinful people." As for me, I am more sinful than everyone else. 16 However, that is why Jesus acted mercifully to me. That way, Jesus the Messiah could show how very patient he is by how he treated me, the most sinful person. He wanted to illustrate his character for people who are going to trust in him so that they live with God forever. 17 God is always ruling. He will never die, and no one can see him. There are no other gods. So, let us praise and glorify him forever! May it be so!

18 Timothy, you are like my son. I have told you to do certain things because they fit with what people previously prophesied about you. I have told you to do those things so that, as those people prophesied, you will serve God well, as a soldier obeys a commanding officer. 19 You can do that by trusting in Jesus and by knowing that you are doing what is right. Some people have stopped doing that, and now they no longer trust in Jesus. 20 Among those who have done that are Hymenaeus and Alexander. I have expelled them so that Satan rules over them. That way, they will learn not to insult God.

2 1 So then, I ask believers to focus especially on praying for all people. Believers should be thankful for these people and ask God to act kindly to them. 2 They should pray particularly for kings and for everyone who rules over other people. That way, we believers can live calmly and peacefully, and we can honor God and act in ways that others respect. 3 It is right to pray like that, and it pleases God. He is the one who rescues us. 4 God wants to rescue all people. He wants everyone to understand what is true. 5 You can tell that God wants those things to happen because God is the only God. Further, Jesus the Messiah is the only one who reconciles God and humans. He is human himself. 6 He chose to die so that he could free all people from their sins. That is what believers testify to during this time when it is right to do so. 7 It was to testify in that way that Jesus appointed me to speak for him and to represent him. Jesus also appointed me to instruct non-Jewish people about what is true and about what to believe. As surely as God has united me to the Messiah, I am not telling you what is false, but what is true!

8 Next, wherever you worship God, here is how I desire men to pray: They should not be angry or quarreling with each other. Instead, they should pray in a way that honors God.
9 Similarly, when you worship God, here is how I desire women to dress: They should be modest and control themselves by wearing appropriate clothing. They should not wear elaborate hairstyles, golden jewelry, pearls, or clothes that cost much money. 10 Instead, they should focus on doing what is right. That is appropriate for women who claim to honor God.

11 Women should learn unobtrusively. They should always honor and obey the people who lead their group of believers. 12 Further, I do not allow women to teach or to rule men. Instead, they should behave unobtrusively. 13 What you can read in the Scriptures supports what I have commanded, since God made the first man Adam before he made the first woman Eve.
14 Further, the talking snake did not convince Adam to do what was wrong. Rather, the talking snake convinced the woman, Eve, to do what was wrong. So, she disobeyed what God had commanded. 15 However, God would eventually rescue Eve by sending the Messiah through women having children. Along with her, God will save other women as long as they continue to trust in Jesus, love other people, act as those who belong to God, and control themselves.

3 1 Everyone should trust this statement: “People who want to lead the rest of God’s people are seeking to do something that is good.” 2 Because doing that is good, those who lead the rest of God’s people must be those whom no one can rightly accuse of doing anything wrong. They must be sexually faithful to their wives. They must not do everything that they desire. They must control themselves. They must act in appropriate ways. They must welcome guests into their homes. They must be good at teaching others. 3 They must not be alcoholics. They must not like to fight and argue. Rather, they must treat others kindly. They must avoid fighting. They must not desire to have more money. 4 They must direct their own families rightly. Their children must honor and obey them and always act in ways that others respect. 5 After all, people who cannot direct their own families will not be able to care properly for any group of believers belonging to God. 6 They must not have only recently trusted in Jesus. Otherwise, they might become prideful. Then, God would punish them as he punished Satan. 7 Further, those who lead the rest of God's people must be those about whom nonbelievers say good things. That way, people do not insult them and Satan will not be able to control them.

8 Similarly, those who serve the rest of God's people must be those whom others respect. They must consistently speak what is true. They must not drink too much alcohol. They must not want more than they need. 9 They should know that they are doing what is right as they remain faithful to what God has revealed, which is the good news that we trust. 10 Further, the group of believers must also evaluate how they behave. After that, as long as they consistently do what is right, they can serve the rest of God's people.

11 Similarly, the women who serve the rest of God's people must be those whom others respect. They must not say mean or false things about other people. They must not do everything that they desire. They must always act faithfully.

12 The men who serve the rest of God's people must be sexually faithful to their wives. They must direct their own families, especially their children, rightly. 13 They should act in all those ways because those who serve the rest of God's people rightly will be people whom other believers honor. Also, they will very boldly trust in Jesus the Messiah.

14 I plan to visit you soon. However, I am sending this letter to you now. 15 That way, even if I cannot visit you soon, you will understand how people who are like God's own family should act. I am speaking about the group of all believers who belong to the only real God. These believers preserve and testify to what is true. 16 Everyone must agree that what God has revealed that enables us to honor him is marvelous:

> "People saw the Messiah as a human.
> The Holy Spirit declared that he was who he claimed to be.
> Angels saw him.
> Believers proclaimed who he was to non-Jewish people.
> People in many places trusted in him.
> God brought him up into heaven in a glorious way."

4 1 The Holy Spirit has declared clearly that some people will stop believing in Jesus when this time period is about to end. Instead, they will focus on evil spirits who convince people to believe what is wrong. They will focus on what demons teach. 2 They focus on those things because they listen to people who pretend to teach what is true but who actually teach what is false. These teachers refuse to accept that what they are doing is wrong. 3 They command people not to marry others. They command people not to eat certain kinds of food. However, God made those foods so that people would thank him for them and eat them. He made those foods for people who trust in Jesus and who understand what is true. 4 I say that because everything that God made is good. People can eat any kind of food as long as they thank God for it. 5 That is because what God has said and what people pray makes the food holy.

6 When you instruct your fellow believers about those things, you will be serving Jesus the Messiah well. You will become spiritually stronger because of the good news that you have believed, which includes the correct teachings that you have accepted. 7 You should refuse to listen to silly legends that have nothing to do with God. Instead, you should work hard to honor God. 8 Here is what I mean: working hard to make your body stronger is helpful for a little while. However, working hard to honor God is helpful at all times. When you do that, you can confidently expect to live with God both now and also when God makes you alive again. 9 Everyone should trust and rely on this statement, 10 since it is why we work so hard: "We confidently expect that the only real God will do what he has promised. He is the one who rescues all people, but particularly those who trust in Jesus."

11 Instruct people about what I have told you. Require them to do those things. 12 Do not allow anyone to consider you to be unimportant because you are young. Instead, show other believers how to live. Show them that by how you speak, how you behave, how you love others, how you trust in Jesus, and how you avoid what is evil. 13 While I am not with you, be sure to continue reading the Scriptures to the believers when you meet together, instructing the believers, and urging them to do what is right. 14 Be sure to do what God has graciously enabled you to do. God enabled you to do that when someone spoke to you for God and the leaders of the group of believers touched you.

15 Consistently do what I have told you to do! Focus on those things. That way, everyone will notice that you are serving Jesus better. 16 Make sure that you behave properly and that what you teach is right. As long as you do what I have told you to do, you will rescue yourself and anyone who listens to you. So, keep doing what I have told you to do.

5 1 Do not scold a man who is older than you are. Instead, speak to him as if he were your father. Speak to men who are younger than you are as if they were your brothers. 2 Speak to women who are older than you are as if each one were your mother. Speak to women who are younger than you are as if they were your sisters. When you do that, avoid everything that might be improper.

3 As for women whose husbands have died, treat them respectfully by taking care of them. I am speaking of women who have no close relatives and whose husbands have died.
4 However, suppose that women whose husbands have died have children or grandchildren. In that case, those children or grandchildren should, most importantly, practice honoring their own family members by taking care of them. In that way, they will do for their parents and grandparents what their parents and grandparents did for them. That pleases God. 5 Women who have no close relatives and whose husbands have died confidently expect that God will help them. They persistently pray to God all day long. 6 On the other hand, some women whose husbands have died do whatever they want to do. These women are like dead people even though they are alive. 7 Require the believers there to do what I have just written. That way, no one can rightly accuse them of doing anything wrong. 8 Suppose that believers do not take care of their relatives, particularly their close family members. Those people show that they do not really trust in Jesus. They have sinned more than people who never trusted in Jesus.

9 When you add a woman whose husband has died to the list of women that the group of believers will take care of, here is what she must be like. She must be at least 60 years old. She must have been sexually faithful to her husband. 10 People must say that she does what is right. For example, she might have brought up children. She might have welcomed people from a different place. She might have cleaned the dirty feet of God's people. She might have helped people who were suffering. In general, she must have persisted in always doing what is good.

11 However, do not add women whose husbands have died and who are still young to the list of women that the group of believers will take care of. These women may choose to do whatever they want instead of doing what the Messiah wants. So that they can do whatever they want, they will desire to marry even an unbeliever. 12 So, they have ceased to trust in Jesus as they used to do. Therefore, God will punish them. 13 In addition to that, these women may also practice avoiding work. Instead, they may visit one person's home after another. In addition to avoiding work, they may also talk too much and interfere with what others are doing. They may talk about things that they should not talk about. 14 Because of all that, I recommend that women whose husbands have died and who are still young should marry again. They should have children. They should direct their own families. They should act in such a way that Satan cannot insult any believers. 15 I have written those things because some women whose husbands have died and who are still young are already doing what Satan wants instead of what God wants.

16 Suppose that a woman who trusts in Jesus has in her family some women whose husbands have died. She should be the one who helps them. That way, the group of believers will not have to provide for too many women whose husbands have died. Then, the group of believers will be able to help women who have no close relatives and whose husbands have died.

17 The leaders who rightly direct believers deserve to have those believers respect them and take care of them. The leaders who work hard to proclaim the good news and instruct others about it particularly deserve that. 18 You know that this is right because Moses wrote in the Scriptures: "You should not keep an ox from eating the grain when it is helping you separate grain from chaff." Further, Jesus said, "Workers deserve to have people pay them for their work." 19 When someone claims that a leader has done something wrong, you should only listen if at least two or three people say the same thing about that leader. 20 When any leaders have sinned, you should confront them with what they have done in front of everyone. That way, the other leaders will be afraid to sin too. 21 God, Jesus the Messiah, and the angels whom God has selected are listening right now and agreeing with me as I command you to do what I have instructed you to do. You should do those things fairly, without favoring one person over another.

22 You should not too quickly touch people to appoint them as leaders. When they sin, you should not approve of it. You should avoid what is evil.

23 You should not drink only water. Instead, you should have a small amount of wine. It will make your stomach feel better and reduce how often you are sick.

24 When some people sin, everyone knows about it before God punishes them. However, when other people sin, everyone knows about it only after God punishes them. 25 In the same way, when people do what is right, everyone knows about it. Even when people do not seem to know about it, eventually everyone will know about it.

6 1 All believers who are slaves should treat their masters as people whom they should respect in every way. That way, no one will insult God or what we teach. 2 Some believers who are slaves have masters who trust in Jesus. Those slaves should not disrespect their masters because they are fellow believers. Instead, since the masters for whom they do what is good are people who trust in Jesus and whom God loves, those slaves should work for their masters.
Instruct people about those things and tell them to do them.

3 Some people teach things that are different from what is true. They do not accept the right message that comes from our Lord Jesus the Messiah. They do not accept what we teach that enables people to honor God. 4 These people are prideful. They know very little, but they obsess over resolving controversial issues and debating what words mean. When people act in that way, they become jealous of others. They fight with each other. They insult each other.
They act in evil ways by suspecting others. 5 They frequently irritate each other. These are people who can no longer think properly. They cannot learn what is true. They think that honoring God is a good way to acquire money.

6 However, we do acquire something valuable when we honor God while we are grateful for whatever we have. 7 We should focus on acquiring things besides money because we owned nothing when our mothers gave birth to us. Indeed, we will no longer own anything when we die. 8 So, we should be content as long as we can eat and have clothes to wear. 9 As for people who desire to become wealthy, they often think about sinning. They cannot stop what they are doing. The things that they want are senseless and bad for them, and they will eventually destroy these people. 10 That is because people do all sorts of evil things when they strongly desire to have money. When some people started desiring money, they stopped trusting in Jesus. By doing that, they have made themselves sorrowful in many ways.

11 However, you are a man who serves God. You must avoid those evil things. Instead, you should always try to do what is right. You should honor God. You should trust in Jesus. You should love others. You should persevere when difficult things happen to you. You should be gentle with people. 12 You should persist in trusting in Jesus just as soldiers battle their enemies. You should make sure that you will live with God forever. God chose you for that. Also, that is why you claimed that you trusted in Jesus while many people listened to you. 13 God is the one who enables everything that exists to live. Jesus the Messiah is the one who declared what was true when he was on trial before Pontius Pilate. They authorize what I am about to tell you to do. 14 You must obey what God has commanded. You should obey completely. No one should be able to rightly accuse you of doing anything wrong. Continue to obey until our Lord Jesus the Messiah returns to this world. 15 God will cause Jesus to return at the right time. We praise God! There are no rulers more powerful than he is. He is king over all other kings. He is lord over all other lords. 16 God is the only one who can never die. His place in heaven is so bright that no one can go near it! No human has looked at him, and no human can look at him. Let us praise him and acknowledge that he is powerful forever! May it be so!

17 You should tell believers who are wealthy right now that they should not think too highly of themselves. They should not trust in all the things that they have, because they cannot be certain how long they will have them. Instead, they should trust in God. He is the one who abundantly gives us everything that we have so that we can enjoy it. 18 Tell those wealthy believers that they should do very many good things. They should be ready to give away what they have. 19 If they do those things, they will establish the good things that they will have when God renews this world. When they do those things, they make sure that they will truly live with God.

20 Timothy, carefully preserve the true message that God has given to you. Refuse to listen when people say things that mean nothing and that have nothing to do with God. Do not pay attention when people argue against the good news, using what they claim is true. It is not really true. 21 The people who claim those things have failed to persist in trusting in Jesus.

I pray that God will be kind to you all.

2 Timothy

1 1 I, Paul, write this letter to you. God chose to send me to represent Jesus the Messiah. So, I tell others that God has promised that people whom he has united to Jesus the Messiah will live with God forever.

2 I send this letter to you, Timothy. I love you as if you were my own son.

May God the Father and Jesus the Messiah, our Lord, continue to be kind and merciful to you and make you peaceful.

3 I worship God just as my parents and grandparents did, and I know that I am doing what is right. I thank God when I pray for you, which I do very frequently. 4 I think about how you cried when I left you, and I desire to be with you again. Then I will rejoice greatly. 5 I also think about how you truly trust in Jesus. Your grandmother Lois and your mother Eunice first trusted in him. I know that you also trust in him like they do!

6 Because you truly trust in Jesus, I urge you to continue to eagerly do what God has graciously enabled you to do. God enabled you to do that when I touched you to authorize you. 7 You should eagerly do that because God did not cause us to be afraid. Instead, he enabled us to serve him powerfully, to love others, and to control ourselves. 8 Because of that, do not think that telling people about our Lord Jesus disgraces you. Do not think that I, who am in jail because of him, disgrace you. Instead, you should be willing to let bad things happen to you, as they have happened to me, so that you can proclaim the good news. God will enable you to endure those bad things. 9 He is the one who rescued us and chose us to be people whom he sets apart for himself. He did not do those things because of what we had done. Rather, he did those things because he wanted to and because he decided to act kindly toward us. Before the world began, he prepared to act kindly toward us when he would unite us to Jesus the Messiah. 10 Now is the time when we can experience how God acts kindly toward us. That happens because Jesus the Messiah, the one who rescues us, came to this world. He has made it so that, when people die, they do not have to always be dead. He has given us the good news, which shows us how we can live with God forever and never die. 11 For the sake of that good news, God commissioned me to speak for him, to represent Jesus, and to instruct people. 12 Because God commissioned me to do those things, bad things are happening to me. However, I do not think that experiencing those bad things disgraces me. That is because I understand who God is. He is the one in whom I have trusted. I am sure that he will preserve what I have given to him until Jesus returns to this world.

13 You should maintain the basic parts of the right message that you learned from me. As you do that, you should trust in Jesus and love others. You can do those things because God unites you to Jesus the Messiah. 14 You should carefully preserve the true message that God has given to you. The Holy Spirit who empowers us will enable you to do that.

15 You realize that almost all the believers in the province of Asia Minor have left me, including Phygelus and Hermogenes.

16 I pray that the Lord Jesus will be kind to Onesiphorus and his family. I pray that since he often encouraged me. Further, even when people put me in jail, he did not think that I disgraced him. 17 In fact, when he came here to the city of Rome, he kept looking for me until he located me. 18 So, I pray that the Lord Jesus will be kind to Onesiphorus when the Lord Jesus returns to this world. Additionally, you realize how much Onesiphorus helped me when we were in the city of Ephesus.

2 1 As for you, Timothy, you are like my own son. Allow God to make you spiritually stronger as he acts kindly toward you. He acts kindly toward you because he has united you to Jesus the Messiah. 2 You have listened to the things that I teach, and many people have confirmed them to you. You must teach other people those same things. Those people must be trustworthy and good at teaching even more people. 3 You should be willing to let bad things happen to you, as they have happened to me, when you obey Jesus the Messiah. Then, you will be like a good soldier, who obeys his commander even if bad things happen to him. 4 Consider this: soldiers focus on doing what their commanders want. Because of that, they do not participate in what civilians normally do. 5 Consider this too: when an athlete disobeys the rules, the referee does not name that athlete the winner. 6 Finally, consider this: people who labor to grow crops should be the first people to receive some of what they grow. 7 Consider the three examples that I have just written to you. The Lord Jesus will enable you to learn completely what they mean.

8 Focus on Jesus the Messiah, whom God made alive again. He is a descendant of King David. That is the good news that I proclaim. 9 Because I proclaim that good news, bad things happen to me. In fact, I am now in jail, as if I had done something wrong. However, no one can prevent people from hearing the message from God. 10 Because that is true, for the sake of those whom God has chosen, I always persevere when bad things happen to me. That way, God will rescue them, like me, by uniting them to Jesus the Messiah, and they will be glorious forever.

11 Everyone should trust this statement:

"It is as if we died with Jesus when he died.
So then, we will also live forever with him.
12 Suppose that we persevere when bad things happen to us.
Then we will also rule over everything with him.
Suppose that we say that we do not know him.
Then he also will say that he does not know us.
13 Suppose that we stop being loyal to Jesus.
Then he continues to be loyal to us.
That is because he always acts based on who he is."

14 Teach those things again to the believers who are with you. God is listening and agreeing with you as you command them not to debate about what words mean. Debating like that does not help anybody. Further, it harms the people who listen to it. 15 Eagerly desire to be a person whom God considers to be acceptable to him. To do that, you should serve God by properly explaining the true message. Then, nothing can disgrace you. 16 Do not listen when people say things that mean nothing and that have nothing to do with God. Those people dishonor God more and more. 17 Further, what they say will spread as an infectious disease does. Hymenaeus and Philetus are examples of such people. 18 These two men have failed to believe and teach what is true. Instead, they claim that God has already made everyone alive again. In this way, they cause some people to stop trusting in Jesus. 19 Despite that, God preserves his people. They are like a building that has a solid foundation, which God has guaranteed with two statements. Here is the first statement: "The Lord Jesus realizes which people belong to him." Here is the second statement: "Everyone who claims to serve the Lord Jesus must stop doing what is wrong."

20 Consider this example: a wealthy person's house contains utensils that someone made out of valuable materials like gold and silver. Such a house also contains utensils that someone made out of less valuable materials like wood and clay. People use the valuable utensils to perform dignified tasks. In contrast, they use the less valuable utensils to perform undignified tasks. 21 So then, suppose that some people avoid doing what is evil. Those people will be like the utensils that people use to perform dignified tasks. God will set them apart for himself. They will serve God well. God will enable them to do everything that is right.

22 You must avoid desiring the wrong things that young people usually desire. Instead, you should always try to do what is right. You should trust in Jesus. You should love others. You should live peacefully with others. You should do those things along with people who desire what is good and who worship the Lord Jesus. 23 Refuse to discuss controversial issues that uninformed and unwise people care about. You realize that discussing those issues makes people quarrel with each other. 24 People who serve the Lord Jesus must not quarrel. Instead, they must be kind to all people. They must be good at teaching others. They must endure when bad things happen to them. 25 They should gently instruct the people who argue against them. Then God may enable those people to stop believing what is wrong and instead understand what is true. 26 Previously, Satan was able to control them so that they did what he wanted. However, after you instruct them, Satan may no longer be able to control them, and they may be able to think clearly again.

3 1 You need to understand that the final time period before Jesus returns to this world will be very dangerous for believers. 2 It will be dangerous because people will care about themselves more than they care about anyone else. They will strongly desire to have money. They will say great things about themselves. They will think too highly of themselves. They will insult God and others. They will fail to do what their parents require. They will not thank anyone for anything. They will not honor God. 3 They will fail to care for others. They will refuse to forgive anyone. They will say bad things about others. They will fail to control themselves. They will act in brutal ways. They will hate everything that is good. 4 They will betray others. They will act without thinking first. They will be prideful. They will care about whatever makes them feel good instead of loving God. 5 They will appear to honor God, but they will refuse to actually do so. Stay away from such people.

6 Further, some of those people convince others to invite them to their homes. While they are there, they start to control what any spiritually immature women who live there think. These are women who have sinned very often. They do all the many things that they want to do. 7 They keep learning new things, but they can never understand what is true. 8 You know how Jannes and Jambres, Pharaoh's magicians, tried to stop Moses from freeing the Israelites. Much like that, the false teachers I am speaking about try to stop others from learning what is true. These false teachers are people who can no longer think properly. When they claim to believe in Jesus, God does not approve of them. 9 However, they will not be able to convince many more people. That is because everyone will realize that they are foolish. That is just what happened to Pharaoh's magicians.

10 In contrast, as for you, you know what I do, and you imitate me. I teach others. I live to please God. I focus on what God has called me to do. I trust in Jesus. I do not easily become angry. I love others. I persevere when bad things happen to me. 11 People hurt me. I experience painful things. I experienced those kinds of painful things when I was in the cities of Antioch, Iconium, and Lystra. Even when people hurt me in those ways, I persisted in serving God. When any of those bad things happened to me, the Lord Jesus delivered me. 12 Indeed, people will hurt all men and women who desire to live in a way that honors God as God unites them to Jesus the Messiah. 13 On the other hand, people who do what is wrong and people who try to trick others will become more and more evil. They will deceive others, and people will deceive them. 14 In contrast, as for you, you realize who taught you what you have learned and what you are sure about. So, you should persist in believing those things. 15 Further, you should persist in believing those things because you realize that you have heard what God says in the Scriptures from the time when you were a young child. The Scriptures enable you to think wisely. That way, when you trust in Jesus the Messiah, God rescues you.

16 All the Scriptures come from God's Spirit. They are useful for teaching people. They are useful for telling people that they have done what is wrong. They are useful for telling people what is actually true. They are useful for instructing people in how to do what is right. 17 As a result, people who serve God have everything that they need. They are ready to do everything that is right.

4 1 God and Jesus the Messiah are listening right now and agreeing with me as I command you to do what I am about to tell you. Remember that Jesus will soon decide whether everyone who is alive and everyone who has died is guilty or innocent. You should focus on what I am about to command you as much as you expect Jesus to return to this world and to rule over everything. 2 Here is what I want you to do: you must proclaim the good news. Be ready to do that when it is a good time to do so and also when it is not a good time to do so. When people have done what is wrong, confront them. Warn them not to sin. Encourage them to do what is right. As you do all those things, never become angry quickly, and always instruct people. 3 I tell you to do those things because later on people will refuse to listen when others teach them what is right. Rather, they will do what they want by collecting many instructors. They will be eager to listen to what pleases them. 4 They will stop listening to what is true. Instead, they will focus on legends. 5 In contrast, as for you, you must control yourself at all times. You must be willing to allow bad things to happen to you. You must do what you have to do in order to proclaim the good news. You must complete everything you must do to serve Jesus.

6 I tell you to do those things because I will soon die. God is even now treating me as if I were wine that someone was pouring out to honor him. 7 I am like a soldier who has battled his enemies. I am like a runner who has finished his race. I mean that I have persisted in trusting in Jesus. 8 I can now expect the reward for doing what is right, which God has ready for me. The Lord Jesus, who always evaluates people justly, will give me that reward when he returns to this world. However, I will not be the only one whom he rewards. Rather, he will reward everyone who rejoices when he returns to this world.

9 Please try to visit me here soon. 10 I ask you to do that because Demas has abandoned me since he cares too much about living in this present world. He has left for the city of Thessalonica. Crescens has left for the province of Galatia. Titus has left for the province of Dalmatia. 11 Luke is the only one who is still here with me. When you visit, bring Mark with you. I ask for him because he serves others with me well. 12 As for Tychicus, I told him to go to the city of Ephesus. 13 I left an outer garment with Carpus in the city of Troas. Please bring it with you when you visit me. Also, please bring with you my books, particularly the ones with leather pages.

14 Alexander, who makes things out of metal, did many bad things to me. The Lord Jesus will punish him for what he has done. 15 He tried very hard to keep us from proclaiming the good news. So, you too need to watch out for him.

16 The first time I defended myself in court, no believers came to support me. Instead, they all abandoned me. I pray that God will forgive them for that. 17 However, the Lord Jesus supported me and made me strong. That way, I could complete proclaiming the good news, and many non-Jews could listen to it. Also, God delivered me from people who would have killed me. 18 I am sure that the Lord Jesus will deliver me whenever people do anything bad to me. He will rescue me so that I can participate in his kingdom, which is in heaven. Let us honor him forever! May it be so!

19 Say hello for me to Prisca, Aquila, and Onesiphorus and his family. 20 Erastus stayed in the city of Corinth. As for Trophimus, he stayed behind in the city of Miletus because he was ill. 21 Please try to visit me here before the winter season. Eubulus, Pudens, Linus, Claudia, and the rest of the fellow believers here say hello to you.

22 I pray that the Lord Jesus will be with you, Timothy. I pray that God will be kind to you all.

Titus

1 1 I, Paul, write this letter to you, Titus. I am a servant of God and a representative of Jesus the Messiah. God sent me to teach the people whom he has chosen as his own to trust him more. I work to help his people to know what is true, so that they can live in a way that pleases God. 2 His people can learn how to live like this because they are confident that God will cause them to live forever. Even before the world began, God promised to cause us to live forever, and God does not lie. 3 Then, in God's own timing, he communicated his plan through this message that he trusted me to preach. I do this in order to obey the command of God, who saves us. 4 Titus, you have become like a real son to me because we both now believe in Jesus the Messiah. May God the Father and the Messiah Jesus who saves us continue to be kind to you and keep you peaceful.

5 I left you on the Island of Crete for this reason: that you do the work that is still unfinished and also appoint elders for the group of believers in every city, just as I told you to do. 6 Now every elder must be someone whom no one can criticize. He must also have just one wife, his children must trust in God, and people must not consider his children to be out of control or disobedient. 7 Everyone who leads God's people is like the person who manages the servants and property of someone else, but he is doing this for God. So it is necessary for this person to have a good reputation. He must not be proud and he must not get angry quickly. He must not be an alcoholic, not someone who likes to fight and argue, and not a greedy man. 8 Rather than that, he must welcome strangers and love the things that are good. He must always act sensibly and treat other people in a fair and honest manner. He must always act in a way that is right for someone who is devoted to God and he must always control his emotions. 9 He must always believe the true things that we have taught him, and he must live according to them. He must do this so that he can persuade people to live like this too, and so that he can correct people if they do not want to live like this.

10 I tell you these things because there are many people who refuse to obey those who are in authority over them. What these people say has no value. They persuade people to believe wrong things. The people who are the most like this are the ones who tell all followers of the Messiah to become circumcised. 11 You and the leaders whom you appoint must prevent such people from teaching the believers. They are teaching things that they should not teach, causing entire families to believe wrong things. They only do it so that people will give them money. This is very shameful! 12 One man of Crete, someone his people thought was a prophet, said, “Cretans frequently lie to each other! They are like dangerous wild animals! They are lazy and always eat too much food.” 13 What he said is true, so correct them forcefully so that they may believe and teach correct things about God. 14 In order to believe correct things about God, they must stop living according to stories invented by the Jews and commandments that did not come from God. These commandments came from people who have stopped obeying what is true. 15 If some people only want to do or think about doing good things, then everything that they do is good. But if people are wicked and do not believe in the Messiah Jesus, everything that they do is bad. Such people’s way of thinking has been ruined. They do not even feel guilty when they do what is evil. 16 Even though they claim to know God, what they do shows that they do not know him. They are disgusting. They disobey God and can do nothing good for him.

2 1 But as for you, Titus, teach people the things that agree with what you know is true about God. 2 Tell the older men that they must control themselves at all times, that they must live in a way that other people respect, and that they must act sensibly. Tell them that they must also firmly believe the true things about God, love others truly, and do all these things even when it is difficult. 3 Tell the older women, like the men, to live so that everyone knows that they respect God very much. Tell them that they must not say mean or false things about other people, and that they must not be addicted to drinking a lot of wine. Instead, they should teach others what is good. 4 In this way, they will be able to instruct the younger women to love their own husbands and children. 5 The older women should also teach the younger women to control what they say and do, not to act in a wrong way toward any man, to work well at home, and to do what their husbands tell them. They should do all these things so that no one can mock God’s message to us. 6 As for the younger men, urge them likewise to control themselves well. 7 You yourself must continually do what is good so that others will see what they should also be doing. When you teach the believers, make sure that everything you say is true and say it in a way that they will respect. 8 Teach people what is right with messages that no one can criticize. Then, if anybody wants to stop you, other people will shame them because they will have nothing bad that they can justly say about any of us. 9 As for those believers who are slaves, teach them that they should always submit to their masters. Tell them to live in a way that pleases their masters in every way, and to not argue with them. 10 They must not steal even little things from their masters; instead, they should be faithful to them, and they should do everything in a way that leads people to admire all that we teach about God, who saves us. 11 The believers should behave in these good ways because God is offering to save everyone as a gift that no one deserves. 12 By means of this free gift, God trains us to stop doing what is wrong and what people of the world want to do. He teaches us to be sensible, to do what is right, and to obey him while we live during this present time. 13 At the same time, God teaches us to wait for what he will certainly do in the future, which is something that will make us very happy: That is, Jesus the Messiah, our Savior and powerful God, will return to us in a glorious way. 14 He gave himself to die in our place so that we can be free to live in the way that God wants us to live, and to remove our sin from us so that we can be a special group of people who belong only to him, and who eagerly desire to do what is good.

15 Titus, speak about these things. Urge the believers to live as I have described and correct them when they do what is wrong, using your right to command them if necessary. Make sure that everyone pays attention to what you say.

3 1 Titus, continue to tell our people again that they should obey the people who rule over them. They need to be ready to be helpful whenever they are able. 2 They should not say disrespectful things about anyone. They should be peaceful. They should treat everyone gently and as more important than themselves. 3 We need to remember that there was a time when we ourselves were foolish and unwilling to obey God. We strongly desired to do things that made us feel good, and so we did those things. But then we discovered that we were unable to stop doing those things. We were constantly envying each other and doing other evil things. We caused people to hate us and we hated each other. 4 But then when God showed us that he was acting generously to save us because he loves us, 5 he saved us by removing our sin from us as though he had washed it away. As he did this, the Holy Spirit made us new and enabled us to start living in a new way for God. He did not save us because we do good things, but he saved us because he is merciful. 6 God generously gave us his Holy Spirit when Jesus the Messiah saved us. 7 When Jesus freely gave himself for us, God declared that everything was made right between him and us. Because Jesus did that, God gave us the Holy Spirit so that we can share in everything that the Lord Jesus has to give us, especially everlasting life with him.

8 This is a statement that everyone can trust. I want you to continually emphasize these things so that those who have believed God may constantly devote themselves to doing those things that are good and that help others. These things are excellent and beneficial for everyone.
9 But many people will want to debate with you about senseless things, such as about lists of Jewish ancestors. They will want to dispute with you about religious law and argue with you about many things. Do not engage with them in any of that. Those kinds of things are useless and they do not help you in any way. 10 If someone insists on engaging in these divisive activities after you have warned him one or two times to stop doing it, then have nothing more to do with him, 11 because you know that someone like that has rejected the truth; he is sinning and condemns himself.

12 I plan to send Artemas or Tychicus to you. After one of them arrives, come quickly to me at the town of Nicopolis, because I have decided to stay there for the winter. 13 Do everything you can to equip Zenas the law expert and Apollos for their journey, making sure that they have everything that they need. 14 In the same way, make sure that our people learn to occupy themselves with doing good things for people who need help. By doing this, they will be living in a useful way for God.

15 Titus, all those who are with me greet you! Please greet for us everyone there who loves us as fellow believers. May God continue to be kind to all of you.

Philemon

1 [1] I, Paul, am currently in prison for serving the Messiah, Jesus. I am here with Timothy, our fellow believer. I am writing this letter to you, Philemon. You also serve the Messiah, and we love you. [2] I also write to Apphia, our fellow believer, and to Archippus, who is like a soldier in the way he serves the Messiah with us. I also write to the group of believers that meets in your house. [3] I pray that God our Father and our Lord Jesus the Messiah will continue to be kind to you all and make you peaceful.

[4] When I pray, I always thank my God for you, Philemon, [5] because people tell me how much you trust in the Lord Jesus and how much you love him and all of God's people. [6] I also pray that as you trust in the Messiah, just as we trust in him, you will understand even more all the good things the Messiah has given to us for serving him. [7] My dear friend, you have greatly encouraged me and have caused me to rejoice a lot. For you have been encouraging God's people by how much you love them.

[8] So because you love God's people, and because I am an apostle of the Messiah, I am completely confident that the Messiah would allow me to command you to do what you should do. [9] But instead of commanding you, because we love each other, I, Paul, an old man and now also a prisoner because I serve the Messiah, Jesus, only request that you do this. [10] I am asking you do something for Onesimus. He has become like a son to me since I told him about the Messiah here in prison. [11] He was useless to you in the past, but now he is useful both to you and to me!

[12] Although he is very dear to me, I am sending him back to you. [13] I wanted to keep him here with me in order that he might serve me in your place, especially while I am still in prison for preaching the good news about the Messiah. [14] However, I am sending him back to you because you did not tell me I could keep him here. I want you to help me because you want to help me, and not because I have forced you to help me. [15] It may be that God allowed Onesimus to be apart from you during this short time so that he could return to you as a believer and be with you eternally. 16 This is because Onesimus is no longer just a slave, but he is much more than a slave. For now you can love him as a fellow believer! He is very dear to me, but he is certainly even more dear to you. This is because now he not only belongs to you as a slave, but he also belongs to the Lord.

17 So if you consider me to be your companion in doing the work God has given us, then welcome Onesimus into your home in the same way you would welcome me. 18 But if he has taken anything from you, or if he is in debt to you for anything, I will repay you. 19 I, Paul, am now writing this in my own handwriting: I will repay you whatever he owes you. I am certain that I do not have to remind you that you owe me even more than Onesimus might owe you, because God saved your life when I told you about the Messiah. 20 Yes, my fellow believer, I am saying what you think I am saying. I want you to do this for me because of what the Lord did for you. Give me another reason to be glad that we are both joined to the Messiah.

21 As I write this letter to you, I am sure that you will do what I am asking you to do. In fact, I know that you will do even more than what I am asking you to do.

22 As you do what I am asking you to do, I also ask you to prepare to receive me into your home. Because all of you have been praying for me, I confidently expect that God will allow me to leave prison and to come to you all.

23 Epaphras, who is suffering with me in prison for serving Messiah Jesus, says hello to you. 24 Mark, Aristarchus, Demas, and Luke, who are my partners here, also say hello to you. 25 I pray that our Lord Jesus the Messiah will continue to be kind to you. Amen.

Hebrews

1 1 In the past, God communicated to the Israelite ancestors through people who proclaimed his message. He did this throughout the time during which the ancestors lived, and he used many different means to do so. 2 However, when this final time period began, God communicated to us through his own Son. God made the world together with him, and God has chosen him to receive everything. 3 In God's Son, we see how glorious God is. In fact, God's Son perfectly shows what God is like. By speaking powerfully, he sustains everything that God has made. After he purified his people from the wrong things that they did, he ascended into heaven and began to rule with God his Father. 4 These things about him mean that he is much greater than the spiritual beings. In the same way, the name that God now calls him is greater than their names.

5 You can tell that God's Son is greater than the spiritual beings because God did not at any time say these words to any spiritual being:

> "On this day, I have declared to everyone that I am your father, > and you are my son!"

He did not say these words about any spiritual being either:

> "I will be his father,
> and he will be my son."

However, he did say these words to his own Son.

6 More than that, when God raised his Son into the heavenly world, he commanded:

> "All the spiritual beings who serve God must honor and praise him."

7 God says this about the spiritual beings:

"I have caused the spiritual beings who serve me to be like the wind and like burning fire."

8 On the other hand, God says this about his Son:

"You who are God will rule forever, and you will reign justly over your kingdom.
9 You loved whatever is just, and you hated whatever breaks God's law. Because of that, I, your God, have caused you to be more powerful and joyful than anyone else who is with you."

10 And God also says this about his Son:

"You are the Lord, who powerfully created everything that exists when it all began.
11 All those things will eventually fall apart,
but you keep on living forever.
They are like clothing that becomes old and wears out, 12 and you will remove them and roll them up as if they were old clothes.
In the same way that a person changes clothes, you will change the things that you created.
In contrast, you are the one who stays the same and lives at all times!"

13 God did not at any time say these words to any spiritual being:

"Rule with me
while I defeat all of your enemies!"

However, he did say these words to his own Son.

14 The spiritual beings are all powerful beings who serve God, and God has sent them to help those whom he will soon save.

2 1 Because God did say those things to his Son, we need to focus most of all on the good news that we learned. That way, we do not stop believing it. 2 This is important because, when the spiritual beings gave the law to the people of Israel, what they said was reliable. Further, God justly punished anyone who did not listen to this law or broke it. 3 Since that is true, God will certainly punish any one of us who ignores the message about how God has acted powerfully to save us. It was the Lord Jesus who first spoke this message, and those who listened to him told us the same message reliably. 4 God also has confirmed to us that this message is true by empowering believers to do powerful and amazing things. Further, he gave the Holy Spirit to believers, to each as God chose.

5 Now God has not put the spiritual beings in charge of the heavenly world that he will bring to earth. It is that world about which I am talking. 6 Someone confirmed what I have said when he wrote in the Scriptures,

> "No humans are worthy enough for you to think about them, God!
> No human beings are important enough for you to take care of them!
> 7 Despite that, you created humans to be only slightly less powerful than the spiritual beings, > and you have greatly honored and empowered them.
> 8 You have put them in charge of everything that you created."

When he wrote, "put them in charge of everything," that means that there is nothing over which they are not in charge. However, at this present time, we do not observe that humans are in charge of everything. 9 However, we do observe Jesus. He is the one who was less powerful than the spiritual beings for a short time, and God has now greatly honored and empowered him. God did this because Jesus died. In this way, God graciously had him die for all people who believe in him.

10 Working in that way was appropriate for God, who created and directs everything that exists. When Jesus began to make glorious everyone who believes in him, who are like his own siblings, God used how Jesus suffered to make him able to save them. 11 Jesus, who sets his people apart for God, and those same people whom he set apart for God, all come from God himself. So, Jesus does not hesitate to refer to them as his own siblings. 12 Jesus calls them his siblings when he says,

> "I will declare to my siblings what you are like, God;

I will praise you when people gather together to worship you."

13 Jesus says further:

"I will rely on him."

And Jesus says further,

"Look at me and God's children whom he has entrusted to me."

14 So, because God's children are human beings, Jesus also became a human being just like them. He did that so that he, by dying, could defeat Satan, who uses the fact that people die to control them. 15 When he did that, he got rid of the way that dying makes us afraid while we live. 16 Jesus became a human being, because he came to help those who belong to Abraham, the ancestor of the Israelites, not to help spiritual beings, as you know. 17 Because that is why he came, Jesus needed to be exactly like us, who are his siblings. That way, he can be the ruling priest who serves God in a compassionate and trustworthy way, so that God forgives what his people did wrong. 18 Jesus can be that kind of priest because he endured painful things and experienced how doing what is wrong seems to be good. So, he can aid everyone who also experiences how doing what is wrong seems to be good.

3 1 My fellow believers, God has set you apart for himself, and he has summoned us together from heaven. Since I have told you what Jesus has done, you should think about him. God sent him to us, and he is the ruling priest in whom we say we believe. 2 He faithfully served God, who made him a ruling priest. He is like Moses, who also faithfully served God as part of God's people. 3-4 Now each building has a builder who made it, and people rightly praise the builder more than they praise the building. Similarly, God is the builder who made everything. Therefore, people should praise Jesus, who is God, more than they praise Moses, whom God made. 5 Moses faithfully served God as one who helped all God's people. In that way, he already proclaimed what God says now about Jesus. 6 But the Messiah is God's Son, who faithfully rules over God's people. As long as we persist in boldly and proudly expecting what God will give us, we belong to those same people.

7 Since we are God's people, we should do what the Holy Spirit says:

> "This day, when you hear the Father speak to you, 8 do not stubbornly disobey > him. That is what your ancestors did when they rebelled against God and > provoked him while they lived in the wild places. 9 While they were in those > places, your ancestors provoked God to see what he would do. They did that even > though they saw all the amazing things that he did for them 10 during a period of > 40 years.

So, he was angry with those people, and he said about them, 'They want to do what is wrong all the time. They do not understand how I want them to behave.'

11 So then, because he was angry with them, he solemnly declared, 'They will never participate in how I rest!'"

12 Fellow believers, pay attention! Make sure that none of you think in evil and unbelieving ways that would lead you to become disloyal to the only real God. 13 Rather, you should encourage each other to be loyal to God daily, during every day that we call "this day." That way, none of you sin and thus deceive yourselves, which would make you unable to obey God. 14 You should encourage each other, because we share in everything with the Messiah. That is true as long as we persist in trusting him, from when we began to do so until we die. 15 You should encourage each other while the Holy Spirit says,

> "This day, when you hear God speak to you, do not stubbornly disobey him. That > is what your ancestors did when they rebelled against God."

16 Now you know that it was all God's people, whom Moses led out of the land of Egypt, who listened to God speak and still rebelled against him. 17 You know that it was God's people, who did what was wrong, with whom God was angry for a period of 40 years. They died in the wild places. 18 You know that it was God's people, who did not obey him, to whom he solemnly declared that they would never participate in how he rests. 19 So, we can tell that they could not participate in how God rests because they did not trust in him.

4 1 So, we can tell that God still promises that his people will participate in how he rests. Because of that, we need to make sure that every one of you really receives what God has promised. 2 We need to make sure of this, because we heard the good news just like they did.

However, because they were not among those people who believed in what they heard, what they heard did not help them. 3 That is because only we who believe in the good news participate in how God rests, but those who do not believe do not participate in it. As the Holy Spirit says, “So then, because he was angry with them, he solemnly declared, ‘They will never participate in how I rest!’”

God said this even though he stopped working and rested after he created the world. 4 You know that God rested because of what the Holy Spirit says elsewhere about the seventh day of the week. He says,

> “Then, when it was the seventh day of the week, God finished working to create everything, and he rested.”

5 But note again what God says about the Israelite ancestors in the words that I already quoted:

> “They will never participate in how I rest!”

6 So then, the Israelite ancestors who heard the good news in the past did not obey God, and so they did not participate in how God rests. However, God still wants some people to participate in how he rests. 7 Because of that, the Holy Spirit once more picked a time when we can participate in how God rests. That time is what we call “this day.” He did this when he spoke through David a long time after the Israelite ancestors disobeyed. He said, as I have already quoted,

> “This day, when you hear God speak to you, do not stubbornly disobey him.”

8 So, the Holy Spirit refers to a different day when God’s people can participate in how God rests that comes after the day when Joshua led the Israelite ancestors into the land that God had promised them. This means that when Joshua did that, he did not help them participate in how God rests. 9 So, as you can see, God’s people can still participate in how God rests, just as people rest on the Jewish day of rest. 10 In fact, the people who participate in how God rests also finish what they are doing and rest. They do this just like God finished creating everything and rested. 11 Because of all that, we should focus on participating in how God rests. That way, none of us disobeys God like the Israelite ancestors did.

12 You need to pay attention to these things, because what God speaks is like a person who lives and does things, including discerning what people think and plan. It does that as if it were a sword with two very sharp edges that could cut apart people's bones from their tendons and that could divide up people's inner lives. 13 God knows everything about every person and thing. Nothing that he created can stay secret when he wishes to examine it. He is the one about whom we are talking.

14 So, a powerful ruling priest works for us, one who ascended through the heavens. He is Jesus, God's Son. Because of that, we need to persist in believing what we say we believe.
15 Now the ruling priest who works for us can very well understand how weak we are. In fact, he experienced many times how doing what is wrong seems to be good, just like we do.
However, he never sinned. 16 So then, we should boldly go closer to God, who rules graciously. That way, he will act mercifully and kindly toward us when we need him to help us.

5 1 When God appoints a person to be a ruling priest, he selects that person from a group of people in order to serve God for that group. The ruling priest then presents to God what people give or sacrifice to take away sins. 2 Every ruling priest is weak. Because of that, he can act patiently toward those who do not know much about God and toward those who believe and do what is wrong. 3 Further, because each ruling priest is weak, God requires him to present a sacrifice to take away his own sins, just like he presents sacrifices to take away the sins of the rest of the people of Israel. 4 Now people cannot decide to become honorable ruling priests on their own. Rather, God chooses each person who will be a ruling priest, just like he chose Aaron, the first ruling priest.

5 Similarly, the Messiah too did not decide to become a glorious ruling priest on his own.
Rather, God the Father chose him to be a ruling priest when he said to him,

> 6 "On this day, I have declared to everyone that I am your father, and you are my > son!" Similarly, as you can read in another Psalm, God the Father said to the > Messiah:
>
> "You will never stop being a priest in the same way that Melchizedek was a > priest."

7 When the Messiah lived with us before he died and came back to life, he often prayed powerfully and sorrowfully to God. He did this because God could rescue him when he died. Because he honored God, God listened to him and made him alive again. 8 Although he is God's Son, he learned what it means to obey God when bad things happened to him. 9 Then, when God finished making him able to do so, the Son became the one who saves forever every person who does what he requires. 10 He did that after God appointed him to be a ruling priest in the same way that Melchizedek was a priest.

11 We have many things to talk about with regard to Melchizedek. However, since you do not listen and understand well, these things will be difficult to explain to you. 12 You have believed in the Messiah for long enough that you should be teaching others about God. Instead, though, someone still has to teach you simple things about what God says. You are like babies who have to drink milk rather than being like adults who eat food. 13 All people who know very little about what is right and what is wrong are like people who drink only milk. In fact, they are like babies. 14 On the other hand, people who know much about God are like adults who eat food. These people have consistently practiced how to recognize and then distinguish between what is right and what is wrong.

6 1 Therefore, we need to learn more so that we become mature. We should not continue to focus on only the most basic things about the Messiah. In other words, we do not need to learn again about how to stop doing useless things or about how to trust in God. 2 We should not learn again about different ways to baptize people, about putting our hands on others to help them, about how those who have died will live again, or about how God will finally decide whether people are guilty or innocent. 3 At this time, as long as God wants us to do so, we will indeed learn more so that we become mature.

4 Let me tell you about something that cannot happen. Think about people who learned about the good news at one time. They experienced what God gives to his people from heaven, and they received God's Spirit. 5 They experienced how good are the things God says, and they have already begun to experience the powerful things that God will do when he renews the world. 6 Think about what would happen were these people to stop believing the good news. In that case, they cannot repent and believe again. That is because what they did is like selfishly crucifying and humiliating God's Son. 7 Here is an example: God blesses any field where, once rain falls on it, crops grow that people use. 8 However, when a field produces plants that are useless, it helps nobody, and God will soon curse it. In the end, someone will set fire to it to burn up all the useless plants.

9 Even though I have warned you in this way, fellow believers whom I love, I am sure that you are believing more firmly than I have implied. In fact, I am sure that God has saved you. 10 Indeed, since God always acts justly, he will not overlook how you act and how you love others. You have proved that you do these things to honor God, particularly when you have helped and continue to help God's people. 11 I greatly desire that you all, until you die, continue to focus diligently on fully trusting that God will give to you what you confidently expect. 12 That way, you will not be lazy. Instead, you will do what other believers have done: they have received what God promised them, because they trusted in him and waited patiently.

13 When God said that he would do something for Abraham, he guaranteed it himself. He did that because every other person who could guarantee it is less powerful than God. 14 Here is what he promised to Abraham: "I will definitely bless you, and I will definitely give you many descendants." 15 Because God guaranteed what he promised, and because Abraham persevered in expecting it, God gave him what he had promised, a son.

16 Now, people have someone who is more powerful than they are guarantee what they promise. In fact, when someone guarantees what he or she promises in this way, it definitively concludes whatever people are arguing about. 17 In a similar way, God wanted to demonstrate very clearly to those who would receive what he promised that he would not change what he intended to do. So, he guaranteed what he promised, just like humans do. 18 So, God both promised and swore an oath, and he will not lie about or change either of these things. He did that for us, who have trusted in him to save us. In this way, he encourages us to persist in confidently expecting what he is ready to give us. 19 When we confidently expect what God will give us, it is as if an anchor holds us very securely so that we do not waver from trusting God. Further, when we confidently expect what God will give us, it is as if we had gone into the inner part of the heavenly sanctuary, behind the cloth hanging, and already received it. 20 That is the same place where Jesus went to serve God for us and to open the way for us. He went there after he became a ruling priest who will always serve God, in the same way that Melchizedek was a priest.

7 1 Now I will say more about Melchizedek. He ruled the city of Salem, and he served the greatest God as a priest. When Abraham was going home after defeating some of his enemies, Melchizedek met with him and blessed him. 2 Then Abraham gave to him one tenth of everything that he took when he defeated his enemies. The name "Melchizedek" means "just king" in Hebrew. The title "ruler of the city of Salem" means "peaceful ruler," since "Salem" sounds like the Hebrew word for "peaceful". 3 When Moses wrote about Melchizedek, he did not say anything about his father, his mother, his other ancestors, when he was born, or when he died. So, Moses described him as if he were similar to God's Son and as if he always served as a priest.

4 You can tell how important Melchizedek was from how Abraham, the ancestor of all the Israelites, offered him one tenth of the most valuable things that he took when he defeated his enemies. 5 In Moses' law, God spoke to the men who are part of the clan of Levi and who serve as priests. He commanded them to receive one tenth of what the rest of the Israelites, who are their relatives, earned or grew. God commanded this despite the fact that all the Israelites are descendants of Abraham. 6 Now Melchizedek is not part of the clan of Levi. Despite that, he received one tenth of what Abraham took when he defeated his enemies. Further, he blessed Abraham, the man to whom God had promised that he would give him many descendants.
7 Now everyone agrees that more important people bless less important people. So, because he blessed Abraham, Melchizedek is more important than Abraham. 8 In Moses' law, we learn about how priests receive one tenth of what the rest of the Israelites earn or grow, but these priests all die. In the story about Melchizedek, we learn that he also received one tenth of what Abraham took from his enemies, but he continues to live. 9 In fact, in a way, Levi and the priests from his clan gave one tenth of what they had to Melchizedek when Abraham gave him one tenth. This is true even though they are the ones who receive one tenth from what the Israelites have. 10 What I have said makes sense because Levi had not yet been born and was, in a way, still inside Abraham, his great-grandfather, when he and Melchizedek met together.

11 Now God made the law that he gave to the Israelites depend on having the descendants of Levi serve as priests. So, suppose that people could become what God wanted them to be through what these priests did to serve God. In that case, God would never have appointed another priest to serve in the way that Melchizedek was a priest instead of in the way that Aaron was a priest. However, God did appoint this kind of priest. 12 You can tell that God made the law depend on having the descendants of Levi serve as priests, because the law must change whenever the way that people serve as priests changes. 13 You can tell that God has changed how people serve as priests, because Jesus, whom God has called a priest, is not one of the descendants of Levi but is a descendant of one of Levi's brothers. No descendant of this man has served as a priest. 14 In fact, we all know that our Lord Jesus is a descendant of Levi's brother Judah, and Moses did not write down anything about descendants of Judah serving as priests. 15 Further, you can tell even more clearly that God has changed how people serve as priests, since God has appointed a different kind of priest, Jesus, who serves God like Melchizedek did. 16 He serves as a priest because nothing can keep him from living, which makes him a powerful priest. As this kind of priest, he does not depend on what God commanded in Moses' law about how human priests are descendants of Levi. 17 You can tell that this is true about him, because God the Father said to him:

> "You will never stop being a priest in the same way that Melchizedek was a priest."

18 What this means is that God withdrew what he had first commanded about priests. He did this because that way of doing things was ineffective. 19 That way was ineffective because people could not become what God wanted them to be by doing what God previously commanded. Now what this also means is that God provided something better for us to confidently expect. When we confidently expect this, we go closer to God.

20-21 Now God did not guarantee what he said when he made some of the descendants of Levi to be priests. However, he did guarantee what he said when he made the Messiah to be a priest. Here is what God said to him:

> "The Lord has guaranteed what he says, > and he will not do something else:
> 'You will never stop being a priest!'" So, just as Jesus serves as a greater priest because God guaranteed what he said when he made him a priest, 22 so also there is a better agreement, which Jesus guarantees.

23 Further, each one of the descendants of Levi died and so could not continue to serve as a priest. Because of that, there have been many descendants of Levi who have served as priests. 24 However, Jesus will never die. Because of that, he will always serve as a priest. 25 Because he always serves as a priest, he can fully rescue anyone who, because of what he has done, goes closer to God. He can do that because he will never die and thus can always ask God to help them.

26 Jesus is exactly the kind of ruling priest that we need. He honors God, he does not think about what is evil, and he does not do what would defile him. He is not one of the people who sin, and he now lives in the highest heaven. 27 Now each descendant of Levi who serves as a ruling priest has to present sacrifices to God every day. First, he presents a sacrifice to take away his own sins, and after that he presents a sacrifice to take away the sins of the rest of the Israelites. However, Jesus took away everyone's sins when he presented himself as a sacrifice one time, so he does not need to present many sacrifices. 28 In the end, God commanded through Moses that some people should serve as priests, but these priests are weak and die. In contrast, when God guaranteed what he said, which he did after he had commanded those things through Moses, he enabled his Son to serve always as the most effective priest.

8 1 Here is the main idea that I am writing about: a ruling priest like the one I have described is serving for us. He has gone to be with God the Father in the heavenly places, and he has begun to rule. 2 He serves in the Most Holy Place and in the most real sacred tent. The Lord God, not any human, made this sanctuary.

3 Now God makes people ruling priests so that they can present sacrifices. Because that is what ruling priests do, Jesus too needed to present a sacrifice. 4 So, because the priests who are descendants of Levi already present sacrifices on earth as God commanded, Jesus would not be serving as a priest were he on earth right now. 5 Those priests do what God requires in a sanctuary that models the heavenly sanctuary. You can tell that this is true, because God revealed it to Moses when Moses was going to have the Israelites construct the sacred tent. At that time, God spoke to him, "Make sure that everything about the sacred tent matches the original sanctuary that I revealed to you when you were with me on Mount Sinai!" 6 But here is what is true about Jesus: he serves in a much better way than the descendants of Levi do. In the same way, the agreement that God has made with his people through Jesus is greater than the agreement that God made with the Israelites. That is because God promised greater things when he made this new agreement.

7 Now you can tell that the agreement that God made with the Israelites was not perfect, because God chose to make another agreement. 8 You can tell that the first agreement was not perfect, because God declared that the Israelites did not perfectly keep that agreement when he said,

> "Here is what I say to you: Pay attention!
> Soon I will make a new agreement > with all my people from both the kingdom of Israel and the kingdom of Judah.
> 9 That agreement will not be like the agreement > that I made with their ancestors > when I lovingly delivered them > from the land of Egypt.
> Here is what I say:
> It will not be like that agreement, because they did not keep it, > so I abandoned them.
> 10 This is the kind of agreement > that I will make with my people, the Israelites, > very soon.
> Here is what I say:
> I will enable them to understand and obey my laws.
> I will be the God whom they worship, > and they will be the people whom I care for.
> 11 No one will ever have to instruct another Israelite,
> 'Trust and worship the Lord God.'
> That is because all my people will trust and worship me, > no matter how important or unimportant they are.

12 That will happen because I will mercifully forgive them for the wrong things that they have done.
I will never again punish them for the sins that they have committed."

13 When God uses the word "new," he means that the earlier agreement with the Israelites is now old. Further, what is old will soon cease to exist.

9 1 As for the earlier agreement that God made with Israel, it required people to worship God in a specific way in a sanctuary on earth. 2 The sanctuary that the Israelites set up was a sacred tent that had two sections. They called the outer section the Holy Place. In it, they put a stand for lamps and a table on which they laid out special bread. 3 The inner section was on the other side of an inner cloth hanging. They called this inner section the Most Holy Place. 4 In it, they put the altar for incense and the sacred chest, both of which they completely coated with gold. In the sacred chest, they put a gold container with manna inside, the food that God gave the Israelites while they lived in the desert. They also put in it Aaron's staff that God caused to produce leaves. They also put in it the stone slabs on which Moses wrote the most important parts of the agreement with God. 5 On top of the sacred chest, they put two statues of glorious spiritual beings with wings. These statues cast shadows on the lid for the sacred chest. However, now is not the right time to carefully discuss each of these objects.

6 After they had set up all those things, the priests went into the outer section of the sacred tent every day to serve God. 7 On the other hand, on only one day a year does the current ruling priest go into the inner section of the sacred tent. He has to take blood from an animal with him, which he presents to God to take away his own sins and the sins that the rest of the Israelites committed by accident. 8 The Holy Spirit shows through what the priests do in the sacred tent that God did not reveal how to enter the heavenly Most Holy Place during the time when he required people to use the first section of the earthly sacred tent. 9 This first section of the earthly sacred tent figuratively describes the time in which those Israelites lived. In that time, priests presented offerings that could not enable the people who brought the offerings to distinguish properly between what is right and what is wrong. 10 They also followed rules that were only about bodily things, including rules about what to eat and drink and how to wash with water often. God gave them these rules to follow until he made a new agreement with his people.

11 In contrast, when the Messiah began to serve as a ruling priest, he gave us the good things that we now have. He passed through the heavenly sacred tent that functions better than the earthly one. God, not humans, made this sacred tent, and it does not belong on the earth. 12 Then, when he went into the heavenly Most Holy Place only one time, he did not present blood from animals that someone sacrificed, like the priests who are descendants of Levi do. Instead, he presented his own blood and freed his people from their sins forever. 13 Now those priests present blood from animals that someone sacrificed, and they scatter ashes from a female cow, which they have burned, on unclean people. When the priests do these things, they really do cleanse the outside of a person. 14 Since that is true, what the Messiah does with his blood cleanses people much more! He presented himself as a perfect sacrifice to God, and the Spirit who lives forever enabled him to do so. He cleanses the inside of you all, removing what you do that accomplishes nothing and enabling you to do what the only real God requires.

15 Because the Messiah cleanses the inside of people, God has made a new agreement through him. That way, God gives to those whom he chose what he promised that they would receive forever. That can happen because Jesus died to free his people from what they did wrong when they disobeyed the agreement that God made with Israel.

16 Now when someone sets up a will, which is a type of agreement, that person needs to die before the will becomes effective. 17 In fact, every will is valid only because of a dead person. That is because a will is not effective while the person who set it up is alive. 18 Much like that, God definitely required the Israelites to use blood when he made the agreement with them. 19 Indeed, after Moses declared everything that God commanded in his law to the Israelites, he picked up a bowl containing blood from animals that someone had sacrificed. Then, also using water, red cloth, and parts of a hyssop plant, he scattered the blood on the book in which he wrote what God commanded and on all the Israelites. 20 When he scattered the blood, he said to them, “This blood signifies that the agreement that God made with you is now effective.” 21 Moses likewise scattered blood on the sacred tent and on every tool that the priests used to serve God. 22 Further, God commanded in Moses’ law that the priests should use blood almost every time they cleansed people or things. In fact, God does not forgive anyone unless a priest presents blood from an animal that someone has sacrificed.

23 So then, the priests had to sacrifice animals to purify the earthly copy of the heavenly Most Holy Place. Much like that, Jesus had to present an even greater offering to purify the heavenly Most Holy Place itself. 24 When he presented that offering, the Messiah went into the highest heaven, where he reveals himself right now before God to help us. He did not go into a Most Holy Place that humans have made, which is a model of the most real Most Holy Place. 25 Further, he went into the highest heaven to present himself as an offering only once. That is not what the earthly ruling priests do. They go into the Most Holy Place every year and present blood from an animal that someone has sacrificed. 26 If Jesus had actually needed to present himself as an offering more than once, then he would have needed to die very often since the time when God created everything. But here is what is true about Jesus: during this final time period, he presented himself one time only as an offering to make sin powerless. 27 Humans will each die one time only, and then God will decide whether they are guilty or innocent. 28 Much like that, the Messiah presented himself one time only as an offering to take away many people's sins. Then, he will come again to earth, not to take away sins, but to rescue his people, who are persistently expecting him.

10 1 The law that God gave through Moses is not itself one of the wonderful things that God will give to his people. Rather, it only points to those wonderful things. So, even though the people who go closer to God always present offerings year after year, doing so never enables them to be what God wants them to be. 2 Suppose that those offerings actually purified the people who worship God. In that case, they would never feel guilty about their sins, and they would stop presenting offerings. 3 But here is what is true about those offerings: they remind people year after year of their sins. 4 Those offerings can only do that, because blood from animals that someone sacrificed cannot remove people's sins.

5 That is why, when the Messiah came to earth, he spoke to his Father,

"You did not want people to present offerings.
Instead, you made a human body ready for me.
6 You did not enjoy the sacrifices that people present to take away their sins.
7 So, I spoke these words: 'Here I am!

Someone wrote about me in the Scriptures.
I will do what you want me to do, my God.'"

8 Here is what the Messiah said to God first: "You did not want or enjoy the offerings that people present or the sacrifices that people present to take away their sins." Those offerings and sacrifices are the ones that the Israelites present to God as he required in the laws that he gave through Moses. 9 Then, the Messiah said this second: "Here I am! I will do what you want me to do." He abolishes what he spoke about first in order to set up what he spoke about second. 10 Here is what God wanted: Jesus the Messiah presented his body as an offering one time only, and by that offering, God set us apart for himself.

11 Now all earthly priests have to stand up day after day while they worship God and present many offerings of the same kind. These offerings cannot remove people's sins. 12 In contrast, the Messiah presented a single offering that is always effective in taking away sins. Then, he went to be with God the Father, where he sits on the throne and rules. 13 Right now, he remains there until God defeats all of his enemies. 14 The Messiah remains there, because he presented a single offering, by which he always makes the people whom God is setting apart for himself to be what God wants them to be.

15 God's Spirit too confirms to us that this is true. Here is what he said first in the words that I have already quoted:

16 "This is the kind of agreement that I will make with them, very soon. Here is what I say:
I will enable them to obey and understand my laws."

17 Then, God's Spirit said this second in the words I have already quoted:

"I will never again punish them for the sinful and disobedient things that they have done."

18 When God forgives people for the sinful and disobedient things that they have done, no one again presents sacrifices to take away sins.

19 So then, fellow believers, we can be totally sure that there is a way into the heavenly Most Holy Place for us, because of Jesus' blood. 20 Jesus established that new and effective way for us, which passes through the cloth hanging into the Most Holy Place. This cloth hanging figuratively represents Jesus while he lived on earth. 21 Further, the Messiah is a ruling priest who works for us, God's people. 22 Because those things are true, we should go closer to God, completely serving him and fully believing in him now that he has purified us on the inside and on the outside so that we no longer feel guilty about evil things that we have done. 23 God, who promised these things to us, will do what he has said. So, we need to persist in fully believing what we say we confidently expect. 24 Further, we need to think about each other, particularly how to encourage each other to love others and to do what is right. 25 We can do that by always continuing to gather together to worship God and encouraging each other, even though some people often do not do this. Since we know that Jesus is coming back soon, we should be very eager to do those things.

26 We should do all those things, because whenever we intentionally and habitually sin once we have completely understood the true message about Christ, no one can present any offering that will take away our sins. 27 If we did go on sinning, all we could do is fearfully wait for God to declare us guilty and, soon after, forcefully punish us as his enemies, which would be like flames burning us up. 28 The Israelites would kill any person who completely stopped obeying the laws that God gave through Moses, as long as at least two or three people confirmed that the person had done that. They would not be merciful to that person. 29 But now consider people who shame God's Son. They treat his blood as if it were ordinary, even though God used that blood to make his covenant and set them apart for himself. They make fun of God's Spirit, who acts graciously. God will rightly punish those people more than he punished anyone who completely stopped obeying the laws that God gave through Moses. 30 We know that is true, because we have encountered God, who spoke, "I am the one who will punish people when they act against me. I will do so in a way that they deserve." Further, he also spoke, "I, the Lord, will decide whether my people are guilty or innocent." 31 Those who deserve the only real God to punish them should be afraid!

32 On the other hand, I want you to think about what it was like when you first learned about the good news. During that time, you continued to trust God while you firmly withstood what you suffered. 33 In some cases, people publicly insulted and hurt you. In other cases, you helped other people who experienced those same things. [34] More specifically, you acted compassionately toward those in jail. Also, you rejoiced even when people took away what you owned. You did that because you recognized that God has something greater and more lasting for you. [35] Therefore, continue to be confident that God will do what he has promised. God greatly rewards those who are confident in this way.

[36] As you can see, you need to continue to trust God. That way, once you have done what God desires, you will receive what he has promised to give to you. [37] Here is what a prophet wrote:

> "Very soon, the person who is going to arrive will arrive.
> He will not wait a long time.
> [38] Further, those who serve me righteously will trust in me while they are alive.
> But suppose they stop trusting in me.
> Then, they will not please me."

[39] However, we are not those who stop trusting in God, whom he will destroy. Rather, we are those who trust in God, so he saves us.

11 [1] When people trust God, it makes them sure that they will receive what they confidently expect. When people trust God, it makes them certain about things that they do not see. [2] In fact, because the Israelite ancestors trusted God, he approved of them. [3] Because we trust God, we recognize that, by speaking, God set up everything that exists. So then, the things we see did not come from other things we can see.

[4] Because he trusted God, Adam's son Abel presented a more acceptable offering to God than did his older brother Cain. Because he trusted God, God approved of him for what he presented and declared that he did what was right. Although Abel died, we can still learn from how he trusted God.

[5] Because Enoch trusted God, God took him to heaven, and so he never died. As Moses wrote, "No one could find him. That is because God took him to heaven." Now before God took Enoch to heaven, he declared that Enoch pleased him. [6] In fact, people can only please

God when they trust him. That is because people who go closer to God have to believe that he is real and that he will reward people who want to serve and worship him.

7 Because he trusted God, Noah honored God by believing him when God revealed to him what he could not yet experience. So, Noah built the ark to rescue his family from the flood that God would send. Since Noah trusted God in this way, he proved that everyone else was guilty. Further, Noah became a person whom God made right with himself because Noah trusted him.

8 Because he trusted God, Abraham did what God said when God spoke to him. He left his home to travel to a location that God would soon make to be his new home. When he left his home, he did not even know exactly where this new home would be. 9 Because he trusted God, Abraham stayed in the country that God had promised to give him, but it was not yet his country. He lived with Isaac his son and Jacob his grandson in temporary shelters, even though God promised to all three of them that he would give them this country. 10 Abraham lived like that because he was looking forward to living in the secure and permanent heavenly city that God created. 11 Because he believed, Abraham was able to have a son with his wife Sarah even though he was old enough that he could not normally have had a child. That happened because he reckoned that God would certainly do what he said. 12 So then, even though he was very old, Abraham had many descendants, the Israelites. Just as God promised, there are as many Israelites as there are many stars in the sky and as there are many grains of sand on a beach by the ocean.

13 All those people trusted God until they died. While they lived, they did not experience what God had promised to give them, but they knew that God would soon do what he had promised. They showed everyone that they did not really belong in this world. 14 Indeed, all people who speak what they spoke about not belonging in this world show clearly that they desire to live in their own country. 15 But suppose these faithful people considered the country they had left to be their own country. In that case, they could have gone back there, but they did not. 16 But here is what is true about them: they longed for a greater country that is in heaven. Because of that, it honors God when other people describe him as the God of these people who trusted him. You can tell that this is true, because God has made a city for them to live in.

17 Because he trusted God, when God tested him, Abraham would have presented his son Isaac as an offering. Indeed, the man to whom God promised many descendants was about to present as an offering the only child he and his wife Sarah had. 18 In fact, God had already said to Abraham, “The many descendants that I promised to give you will come from your son Isaac.” 19 Abraham acted in this way because he reckoned that God could make dead people alive again. In fact, in a manner of speaking, Abraham did get Isaac back after he had died.

20 Because he trusted God, Isaac blessed his sons Jacob and Esau, declaring what would happen to each of them.

21 Because he trusted God, when he was about to die, Jacob blessed both sons of his son Joseph. He praised God while he leaned on his walking stick.

22 Because he trusted God, when he was about to die, Joseph spoke about how the Israelites would leave the land of Egypt. Also, he commanded them to take his bones with them when they left.

23 Because they trusted God, Moses’ father and mother kept Moses hidden for 13 weeks after he was born. They bravely disobeyed what the king of Egypt commanded about killing the sons of the Israelites. They did that because they could tell that Moses was a good child.

24 Because he trusted God, when he grew up, Moses rejected how he was living as the adopted son of one of the daughters of the king of Egypt. 25 He decided to experience how people mistreated God’s people rather than to enjoy sinning for a little while. 26 He reckoned that people insulting him because of the Messiah was more valuable than all the valuable things in the land of Egypt. He thought in this way, because he focused on how God would reward him. 27 Because he trusted God, Moses departed from the land of Egypt. He was not afraid of what the king would do while he was angry. He acted in that way, because he continued to trust God as completely as if he could see God, who is invisible. 28 Because he trusted God, Moses led the Israelites in celebrating the first Passover festival and spreading blood from lambs on their doors. They did that so that the spiritual being who killed the eldest children of the Egyptians would not kill their eldest children.

29 Because they trusted God, the Israelites walked across the Sea of Reeds like they were walking on hard ground when God made a path for them. Then, when the Egyptians tried to follow, they drowned in the water when God covered the path.

30 Because the Israelites trusted God, he broke down the walls around the city of Jericho after the Israelites repeatedly marched around the city during one week.

31 Because she trusted God, Rahab, who was a prostitute, kept the spies whom Joshua had sent safe. Because she did that, the Israelites did not kill her when they killed everyone else who lived in Jericho, everyone who did not obey God.

32 I cannot now say any more about this. Indeed, I do not have the time to tell you about Gideon, Barak, Samson, Jephthah, David, Samuel, and the other prophets. 33 Because such people trusted God, some of them defeated foreign armies. Others ruled justly. Others received what God had promised. Others kept lions from eating them. 34 Others stopped fire from burning them. Others survived when someone violently attacked them. Others became powerful when they were weak. Others fought their enemies powerfully. Others completely defeated soldiers from other countries. 35 Some women experienced how God made their family members who had died to become alive again. However, other people experienced how others intentionally hurt them to make them disobey God. They kept obeying God despite that. That way, God would make them alive again so that they could never die. 36 Further, other people suffered when others made fun of them or struck their backs with ropes. Sometimes, rulers even arrested them and put them in jail. 37 People killed these faithful people by throwing rocks at them or by cutting them in half. People tempted them to disobey God. People killed them with swords. These faithful people wandered around wearing only animal skins. They had nothing, and people persecuted them and treated them badly. 38 People treated them like that even though they did not deserve to live in the same place with those who trusted God. Despite that, these faithful people had to live in wilderness places, on hills, and in caves in the earth.

39 Although God approved of all these people because they trusted him, he did not yet give them what he had promised to give them. 40 Rather, God prepared ahead of time to give us something greater than what those people received while they lived. That way, only when we and they are all together will we all be what God wants us to be.

12 1 So then, because all those people who trusted God are watching us, we need to persevere in trusting God too. To do that, we need to stop sinning and avoid anything else that could hinder us. [2] We need to focus on Jesus, the one who enables us to trust God at first and then to do so until we die. He himself persevered when he died on the cross, and he did not care that he died shamefully. He acted in those ways because he knew that God would make him joyful afterward. Now, he is with God the Father, where he sits on the throne and rules.

[3] You need to think about Jesus, who persevered when sinners quarreled with him, although they only hurt themselves. That way, you can be strong on the inside and persevere. [4] So far, you have not died while you oppose what is evil and work hard not to sin. [5] Further, you have failed to remember what Solomon encouraged his children to do, which also applies to you. Here is what Solomon wrote:

> "My child, learn carefully when the Lord trains you.
> Indeed, persevere when he corrects you.
> [6] You should do that, because the Lord God trains everyone he loves.
> Indeed, he severely corrects every child he calls his own."

[7] You need to persevere so that God can train you. God acts in these ways toward you because you are his children. You can tell that this is true, because parents always train their own children. [8] Suppose God did not train you, even though he trained everybody else. In that case, you would not actually be God's children. [9] Moreover, our human parents trained us when we were children, and we respected them. So, we should accept it even more when our spiritual Father, God, trains us. That way, we will live forever. [10] Further, our human parents trained us for a short time in the ways that they thought were right. However, God our Father trains us in the ways that are best for us. That way, we become those whom he has set apart, just as he sets himself apart. [11] Whenever God trains us, we hurt rather than rejoice while it is happening. However, once we learn from how God is training us, we are able peacefully to do what is right.

[12] Because of all that, you need to prepare yourselves to persevere in trusting God, just like runners prepare their tired bodies to continue running. [13] You need to focus on trusting and obeying God, just like a runner focuses on running the straightest path. That way, anyone who is spiritually weak will not stop trusting God but will instead trust him more. [14] You should seek to live peacefully with everybody. Also, you should seek to set yourselves apart for God. Only if you do that will you eventually be with the Lord. [15] Make sure that your fellow believers fully receive what God has given you. Be alert for anyone who begins to behave resentfully and disturbs fellow believers. That may lead many other believers to behave that way as well. 16 Be alert for people who have improper sex or do not set themselves apart for God. These people are like Esau, who allowed his younger brother Jacob to act as the firstborn child in order to get some food from him. 17 You should avoid being like Esau, because you realize what happened to him later. He wanted his father to bless him, but his father refused to do so. As you can see, Esau could not change what he had done, even when he cried while he tried to change it.

18 We have not gone closer to what the Israelites went closer to when they arrived at Mount Sinai. They went closer to a mountain that they could feel with their hands. They saw flames burning, dark clouds, shadows, and a thunderstorm. 19 They heard someone playing a trumpet and God speaking a message. When they heard God speaking, they pleaded for him not to say any more to them. 20 They did that, because they were afraid when God commanded them, "You must kill all people and animals that touch this mountain. You must kill them by throwing rocks at them." 21 Further, when Moses saw how frightening everything was, he said, "I am shaking because I am afraid!" 22 In contrast to that, you have gone closer to a heavenly place, Mount Zion. On this mountain is the city Jerusalem in heaven that belongs to the only real God. In the city are very many spiritual beings who celebrate together. 23 Also in the city are those whose names God has recorded in heaven. They are God's people, his special children. There also is God, the one who decides whether all people are guilty or innocent. There too are those who obeyed God. They died, but God has now made them what he wants them to be. 24 Also in the city is Jesus, through whom God has made a new agreement. There also is Jesus' blood, which purifies us. His blood is more effective than Abel's blood.

25 Make sure that you obey God, who is speaking to you. Consider how some of the Israelites did not obey what God revealed to them from Mount Sinai. God certainly punished them. Now consider how much more God will punish any of us who do not obey what he reveals to us from Mount Zion. 26 When God spoke from Mount Sinai, it made the earth quake. However, at this time he promises, "One more time, I will make the earth and also heaven quake." 27 The words "one more time" mean that God will transform everything that he shakes. He will do that just as he created all those things. That way, everything that he does not shake will last forever. 28 So, we will live in a kingdom that God will not quake. Because of that, we should thank God. By doing that, we respectfully worship God in a way that pleases him. 29 We should do so respectfully, because the God we worship is as powerful and dangerous as a raging fire.

13 1 Persist in loving your fellow believers. 2 Make sure that you are welcoming other people. You should do that because some people who welcomed others actually welcomed spiritual beings, although they did not know that they were spiritual beings. 3 Be sure to help those who are in jail. You should help them as you would want others to help you were you in jail with them. Also, do not forget to help those whom others treat badly. You should do that because you too are humans who can suffer.

4 All of you should greatly value how God joins people together when they marry. Further, people who marry should have sex only with their spouses. You should do those things because God will declare guilty anyone who has sex with a married person or who has improper sex in any way. 5 You should always avoid desiring money. You can do that by being happy with whatever you have. You should behave in this way, because God has spoken these words to each of you:

> "I will definitely not abandon you.
> Yes, I will always be with you."

6 Because God says that, we boldly speak these words:

> "The Lord God is the one who supports me.
> Because of that, I do not fear anyone.
> No one can do anything to hurt me."

7 Pay attention to the people who were in charge of your group. I mean the ones who told you about what God has done. Examine the good things that happened because of how they lived. You should imitate how they trusted God. 8 Jesus the Messiah has never changed and will never change.

9 Do not let other people mislead you by teaching you many kinds of things that do not fit with the good news. You should reject what they teach, because only what God gives us rightly makes us strong. The food that we eat cannot do that. In fact, people who act as if food could do that gain nothing. 10 We benefit from Jesus' offering, which is greater than the offerings that the priests presented in the sacred tent. In fact, those priests would be unable to participate in Jesus' offering.

11 In the Most Holy Place, the ruling priest would present blood from animals that he had killed. He did that to take away sins. Someone then would completely burn the remains of these animals away from where the Israelites were staying. 12 Therefore, Jesus too died away from where people lived in the city of Jerusalem. He did that to set God's people apart for himself by offering his own blood. 13 So then, we should abandon everything that could separate us from the Messiah. As we do that, we should accept it when people insult us like they insulted him. 14 We should do that because, here on earth, we do not live in any city that will last forever. Rather, we desire to live in the city that God will soon give us.

15 With Jesus helping us, we should frequently praise God, as if we were presenting offerings to him. We do that when we say that we believe in Jesus. 16 Further, we need to make sure that we help others by giving some of what we have to them. Doing that is like presenting offerings that please God.

17 Those who are in charge of your group know that God considers them responsible for you, and so they always focus on taking care of you. Because of that, you should respectfully do what they require. That way, they can lead your group joyfully instead of sadly. Indeed, if they led sadly, that would not help you at all.

18 Please ask God to help me and those with me. I ask that because we are sure that we are not guilty. Indeed, we always want to behave properly. 19 I urge you still more to ask God to send me back to you quickly.

20 God is the one who makes his people peaceful. He made our Lord Jesus alive again after he had died. Jesus is like a powerful sheepherder who leads us, his sheep. God made him alive again because Jesus used his own blood to make the new covenant that will last forever. 21 We pray that God will provide you with all his good gifts. That way, you can do what he wants you to do. In fact, he works through Jesus the Messiah to enable us to do what pleases him. So, let us honor God forever! May it be so!

22 I have sent you a short letter. So, I ask you, fellow believers, to please consider carefully what I have said to encourage you.

23 I want you to be aware that the authorities have released Timothy, our fellow believer. If he arrives here quickly, we will visit you together.

24 Say hello to everyone who is in charge of your group. Also, say hello to all God's people. The believers who are from the country of Italy say hello to you.

25 I pray that God will be gracious to you all.

James

1 1 I, James, serve God and the Lord Jesus the Messiah. I am writing this letter to you who believe in Jesus and are living in various parts of the Roman Empire. I greet you all.

2 My fellow believers, consider it something to rejoice over greatly when you experience various kinds of hardships. 3 Understand that as you trust God in hardships, this helps you to become a stronger person. 4 Endure hardships to their very end, so that you may follow the Messiah in every way. Then you will not fail to do well.

5 If anyone of you needs to know what to do, let him ask God, and God will tell him. God gives generously to everyone. God does not scold people who ask for things. 6 But when you pray to God, you must trust him to answer you. Do not doubt that he will answer and help you.
People who doubt God first decide to do one thing, but then they want to do something else.
They never settle on a single course of action. 7 Indeed, people who doubt should not think that God the Lord will give them what they ask for so uncertainly. 8 People like this can never decide what to do. They make a plan, but then they do not follow it.

9 Believers who do not have much money should be glad, because God has honored them.
10 But believers who have a lot of money should be glad that God has humbled them by showing them that their wealth does not make them better than other people. After all, like wildflowers that bloom for only a short time and then wither, rich believers will die like anyone else. 11 A wildflower only lasts a short time because when the sun rises, its scorching heat dries out the plants so that their flowers fall off. They are no longer beautiful. Like the flower that dies, rich people will die while they are trying to make money.

12 God honors those who remain faithful to him in difficult circumstances. Indeed, God will reward them by having them live forever. That is what God has promised to do for all who love him.

13 When we are tempted to sin, we must not think it is God who is tempting us. No, no one can persuade God to do evil, and God never tries to persuade anyone to do evil. 14 But people want to do evil because of their own desires. When they do, it is just as if they had fallen into a trap. 15 Then, because they have desired to do evil things, they begin to do them, and eventually they do them habitually. If they do not turn away from their sinful behavior, they will be separated from God forever.

16 My fellow believers whom I love, stop deceiving yourselves. 17 Every truly good and perfect gift comes from God the Father, who is in heaven. He created the sun, moon, and stars. But God does not change the way shadows change, appearing and disappearing. God never changes. He is always good! 18 God became our spiritual father when we trusted in his true message. That was what he wanted to do. So now believers in Jesus have become the first people to experience the kind of relationship with God that many more people will have in the future.

19 My fellow believers whom I love, I want you to know that every one of you should listen patiently to what others have to say. You should speak your own thoughts carefully. You should control your anger, 20 because when we get angry, we cannot do the good things that God wants us to do.

21 So stop doing all kinds of evil. Without resisting proudly, do what God has told you to do. God will help you to remember and understand it. This will show that you belong to God. 22 It is important to what God commands, do not just listen to it. People who only listen to it and do not obey it are fooling themselves into thinking that this will save them. 23 Now some people hear God's message, but they do not do what it says. Those people are like someone who looks at his face in a mirror. 24 Although he looks at himself, he goes away from the mirror and immediately forgets what he looks like. 25 But other people consider God's message carefully. It is perfect and it enables people to do voluntarily what God wants them to do. If these people remember what they have heard and continue to do what God tells them to do, then God will bless them because of what they do.

26 Some people think that they worship God properly, but they say bad things. Those people are wrong in what they are thinking. God is not impressed with our worship activities if we continually say bad things. 27 One of the things that God has told us to do is to take care of orphans and widows who suffer hardship. People who do that truly worship God, who is our Father. People are also truly worshiping God if they do not think or act immorally like others who do not obey God. God approves of people who do these things.

2 1 My fellow believers, do not honor some people more than others and at the same time trust in our great Lord Jesus the Messiah. 2 For example, suppose that a person who wears gold rings and fine clothes joins you for worship. And suppose that a poor person who wears shabby clothes joins you as well. 3 And suppose that you show special attention to the one dressed in fine clothes. You tell him, "Please sit here in this nice seat!" But you tell the poor one to go to a less honorable place, saying, "You stand over there," or, "Sit on the floor!" 4 This would show that you thought rich people were better than poor people. It would show that you were making your judgments about how to treat people based on evil thinking. 5 Listen to me, my fellow believers whom I love. God has chosen poor people who seem to own nothing of value to trust in him very much. He will give them great things when he reigns everywhere. This is what he has promised to do for everyone who loves him. 6 But you have treated poor people disrespectfully! Think about it! It is the rich people, not the poor people, who are causing you to suffer! It is the rich people who forcibly take you to court to accuse you in front of judges! 7 And they are the ones who insult you because you are Christians! 8 So you should not treat rich people better than poor people. Instead, you should obey the commandment that Jesus said was so important. It is from the law of Moses: "Love your neighbor as you love yourself." If you show love to everyone equally, you will be doing what is right. 9 But if you honor some people more than others, you are doing wrong. And because you are not doing what God has commanded, God will say that you have broken his law.

10 God will say this because if you break one of God's laws, even if you obey all the other ones, it is just as if you had broken all the laws. 11 For example, God said, "Do not commit adultery," but he also said, "Do not murder anyone." So if you do not commit adultery, but you do murder someone, then you have become a person who disobeys God's laws.

12 Always speak and act towards others knowing that God will judge you based on the commandment he gave us to love others. When we follow that commandment, we obey God freely. 13 You should speak and act in this way because when God judges us, he will not act mercifully toward those who have not acted mercifully toward others. But if we are merciful to others, then we can expect that God will be merciful to us when he judges us.

14 My fellow believers, some people say, "I believe in the Lord Jesus the Messiah," but they do not do loving things. What they say will do them no good. If they only believe with words, God will certainly not save them. 15 To illustrate, suppose that a fellow believer, whether a man or a woman, is continually lacking clothes and food for each day. 16 And suppose one of you says to them, "Do not worry, get warm, and have the food you need." But suppose that you then do not give them any clothing or food. Then that will be no help to them! 17 Similarly, if you just say that you believe in Jesus but you do not do anything that demonstrates that, you do not really believe in Jesus.

18 But someone might say to you that you have faith, while I have works. He might claim that a person can express his religion through either faith or works and that he does not need to have both. But I would say in response that you cannot show me your faith without works. I, on the other hand, can show you my faith by my works. 19 Let me illustrate how believing in God without doing what God wants you to do cannot save you. You believe that there is only one true God. You are right to believe that. But the demons also believe that, and they shake with fear because they also know that the one true God is going to punish them. 20 Also, you foolish person, I will give you proof that if someone says he believes in Jesus but he does not do anything that demonstrates that, then what he says does not help him in any way. 21 Here is the proof. Abraham, from whom we are descended, showed that he was willing to offer his son Isaac to God as a sacrifice if God wanted him to do that. God considered Abraham to be a righteous person because he showed that he would obey him and that proved that he genuinely trusted God. 22 In this way, Abraham obeyed God because he trusted him. When he obeyed him, that helped him trust God completely. 23 That was how the scripture came true that says, "Because Abraham truly trusted in God, God viewed him as someone who did what was right." Other scriptures say that Abraham was God's friend. 24 From the example of Abraham, you should recognize that God considers people to be righteous because of what they do, not simply because they trust in him. 25 Just as he did for Abraham, God also considered Rahab to be righteous because of what she did. She had been a prostitute, but she took care of the messengers Joshua sent to spy out the land. She then helped them to escape by sending them back on a safer road.

26 All of this illustrates an important truth. Just as a person's body is not alive if he is no longer breathing, in the same way, a person does not really trust in God if he does not express that trust through what he does.

3 1 My fellow believers, most of you should not desire to become teachers of God's word. As you know, God will judge us teachers more severely than he will judge other people. 2 I will tell you why most of you should not become teachers. All of us often do things that are wrong. But if anyone is able to avoid saying things that are wrong, he has become the person God intends him to be. He will be able to control all of his actions as well. 3 To illustrate, we can put a small metal bar into the mouth of a horse and use it to make the horse go where we want it to go. When we do that, we can direct the horse's large body just by means of that small device. 4 Think about ships too. A ship may be very large and the winds that propel it forward may be very strong. Even so, by using a tiny rudder, the pilot can direct the ship wherever he wants it to go. 5 Similarly, although our tongues are very small, we use them to brag that we have done great things. Note also that a fire that starts as a small flame can burn up many trees.

6 Just as a fire burns a forest, when we say bad things, we hurt many people. What we say reveals that there is much evil within us. When we say bad things, this contaminates all that we think and do. It can ruin our whole life. It is Satan himself who influences us to speak what is evil. 7 To give another example, people have been able to tame a wide variety of wild animals, birds, reptiles, and animals that live in the water. 8 But no one can control the things he says. The things people say are like a dangerous creature that never stops killing people with its venom. 9 We use speech to praise God, who is our Lord and Father. But we also use speech to say that we want bad things to happen to people. That is very wrong, because God made people like himself. 10 Someone may use his speech to praise God. But then he will use that same speech to wish that bad things would happen to people. My fellow believers, this should not happen! 11 Surely good-tasting water and bad-tasting water do not come from the same source! 12 My fellow believers, a fig tree cannot produce olives. And a grapevine cannot produce figs. Nor can a salty source produce good water. Similarly, we should speak only what is good, and we should not speak what is evil.

13 If any of you are very understanding, you will demonstrate that by living your life properly. Being wise leads us to act gently toward others. 14 But if inwardly you grudgingly resent other people and you think you are more important than they are, you should not claim to be wise. That would be saying that what is false is actually true. 15 People who are envious and selfish are not wise as God wants them to be. Instead, they are thinking and acting like people who do not respect God. They are following their own evil desires. They are doing what demons would do. 16 We can tell that people who are resentful and selfish are not wise, because they do not control themselves. They take part in many different sinful activities.
17 But the person whom God has taught to be wise is, first of all, morally pure. Such a person also makes peace with others. He is kind to them and gets along with them well. He is generous to people who do not deserve it, and he does practical things to help others. He does not favor one person over another, and he does not pretend to be something that he is not.
18 When people work quietly to help others get along, they can help those others to have good relationships.

4 1 I will tell you why you are fighting among yourselves and quarreling with each other. It is because each of you inwardly desires to do evil things. Those desires lead you to fight in order to be able to do those things. 2 You desire to have things, but you do not get them. This makes you bitterly resent the people who do have them. But you still do not get what you want, so you quarrel and fight with others. If you pray to God instead for the things you desire, then God will give you what you truly need. 3 But even when you do ask God for things, he does not give them to you, because you are asking with bad motives. You are asking for things just so that you can use them to enjoy yourselves in wrong ways.

4 You are being disloyal to God by not obeying him! You must realize that those who behave as evil people do are hostile to God. So if that is how you decide to live, then you will be choosing to be hostile to God. 5 You must realize that God has purposely told us about this in the Scriptures. There he teaches us that the Spirit he placed in us yearns for us to live our lives in ways that please him. 6 If we are living in ways that do not please God, he is very kind to us. He will help us live differently if we humbly admit that we have been doing wrong. That is why this teaching is in the Bible: “God does not help those who are proud, but he does help those who are humble.”

7 So choose humbly to obey God. Firmly determine not to give in to the devil's temptations. This will make the devil give up on trying to tempt you. 8 Be honest and open with God. If you do, he will welcome you into his presence. You who are sinners, turn away from doing what is wrong and do only what is right. You who cannot decide whether you will commit yourselves to God, stop thinking wrong thoughts and think only right thoughts.
9 Show sorrow and be sad and weep because of the wrong things that you have done. You have been enjoying yourselves, but you should be serious and realize how much you need to change.
10 Humbly show the Lord how sorry you are for your sins. If you do that, he will honor you.

11 My fellow believers, stop accusing one another of doing wrong. Anyone who accuses and condemns a fellow believer is really accusing and condemning God's commandment that we should love one another. But if you speak against that commandment, you are not obeying it.
Instead, you are acting like a judge who condemns it. 12 The only one who can judge people according to the law is the one who gave the law. That is God, who is able not just to condemn people for breaking the law but also to pardon them even though they have broken the law. You certainly are not entitled to take God's place and judge others.

13 Some of you are arrogantly saying, "Today or tomorrow we will go to a certain city. We will spend a year there and we will buy and sell things and earn a lot of money." Now you listen to me! 14 You should not talk like that, because you do not know what will happen tomorrow. In fact, you do not even know how long you will live! After all, your life is short, like a mist that is visible briefly but then vanishes. 15 Instead of what you are saying, you should say, "If the Lord is willing, we will still be alive and we will be able to do one thing or another." 16 But what you are doing is bragging about all the things you plan to do. That kind of bragging is sinful.

17 So if anyone does not do something even though he knows it is the right thing that he should do, he has committed a sin.

5 1 Now I have something to say to you rich people who say you believe in Jesus. Listen to me! You should weep and wail loudly because you are going to experience terrible troubles!
2 Your wealth is worthless, as though it were rotten. Your fine clothes are worthless, as though moths had ruined them. 3 Your gold and silver are worthless, as though they were corroded.

When God judges you, this worthless wealth of yours will be evidence that you are guilty of being greedy. Just as rust and fire destroy things, God will severely punish you. You should not have been trying to get richer and richer knowing that Jesus was going to return. When he returns, your riches will be worthless. 4 Think about what you have done. You did not pay the wages you promised to the workers who harvested your fields. These unpaid wages show how unfair you were to these workers. They are crying out to God because of the way you have treated them. The Lord is a God of great power, and he is listening to their loud cries and he will punish you for what you have done. 5 You have bought all the luxuries you wanted for yourselves. Just as cattle fatten themselves, not realizing that they will be slaughtered, you have lived just to enjoy things, not realizing that God will severely punish you. 6 You have arranged for others to condemn honest people. You have arranged for others to kill people who had not done anything wrong. They were not able to defend themselves against you. But God will judge and punish you for doing all these things.

7 So, my fellow believers, even though rich people cause you to suffer, be patient until Jesus the Messiah comes back. Remember that when farmers plant a field, they have to wait for their valuable crops to grow. They have to wait patiently for the rain that comes at the planting season and for more rain that comes just before the harvest season. This rain is necessary for the crops to grow and mature so that the farmers can harvest them. 8 Similarly, you also should wait patiently and trust Jesus the Messiah firmly, because he is coming back soon and he will judge all people fairly. 9 My fellow believers, do not grumble about each other. That way the Lord Jesus will not have to punish you. He is the one who will judge us, and he will come back soon to do that. 10 My fellow believers, as an example of how to be patient, consider the prophets whom the Lord God sent long ago to speak his messages. Although people caused them to suffer much, they endured it patiently. 11 Consider how, when people are able to endure suffering patiently and faithfully, we say that God has blessed them. One example of this is the man named Job. You know about him from the Scriptures. You know that he suffered many things patiently. You also know that God planned to do good things through what Job suffered. And from that you can tell that God is very caring and kind.

12 Now this, my fellow believers, is something very important for you to realize. You must never take an oath by calling on heaven or the earth or anything else to guarantee a promise that you make. All you need to say is "Yes" or "No." God will judge you if you go beyond that and make an oath but then do not keep your promise.

13 Any one of you who is experiencing trouble should pray that God would help him.
Whoever is happy should sing songs of praise to God. 14 Any one of you who is sick should call the leaders of the congregation to come and pray for him to recover. They should put olive oil on him to help him recover and, with the Lord's authority, pray. 15 When these leaders pray to God in faith, God will answer that prayer and heal the person who is sick. The Lord will restore his health. If that person has sinned, God will forgive him for those sins. 16 Because the Lord is able to heal the sick and to forgive sins, admit to each other the sinful things you have done and pray for each other. Then God will heal you. If people who are right with God pray, God will answer their prayers in powerful ways. 17 The prophet Elijah was an ordinary person like us. But when he prayed earnestly that it would not rain, the land of Israel had no rain for three and a half years. 18 Then Elijah prayed again, asking God to send rain, and God made it rain and plants grew and produced crops again.

19 My fellow believers, if one of you stops obeying the true message from God, then another one of you should persuade that person to do once again what God has told us to do.
20 I want anyone who helps a sinner to repent to know that because of what he has done, God will save the sinner from spiritual death and will forgive his many sins.

1 Peter

1 1 I am Peter, whom Jesus the Messiah sent to represent him. I am writing this letter to you whom God has chosen to belong to himself. I am writing to you who are temporarily living in the provinces of Pontus, Galatia, Cappadocia, Asia, and Bithynia, far away from your true home in heaven. 2 God our Father chose you according to what he had already decided. He did this by his Spirit, setting you apart in order that you may obey him and in order that the death of Jesus the Messiah may make you members of a covenant with God. I pray that God will increase his kind acts toward you and make you more peaceful.

3 Praise God, who is the Father of our Lord Jesus the Messiah! Because he is very merciful to us, he has caused us to experience the new birth by bringing Jesus the Messiah back to life after he had died. God did this in order that we would have hope that will never disappoint us, 4 that is, in order that we might inherit what cannot perish, be defiled, or fade, which is what God has kept for us in heaven. 5 God's power is guarding you by means of your trust in Jesus. He is guarding you in order to reveal your salvation at the final time when Jesus returns to judge everyone. 6 You rejoice a lot because of what will happen then, even though now for a short time many different hardships must grieve you. 7 These hardships happen in order to prove that you really trust in Jesus. That trust is more valuable to God than gold, which someone can destroy even though someone has tested it by passing it through fire. Because you trust in Jesus, God will praise, glorify, and honor you when Jesus the Messiah returns and reveals himself. 8 You love Jesus, although you have not seen him. Although you do not see him now, you trust him and rejoice with joy that you can hardly express, 9 because you are experiencing the result of trusting him: God is saving you from the guilt of your sins.

10 Long ago prophets investigated very carefully about God saving you. They spoke what God told them about God graciously saving you. 11 They were trying to find out to whom the Spirit of the Messiah that was in them was referring to, and to what time the Spirit was referring to. The Spirit was referring to these things when he told them beforehand that the Messiah would suffer and that glorious things would happen afterwards. 12 God told these prophets that it was not for their own benefit that he was revealing these things to them, but that it was for your benefit. Those people who preached the good news to you now have declared these things to you by the Holy Spirit, whom God sent from heaven, enabling them to do that. Angels would like to know more about what these people declared to you.

13 As a result of all these things, prepare your minds for action. Be alert. Be completely confident that God will graciously save you when Jesus the Messiah returns and reveals himself. 14 Because you obey God like children ought to obey their fathers, do not allow yourself to be controlled by the sinful desires you used to have when you did not know the truth about God. 15 Instead, just like God, the one who chose you to belong to him, is holy, act in a holy manner when you do anything. 16 Be holy, because Moses wrote in the scriptures that God said, "Be holy, because I am holy."

17 God is the one who judges what each person does, and he judges without bias. Since you call him "Father," behave in a way that shows you fear him while you are temporarily living far away from your true home in heaven. 18 Behave in that way because you know that God paid to free you from behaving foolishly, as your ancestors taught you to behave. God did not pay to free you with things like silver or gold that will not last forever. 19 Instead, God paid for you to be free by the Messiah's priceless death on the cross. That death was like the deaths of the entirely perfect lambs that the Jewish priests sacrificed. 20 God chose him to do this before he created the world. But it was now, in this last time period, that God revealed him to you. 21 Because of what the Messiah has done, you are trusting in God. He caused the Messiah to become alive again after he had died and has shown how great he is. As a result, you are trusting God and expecting him to do great things.

22 Because you have made yourselves pure by obeying the true teachings of Jesus in order to genuinely love other believers, love each other sincerely and fervently. 23 Do this because God has caused you to experience the new birth. You did not experience this new birth by means of something that will perish. Rather, you experienced it by means of something that will never perish: the message about Jesus that came from God and truly lasts forever. 24 We know that this is true because, as the prophet Isaiah wrote,

> "All people are like grass, and everything that is great about people is like flowers in the grass.

Just as grass dies and flowers whither, so do people die and what is great about them only lasts for a short time,

25 but God's message lasts forever."

This message that lasts forever is the good news about the Messiah that we have declared to you.

2 1 Because these things are true, do not act wickedly or deceive others in any way. Do not be hypocrites, and do not envy others. Do not speak evil things falsely about anyone. 2 Just as newborn babies strongly desire their mothers' pure milk, so you should strongly desire to learn true things about God so that by learning them you may become spiritually mature. You must do this until the time when God saves you completely from this sinful world. 3 You must do this because you have experienced that the Lord acts very kindly toward you.

4 You have come to the Lord Jesus. He is like a stone that is part of a building, but he is alive. Although people rejected him, God chose him and greatly values him. 5 And you are like stones that are alive. Like men build houses with stones, God is joining you together like a building in which his Spirit dwells. He is also making you be like priests whom he has set apart in order to do spiritual acts, pleasing to God, by means of Jesus the Messiah. 6 What Isaiah wrote that God had said in Scripture shows us that this is true: "Pay attention! I am placing in Jerusalem someone who is like the most important stone in the building. I have chosen him. He is very valuable. And anyone who trusts in him will surely never be humiliated."

7 Therefore, God will honor you who believe in Jesus. However, those who refuse to believe in him are like the builders that someone wrote about in the Psalms: "The stone that the builders rejected has become the most important stone in the building."

8 Isaiah also wrote in the Scriptures that the Messiah would be like "a stone that causes people to stumble, and a rock that offends people."

Just as people become injured because they trip over a rock, people become offended because they disobey God's message;

that is what God determined would happen to them.

9 In contrast to them, you believers are people whom God has chosen for himself. You are like a group of priests who worship God and rule with him. You are a people group that God has set apart for himself. You are a people who belong to God so that you might declare the praiseworthy things he has done. He has called you out of your former manner of living, when you were sinful and ignorant about God, and he has made you understand the wonderful true things about himself. 10 What Hosea wrote is true about you who used to be "no people group at all," but now are "God's people group." At one time "God had not acted mercifully toward you," but now "he has acted mercifully toward you."

11 Fellow believers whom I love, you are like foreigners whose real home is in heaven. So I urge you not to do the things that your sinful human natures want to do. Those desires will destroy you. 12 Behave well among those who do not know God in order that, concerning the things you are doing, which they falsely say are evil, they will see that you are actually doing good things and they will honor God when he comes to judge everyone.

13 In order to honor the Lord Jesus, obey everyone who has power to govern people. This includes the king, because he has the greatest human power. 14 It also includes governors, because the king has sent them to punish those who do evil things and to praise those who do good things. 15 Obey those who govern people, because this is what God wants: He wants you to do good things in order to stop fools who do not know God from being able to ignorantly say that you have done evil things. 16 Obey those who govern people as people who are free to do so voluntarily, but do not try to use your status as free people to hide evil deeds. Instead, obey as those who serve God should. 17 Be respectful to everyone. Love all your fellow believers. Revere God. Be respectful to the king.

18 You household slaves who are believers, submit to your masters with a completely reverent attitude. Do this not only to those masters who act very kindly toward you but also to those who act unjustly toward you. 19 Submit to your masters, because this is something that God prefers—if someone endures hardships and suffers undeservedly because that person is aware of who God is and what he wants. 20 Submit to your masters, because there is certainly no honor for you if you endure when someone beats you because you have sinned. However, this is something that God favors: if you endure when you suffer even though you did what is good. 21 God favors this because he has called you to suffer while doing what is good. He has called you to this because the Messiah also suffered for your sake in order to be an example for you with the purpose that you would imitate what he did.

> 22 "He never sinned.
>
> And he never said anything to deceive people."
>
> 23 When people insulted him, he never insulted them in return.
>
> When he suffered, he never threatened those who caused him to suffer.
>
> Instead, he trusted God, who always judges rightly, to prove that he was innocent.
> 24 The Messiah himself was punished for our sins in his body when he died on the cross with the purpose that we would live rightly because we are no longer controlled by sin.

God has healed you because people wounded the Messiah. 25 God healed you because you were alienated from God like sheep that had become lost, but now God has brought you back to Jesus, who cares for you and watches over you as a shepherd cares for his sheep.

3 1 In a similar way, you women who are believers, submit to your husbands. Do this in order that you may persuade any husbands who do not believe the message about the Messiah to become believers without you saying anything to them. 2 They will believe in the Messiah because they see that you behave sincerely and act reverently toward them. 3 Do not make the outside of your bodies beautiful by having fancy hairstyles or by wearing gold jewelry or fine clothes. 4 Instead, make your unseen mind beautiful in a way that will never fade. I mean, have a humble and peaceful attitude. This is something that God values very much. 5 Do this because this is the way that the women who lived holy lives long ago made themselves beautiful. They trusted in God and submitted to their husbands. 6 Sarah, for example, obeyed her husband Abraham and called him her master. God will consider you to be her daughters if you do good deeds and are not afraid of anything terrible happening to you.

7 You men who are believers, in a similar way, dwell together with your wives in an understanding manner. Treat them as you would treat someone who is weaker than you are. Honor them as those who will also receive God's gracious gift with you, which is eternal life. Do this so that nothing will hinder you from praying.

8 To end this part of my letter, I say to all of you, have the same mindset among yourselves. Be sympathetic toward each other. Love each other as fellow believers. Act compassionately toward each other. Be humble. 9 When people do evil things to you or insult you, do not do the same to them. Instead, bless them, because that is what God has chosen you to do in order that he may bless you. 10 We know that this is true because, as David wrote,

> "As for those who truly want to enjoy good lives, > they must not say evil things or speak deceitful things.
> 11 They must also refuse to do evil, and do what is good instead.
> They must diligently strive to have peaceful relationships with other people.
> 12 They must do these things, because the Lord watches over righteous people.
> He listens and responds to the prayers of righteous people, > but he opposes people who do evil."

13 It is unlikely that anyone will harm you if you are eager to do what is good. 14 However, even if you suffer because you did what was right, God will bless you. "Do not be afraid of or troubled by the things that other people fear." 15 Instead, acknowledge in your minds that the Lord Messiah is holy. Always be ready to answer anyone who asks you to tell them about what you are confidently expecting God to do for you. 16 But answer them humbly and reverently, while not doing any wicked thing, in order that God may shame those who despise the good things you do as people united with the Messiah. God will shame them regarding the very things they are speaking falsely against you. 17 Do these things because, if God wants you to suffer, it is better for you to suffer because you did what is good than to suffer because you did what is evil. 18 This is true because the Messiah also suffered. He suffered one time for the sake of other people's sins. He was a righteous person who died for the benefit of unrighteous people. He died in order to enable you to be with God. Although people killed him, God's Spirit caused him to become alive again. 19 The Spirit also enabled him to go and announce God's victory to the evil spirits whom God had imprisoned. 20 Those evil spirits disobeyed God long ago, during the lifetime of Noah. When Noah was building a big boat, God waited patiently to see if people would stop doing what is evil. Only a few people were saved in that boat. Specifically, God brought only eight people safely through the waters of the flood. 21 That water is a symbol that represents the baptism which now saves you. This baptism does not wash dirt off of your bodies. Instead, it shows that we are asking God to assure us that he has forgiven our sins. This baptism saves you by means of God having caused Jesus the Messiah to become alive again. 22 After God caused every evil and powerful spirit to submit to him, the Messiah went to heaven, where he is at the place of highest honor next to God.

4 1 Therefore, because the Messiah physically suffered, prepare yourselves to suffer as Christians by thinking about suffering the way that Jesus thought about suffering. Do this because those who physically suffer are no longer involved in sin 2 in order that they would not do the things that sinful people want to do during the rest of their lives. Instead, they live to do the things that God wants them to do. 3 I say that to you because you have already used too much of your lifetime doing what the people who do not know God like to do. Like them, you committed sexually immoral and lustful acts, got drunk, participated in immoral parties and drinking parties, and worshiped idols, which God has forbidden. 4 Regarding those things, people who do not know God are surprised that you do not join with them anymore when they do these recklessly immoral things. As a result, they say bad things about you. 5 One day these people will have to admit to God everything that they have done. He is the one who will judge all people. 6 This is the reason why people preached the good news about Jesus to believers who are now dead: in order that those believers who, although people judged them according to human standards during their lifetimes, by means of the Holy Spirit now live forever according to God's standards. 7 All things on this earth will soon end. So think sensibly and clearly in order to pray well. 8 Most important of all, love each other sincerely, because if you love others, you will forgive them for many sins that they may commit against you. 9 Provide food and a place to sleep for fellow Christians who come to you, and do it cheerfully. 10 Serve your fellow believers with the gifts that God has given you. Manage well the various gifts that God has kindly given you. 11 Those who speak should speak as if they were speaking words that God has spoken. Those who serve others should serve them with the strength that God gives them. Do so in order to glorify God by doing everything that Jesus the Messiah enables you to do. I pray that everyone will see how glorious and powerful he is forever. May it be so!
12 Fellow believers whom I love, do not be surprised by the painful things you are experiencing. Those things are testing you as people test metal by putting it into a fire. Do not think that something unusual is happening to you. 13 Instead, rejoice to the degree that you are suffering the same kinds of things that the Messiah suffered. Rejoice when you suffer, in order that you may also be very glad when the Messiah returns and shows everyone how glorious he is. 14 If other people insult you because you believe in the Messiah, God has blessed you, because your suffering shows that the Spirit of God, the Spirit who reveals how great God is, dwells within you. 15 Make sure that you do not suffer because you murdered anyone or stole anything or did some other kind of evil thing or because you interfered in someone else's affairs. 16 But do not be ashamed if you suffer because you are a Christian. Instead, praise God that you have the name "Christian." 17 I say this because it is now time for God to begin judging people, and first he will judge those who belong to him. Since he will judge us believers first, think about what terrible things will finally happen to those who do not obey the good news that comes from him! 18 Solomon also wrote in the Scriptures,

> "If righteous people must suffer many difficult trials before going to heaven, > how much more will the ungodly and sinful people surely suffer!"

19 Therefore, those who are suffering because God wants them to suffer should trust God with their lives while continuing to do what is good. God is the one who created them, and he always does what he promises to do.

5 1 Now I, Peter, urge those among you who are elders who lead the assemblies of believers; I am also an elder. I personally witnessed the Messiah suffer, and I will share in his glorious nature that God will soon reveal. 2 You elders, take care of the believers with you as if you were shepherds who take care of their flocks of sheep. Take care of them not because you must do it, but because you really want to, as God desires. Do not do this in a greedy manner to get money for doing it, but do it enthusiastically. 3 Do not act like domineering bosses over the people whom God has assigned to you. Instead, be good examples to those believers by how you conduct your lives. 4 If you do those things, then when Jesus, who is like our ruling shepherd, appears, he will give each of you leaders a reward. That reward will be glorious and will last forever.

5 In a similar way, you young men, obey the elders who lead the assemblies of believers. Now all of you believers should act humbly toward each other because what Solomon wrote in the Scriptures is true: "God opposes proud people, but he acts kindly toward humble people."

6 Since that is true, humble yourselves before God, who has the power to save and to punish people, in order that he may honor you at the proper time. 7 Trust God to take care of everything that worries you because he cares about you.

8 Think clearly and alertly, because the devil is your enemy, and he is going around, looking for people to destroy. He is like a lion that roars as it searches for people to kill and eat. 9 Resist the devil by continuing to firmly trust in the Messiah and his message. Do this because you know that your fellow believers all over the world are suffering in similar ways. 10 But after you have suffered for a brief time, the God who acts kindly toward you in every way will himself restore what you have lost and will completely strengthen you in every way. God is the one who chose you to experience his glorious presence in heaven forever as you are joined to the Messiah. 11 I pray that he will rule powerfully forever. May it be so!

12 Silas has written this letter for me as I have dictated it to him. I consider him to be a faithful fellow believer. I have written this short letter to you in order to encourage you and to declare to you that what I have written is about the true and gracious message from God. Continue to firmly believe this message!

13 In this city that we call "Babylon," the believers, whom God has chosen to belong to him just like he chose you, send their regards to you. Mark, who is like a son to me, also sends his regards to you. 14 Affectionately greet each other with a kiss to show that you love each other. I pray that God will continue to make all you who are joined to the Messiah feel peaceful.

2 Peter

1 1 I, Simon Peter, serve Jesus the Messiah, and I am an apostle whom he appointed. I am writing this letter to you whom God has caused to believe in the Messiah just like he caused us apostles to believe in the Messiah. Jesus has done this by his righteous acts. Jesus the Messiah is our God, and he is the one who saves us. 2 I pray that God will increase his kind acts toward you and make you more peaceful because you know God and Jesus, who is our Lord.

3 God has given us everything that we need in order to live a life that honors him. He does this by his power as God. He does this by what we know about him. God is the one who chose us to be his people by his glorious and excellent character. 4 By his glorious and excellent character, God has promised that he will do priceless and great things for us. He has done this so that by believing in what he has promised, you will be able to act like God, and you will no longer suffer the moral corruption that is in the world through the desire to do sinful things.

5 Because God has done all that, do your best to not only believe in the Messiah, but also to do good things. And make sure that you not only do good things, but that you also learn more about God. 6 And make sure that you do not only learn more about God, but that you also control yourself in what you do and say. And make sure that you do not only control yourself in what you do and say, but that you also remain faithful to God in hardship. And make sure that you do not only remain faithful to God in hardship, but that you also honor him. 7 And make sure that you do not only honor God, but that you also show affection to each other as family members. And make sure that you do not only show affection to each other as family members, but that you also love others. 8 Do these things, because if you do all these things more and more, then they will make you productive with respect to your knowing our Lord Jesus the Messiah. 9 Do these things, because a person who does not do these things is not aware that these things are important. This person is like a blind person who cannot see what is around him, or like a nearsighted person who can only see things that are close to him. This person has even forgotten that God has forgiven him for the sinful things he did in the past. 10 Consequently, you fellow believers, make even more effort to make sure that God has chosen you to be his people. If you do these things I have just told you about, then you will absolutely never become separated from God. 11 This is true because, by your doing thus, God will wholeheartedly allow you to enter into the place where our Lord and Savior Jesus the Messiah will rule his people forever.

12 Consequently, because these things are so important, I am always prepared to keep on reminding you about these things. I will remind you even though you already know them and are firmly convinced of the true teaching that you now have. 13 Nevertheless, I consider it to be right for me to keep reminding you about these things as long as I am alive. 14 I want to remind you of these things, because I know that I shall die soon. I shall die just like our Lord Jesus the Messiah has made clear to me previously. 15 In addition, I will make every effort by writing these things down to cause you to keep on remembering these things after I have died.

16 I will do this because, when we apostles told you that our Lord Jesus the Messiah is coming back in power some day, we were not basing what we told you on stories that we had cleverly made up. On the contrary, we told you what we saw with our own eyes, the divinely majestic Jesus. 17 I can say we were eyewitnesses because we were there when God the Father honored him and glorified him, when Jesus heard a voice from the majestically glorious God. And the voice said, "This is my Son, whom I love very much. I am very pleased with him." 18 We ourselves also heard this voice of God that came from heaven when we were with Jesus on that sacred mountain. 19 And we have what the prophets wrote previously, which is absolutely reliable. Pay attention to what they wrote, because it is like a lamp that is shining in a dark place that helps people see where they are going. That light will shine until the day of the return of the Messiah dawns and Jesus, the star that appears before the morning, gives your minds greater understanding. 20 Above all, you should know that no prophet could interpret his prophecy by his own imagination. 21 This is true because no one ever prophesied a true prophecy according to what a human wanted. On the contrary, those who spoke prophecies from God did so by the Holy Spirit guiding them.

2 1 But people who falsely proclaimed messages from God were also amidst the Israelites. In the same way there will also be people who teach false messages amidst you. They will introduce opinions that will result in eternal condemnation. They will even reject their owner, Jesus, who redeemed them. As a result of this, God will soon condemn them for eternity. 2 And many people will do the same unrestrained immoral acts as these false teachers. Because of these false teachers, unbelievers will speak evil of Christianity. 3 And due to their greedy hearts, these false teachers will make a profit off of you by telling you lies. God condemned them a long time ago, and God will certainly destroy them.

4 This judgment is certain because God did not let the angels who acted sinfully remain unpunished. On the contrary, he threw them into hell where they are chained in darkness. God imprisoned these sinful angels there and is holding them there in order to judge them. 5 And God did not let the people who lived in the world long ago remain unpunished. However, he preserved eight people, including Noah, who was a righteous herald, when he destroyed by a flood the ungodly people who lived in the world at that time. 6 And God condemned the cities called Sodom and Gomorrah to be destroyed by burning them completely to ashes. This resulted in God making those cities an example of what will happen to people who dishonor God. 7 And God rescued Lot, who was a righteous man. Lot was greatly distressed because of the unrestrained immoral acts of the people who acted lawlessly in Sodom. 8 (When he lived with those wicked people in Sodom, that righteous man Lot distressed himself every day by what he saw and heard. He did so because of the things people did that were against God's law.) 9 Since these things are all true, then you can be sure that the Lord knows how to rescue people who honor him from being tried. And the Lord also knows how to keep those who do unrighteous deeds ready in order to punish them at the time when he judges. 10 And he will punish especially those who keep on doing what their sinful hearts want to do, which are things that make them displeasing to God. These people also scorn divine authority. How bold they are! They do whatever they wish! They are not even afraid to insult God's glorious angels. 11 But God's angels, even though they are much more powerful than these people, do not accuse glorious beings in an insulting manner in front of God! 12 However, these false teachers are like animals that cannot think rationally. According to the way they naturally behave, they were born so that others may capture and destroy them. They say bad things about things they do not even know. God will surely destroy them when it is time for their destruction. 13 These false teachers suffer harm as the proper punishment for their harmful deeds. They are pleased to party in an immoral manner even during the daytime. Like ugly stains on one's clothing, they are disgraceful to your gatherings! They even celebrate their deceptive deeds while eating a meal with you! 14 They constantly want to have immoral sexual relations with every woman they see. They cannot stop sinning. They lure spiritually weak people into sin. As athletes train for sports, these false teachers train themselves to be greedy. God has cursed them! 15 They refuse to live the way God wants them to. They are acting wickedly. They are imitating what Balaam, the son of Bosor, did long ago. He loved to receive money as payment for wicked deeds.

16 However, God rebuked him for his wicked deed against Israel. And even though donkeys do not speak, God used Balaam's donkey to speak to him with a human voice and stop his foolish action.

17 These false teachers are useless, like springs that do not give water. They are like clouds that the storm pushes away before they can give rain. God has reserved the darkness of hell for them. 18 This is true because they persuade people to sin who have recently become believers and stopped doing what wicked unbelievers do. These false teachers do this by speaking proud words that are not worth anything. They persuade these people to sin by doing whatever their sinful natures want to do. 19 They also do this by telling their listeners that they are free to do whatever they want while, at the same time, they themselves are controlled by their sinful desires that will destroy them. This is true because the thing that overpowers a person's will takes control of that person. 20 And if they have stopped doing the things that defile sinful human society by knowing the one who rules over us and saves us, Jesus the Messiah, but those defiling things began to control them again, then their situation is worse now than it was at first. 21 This is because it would have been better for them if they had never learned how to live in the way that pleases God than to learn this way and reject God's holy commands that the apostles taught them. 22 This is a true proverb that describes what has happened to these false teachers: "They are like dogs that return to eat their own vomit," and, "They are like pigs that have washed themselves and then roll again in the mud."

3 1 Fellow believers whom I love, this letter that I am now writing to you is the second letter that I have written to you. I have written both of these letters to you to remind you of the things that your sincere minds already know. 2 I have written these letters in order to remind you of the prophecies that the holy prophets spoke a long time ago. I also want you to remember what the one who rules over us and saves us has commanded you through the teaching of the apostles whom we sent to you.

3 It is important for you to understand that people who mock will come and mock the return of Jesus during the time shortly before Jesus returns. Those people will do whatever they want to do. 4 These mockers will say, “Jesus’ promise to return is not true! We know this because since Israel’s ancestors died, everything has remained the same. It has been the same way since God created everything!” 5 They will say this because they deliberately ignore that God caused the heavens to exist a long time ago by commanding it to be so, and he caused the earth to come out from water and up through water by commanding it to be so. 6 And God, by his command and by water, destroyed the world that existed at that time. He did so by flooding the earth with water. 7 However, God, by the same command, has set apart the heavens and the earth that exist now for fire. God is keeping them for the time when he will judge and destroy people who act wickedly. 8 Fellow believers whom I love, do not ignore this one truth: from God’s perspective a short period of time is no different from a long period of time! 9 The Lord is not acting slowly to fulfill his promise of Jesus’ return. Some people think that this is so. On the contrary, God is being patient with you, because he does not want any of you to be punished eternally. Rather, he wants everyone to repent. 10 In contrast to what those mockers say, the time when the Lord returns will come unexpectedly. At that time there will be a great roaring sound and the heavens will cease to exist. God will also destroy the basic elements of nature by fire. Then God will reveal the earth and everything that has been done in it.

11 Since God will destroy all these things I have just mentioned in the way I have described, you must certainly behave in a holy manner and do what pleases God. 12 Do these things while expecting and trying to speed up the time of Jesus’ return. On account of that day, God will destroy the heavens with fire and melt the basic elements of nature with heat. 13 Although all those events will happen, we are expecting the new heavens and new earth that God has promised to create. Everyone will be righteous in that new universe.

14 Because this is true, fellow believers whom I love, while you are waiting for these things to happen, do your best to make sure that Jesus will see that you are not living sinfully and that you are at peace with God. 15 And think about this: Our Lord Jesus is patient so that more people can be saved. Paul, a fellow believer whom we love, has also said this when he wrote to you. He wrote using the wisdom that God gave him. 16 In all the letters that Paul wrote, he also writes about these things that I have just mentioned. In his letters are also some teachings that are difficult to understand. People who lack knowledge and stability misinterpret those difficult teachings, as well as the rest of the scriptures. God will punish them as a result.
17 Because all these things are true, fellow believers whom I love, and because you already know about these things, keep yourselves from ceasing to live faithfully because you let the wrong teaching of those who live like there is no law deceive you into sinning. 18 Rather, live in such a manner that you experience more and more of the kind acts of the one who rules over us and saves us, Jesus the Messiah. And live in such a manner that you know more and more about him.

I pray that everyone will glorify Jesus both at this time and forever. May this truly be so!

1 John

1 [1] I, John, am writing to you about Jesus, the Word of God, the one who gives life. He existed before there was anything else. We apostles listened to him as he taught people. We saw him personally. We looked at him and touched him. So we can testify that he was a real human being. [2] Because he who always lives came here to the earth and we saw him, we are proclaiming him to you clearly. The one who has always existed, who had been with his Father in heaven, came here to us. [3] We want you to share life with us, and so we are proclaiming to you what we saw Jesus do and what we heard Jesus say. If you believe in him, you will share life, as we do, with God our Father and with his Son Jesus the Messiah. [4] I am writing to you about these things so that you will recognize that they are true, and that as a result we will be completely joyful together.

[5] The message that we heard from Jesus and are proclaiming to you is this: God always does what is right, and he never, ever does anything wrong. He is like a pure light in which there is no darkness at all. [6] If we say that we share life with God, but we live in an evil manner, we are lying. We are not living truthfully. It is as though we are living in the dark. [7] But if we live in a pure manner, as God is pure in every way, then we can share life with each other. This is like living in God's pure light. Then God forgives all of our sin and accepts us because his Son Jesus died for us. [8] If we say that we do not commit sin, we are fooling ourselves. We are refusing to believe the true things that God says about us. [9] But God always does what he says he will do, and what he does is always right. So if we admit to him that we have sinned and reject that sin, he will forgive us for our sins and he will free us from the guilt of everything that we have done wrong. [10] Because God says that everyone has sinned, if we say that we have not sinned, we are speaking as if God were a liar! We are rejecting what God has said about us!

2 [1] You are as dear to me as though you were my own children. Therefore, I am writing this to you to keep you from sinning. But if any of you does sin, remember that Jesus the Messiah, the righteous one, pleads with the Father and asks him to forgive us. 2 Jesus is the one who sacrificed his life for us so that God could forgive our sins. And this is true not just of our sins, but of all the sins that all people everywhere have committed!

3 When we obey what God commands us to do, then we can be sure that we truly know God. 4 If someone says, "I know God well," but that person does not obey what God has commanded, then he is a liar. He is not living according to God's true message. 5 But if someone obeys what God has commanded, that person loves God in every way. This is how we can be sure that we are living closely with God: 6 If anyone says that he is living closely with God, then he should conduct his life as Jesus did when he was here on earth.

7 Dear friends, I am not writing this to tell you to do something new. Instead, I am writing this to tell you to do something that you have known that you should do since you first believed in Jesus. This is part of the message that Jesus gave to us and that we have already told to you. 8 However, if we think about this in another way, I am telling you to do something new. It is new because the way that the Messiah lived was new, and the way that you are living is new. That is because you are ceasing to do evil, and you are doing good more and more. It is as though you have come out of a dark place and have begun to live in the light that is from God. 9 Someone might say that he is living in a good way, just as God wants him to do. That would be like living in light from God. But if he hates any of his fellow believers, then he is still living in a bad way, doing what God does not want, like a person who lives in darkness. 10 But if someone loves his fellow believers, then he is truly living well, like a person who is living in light from God. He will not have a reason to do anything evil as he would have if he hated a fellow believer. This is like a person in daylight who has no reason to trip over anything. 11 But anyone who hates a fellow believer is living in a completely wrong way. He does not understand how he should live, because the wrong things that he is doing are keeping him from understanding God's way. It is as though he is walking in darkness and cannot see where to go.

12 I am writing to you, whom I love as though you were my own children, because God has forgiven your sins because of what Jesus has done for you. 13 I am writing to you who have been believers longer than the others. I am writing to you because you are living closely with Jesus, the person who has always been alive. I am writing to you newer, but steadfast, believers because Satan, that evil being, has tried to tempt you to do wrong, but you have successfully resisted him. 14 I have written to you whom I love as though you were my own little children because you have a close relationship with God the Father. I have written to you who have been believers longer than the others because you have a close relationship with Jesus, the person who has always been alive. I have written to you newer, but steadfast, believers because you are spiritually strong. I have also written to you because you continue to obey what God commands and because you have successfully resisted Satan, that evil being, when he tried to tempt you to do wrong.

15 Do not desire to be like people who do not honor God. Do not desire the things that they want to have. If anyone desires to be like those people, he is proving that he does not love God the Father. 16 I say that such a person does not love God the Father because the way that ungodly people live is not the way that God our Father teaches us to live. They want to fulfill their physical desires. They want to get for themselves the things that they see. They boast about all of the things that they own. All of these things come from the selfish and ungodly way of thinking. 17 The people who do not honor God will disappear, along with all of the things that they desire. But the people who do what God wants them to do will live forever!

18 You who are as dear to me as though you were my own children, I want you to know that this is the time just before Jesus returns to earth. You have already heard that a person is coming who will strongly oppose the Messiah. In fact, many people like that, who are against the true Messiah, are already here. Because of this, we know that it is that time. 19 These people refused to remain in our congregations. However, they never really belonged with us in the first place. After all, if they had belonged with us, they would not have left us. But when they left us, then we clearly saw that none of them had actually joined with us. 20 But as for you, the Holy Messiah has given you his Spirit. As a result, you all know what is true. 21 I am not writing this letter to you because you do not know the true things that God has told us, but because you do know them. You also know enough to recognize and reject every lie that is not one of the true things that God has told us. 22 The worst liars are the ones who deny that Jesus is the Messiah. All who do that are against the Messiah. They are refusing to believe both in God the Father and in Jesus his Son. 23 Those who refuse to acknowledge that Jesus is God's Son are in no way joined with God the Father. But those who acknowledge that Jesus is God's Son are also joined with God the Father. 24 Here is what you must do, unlike those people who deny Jesus. You must continue to believe and live by the truth about Jesus the Messiah that you first heard. If you continue to believe and live by the truth about Jesus the Messiah that you first heard, then you will continue to share life with Jesus the Son and God the Father. 25 And what Jesus promised us is that God will enable us to live forever!

26 I am writing this letter to you to warn you about people who want to deceive you about Jesus. 27 Here is what you should do about those people who are trying to deceive you. God's Spirit, whom you received from Jesus, continues to live in you. So you do not need anyone else to be your teacher. God's Spirit is teaching you everything that you need to know. He always teaches the truth and never says anything that is false. So continue to live in the way that he has taught you and continue to live closely with Jesus.

28 Now, my dear ones, I urge you to continue to live closely with Jesus. That way, when he comes back again, we will be confident that he will accept us. If we do that, we will not be ashamed to stand before him when he returns. 29 You know that God always does what is right. Because of that, you also know that all those who continue doing what is right are the ones who have become God's spiritual children.

3 1 Think about how much God our Father loves us! He says that we are his children. In a spiritual sense, this is completely true. That is why people who are unbelievers do not understand us. It is because they have not understood who God is, and we are like him just as children are like their parents. 2 Dear friends, at present we are God's spiritual children. He has not yet shown us what we will be in the future. However, we know that when Jesus comes back again, we will become like him because we will see him as he truly is. 3 So all those who confidently expect to see Jesus as he truly is make themselves free from sin because Jesus himself is free from sin. 4 But everyone who continues to sin is refusing to obey God's laws, because that is what sinning is; it is refusing to obey God's laws. 5 You know that Jesus came in order to make us free from our sins. You know also that he himself never sinned. 6 Those who share life with Jesus are the ones who do not continue sinning. But all those who continue to sin are the ones who have not understood who Jesus is and they do not really know him. 7 So I urge you who are very dear to me not to let anyone deceive you by telling you that it is all right to sin. If you continue doing what is right, that will please God, just as Jesus always does what pleases God. 8 But anyone who continues to sin is behaving like the devil, because the devil has always been sinning, ever since the world began. The very reason that God's Son became a human being was to undo this work of the devil that kept people continually sinning.

9 People do not continue sinning if they have become spiritual children of God because God has made them to be like him. They cannot continually sin, because they are God's spiritual children. 10 People who belong to God are clearly different from people who belong to the devil. Those who do not do what is right do not belong to God. Those who do not love their fellow believers also do not belong to God.

11 You should recognize this because the message that you heard when you first believed in Jesus is that we should love each other. 12 We should not hate others as Adam's son Cain did. He belonged to Satan, that evil being. Cain murdered his younger brother Abel. I will tell you why he did that. It was because Cain behaved in an evil way, and he hated his younger brother because his younger brother behaved in the right way. 13 Therefore, my fellow believers, you should not be amazed when unbelievers hate you. 14 We love our fellow believers, and this assures us that God has made us spiritually alive. But if someone does not love other believers, then that person is still spiritually dead. 15 Anyone who hates one of his fellow believers is doing something just as bad as murdering him. And you know that someone who murders another person is not living in the new way that God enables us to live. 16 Jesus taught us how to truly love each other when he willingly died for us. For our part, we should also be willing to do anything for our fellow believers, even die for them. 17 Many of us have the things that are necessary for life in this world. But suppose that we become aware that a fellow believer does not have what he needs. Suppose also that we refuse to provide for him. Then we are not loving him the way that God taught us to love people. 18 You who are as dear to me as though you were my own children, let us not merely say that we love each other. Let us love each other genuinely by helping each other.

19-20 By doing that, we can know that we belong to God, who is the source of everything that is true. When we are in God's presence, we may feel that we do not belong to God because of our sins. When that happens, we can reassure ourselves that we truly do belong to him. This is because God is more trustworthy than our feelings and he knows everything about us, including that we have trusted in him. 21 Dear friends, when we feel that God does not condemn us for having sinned, then we can pray confidently to God. 22 We find that when we pray confidently to God and ask for something, he gives it to us. We pray confidently like this because as people who belong to him, we do what he commands us to do, and we do what pleases him. 23 I will tell you what God commands us to do. We must trust in his Son, Jesus the Messiah. We must also love each other just as Jesus commanded us to do. 24 The people who do what God commands share life with God, and God shares life with them. I will tell you how we can be sure that God is sharing life with us. We can be sure of that because we have God's Spirit, whom he gave to us.

4 1 Dear friends, there are many people who have a false message, and they are going around teaching it to others. So do not trust every teacher. Instead, think carefully about what each teacher says and decide whether it came from God's Spirit or from a different spirit. 2 I will tell you how to know if someone is teaching truth that comes from the Spirit of God or if he is not. Those who affirm that Jesus the Messiah came from God and became a human like us are teaching a message that is from God. 3 But those who do not affirm that Jesus became a real human being are not teaching a message from God. They are teachers who oppose the Messiah. You have heard that people like that will be coming among us. Even now they are already here.

4 As for you who are as dear to me as though you were my own children, you belong to God, and you have rejected what those people teach. You have done this because God, who enables you to do what he wants, is more powerful than the devil, who motivates everyone who does not honor God. 5 As for those people who are teaching what is false, they think and live in ways that do not honor God. That is why what they say also does not honor God, and that is why other people who do not honor God believe what they say. 6 As for us, God has sent us. Whoever truly knows God believes and obeys what we teach. Whoever does not belong to God does not believe or obey what we teach. By observing who believes us and who does not, we are able to distinguish between people who teach true messages from God's Spirit and people who teach false messages that are from the devil.

7 Dear friends, we must love each other. This is what God wants for us, and it is because he loves us that we can love others. Those who love their fellow believers have become God's spiritual children and know God well. 8 God's character is to love people. So whoever does not love others does not truly know God. 9 I will tell you how God has shown us that he loves us. He sent his only Son to this earth so that his Son would enable us to live eternally because of what he did for us. 10 I will tell you what loving someone really means. Our efforts to love God do not define what it means to love someone. No, God himself did that by loving us so much that he sent his Son to offer himself as a sacrifice in our place. When Jesus did that, God could forgive the sins of people who trust in Jesus instead of punishing them. 11 Dear friends, since God loves us like that, we certainly ought to love each other!

12 No one has ever seen God. Nevertheless, when we love each other, we can see that God is working in us and that he is the one who enables us to love others, just as he intended for us to do. 13 This is how we can be sure that we are sharing life with God and that God is sharing life with us: He has given us his own Spirit. 14 We apostles have seen God's Son Jesus on earth, and we solemnly tell others that the Father sent him to save the people in the world from suffering eternally for their sins. 15 So God continues to share life with those who say the truth about Jesus. They say, "Jesus is the Son of God." And so they continue to share life with God. 16 We have experienced how God loves us and we believe that he loves us. Because God's nature is to love people, those who continue to love others share life with God, and God shares life with them. 17 When we continue to share life with God, then God has achieved his purpose in loving us. As a result, when the time comes for God to judge us, we will be confident that he will not condemn us. This is because we are loving others as we live in this world just as Jesus is. 18 We will not be afraid of God if we truly love him, because those who love God completely cannot be afraid of him. We would be afraid only if we thought that he would punish us. So those who are afraid of God have not completely understood how much he loves them, and they are not loving God completely. 19 We love God and others because God loved us first. 20 People are lying if they say that they love God but they also hate a fellow believer. After all, we can see our fellow believers. But we have not seen God. So those who do not love one of their fellow believers certainly cannot be loving God, because it is much easier to love someone whom you can see than someone whom you cannot see. 21 Keep in mind that this is what God has commanded us: If we love him, we must also love our fellow believers.

5 1 All those who believe that Jesus is the Messiah are spiritually children of God. Now, whoever loves anyone who is a father certainly loves his child also. So if we believe in Jesus, then we love God, and therefore we should also love his spiritual children, our fellow believers.
2 We can be sure that we do truly love God's spiritual children when we love God and do what he commands us to do. 3 I am saying this because what loving God really means is that we do what he commands us to do. And it is not difficult to do what he commands us to do. 4 Here is the reason why it is not difficult for us to do what God commands. All of us who have become God's spiritual children have been able to refuse to do what unbelievers want us to do. There is one reason why we are stronger than everything that is against God. It is because we trust in Jesus. 5 I will tell you who is stronger than everything that is against God: It is anyone who believes that Jesus is the Son of God.

6 Jesus the Messiah is the one who came to earth from God, experiencing both the water of his baptism and the blood of his death on the cross. God showed that he had truly sent Jesus not only when John baptized Jesus in water, but also when Jesus' blood flowed from his body when he died. And God's Spirit declares truthfully that Jesus the Messiah did these things, because the Spirit is completely truthful. 7 So there are three ways by which we know that Jesus is the Messiah who came from God. 8 Those three ways are: what God's Spirit tells us, what happened when John baptized Jesus in water, and what happened when Jesus' blood flowed from his body when he died on the cross. These three things all tell us the same thing, that Jesus came from God. 9 We rely on what people tell us when we have to decide about something. But we can certainly rely much more on what God tells us. So let me tell you what God has told us about who his Son is. 10 First, however, let me say that those who trust in the Son of God already know that what God says about him is true. But those who do not believe what God says are calling him a liar because they have refused to believe what God has testified about his Son. 11 Now this is what God has told us about who his Son is: "I gave you eternal life, and my Son is the one who makes this life possible." 12 Those who share life with God's Son Jesus have begun to live forever with God. Those who do not share life with God's Son have not begun to live forever.

13 Because I want you to know that you will live forever, I have written this letter to you. This is for you who believe that Jesus is the Son of God. 14 I also want you to know that we can be very confident that God wants to do what we ask of him when we pray for what he desires. 15 Since we know that God wants to give us whatever we ask of him, if it is what he desires, then we also know that God is already giving us what we ask of him.

16 For example, suppose someone sees one of his fellow believers sinning in a way that would not separate him from God eternally. Then he should ask God to restore the one who is sinning. If he does that, then God will bring that person back into spiritual life with himself. However, I am saying this only about people who are sinning in a way that would not separate them from God eternally. There is sin that causes people to separate from God eternally. I am not saying that you should pray for people who are sinning in that way. 17 Every wrong thing that people do is a sin against God, but there are some sins that will not separate a person from God eternally. 18 We know that everyone who has become God's spiritual son or daughter does not continually sin. Instead, those who have God as their spiritual Father are careful to keep themselves from sinning so that Satan, that evil being, does not harm them spiritually.
19 We know that we belong to God. We also know that Satan, that evil being, is controlling all the people who are unbelievers. 20 We also know that the Son of God has come among us and has made it possible for us to understand what is true. He did this so that we can truly know the genuine God. And we are sharing life with the genuine God, that is, with his Son, Jesus the Messiah. Jesus is truly God, and he is the one who gives us this new, eternal life.

21 I say this to you who are as dear to me as though you were my own children: "Be careful that you never give yourselves to anything that is a false god."

2 John

1 1 I am John, the elder. I am writing this letter to you, the congregation of people that God has chosen to belong to him. I sincerely love all of you believers. Not only do I myself love you, but all those who know and accept the true message that Jesus taught also love you. 2 We love you because we have all accepted God's true message. This true message has become a part of us and will be with us forever. 3 God the Father and Jesus the Messiah, the Father's Son, will continue to act kindly and mercifully toward us and will make us peaceful. They will do this because they are truthful and they love us.

4 I have learned that some of the believers from your congregation are living according to the true message that God has taught us. That made me very happy. This is just what our Father commanded us to do.

5 And now, dear congregation, I ask you to do what God commanded: that we should love each other. I am not writing this to you as a new thing that God has commanded us to do. Instead, we have known this command to love each other from when we first believed in the Messiah. 6 This is what it means to love God and each other. We should obey what God commands us to do. This is what God commands you, to love each other, so you need to do it. You have heard this from when you first believed in the Messiah.

7 I say this because there are many people in this world who travel around, deceiving people. These deceptive people refuse to say that Jesus the Messiah was a man with a human body. This teaching comes from the original deceiver, the one who opposes the Messiah. 8 Be careful so that you do not let those teachers deceive you! If you let them deceive you, you will lose everything that we have worked for. So be careful to make sure that you receive the complete benefit! 9 Those who do not continue to believe and teach the things that the Messiah taught, but instead believe and teach other things, do not belong to God. But those who continue to believe and teach what the Messiah taught do belong to both God, our Father, and to Jesus, his Son. 10 So when any teacher comes to you who does not teach that the Messiah came as a man with a real body, do not welcome him into your homes! Do not even greet him or wish him well in any way, so that you do not encourage him. 11 If you greet these people respectfully, you are helping them to do the evil things that they do.

12 I have much more that I want to say to you. But I have decided not to write them to you in a letter. Instead, I hope to be with you soon and to talk with you personally. Then we will be completely joyful together. 13 Your fellow believers in the congregation here, whom God has also chosen, greet you.

3 John

1 1 From John the Church Leader. To Gaius, my dear friend, whom I truly love. 2 Dear friend, I am asking God to make everything go well for you and to keep you healthy physically, just as you are healthy in respect to God. 3 I know that you are healthy in respect to God because some fellow believers came here and told me about your truthful way of living. They said that you live according to the true message about Jesus. That makes me very happy. 4 This is what makes me the very happiest—when someone tells me that the people whom I have helped to follow Jesus are living according to the true message from God! 5 Dear friend, you are serving Jesus loyally whenever you do things to help fellow believers, even those whom you do not know. 6-7 Some of them have reported before the congregation here how you have shown that you love them. Such people are traveling in order to be obedient to Jesus and they have decided to allow only fellow believers to help them as they travel. Therefore it is good that you give such people what they need for traveling in a generous way that honors God. 8 In fact, all of us who believe in Jesus should give these people whatever they need. Then it will be as though we are working alongside them as they help others to know God's true message.

9 I wrote a letter to your group of believers to tell them to help those other believers. However, Diotrephes, who wants to dominate your group, refuses to do this. 10 So when I arrive there I will publicly tell everyone what he does: He says bad things about us that are not true. In addition to doing that, he also refuses to welcome the believers who are traveling in order to do God's work. He even prevents those who do want to welcome them and forces them to leave the group of believers!

11 Dear friend, do not copy a bad example like that. Instead, do the good things that you see good people doing. Remember that people who do good deeds truly belong to God. But anyone who keeps doing what is bad does not know God.

12 People widely praise Demetrius as a good person. The way that he lives according to God's true message also makes it clear that he is a good person. We also confirm that he is a good person, and you know that what we say is true.

13 There are many more things about which I could write to you. But I do not want to write to you about them in a letter. 14 Instead, I hope to come and see you soon. Then we will talk directly with one another. 15 I pray that God will help you live peacefully. The believers here greet you. Please greet for us each of the believers there individually.

Jude

1 1 I, Jude, serve Jesus the Messiah, and I am a brother of James. I am writing to you whom God has called, to you whom God the Father loves, to you whom Jesus the Messiah is keeping for himself. 2 I pray that God will increase his merciful acts toward you and make you more peaceful and make you experience more of his love.

3 Fellow believers whom I love, I tried my best to write a letter to you about how God has saved all of us who believe. However, I needed to write this letter instead in order to urge you to defend the true things that we believe. These are things that God has given for all time to all those whom he has made holy. 4 I am urging you to do this because some men have crept stealthily into your meetings. They are men whom God has chosen to condemn a long time ago. They do ungodly things. They think that our God permits people to be sexually immoral because he is kind. They also oppose what is true about Jesus the Messiah, who alone owns us and rules over us.

5 Although you previously knew all these things, I desire to remind you of them. Remember that after Jesus rescued the people of Israel from the country of Egypt, he destroyed those people among them who did not trust him. 6 Also, some angels did not continue to remain in their proper places where they had authority but abandoned them. Because they did this God has imprisoned them forever in darkness in hell. God did this in order to judge them on the important day when he judges everything. 7 The same is true of the people who lived in the cities of Sodom and Gomorrah and the cities near them. They acted in a sexually immoral way in the same way as those angels did. They participated in all kinds of improper sexual acts. By causing these angels and people to suffer for eternity in the fire of hell, God is making them an example of those who reject him. 8 Similarly, these false teachers are dreamers who not only make their own bodies dirty by living immorally, but also reject the Lord's commands. They even insult God's glorious angels.

9 Even the archangel Michael was not so bold as to speak slanderous accusations against Satan when he argued with him concerning the dead body of Moses. Instead, he merely said,

“May the Lord reprove you!” 10 By contrast, these false teachers speak evil words about spiritual things that they do not understand. They are just like animals that cannot think rationally. The things that they are naturally able to understand are destroying them.

11 How sad it is for them! They act like Cain, who murdered his brother. They have dedicated themselves to committing the same sin that Balaam committed in order to get money. God will certainly destroy them like he destroyed Korah and those who rebelled against Moses with him. 12 These people are shamelessly eating with you. At your fellowship meals they are like rocks hidden under the water that ships crash against. They only take care of themselves. They are useless, like clouds that the wind carries away before they can give rain. They are useless, like trees that do not bear fruit at harvest time. They are like trees that will die twice because God will uproot them. 13 They are uncontrollable, like the sea’s thrashing waves. They display their disgraceful acts just like the waves bring up foam. They are like stars that do not stay where they should in the sky. God is reserving the dark gloom of hell for them forever.

14 Even Enoch, the seventh person in the line of people who descended from Adam, spoke about these false teachers when he said: “Listen carefully to this: The Lord will certainly come with a countless number of his holy angels. 15 They will come to judge everyone and rebuke everyone for all their ungodly deeds that they have done in ungodly ways, and for all the harsh insults that these people, who sin and dishonor God, spoke against Jesus.” 16 These false teachers grumble to themselves and complain to others. They live according to their sinful desires and brag about themselves. They flatter people in order to get what they want from them.

17 But you fellow believers whom I love, remember what the apostles of our Lord Jesus the Messiah said long ago. 18 Remember that they told you, “In the last days before Jesus returns, there will be people who mock the true things that God has told us. They will live according to their own sinful desires that dishonor God.” 19 These mockers are the people who are making believers angry with each other. They live according to their natural instincts. The Holy Spirit does not dwell within them.

20 However, you fellow believers whom I love, by increasing your trust in God and by praying with the Holy Spirit’s help, 21 keep living in a way that enables you to experience

God's love. Do this while expecting the merciful return of our Lord Jesus the Messiah, which will result in living eternally with him.

22 And be merciful to those who are confused about what they should believe. 23 But rescue other people urgently, as if you are pulling them out of the fire of hell. And be merciful to some other people, but be cautious with them, as if just touching their clothing could make you sinful.

24 God is able to prevent you from returning to a sinful life. He is also able to take you without sin into his glorious presence. You will stand there with great joy. 25 There is only one God. He has saved us as a result of what our Lord Jesus the Messiah did for us. I pray that everyone will recognize that God is glorious, majestic, powerful, and rules with great authority. He was like that before time began. He is like that today, and he will remain like that forever! May it truly be so!

Revelation

1 1 This book is about things that God revealed to Jesus the Messiah. These things are just about to happen. God revealed them to Jesus so that he could tell the people who believe in him about them. Jesus shared these things by sending his angel to show them to me, John, a man who serves him faithfully. 2 I, John, am reporting to you everything that I saw concerning this message from God that Jesus the Messiah revealed to me. 3 How happy is the person who reads this book of prophecy for others to hear, and how happy are all who hear it and obey what this prophecy says, because these events will happen soon. 4 I, John, am writing this letter to you seven groups of believers in the province of Asia. May God continue to be kind to you and make you peaceful. God exists, he has always existed, and he will come and judge everyone in the future. May the seven spirits who are in front of the throne of God also continue to be kind to you and make you peaceful. 5 May Jesus the Messiah also continue to be kind to you and make you peaceful. He has reliably told us the message from God. He is the first one whom God caused to become alive again after he had died. He is the one who rules the kings of the world. Because he loves us, he shed his blood for us when he died on the cross, and as a result, God has forgiven our sins. 6 Jesus is the one who has caused us to become people over whose lives God rules. He has also made us priests who serve God, who is the Father of Jesus. May people glorify Jesus and acknowledge him as their ruler throughout eternity. May it be so! 7 Pay attention! Jesus is going to come back from heaven through the sky. Everyone will see him, including those who killed him by nailing him to a cross. When they see him coming, every people group in the world will grieve in sorrow for their sins. May it be just like that! 8 The Lord God says: "I am the one who began all things. I am the one who will cause all things to come to an end. I am the one who exists, who has always existed, and who will come and judge everyone in the future. I am the one who rules over everything and everyone." 9 I, John, believe in Jesus as you do. Like you, I am patiently enduring the troubles that everyone experiences whose life Jesus rules. The Roman government had put me in exile on the island of Patmos because I was telling people God's message about who Jesus is. 10 It was a Sunday, the day on which believers gather to worship because God made Jesus alive again on that day. The Holy Spirit inspired me so that I could see and hear things in a vision. I heard someone speaking behind me. His voice was as loud as the blast of a horn. 11 The person speaking said to me, "Write what you see on a scroll. Send what you have written to seven groups of believers. Send it to the believers in the cities of Ephesus, Smyrna, Pergamum, Thyatira, Sardis, Philadelphia, and Laodicea." 12 When I heard this voice, I turned my head to see who was speaking to me. When I turned, I saw seven golden lamp holders. 13 In the midst of the lamp holders I saw someone who looked like a human being. He wore a robe that reached down to his feet. He also wore a band of golden fabric across his chest. 14 The hair on his head was gleaming like white wool or like white snow. His eyes were bright like a fiery flame. 15 His feet shone like bronze that the heat of a furnace had refined. When he spoke, his resonant voice was like the noise of a great river of rushing water. 16 The one who looked like a human was holding seven stars in his right hand. A sword with two sharp edges was extending from his mouth. His face shone as brightly as the sun shines during the middle of the day. 17 When I saw him, I bowed down in front of him. I was so overcome that I could not move. But he put his right hand on me and said to me, "Do not be afraid! I am the one who began all things, and I am the one who will cause all things to end. 18 I have been alive forever. When I came to earth, I died, but indeed I am now alive again for all eternity. I have the power to make anyone who has died become alive again. 19 Therefore, write down this vision that you are seeing of me. I will reveal the truth to you about what is happening now and about what will happen in the future. I want you to write down those things as well. 20 I will explain the symbolic meaning of the seven stars that you saw in my right hand and of the seven golden lamp holders. The seven stars represent the angels of the seven groups of believers. The seven lamp holders represent the seven groups of believers.

2 1 Write this message to the angel of the group of believers in the city of Ephesus: 'I am the one who holds the seven stars in his right hand and who walks among the seven golden lamp holders. This is what I say to you: 2 "I am aware of all that you have done. I am aware of how hard you have worked for me. I am aware of how patiently you have endured difficult times. I am also aware that you do not accept wicked people. When people falsely claim to be genuine leaders, you prove that they are lying. 3 I am aware of how patiently you have endured. I am also aware that you have suffered for my sake. I am also aware that you have not abandoned your faith in me even though you have suffered. 4 Nevertheless, I must criticize you about something: You no longer love me as you did when you first believed in me. 5 Therefore, remember how you used to love me. Love me again the way you did at first. Now if you do not love me again in that way, I will judge you and I will not allow you to continue being a group of believers. 6 However, I do praise you for something that you are doing well. You refuse to accept what the disciples of Nicolaus are doing. Those disciples eat food that people have sacrificed to idols and they commit sexual sins. I myself completely reject what they are doing. 7 Everyone who is spiritually discerning should pay attention to what the Holy Spirit is saying to the groups of believers. I will permit anyone who is victorious to eat fruit from the tree that gives life. That tree is in the garden of God.”’ 8 Next, write this message to the angel of the group of believers in the city of Smyrna: ‘I am the one who began all things and who will cause all things to end. I am also the one who died and became alive again. This is what I say to you: 9 “I am aware that people have persecuted you. I am aware that you are poor, although you have everything you need spiritually. I am aware that people are insulting you. Those people claim to be Jews, but they are not acting as if they truly belong to God. When they gather together, they help the devil instead of serving God. 10 Those people are going to make you suffer. Do not be afraid, but watch out! The devil will soon lead them to put some of you in jail. The devil wants to show that you will abandon your faith in me if you suffer. You will have to suffer for ten days. But remain loyal to me even if you have to die. If you do, I will give you everlasting life as a reward. 11 Everyone who is spiritually discerning should pay attention to what the Holy Spirit is saying to the groups of believers. Whoever is victorious will never die a second time.”’ 12 Next, write this message to the angel of the group of believers in the city of Pergamum: ‘I am the one who has a sword with two sharp edges. This is what I say to you: 13 “I am aware of where you live. It is a place where Satan controls people. I am also aware that you are very loyal to me. You did not abandon your faith in me even when people attacked your fellow believer Antipas. He told others about me, and he remained loyal to me. People killed him right in front of you, because Satan has such an influence in your city. 14 Nevertheless, I must criticize you about a few things. Some people in your group firmly believe that they should do what the ancient prophet Balaam taught. It was Balaam who showed Balak, the king of Moab, how to tempt the people of Israel to sin. Balak led the Israelites to eat meat that people had sacrificed to idols. Balak also led the Israelites to commit sexual sins. 15 Just as Balak followed Balaam’s advice, some people in your group firmly believe that they may similarly do what the disciples of Nicolaus teach. They eat food that people have sacrificed to idols and they commit sexual sins. 16 But what the disciples of Nicolaus teach is wrong. So everyone in your group must stop doing those things! Now if some of you do not stop, I will immediately judge those people. I will pronounce a sentence of judgment against them and punish them. 17 Everyone who is spiritually discerning should pay attention to what the Holy Spirit is saying to the groups of believers. To the one who is victorious I will award some special bread that I have hidden for him. I will also give him a white pebble upon which I have written a new name for him. No one will know what this name is except the one to whom I give it."' 18 Next, write this message to the angel of the group of believers in the city of Thyatira: 'I am the Son of God, whose eyes shine like a fiery flame and whose feet shine like bronze. This is what I say to you: 19 "I am aware of all that you are doing. I am aware that you love one another because you love me. I am aware that you are very loyal to me. I am aware of how you are serving me. I am aware that you are enduring patiently. Finally, I am aware that you are now doing more than you did when you first believed in me.

20 Nevertheless, I must criticize you about something. You tolerate a woman in your assembly who is like that wicked queen in the Old Testament whose name was Jezebel. She claims falsely that she teaches the truth from God. But in fact, by what she teaches, she is misleading people who believe in me. She is teaching them to commit sexual sins and to eat meat that other people have sacrificed to idols. 21 Although I have allowed her sufficient time to stop teaching these things, she refuses to stop. She continues to act immorally. 22 Pay attention! I am going to punish her with a terrible sickness. I will also cause those who act immorally as she does to suffer greatly if they do not stop doing what she does 23 And as a judgment against her, I will kill the children she has had as a result of her sexual immorality. Then all the groups of believers will recognize that I examine what everyone thinks and desires. I will punish or reward each one of you as you deserve. 24 But the rest of you believers in the city of Thyatira have not obeyed this woman's teachings. You have not taken part in what she calls the secret practices that Satan taught her. I have something to say to you as well. I am going to ask you to do just one thing. 25 Just continue to obey the true teaching that you have received until I return.

26 To the one who is victorious, who continues to do what I command until he dies, I will give power to rule the people groups on earth. 27 Those to whom I give this authority will rule the people groups with irresistible power. They will destroy evildoers as completely as if they were smashing clay pots. 28 They will rule so powerfully because I will share with them the authority that I myself have received from God my Father. I will also give them the assurance that God is beginning a wonderful new era. [29] Everyone who is spiritually discerning should pay attention to what the Holy Spirit is saying to the groups of believers.”’

3 [1] Write this message to the angel of the group of believers in the city of Sardis: ‘I am the one who has the seven spirits of God and the seven stars. I have these things to say to you: “I am aware of what you are doing. You have a reputation for being spiritually vigorous. However, you are not really acting out of zeal for me. [2] Be careful! You are at risk of losing your devotion for me completely. Renew the devotion that you still have left. You have not yet done all that God knows you should have done. [3] So remember how eagerly you accepted God’s instruction when you heard it. Be sorry for disobeying and start obeying again. If you are not careful to obey me, I will judge you when you are not expecting it. You will not know at what time I am going to punish you. [4] Nevertheless, there are a few believers there in the city of Sardis who have not been doing what is wrong. They will live with me forever and be pure in every way. This is what they deserve. [5] In this way I will completely purify the one who is victorious. I will make sure that his name always remains in the Book of Life. I will tell God my Father and his angels that I know him personally. [6] Everyone who is spiritually discerning should pay attention to what the Holy Spirit is saying to the groups of believers.”’ [7] Write this message to the angel of the group of believers in the city of Philadelphia: ‘I am the one who always does what is right. I am the one who always says what is true. Just as King David had authority to allow people to enter the ancient city of Jerusalem, so I have the authority to allow people to enter heaven. If I create an opportunity for someone, then no one can deny him that opportunity. If I deny an opportunity to someone, then no one can give him that opportunity. I have these things to say to you: [8] “I know what you are doing. I know that although you are weak, you have obeyed my commands You have acknowledged that you believe in me. Be aware that I am giving you an opportunity that no one will be able to deny to you. [9] Pay attention! Some people are denying that you belong to me. Those people claim to be Jews, but they are not acting the way people do who truly belong to God. When they gather together, they help the devil instead of serving God. Pay attention! I will make those people recognize that I love you. They will come and honor you greatly when they recognize this. [10] You obeyed me when I commanded you to endure suffering patiently. And so I will keep you safe during the time of trouble that all of humanity will soon experience. How people everywhere respond to this trouble will show what they are really like. [11] I am coming soon.

So continue to believe in me. Do not let anyone cause you to lose the reward that God wants to give you. 12 I will make the one who is victorious secure, like a pillar in the temple of my God. He will remain in God's temple forever. I will write my God's name on him. I will also write on him the name of the city of my God. That city is the New Jerusalem. It will come down out of heaven from my God. I will also write my new name on the one who is victorious. 13 Everyone who is spiritually discerning should pay attention to what the Holy Spirit is saying to the groups of believers.'" 14 Write this message to the angel of the group of believers in the city of Laodicea: 'I am the one who confirms all of God's promises. I am the one who testifies about God with complete reliability. I am the ruler over all of God's creation. I have these things to say to you: 15 "I am aware of what you are doing. You have not abandoned your faith, but you do not love me very much. I would rather have you commit yourselves for me or even against me! 16 But you are just mediocre. You do not love me very much, but you still claim that you believe in me. That is disgusting, and because of it, I am going to reject you. 17 You keep bragging about how very rich you are. You do not realize that you are actually unhappy. You need someone to pity you. You are actually poor, blind, and lacking clothes. 18 I advise you to get everything from me that you need, as if you were buying pure gold from me that would make you truly rich. Let me make you righteous, as if you were buying white garments from me so that you could be wearing clothes instead of being shamefully naked. Let me help you to understand the truth, as if you were buying eye salve from me to put on your sick eyes so that you could see. 19 I carefully discipline everyone I love. So sincerely change your behavior. 20 Pay attention! I am urging each one of you to love me genuinely, as if I were standing at the door of your house and knocking to get you to open it. If anyone responds to me by loving me, I will become his dear friend. It will be as if he heard me calling from his door and he opened it and I came into his house and we ate a meal together. 21 I have been victorious and now rule with my Father. In the same way, I will permit everyone who is victorious to rule with me. 22 Everyone who is spiritually discerning should pay attention to what the Holy Spirit is saying to the groups of believers.'"'"

4 1 After these things, I, John, saw something remarkable: a door open in heaven! The one who had spoken to me previously, whose voice had been like a loud trumpet, spoke to me again. He said, "Come up here! I will show you events that must happen later." 2 At once the Holy Spirit inspired me so that I could see and hear things in a vision. I saw something remarkable: A throne was there in heaven and someone was sitting on that throne. [3] The ruler who sat on the throne shone like a bright red jasper gem and like an orange carnelian gem. Around the throne a rainbow was shining like a brilliant green emerald gem. [4] Around the throne there were 24 other thrones. On those thrones 24 elders were sitting. They were wearing pure white garments and they had golden crowns on their heads. [5] Flashes of lightning and peals of thunder came out from the throne. In front of the throne, seven torches were burning. These torches represented the seven spirits of God. [6] In front of the throne there was also something that looked like a sea made of glass. It was clear like crystal. A living creature stood on each of the four sides of the throne. Eyes covered each creature, all around its body. [7] The first living creature resembled a lion. The second living creature resembled a bull. The third living creature had a face like that of a human being. The fourth living creature resembled a flying eagle. [8] Each of the four living creatures had six wings. Eyes completely covered these living creatures. All the time, without stopping, they say: "Holy, holy, holy is the Lord God who rules over everything and everyone. He is the one who has always existed, who exists now, and who will come and judge everyone in the future." [9-10] The living beings repeatedly praise, honor, and thank God, who sits upon the throne and who lives forever. When they do, the 24 elders also kneel before God at his throne. They bow down to God, who lives forever. They place their crowns in front of his throne and they say, [11] "God our Lord, you deserve to have all creatures glorify you and honor you and acknowledge how powerful you are. You deserve this because you created everything. Yes, everything exists just as you determined to create it."

5 [1] Then I saw that the person who was sitting on the throne was holding a scroll in his right hand. He had written words on both sides of the scroll. But he had then sealed the scroll shut with seven pieces of wax, so no one could read what he had written. [2] I saw a powerful angel who was asking in a loud voice: "Who is the person who qualifies to break open the pieces of wax on the scroll and then unroll the scroll and read what it says?" [3] Yet no heavenly being, no person on the earth, and no one in the abode of the dead was sufficiently worthy to open the scroll and read it. [4] When I saw that no one anywhere was sufficiently worthy to open the scroll and read it, I wept bitterly. I wept because I knew that what God had written was important, but I thought that no one would ever find out what he had written. [5] But one of the elders said to me, "You do not need to weep! Here is the person we are looking for! He is the person whom the prophets described as the Lion from the tribe of Judah and as a branch that would grow from David's roots. He is victorious! Therefore, he is sufficiently worthy to break open the seven pieces of wax on the scroll and open the scroll!" 6 Then I saw that a lamb was standing by the throne. The four living beings and the elders surrounded him. He was alive, but he had marks that showed that others had once killed him violently. He had seven horns. He also had seven eyes. Those are the seven spirits of God that God sends throughout all the world. 7 The Lamb came up to the throne, and the person who was sitting on the throne handed the scroll to him. 8 As soon as the Lamb accepted the scroll, the four living beings and the 24 elders knelt down in front of the Lamb. The elders each held a harp and some golden bowls that contained incense. The incense symbolized the prayers of people who belong to God. 9 The living beings and the elders sang a song that no one had ever sung before. They sang to the Lamb, "You deserve to receive this scroll and to break open its pieces of wax so that you can read what it says. You deserve this because when you gave up your life, you paid with your own blood to set people free from sin so that they could worship and obey God. You did this for people all over the world. 10 You have caused them to become people over whom our God rules and to become people who will lead others to worship God. They will be rulers of the people who live in the world." 11 As I was seeing these events, I heard many angels singing. These angels surrounded the throne, the living beings, and the elders. There were millions of angels, so many that no one could count how many there were. 12 The angels were singing loudly, "The Lamb who gave up his life deserves for everyone to honor, glorify, and bless him and acknowledge how powerful, wealthy, wise, and strong he is!" 13 Then I also heard every creature that exists in heaven, on the earth, underneath the earth, and in the sea—yes, every creature in all of those places—singing, "May everyone forever praise and honor and glorify the one sitting on the throne and the Lamb and acknowledge how powerful they are!" 14 When the millions of angels and every creature sang these things, the four living beings said, "So be it!" Then the elders knelt down on the ground in front of both God and the Lamb to worship them.

6 1 Then I saw the Lamb open the first of the seven pieces of wax that sealed the scroll. When he did, I heard one of the four living beings say as loudly as a clap of thunder, "Come forth!" 2 Then I saw something remarkable: a white horse whose rider was holding a bow and arrows! God gave him a crown to wear in recognition of the victories he was going to win. The rider went out from heaven fully capable to fight and defeat God's enemies. 3 Then the Lamb opened the second piece of wax that sealed the scroll. When he did, I heard the second living being say, "Come forth!" 4 Then another horse appeared. It was bright red. There was also a rider sitting on that horse. God gave the rider the power to cause wars on the earth. That way the world's people would kill each other. For this purpose, God gave the rider on the bright red horse a huge sword. 5 The Lamb then opened the third piece of wax that sealed the scroll. When he did, I heard the third living being say, "Come forth!" I then saw something else remarkable: a black horse whose rider was holding a pair of balance scales! 6 Then I heard a sound like a voice coming from among the four living beings. It said, "Make wheat so scarce that a person will have to work an entire day to earn enough money to buy one liter of it. Also make barley so scarce that a person will have to work an entire day to earn enough money to buy three liters of it. However, make sure that olive oil and wine remain so plentiful that their prices do not increase." 7 The Lamb then opened the fourth piece of wax that sealed the scroll. When he did, I next heard the fourth living being say, "Come forth!" 8 I then saw something else remarkable: a horse that was pale because it was diseased and that had two riders. The name of the first rider was The One Who Causes People to Die. The name of the rider sitting behind him on the horse was The Place Where Dead People Go. God gave these riders the power to kill a quarter of all the people in the world. They could kill them by causing wars or famine or epidemics or by making wild animals come into populated areas and kill people.

9 The Lamb then opened the fifth piece of wax that sealed the scroll. When he did, I saw, at the base of an altar in heaven, the souls of people whom others had killed because they spoke God's message faithfully as reliable witnesses. 10 These souls called out to God loudly, "You, Master, always do what is right and decide what is right! So please condemn and punish the people on the earth who killed us!" 11 Then God gave each of them a white flowing robe. God told them to be patient a little longer, because there were others who were also going to die rather than deny their faith in Jesus. But as soon as all of them had died, God would punish the people who had killed them and had killed the people whose souls were now in heaven.
12 Then I saw the Lamb open the sixth piece of wax that sealed the scroll. When he did, the earth shook violently. The sun turned very dark, like mourning cloth woven from black goat hair. The moon was full and it became as red as blood. 13 Then the stars fell from the sky down to the earth. They fell just as figs left on a fig tree all fall off when the tree shakes in a very strong wind. 14 The sky split open and rolled away in both directions, just as a scroll rolls away in both directions if it splits in two. All the mountains and islands also moved out of their places. 15 Then all the people on earth, even kings, high-ranking officials, military officers, rich people, and influential individuals, hid within caves and mountain rocks. 16 They told the mountains and rocks, “Fall on us and cover us! That way God, who sits on the throne in heaven, will not be able to see us! And that way the Lamb will not be able to punish us! 17 For today is the terrible day on which God and the Lamb will punish people who have done wrong, and we know that none of us are innocent!”

7 1 After these events I saw four angels standing on the earth. One was standing to the north of me, one to the east, one to the south, and one to the west. They were keeping the winds from those directions from blowing on the land or on the sea or against any tree. 2 Then I saw another angel coming towards me from the east. This angel was holding a tool that would create the mark of the only true God. This angel called out loudly to the four angels whom God had allowed to keep the winds from blowing on the land and the sea. 3 The angel told the other four angels, “Wait, first we must mark the people who believe in and obey our God with a seal on their foreheads. Until then, do not keep the winds from blowing on the land or the sea or any tree.” 4 Then the angel and his fellow angels marked all of the people who believed in and obeyed God. I heard someone say how many people they had marked. It was 144,000 people from every tribe of Israel. 5 The angels marked 12,000 people from the tribe of Judah with a seal. They also marked 12,000 people from the tribe of Reuben. From the tribe of Gad they also marked 12,000 people. 6 The angels marked 12,000 people from the tribe of Asher with a seal. They also marked 12,000 people from the tribe of Naphtali. From the tribe of Manasseh they also marked 12,000 people. 7 The angels marked 12,000 people from the tribe of Simeon with a seal. They also marked 12,000 people from the tribe of Levi. From the tribe of Issachar they also marked 12,000 people. 8 The angels marked 12,000 people from the tribe of Zebulun with a seal. They also marked 12,000 people from the tribe of Joseph. From the tribe of Benjamin they also marked 12,000 people with a seal. 9 After these events, I saw something remarkable: a huge crowd of people! There were so many people in the crowd that no one could count them. They came from every nation, tribe, and people group, and they spoke every language. They all stood in front of the throne, where the Lamb was. They all wore flowing white robes, and they were all holding palm branches. 10 They were shouting loudly, “Our God, who rules over everything, has saved us! The Lamb has saved us!” 11 Then all the angels stood around the throne, the elders, and the four living beings. The angels all knelt down in front of the throne with their faces on the ground and worshiped God. 12 The angels all said, “Yes, may it be so! We praise, glorify, thank, and honor you, our God, forever! We proclaim forever that you are wise, powerful, and strong! May it be so!” 13 One of the elders then said to me, “I want to make sure you know who these people are who are wearing white flowing robes and where they have come from.” 14 I answered him, “Sir, I need you to tell me who they are.” He then told me: “These are the people who remained faithful to Jesus during a time of great persecution. This showed that they have become pure from sin by trusting in Jesus, who shed his blood for them when he died on the cross. 15 Therefore, they remain in front of God’s throne. They worship God inside his temple without stopping. God, the one who rules from the throne in heaven, will protect them. 16 God will make sure that they always have enough food to eat. God will also make sure that they always have enough to drink. The rays of the sun will never again burn them. The heat from the sun will never again exhaust them. 17 This is because the Lamb who is by the throne will care for them just as a shepherd cares for his sheep. The Lamb will enable them to receive everlasting life, as if they were drinking from springs where fresh, pure water flows. God will help them to stop crying and be joyful.”

8 1 Then the Lamb opened the seventh piece of wax that sealed the scroll. When he did, there was no sound at all in heaven for a short time. 2 I then saw the seven angels who are God’s personal attendants. He gave each of them a trumpet. 3 Another angel then came and stood at the altar. He had a golden bowl for burning incense. God gave him a large quantity of incense to offer with the prayers of all God’s people on the golden altar in front of God’s throne. 4 The angel started burning the incense. The smoke from the incense burning in the container that the angel was holding went up to God along with the prayers of God’s people. 5 Then the angel took the golden incense bowl and filled it with coals of fire from the altar. He threw these coals and the burning incense onto the earth. When he did, thunder crashed and rumbled, lightning flashed, and the earth shook.

6 Then the seven angels, each of whom had one of the seven trumpets, got ready to blow them. 7 Then the first angel blew his trumpet, and hail and fire appeared. There was blood in the midst of the hail and fire. All of it poured down onto the earth. The fire burned up one third of everything on the surface of the land, one third of the trees, and all the green grass. 8 Then the second angel blew his trumpet, and something that was like a huge mountain that was on fire fell into the ocean. As a result, one third of the ocean became blood, 9 one third of the living creatures in the ocean died, and one third of the ships in the ocean sank 10 Then the third angel blew his trumpet, and a huge star fell from the sky. The star was blazing as if it were on fire. Parts of the star fell into one third of the rivers and into one third of the springs of water on earth. 11 The name of the star is Bitterness. When it fell into one third of the rivers and springs, their water became poisonous. Many people died from drinking that poisonous water. 12 Then the fourth angel blew his trumpet, and God struck the sun, the moon, and the stars so that they lost their light for one third of the time. The sun did not shine during one third of the day, and the moon and stars did not shine during one third of the night.

13 Then, as I watched, I heard an eagle that was flying high in the sky shouting loudly, "Three terrible things will happen to the people who live on the earth when the three remaining angels blow their trumpets! They are about to blow them!"

9 1 Then the fifth angel blew his trumpet, and I saw a star that had fallen from the sky to the earth. God gave it the key to the deep, dark pit. 2 When he opened that pit, a huge amount of smoke rose from it, as if it were a great burning furnace. The smoke prevented anyone from seeing the light of the sun and the sky. 3 Then locusts came out of the smoke and started swarming the earth. God gave these locusts the power to sting people just as scorpions sting people. 4 God told the locusts that they should not eat up all the grass on the ground and all the plants and all the leaves on the trees as locusts usually do. God told the locusts just to sting the people who did not have the mark on their foreheads that showed they belonged to God. 5 God did not allow the locusts to kill those people. Instead, the locusts kept torturing people for five months. The pain those people felt was like the pain that a scorpion causes when it stings someone. 6 During the time when the locusts torture people who refuse to belong to God, those people will be in so much pain that they will want to die. But God will make sure those people stay alive to experience the punishment for their sin. 7 The locusts looked like horses that were ready for battle. They had what looked like golden crowns on their heads. Their faces were like human faces. 8 They had long hair like women's long hair. Their teeth were as strong as lions' teeth. 9 They wore breastplates made of metal. When they were flying, their wings made a noise like the roar of many horses pulling chariots and rushing into battle.

10 They had tails like the tails of scorpions. With these tails they could sting people. Their power to harm people during those five months was in their tails. 11 The king who ruled over them was the angel of the deep, dark pit. His name in the Hebrew language is Abaddon. In the Greek language it is Apollyon. Both of these names mean Destroyer.

12 After five months the locusts went away. That ended the first terrible event. But be aware that two more terrible events are still to come.

13 Then the sixth angel blew his trumpet, and I heard a voice from the four corners of the golden altar that is in God's presence. 14 The voice was saying to the sixth angel, the one who had the trumpet, "Release the four angels whom I have bound at the great river Euphrates." 15 Then those four angels went free. They had been waiting for that exact moment. They went free so they could enable their soldiers to kill one third of humanity. 16 I heard someone say how many soldiers there were riding on horses. The number was 200,000,000. 17 In the vision
I saw what the horses and the soldiers who rode them looked like. The soldiers wore breastplates that were red like fire, blue like sapphire, and yellow like sulfur. The heads of the horses were like the heads of lions. From their mouths came fire, smoke, and fumes of burning sulfur. 18 Those three things—the fire, the smoke, and the burning sulfur from the horses' mouths—killed one third of humanity. 19 But the power of the horses was also in their tails, as well as in their mouths. Their tails were like snakes, and they had heads that bit people. 20 But there were still people whom the plagues of fire and smoke and burning sulfur did not kill.
Those people did not stop doing sinful things. They also did not stop worshiping demons and idols that they had made of gold, silver, bronze, stone, and wood. The people did not stop worshiping the idols even though they were lifeless statues that could not help people. 21 They also did not stop murdering other people, practicing sorcery, acting in sexually immoral ways, and stealing things.

10 1 Then in the vision I saw another mighty angel come down out of heaven. A cloud surrounded him. There was a rainbow over his head. His face shone brightly like the sun. His legs glowed like columns of fire. 2 He had in his hand a small scroll that was open. He set his right foot on the ocean and his left foot on the land. 3 He shouted something in a voice as loud as the roar of a lion. As he shouted, I heard seven thunderclaps. In the thunder were words that I could understand. 4 I was about to record what the thunders had said. But then a voice from heaven told me, “Keep secret what the thunders said! Do not write it down!” 5 Then the angel whom I had seen standing on the ocean and the land raised his right hand toward heaven in order to swear an oath. 6 He asked God, who lives forever and who created everything that exists, to confirm that what he said was true. The angel said that God would no longer delay in doing what he had planned to do. 7 He said that when the time came for the seventh angel to blow his trumpet, then God would finish his secret plan. That is what God told his servants the prophets long ago.

8 Then the one whom I had heard speak from heaven spoke to me again. He said, “Go and take the open scroll from the hand of the angel who is standing on the ocean and on the land.” 9 So I went to the angel and asked him to give me the little scroll. And he said to me, “Take it and eat it. When you eat it, it will taste sweet like honey, but after you eat it, your stomach will hurt.” 10 So I took the little scroll from the angel’s hand and ate it. When I ate it, it tasted sweet like honey, but after I ate it, my stomach hurt. 11 Then someone said to me, “You must speak God’s messages again about many nations, many people groups, speakers of many languages, and many kings.”

11 1 Then an angel gave me a reed similar to a measuring stick. God said to me, “Go to my temple, measure it and the altar in it, and count the people who are worshiping there. 2 But do not measure the courtyard outside of the temple building. I have given that to the non-Jewish people groups. As a result, they will oppress the people who live in the city of Jerusalem for 42 months. 3 I will send two witnesses to announce what I reveal to them for 1,260 days. They will show they are sad about the people’s sin by wearing rough clothes that someone has woven from goat hair.” 4 Those witnesses are the ones whom the two olive trees and the two lampstands represent. Those trees and lampstands are in the presence of the Lord, who rules the earth. 5 Now if anyone tries to harm those witnesses, they breathe fire out of their mouths and burn them up. In this way the two witnesses will certainly kill anyone who wants to harm them. 6 Those witnesses will have the authority to command no rain to fall from the sky during the time that they are announcing what God reveals to them. They also will have the authority to cause the water in lakes and streams to become blood. They will also have the authority to make many kinds of plagues happen on the earth. They will do these things when they sense that this will emphasize their message from God. 7 But when they have finished announcing their message from God, the beast that comes up from the deep, dark pit will attack them. The beast will defeat them and kill them. 8 Now the two witnesses were announcing God's message in the great city that people symbolically call Sodom because its people are very evil. People also call that city Egypt because its people treat God's people badly. That is also the city where Jesus, whom the witnesses were serving, died on a cross. To insult the witnesses, the people of the city will not bury their bodies. They will leave their bodies lying in the city's open area. 9 Individuals from many people groups, tribes, language groups, and nations will look at those dead bodies for three and a half days. But the people of the city will not allow anyone to bury those bodies. 10 When the people who do not honor God see that the witnesses are dead, they will be very glad and hold a celebration. They will even send gifts to each other to celebrate. They will be so happy because the two prophets are dead who sent plagues that made them suffer. 11 But after three and a half days, God will make them alive again. They will stop lying dead and stand up! The people who see them alive again will be terrified. 12 Then the two witnesses will hear a loud voice from heaven saying to them: "Come up here!" Then they will go up into heaven in a cloud. Their enemies will watch them go up. 13 At that same time there will be a great earthquake, as a result of which a tenth of the buildings in the city will collapse. That will kill 7,000 people. The rest of the people will become very afraid and acknowledge that the true God had justly punished them for killing the witnesses.

14 That will be the second terrible event. Be aware that the third terrible event will happen soon afterwards.

15 Then the seventh angel blew his trumpet, and voices in heaven shouted loudly, "The Lord our God and the Messiah whom he has appointed will now rule all the people in the world! They will continue to rule those people forever!" 16 The 24 elders who sit on thrones around God's throne bowed down with their faces on the ground and worshiped him. 17 They said:

> "Lord God, you are the one who rules over everything!
> You are the one who exists now!
> You are the one who has always existed!

We thank you that you have so powerfully defeated everyone who has rebelled against you, and you now rule over all the people in the world.
18 The unbelieving people of the nations were raging angrily at you.
As a result, you have punished them.
You have decided that this is the right time for you to judge all those who have died.
You are rewarding your servants who spoke your message and the people who belong to you,
You are rewarding all those who honor you, whoever they are.
You have decided that it is time for you to destroy the people who have been destroying the earth."

19 Then God opened the doors his temple in heaven, and in it I saw the sacred chest that contains symbols of God's promise. Lightning was flashing. I heard the rumbling of thunder. The earth shook, and large hailstones fell from the sky.

12 1 Then something very significant appeared in the sky. It was a woman who was wearing the sun as her clothing. She was standing on the moon. On her head was a crown that was made of 12 stars. 2 She was about to have a baby. She was screaming in pain because it was so difficult to deliver her baby. 3 Then something else significant appeared in the sky. It was a huge red dragon. It had seven heads and ten horns. It had a royal crown on each of its heads. 4 The dragon's tail dragged a third of the stars out of the sky and threw them onto the earth. The dragon set himself in front of the woman who was about to give birth so that he could eat her child as soon as he was born. 5 Then the woman gave birth to a son. He is destined to rule all groups of people with complete authority. God snatched away this child for safety and brought him up to his throne in heaven. 6 But the woman fled to a desolate region. God had made a place ready for her there where people would take care of her for 1,260 days.

7 Then a battle began in heaven. Michael and the angels he commanded fought against the dragon. The dragon and his angels fought back against Michael and his angels. 8 But the dragon lost the battle, and God did not allow the dragon and his angels to stay in heaven after that.

9 Instead, God threw the huge dragon out of heaven. That dragon is the same evil spirit who appeared as a serpent long ago. His names are the Devil and Satan. He deceives everyone who lives in the world. God threw him and all of his angels down to the earth. 10 Then I heard someone in heaven shout loudly,

> "Now our God has saved his people by his power, and he rules all people!
> Now his Messiah has begun to rule!
> This is because God has thrown the accuser of our fellow believers out of heaven.
> He was continually coming to God and accusing believers of doing wrong things.
> 11 But our fellow believers overcame him. This is because the Lamb shed his blood as a sacrifice for them > and because they spoke the truth about him to other people.
> They did not want just to stay alive.
> They were willing to die if necessary for speaking the truth about him.
> 12 So all of you living in heaven should rejoice!
> But terrible things will happen to you people who live on the earth and travel on the ocean because the devil is now among you.
> He is very angry because he knows that he has only a short time before God judges and punishes him."

13 When the dragon realized that God had thrown him down to the earth, he tried to attack the woman who had given birth to a son. 14 But God gave the woman two wings like the wings of a very large eagle. These enabled her to fly away to a desolate region. God had prepared a safe place for her there. In that place, God took care of her for three and one-half years. The serpent, that is, the dragon, was not able to reach her there. 15 Then the serpent poured a flood of water out of his mouth toward the woman. He was trying to sweep her away with the water. 16 But the ground helped the woman. The ground opened up a big hole and the flood that the dragon poured out from his mouth went down into the hole. 17 Then the dragon was very angry with the woman, so he went away to fight against the rest of her children. They are the people who obey God's commandments and who speak the truth about Jesus. [18] Then the dragon stood on the ocean shore.

13 [1] Then I saw a beast come up out of the ocean. It had ten horns and seven heads. On each of its horns there was a royal crown. On each of its heads there was a name that insulted God. [2] This beast was like a leopard, but its feet were like the feet of a bear. Its mouth was like the mouth of a lion. The dragon made the beast very powerful. He also gave him the supreme right to rule over people as their king. [3] One of the heads of the beast looked as if someone had wounded it so that it had died. But that wound had healed. As a result, all the people of the earth marveled at the beast and obeyed it. [4] They worshiped the dragon because he had given the beast authority to rule over them. They also worshiped the beast. They said, "No one is as powerful as the beast! No one could ever fight against it!" [5] The dragon enabled the beast to speak proudly and to insult God. The dragon also enabled it to rule the people on earth. But God would only allow the beast to rule for 42 months. [6] When the beast spoke, it insulted God. It said that God was not really like what people believed him to be like. The beast also insulted the people in heaven among whom God lives. [7] The dragon enabled the beast to fight against God's people and conquer them. The dragon also gave the beast the right to rule over people no matter what tribe they came from or what group they belonged to or what language they spoke or where they lived. [8] The names of some of the people living on earth do not appear in the Book of Life. Those people will worship the beast. The Book of Life belongs to the Lamb. The Lamb gave up his life at the beginning of the world in order to become the Savior. [9] Everyone who wants to understand must listen carefully to this message from God. [10] If anyone's enemies are going to capture him, they will capture him. If anyone's enemies are going to kill him with a sword, they will kill him with a sword. So God's people must endure suffering and remain faithful to him.

[11] Then I saw another beast come up from the earth. It had two small horns on its head as a sheep has. But its voice sounded like a dragon's voice. [12] This beast from the earth carries out all the orders of the beast from the sea. It requires the people who live on the earth to worship the beast from the sea. That is the beast that almost died but whose wound healed. [13] The beast from the earth also did amazing miracles. It even caused fire to fall from the sky onto the earth while people watched. [14] The dragon gave the beast from the earth the power to do these miracles on behalf of the beast from the sea. The beast from the earth used the miracles to deceive the people who live on the earth. It told them to make an idol that looked like the beast from the sea. That was the beast that survived a sword wound that seemed to kill it. 15 The dragon gave the beast from the earth the power to make that idol live. Then the idol that looked like the beast from the sea was able to speak. The beast from the earth then commanded that anyone who refused to worship the idol would be killed. 16 The beast from the earth also required each person to have a mark on his right hand or on his forehead. This requirement applied to important people and unimportant people. It applied to people who were rich and people who were poor. It applied to free people and to slaves. It applied to everyone! 17 Then the beast from the earth ordered that no one could buy or sell anything if he did not have this mark. This mark was the name of the beast from the sea or the number that stood for its name. 18 You must think wisely about this: Anyone who understands things well can figure out the identity of the beast from the sea. That is because the number that stands for its name actually represents the name of a man. That number is 666.

14 1 But then I saw the Lamb standing on Mount Zion in Jerusalem. With him were 144,000 people. He had written his name and his Father's name on their foreheads. 2 I also heard a sound from heaven. It was as loud as the sound of a huge waterfall or of mighty thunder. It also sounded like many people playing on harps. 3 This sound was of the people I saw singing a new song. They were standing in front of the throne and the four living creatures and the elders. The Lamb had saved these 144,000 people from among all the people on the earth. Only they could learn that song. 4 Those 144,000 people are spiritually pure, as virgins are morally pure. They have not made themselves impure by worshiping any false god. They are the ones who accompany Jesus, the one who is like a lamb, wherever he goes. They represent all those whom he has saved so far from among the people of the earth. Those who have believed in Jesus will share their faith and lead many others to believe in God and Jesus. 5 These people never denied Jesus. They always lived pure lives.

6 Then I saw another angel flying through the sky. He was bringing God's eternal good news from heaven so that he could proclaim it to the people who live on earth. He will proclaim it to every nation, to every tribe, to speakers of every language, and to every people group. 7 He said in a loud voice, "Honor God and praise him because it is now time for him to judge everyone! Worship him because he is the one who created heaven and earth and the ocean and the fresh water.” 8 And then another angel came after that one. This angel said, “The very evil city of Babylon has now become a complete ruin! Babylon forced the people of every nation to be unfaithful to God by worshiping idols.” 9 Yet another angel came afterward. This angel said in a loud voice, “If people worship the beast and its image or allow someone to put its mark on their foreheads or on their hands, 10 God will duly punish them. They will stagger from the punishment as if they had drunk strong wine. He will torment them in burning sulfur as his holy angels and the Lamb are watching. 11 The smoke from the fire that torments them will rise forever. God will torment them all the time without stopping. This is what will happen to the people who worship the beast and its image or who allow someone to write its name on them.” 12 God’s people are those who obey what God commands and who trust in Jesus. They must continue to do these things faithfully because those who disobey God and deny Jesus will experience these torments. 13 Then I heard someone speaking from heaven and saying, “Write this: How fortunate from now on are those who die as faithful believers in Jesus.” The Holy Spirit says, “Yes, after they die, they will no longer have to endure suffering. Instead, it will be clear that they were doing the right things.”

14 Then I saw something else very significant. I saw a white cloud, and someone was sitting on the cloud who looked like a human being. He was wearing a golden crown on his head. He held a sharp sickle in his hand. 15 Still another angel came out of the temple in heaven. In a loud voice, he said to the one who was sitting on the cloud, “The grain on the earth is ripe. So this is the time to reap it. So use your sickle to reap the grain.” 16 Then the person who looked like a human being and who was sitting on the cloud used his sickle to harvest all of the grain on the earth. 17 Another angel then came out of the heavenly sanctuary. This angel was also holding a sharp sickle. 18 One more angel came from the altar. He is the one who takes care of the fire of the altar. He said in a loud voice to the angel who was holding the sickle, “The grapes on the earth are ripe! So use your sickle to cut the bunches of grapes off of the earth’s grapevines. Then collect those bunches of grapes.” 19 So the angel used his sickle to harvest the grapes. Then he threw the grapes into the huge winepress that represents the place where God will punish people for what they have done wrong. 20 God trampled the grapes in the winepress outside the city. When he did, blood poured out of the winepress! It flowed in such quantity that it formed a stream that was a meter and a half deep and extended for three hundred kilometers.

15 1 Then something else very significant appeared in the sky. I saw seven angels. God had given them the duty to punish rebellious people in seven different ways. This is the last time that God will punish people this way, because through these punishments he will have given people on earth all of the punishment that they deserve.

2 I also saw a great flat area of glass that was sparkling with light. I also saw the people who had overcome the beast by not worshiping it or its image and by not allowing anyone to mark them with the number that represents the beast's name. They were standing on the large flat area of glass. They were holding harps that God had given them. 3 They were singing a song such as God's servant Moses sang long ago. It was the same kind of song that the Lamb now sings. They sang,

"Lord God, who rules over everything,
all that you do is very marvelous!
You always act entirely righteously.
You rule as King forever!
4 O Lord, everyone will fear you and honor you because you alone are holy.
Yes, people from every group will come and bow down to you in worship because you have shown that you have judged everyone in the right way."

5 Then, after that, I saw that the doors of the temple in heaven were open. That heavenly temple was like the tent on earth that had held the sacred chest. 6 The seven angels whose duty it was to punish rebellious people in seven different ways came out of the temple. The angels were wearing clean, white linen garments. They were also wearing bands of golden fabric around their chests. 7 One of the four living creatures gave each of the seven angels a golden bowl. Inside each bowl was a different kind of punishment for people who had done wrong. The angels would administer these punishments on behalf of God, who lives forever and ever. 8 Then smoke that expressed the presence of the glorious and all-powerful God filled the temple. The smoke remained there while the angels were administering the plagues. Only after the seven angels finished punishing the people of the earth in seven different ways could anyone enter the temple again.

16 1 Next I heard someone in the temple speak in a loud voice to the angels who had the seven bowls. He told them, “Go from here and pour out what you have in your seven bowls onto the earth. This is how God will punish people for their sins.” 2 So the first angel went and poured out what he had in his bowl onto the earth. As a result, terrible sores broke out on the people who had allowed the beast’s servants to write the beast’s name on them. These were the people who had worshiped the beast’s image. 3 Then the second angel poured out what he had in his bowl on the ocean. As a result, the water of the sea turned into blood. That blood was decayed and stinky like the blood of a dead person. Every creature that lived in the ocean died. 4 Then the third angel poured out what he had in his bowl upon the earth’s rivers and springs. As a result, the water in them turned into blood. 5 Then I heard the angel who was in charge of those waters say to God, “O God, you exist and have always existed. You are supremely holy. You are a fair judge of people. 6 The people who rebelled against you murdered your holy people and the prophets. So you are just in punishing them by giving them blood to drink.” 7 Then I heard the altar answer, “Yes, Lord God, you who rule over everything, you punish people completely fairly.” 8 Then the fourth angel poured out what he had in his bowl on the sun. As a result, the sun became so hot that it burned people very badly. 9 Because the sun burned people so badly, they said evil things about God because he had the power to punish them in these ways. But they still refused to stop doing wrong things and they still refused to praise him.

10 Then the fifth angel poured out what he had in his bowl on the throne of the beast. As a result, it became dark where the beast ruled. Because it was like night all the time, the people whom the beast ruled could feel the pain of their terrible sores even more. So they were biting their tongues because of this pain. 11 They also said evil things about God who rules in heaven because their sores were so painful. But they refused to stop doing wrong things. 12 Then the sixth angel poured out what he had in his bowl on the Euphrates River. As a result, the water in the river dried up so that the rulers from the eastern countries could cross it with their armies. 13 Then I saw three evil spirits that looked like frogs. One came out of the mouth of the dragon. One came out of the mouth of the beast. And one came out of the mouth of the false prophet. 14 Now those spirits were demons that were able to do miracles. They went out to the rulers of the entire earth to gather their armies. Those armies will fight a battle on the important day when Almighty God punishes his enemies. 15 (I heard the Lord Jesus say, “You must listen carefully to me: I am coming unexpectedly, like a thief. It will be good for people who stay alert and keep on living in the right way. They will not feel shame when I return. They will be just like a person who keeps his clothes on so that he does not feel shame in front of other people.”) 16 The evil spirits gathered the rulers at a place whose name in the Hebrew language is Armageddon.

17 Then the seventh angel poured what he had in his bowl into the air. As a result, someone said with a loud voice from the throne in the temple, “God has now finished punishing rebellious people.” 18 Then lightning flashed, thunder rumbled, and the earth shook violently. There had not been such a powerful earthquake during the whole time that people have lived on the earth. 19 As a result of this earthquake, the giant city split into three parts. God also destroyed the cities in the other nations. God did not forget that the people of Babylon had sinned very much. So he made them experience the punishments they so justly deserved. 20 Also as a result of the earthquake, every island disappeared, and the mountains became flat land. 21 Then huge hailstones, each weighing 33 kilograms, fell from the sky onto people. Then people said evil things about God because he had punished them in this terrible way with those huge, heavy hailstones.

17 1 One of the seven angels who had the bowls came over to me. He said, “Come with me. I want to show you how God will punish the evil prostitute whom you saw sitting near a great river. 2 The kings of the earth have worshiped the idols she wanted them to worship. The people they rule have also worshiped those idols. It was as if they had gotten drunk on wine that she gave them.”

3 Then the Holy Spirit inspired me so that I could see and hear things in a vision. The angel carried me away to a desolate area. There I saw a woman who was riding on a red beast. The beast had written names all over itself. They were names that insulted God. The beast had seven heads and ten horns. 4 Now the woman was wearing purple and red clothes. She had gold jewelry with precious stones and pearls. She held a golden cup in her hand. That cup was full of something to drink that stands for the awful things she does when she commits sexual immorality. 5 And there was a name in writing on her forehead. The name had a secret meaning. That name was: The Great Babylon, the Mother of Prostitutes and of the Immoral

Things in the World. 6 I saw that the woman had become drunk because she had drunk the blood of God's people. Those people had suffered for proclaiming the truth about Jesus. When I saw her, that astonished me completely.

7 The angel said to me, "This should not astonish you. I will explain to you the hidden meaning of the woman and of the beast on which she rides. That beast has seven heads and ten horns. 8 The beast that you saw lived previously. Now he is no longer alive. But he is about to come back up from the deep, dark pit. Eventually God will destroy him. But this beast will appear again after having lived previously and then dying. Seeing him will astonish the people on the earth whose names God did not write in the Book of Life before he created the world. 9 People need to think wisely to understand this: The seven heads of the beast that the woman is riding represent seven hills. Those are the seven hills of the city that the woman represents. The heads also represent seven rulers. 10 Five of those rulers have died. One is still alive. The seventh ruler has not yet come. And when he comes, he will rule for only a short time. 11 The beast that lived previously and then was not alive will be an eighth ruler. He is actually one of those seven rulers. God will certainly destroy him. 12 Now the ten horns that you saw represent ten rulers who have not yet begun to rule. But they will rule people together with the beast, though only for a short time. 13 Those rulers will all agree to do the same thing. As a result, they will give the beast their power to rule. 14 The rulers and the beast will fight against the Lamb. He will defeat them because he is the Lord who rules over all other lords and the King who rules over all other kings. The people who are with him are the ones whom God has chosen and called to himself and who keep serving him faithfully." 15 Then the angel said to me, "The waters that you saw in the city where the prostitute sits represent a large number of people from many different backgrounds. 16 And the ten horns that you saw represent rulers. They and the beast will hate the prostitute. So they will plunder the city and leave nothing in it. Then they will destroy the city the way a wild animal devours another animal. They will burn down the city completely. 17 They will do that because God has caused them to decide to do what he wants them to do. As a result, they will all agree together to let the beast have their power to rule until God has accomplished what he said. 18 And the prostitute that you saw represents the very evil city whose leaders rule over the other rulers in the world."

18 1 After this I saw another angel coming down from heaven. God had given great authority to this angel. The angel was shining so brightly that he lit up the earth. 2 The angel shouted very loudly, “God is about to destroy the evil city of Babylon completely. People will no longer live in the ruins of the city. All kinds of evil spirits will live there. All kinds of disgusting scavenger birds will also live there. 3 God is going to destroy Babylon because that evil city influenced many people groups to devote themselves to idol worship. Babylon influenced the rulers of those groups, and they made their people worship idols. Babylon also set an example of living in luxury. This made people in other places want to live in the same way. Those who sold luxury goods made a lot of money selling the goods to those people.”

4 Then I heard someone else speak from heaven. He said, “My people, run away from that evil city of Babylon! If you stay there, you may sin as the people there do. And if you sin as they do, I will punish you in the same way that I will punish them. 5 Run away because the people of that evil city have sinned very greatly and God is now going to punish them for what they have done.”

6 The voice from heaven told the angels whom God had assigned to punish Babylon, “Punish the people of that city just as much as they harmed other people. In fact, cause them to suffer twice as much as they caused other people to suffer. 7 The people of the city of Babylon honored themselves. They indulged in pleasures. To the same extent that they did that, torment them and cause them to grieve. Do that because they were confident that they would always rule other people. They were confident that they could provide themselves with everything they needed. They were confident that nothing bad would ever happen to them. 8 Because the people of Babylon are so wicked, terrible things will happen to them all at once. Some will die and others will mourn for them. People will be hungry because they will have no food. The city will burn up completely. The Lord God is able to punish her in these ways because he is mighty.”

9 The rulers of the peoples who live on earth worshiped idols with the people of Babylon.
They indulged in pleasures with the people of Babylon. So they will mourn greatly for the city when they see it burning up. 10 Those rulers will stand far away from Babylon because they will be afraid that God will punish them too if they get too close. They will say, “How very terrible it is for the Great Babylon, that strong city! God is punishing the people who live there so quickly!” 11 And the merchants of the earth will mourn greatly for the city because no one living there will ever again buy the things that they have to sell. 12-13 They sell ornaments made of gold, silver, precious stones, and pearls. They sell expensive cloth made of fine linen and silk, expensive cloth that is dyed purple and crimson. They sell many kinds of scented wood and many kinds of items made of ivory, the most expensive wood, bronze, iron, and marble. They sell cinnamon, spices, incense, myrrh, frankincense, wine, olive oil, fine flour, and grain. They sell cattle, sheep, horses, and chariots. They even sell human beings as slaves.

14 Yes, the good things the people of Babylon longed to have are gone! God has punished them by destroying their many valuable possessions! They have lost those possessions permanently. 15 Many merchants earned a lot of money by selling these things. Those merchants will stand far away from Babylon because they will be afraid that God will punish them too if they get too close. They will mourn greatly 16 and they will say, “Very terrible things have happened to that great city! That city was like a woman who dressed in clothes made of fine linen and expensive cloth dyed purple and crimson and who wore gold jewelry with precious stones and pearls. 17 But God has destroyed all these expensive things so quickly!”

Every ship captain, every ship passenger, all sailors, and all others who do work involving the ocean will stand far away from the city. 18 When they see the smoke of the fire that is burning there, they will shout, “No other city has ever been like that great city!” 19 They will even throw dust on their heads to show that they are sad. Then they will shout in great distress, “Very terrible things have happened to Babylon. The people who lived in that city bought many expensive things, so that people who owned ships earned a lot of money by transporting those things there. God has destroyed that city so quickly!”

20 Then someone spoke from heaven saying, “You who live in heaven, rejoice over what has happened to Babylon! You who are God’s people, including you apostles and prophets, rejoice because God has justly punished the people of that city because they harmed you so badly!”

21 Then a mighty angel picked up a boulder the size of a large stone for grinding grain and he threw it into the ocean. Then he said, “God will destroy the great city of Babylon abruptly!
It will disappear completely, just as that stone disappeared into the ocean! Babylon will be gone forever! 22 In that city there will never again be anyone playing harps, singing, playing flutes, or blowing trumpets. There will no longer be any skilled workers making things. There will never again be people grinding grain at the mills. 23 No lamp will ever again shine there. There will never again be the happy voices of any bridegroom and his bride. God will destroy this city because its merchants were the most important people in the world. They were so prosperous because it was as if the city used witchcraft to get every people group to live as its people did. 24 The city is also guilty of killing the prophets and others of God's people. Indeed, because it used violence and set an example of violence, it is guilty of every murder that people committed on the earth!"

19 1 Next I heard what sounded like a huge crowd in heaven. They were shouting,

"Hallelujah! God has saved us!
Our God is glorious and mighty!
2 Praise him because he judges completely fairly!
He has punished the evil city that was like a prostitute, because the people of that city persuaded many other people to act immorally as they did.
Praise him because he has punished them for murdering his servants!"

3 The crowd shouted again, saying,

"Hallelujah! The smoke of the fire that is burning that city will go up forever!"
4 Then the 24 elders and the four living creatures prostrated themselves and worshiped God, who sits on the throne. They said:
"It is true! Hallelujah!"

5 Then someone spoke from the throne and said,

"All of you who are his servants, praise our God!
All of you who honor him, praise him, every one of you!"

6 Then I heard something like the noise of a huge crowd of people. They were making a loud sound like the sound of a huge waterfall or loud claps of thunder. They were shouting,

"Hallelujah! Our Lord God, who rules over everything, reigns!
7 We should truly celebrate, and we should honor him because now is the time for the Lamb to be united with the woman he is marrying. She has dressed for the wedding.

8 God has given her clean white clothes to wear. They are fine-linen clothes."

(That fabric represents the right things that God's people do.)

9 Then the angel said to me, "Write how fortunate the people are whom God invites to the feast when the Lamb marries his wife!" He also said to me, "God has said this, and it is true!" 10 Immediately I prostrated myself in front of the angel to worship him. But he said to me, "Do not worship me! I am just your fellow servant and the fellow servant of other believers who speak the truth about Jesus. God has sent me here to serve you by helping you understand the prophetic vision he has given you because you want to speak the truth about Jesus. God is the one you should worship!"

11 Then I saw the heavens open up, and I saw something amazing: Jesus riding on a white horse! Those who truly know Jesus call him Always Trustworthy. He judges all people according to what is right, and he fights against people who do what is wrong. 12 Now his eyes shone like a burning flame. He wore many royal crowns on his head. There was a name on his clothing. Only he knows what that name means. 13 Blood covered the cloak that he was wearing. Another of his names is the Word of God. 14 The heavenly armies were following him. They were riding on white horses. They were wearing clean, white linen clothes. 15 Jesus had a sharp sword extending from his mouth. He will use it to defeat the rebellious people groups. He himself will rule them so powerfully that no one will be able to resist him. He will destroy his enemies as if they were grapes that he was crushing in a winepress. He will do this for God, who rules over everything and will punish his enemies thoroughly because of their sins. 16 A title appeared on his cloak at his thigh: "This is the King who rules over all other kings and the Lord who rules over all other lords."

17 Then I saw an angel standing in the light of the sun. He called loudly to all the flesh-eating birds flying high in the sky, "Come and gather for the large feast that God is providing for you! 18 Come and eat the flesh of God's enemies who will die in this battle! Eat the flesh of kings, of army commanders, of people who fought powerfully, of horses and their riders, and the flesh of many other kinds of people." 19 Then I saw the beast and the kings of earth with their armies. They had gathered together to fight against the rider on the horse and his army. 20 But the rider on the white horse captured the beast and the false prophet. The false prophet is the one who had performed miracles in the beast's presence. By doing that he had deceived the people who had accepted the beast's mark on their foreheads and who had worshiped its image. Then God threw the beast and the false prophet alive into the fiery lake of burning sulfur. 21 And the rider on the horse killed the rest of their armies with his sword, the one that extended from his mouth. Birds came and ate as much as they wanted of the flesh of the people and horses that he had killed.

20 1 Then I saw an angel coming down from heaven. He had the key to the deep, dark pit and he was carrying a large chain in his hand. 2 The angel seized the dragon. That dragon is the ancient serpent—the devil, that is, Satan. The angel bound him with the chain. That chain would hold him for a thousand years. 3 The angel threw him into the deep, dark pit. He shut the door of the pit, locked it, and sealed it to prevent anyone from opening it. He did this so that Satan would no longer deceive the many people groups until after those thousand years. At that time, God will release Satan for a short time.

4 Then I saw thrones on which people were sitting. God made those people judges. I also saw the souls of other people whose enemies had killed them by cutting their heads off. Their enemies did that because they had spoken the truth from God about Jesus. I also saw the souls of other people whose enemies had not killed them but who had refused to worship the beast or its image. They had not allowed the beast's servants to put the beast's mark on them, either on their foreheads or on their hands. They all became alive again and they ruled with the Messiah during those thousand years. 5 These were the people who lived again the first time that God caused dead people to live again. The rest of the people who had died did not live again until after those thousand years. 6 God will be pleased with those who live again this first time. Yes, God will consider them to belong to him in a special way. They will not die a second time. Instead, they will be priests who serve God and the Messiah. They will rule with the Messiah during those thousand years.

7 At the end of the thousand years, God will release Satan from the deep, dark pit. 8 Satan will go out to deceive the rebellious people groups all over the earth. These are the nations that the prophet Ezekiel called Gog and Magog. Satan will gather them to fight against God's people. There will be so many of them fighting against God's people that no one will be able to count them, just as no one can count the grains of sand on the ocean shore. 9 They will march from many places on the earth. They will surround the army of God's people where it is in battle formation. That will be at Jerusalem, the city that God loves. But God will send fire down from heaven and it will burn up all of his enemies. 10 Then God will throw the devil, who had deceived those people, into the lake of burning sulfur. This is also where God had thrown the beast and the false prophet. As a result, they will continually suffer severely forever.

11 Then I saw a huge white throne on which God was sitting. He was so fearsome that the land and the sky disappeared completely when he appeared. 12 Then I saw people of all kinds who had died but who were now alive again standing in front of God's throne. God opened the books in which he records what people do. God also opened another book, the Book of Life. God writes in that book the names of people who have eternal life. God judged the people who had died and who were now alive again according to what they had done, which he had recorded in the books. 13 The people whose bodies were in the sea became alive again, and the people whose bodies were in graves on the land also became alive again. They all stood in front of God's throne, and God judged each of them according to what each one had done. 14 Then God took the place where souls went after dying physically and threw that place itself into the burning lake. The burning lake is where people go when they die spiritually. 15 Then God saw whose names he had written in the book that lists the people who have eternal life. If someone's name was not in that book, God threw him into the burning lake.

21 1 Then I saw a new heaven and a new earth. The first heaven and the first earth had disappeared, and the oceans no longer existed. 2 I saw the city of Jerusalem, which is special to God, in a new form. It was coming down to earth from God in heaven. The city looked very beautiful, like a bride on her wedding day. 3 Then I heard a loud voice calling out from the throne of God. The voice said, "Listen to this! Now God will live right where people live! They will belong to him, and God himself will stay with them. 4 He will comfort them so that they are no longer sad. None of them will ever again die or mourn or cry or suffer pain. God has taken away those things, so they are gone forever."

5 Then God said from the throne, "Listen to this! I am now making everything new!" He also said to me, "Write these things that I have told you. You can be confident that I will certainly cause them to happen.” 6 He also said to me, “I have completed all these things! I am the one who began all things and the one who will cause all things to end. To everyone who wants it, I will freely give everlasting life, as if I were giving them a drink from a spring whose water keeps people alive. 7 I will give this to all who are victorious over Satan. And I will be their God, and they will be my children. 8 But all the others will suffer in the lake of burning sulfur. That is what it means to die a second time. Those who are cowards will suffer this way. So will those who do not believe in me, those who do detestable things, those who murder people, those who sin sexually, those who practice witchcraft, those who worship idols, and all those who tell lies.”

9 Then an angel came to me. He was one of the seven angels who had the seven bowls of the wine that caused the seven last ways of suffering. He said to me, “Come with me. I will show you the people who will live together with the Lamb forever!”

10 Then the Holy Spirit inspired me so that I could see and hear things in a vision. The angel took me to the top of a very high mountain. There he showed me the city that is special to God, the new Jerusalem. It was coming down out of heaven from God. 11 The city was shining with brilliant light that came from God himself. It was sparkling like a priceless jasper gemstone, and it was clear like crystal. 12 A very high wall surrounded the city. The wall had twelve gates. An angel stood at each gate. The names of the twelve tribes of Israel appeared over the gates. Each gate had the name of one tribe. 13 Three gates were on the east side of the city. Three gates were on the north side. Three gates were on the south side. And three gates were on the west side. 14 The city wall had twelve foundation stones. On each foundation stone was the name of one of the twelve apostles whom the Lamb had appointed.

15 The angel who was speaking to me carried a golden measuring rod. He used it to measure the city, its gates, and its wall. 16 The city was square in shape, that is, it was as long as it was wide. After the angel measured the city with his rod, he reported that it was 2,200 kilometers long and that its width and height were the same as its length. 17 He measured its wall and reported that it was 66 meters high. The angel used the measurement that people normally use.

18 The stones of the city wall were like the green stone that people call jasper. The buildings of the city were pure gold and they showed reflections the way clear glass does.

19 The foundations of the city wall were beautiful precious stones. Each foundation was a different stone. The first foundation stone was jasper. The second foundation stone was sapphire. The third foundation stone was chalcedony. The fourth foundation stone was emerald. 20 The fifth foundation stone was sardonyx. The sixth foundation stone was carnelian. The seventh foundation stone was chrysolite. The eighth foundation stone was beryl. The ninth foundation stone was topaz. The tenth foundation stone was chrysoprase. The eleventh foundation stone was jacinth. And the twelfth foundation stone was amethyst. 21 The twelve gates of the city were each huge pearls. Each gate was a single pearl. The city streets were pure gold and they showed reflections the way clear glass does.

22 There was no temple in the city. That was because the Lord God himself, who rules over all, and the Lamb were there. So there was no need for a temple. 23 Now the city will not need the sun or the moon for light, because the light coming from God and from the Lamb will be all the light that it needs. 24 The way people live in the city will be an example to all of the world's people groups. The rulers of the earth will bring their treasures into the city to honor God and the lamb. 25 It will never be night in the city. So no one will ever shut the gates of the city as one usually does at the end of a day. 26 The people of the world will also bring their wealth into the city. 27 But nothing that is morally impure will ever enter that city. No one who does things that God considers detestable and no one who tells lies will ever enter it. Only those people whose names God has written in the book that belongs to the Lamb will be there. That is the book that lists the names of people who have everlasting life.

22 1 Then the angel showed me the river that causes people who drink from it to live forever. The water was sparkling and clear like crystal. The river was flowing out from the thrones where God and the Lamb were sitting. 2 It flowed down through the middle of the city's open area. On each side of the river was a tree with fruit that causes people who eat it to live forever. These trees produce fruit 12 times a year. They produce a crop each month. The people groups use the leaves of the trees as medicine. 3 There will never be anyone or anything there that God will curse. The throne of God and of the Lamb will be in the city. God's servants will worship him there. 4 They will see him face to face, and his name will appear on their foreheads. 5 There will never again be night. God's servants will not need the light of a lamp or the light of the sun because the Lord God will shine his light upon them. They will rule forever.

6 The angel said to me: “These things that God has shown you are true, and he will certainly make them happen. The Lord God who inspires the prophets sent his angel to show the people who serve him the events that must happen soon.” 7 Jesus says to all his people, “Listen to this! I am coming soon; God will abundantly bless everyone who obeys the prophetic message in this book.”

8 I, John, am the one who heard and saw in a vision these things that I have written down. When I had heard and seen them, I immediately lay down in front of the angel who had shown me these things in order to worship him. 9 But he said to me, “Do not worship me! I am just a servant of God like you! I am also a servant like your fellow believers who are the prophets, and like those who obey the message in this book. Instead, worship God!” 10 He also said to me, “Do not keep secret the message about what God has foretold in this book, because it is almost time for him to fulfill this message. 11 Since that time is near, if those who act in an evil manner want to continue to act that way, let them continue to do so. If those who are vile want to continue to be vile, let them continue to do so. God will soon punish them for that. But those who are acting righteously should continue to act righteously. Those who are acting as people should who belong to God should continue to act that way.”

12 Jesus says to all people: “Listen! I am coming soon! And I will punish or reward everyone according to what each one has done. 13 I am the one who began all things and the one who will cause all things to end. I am before all things and I am at the end of all things. 14 God is very pleased with the people who stop living in wrong ways and start living in right ways. Because they do that, those people will be able to eat the fruit of the tree that enables people to live forever. They will be able to go through the gates into the holy city. 15 But others will not enter that city. This includes people who do wicked things, practice witchcraft, sin sexually, murder others, worship idols, or lie continually.

16 I, Jesus, sent my angel to announce these things that will affect you groups of believers. Mysteriously, I am both the ancestor of King David and his descendant whom the prophets promised would come. I am the one who is like the bright morning star.”

17 The Holy Spirit and the people who belong to God say, “Come!” Whoever hears this should also say, “Come!” Everyone who wants everlasting life should receive it! God will give everlasting life as a free gift to everyone who desires it!

18 I, John, solemnly warn everyone who hears the message about what I have foretold in this book: If anyone adds anything to this message, God will punish him in the ways that this book tells about. 19 And if anyone takes away any of the message about the things I have foretold in this book, God will take away that person’s right to eat fruit from the tree that enables people to live forever. God will also take away that person’s right to enter the new Jerusalem. I describe both these things in this book.

20 Jesus, who says that all these things are true, says, “Certainly I am coming soon!” I, John, reply, “May it be so! Lord Jesus, come!”

21 I pray that our Lord Jesus will continue to act kindly to all of you who are God’s people. May it be so!
